It has been due to the efforts of Mr. Frayne that this debating tournament has been arranged among representatives of the campus schools. Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., is in accord with the desires of Prof. Frayne to stress debating, thus the reason for giving full publicity to this tournament. Information not mentioned in the VILLANOVAN will be found by referring to the bulletin board.

Attendance at every debate is not exactly what it should be. According to the information given by Mr. Frayne, the appointed committees are to report at least five

Continued on Page Four

YEARBOOK PHOTOS TO START MONDAY

Schedule of Final Photos For Belle Air Released by Editor Robert McGrory

Beginning at 1:00 P. M. on Monday, February 24th, the annual photographing of the various campus groups for the Belle Air Yearbook will take place.

According to information furnished by Mr. Robert McGrory, editor of the annual, there will be sixteen group pictures taken on that date with others to follow later in the week. Schedules will be posted on the various college bulletin boards and in the current issues of the VILLANOVAN

In order to facilitate complete execution of the schedule permission has been obtained by the editor for students to be late for laboratories without suffering the usual consequences of a full cut. Lab-

Continued on Page Seven

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

There will be a meeting of the entire Student Council body in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall tonight at 5:30 P. M. The new Constitution will be read and discussed of Fr. Albers

FRESHMEN ORATORS WAGE NO CONTEST

Yearlings Opposed Temple Freshmen at Mitten Hall On Tuesday Last

Villanova's Freshman debating team staged an even battle with the Freshman orators of Temple University at Mitten Hall on last Friday afternoon.

The local debaters upheld the negative side of the National Intercollegiate debating question, Resolved: That Congress should have the power to over-ride by a two-thirds vote, any decision of the Supreme Court. The debaters of Villanova were: Thomas Delate, James Quigley and Francis Cadran.

The affirmative side of the debate was argued by the following members of the Temple squad: Leonard Detwiler, Leonard Gerson, Leonard Seidenberg. The Temple team was

Continued on Page Four

LOITERERS TAKE NOTICE

Vice-President Sets Definite Limitations on Card Playing In Pie Shoppe

Upon the release of a statement from the office of Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, there will be a discontinuance of loitering and card playing in the Pie Shop between hours of 11:30 A. M. and 1:15 P. M. This ruling holds not only for the Day Students, but also for the residents.

According to Fr. Albers, Room 102 Mendel Hall has been reserved for the recreation of both day and resident students of the college. All those who are guilty of infractions of this rule will be dealt with severely, according to the statement

STUDENT HAS PET BOA CONSTRICTOR

Attentions Required by Snake Prove Irksome to College Roommate

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 10—Snakes have been seen in fraternity houses before this ,but Josephine, young imperial boa constrictor now doubling as a pet and scientific guinea pig for a Cornell fraternity man, is real.

Non-poisonous, too young to hug after the fashion of her kind, but plenty old enough to bite, Josephine was a gift from Dr. Harry Eno, of Colon, Panama, to Frank Trevor, a senior from Syracuse, N. Y.

Boas thrive in a temperature of around 80 degrees, and until his roommate rebelled, Trevor kept his quarters at tropical temperature. He solved the problem by building a snake box with an electric thermostat.

Petting soothes Josephine, but left alone she hunts for a tree. As a substitute she climbs whatever furniture she can find. Once she was lost for two days. Trevor found her asleep in a waste paper box.

When Trevor graduates he plans to take Josephine to Camp Woodland, a Boy Scout organization, where he already has a snake where he is nature director and house with 300 specimens.

REPRIMANDED BY SUPREME COURT

Absent-Minded Professor Fails to Heed Letters From August Body

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 10—The absent-minded professor joke was revived last week. Ralph J. Baker, Harvard professor and member of the bar of the United States Supreme Court, had mislaid a check for $15.45 mailed to him by a court clerk as part of a fee for his appearance before the tribunal in 1934. Because the check hadn't been cashed, it was impossible to close the court's record in the case.

Four letters of inquiry were sent to the professor; he answered none of them. Finally he was threatened with disbarment, and that stirred him to action.

Dropping all else, he searched through his papers for four hours, found the check, cashed it and wrote an apology to the clerk and the justices.

Collegiate World

By COLLEGIATE DIGEST and Associated Collegiate Press

East to West:

A columnist in the student paper at Brown University devotes several paragraphs to the "coyaotes" which roam the Western plains, and "menace the lumberjacks."

("Kiyutes" wouldn't be so bad, but "coyaotes"—Good Lord!)

And then we notice in the Princeton paper that a correspondent declares, "out West when they see a man driving recklessly, they toot their horn at him three times. He feels ashamed and toots back three times, and goes on with everyone feeling he has been sufficiently punished."

* * *

One boy the principal couldn't lick.

He's Robert Wadlow, 17 years years old, who has just been graduated from high school in Alton, Ill. He is going to enter college next fall to study law. We don't know for sure, but we imagine Robert is being deluged by offers from college basketball coaches right now.

For Robert is 8 feet 4 inches in height and weighs 390 pounds.

Bobbie is still growing. Doctors think he may become the tallest man in recorded history.

SEES DECREASE IN ENDOWMENTS

Decline Is Attributed to the Constantly Rising Taxes

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 10—Gather ye rosebuds while ye may, sums up the advice to the private colleges of America just offered by William Pearson Tolley, president of Alleghany College here. Endowments are due to become a rarity on the American scene, he warns.

"Regardless of the party in power," President Tolley said, "taxes will grow steadily higher, the number of great estates steadily smaller and the surplus out of which come the gifts to colleges, schools, churches and other institutions will gradually disappear.

The change will not assume alarming proportions for about a decade, he said.

RESEARCH WORKERS FORM DEATH CLUB

Strange Pact Revealed in Speech by One of Its Members

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 10—Even more grisly than the famous Civil War veterans' "Last Man" Club, members of which met annually to drink a toast to their dead comrades, until but one was left, has been organized by a group of Canadian scientists.

In the distant future a medical paper will be published by an old scientist in which he will give the cause of the death of 29 of his colleagues.

Dr. C. H. Best, professor of physiology in the University of Toronto, revealed in the strange pact in the course of a recent speech.

Thirty research workers in the School of Hygiene have an annual physical examination. They examine each other and from each other they draw a sample of blood which is chemically analyzed.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 15 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1936 Price: Five Cents

SCHOOL FOR POLICE REORGANIZED HERE; TO BEGIN MARCH 5

College Again Offers Facilities To Train State And Local Officers

STATE AND NATIONAL EXPERTS ARE TEACHERS

Almost Unlimited Curriculum Available to Members Of Police School

In response to the great interest shown at the last Police School held at Villanova College by the Delaware County police, a larger school has been organized to take care of the scientific police education of the members of the police forces of Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties.

Villanova College has again generously offered its facilities in preparing the police officers who are members of the newly formed Police School of Eastern Pennsylvania. The value of any police department depends upon the ability of its personnel to prevent crime and to protect life and property; to apprehend the guilty; and to secure sufficient evidence in order that a conviction may be obtained.

Classes Begin March 5

The general fundamental course will begin on Thursday, March 5, and will be held during the late afternoon (4—6 P. M.) every Tuesday and Thursday thereafter during March, April and May. The courses offered in this school require 50 hours of class work and the officers who attend at least three-fourths of all sessions in the general course will be granted certificates of attendance at the end of the course. Officers who hold

Continued on Page Three

CO-CHAIRMEN OF JUNIOR PROM

ALOYSIUS FITZPATRICK JOHN CHAPPLE

who have been appointed by William Cleary, Junior Class president, to act as co-chairmen of the Annual Junior Promenade, to be held here on May 8th. Mr. Chapple is a student in the School of Commerce and Finance, while Mr. Fitzpatrick is a member of the School of Technology.

A. FITZPATRICK AND J. CHAPPLE NAMED PROM CO-CHAIRMEN

Traditional Junior Week to Begin May 4th Under General Chairmanship Of John Burke

PROMENADE DATE IS SET FOR MAY 8

By JAMES P. TOFANI

A notification unprecedented in the history of the college was issued by William B. Cleary, president of the Junior Class, when he disclosed the appointment of co-chairmen for the Junior Promenade.

John F. Chapple, of the Business School, and Aloysius L. Fitzpatrick, of the School of Technology, received the appointments.

Simultaneously with this publication, Mr. Cleary revealed that John J. Burke, of the School of Arts and Philosophy, has been selected as chairman of Junior Week, and will be at the head of the entire proceedings.

Junior Week, one of the most memorable occasions in the life of a college student, and which also proves to be the most colorful affair of the scholastic year, has been definitely set as the first week of May, commencing on Monday, May 4, and coming to a grand climax on Friday evening, May 8, the date of the Junior Prom.

Junior Week will get underway with Mothers' Day, Monday, May 4. This day has been set aside as the occasion for the mothers of the students to visit the campus. Thomas Kennedy, of the Business School, has been chosen chairman of Mothers' Day Committee.

On the next evening a dinner-

Continued on Page Seven

L. K. D. Lays Final Plans For Friday Night Social

Pre-Med Reunion Dance Features Last Social Event on Program Before Lent; Advance Sale Warrants Success

Final plans for the Lambda Kappa Delta Reunion Dance, to be held this Friday night, were discussed at the last meeting of the held Saturday, this imports that organization. As no classes will be those students who attend the affair will not be troubled with a wearying attempt to awaken the next morning in time for classes.

It was announced to the members that purchase had been made from the senior class of its curtain for the ceiling of the gymnasium, where the dance is to take place. With this central decoration as a hub the committee intends to change slightly and improve the adornments of the gym in such a fashion as to equal if not surpass similar work done by the senior class for the Senior Ball.

Tickets were also issued to various members of the organization, namely: dance committee chairman, William Welsh, James Keegan and Edward McLaughlin, who are supplying tickets to the Day-hops; William Keffer, covering residents in Mendel and Alumni Hall; Gerald Piserschia, contacting Fedigan Hall boarders, and Joseph Toland, invading Austin Hall.

Admission to the hop, including tax, was set at $1.50.

It was thought appropriate, after discussion, that the affair should be informal, in this fashion permitting those persons who care to wear formal attire, to do so, and yet enabling those who do not wish to wear formal dress to attend in suitable dress.

Favors, it is expected, will also be distributed among the fair sex who will be in attendance Friday night. What form these will take remains unknown, inasmuch as the dance committee desires to have this issue remain as a pleasant surprise for the young ladies.

Discussion also centered about the matter of supplying fraternity members with transportation to and from the hop. It was decided that those members who own cars will cooperate with thase who do not by providing them with the use of their automobiles. This, of course, will increase the sale of tickets by removing many potential "dance-goers'" objections to attend because of incapacity to provide their companions with suitable transportation.

The Villanovans who, rumor has it, have improved greatly in style and performance since they last played at a campus affair, will supply the mellow harmony and rhythm for the hop.

At the last meeting, also, freshmen science men who were recent-

Continued on Page Four

DEBATING LACKS STUDENT SUPPORT

Inter-Class Contests Not Receiving Proper Attendance. States Prof. Frayne

Inter-class debates, which have been going on for the past two weeks and which will continue until the latter part of March, are held in the amphitheatre of Mendel Hall every day promptly at 1 o'clock. The debates are under the supervision of Anthony J. Frayne, instructor of English.

It has been due to the efforts of Mr. Frayne that this debating tournament has been arranged among representatives of the campus schools. Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., is in accord with the desires of Prof. Frayne to stress debating, thus the reason for giving full publicity to this tournament. Information not mentioned in the VILLANOVAN will be found by referring to the bulletin board.

Attendance at every debate is not exactly what it should be. According to the information given by Mr. Frayne, the appointed committees are to report at least five

Continued on Page Four

FRESHMEN ORATORS WAGE NO CONTEST

Yearlings Opposed Temple Freshmen at Mitten Hall On Tuesday Last

Villanova's Freshman debating team staged an even battle with the Freshman orators of Temple University at Mitten Hall on last Friday afternoon.

The local debaters upheld the negative side of the National Intercollegiate debating question, Resolved: That Congress should have the power to over-ride by a two-thirds vote, any decision of the Supreme Court. The debaters of Villanova were: Thomas Delate, James Quigley and Francis Cadran.

The affirmative side of the debate was argued by the following members of the Temple squad: Leonard Detwiler, Leonard Gerson, Leonard Seidenberg. The Temple team was

Continued on Page Four

FRANCIS J. MEYERS ADDRESSES GROUP

Holy Name Society Given Talk by Prominent Philadelphia Lawyer

At the recent Holy Name breakfast, Francis J. Meyers, distinguished Philadelphia lawyer, was introduced by Martin J. Gill, college English instructor and a close friend of Mr. Meyers.

Mr. Meyesr was secretary to the former District Attorney John F. Monohan. At present he is the president of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Knights of Columbus and also of the Holy Name Union of the Diocese of Philadelphia.

In his talk, Mr. Meyers outlined the history of the United States giving the relationship between it and the part the Catholics played in it. To illustrate this he brought forth many historical facts and

Continued on Page Four

P. K. P. INITIATIONS SET FOR MONDAY

Change of Time of Induction Of New Members Due to Annual Engineers' Convention

Phi Kappa Pi initiations will be held Monday, February 24, one day earlier than was previously announced. The advance of the date is due to the fact that there is an Engineers Convention on February 25, the original date.

Blanks, which must be filed out and returned before Friday of this week, are to be distributed today by the membership committee, to all who are interested in applying for admission into the fraternity.

At 7:00 P. M., Monday, February 24, all those whose names are accepted, are to meet in the Amphitheater, Room 215, Mendel Hall, dressed for the occasion, in unabuseable clothes. The rites will then be conferred, and the formal acceptance will be held at the an-

Continued on Page Four

YEARBOOK PHOTOS TO START MONDAY

Schedule of Final Photos For Belle Air Released by Editor Robert McGrory

Beginning at 1:00 P. M. on Monday, February 24th, the annual photographing of the various campus groups for the Belle Air Yearbook will take place.

According to information furnished by Mr. Robert McGrory, editor of the annual, there will be sixteen group pictures taken on that date with others to follow later in the week. Schedules will be posted on the various college bulletin boards and in the current issues of the VILLANOVAN

In order to facilitate complete execution of the schedule permission has been obtained by the editor for students to be late for laboratories without suffering the usual consequences of a full cut. Lab-

Continued on Page Seven

PRAYERS FOR DEAD

Spiritual Bouquets for Deceased Parents Will Be Filled Out Tomorrow at Noon

Spiritual bouquets for the deceased parents of students are being drawn up by the Student Council in conjunction with Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., chaplain of the college.

The card is so arranged that the prayers offered for the spiritual comfort of the deceased may be filled in with the regular chapel exercises.

The cards, according to Fr. Brown, will be ready to be filled out tomorrow at noon, and may be found in the dining hall under the care of the Student Council.

ENGINEER WILL SPEAK

Joseph Doherty, Senior Electrical, Will Present Paper at Convention

Joseph Doherty, senior electrical engineer, will present a paper entitled: Development of a Coaxial Cable for Telephone Transmission at a meeting of the A. I. E. E. student chapters convening at the Moore School of Engineering, University of Pennsylvania, Monday, March 9, in conjunction with a meeting of the Senior Branch of the Society.

Representatives from Princeton, Penn State, Lehigh, Drexel, P. M. C., N. Y. U., Johns Hopkins, and the entire electrical group from Villanova are expected to attend the convention.

STAFF TO MEET

All members of the Villanova staff without exceptions are requested to be on hand for an important meeting tomorrow at 1.00 P. M. in the office, 119 Mendel Hall.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

There will be a meeting of the entire Student Council body in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall tonight at 5:30 P. M. The new Constitution will be read and discussed of

LOITERERS TAKE NOTICE

Vice-President Sets Definite Limitations on Card Playing In Pie Shoppe

Upon the release of a statement from the office of Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, there will be a discontinuance of loitering and card playing in the Pie Shop between hours of 11:30 A. M. and 1:15 P. M. This ruling holds not only for the Day Students, but also for the residents.

According to Fr. Albers, Room 103 Mendel Hall has been reserved for the recreation of both day and resident students of the college. All those who are guilty of infractions of this rule will be dealt with severely, according to the statement of Fr. Albers.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALIGNEY, '37.....College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36.....Sports Editor
CHARLES STAHLECKER, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37.....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36.....Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Carmen Giordano, '36.....Exchange Editor
Pio F. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Simons, '38
James B. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Pilon, '38
Anthony T. Meli, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vassalluzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '39 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — James Katz, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Rene Caillet, '39 — James Meiler, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — Richard Mulvihill, '39
Eugene DiCavaicanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Walter L. Balaity, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Bernard J. Miller, '39

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Linguitti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager

Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - FEBRUARY 18, 1936

CHRISTIAN HIGHER EDUCATION

THE FACT that Education and the Church are gradually being brought together in the course of time and the fact that both Catholics and non-Catholics as well realize this fact was made even more evident only recently during the national broadcast for the cause of Christian Higher Education.

Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, as the speaker in this latest broadcast which took place on January 15, brought home quite forcibly the need of this cooperation between the Church and the educational world. The following is an extract from Dr. Speer's talk:

"There are some things in the past of our national life that we need to get rid of—intemperance, the excesses of liquor traffic, divorce, lawlessness, crime. But we shall get rid of all our evils and weaknesses only by holding fast to the good and giving it free play. Lawlessness cannot be repressed by law. There must be every effort at law enforcement but the only effectual remedy is law obedience and that is a matter not of legislation but of education and religion."

Dr. Speer went on to say, "And it must be of education and religion combined. This was the ideal at the outset of the nation. Our schools and colleges were founded by the Church. Little by little the State has taken over the educational functions. In some countries the State now monopolizes education. In others while allowing some liberty of private education, the State nevertheless aims at such a control of the educational process as will enable it to determine the character and opinion of its coming citizens. In America there is still freedom but the resources of the State have increasingly brought education under control, and the true ideal of the separation of Church and State while leaving the Church free to offer such education as it will, has resulted in such secularization of the public education as has too often made State education irreligious or even anti-religious...How is this need to be met among students and in the life of the nation?"

In conclusion Dr. Speer stated, "It is time for this country to pause and re-read its history and to turn back to God. In home and church and school the education that we need today is primarily religious—that it, education in duty, the duty that man owes to God and the duty man owes to his brother man. The sooner and more efficiently we give ourselves to this task the better it will be for America and for the world."

EXILED ANNOUNCER

THERE are radio news commentators and radio news commentators, but there is only one to our knowledge, who can boast of being a practical exile in his own station, denounced by his own sponsor (his station being his sponsor, though we can only guess why).

It does seem a shame that a man, as willing to be as sociable as Alan Scott appears, should find himself quite so far out in the cold. But then, a news commentator is expected to remain a news commentator, and not be attempt to dictate to city officials, and attempt the running of city affairs.

True enough, he is entitled to his own editor ial views, but if they be in the form of insinuated orders to counteract and to attempt to interfere with the office of the mayor, to such an extent that the lives of the citizens of Philadelphia are very much endangered by their broadcast, then they are no longer a right, but a grave responsibility to be tempered with thought and fact, to which our Mr. Scott seems to be averse.

When radio station WCAU, Alan Scott's sponsor, found that Mr. Scott was getting them into hot water, they denounced him with an announcement, which is repeated after each of his broadcasts, to the effect that his views are not the views of the station but purely personal ones for which the station will not assume responsibility.

Surely, when an editorial writer on a newspaper staff expresses views on a subject of as great importance as Mr. Scott dares broach, the editorial, if printed, clearly contains the sanction of the sponsor, and the sponsor must take responsibility. Then, WCAU, by continuing Alan Scott on the air, regardless of their announcement, is sponsoring him and agreeing to his views. And it is WCAU, as well as Alan Scott, whose views are riding the airwaves.

STEAMROLLER TACTICS

THERE is a striking example in the passing of the bonus bill over the president's veto of what great strength an organized minority may be in the process of government.

The soldiers' combining three of the strongest veterans' organizations in the country, simply used the coming elections in the fall as a bludgeon and steamrolled their favorite piece of legislation through Congress.

President Roosevelt said a year ago that payment of a debt in advance of 1945 would not only be a complete depudiation of the agreement solemnly made in 1924 but nothing less than a new straight gratuity.

The case is very aptly summed up in the following phrase, "Credit cannot possibly be sustained when Congress yields to each and all groups that are able to force upon Congress claims for special consideration."

There is no doubt that the soldiers earned their bonus but in collecting it in the maner they chose is simply weakening our ideal of government and allowing minorities to assume the reins of power delegated only to Congress.

Those who get things for nothing never fail to come back for another supply on the same terms.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

Editor's Note: Frank Bonetti is the guest columnist this week for College Chatter, due to the illness of Carmen Giordano.

A COLUMNIST in "The College Eye" conducted a research in Iowa State Teachers College, to discover what students there considered the three most wonderful words in the world. No one answered the old "I love you." Here are some of the answers.

"Eat, Drink and Sleep."
"Have some candy."
"Dinner is served.
"Enclosed find check.'
"Want to dance?"

• • •

Professor: Were you present at class yesterday? I hope you weren't one of those people who talked all through my class lecture.

Student: Indeed I wasn't, sir. I never talk in my sleep.

• • •

According to a professor of psychology at Oregon State Teachers, fellows who receive A's are usually the meek and submissive type who can be molded to suit the prof's will. The independent and defiant type average a C. "Believe it or Not."

• • •

The Subway Singer's song.

When they open the doors
I fly into space;
I've done it so often,
I do it with grace,
As I glide through the air
I reach for a strap,
And I know if I miss
I will land in a lap.
Now you've heard all my song,
So practice it, please,
And you'll be the young man
On the subway trapeze.

This is dedicated to the "Train and Trolley boys."

• • •

A student at Vanderbilt University received a card which read: "Sir, please send without delay for the case of books directed to you which is lying at this station and is leaking badly."

• • •

Pet peeves . . . psueds - Harvard drawls . . . coy and helpless coeds . . . cigarette chislers . . . social climbers and snobs . . . practical jokers . . . would-be satirical instructors . . . cigarette holders . . . nudging joke tellers . . . self-appointed authorities . . . strawberry malteds . . . back slappers . . . goons.

• • •

Two thing there are all men must meet,
Throughout the journey of the years,
Which will their fondest plans defeat,
The flu germ and a woman's tears.

• • •

Oddities:

. . . London policemen cannot chew gum on duty. . . . A loaded plane flies faster than one which is empty. . . . Contrary to general opinion the bulldog and the bloodhound are among the gentlest of the dogs that ever gnawed the seat out of your pants.

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

FLASH: Villanova Grad Makes Good! Milton Kellem, famous maestro, had occasion recently to correct a friend's grammar when he was in the midst of an outburst of Yiddish tongue. Whereupon Milt's friend retaliated, "Excuse it please, Milt, I didn't go to VILLANOVA."

• • •

Speaking of outstanding members of the alumni of Villanova, it appears that Frank Skaff is a very much looked-up-to young man on the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team. Frank is the sole member of the Dodgers that has had the benefit of a college education.

• • •

Excerpts taken from a bull session with Jim Schell: "Why I had a geology lecture at Loyola that rocked me to sleep!"..."There I was in the pantry putting things away!"..."Naw! she's not spoiled it's just the perfume she uses!"..."Yes, sir, when you're run down the best thing to do is to take the number of the car!"..."As Lord Chesterfield said on his death-bed, 'they satisfy'!"...

• • •

Following close on the heels of the Senior Ball comes the annual dance sponsored by the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity. All the activities of the pre-medicos are looked upon with great interest by the student body at large and we feel certain that this annual affair to be held Friday night will prove highly successful once again. The music will be furnished by the Villanovans, a revamped and greatly strengthened group of musicians, whose true ability is apt to be misjudged by the average student here at the college.

• • •

Things You Ought To Know: Jack Geraghty has laid in a supply of tin cups and pencils for the forthcoming L. L. D. dance . . . There is a certain Senior who nibbles on his nails because friends call him "candy arm" . . . Wes Bennett of Westminster has scored over 1000 points in his three years of varsity basketball . . . Somebody in Austin Hall locks his door from the inside to go out . . . North East Catholic High of Philadelphia puts out a bi-monthly magazine that is considered one of the finest examples of journalism edited by high school students . . . Our Assistant Business Manager, Pete McManus, forgot (?) to get off the boat at New York when his father sailed for Florida recently.

• • •

Congratulations to Larry Stead on his reception of the captaincy of the 150 pound football team for the coming season. Larry has been an outstanding member of the lightweight team for the past two years, playing a bang up game at guard. We hope that Larry leads his team to the top of the lot in the Eastern Intercollegiate 150 pound Conference next Fall.

• • •

Just as it is the contention of many that a poor excuse is better than none, so it is ours that a half a loaf is likewise better than none at all. But the ideal thing is to get a whole loaf, if you are fortunate enough to make the relief!

CAMPUS CELEBS - - - By Bruno

As We See It - - - Reflections

By HARRY PARKIN

IT is remarkable the number of people who are heedless to the full import of the things they say. For there is no other cause, unless it be a more reprehensible one to which we may attribute this unpleasant characteristic. They will unconsciously insult a person simply because of their own ineptitude in selecting and in phrasing their words. They imply a certainty, though our saying it may appear paradoxical, by the expression of an uncertainty.

John has obtained a rather high mark in mathematics. When this fact is mentioned in his presence by another person; William, who is one of those persons to whom we refer, will say without any show of animosity, "I hope it isn't dishonest," or "I trust that it is all yours.' Directly implying, tho we doubt if it is often intended as such, that John is constitutionally if not actually a cheat; or that his abilities do not warrant such a grade, and that there must have been some collusion on the part of the instructor. If John is at all discerning, and more than likely he will be, he will conclude that the speaker is either deliberately insulting, or uncommonly stupid, otherwise he would not express himself in words so liable to misinterpretation.

We have, in considering such people, studiously adhered to the belief that their faults are unintentional, and as such need only be made aware of their existence to correct them; if, however, hey are attempting to gratify their own short-comings by slandering the superior accomplishments of others, then their actions are the results of predetermined viciousness, that will admit of no correction but realization.

Perhaps our aversion to this type of speaking has allowed us a greater liberality in its interpretation, than the words warrant, but in any event a trifle more discrimination in expressing ourselves, and we will obviate the possibility of mistaken impressions.

Swear words may be emphatic, but they are never convincing. Hence their indiscriminate use in expressing the contempt, ill-will, disgust, or even hatred with which we regard a person, cannot fail to make a disagreeable impression upon the listener. And this in proportion to his being a man of taste and refinement. By calling a man's parentage into doubt, or by heaping his name with sulphurous opprobrium, we have not given the slightest reason why anyone who is within sound of our disclamation should esteem our subject the less. Althoough we have given ample evidence for concluding that our own company and opinions should not be too highly respected.

The solitary coating that has enshrouded nature for the past few days is reminiscent of nothing so much as the work of a giant sculptor, except that it possesses a perfection of details that is hardly human. Every twig and blade of grass was pendant with the winter's burden, and with the alternating temperatures was gradually solidified into an icy armor. And with the night the pale, wan moon moved silently through the ruffled banks of clouds, casting a silvery sheen over the entire world. It was then we were reminded of the poet who referred to architecture as "frozen music"—Indeed if the law of nature was but audibly transcribed it would be the most majestic music that the ears of man had ever attended.

Of all the virtues that which is most seldomly lauded is that of justice. In fact it is the seed from which he others spring. Generosity and sympathy are but projections of justice, and are not possible without it. We often find individuals in whom are happily combined these two qualities, but who are dead to the dictates of justice.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"Instructors talk too much, regulate too much are too suspicious of students"—Dr. L. . . Stieg, president, University of Washington, talks about talking.

"Hell Week? The only solution is elimination." Northwestern's President Walter Dill Scott speaks his mind.

"Student radicals are manufactured by the hysterical regulations of the institutions in which they are enrolled." President Robert Maynard Hutchins, of Chicago, releases the cold dope.

Pass In Review

By RICHARD L. G. DEVERALL

BLEEDING MEXICO

SO MUCH is said and written about Mexico these days, that one is at a loss as to what to believe. If Mexican Catholics are oppressed, it certainly is our duty to aid them, for we are "all brothers in Christ Jesus."

"Blood Drenched Altars," by F. C. Kelley and E. C. Bryam, now in the Villanova Library, is the title of a recent work that meets fully the needs of student and professor. Although popularly written, it is replete with documentation of a most scholarly nature.

FREEMASONRY IN MEXICO

For more than a century, the influence of Freemasonry has been potent in Mexican revolutionary affairs. The members of the Lodges of the Scottish Rite, by means of a quiet infiltration, gained the reins of government. An American, employed by the Mexican government, unwittingly revealed the purpose of the Masons: "The Masons," he said, "are in the saddle in Mexico. They hate the Church, and will drive her out as they have done in other countries."

On July 25, 1856, the work of the Freemasons bore fruit. Comonfort decreed that all civil and religious corporations be confiscated. Convents, churches and monasteries were plundered. Schools and hospitals closed their doors. For centuries the Church had been patiently educating the caring for the Mexican people. The only thanks that the Church received was to have her property stolen by greedy bigots.

Since 1856, Mexico has degenerated. Anarchy, immorality and ruthless bloodshed have splashed their ugly tracks across the pages of her unhappy history.

MEXICO A MENACE

Today she is "a defiance of truth, a challenge to universally accepted and tested ideals, a threat to twenty centuries of progress, a promulgation of war upon the dearest possession of the human soul." These conditions not only challenge our Holy Mother Church, but challenge all those who stand for justice and the moral law. In fighting for the liberation of Mexico from the hands of communistic exploiters, we fight not only for fellow Catholics, but for civilization. Religion, the home, higher education—all are at stake.

Our own government has played a large part in permitting these things to exist. A word from Washington would clean up much of the trouble. But history of our past relations with Mexico are unsavory, and few Mexicans trust our intervention. Did not the United States of America steal New Mexico, Lower California and Texas from Mexico?

Also, certain international bankers are vitally interested in a continuation of the present anarchial conditions. These interests have long fought intervention, and thus far they have succeeded in convincing those in high places that we should not uphold oppressed peoples in other lands.

MEXICO AND COMMUNISM

The Mexican problem is no easy one to solve. But one thing is certain: it is our duty as Roman Catholics to inform ourselves as to true conditions down there. The Marxism in Mexico today is not far from Washington. Should those monsters succeed, it will not be long before the well known "boring from within" commences. Communism never sleeps—and it knows no border lines!

We might remark that this volume offers such excellent source material that Villanova professors might well direct their students to write papers utilizing this select documentation of evidence.

Police School To Reorganize Here

Continued From Page One

such certificates, or who are otherwise properly qualified, are eligible to register in advance courses on identification, fingerprinting, latent evidence and other pertinent subjects fitting them for special work.

The instructors are experts from the Federal Bufeau of Investigation, of Washington, D. C., the Pennsylvania State police, the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol, and the District Attorney's office. Other members to complete the staff are reputable professional men and well-knokn police officers with long practical experience.

The plans and policies of the school are directed by an executive committee chosen from among the police chiefs and prominent citizens. An advisory committee of prominent citizens has also been formed. A director is immediately responsible in carrying out all policies of the executive committee.

Prominent Citizens on Committee

The director of the newly organized police school is Dr. J. A. Detlefsen, and the treasurer is W. Raymond Sakers. Among the list of outstanding citizens comprising the executive committee, we find that of one of our professors, namely, Mr. Patrick Dougherty. Prof. Dougherty is a member of the faculty of the Commerce and Finance School.

The advisory committee-at-large is made up of five prominent citizens. The Very Rev. E. V. Stanford, O. S. A., LL. D., president of Villanova College, is a member of this committee and affords our institution the honor of having two men selected to act in an advisory capacity in the conducting and regulating of the Police School of Eastern Pennsylvania.

Many Courses Available

Police officers, industrial police, and other men interested in police work as a profession, are eligible. For those not directly connected with police work, the approval of the director is required.

The general curriculum consists of subjects ranging from practical elementary police work to the use of firearms. Such courses as traffic control, use of force and strategy, and first-aid all combine to form a well-rounded schedule of instruction for the members of the school.

There are several advance courses which are given to eligible students. These are: Fingerprinting, latent evidence, court procedure, and prosecution and crime prevention. All the classes run for a scheduled time; and discussions, practical demonstrations and lectures will be held in order that each and every student may have a chance to enjoy and witness all the means furnished in improving the police departments of Eastern Pennsylvania to a well-trained and organized body of law enforcers.

The Villanovan Seven Years Ago

Arts Frat Holds Dansant

Despite the inclement weather and the exodus of the students for the holidays, the Epsilom Phi Theta's dance was one of the most enjoyable of the year. The gymnasium of Rosemont College where the dance took place was not crowded so that it was possible to dance without colliding with other couples. It was a paradise for stags as more than a few Rosemont girls accepted the invitation extended to their college.

The Villanovans played a number of the latest hits and rendered them well. The floor was unwaxed as the girls had to play basketball on Monday. At first this made the dancing difficult, but the music, the roseate lighting effects and other things caused the fact to be forgotten.

A large number of the alumni were also present wearing tuxedos and appeared dignified and old until they met their former classmates. Many boys from the college also wore their formal attire. It seems that the dances are becoming more formal.

John Foley, president of the Epsilon Phi Theta, was accompanied by Miss O'Shea, of Rosemont College, who wore a beautiful evening dress. Francis Garvey, secretary of the fraternity, also brought a Rosemont girl, Miss McNulty. Although most of the girls were from Rosemont, there were several other colleges and schools represented. Billy Taylor, of Miss Baywards School, looked stunning in blue, and so did Mary Smith, of Sacred Heart Academy.

The gymnasium was decorated with streamers of varied colors. At one end of the room was a huge banner with the letters "Epsilon Phi Theta."

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

DUSOLINA GIANNINI, Philadelphia soprano who refused to sing grand opera in America until she was invited to the Metropolitan Opera House, received the plaudits of the musical world Wednesday after her long-awaited debut here. Miss Giannini sang the title role in Verdi's "Aida" at a matinee performance. The soprano, who made a sensational debut at Carnegie Hall as a concert singer when she was 20 years old, was called before the curtain ten times during her performance by the applause of a wellfilled house.

Writing in The Times, Olin Downes said of the performance: "Here is a temperament designed for the lyric stage. Miss Giannini acts by nature and has developed herself as an actress and a dramatic interpreter by ten-odd years of experience in the lyric theatre...

"Her idea is a well-proportioned interpretation from first to last, when the voice is not forced, and when it is not forced the tone, below the highest octave, has much more of sensuous and expressive quality that characterized it in years past."

Miss Giannini will be heard over the radio in the near future, so keep your dials tuned in whenever she sings.

Glee clubs, as Fred Waring sees them are "the tops" of amateur musicianship and is a noteworthy fact insofar as the glee club here at Villanova is so ragged because of its limited members. Fred says that he'd rather listen to a glee club than anything else. There's nothing more expressive than a gang of fellows letting loose with exuberance and comradeship. Even the well-worn "Sweet Adeline" sung spontaneously without rehearsal sounds good to all. Everybody loves to sing — anybody (at least, almost anybody) can sing —and college days are a fine time to develop a love for singing and some knowledge of the art of harmonizing.

Every Monday night at 7 in the C. & E. Auditorium, the glee club holds a rehearsal under the direction of Mr. Paul Teal, as well as on Thursday afternoon at 4. The recent turnout has been very dismal and naturally under such conditions concerts cannot be booked. More cooperation is asked for in the future.

Apparently the only people who don't like Indian music are the Indians. Alfred Goodman, conductor of the CBS Beauty Box Theatre, has received a letter from Art Wakolee, song writer of the Indian reservation at Irving, N. Y. Wakolee has taken a poll of his fellow tribesmen and reports that their favorite songs are (1) "Treasure Island" and (2) "Red Sails in the Sunset."

Fritzi Scheff has yet to sing her first "pop" tune behind the footlights or before the microphone and thinks it's about time she started. "It would be especially nice if they would let me sing that song about the music revolving," signs Fritzi, "but they say it wouldn't be dignified because of my background in opera and operettas...Some day, though, I'll defy them and prove that Fritzi has rhythm."...

STARLINES

JIMMY WALLINGTON, announcer and foil for Eddie Cantor. Was born in Rochester, N. Y., in 1907.

Parents were singers and trained him in music.

First professional appearance with Rochester American Opera Company.

Sang in Mozart's "Seraglio" and Von Flotow's "Martha."

Attended the University of Rochester and Union College in Schenectady.

Studied voice at Eastman School of Music in Rochester.

Worker as a furniture packer, carver, elevator operator and office boy.

Has been a golf pro and manager of a restaurant.

Played baseball, football and soccer at college.

Began his radio career in Schenectady in 1928.

Came to New York in 1930 and became one of the most popular announcers on the air.

Considers meeting Eddie Cantor in 1931 the turning point of his carer on the air.

Has appeared in many films as a commentator; has written occasional magazine pieces.

Owns a 10-room house of Brittany style in Bayside(Long Island.

Owns a bull terrier. Enjoys yachting and flying.

Hobbies are reading,g collectin stamps, raising dogs, sailing and photography.

Mark Twain, Chaucer, Malory and Boccaccio are his favorite authors.

Always enjoys hearing Handel's "Messiah."

Ground About Villanova Is Hallowed By Blood of Washington's Soldiers

OVER the territory that Villanova's students frequently pass, George Washington, whose 204th birthday will be observed this coming Saturday marched some 150 years ago at the head of a tattered group of valiant men retreating to Valley Forge where they mustered sufficient strength to carry the Revolution to a successful conclusion.

In keeping with the national spirit and custom, Villanova College this Saturday will mark the 204th anniversary of the birth of the nation's first President as a holiday, and no classes will be conducted.

Probably the sacredness of the nearby territory hallowed by the blood of Revolutionary patriots seldom has come to the minds of the student body generally, but close to the college there are many markers of spots historically famed because of some connection with the events of the Revolution, particularly the retreat of the Colonial troops from Philadelphia to Valley Forge during a period when it was feared that the cause of the colonists was almost futile. But at Valley Forge, through a winter of severe hardships, Washington and his men gained sufficient strength to carry on to victory.

In the course of this march to Valley Forge, Washington's troops camped upon the very ground on which the college now stands. The property at that time was a farm in the possession of Jonathan Mills. Mr. Mills later sold it to John Randolph, a Philadelphia merchant, who in turn sold it to the Augustinian Fathers.

At Valley Forge there are fitting markers on the site where the Colonial troops stayed through the winter of 1777-78.

A bronze tablet on Conestoga Road, near Ithan Avenue, records that Generals Washington and Lafayette were frequent visitors during the trying days of the Revolution to Sorrel Horse Inn, which formerly stood near the intersection.

—J. J. C.

Weekly Calendar

TODAY

Belle Air Staff Meeting, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Foreign Relations, 213 Mendel Hall ..... 1:15 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 2:30 P. M.
Freshman Debating, 204 Mendel Hall ..... 7:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY

VILLANOVAN Meeting, 119 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 2:30 P. M.
Villanova-Dickinson, Basketball Game, Villanova Gym 8:30 P. M.

THURSDAY

Lambda Kappa Delta Meeting, 210 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.

FRIDAY

L. K. D. REUNION DANCE, Villanova Gym ..... 9:00 P. M.

MONDAY

Phi Kappa Pi Meeting, Mendel Hall ..... 11:35 A. M.

L. K. D. FRATERNITY TO HOLD REUNION DANCE FRIDAY NIGHT

Advance Sale of Tickets Forecasts Success of Pre-Medical Social

REVAMPED VILLANOVANS WILL SUPPLY MUSIC

Will Be Last Social Event on Calendar Before Lent Begins

Continued From Page One

ly elected to the fraternity were introduced to the upperclassmen of the organization. The following is the list of these LKD's: Martin B. Kassell, Lawrence C. Knaphle, James E. Kutz, John C. Urie, Walter L. Balaity, George White, Charles A. Scowron, William J. Ward, Jr., Witold Krzywicki, Jose Gonzales, Pasquale Vassalluzzo, Bartholomeo A. Passannante, Robert Howe, James U. Meiler, Rene Cailliet, Leon Finkman, Patrick A. McLaughlin, Albert Zogby, Louis Rizzo DeCavalcante and Bernard J. Miller.

These new members were addressed by the president of the organization, Joseph Bigley, who reviewed various phases and aims of the organization, and who also strongly urged them to support the various events in which the fraternity participates; namely, the sponsoring of fraternity affairs. Judging from the potential support which can be given to the scheduled reunion by the new members and by the support of the graduate members of the fraternity, it will be a success.

It is to be noted that this affair is the last which may and will be held on the campus before Lent. Many students who have as yet not attended any of the functions held by the various classes and organizations will thus get their last opportunity to "trip the light fantastic" until after Lent.

Francis J. Meyers Addresses Group

Continued From Page One

data which ent to make his speech very interesting.

The attendance was rather disappointing but an improvement is hoped for in the future. The members should realize that it is discouraging for a speaker when such a small precntage attends the monthly meetings.

SECOND HIGHEST SCORE

Defeating the Pittsburgh grapplers 36 to 0, Coach Charlie Speidel's Penn State wrestling team tallied the second highest score in the history of Nittany Lion mat teams. In 1929, State defeated Western Reserve, 39 to 0 for the highest total.

Freshmen Orators Wage No Contest

Continued From Page One

under the guidance of Manager Robert McIntyre.

Negotiations have been made through Thomas Delate, business manager, for a debate between the Villanova Freshman debaters and the team representing Georgian Court College, of Lakewood, N. J. This debate has been scheduled for April 24.

The Freshmen are contemplating a debate with the Villanova varsity squad, but plans have not as yet been decided. The debate with the Alumni, scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed indefinitely.

FINANCIAL REPORT GIVEN BY VAUGHN

Senior Class President Releases Statement Following Belle Air Ball

Announcement of the financial status of the Class of '36 was made yesterday afternoon by William Vaughn, president. Total receipts from the Belle Air Ball of February 7 amounted to approximately $297.52 which, as was previously made public, will be turned over to the Bryn Mawr Trust Co. as a scholarship fund for the college.

Other profits from the Senior Ball, which are not included in the gate receipts, are those from flowers and refreshments. The floral contract returned to the Class of '36 treasury $14.75. As yet the returns of the refreshment concession have not been determined.

Shortly before the date of the Belle Air Ball, it was arranged by the class authorities to sell the false ceiling, purchased for Junior Week last year by the Class of '36, to the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity of the School of Science. Purchased for slightly over $100.00, the buting brought at sale $35.00, with provisions for the purchaser to dissemble it after the Senior Week-end.

These profits, from the floral concession and from the sale of the ceiling, bring the Senior Class Treasury, to date, to $224.23, without the returns from the refreshments being included.

P. K. P. Initiations Set For Monday

Continued From Page One

nual initiation Banquet immediately afterwards, in the College Dining Hall.

All members, in good standing, and all professors of the Engineering School are invited to attend, as well as to take active part in the initiation, and to attend the banquet following. It has also been announced in this connection, that all neophytes whose names are accepted, are to join in the Phi Kappa Pi picture to be taken next week.

In the line of sport, the Phi Kappa Pi Bowling tournament is under full steam, with the entire first bracket and many of the second already played off to date. Under discussion at yesterday's meeting, was the subject of Senior Keys, which are to be given to all seniors in good-standing.

Debating Lacks Student Support

Continued From Page One

minutes before 1 o'clock in order to obtain full particulars from the opposing captains. These individuals on the committees are practically always present, but the support of the student body in general is lacking.

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Each puff less acid—Luckies are

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

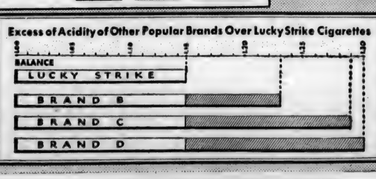
For twenty-five years the research staff of The American Tobacco Company has worked steadily to produce a measurably finer cigarette—namely, a cigarette having a minimum of volatile components, with an improved richness of taste—"A LIGHT SMOKE."

We believe that Lucky Strike Cigarettes embody a number of genuinely basic improvements, and that all these improvements combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes



*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

(Next to Seville Theatre)
Meet Your Friends at
The Bryn Mawr Confectionery
Tasty Sandwiches
Reasonably Priced
Lunches-Dinners-Platters
Music Free Dancing

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE VILLANOVAN

Send for Rate Cards or Call
WM. CLEARY
Bus. Mgr.
Bryn Mawr 1956
VILLANOVA COLLEGE
VILLANOVA, PA.

JEANNETT'S
BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas For All Occasions
Specializing in Corsages
Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association
823 Lancaster Ave.
Bryn Mawr 570

L. K. D. Reunion Dance
(Last social event before the Lenten Season)
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 21
— College Gym —
9 till 1 Subscription $1.50

Sportorial

By A. R. C. Sports Editor

THIS COLUMN has devoted much discussion to the proceedings of the National Football Rules Committee. Finally they have decided to do away with the "slow whistle," or delayed tooting of the referee's signal, although the delay had been instrumental during the past season in the production of many spectacular lateral passes, the committee decided to eliminate it in an effort to avoid injuries.

What many fans do not know, is the fact that the "slow whistle rule" has never exited, since it was never incorporated and adopted to the football rule book.

The committee also recommended, but will not enforce a regulation six-inch block numeral on the front of each jersey and an eight-inch numeral on the back for identification purposes. It would have been better to make it a regulation, for in our estimation it would be an aid to the followers of the game. With the many colleges taking to loud-colored jerseys it has become rather hard for the fan to recognize a player. It also has its advantages for games played in wet and soggy fields, at which time it is rare when you can depict an individual by the number on the front or back of his jersey.

* * *

We take this opportunity to express our appreciation to William Connolly, an alumnus of Villanova College, who presented the senior lettermen of the varsity eleven with gold football watch charms. It is expressions of this sort which inspire the players to carry on.

* * *

Considered the best collegiate basketball team of the country by the greatest majority of sports critics at the beginning of the season, the recently vanquished New York University five, has been taken down several notches, all within the course of a week. Our point in mentioning this is to offset any remarks that the Violets may have been "off" when Georgetown defeated them, and again when the Owls turned the tables on the following night.

For the "Irish" of Notre Dame came out of the mid-West a few days later to administer a worse humiliation. The ease with which

Continued on Page Eight

ENGINEERS TOURNEY BEING CONDUCTED

Phi Kappa Pi Fraternity Has Started Eliminating The Losers

Phi Kappa Pi is holding its first annual bowling tournament to determine the bowling champion of the fraternity.

It is open to all members of the fraternity and 32 contestants entered. So far J. Courtin defeated Dan O'Conner, and Al Hoffman entered the second round when Tom O'Brien defaulted. John Hallahan defeated Stan Narkin in two straight games.

In the lower bracket Joe Cook beat Bill Burns, and Joe Bittenmiller took over Ed Gornouski, Bill Thorn, a member of last year's tennis team came out the victor in his match with Camille Rosbert, only to go down before Frank Rodgers, who defeated Al Fitzpatrick in the first round.

Rodgers, captain of last season's 150-pound football team, is the only entry so far to reach the quarter-finals. Ed Fister, who won on default, and Ranson Dethloff, who beat John Kelly, are other winners in the first round.

The tournament is the first of its kind to be held by the Phi Kappa Pi, but it is planning to make it an annual affair. Each match is decided by the first two out of three games. Matches are held every afternoon in the bowling alleys in the gymnasium. Anyone seeking information about the tournament should see Frank Rodgers.

Villanovan Sports

'CATS DEFEAT PENN BOXERS

Red and Blue Foes Fall Before Villanova Mittmen

Newly Organized Wildcat Squad Impresses With Victory Over Quakers; Rothschild, Captain of Invaders, Loses

PANTALEO AND CAPTAIN SALA SHINE

By PAT VASSALLUZZO

Villanova's pugilists, under the tutelege of Ray Gadsby, inaugurated their third season of intercollegiate boxing with a victory over Penn last Saturday night. Incidently this is the first dual meet in which the Wildcat boxers have been the victors since this sport was founded at the Main Line institution. Also, it was the first contest under the able coaching of Ray Gadsby, former member of the United States Olympic team.

Captain Tony Sala, intercollegiate title-holder in the light heavyweight class, ventured into the heavyweight division and although he spotted his adversary 15 pounds, gained the decision after three rounds. His opponent was Mauger, member of the Penn crew. Tony fought splendidly despite the fact that Mauger had the weight advantage, and would probably have won via the K. O. route had not the bell saved the Pennsylvanian at the end of the second round, when Sala had him against the ropes.

The final result of the meet was five and a half to two and a half. Villanova won one of the bouts by technical knockout, three by decisions and one by forfeit. The Wildcats gained the other half point by a draw. The Red and

Continued on Page Eight

COURT TEAM DROPS THREE MORE GAMES DURING PAST WEEK

Providence, Manhattan And St. John's Take Toll Of 'Cats

GERAGHTY AND BRENNAN PLAY WELL IN DEFEAT

With a total of nine defeats in twelve games, Villanova's 1936 basketball squad presents the poorest record of any ccurt squad of the college in years.

Three teams in the past week hurdled the disorganized 'Cats, no team of the three being particularly strong.

At the gymnasium last Wednesday night, St. Johns of Brooklyn humbled Villanova before a crowd of 1200, by the score of 31-35, with the 'Cats customary weakness at the foul line deciding the outcome of the game.

Friday night saw Villanova meeting Manhattan in a double-header at the Arena, and being subdued by a 31-34 count.

On Saturday night, Providence College, R. I., played host to the 'Cats and showed the way through the hoops by winning a conclusive game, 37-46.

'Cats Open Strong

Villanova opened the game with a flurry of scoring, but the Providence team quickly overtook the 'Cats and finished up the half leading by a comfortable margin.

Villanova never overcame the lead set by Providence, and trailed throughout the game. With but a few minutes left in the last quarter, the 'Cats staged a rally which was quickly overcome, and the hosts pulled ahead to win by nine points.

'Cats Disorganized

The Jaspers of Manhattan came down from New York, and showed the limits of disorganization that a Villanova team could come to. During the entire game, it was

Continued on Page Six

Lightweights' Leader

LARRY STEAD

STEAD ELECTED CAPTAIN OF 150's

Leader Has Been Member Of Squad For Past Two Seasons

At a meeting held last Thursday, the 150-pound team elected Lawrence A Stead, Norwood, Pa., captain of the squad for next season.

Mr. Stead is a junior in the School of Science. He has had two years' experience on the lightweight squad, playing first string guard for his two seasons.

The election was closely contested by Mario Menocal, a junior engineer, who has played center for two years.

Both Stead and Menocal are lettermen, and the election was decided for Stead by a plurality of two votes. The other candidates running for the captaincy were Artie Carleton, tackle on the first team for two years, and Jack Geraghty.

Larry stated that in his opinion, the 150 team faces its most promising outlook next year, as the light weights have a wealth of good material.

Alumni Hall Winner In Mural Tournament

Charley Kain Shows Reversal of Form To Take Late Win; Jarosik Is Most Polished

Four technical knockouts featured the Third Annual Intramural Boxing Tournament, held in the Villanova gymnasium on Monday evening, February 10. In addition to a very interesting program of 13 boxing bouts there were three wrestling matches.

Jimmy Lyons, a Dayhop representative and Villanova's 115-pound scrapper last season, started the evening off in fine fashion by finishing Jack Noll, of Fedigan, in the second of their scheduled three-round bout. A hard right to the mid-section dropped Noll after a minute of the second round for the count of five. At this stage Referee Bryan Hayes stopped the fight.

Kain Comes Back to Win

Charley Kain, another Dayhop, was the hero of the best match of the evening. His opponent, Ordelli, a southpaw with a punch, gave him a terrific beating in the first round. Charley fought back gamely and in the next heat launched a furious counter-attack that led to Charley's winning the bout by the T. K. O. route.

Joe Carrig and Johnny Krutilis, Frosh basketball men, both showed fine form in annexing their bouts. Joe made quick work of Tommy Delate, burying him under a whirlwind attack in a bout that lasted less than two minutes. Krutilis had trouble with Claude La Dow but earned the decision.

Bobrowski, of Alumni Hall, was the fourth man to conquer by way of a technical knockout. He defeated Ed Quinn in two rounds.

Jarosik Shows Class

Jack Jarosik, Freshman footballer fighting in the heavyweight class gave the best all-around exhibition of the evening. Outweighed in his bout with Oliver Volpe by more than 20 pounds, he battered his heavier opponent throughout the three rounds and several times had him on the verge of a knockout. His most effective weapons were a beautiful left jab and a paralyzing straight right hand. His showing on Monday demonstrated

Continued on Page Six

OWLS AND ST. JOHN FROSH TEAMS BOW TO KITTEN QUINTET

Superior Brand of Basketball Displayed by Frosh Downs Two Strong Teams

NINE STRAIGHT FOR FROSH

By WILLIAM BOWKER

Two more victories were added to the Kitten's list last week. In the easier but more important battle, the Main Liners broke the Temple yearling's 28-game winning streak at Mitten Hall last Friday. Joe Hopkins's two last minute baskets, coupled with Lou Dubino's tying foul, sent St. John's Frosh down to a 29-27 defeat Wednesday night.

Hal Black's basket started hostilities, and Shapiro's double decker put the home lads out in front with a comfortable margin before Krutulis counted for the visitors. A foul put the Flock three points ahead but a basket by Dubino again placed the Villanovans in the running. From this point on the fighting was nip and tuck with neither team more than three points ahead at any one time. Dubino starred in the scoring in this half and his well timed shots, along with those of Johnny Krutulis, were instrumental in keeping the spectators' interest at fever pitch. Montgomery's only score of the half put the winners in the van at 20-17 as the teams left the floor.

After the intermission the Owlets went into the lead on Black's field goal, but the visitors slowly opened up their high-powered offensive and gradually drew away from the Mitten allers. Montgomery led the parade with five field goals in this half. Johnny Krutulis gave a fine exhibition of guarding and general floorwork.

Rough play on the part of the Felines gave their feathered friends 15 points on free throws. Referee Stokowski saw fit to banish Vigilante and Krutulis on personal fouls.

Jim Montgomery went on a scoring spree in the second half, and compiled 14 of his 16 in this canto. Krutulis's eleven tallies and Dubino's ten accounted for all but six of the remaining 27 points.

Hal Black was the outstanding player for Temple, marking up five field goals and six fouls for 16

Continued on Page Seven

COMMUTERS RETAIN LEAD IN LOOP RACE

Mendel Residents Trounced 33-20, by Science Day-Hops

Last Tuesday evening the two undefeated teams from Mendel Hall clashed, and the Dayhop aggregation swamped the Residents, 33-20. Joe Duffy, of the Commuters, was the individual star of the game as he tallied four field goals and a foul for nine points. His floor play was sparkling although Harold Hart's tally of 10 points game. The Boardera were never in the game as the Commuters ran up a 17-6 lead at half-time.

In the second game of the evening the Fedigan five dropped their fourth close decision in a row, when they lost to Alumni, 24-22. The half ended with the score knotted at 16-all, but Alumni showed its superiority in the second half when it gained a two-point lead and held it. Sheftic, of Fedigan, scored five field goals and two fouls to gather more than half of his team's points, but his brilliant play went for naught.

In the first game played on Wednesday, Alumni met the Business Men and finished on the long end of a 28-25 count. Play was close throughout, for Alumni was handicapped by having several of their stars attending classes.

Schelle Leads Scoring

The two opposing centers waged a scoring duel with George Schelle, of the Commerce and Finance five, who was one of the leading scorers in the first half five, who was

Continued on Page Six

Interscholastic Swim Meet Here Saturday

Alumni Wins Team Prize in Boxing

Continued From Page Five

that Villanova has another boxer of championship caliber.

Of the three wrestling matches only one ended with one of the grapplers pinned to the mat. Kitchell, a Dayhop, threw Ed Virusky, a Fedigan representative. Eddie Michaels, Villanova's football captain, against Benny DiVentura and Bob Baker opposing Frank Megaro were the other wrestlers who participated.

Alumni Wins Team Prize

In the struggle for the team championship Alumni's large squad nosed out a surprisingly strong Dayhop aggregation by a score of 17-13. The points were figured on a basis of 1 point for each entry and two additional points for each victory.

The 10 points thus gained by Alumni again puts that hall out in front in the intramural race by a substantial margin. Austin, the ex-leader, fell down in the boxing, tying Mendel for last place.

BOXING STANDING

Alumni	17	10
Mendel Dayhops	13	7
Fedigan	3	4
C. & F. Dayhops	3	4
Austin	1	1½
Mendel	1	1½

SUMMARIES

125-pound class—Carl Pantaleo won three-round decision over Joe Tanzola; Jim Lyon won on technical knockout in second round over Jack Noll.

135-pound class—George Weber won three-round decision over Bob Daniello; Charles Bobrowski won on technical knockout in second round over Ed Quinn.

140-pound class—Ed Tyrell won three-round decision over Ed Quigley.

145-pound class — John Krutulis won three-round decision over Claude Labrow; Charles Kane won on technical knockout in second round over Jim Ordille.

165-pound class—Joe Carrie won on technical knockout in first round over Tommy Delate; Joe Carroll won three-round decision over Pat Vassalluzzo; Burz Davis won three-round decision over Jack Yauch.

Heavyweight class—Dick Mulvehall won three-round decision over Witold Krysewecki; Jack Jarosik won three-round decision over Oliver Volpe; Pat Marquette won decision over Emilio Tamburri.

Commuters Retain Lead in Loop Race

Continued From Page Five

one o fthe leading scorers in the first-half drive, carrying over the honors with a total of 14 points, while his opponent, "Bud" O'Connell, followed him with 12 counters.

In Wednesday's second game the Mendel Dayhops ran roughshod over the team from Fedigan Hall, overwhelming them 27-14. Fedigan decided that they might as well lose a game by a decisive score so they went about proving it, in so doing absorbed their fifth straight defeat.

On Thursday night the team from Alumni really hit their stride and sent the Mendel residents down to defeat, 38-20. In about 13 minutes Alumni's first team ran up a 20-7 lead. At this stage of the game the Alumni second team came into the game. They continued the uprising and at halftime led by 24-11. Alumni's first team started the second half and piled up a 30-11 advantage. The second team again entered the fray and continued to give the Mendel outfit a thorough trouncing, 38-20.

In the second game of the evening Fedigan finally came into their own and defeated Austin Hall, 24-16. For the first 19 minutes of the game Fedigan held the Austinites scoreless and managed to find enough time, while guarding their opponents so closely, to gather nine markers.

Seven Events Scheduled For Numerous Entrants

All Philadelphia Catholic High Schools To Compete With Many Regional Contestants Here

BURRS BOAST UNDEFEATED RECORD

By JAMES MEILER

The second annual Villanova Catholic Interscholastic Swimming Meet will be held on Saturday, February 22 at 1 o'clock in the college pool.

All the Philadelphia Catholic high schools as well as schools in surrounding regions are expected to send representatives. In addition to these entries applications from schools in New York State have been received. This will make the affair a national one.

A card of seven events has been arranged for the meet. The events are: 200-yard relay, fancy diving, 50-yard free style, 100-yard free style, 100-yard back stroke, 100-yard breast, and the 220-yard free style.

The dead line for entries is on Wednesday, February 19. Teams are expected to be stronger than last year. Camden Catholic, West Philadelphia Catholic, St. Joseph's Prep, Brooklyn Prep, Roman Catholic of Philadelphia, Holy Spirit High of Atlantic City, Cathedral of Trenton, Northeast Catholic High of Philadelphia, and others will vie for honors.

Last year Bill Leahy, who is at present attending Villanova College, lowered the records established in previous interscholastic meets. He has helped Villanova to an undefeated season.

Bannin May Repeat

Bob Bannin, a diver for Brooklyn Prep, captured the New York City Diving Championship recently. He will be on hand to vie for the honor offered in his division.

West Catholic High will come to Villanova as an undefeated team. They have out-classed every team that they have opposed. Their relay team has lowered the mark for high schools in the 200-yard division. The total number of contestants last year was 80. This year it is hoped that this number will be exceeded.

Since this meet is the only Catholic Interscholastic Swimming meet in the East, it is expected in time to draw entries from a number of schools which have not as yet decided to send representatives.

Holy Spirit High of Atlantic City has just started to swim in competition. If they send representatives to this meet, it is expected that they will make a good impression.

The Catholic League of Philsdelphia was closed last week with West Catholic holding first place, North Catholic finished second, St. Joseph's Prep wound up in third position, Catholic High fourth, and La Salle finished in the cellar. The strong rivalry that was carried out during the course of the season is expected to be extended to this meet.

New York Entrants Vie

Many of the entrants of the New York City championships will represent their schools in the Villanova meet. The above meet causes great interest among the high schools of the Empire City. Such schools as Evander Childs, Clinton, Roosevelt, and Manual Training, and other important schools sent strong teams. One of the leading teams was Brooklyn Prep, who is expected to send that same team here to Villanova to vie for the honors in the various events.

Camden Catholic High, unknown to some of us in the swimming world, nevertheless has hopes of coming into the limelight through the efforts of their able swimmers.

If Blair Academy of Blairstown New Jersey decides to send their natators, another strong aggregation will be represented. They have many swimmers of national recognition. Ed Sabol, free style natator, recently broke the 100-yard free style record in a meet held with Columbia freshmen. Ted Layton, another Blair record holder, is undefeated in the 100-yard breast stroke event. Blair took all but one first place in this meet.

The success of this meet depends upon the cooperation given the authorities who are in charge of the meet. It is almost certain that this year's Interscholastic Swimming Meet will be larger and contain more tense feeling than last year's did. It is hoped that this meet will grow to a national affair with teams from all through the country competing.

Intra-Mural Standings

Mendel Dayhops	5	0
Alumni	4	1
Mendel Reserves	2	2
Austin	1	2
Fedigan	1	5
C. & F.	0	3

In the Limelight

By GENE LOORAM

Mr. A. R. Catrambone
Care of the VILLANOVAN
P. O. Box 1
Villanova, Pa.
Dear Editor:

Since you thought that one Elmhurstite should write up another, I went ahead and interviewed Thomas Timothy Ryan (the middle T had always bothered me, too).

As you told me to withhold any facts that were not suitable to the Limelight, I'll just put down the bare essentials. Tom, or "Broadway," or "Swish" Ryan was born on a rainy day in August, the 26th to be exact, in the year 1914. We'll have to take Tom's word for the fact that it was raining, but as a native of Elmhurst I doubt it, for Elmhurst rivals California in having perpetual sunshine.

Tom started matriculation (he said to put some lengthy words in so the folks back home would appreciate what we think of him) in Public School 89, the Elmhurst Grammar School. While there he played on the lightweight basketball team that captured the Queens County championship. To look at "Broadway" now it's hard to believe he was once a lightweight, but "Swish" referred to his present bulk as being "a mass of muscle."

In grammar school Tom took a liking to football and engaged in quite a few sandlot games, for there is no grammar school football league in Queens.

In 1928, Tom received his diploma and continued his education at Newtown High School, which is also situated in Elmhurst. In his sophomore year of high school he made the varsity basketball team, and in his junior year he played on the quintet that captured the championship of New York City. Playing with "Broadway" on this team were Bill Nash, now captain of Columbia, and Tony De Philips, present Fordham captain. In Tom's senior year the team lost out in the city finals, but by a very close margin.

Since Newtown High had no football team, "Swish" continued to play football on a sandlot team which is quite well known in Queens, the Elmhurst Tuxedos. His lack of high school experience has kept Tom from trying out for the team here.

Tom entered Villanova in 1932 and as a Frosh played on the freshman quintet which compiled an outstanding record. For the last three years Tom has played varsity basketball. His play has been an outstanding record. For the last three years Tom has played varsity basketball. His play has been consistently good and his loss to the squad will be keenly felt. "Broadway" will long be remembered for the manner in which he practically singlehandedly defeated Temple in his sophomore year. His two last-minute baskets sent the Owls down to defeat when they practically had victory assured.

Tom wished a little special mention made of the fact that he is at present managing one of the outstanding threats to Joe Louis' supremacy in he person of Jack Robinson. "Broadway" claims that Jack could be an intercollegiate champ if he got down to serious training.

Outside of Tom's participation in basketball, he is also a member of the Holy Name Society and the Varsity Club and served on the Senior Ball Committee. In his sophomore year Tom bullied the present Juniors when he was a member of the Vigilance Committee.

Next June Tom will take his place with the C. & F. section and receive his diploma, crediting him with his B. S. degree. Tom has never excelled in studies nor has he fallen behind, but considers himself "an average student."

He has no definite plans for his future and says that he is open to any offer of a job. This summer Tom will have to give up his daily trips to Rockway Beach, where he acquires his annual sun-tan, and, as he says "get down to real hard work."

So, Timothy (I guess Thomas Timothy sounds more rhythmical, but Timothy is such a "cute" name), who has carved a niche for himself in Villanova basketball, leaves in June, but he will long be remembered even by the present freshmen.

I hope this is enough information to give you some idea of Tom that his picture isn't able to convey, so I'll close my first letter to an editor.

Your Frosh staff writer,
GENE LOORAM.

Court Team Drops Three More Games

Continued From Page Five

every man for himself. The selfish attitude o several of the players was distinctly noticeable, their actions patently advertising that they were out for high scoring, and the team could drag along if it wanted to.

"Doc" Jacobs, Villanova's veteran basketball coach, who has never before turned out even a mediocre team, is at a loss to account for the poor showing. Influences are at work within the squad, which he is powerless to combat; it is not poor, basketball which is losing for Villanova, it is poor spirit. The entire squad seems to be disorganized, and lacking in ability to function as a unit, so necessary in a basketball team.

In the St. John's game, Villanova outscored their opponents from the floor, 11 to 12, but St. John's capitalized on the foul line and converted 11 free tosses to Villanova's 7.

ST. JOHN'S

	G.	F.	P.
Kaplinsky, forward, guard	2	2	6
Rush, forward, center	3	1	7
Oeding, center	1	3	5
Goltkin, guard	0	1	1
McGuire, guard, forward	4	3	11
Shanley, guard	1	1	3
Totals	11	11	33

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Geraghty, forward	4	1	9
Ryan, forward, guard	2	0	4
O'Meara, forward	3	2	8
Brennan, center	1	1	3
McNally, guard	2	2	6
Robinson, guard	0	1	1
Collins, guard	0	0	0
Totals	12	7	31

Score by halves:

St. John's	17	16—33
Villanova	13	18—31

Referees—Emery and Halas. Time of halves—30 minutes.

MANHATTAN

	G.	F.	P.
Kenny, forward	1	1	3
McGurk, forward	3	2	8
T. Ryan, guard	2	1	5
McNulty, guard	3	4	10
Flannagan, guard	0	0	0
Volge, guard	2	4	8
Totals	11	12	34

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Geraghty, forward	5	2	12
O'Meara, forward	2	2	6
Brennan, center	3	4	10
Goumey, guard	0	3	3
T. Ryan, guard	0	1	1
Noonan, guard	0	1	1
Totals	11	9	33

Score first half—Villanova, 15; Manhattan, 14. Referee—Emery.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE

	G.	F.	P.
Gallagher, lf	5	0	10
Hagstrom, lf	0	0	0
Carew, rf	4	3	11
Pleski, rf	0	0	0
Robilnski, c	5	5	15
Davin, lg	0	2	2
Collins, lg	2	0	4
Smith, rg	2	0	4
Bleden, rg	0	0	0
Totals	18	10	46

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
O'Meara, lf	6	0	12
Geraghty, rf	0	1	1
Noonan, rf	2	3	7
Brennan, c	4	1	9
McNally, lg	1	2	4
Ryan, rg	2	0	4
Robinson, rg	0	0	0
E. Collins, lg	0	0	0
Totals	15	7	37

Referees—Feldman and Winters.

Intra-Mural Line-up and Scores

MENDEL DAYHOPS

	G.	F.	P.
O'Connor, forward	3	1	7
Murphy, forward	1	0	2
Duffy, center	2	0	4
Bettenmuller, guard	2	0	4
Agnes, guard	3	2	8
Totals	11	5	27

FEDIGAN

	G.	F.	P.
Sheftic, forward	2	0	4
Shea, forward	4	0	8
Laun, center	1	0	2
Quinn, guard	0	0	0
Stahmann, guard	0	0	0
Totals	7	0	14

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Bobrowski, forward	4	0	8
McHugh, forward	3	0	6
Dwyer, forward	1	0	2
O'Connell, center	3	0	6
Higgins, guard	1	0	2
Pantaleo, guard	2	0	4
Murphy, guard	1	0	2
Horn, guard	2	0	4
Boviero, guard	2	0	4
Totals	19	0	38

MENDEL RESERVES

	G.	F.	P.
Carroll, forward	3	1	7
Delate, forward	1	0	2
Costello, forward	2	0	4
Hart, center	0	1	1
Dunigan, guard	2	0	4
Zaffer, guard	0	0	0
Totals	9	2	20

FEDIGAN

	G.	F.	P.
Sheftic, forward	4	1	9
Stotler, forward	1	0	2
Dowley, forward	3	0	6
Laun, center	1	1	3
Angeiozzi, guard	1	3	5
Durkin, guard	0	1	1
Totals	10	4	24

AUSTIN

	G.	F.	P.
Totin, forward	2	2	6
Badamo, forward	2	1	5
Dinges, center	1	0	2
Conle, guard	1	0	2
Frachia, guard	0	1	1
Totals	6	4	16

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Murphy, forward	2	0	4
O'Connell, center	1	0	2
Bobrowski, guard	1	0	2
McHugh, guard	3	0	6
Dwyer, guard	2	0	4
Totals	12	0	24

FEDIGAN

	G.	F.	P.
Angeiozzi, forward	1	0	2
Sheftic, forward	5	2	12
Ford, center	1	0	2
Stahmann, guard	2	0	4
Rhoades, guard	1	0	2
Totals	10	2	22

MENDEL D. H.

	G.	F.	P.
O'Connor, forward	1	3	5
Burns, forward	0	0	0
Duffy, center	4	1	9
Agnes, guard	3	0	6
Barr, guard	3	1	7
Murphy, guard	1	0	2
Narkin, guard	1	0	2
Totals	14	5	33

MENDEL RESERVES

	G.	F.	P.
Costello, forward	0	0	0
Hart, forward	5	0	10
Carroll, center	1	0	2
Dunigan, guard	2	0	4
Capellaro, guard	2	0	4
Totals	10	0	20

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Dwyer, forward	2	0	4
Higgins, forward	1	0	2
O'Connell, center	6	0	12
Horn, guard	3	0	6
Murphy, guard	2	0	4
Totals	14	0	28

COMMERCE AND FINANCE

	G.	F.	P.
J. Schelle, forward	2	0	4
Alessandroni, forward	3	0	6
G. Schelle, center	7	2	14
O'Connor, guard	1	1	3
La Brasca, guard	0	0	0
Totals	11	3	25

Temple and St. John Frosh Bow to 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

points. He received little support from his teammates, however.

This was the first defeat for the Temple lads in more than two years. It will be remembered that the Broad St. boys were the only ones to conquer last year's Kittens.

In their eighth consecutive triumph the Frosh received their first real test of the season in barely defeating a strong St. John's Frosh quintet. It was not until the closing seconds that victory was assured.

Johnny Krutulis netted a point from the free-throw line shortly after the opening whistle, and then the Red Shirts, led by Palmer, found the hoop for eight counters. A basket by Dubino started a short rally by the victors but the Metropolitans increased their lead to seven points, to lead 16-9 at halftime. Lloyd tallied seven of the 16 markers.

There was more action in the second half. Vigilante counted on a free toss, and the Main Liners had started. A basket, a foul, and three more baskets put the homesters in the van at 19-18. Amarosso looped a double decker to change the lead, but Vigilante countered with another field goal.

Palmer's foul knotted the count and then the visitors assumed a 26-22 lead. An basket by Krutulis put the hosts within striking distance. Joe Hopkins, former Malvern star, chose this moment to sink the first of his two goals, tying the score at 26-26. A foul by Lloyd, put St. John's ahead until Dubino tallied a foul to bring the winners even with their opponents. With less than a minute to play, Hopkins then pushed in his second basket of the night to provide the winning margin.

Amarosso, of the visitors, accumulated 11 markers to pace the pointmakers. Five twinpointers and a foul comprised his score. Dubino led the Felines with three each of fouls and goals for nine counts. Seven tallies fell to the lot of Montgomery, who was banished on personals late in the game, causing the re-entry of Hopkins into the fray.

In both of the last two victories the Thirty-Niners demonstrated their ability to outlast the opposition, scoring more in the latter half than the former on both occasions.

Lineups:

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	6	4	16
Dempsey, forward	0	0	0
Hopkins, forward	1	0	2
Carrig, forward	0	0	0
Dubino, center	4	2	10
Burlington, center	0	0	0
Vigilante, guard	0	0	0
Wanamaker, guard	0	0	0
Krutulis, guard	4	3	11
Kuber, guard	0	0	0
Hobson, guard	0	0	0
Totals	18	7	43

TEMPLE

	G.	F.	P.
Bottora, forward	0	0	0
Walters, forward	0	2	2
Duffy, forward	0	0	0
Chapman, center	3	1	7
Kulman, center	0	0	0
Shapiro, guard	0	0	0
Macull, guard	0	0	0
Black, guard	5	6	16
Cassuci, guard	0	0	0
Totals	9	15	33

Score by halves:

Villanova	20	23—43
Temple	17	16—33

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	2	3	7
Dempsey, forward	1	0	2
Krutulis, forward	1	2	4
Carrig, forward	0	0	0
Dubino, center	3	3	9
Wanamaker, guard	0	0	0
Hopkins, guard	2	0	4
Vigilante, guard	1	1	3
Totals	10	9	29

ST. JOHN'S

	G.	F.	P.
Gorman, forward	0	2	2
Tumiello, forward	0	0	0
Lloyd, forward	3	2	8
Gerhard, forward	0	0	0
Palmer, center	2	1	5
Anderson, center	0	1	1
Amarosso, guard	5	1	11
Sweeney, guard	0	0	0
Krasovic, guard	0	0	0
DeLuca, guard	0	0	0
Totals	10	7	27

Score by halves:

Villanova	9	20—29
St. John's	16	11—27

RECEIVE JUNIOR WEEK APPOINTMENTS

Reading from left to right are John McLaughlin, Edward McDevitt, and John Burke, who have been appointed by William Cleary, Junior Class president, to head committees during the May Junior Week festivities. Mr. Burke, an Artsman, is chairman of the entire Junior Week; Mr. McDevitt, a business student, is chairman of the Blazer Ball Committee, and Mr. McLaughlin is chairman of the Junior Dinner-Dance Committee

William Cleary Announces Junior Week Chairmen and Committees

Continued From Page One

dance will be given fo. the juniors with John T. McLaughlin, a student in the School of Science, as head of this particular committee.

The Blue Blazer Ball will be held on May 7 at which time the Juniors will wear their traditional blazers, emblems of the Juniors. Edward McDevitt, of the Business School, will be chairman of the Blue Blazer Ball Committee, and Raymond Murphy, of the same school, wil be at the head of the Blazer Committee.

Week Ends With Prom

The grand finale will occur on Junior Prom night, and when this evening is concluded, what promises to be a successful Junior Week will have come to a termination.

No definite decision has been rendered as to the date of Open House, but Gerald Kunz, of the Engineering School, will be the managing individual of the committee. Various exhibitions are presented in conjunction with Open House.

Mr. Cleary urges the whole-hearted cooperation of both chairmen and their respective committees in all matters relevant to the largest social event ever attempedt by the class. In addition, he earnestly solicits the concurrence of every member of the Junior Class.

Chairmen Meet Tomorrow

Mr. Cleary announced that there will be a very important meeting of all chairmen tomorrow in Room 216, Mendel Hall. It is essential that all chairmen put in an appearance. Formulation of plans will immediately be discussed so as to get an early start in this great undertaking.

The following are the chairmen and their respective committees, as released by Mr. Cleary:

Chairman of Junior Week—John J. Burke.

Junior Prom General Committee—John F. Chapple and Aloysius L. Fitzpatrick, co-chairmen; Robert M. Brown, Frank Bonetti, James F. Douglass, Edward J. Donovan, Benedict Maloney, Raymond W. Mullen, Philip G. Kramer, Frank G. Winterer, John Cronin, John J. Grace, John B. Geraghty, Norman C. Paden, John F. Noll and Pasquale Vassalluzzo.

Junior Prom Decoration Committee—William Mink, chairman; Anthony Differ, Emilo Tamburri, John McManus, Theodore Osbahr, Richard Foote, Robert Guinee, Joseph Tanzola and Gerald Piserchia.

Junior Prom Publicity Committee—Philip Murray, chairman; Harry Parkin, Joseph She .

Dinner-Dance Committee — John T. McLaughlin, chairman; Charles Dugan, Walter Kruysa, Constantine Constantine, Francis Williams, Samuel Nigrelli, Thomas Flaherty, Pasquale Guarini, Manrico Troncelliti.

Blazer Ball Committee—Edward McDevitt, chairman; Edward Kelley, Charles Betz, George Collins, Mario Menocal, James Ordille, Albert Mayell John Bruno, John Mullin.

Blazer Committee — Raymond Murphy, chairman; Victor Ashe, Joseph Canuso, Miller Sullivan, Joseph Delaney, Edward Virusky, James McEvilly.

Mothers' Day Committee—Thomas Kennedy, chairman; John de la Cova, Edward A. McHugh, Joseph Duffy, Joseph Carroll.

Open House Committee—Gerald Kunz, chairman; Edward P. Corliss, Francis Carroll, Hugh J. Kearney, Paschal Linguiti, Peter Schettino, Eugene Barr.

Yearbook Photos To Start Monday

Continued From Page One

ratory instructors will be notified of the fact and no unpleasantness will be necessary.

To create still further interest in this important undertaking, letters have been sent to the presidents and moderators of the campus functions, stating the time and place of the picture taking.

It is the sincere wish of the staff of the annual that all Villanova students cooperate with the photographer by being on time for pictures and eliminating unnecessary delay. Those who are to appear in uniform should be ready to have their picture taken at the appointed time so that all will run smoothly. Students are earnestly requested to keep diligent watch of the bulletin boards and the VILLANOVAN for further instructions.

LONG ISLAND UNDEFEATED

Long Island University's basketball team is the only club in the East to boast of an undefeated record. In keeping their record intact the Islanders have won 23 games.

THREE SHARE HONORS

Three players are tied for the Eastern Intercollegiate League scoring honors. They are Barrett, of Penn; Toan, of Dartmouth, and Wilson, of Yale. Each has gathered 54 points.

Belle Air Group Pictures Scheduled For February 24

	PHOTOGRAPH	PLACE	TIME
1.	Junior Class	New Gymnasium	1:00 P. M.
2.	Sophomore Class	New Gymnasium	1:15 P. M.
3.	Orientation Committee	New Gymnasium	1:20 P. M.
4.	Freshman Class	New Gymnasium	1:30 P. M.
5.	Holy Name Society	New Gymnasium	1:45 P. M.
6.	A. S. M. E.	New Gymnasium	1:55 P. M.
7.	A. S. C. E.	New Gymnasium	2:10 P. M.
8.	A. I. E. E.	New Gymnasium	2:25 P. M.
9.	Phi Kappa Pi	New Gymnasium	2:30 P. M.
10.	Cheer Leaders	New Gymnasium	2:45 P. M.
11.	Belle Air Staff	New Gymnasium	3:15 P. M.
12.	Intramural Committee	New Gymnasium	3:30 P. M.
13.	Boxing Team	New Gymnasium	3:45 P. M.
14.	Basketball	New Gymnasium	4:00 P. M.
15.	Swimming Team	Pool	4:15 P. M.

BOWLING TOURNEY NOW IN PROGRESS

Ray Murphy and Schoppmeyer Urge More Day-Hop Entrants

In keeping with the intramural winter sports program, Ray Murphy and Leo Schoppmeyer are successfully conducting the bowling tourney. The intense rivalry shown between the various halls in the other intramural activities is being brought forth more conspicuously in this than in other tournaments.

Of all the halls represented, Austin leads with the most candidates. Alumni and Fedigan are also ably represented, but the Dayhops as yet have not put forth an appearance. This tournament differs from all other intramural events in that the candidates are striving for a certain goal. This goal is new sport jackets to the winners. The money to offset this expense will be paid by the entrance fee charged to the participants.

The tournament has been going on for one week, and all the games have been heatedly contested; but as yet no one has a commanding lead, although Austin Hall leads by slight margin. Both Murphy and Schoppmeyer have been pleasantly surprised by the number of entrants, but still they are not satisfied and urge more participants from both Dayhop sections. This tournament is serving as an experiment and will not be renewed unless a greater interest is shown.

VILLANOVA SEES DICKINSON AS END OF LOSING STREAK

Red Devils Here Tomorrow Night With Wildcats In Revengeful Mood

Villanova - Temple Frosh Meet Again Tomorrow

Villanova's freshmen created a stir in basketball circles last Friday when they handed Temple's yearlings their first setback in two and one-half years. The score of 43-33 ended a 23-game winning streak.

The two arch-rivals will meet in a return game at Villanova tomorrow preliminary to the Villanova - Dickinson varsity scrap.

It just doesn't seem to be in the cards for Villanova College's Basketball team to taste victory. The losing streak of the Wildcats reached eight in a row, the longest in recent years, when they bowed to Manhattan, 34-31, at the Arena on Friday, and yielded to Providence, 46-37, on Saturday at Providence.

However, the Main Liners are positive that they've slipped as far as they can go and they have high hopes of breaking into the win column Wednesday when they entertain Dickinson here. In their previous game at Carlisle the Red Devils won out by a point.

Providence, considered one of the leading teams in the East and an Olympic prospect, set a blistering pace and led from the outset. The Wildcats rallied repeatedly and several times cut the lead to within two points, but everytime they threatened Providence would put on pressure and draw away.

Mike O'Meara, former North Catholic star, and Don Brennan, paced the Wildcats at Providence. The former scored six field goals and the latter tallied four twinpointers and a foul for 12 and nine points, respectively.

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

CERTIFIED
MILK
CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
3744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED .. 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed .. 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

Interscholastic Swim Meet Here Saturday

Alumni Wins Team Prize in Boxing

Continued From Page Five

that Villanova has another boxer of championship caliber.

Of the three wrestling matches only one ended with one of the grapplers pinned to the mat. Kitchell, a Dayhop, threw Ed Virusky, a Fedigan representative. Eddie Michaels, Villanova's football captain, against Benny DiVentura and Bob Baker opposing Frank Megaro were the other wrestlers who participated.

Alumni Wins Team Prize

In the struggle for the team championship Alumni's large squad nosed out a surprisingly strong Dayhop aggregation by a score of 17-13. The points were figured on a basis of 1 point for each entry and two additional points for each victory.

The 16 points thus gained by Alumni again puts that bull out in front in the intramural race by a substantial margin. Austin, the ex-leader, fell down in the boxing by inc Mendel for last place

BOXING STANDING

Alumni	17	16
Mendel Dayhops	14	4
Fedigan	4	4
C & F Dayhops	4	4
Austin	4	4
Mendel	3	4

SUMMARIES

125-pound class—Otto Pandale, won three-round decision over Joe Cerio. Jim Lyon won on technical knockout in second round over Jack Noll.

135-pound class—George Weber won three-round decision over Bob Doherty. Charles Bobrowski won on technical knockout in second round over Ed Quinn.

145-pound class—Ed Tyrell won three-round decision over Ed Quigley.

155-pound class—John Kenlon won three-round decision over Claude Laboon. Charles Kane won on technical knockout in second round over Jim Orville.

165-pound class—Joe Cerio won on technical knockout in first round over Tommy Devaney. Joe Carroll won three-round decision over Pat Vassallizzo. Bert Davis won three-round decision over Jack Yauch.

Heavyweight class—Dick Rabenhorst won three-round decision over Willard Weeks; Jack Jarosik won three-round decision over Oliver Volpe. Pat Fitzpatrick won decision over Emil Pambury.

Commuters Retain Lead in Loop Race

Continued From Page Five

one of the leading scorers in the first half drive, carrying over the honors with a total of 14 points, while his opponent, "Bud" O'Connell, followed him with 12 counters.

In Wednesday's second game the Mendel Dayhops ran roughshod over the team from Fedigan Hall, overwhelming them 27-14. Fedigan decided that they might as well lose a game by a decisive score so they set about proving it, in so doing absorbed their fifth straight defeat.

On Thursday night the team from Alumni really hit their stride and sent the Mendel residents down to defeat, 38-20. In about 13 minutes Alumni's first team had run up a 20-7 lead. At this stage of the game the Alumni second team came into the game. They continued the uprising and at halftime led by 24-11. Alumni's first team started the second half and piled up a swell advantage. The second half ended the first game of the evening with the Hoopsters on a one-month freeze-out.

In the second game of the night Fedigan finally came into their own and defeated Austin Hall 21-15. For the first 14 minutes of the game Fedigan held the Austinites scoreless and managed to build up a four point lead which they increased to seven points before the intermission.

The second half saw Austin's West Catholic holding first place, North Catholic finished second, St. Joseph's Prep wound up in third position, Catholic High fourth, and La Salle finished in the cellar. The strong rivalry that was carried out during the course of the season is expected to be extended to this meet.

New York Entrants Vie

Many of the entrants of the New York City championships will represent their schools in the Villanova meet. The above meet causes great interest among the high schools of the Empire City. Such schools as Evander Childs, Clinton, Roosevelt, and Manual Training, and other important schools sent strong teams. One of the leading teams was Brooklyn Prep, who is expected to send that same team here to Villanova to vie for the honors in the various events.

Camden Catholic High, unknown to some of us in the swimming world, nevertheless has hopes of coming into the limelight through the efforts of their able swimmers.

If Blair Academy of Blairstown New Jersey decides to send their natators, another strong aggregation will be represented. They have many swimmers of national recognition. Ed Sabol, free style natator, recently broke the 100-yard free style record in a meet held with Columbia freshmen. Ted Layton, another Blair record holder, is undefeated in the 100-yard breast stroke event. Blair took all but one first place in this meet.

The success of this meet depends upon the cooperation given the authorities who are in charge of the meet. It is almost certain that this year's Interscholastic Swimming Meet will be larger and contain more tense feeling than last year's did. It is hoped that this meet will grow to a national affair with teams from all through the country competing.

Seven Events Scheduled For Numerous Entrants

All Philadelphia Catholic High Schools To Compete With Many Regional Contestants Here

BURRS BOAST UNDEFEATED RECORD

By JAMES MEILER

The second annual Villanova Catholic Interscholastic Swimming Meet will be held on Saturday, February 22 at 1 o'clock in the college pool.

All the Philadelphia Catholic high schools as well as schools in surrounding regions are expected to send representatives. In addition to these entries applications from schools in New York State have been received. This will make the affair a national one.

A card of seven events has been arranged for the meet. The events are: 200-yard relay, fancy diving, 50-yard free style, 100-yard free style, 100-yard back stroke, 100-yard breast, and the 220-yard free style.

The dead line for entries is on Wednesday, February 19. Teams are expected to be stronger than last year. Camden Catholic, West Philadelphia Catholic, St. Joseph's Prep, Brooklyn Prep, Roman Catholic of Philadelphia, Holy Spirit High of Atlantic City, Cathedral of Trenton, Northeast Catholic High of Philadelphia, and others will vie for honors.

Last year Bill Leahy, who is at present attending Villanova College, lowered the records established in previous interscholastic meets. He has helped Villanova to an undefeated season.

Bannin May Repeat

Bob Bannin, a diver for Brooklyn Prep, captured the New York City Diving Championship recently. He will be on hand to vie for the honor offered in his division.

West Catholic High will come to Villanova as an undefeated team. They have out-classed every team that they have opposed. Their relay team has lowered the mark for high schools in the 200-yard division. The total number of contestants last year was 80. This year it is hoped that this number will be exceeded.

Since this meet is the only Catholic Interscholastic Swimming meet in the East, it is expected in time to draw entries from a number of schools which have not as yet decided to send representatives.

Holy Spirit High of Atlantic City has just started to swim in competition. If they send representatives to this meet, it is expected that they will make a good impression.

The Catholic League of Philadelphia was closed last week with West Catholic holding first place, North Catholic second, St. Joseph's Prep third, Catholic fourth, and La Salle fifth.

Intra-Mural Standings

Mendel Dayhops	5	.5
Alumni	1	1
Mendel Reserves	2	.2
Austin	1	.5
Fedigan	1	.5
C & F	0	.3

Intra-Mural Line-up and Scores

MENDEL DAYHOPS

	G.	F.	P.
O'Connor, forward	1	3	5
Murphy, forward	1	0	2
Duffy, center	1	0	2
Agnes, guard	1	1	3
Barr, guard	1	1	3
Murphy, guard	0	0	0
Nerkin, guard	0	0	0
Totals	5	5	15

FEDIGAN

	G.	F.	P.
Sheffie, forward	1	0	2
Stotler, forward	0	0	0
Gaimey, forward	0	0	0
Lann, center	0	0	0
Angelozzi, guard	1	0	2
Durkin, guard	0	0	0
Totals	2	0	4

AUSTIN

	G.	F.	P.
Totin, forward	2	1	5
Bellanin, forward	1	0	2
Dunges, center	1	0	2
Conte, guard	0	0	0
Fiachin, guard	0	1	1
Totals	4	2	10

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Rossetti, forward	1	0	2
McHugh, forward	1	0	2
Dever, forward	0	0	0
O'Connell, center	1	0	2
Higgins, guard	0	0	0
Pantaleo, guard	2	0	4
Bobrowski, guard	1	0	2
McHugh, guard	0	0	0
Dwyer, guard	2	0	4
Totals	8	0	16

MENDEL RESERVES

	G.	F.	P.
Costello, forward	0	0	0
Hart, forward	1	0	2
Carroll, center	1	0	2
Dunigan, guard	2	0	4
Capellino, guard	0	0	0
Totals	4	0	8

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Pantaleo, forward	2	0	4
Murphy, forward	2	0	4
O'Connell, center	6	0	12
Horn, guard	3	0	6
McHugh, guard	2	0	4
Dwyer, guard	1	0	2
Totals	16	0	32

FEDIGAN

	G.	F.	P.
Angelozzi, forward	1	0	2
Sheffie, forward	5	2	12
Ford, center	1	0	2
Skibinanan, guard	0	0	0
Rhoades, guard	0	0	0
Totals	7	2	16

MENDEL D. H.

	G.	F.	P.
O'Connor, forward	1	0	2
Burns, forward	1	0	2
Duffy, center	4	1	9
Agnes, guard	3	1	7
Barr, guard	3	1	7
Murphy, guard	0	0	0
Nerkin, guard	0	0	0
Totals	14	5	33

MENDEL RESERVES

	G.	F.	P.
Costello, forward	0	0	0
Hart, forward	1	0	2
Carroll, center	0	0	0
Dunigan, guard	2	0	4
Capellino, guard	0	1	1
Totals	3	1	7

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Dwyer, forward	0	1	1
Higgins, forward	0	0	0
O'Connell, center	6	0	12
Horn, guard	3	0	6
Murphy, guard	2	0	4
Totals	11	1	23

COMMERCE AND FINANCE

	G.	F.	P.
J. Schelle, forward	2	0	4
Alessandroni, forward	6	0	12
G. Schelle, center	2	0	4
O'Connor, guard	0	0	0
La Branca, guard	1	0	2
Totals	11	0	22

In the Limelight

By GENE LOORAM

Mr. A. R. Catrambone
Care of the VILLANOVAN
P. O. Box 1
Villanova, Pa.
Dear Editor:

Since you thought that one Elmhurstite should write up another, I went ahead and interviewed Thomas Timothy Ryan (the middle T had always bothered me, too).

As you told me to withhold any facts that were not suitable to the Limelight, I'll just put down the bare essentials. Tom, or "Broadway," or "Swish" Ryan was born on a rainy day in August, the 26th to be exact, in the year 1914. We'll have to take Tom's word for the fact that it was raining, but as a native of Elmhurst I doubt it, for Elmhurst rivals California in having perpetual sunshine.

Tom started matriculation (he said to put some lengthy words in so the folks back home would appreciate what we think of him) in Public School 89, the Elmhurst Grammar School. While there he played on the lightweight basketball team that captured the Queens County championship. To look at "Broadway" now it's hard to believe he was once a lightweight, but "Swish" referred to his present bulk as being "a mass of muscle." In grammar school Tom took a liking to football and engaged in quite a few sandlot games, for there is no grammar school football league in Queens.

In 1928, Tom received his diploma and continued his education at Newtown High School, which is also situated in Elmhurst. In his sophomore year of high school he made the varsity basketball team, and in his junior year he played on the quintet that captured the championship of New York City. Playing with "Broadway" on this team were Bill Nash, now captain of Columbia and Tony De Philips, present Fordham captain. In Tom's senior year the team lost out in the city finals, but by a very close margin.

Since Newtown High had no football team, "Swish" continued to play football on a sandlot team which is quite well known in Queens, the Elmhurst Tuxedoes. His lack of high school expetience has kept Tom from trying out for the team here.

Tom entered Villanova in 1932 and as a Frosh played on the freshman quintet which compiled an outstanding record. For the last three years Tom has played varsity basketball. His play has been an outstanding record. For the last three years Tom has played varsity basketball. His play has been consistently good and his loss to the squad will be keenly felt. "Broadway" will long be remembered for the manner in which he practically singlehandedly defeated Temple in his sophomore year. His two last-minute baskets sent the Owls down to defeat when they practically had victory assured.

Tom wished a little special mention made of the fact that he is at present managing one of the outstanding threats to Joe Louis' supremacy in he person of Jack Robinson. "Broadway" claims that Jack could be an intercollegiate champ if he got down to serious training.

Outside of Tom's participation in basketball, he is also a member of the Holy Name Society and the Varsity Club and served on the Senior Ball Committee. In his sophomore year Tom bullied the present Juniors when he was a member of the Vigilance Committee.

Next June Tom will take his place with the C. & F. section and receive his diploma, crediting him with his B. S. degree. Tom has never excelled in studies nor has he fallen behind, but considers himself "an average student."

He has no definite plans for his future and says that he is open to any offer of a job. This summer Tom will have to give up his daily trips to Rockway Beach, where he acquires his annual sun-tan, and, as he says "get down to real hard work."

So, Timothy (I guess Thomas' Timothy sounds more rhythmical, but Timothy is such a "cute" name), who has carved a niche for himself in Villanova basketball, leaves in June, but he will long be remembered even by the present freshmen.

I hope this is enough information to give you some idea of Tom that his picture isn't able to convey, so I'll close my first letter to an editor.

Your Frosh staff writer,
GENE LOORAM.

Court Team Drops Three More Games

Continued From Page Five

every man for himself. The selfish attitude o several of the players was distinctly noticeable, their actions patently advertising that they were out for high scoring, and the team could drag along if it wanted to.

"Doc" Jacobs, Villanova's veteran basketball coach, who has never before turned out even a mediocre team, is at a loss to account for the poor showing. Influences are at work within the squad, which he is powerless to combat; it is not poor basketball which is losing for Villanova, it is poor spirit. The entire squad seems to be disorganized, and lacking in ability to function as a unit, so necessary in a basketball team.

In the St. John's game, Villanova outscored their opponents from the floor, 11 to 12, but St. John's capitalized on the foul line and converted 11 free tosses to Villanova's 7.

ST. JOHN'S

	G.	F.	P.
Kaplinsky, forward, guard	2	2	6
Rush, forward, center	3	1	7
Young, center	1	3	5
Golkin, guard	0	1	1
McGuire, guard, forward	4	3	11
Mancuso, guard	1	1	3
Totals	11	11	33

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Geraghty, forward	2	0	4
Dugan, forward, guard	3	2	8
O'Meara, forward	0	1	1
Brennan, center	3	2	8
McNally, guard	0	0	0
Robinson, guard	0	0	0
Collins, guard	1	0	2
Totals	9	5	23

Score by halves:

St. John's	17	16—33
Villanova	12	11—23

Referees—Emery and Halas. Time—20 minutes.

MANHATTAN

	G.	F.	P.
Kenny, forward	1	0	2
Metsack, forward	2	2	6
T. Ryan, guard	2	1	5
McNulty, guard	3	0	6
Flannagan, guard	2	4	8
Volpe, guard	1	0	2
Totals	11	12	34

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Geraghty, forward	5	2	12
O'Meara, forward	2	2	6
Brennan, center	0	3	3
McNally, guard	1	1	3
T. Ryan, guard	0	1	1
Noonan, guard	0	0	0
Totals	11	9	31

Score first half—Villanova, 15; Manhattan, 14. Referee—Emery.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE

	G.	F.	P.
Gallagher, lf	5	0	10
Hagattoun, lf	0	0	0
Carew, rf	4	3	11
Ploski, rf	0	0	0
Bobinski, c	5	5	15
Devin, lg	0	2	2
Collins, lg	2	0	4
Smith, rg	2	0	4
Bluedon, rg	0	0	0
Totals	18	10	46

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
O'Meara, lf	6	0	12
Geraghty, rf	0	1	1
Noonan, rf	2	1	5
Brennan, c	4	1	9
McNally, lg	1	2	4
Ryan, rg	2	0	4
Robinson, rg	0	0	0
E. Collins, lg	0	0	0
Totals	15	7	37

Referees—Feldman and Winters.

Temple and St. John Frosh Bow to 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

points. He received little support from his teammates, however.

This was the first defeat for the Temple lads in more than two years. It will be remembered that the Broad St. boys were the only ones to conquer last year's Kittens.

In their eighth consecutive triumph the Frosh received their first real test of the season in barely defeating a strong St. John's Frosh quintet. It was not until the closing seconds that victory was assured.

Johnny Krutulis netted a point from the free-throw line shortly after the opening whistle, and then the Red Shirts, led by Palmer, found the hoop for eight counters. A basket by Dubino started a short rally by the victors but the Metropolitans increased their lead to seven points, to lead 16-9 at halftime. Lloyd tallied seven of the 16 markers.

There was more action in the second half. Vigilante counted on a free toss, and the Main Liners had started. A basket, a foul, and three more baskets put the homesters in the van at 19-18. Amarosso looped a double decker to change the lead, but Vigilante countered with another field goal.

Palmer's foul knotted the count and then the visitors assumed a 26-22 lead. Aa basket by Krutulis put the hosts within striking distance. Joe Hopkins, former Malvern star, chose this moment to sink the first of his two goals, tying the score at 26-26. A foul by Lloyd, put St. John's ahead until Dubino tallied a foul to bring the winners even with their opponents. With less than a minute to play, Hopkins then pushed in his second basket of the night to provide the winning margin.

Amarosso, of the visitors, accumulated 11 markers to pace the pointmakers. Five twinpointers and a foul comprised his score. Dubino led the Felines with three each of fouls and goals for nine counts. Seven tallies fell to the lot of Montgomery, who was banished on personals late in the game, causing the re-entry of Hopkins into the fray.

In both of the last two victories the Thirty-Niners demonstrated their ability to outlast the opposition, scoring more in the latter half than the former on both occasions.

Lineups:

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	0	3	3
Dempsey, forward	0	0	0
Hopkins, forward	1	0	2
Carrig, forward	0	0	0
Dubino, center	4	2	10
Burlington, center	0	0	0
Vigilante, guard	2	0	4
Wanamaker, guard	0	0	0
Krutulis, guard	4	3	11
Kuber, guard	0	0	0
Hobson, guard	0	0	0
Totals	18	7	43

TEMPLE

	G.	F.	P.
Rattora, forward	0	1	1
Walters, forward	0	2	2
Duffy, forward	0	0	0
Chapman, center	3	1	7
Kolman, center	0	0	0
Shapiro, guard	1	5	7
Mascii, guard	0	0	0
Black, guard	5	6	16
Cassuci, guard	0	0	0
Totals	9	15	33

Score by halves:

Villanova	20	23—43
Temple	17	16—33

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	2	3	7
Dempsey, forward	1	2	4
Krutulis, forward	1	2	4
Carrig, forward	0	0	0
Dubino, center	3	4	10
Wanamaker, guard	0	0	0
Hopkins, guard	2	0	4
Vigilante, guard	1	1	3
Totals	10	9	29

ST. JOHN'S

	G.	F.	P.
Gorman, forward	0	2	2
Tumiello, forward	0	0	0
Lloyd, forward	3	2	8
Gerhard, forward	0	0	0
Palmer, center	2	1	5
Anderson, center	0	1	1
Amarosso, guard	5	1	11
Sweeney, guard	0	0	0
Krolovic, guard	0	0	0
DeLuca, guard	0	0	0
Totals	10	7	27

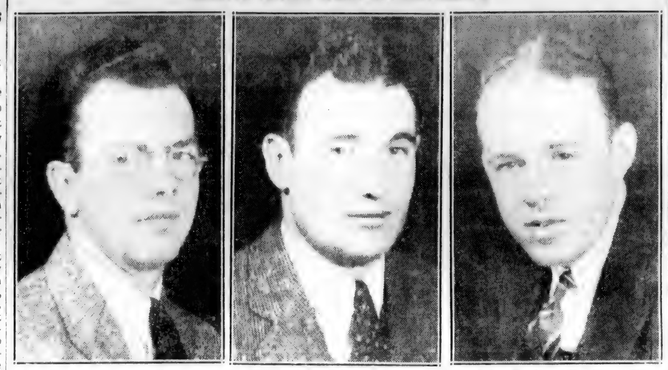
Score by halves:

Villanova	9	20—29
St. John's	16	11—27

Belle Air Group Pictures Scheduled For February 24

	PHOTOGRAPH	PLACE	TIME
1.	Junior Class	New Gymnasium	1:00 P. M.
2.	Sophomore Class	New Gymnasium	1:15 P. M.
3.	Orientation Committee	New Gymnasium	1:20 P. M.
4.	Freshman Class	New Gymnasium	1:30 P. M.
5.	Holy Name Society	New Gymnasium	1:45 P. M.
6.	A. S. M. E.	New Gymnasium	1:55 P. M.
7.	A. S. C. E.	New Gymnasium	2:10 P. M.
8.	A. I. E. E.	New Gymnasium	2:25 P. M.
9.	Phi Kappa Pi	New Gymnasium	2:30 P. M.
10.	Cheer Leaders	New Gymnasium	2:45 P. M.
11.	Belle Air Staff	New Gymnasium	3:15 P. M.
12.	Intramural Committee	New Gymnasium	3:30 P. M.
13.	Boxing Team	New Gymnasium	3:45 P. M.
14.	Basketball	New Gymnasium	4:00 P. M.
15.	Swimming Team	Pool	4:15 P. M.

RECEIVE JUNIOR WEEK APPOINTMENTS



Reading from left to right are John McLaughlin, Edward McDevitt, and John Burke, who have been appointed by William Cleary, Junior Class president, to head committees during the May Junior Week festivities. Mr. Burke, an Artsman, is chairman of the entire Junior Week; Mr. McDevitt, a business student, is chairman of the Blazer Ball Committee, and Mr. McLaughlin is chairman of the Junior Dinner-Dance Committee

William Cleary Announces Junior Week Chairmen and Committees

Continued From Page One

dance will be given fo. the juniors with John T. McLaughlin, a student in the School of Science, as head of this particular committee.

The Blue Blazer Ball will be held on May 7 at which time the Juniors will wear their traditional blazers, emblems of the Juniors. Edward McDevitt, of the Business School, will be chairman of the Blue Blazer Ball Committee, and Raymond Murphy, of the same school, will be at the head of the Blazer Committee.

Week Ends With Prom

The grand finale will occur on Junior Prom night, and when this evening is concluded, what promises to be a successful Junior Week will have come to a termination.

No definite decision has been rendered as to the date of Open House, but Gerald Kunz, of the Engineering School, will be the managing individual of the committee. Various exhibitions are presented in conjunction with Open House.

Mr. Cleary urges the whole-hearted cooperation of both chairmen and their respective committees in all matters relevant to the largest social event ever attempted by the class. In addition, he earnestly solicits the concurrence of every member of the Junior Class.

Chairmen Meet Tomorrow

Mr. Cleary announced that there will be a very important meeting of all chairmen tomorrow in Room 216, Mendel Hall. It is essential that all chairmen put in an appearance. Formulation of plans will immediately be discussed so as to get an early start in this great undertaking.

The following are the chairmen and their respective committees, as released by Mr. Cleary:

Chairman of Junior Week—John J. Burke.

Junior Prom General Committee—John F. Chapple and Aloysius L. Fitzpatrick, co-chairmen; Robert M. Brown, Frank Bonetti, James F. Douglass, Edward J. Donovan, Benedict Maleney, Raymond W. Mullen, Philip G. Kramer, Frank G. Winterer, John Cronin, John J. Grace, John B. Geraghty, Norman C. Paden, John F. Noll and Pasquale Vassallzuzo.

Junior Prom Decoration Committee—William Mink, chairman; Anthony Differ, Emilo Tamburri, John McManus, Theodore Osbahr, Richard Foote, Robert Guinee, Joseph Tanzola and Gerald Piserchia.

Junior Prom Publicity Committee—Philip Murray, chairman; Harry Parkin, Joseph She.

Dinner-Dance Committee—John T. McLaughlin, chairman; Charles Dugan, Walter Kruysa, Constantine Constantine, Francis Williams, Samuel Nigrelli, Thomas Flaherty, Pasquale Guarini, Manrico Tronelliti.

Blazer Ball Committee—Edward McDevitt, chairman; Edward Kelley, Charles Betz, George Collins, Mario Henocal, James Ordille, Albert Mayell John Bruno, John Mullin.

Blazer Committee — Raymond Murphy, chairman; Victor Ashe, Joseph Canuso, Miller Sullivan, Joseph Delaney, Edward Virusky, James McEvilly.

Mothers' Day Committee—Thomas Kennedy, chairman; John de la Cova, Edward A. McHugh, Joseph Duffy, Joseph Carroll.

Open House Committee—Gerald Kunz, chairman; Edward P. Corliss, Francis Carroll, Hugh J. Kearney, Paschal Linguiti, Peter Schettino, Eugene Barr.

Yearbook Photos To Start Monday

Continued From Page One

ratory instructors will be notified of the fact and no unpleasantness will be necessary.

To create still further interest in this important undertaking, letters have been sent to the presidents and moderators of the campus functions, stating the time and place of the picture taking.

It is the sincere wish of the staff of the annual that all Villanova students cooperate with the photographer by being on time for pictures and eliminating unnecessary delay. Those who are to appear in uniform should be ready to have their picture taken at the appointed time so that all will run smoothly. Students are earnestly requested to keep diligent watch of the bulletin boards and the VILLANOVAN for further instructions.

LONG ISLAND UNDEFEATED

Long Island University's basketball team is the only club in the East to boast of an undefeated record. In keeping their record intact the Islanders have won 23 games.

THREE SHARE HONORS

Three players are tied for the Eastern Intercollegiate League scoring honors. They are Barrett, of Penn; Toan, of Dartmouth, and Wilson, of Yale. Each has gathered 54 points.

BOWLING TOURNEY NOW IN PROGRESS

Ray Murphy and Schoppmeyer Urge More Day-Hop Entrants

In keeping with the intramural winter sports program, Ray Murphy and Leo Schoppmeyer are successfully conducting the bowling tourney. The intense rivalry shown between the various halls in the other intramural activities is being brought forth more conspicuously in this than in other tournaments.

Of all the halls represented, Austin leads with the most candidates. Alumni and Fedigan are also ably represented, but the Dayhops as yet have not put forth an appearance. This tournament differs from all other intramural events in that the candidates are striving for a certain goal. This goal is new sport jackets to the winners. The money to offset this expense will be paid by the entrance fee charged to the participants.

The tournament has been going on for one week, and all the games have been heatedly contested; but as yet no one has a commanding lead, although Austin Hall leads by slight margin. Both Murphy and Schoppmeyer have been pleasantly surprised by the number of entrants, but still they are not satisfied and urge more participants from both Dayhop sections. This tournament is serving as an experiment and will not be renewed unless a greater interest is shown.

VILLANOVA SEES DICKINSON AS END OF LOSING STREAK

Red Devils Here Tomorrow Night With Wildcats In Revengeful Mood

Villanova-Temple Frosh Meet Again Tomorrow

Villanova's freshmen created a stir in basketball circles last Friday when they handed Temple's yearlings their first setback in two and one-half years. The score of 43-33 ended a 28-game winning streak.

The two arch-rivals will meet in a return game at Villanova tomorrow preliminary to the Villanova - Dickinson varsity scrap.

It just doesn't seem to be in the cards for Villanova College's Basketball team to taste victory. The losing streak of the Wildcats reached eight in a row, the longest in recent years, when they bowed to Manhattan, 34-31, at the Arena on Friday, and yielded to Providence, 46-37, on Saturday at Providence.

However, the Main Liners are positive that they've slipped as far as they can go and they have high hopes of breaking into the win column Wednesday when they entertain Dickinson here. In their previous game at Carlisle the Red Devils won out by a point.

Providence, considered one of the leading teams in the East and an Olympic prospect, set a blistering pace and led from the outset. The Wildcats rallied repeatedly and several times cut the lead to within two points, but everytime they threatened Providence would put on pressure and draw away.

Mike O'Meara, former North Catholic star, and Don Brennan, paced the Wildcats at Providence. The former scored six field goals and the latter tallied four twinpointers and a foul for 12 and nine points, respectively.

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED .. 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed ..... 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

Red and Blue Foes Fall Before 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

Blue won two bouts, one by a technical K. O. and the other by a decision.

Penn Leader Beaten

Joe Carrig, fighting in the 155 division, gained a three round decision over Bernie Rothschild, Penn captain. Rothschild boxed in the 165 class last season.

Carl Pantaleo, who employs "Jumping" Joe Savoldi's ring tactics of bouncing back from the ropes, was awarded a decision over Victor Stango. Carl repeatedly threw his dynamite left hook to Stango's jaw and pressed the fight throughout the three rounds.

Buzz Davis was the lone Wildcat to win by a technical knockout. Davis proved his victory over hard-hitting Yauch in the intra-murals was no fluke by relentlessly slugging his way to a K. O. victory over Bryan, of Penn. Buzz fought in the 175 class.

Johnny Krutilis was held to a draw by Sig Elfant; while Essick, of Penn, forfeited to Brobowski.

Lyons Drops Hard One

Jimmie Lyons, the only other member of last year's team besides Tony Sala to return this season, lost a close one to Esterson. The bout went the full three rounds. Although the fight was close there was no doubt of the verdict of the judges. Lyons fought in the 115 division.

The surprising bout of the evening was the clash between Villanova's Jack Jarosik and Sol Maksik. Jarosik, a middle-weight, was hailed as another Tony Sala by the Villanova supporters. His bout was stopped in the second round by referee Hayes, and justly so. Maksoik stagged Jarosik with a right in the first round that just about assured the spectators as to the outcome. Maksik fought in the 155 division last season and won every match.

The Wildcats have made a wonderful showing in this, their first meet, and by all appearances have a good chance of going through the season undefeated. Much of the credit is due to the coach, Ray Gadsby, who is giving all his time and ability to the turning out of a wining boxing team.

Summary:

Jimmie Lyons, Villanova, lost decision to Esterson, Penn, 115 division.

Pantaleo, Villanova, won decision over Stango, Penn, 125 divisoin.

Browbowski, Villanova, won by forfeit from Essick, Penn, 135 division.

Krutilis, Villanova, drew with Elfant, Penn, 115 division.

Carrig, Villanova, won decision over Rothschild ,Penn, 155 division.

Jarosik, Villanova, lost by T. K. O. to Maksik, Penn, in second round, 165 division.

Davis, Villanova, won by T. K. O. over Bryan, Penn, in third round, 175 division.

Sala, Villanova, won decision over Mauger, Penn, unlimited.

Here and There

By EDWARD L. COLLINS

JOE FOLEY, ex-Wildcat boxing instructor, has been invited by Jack Dempsey to participate in an elimination heavyweight tournament in an effort to find a "white hope."...It looks as though Joe Louis will continue his sway over the heavyweights for quite some time...Foley has been keeping in condition by daily workouts at nearby sporting centers and says that he is in fine physical shape... This "white hope" business has every, Tom, Dick and Harry trying his luck in an effort to secure a shot at the Brown Bomber, but so far no one has been able to accomplish anything...

The recent game against St. John's College of Brooklyn indicates that the Wildcat basketeers have a much better team than the season's record indicates...The Brooklyn outfit was beaten by N. Y. U. by five points and holds a decision over Georgetown, who conquered the Violets...Meaning that the Villanova aggregation can cope with the best of them...The games lost on the road are hard to explain unless you happened to be an eye-witness...

It happened quite a while ago but just to fill up space I'll recall an incident that happened in the Dickinson game...With less than 30 seconds remaining and the scoreboard showing Dickinson ahead by a 31-30 count a Villanova player INTENTIONALLY fouled his opponent. Why? Well, if the Dickinson player made the foul the ball would automatically go to the opposing team...If he missed Villanova would have a 50-50 chance of securing the ball. Before the Dickinson player shot the foul the players were informed by the officials that the score was 31-31...That the scoreboard was wrong...Kerstetter stepped to the 15-foot mark and proceeded to deposit the point that meant victory...Tough break, eh. Well, the basketball team has been getting breaks like that all season. ...And let me give credit where credit is due...Collins, Villanova guard, was reported to have committed the foul...The report was erroneous...It was a very smart play and the perpetrator of the crime was none other than Jack Robinson...Robby was a step ahead of the rest of the team...

The swimming team is having a fine year with three victories under its belt...The Frosh have helped to balance the team a great deal...And speaking of Freshmen, the boxing team has quite a number of first-year men listed for starting berths...Joe Carrig, Jersey City flash, looks like a very promising fisticuffer and a sure point-getter in dual meets...It would not surprise the writer to see Carrig visit Penn State and participate in the intercollegiates along with defending champion Sala...Spring football practice is underway with most of the yearlings working out daily in the gym.

Sportorial

By the Sports Editor

Continued From Page Five

the Irish took the game made it very clear that the Violets can and will be beaten again.

* * *

Through this column we wish to extend our congratulations to Ray Gadsby, newly appointed boxing coach, who lead the Wildcats to their first victory of the campaign last Saturday night against the Quakers. Ray has made quite an impression with the fellows around the campus and his pleasing personality combined with patience has been instrumental in bringing out candidates for the squad.

* * *

The recent win acquired by the Frosh team at the expense of the Temple Owlets makes for us the liberty to express an opinion that the charges of Al Severance are among the best of the basketball teams that have been produced on the Villanova campus.

...As soon as the weather becomes more favorable, the boys will go outdoors...It will not be long before the ball tossers begin to limber up in preparation for a heavy schedule that includes some of the Eastern intercollegiate teams...

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 16 VILLANOVA., PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Villanova Publications on Display in Rome

Fr. ALBERS ANNOUNCES CURRENT EVENTS TEST WILL BE GIVEN HERE

Contest Will Be Sponsored at College on May 2d By Time, The Weekly News Magazine

OVER $75 IN PRIZES TO BE AWARDED

Villanova College is to participate in a series of Current Affairs Contests, which will be held at a number of colleges in the United States on Saturday, May 2, and for which TIME, The Weekly Newsmagazine, will provide comprehensive factual tests and prizes totalling over $75.

The Villanova Contest, to be held under the supervision of the Rev. B. M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of the College, will be open to all undergraduates. The awards offered to Villanova students by TIME, include a first prize of $25; Second Prize of $20; Third Prize of $10, and four Fourth Prizes of $5.00; one to each of the next highest ranking participants in each of the four undergraduate departments of the College.

In addition, a year's subscription to TIME will be given to all non-prize winenrs who make honor scores on the Test.

The type of Test to be used in the competition as well as the liberal prize distribution should arouse general interest and attract participation of many students. The Test will be especially prepared by Alvin C. Eurich and Elmo C. Wilson of the Committee on Educational

Continued on Page Two

COLLEGE PREPARES TO OBSERVE LENT

Exercises Commence Tonight With Address by President Of College

The Holy Lenten Season schedule for the students was released yesterday by Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., chaplain.

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, will address the gathering at chapel service tonight on the spirit of Lent.

In an endeavor to enable the students to derive all the spiritual benefits that are possible, sermons by various members of the college clerical faculty will be delivered every Tuesday evening during the Holy Lenten Season.

The Stations of the Cross will be observed by the students every Friday at 1 o'clock. The purpose of setting the time in the afternoon is to enable the day students and professors, as well as the residence

Continued on Page Two

SENIORS RELEASE PROFITS REPORT

States Income From Senior Weekend Activities Net Class $348.22

Release was made yesterday of the final and official financial statement of the Senior Class by William Vaughn, class president.

$348.22 in profit was realized from the affairs of the recent Senior Weekend, This amount, according to the voted intention of the class, has been deposited toward the Class of '36 Scholarship Fund in the Bryn Mawr Trust Company.

The class still has a bank account from last year's Junior Week profits totalling $209.48. There will be a class meeting today, probably to determine what shall be done with these funds.

Expenses for Senior Weekend totalled $2405.98, the largest item being $1150.00 for the Belle Air Ball

Continued on Page Five

Rev. John F. Burns Asked to Write Historical Drama

Catholic Historical Society of Philadelphia Makes Request

Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Ph. D., Dean of the School of Arts and Letters, has been asked by the Catholic Historical Society of Philadelphia to write a pageant or drama depicting some phase of Catholic achievement, the work to be presented next fall.

It had been the plan of the society to produce a drama on Sir Thomas More last fall, this also written by Fr. Burns; but due to the short notice he forebore to do it.

As yet Fr. Burns has no declared just whether the theme of his work will concern Columbus or Joan of Arc. The choice of either of these two is left to the society. The announcement of the decision of the society is expected to be released in the very near future.

SENIORS MEET TODAY

There will be an important meeting of the entire Senior Class today at 1:00 P. M. in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall. The class's financial standing will be discussed along with other proposed matters.

ENGINEERS PLAN TRIPS

Combined Groups to Visit Richmond Station of Phila. Electric Co.

Inspection trips by the combined Engineering Societies for March will include a visit to the Richmond Station of the Philadelphia Electric Company.

The engineering station contains one of the largest generating units in the world and in order that the students may more fully realize the importance of its operation, they will first attend a lecture to be given by two engineers, one mechanical and the other an electrical engineer, at the Philadelphia Electric Company's auditorium in central Philadelphia.

Praises Catholic Press Activities

HIS HOLINESS POPE PIUS XI, who is encouraging Catholic Press Exhibition with praises for the work of Catholic journals. This picture of the Pope was taken in 1922, one week before the Archbishop of Milan was elected to the Papacy.

STUDENT RATINGS RELEASED BY DEANS

Honor Rolls in Schools Of Technology and Commerce And Finance Published

The honor rating for the first semester for the School of Engineering and the School of Commerce and Finance have been released by the deans of the respective schools, Carl T. Humphrey, D. Sc., and Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, Ph. D., O. S. A.

In both these schools the freshmen honor men were more numerous than those in the upper classes.

In commenting upon the honor roll, Dean Humphrey said, "Today's college man recognizes that employers probe more deeply every year into the qualification of 'prospects,' and that he can offer evidence not only of ability and sound mental training, but also of cathollcity of interest, of energy, reing personality.

"A study of the records of the present student body furnishes ensourcefulness and strong and pleascouraging evidence that young men

Continued on Page Two

ATTENDS EXERCISES

Rev. B. M. Albers, O. S. A., Guest at Temple Founders' Day

Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of Villanova College, represented the college at the Founder's Day Observance exercises held at Temple University, Saturday last and also the dedication of the new library.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt was presented with the honorary degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence at the exercises.

Among the guests were Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Gov. George H. Earle.

FIRST WORLD WIDE REVIEW OF CATHOLIC PRESS TO BE HELD

His Holiness Pope Pius XI Selects Site in Vatican City for Exhibit Building

54 NATIONS WILL BE REPRESENTED

By HARRY PARKIN

All of Villanova's publications will be included in the international Exposition of the Catholic Press, which is to be held at Vatican City this year. This will be the first world-wide review of Catholic action and sentiment as represented by the Catholic Press that has ever been held.

Fifty-four nations, representing every part of the globe, have been invited and signified their intention of taking part in the exhibit, which will be a unified revelation of the effective methods, and diversified fields in which Catholic thought and action is being exercised for the spiritual and physical betterment of mankind.

Here will be shown the unity and Catholicity that is typical of the Faith. One in doctrine, but universal in activities. Here will be found an impressive representation of the daily events in the life of Catholicity as represented by her newspapers.

Periodicals, which embody the finest and highest principles of contemporary thought, typical of her interest and association with literature, science, education, Youth Guidance, world peace and social stability will likewise be prominently displayed. It will be a complete

Continued on Page Three

GUILD TO SPONSOR ANNUAL CARD PARTY

Affair Will Be Held April 21 Is Announcement of Father Brown

The Augustinian Seminary Guild will hold its third annual card party on Tuesday, April 21. This announcement was divulged by Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., chaplain of the college.

This affair was formulated for the purpose of assisting the young men to secure an education for the study of the priesthood in the Augustinian Order.

There will be a very important meeting in the Villanova Monastery on Wednesday, March 4, to discuss plans for the coming affair.

All the priests from the different surrounding territories are invited to attend. Committees will be taken from the following districts: Chestnut Hill, Germantown, Rosemont, Ardmore, South Philadelphia, West Philadelphia Burling-

Continued on Page Two

Executive Group Of A. A. C. Holds Regular Meeting

Very Rev. E. V. Stanford Attends as Member of Executive Board

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, attended a meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Association of Colleges at the offices of the Association in New York City last Tuesday.

At this gathering of the group a report was given by the committee which consists of such outstanding men as: James R. McCain, of Agnes Scott College, president; James L. McConaughty, Wesleyan University, vice-president; Leroy E. Kimball, Comptroller of N. Y. U., treasurer; Henry M. Wriston, president of Laurence College; Robert M. Lester, secretary of the Carnegie Corporation, and Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati.

JUNIORS MEET TOMORROW

The entire Junior Class will convene tomorrow at 1:00 P. M. in Room 215 Mendel Hall to discuss vital problems relevant to the proposed plans for the Junior Week activities to be held in May.

COLLEGE OF ARTS POSTS SCHEDULE

Comprehensive Exams For Seniors Start Mar. 9; Based On Fundamental Subjects

According to a decision of the faculty arrived at on November 7, 1935, the comprehensive examinations for Seniors in the School of Arts and Philosophy will be given on March 9 and will continue until March 19.

These examinations are being given their initial trials in determining the ability of the members of the graduating class in the fundamental subjects.

Never before in the history of Villanova College were comprehensive examinations given to the members of the Arts School. It is hoped by Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., dean, that the seniors will

Continued on Page Six

DEAN WELL PLEASED

Results of Freshman Intelligence Quizzes Gratifying, Says Fr. Burns

It has been announced by Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Ph. D., Dean of the School of Arts and Letters, that the results of the intelligence examinations given to the freshmen arts students were most gratifying.

Every member of the class was above normal in the tests while more than half the class achieved ratings that were far above the average ratings attained by groups that have taken tests of this nature.

"The freshman class in the School of Arts gives hopeful promise of great academic achievement," states Fr. Burns, which fact is only too evident in the results of their classwork

LEADERS OF JUNIOR WEEK BEGIN PLANS FOR MAY AFFAIRS

All Chairmen Attend Organizing Meeting Presided Over By President Cleary

PLAN TO CONTACT MANY PROMINENT ORCHESTRAS

Class to Decide Dates Tomorrow for Dinner-Dance and Open House

Further negotiations and plans for the Junior Week activities program were discussed at a meeting of the chairmen of the committees concerned with the success of this May-time frolic.

The meeting, held last Wednesday, was presided over by William B. Cleary, head of the junior class. In attendance at this session were the following chairmen: John J. Burke, general chairman; John F. Chapple and Aloysius Fitzpatrick, co-chairman of the Junior Promenade Committee; Phillip Murray, Junior Prom publicity committee; John T. McLaughlin, Dinner-dance committee; Edward McDevitt, Blazer Ball committee; Raymond Murphey, Blazer committee; Thomas Kennedy, Mothers' Day committee; Gerald Kunz, Open House committee.

This annual affair will be one of the most colorful occasions of the scholastic year. Commencing on Monday, May 4, the Junior Week program will continue throughout the week and come to a climax with the Junior Prom on Friday evening.

Many important subjects were brought up at the meeting. Outstanding among these were plans to make contacts with many of the popular dance orchestras, among which were considered Kay Kaiser, Wayne King, Vincent Lopez, Hal Kemp, Benny Goodman, Fats Waller, Herby Kay, Ozzie Nelson and Ted Flo Rita.

Bids for Junior Blazers will be accepted from all prominent business houses interested in their manufacture. The traditional Villanova Blazer is a blue jacket trimmed in white with a white embroidered seal of the village superimposed on the left breast, or a white jacket carrying a blue seal in the same position.

The Mothers' Day program was considered at great length in this meeting. As is the custom of the college, this day has been set aside for the exclusive entertainment of the mothers of the students. A varied program of activities was discussed among those being, selections rendered by the Glee Club, a demonstration by the swimmers followed by a luncheon in the late afternoon.

The date for the Junior Dinner-dance is as yet undecided. At the dance favors will be presented to the ladies according to the usual custom. The mementoes, this year, will surpass in quality those of recent years, predict Junior Class officials.

At a meeting of the entire Junior Class, to be held Wednesday in Room 213, Mendel Hall, many of the tentative plans will be further discussed. Permanent dates for the Dinner-Dance and Open House Day will be decided upon at this meeting. The assessment for the Junior Class members will be definitely settled at this session. Because of the importance of this meeting, all members of the class are expected to attend. Cooperation and solid backing of this memorable occasion are earnestly requested by Mr. Cleary.

John Donovan, chairman of the Junior Ring committee, reports that a sample of this year's Junior ring will be in his possession during the latter part of the week. The ring will be open for the examination of the Junior Class members.

FR. STANFORD GUEST OF HONOR

On Tuesday, Feb. 18, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O.S.A., president of Villanova College together with Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore College and Frank K. Hyatt, president of Pennsylvania Military College, were the guests of honor at a dinner given by the Eastern Pennsylvania Branch of the National Economy League at the Spring Haven Country Club at Wallingford, Pa.

PROMINENT JUNIORS RECEIVE APPOINTMENTS

Raymond Murphy and Thomas Kennedy, members of the School of Commerce and Finance, who have received appointments to head the Junior Committees for Blazers and Mothers' Day respectively for the May Junior Week festivities. Gerald Kunz, right, student in the School of Technology, was appointed by the Junior Class president, William Cleary, to act as chairman for the large Open House Day program.

Current Events Test to Be Given

Continued From Page One

Research of the University of Minnesota, co-authors of the Cooperative Contemporary Affairs Test for the American Council on Education.

The questions will cover significant happenings between January 1st and April 15th in various fields —National Affairs, Foreign News, Transport, Science, Business and Finance, Books, and Music and Art. The proper answer to each question is to be selected from five given alternatives and designated without comment.

Thus, the examination is simple, quick entertaining and requires no advance preparation other than the regular and careful reading of newspapers or newsmagazines.

Similar TIME Tests on Current Affairs, heretofore never used on any competitive basis, have been published for colleges and larger schools on three previous occasions and subsequently reprinted in TIME because of the interest they created.

A year ago, when the original Test was distributed first to students and later made available through the magazines, the Editors blandly suggested that readers send their answers in to the TIME Offices. They lived to regret the suggestion, except for the unmistakable proof it furnished of reader interest. Before the flood of correspondence ended, 38,823 answer sheets had found their way to TIME'S Office.

Hopefully, from every corner of the globe came responses of businessmen, lawyers, clergy, school teachers, housewives, mechanics, doctors reporters and miscellaneous newshounds. When it was all over and the results tabulated, figures showed that the average man was better informed on Current affairs than the average woman.

Most alarming figure on the reports was the average 55 percent for all college answers giving college undergraduates a score 18 percent lower than people outside of college. Students were variously excused by their champions on the grounds that whereas individual subscribers might elect to send in only especially meritorious reports, conscientious teachers probably ruthlessly tallied all results, good and bad, and sent them in.

Those planning to enter the Contest and compete for the several cash prizes and the unlimited number of "honor score" subscriptions would do well to begin following the important news regularly and closely and to review the events of the past two months.

For those interested in seeing a copy of the latest TIME Test, not unlike the one to be the basis of the May 2nd Contest, a copy is available in the office of the vice-president No. 220 Mendel Hall, or it will be found reprinted in the February 24th issue of TIME, now in the College Library and elsewhere about the campus as usual. Subsequently, announcement will be made as to registration, the only entrance requirement for the Contest. Watch for notices as to the place and hour at which the Test will be given.

GLEE CLUB MEETING

The College Choral Society will meet Thursday night at 7 P. M. in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium. All members are requested to be prompt.

Arts School Dean Pens Article For Irish Publication

Fr. Burns Writes Biographical Sketch for Good Council Magazine

The editors of the Good Council Magazine published in Ireland by the Augustinian Order will print in thei rnext issue a biographical sketch written by Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Ph. D., Dean of the School of Arts and Letters, of the life of Rev. John Rosseter, O. S. A.

Fr. Rosseter was a pioneer Augustinian in the United States, being associated with founders of the Augustinian organization in this country. Fr. Rosseter came to this country in 1794, labored for the most part in Philadelphia and vicinity, and died at St. Thomas Manor in Maryland.

This work of Fr. Burns is based on letters of Fr. Rossetер that have been recently printed by Rev. Francis E. Tourscher, O. S. A., in the Records of the Ameircan Catholic Historical Society.

Student Ratings Released by Deans

Continued From Page One

appreciate fully their need for these qualifications, and the fact that they will never again have so good an oportunity to acquire them as while they are in college, here their supervisors are without exception their friends."

The honor rolls as released in the respective schools is as follows:

School of Engineering

FRESHMEN: in order of their general averages) Welty, F.; Bicher, L. B.; Coneen, E. M.; Mozzi, F. J.; MacGregor, R. E.; Mellan-Zobel, Alf.; Cirrito, A. J.

The rating for the upperclassmen are given in alphabetical order and not according to averages. This fact is due to the number of various divisions in the School of Engineering.

SOPHOMORES: Courtin, J. J.; Gornowski, E. J.; Martz, W. B.; Melian, Raul; Simons, J. L.; Strong, R.

JUNIORS: Barr, E. A.; Casey, E. J.; Fister, E. J.; Menocal, M. J.; Williams, F. P.

SENIORS: d'Annunzio, C. V.; Doherty, J. F.; Gallagher, F. W.; Schlotterback, F. J.; Vaughn, W. C.

School of Commerce and Finance

The list is in order of standing.

FRESHMEN: Klein, N.; McHenry, B.; O'Brien, J. Cosiello, J.; Bishop, G.; Bobrowski, S.; Golden, L.; Henry, J.; Matsinger, H. Tofani, J.; Smith, W.

SOPHOMORES: Olivari, J.; Connolly, R.; Bowker, W.; McGarrity, F.; Volpe, C.; Alessandroni, J.

JUNIORS: Mink W.; Murray, P.; Cleary, W.; Quinn, J. K.; McDevitt, J.; Betz, C.

SENIORS: Walley, R.; Wrona, G.; Henry, J.; Erbeck, J.; Schelle, C.; Finan, T.

LOST

1. Gray Waterman fountain pen —John L. Simons, 105 Fedigan.
2. Black Parker fountain pen— Albert Laun, 107 Fedigan.

NOTE—All found articles should be turned in to the VILLANOVAN office or the bookroom not later than Friday noon of the week preceding the publication of the newspaper.

College Prepares To Observe Lent

Continued From Page One

students, an opportunity of attending these devotions.

The daily Masses are arranged in a very convenient manner so as to give all students attending college every privilege of attending Mass.

Daily Masses will be at 6:30 A. M., 7:00 A. M. and 8:00 A. M. Confessions, during Lent, will be heard every day before the 7 o'clock and 8 o'clock Masses, and also on Wednesday evenings after chapel services.

During the coming Lenten Season, the spiritual life of the student at Villanova will, as in past years, be given every consideration. Of course, the students are expected to avail themselves of the opportunities that are presented while attending Villanova in order to prepare themselves for the obstacles which they will encounter, and the combates they will assail when they leave college and go forth with into the outside world.

It is hoped that the students will take every advantage that is presented and attend Daily Masses, receiving Holy Communion as frequently as possible.

Fr. Brown announced that the services of the scholastic choir is being secured to render a sacred concert before the Easter vacation, probably on April 6.

Other Lenten sermons are as follows: On March 3, Rev. T. A. Kiley, O. S. A., will address the evening chapel gathering on Conversion. Rev. J. M. Dougherty, O. S. A., will render the Holy Hour on March 5. A discussion of prayer will be given by Rev. P. F. O'Shea, O. S. A., on March 10. Rev. John M. Sparrow, O. S. A., who has not selected his topic for sermon as yet, will speak on March 17. On successive weeks Rev. J. F. Burns, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Arts and Philosophy; Rev. J. S. O'Leary, O. S. A., and Rev. F. T. Coan, O. S. A., will discuss Salvation, Confession, and Passion respectively.

Guild to Sponsor Annual Card Party

Continued From Page One

ton, N. J., and Atlantic City, N. J.

During the course of the meeting various committees will be formed, and priests will be appointed as captains or directors. It is more than likely that this year the different committees will be augmented by new members. Among the committees will be those for refreshment, prizes, tickets, chances and programs. It is expected that within the coming week the tickets and chances will be distributed and mailed to the many friends and patrons of the Augustinian Fathers.

It is hoped that sufficient funds will be raised at this card party to lighten the heavy financial burden of the Augustinian Order.

CATHOLIC PEACE GROUP HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

On Saturday last the Executive Committee of the Catholic Association for International Peace held a meeting at its offices in Washington, D. C. Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, as a member of the executive committee attended the meeting.

Are You Interested in Catholic Thought and Action?

Subscribe to

The Christian Front

A New Monthly Magazine of Social Reconstruction

Subscription, $1.00 a year - 10c a copy

Foreign Subscription, $1.50 a year

Address: THE CHRISTIAN FRONT, Villanova, Pa.

VARSITY DEBATERS TO OPPOSE PENN

Supreme Court vs. Congress Is Issue Chosen as Topic For Contest

Members of the Villanova varsity debating team are primed for an important engagement with the University of Pennsylvania today. They will wage a home and home series with a University of Pennsylvania Evening School team on the question, Resolved, That Congress should be permitted to override by a two-thirds majority vote any decision of the Supreme Court declaring an Act of Congress unconstitutional.

Debaters John Chapple, William Corkill and Edward McDevitt will argue this question at the U. of P. taking the negative side. At the same time Joseph Carroll and Anthony Differ will argue the affirmative side of the question in a debate which will take place in Villanova's Amphitheatre.

The arguers are looking forward to winning this engagement, for a victory over the Pennsylvanians will be a warning to the Georgetowners, who appear here on this Tuesday a week.

Villanova debaters practice several times a week under the able guidance of Mr. Anthony Frayne, instructor of English. Mr. Frayne, in accord with Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., has stressed the importance of debating at Villanova and is anxious to give this subject as much publicity as possible. New candidates are welcome at any time to join the arguers.

On May 5 St. Joseph's College will participate in a debate with the Villanovans on the same question of the Supreme Court as a part of the College Junior Week festivities. Villanova is indeed honored by the St. Joseph's invitation, and it is assured that a hard contest will b.

54 Nations to Take Part In World Press Review

His Holiness Pope Pius XI Selects Beautiful Site in Vatican City for Exhibit Building for Catholic Journals day's record of the universal activities of the Catholic Press.

Continued From Page One

At the same time the exhibit will not only demonstrate, in a forceful and impressive manner the essential part played by the Press in the cultural and moral development of the people, but also stimulate interest, provoke assistance, and give a greater impulse to the development and reading of Catholic articles.

The Exposition will be the first opportunity of the Catholic Press to pay a concerted act of homage to His Holiness, Pope Pius XI. At the same time it is a project in which the Holy Father, himself has taken a deep and lively interest. Exerting himself at every opportunity to encourage and assure the sponsors of his personal co-operation. He actually designated the site—a beautiful vatican court—wherein the exhibit will be housed. Similarly has he provided that an artistic and commodious pavilion be built over this space in order that the whole display might be properly accommodated.

For the greater part of a year the beautiful Cortile della Pigna, facing which is the historic Nichione Bramantesco ,will be the site of the Exposition and one that will excite unusual interest. The magnitude of the plan is represented by the area which it will cover—63,000 sq. ft. This space will be supplemented by that of the rooms that open into the main hall.

In attending the exhibit the visitor enters the Vatican by way of the Porta di S. Anna, and passes immediately into the Cortile della Pigna, where the principle part of the Exposition will be located, which will be a representation of the historical development of printing. This pavilion opens into a rotunda from which a gallery leads to the Central Hall, where the Holy Father's reviewing stand will be located.

The walls of the Hall will be adorned with paintings, effectively illustrating the activities of the Catholic Press in defending, and spreading the teachings of the Church, as well as, fostering the spirit of universal peace among men. Opening in diadem formation, into the Hall will be 28 rooms, which will be devoted to the countries taking part in the exhibit.

The dominant character of the architectural design of the exhibition, and the one that will be maintained in the arrangement of the contributions, is that of unity. This will be typical of the solidarity, and singleness of purpose that is characteristic of the Church throughout the world.

In the setting the Catholic Press of America will be given a prominent place. Visitors from every land will have depicted for them in a graphic and extensive manner the progressive attitude of American publications.

A large and commodious space having been assigned to the United States, the point has been stressed that this country Has been expected to play an important part in the contributing of national exhibits. In order that this representation be as complete as possible the American committee has requested every periodical to participate. From the nation-wide response to its invitations there can be little doubt that America will be most adequately represented.

The Holy Father has taken so favorable a view in the development of this project, and the several national committees are exerting such tremendous efforts that its ultimate success has already been predicted.

The Exposition is being promoted by "Osservatore Romano," the official newsorgan of Vatican City, on the occasion of its 75th anniversary. Count Giuseppe Dalla Torre, editor of the "Osservatore" being the president of the executive committee.

FOUND

The following may be had by applying at the bookroom.

1. Black loose leaf notebook 6" by 8".
2. De Amicitia-Cicero, owned by W J. Doughterty.
3. 19th cCntury French Prose, owned by Ray Shugrue.
4. Small black leather cover.
5. Eight graph papers with sketches already on them.
6. Students Composition for College, Thomas, Manchester, Scott.

POPE LAUDS WORK OF CATHOLIC PRESS

"You Are My Voice" He Tells Group of Catholic News Writers

With the arrival of the Catholic Press month, comes the reminder of the increasing necessity of extending the influence of Catholic publications over the entire country.

No agency of the Church has received such frequent or warm approbation of the Holy Father as the Catholic Press. Pope Pius XI has said: "Anything that you will do for the Catholic Press I will consider as having been done for me personally."

More recently in speaking to a group of Catholic newspaper editors, he said, "You are my voice. I do not say that you make my voice heard, but that you are really my voice itself: for few, indeed, would be the number of the Children of our Common Father who could learn my wishes and thoughts without the aid of the Catholic Press."

This commendation from the Holy Father is hailed among Catholic editors as the highest and most praiseworthy recommendation of their efforts that is possible, as well as the one sanction that will induce Catholics to take a more active interest in the work of their periodicals.

Press Is Major Force

The Catholic Press is the only concerted force that is capable of counteracting the evil influences of a pagan and vitiated journalism. It has been called the only medium through which the Catholic world can be made cognizant of the moral break-down that is being brought about by the pernicious effects of unethical newspapers, immoral magazines and materialistic propaganda.

Similarly is it the only agency through which the false impression of Catholicism and Catholic principles, created by antagonistic publications, can be corrected. This is especially so in the case of Spain, Mexico, and Russia, where news dispatches must have the authority of government before the rest of the world may read them.

The Catholic Press has been called a graduate course in religion. It applies the doctrines of Catholicity to every field of modern life, and enables the reader to obtain a lucid, complete and succinct grasp of the Catholic viewpoint upon subjects that are often obscured by ulterior purposes.

It is important, if the Faith is to be made an influencing factor in the Catholic family, that Catholic newspapers and periodicals be made a prescribed part of the reading matter of the home. The month of February has been designated as the time when Catholics should not only outline for himself a definite course in Catholic reading but also make it a point to hee that others are introduced to the beneficial influences of such reading.

STUDENTS ARE REMINDED OF INFIRMARY HOURS

Students are reminded of the hours for treatment in the infirmary. In the morning the time is from 7:30 to 8:30; at noon from 12:30 to 1:30 P. M., and in the evening from 4:30 to 5:45 P. M. No visitors are allowed to call on sick persons except by permission from Rev. Charles P. Brown, Infirmarian.

ERECT CATHOLIC PRESS HALL

Within the shadow of St. Peter's rises the big hall for the International Catholic Press Exhibition which opens in the Vatican City this year. The photo shows the first section of the framework in position on the prepared site. A section of the exhibit will be devoted to the Catholic press of the United States, among which will be represented the VILLANOVAN.

ALUMNI FEDERATION HOLDS MEETING

John Gallen, '27, Appointed Temporary Chairman Of Phila. Chapter of N.C.A.F.

John J. Gallen, of the Class of '27, was appointed temporary chairman of the Philadelphia Chapter of the National Catholic Alumni Federation.

At the initial meeting of the Philadelphia Chapter, held on February 18, at the law offices of J. Stanley Smith, Esq., 707 Walnut St., it was agreed to have a local chapter at Philadelphia, with local representatives from 30 colleges invited to participate in the affairs of the organization.

The primary purposes of the society are to arouse interest in the many Catholic Activities, and to revive the fundamental concepts of the true nature of man.

Representatives from St. Joseph, La Salle, Temple, University of Pennsylvania, and Villanova were present at the meeting.

Those representing Villanova, in addition to Mr. Gallen, included Matthew Lynch, '23, and Paetrus Banmiller, '35.

PIUS XI BEGINS 15TH YEAR OF HIS PONTIFICATE

His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, on February 12, began the 15th year of his Pontificate, gloriously reigning in Vatican City. The picture above shows the Papal State revived by the signing of the Lateran Treaty, February 11, 1929; upper left insert shows the Holy Father, "The Pope of the Missions," absorbed in prayer in the chapel of the new home of Propaganda Fide, which he consecrated in 1923; lower right insert shows the Sovereign Pontiff, "The Pope of Catholic Action," wearing the triple tiara, raising his hand in blessing, a scene which occurred often during the Holy Year of Jubilee.

ARCHITECTS OF C. U. DESIGNING EXHIBIT FOR U. S. JOURNALS

Construction of American Section Under Supervision Of Dr. F. V. Murphy

The Department of Architecture of the Catholic University of America, one of the foremost architectural schools in the United States, is designing and supervising the construction of the United States exhibit for the World Catholic Press Exhibition, to be held at the Vatican this year, it was announced here this week.

The work has been undertaken by the department at the request of the United States National Committee for the World Catholic Press Exhibition. The Right Rev. Monsignor Patrick J. McCormick, acting rector of the Catholic University, after studying the request, has given cordial approval to the project. The designing and supervision are being done under the personal supervision of Dr. Frederick Vernon Murphy, head of the Department of Architecture at the university.

Space alloted to the United States in the Vatican Exhibition is particularly large and well placed. Dr. Murphy expressed the view that it lends itself admirably to exhibition purposes.

America Will Be Well Represented

Announcement that the Catholic University Department of Architecture will prepare the American exhibit is taken to assure that the United States' representation will be expertly and capably handled. The department, enjoying an outstanding position among schools of architecture in the country, has produced students who have won far more than the school's proportionate share of famous architectural awards. Among these are the Paris Prize offered by the Beaux Arts Society of Architects, the Prix de Rome, the Fontainbieau prizes the Henry Adams prize, awards by the American Society for Illuminating Engineers and others.

Dr. Murphy founded the School of Architecture at the Catholic University of Washington 25 years ago and has been identified with it ever since. He is, in addition, the architect of the new Baltimore Cathedral, associate architect of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, D. C., architect of the John K. Mullen Library, Catholic University, consultant on the extension of the New Nation Museum, here, and a member of the design committee appointed by the Allied Architects for the new House of Representatives office building.

Won Fellowship in Architecture

He is a graduate of the Ecole de Beaux Arts, Paris; fellow of the American Institute of Architecture, a member of the Board of Examiners of the American Institute of Architects, and a member of the Board of Examiners and Registrars of the District of Columbia.

Assisting Dr. Murphy in the preparation of the Press Exhibit are Dr. Thomas Locraft and Dr. Paul A. Goettelmann, both of whom are graduates and present faculty members at the Catholic University.

Robert A. Weppner, Jr., a Catholic University graduate who won the Prix de Rome and now resides at the American Academy in Rome will lend assistance when the exhibit arrives in Rome, Dr. Murphy said. Some of the present students at the Catholic University school will assist in parts of the work here.

Comments on the Work

On the above announcement Charles H. Ridder, of the "Catholic News," executive secretary of the United States National Committee for the World Catholic Press Exhibition, expresses great satisfaction.

"Being prepared at the Catholic University of America," Dr. Ridder said, "the Exhibit will have the benefit of the most capable technical preparation and design. Moreover, emanating from this great Pontifical seat of learning, it will be assured of a proper Catholic atmosphere.

"It is also a source of great gratification that Mr. Weppner, an architect trained by Dr. Murphy and now holding the Prix de Rome fellowship, will be able to lend assistance when the Exhibit arrives in the Eternal City.

"The American Catholic Press is thus assured of the very highest of technical skill, and under Catholic auspices, both for the work here and in Europe."

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36 ..... Editor-in-Chief
HARRY PARKIN, '37 ..... Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37 ..... College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36 ..... Sports Editor
CHARLES STAHLECKER, '37 ..... Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLARY, '37 ..... Business Manager
BARIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37 ..... Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37 ..... Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36 ..... Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37 ..... Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Carmen Giordano, '36 ..... Exchange Editor
Pio P. Goggi, '37 ..... Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall ..... Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Simons, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Pillon, '38
Anthony T. Meli, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vassiliuzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Gloden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '37 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani '39 — Martin Kassel '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — James Kuhr, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Rene Caillet, '39 — James Meiler, '39
Eugene Loeram, '39 — Richard Mulvihil, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Walter L. Rainty, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Bernard J. Miller, '39

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Linguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager
Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the truest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post-office, December 27, 1928.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - FEBRUARY 25, 1936

It Is One

THE International Exposition of the Catholic Press, which is to be held this year in Vatican City, will be a striking exemplification of that mark of the Church which distinguishes her throughout the world—that is her unity. One in doctrine, and in its application, she has been and will continue to be—down through the corridor of time, till the crack of doom—an exemplar of uniformity, whose members are solidified into one group by the single profession of faith. So that this feature and the manner in which it is developed in the arrangements of the displays is enough to recommend it to our attention if it possessed no other attraction.

The exhibition of the world-wide, voluminous output of the Catholic Press will be the greatest undertaking of its kind that has ever been attempted. It will be a panoramic view of contemporary Catholic thought and action. So that the thousands of visitors who pass through this Exposition cannot help but be stimulated by the knowledge of the diversified fields in which Catholic interests and efforts are being exerted.

There is, likewise, little doubt that numerous benefits will accrue to the better understanding of the Faith from this Exposition. It will do much to enlighten those who believe the Church a sterile organization outside of religious matters, and those who think her desirous of political preference. In the former case by conclusively demonstrating the active part taken by both the clergy and the laity in the development of science, literature, and education; and in the latter instance by the aggregate revelation of her teachings on social, and domestic problems.

The Holy Father in taking so personal an interest in the project, will give it, by his attention, whatever further impetus that might necessary to assure its ultimate success. Which will mark another step in the promotion of a better understanding of the Church and her doctrines, in a reign that has been replete with similar improvements.

The VILLANOVAN is especially honored in being afforded the opportunity of taking part in a project so nobly conceived, and so honorably sponsored, and we trust that the ideals and purpose of this paper's existence will supply a minute portion of the material that must be coordinated if this Exhibit is to represent the infinite perfection of details that is Catholicity.

ATTACK NUMBER TWO ON P. R. T.

BUSES of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., Inc. cause too much congestion on Broad St., the longest straight street of its width in the world, and therefore are to be removed to 13th and 15th Sts., where, according to the orders issued from the mayor's office, they will not cause such traffic problems.

And too ,the buses' tremendous weight is too much for the city-built, subway-undermined street and so they must go elsewhere. Furthermore, the people who use the buses really don't want to, or at least 90 per cent of them would rather use the subway anyway, but just use the buses because—.

All these are reasons alternately advanced by the mayor's office for another attack on the P. R. T. The courts practically threw the mayor's first charges against the P. R. T. into the alleys of Philadelphia's weather-choked streets, and now new charges must be made, so these childish brain-children must be born.

Let us suppose the mayor did succeed in the removal of the P. R. T. from Broad Street. Where would the traffic be lessened? Is it possible that the city could keep Broad Street as clear as it does NOT keep the other highways in the city? Ask the motorist where he drives when there is a mediocre snowfall. He will tell you he follows the bus routes. This is how well the city is doing its job. And yet they find time to attack the P. R. T., which does its own work well, and the city's to boot.

Will the mayor be as responsible, as he demanded of Alan Scott, in the event of fire or serious accident where damage or loss of life arises out of the inability of emergency vehicles to traverse snow-filled streets?

LENTEN SEASON BEGINS

TOMORROW throughout the United States the observance of the holy season of Lent will begin. For six weeks the members of the Catholic Church will engage in sacrificial manifestation of their faith. Attendance at church for daily Mass, for evening devotions, and the reception of the Sacraments will increase notably the length and breadth of the country.

But let us bring the reference nearer home. How will the students at Villanova College observe the season of Lent? Will there be any noticeable increase in attendance at Mass, the Sacraments, and evening devotions? Surely it doesn't seem possible that there will be anyone who will not enter into the true spirit of the season and make at least some little sacrifice in order to show his devotion to the Lord.

There are many ways in which this devotion may be made manifest. Abstinence from cigarettes, candy, ice cream; refraining from attending shows, dances and the like; all are helpful ways in which our devotion and love of Jesus Christ may assert itself.

Therefore it is our suggestion that the student body try to make some little sacrifice during the season of Lent, one that will not necessarily be too strenuous, yet one that will be meritous of the type of devotion we owe to God.

It is a well-known fact that the jackal is the only animal with which the tiger becomes friendly. When the latter gets too old to seek out its own prey, the jackal leads him to it and is rewarded with the remains of the feast after the tiger has finished.

Undoubtedly that is where the politicians of our times got so many of their "brotherhood" ideas.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

An indomitable cynic penned his way to fame via an N. Y. U. bulletin board. Late classes were a-twitter one evening at the artful notice:

Found—roll of five dollar bills. Will owner please form a line at the North entrance of the Press building.

A few definitions apropos to the basketball season:

Forward—Something a gentleman should never be.

Center—Something to do as—I center home (try it sometime).

Foul—Any old chicken.

Hoop—Doing the town—as hooping it up.

News comes to us from Texas A & I, that the freshman class of that school is planning a dance where the price of admission will be determined by the weight of the girl friend. The rate is one-half cent a pound and if one should drag a girl weighing over 140 pounds, the admission would be free.

Here's the latest hints on diet given by the Catholic U. Tower:

The gambler should eat STEAKS.
The barber should stick to HARE.
The policeman should diet on BEETS.
The actor on HAM and EGGS.
The woodchopper on CHOPS.
The jeweler on CARROTS.
And sweethearts should diet on VENISON, because they are so deer to each other.

"If your future husbands bore you, murder them," says Professor William Yerington in the Syracuse Daily Orange. "That's one way to get a degree, even if you don't graduate."

Statisticians at Georgia TECH recently compiled a list of 2500 English cuss words. But—that was before the Music went Round and Round.

The Nobel prize for sarcasm goes to a Lehigh student. At a dance he was heard to remark to a fraternity brother: "Will you please tell my girl and her escort that I'm waiting?"

The Junior COLLEGIAN explains Mussolini's new law that everyone be in bed by 9 o'clock as "a case of less 'whoopie' and more 'wop-pie'."

A skunk is the mascot of a fraternity at Marquette University. Before being initiated, the animal underwent a minor operation!

Heard in the classroom:
"Where was the Declaration of Independence signed?"
"At the bottom."
"A metaphor is a thing we shout through."
"The wife of a Duke is called a ducky."

In a debate at the University of Manitoba on the question "Is an old maid more useful than a wheelbarrow?" the old maids lost by three votes.

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

WE cannot very well overlook the marvelous piece of surgery, performed against great odds, by a noted surgeon of Lynn, Mass., last week but still we feel a word or two of praise is due the unfortunate workman on whom he operated. True the surgeon was forced to amputate the man's arm using only his left hand and forced to perform this feat under the dimmest of lighting conditions, the feeble rays of a torch, but what of his patient? His arm pinned against the roof of a caboose of the crane in which he was working, still conscious although more than half dead with the pain, freezing in the zero weather, he gamely underwent the amputation and now is climaxing his great feat of endurance by battling his way back to health. It is inconceivable yet it did happen and we doff our hat to him.

* * *

The University of Pennsylvania has started moaning the blues at this early date as regards her 1936 football team. Examinations have deprived her of three players and now the Quakers' publicity department has started its campaign in defense of the forthcoming defeats the Penn eleven will suffer. We agree that MacWhorter, Sweeney, and Kane are fine pigskin artists but why should the "strategy board" at Penn commence their sessions at the waiting wall long before the usual time and over a condition that can be remedied well enough in time to come?

* * *

Dots and Dashes: A nod to the Villanovans, a swell band! Special notice to them for their outstanding delivery of "Rigamarole," that very catchy ditty, at the L. K. D. hop on Friday . . . It's a cinch that had George Washington been born a century or so later he never would have been president. The reason, "any man capable of pegging a silver dollar across the Rappahonock with the ease accredited to Washington belongs in the Big Washington belongs in the Big Train" as Walter "Big Train" Johnson . . . Today the nation's best seller seems to be the Constitution of the United States according to publishing houses. More copies of the Constitution have been demanded by the public in the last two months than ever in its history, it is believed . . . Frank Sweeney, Pio Goggi's substitute as soda and straws man at the frolic held at the gym Friday, had a dull night of it. The soda order placed with the bottling works fell through so Frank with his white coat all starched sat idle in his booth looking very decidedly bored.

* * *

Things 'n' Stuff: For the first time in history Rosemont was good for our dough last week-end. Don't get us wrong, the inference doesn't mean the L. K. D. dance it means the Santa Anita Handicap. We played Rosemont to show through a close friend in attendance at the race and good old Rosemont came through. Yessir, Rosemont's a great HORSE! .

CAMPUS CELEBS - - - By Bruno

As We See It - - - The Catholic Writer

By HARRY PARKIN

UNFORTUNATELY for the better understanding of the works of Catholic authors, there are a great many people who hold the rather whimsical notion that the greatest detriment to a man of genius is the Catholic Religion. Precisely the extent to which this belief is attributable to an indisposition to learn the truth, or the result of actual ignorance will, very probably, never be determined. Sufficient proof of its existence can be found in the tendency of the general reader to consider the efforts of such writers as little more than propaganda.

The majority of those who hold to this opinion, are either unable, or have never taken the trouble, to investigate the actual cause for their distrust. For to do so is to rapidly come to the realization that the Catholic writer, more than any other, is seeking to strengthen the tottering structure of our moral and economic well-being. Considered objectively, that is in the light of his intentions, and the work he is doing, the Catholic writer seems less like a Moloch of world-wide proportions, whose diet is the incline in action and put the intellectual slavery of mankind, and more like the constructive thinker that he is.

Less concretely, perhaps, but nevertheless as firmly believed, is the opinion that the Catholic writer is compelled to write by a rule of thumb method, and is deprived of all originality and sincerity by the necessity of conforming to the doctrines of his Church. It is well known, however, that native genius is not enough to carry a man to the heights of literary success; for the flights of his imagination must be tempered by the learning of the world. If his education is not properly directed, his misconceptions resulting from it, combined with his imaginative tendences will lead him into some of the greatest fallacies that are possible. In this respect the teachings of Catholicism correct his early failings, by the authority that is inherent in her own teachings, so tha ton reaching the pinacle of productiveness, his genius enriches not only the culture of his own but the succeeding ages.

In philosophy the Catholic writer has no likelihood of becoming entangled in the meshes of his own bizarre lucubrations, from an attempt to find an explanation for such questions as, the possible existence of a Creator, and man's origin and destiny, which cannot be explained, comprehensively, outside of the Church. In this and other respects, he is never compelled to fall back upon the necessity of establishing such theories as "cosmic determinism," "irresistible fatality," and the host of others by which writers attempt to account for the phenomena, that are only capable of authoritative explanation.

Philosophy is occupied with causes and principles, so that in certain instances it needs the pronouncements of constituted authority to give it substance. So that the Catholic writer, being aware of this, and well instructed, from the nature of his education, is fundamentally more reliable than those whose only recourse is their own genius.

In economics the Catholic writer will balance the precepts of commercialism with the recommendation of the cardinal virtues, of justice and charity. So that the capitalist and the shop-keeper will find in their works the best guide to moral, as well as business advancement.

In their essays they defend and praise the virtues, because of the dignity from whence they arose, and not because they are based on good form, or manners. They also do much to dispel the tiresome contempt of the sophisticates who spend their time in making paradoxical phrases upon the maxims of morality. There are some writers who would rather be foremost in the ranks of error, than to follow in the train of truth, so that it is almost impossible to realize a group of writers who will not be influenced by factors other than the desire for truth.

The depravations that are constantly being wrought in the republic of letters, by the so-called "fearless revealation of human nature," which is accomplishing nothing so much as the moral depravity of the readers, can only be halted by the vigorous and concerted efforts of Catholic writers. It is as easy to garb virtue with wit, as it is obscenity, so that the Catholic novelists should be able to create as forceful, and influential stories, as those who set themselves up as philosophers, but retain all the vices of a debauchee.

Finally by the judicious combination of genius and knowledge the Catholic writer can do more to stem the atheistic and materialistic propaganda that is becoming so inextricably interwoven into the scheme of modern life that is gradually undermining the entire structure of our social organization, than any other agency. This degeneratoin is nowhere so strongly evinced as in the general disregard for the dishonesty and corruption that exists in the places of prominence. In like manner is the public indifference to the exploitation of sex and crime in newspapers and motion pictures of the country. These pernicious influences can only be offset by the writer who is constantly mindful of the objective, which is generally held to by all Catholic writers and that is the maintenance of the highest standards of moral rectitude.

Pass In Review

By RICHARD L. G. DEVERALL

THE WRITER of this column is supposed to be a critic of books and other things, but as he felt rather lazy this week, he sallies forth into another field.

Last Sunday, the New York Philharmonic Orchestra presented to the radio audience a wonderful program of symphonic music. Strangely, it was an all-Catholic program. It featured three composers: Mozart, Beethoven and Bach.

Mozart was a precocious child who exhibited the most remarkable musical ability. He died, tragically, at an early age, and was unfortunate enough to be buried in a potter's field. Ludwig van Beethoven was a Roman Catholic, as was Mozart, and devoted his entire life to the writing of music. He was plagued with a young nephew, whose income he had to supply. He lived in such dire poverty that he had to sell his Ninth Symphony—the Choral—for only fifty dollars. Bach, although a Lutheran, is to be classed in with the Catholic composers, for his writings were most certainly Catholic. Just look at his glorious Mass in B Minor. We find here not he sterile, unartistic service of the Lutheran Church, but instead the rich, liturgical Mass of our own Church, the Kyrie Eleison, the Credo, and so forth.

As I listened to the radio pour forth its spiritual food, for music is spiritual food of a sort, I wondered how many Villanova men ever bother to listen to these concerts. Stepping out into the corridor, I heard the raucous voice of Oracle of Detroit (forgive me if you feel offended), the crooning of some lunatic, and the sensuous moaning of a saxaphone octet. Diving back into my room, I breathed a prayer of thanks once the door had been safely locked and barred.

Can the quality of music vary? Is there a good and a bad music? If you don't think so, just try this test some time. First listen to Cab Calloway and his so-called "hot" orchestra. You commence to jig, then you start shouting, and the first thing you know the room is in an uproar. After calming yourself, have someone play Gounod's Ave Maria. Peace, calm—holy joy steals into your heart. You close your eyes and before you appears a vision of the Virgin Mother. Her heart pierced by a sword of sorrow, you see yourself before her pleading: "Pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death, Amen." Or just listen to the Pilgrim's Chorus from Richard Wagner's Tannhauser. As the orchestra sets itself to the task of portraying, in music, the march of the pilgrim, you envision the march of the Church Triumphant. You see before you, marching in an unending column toward the Heavens, those who have gone before you. Popes, Saints and charwomen. Joyous, triumphant, they march into the Kingdom of Heaven to receive their Heavenly reward.

Did our modern music make you feel that way? But wait, let us not discard all modern music. In our time, we have such eminent men as Sibelius, Debussey and many others. Even amongst the common, everyday songs, we have classics. Although Victor Herbert might not have meant to do it, he wrote songs that shall do down through the ages, just as any of Verdi's operas or Richard Strauss' symphonies.

It would appear then that good music does not rely upon form, such as the symphonuy or the scherzo, but depends upon the theme of the melody. We judge it by its effect: if it uplifts it is good, if it is debasing or degrading it is bad and better not listened to.

Don't think that it is being "high-brow" to listen to good music. Remember that some of the finest music ever written was written for the Catholic Church. If you deny yourself good music, you are missing many good things in this life. Why not try it some time?

Seniors Release Profits Reports

Continued From Page One

orchestra. The Dinner-Dance cost the class $320.00, including favors for that occasion.

Net returns from all sources amounted to $2967.68, including receipts from the ticket sale for the Ball, totalling $1530.00, and from the class assessments which brought in $494.00 Also included in this is the class's bank balance from last year amounting to $366.48.

A bill of $192.00 was outstanding against the class for favors for last year's Junior Prom, hence this was paid from the class's former funds of $366.48, leaving the class treasury with $174.48. To this was added $35.00 which the class received from the present Junior Class for the false gym ceiling. The class treasury, as it now stands, has $209.48.

In underwriting the class affairs, $425.00 was received on the proposed 6 percent interest-payment plan. However, one underwriter, who invested $350.00, donated his profit to the class, hence interest was paid on only $85.00. This amounted to $5.10.

In commenting on this, Mr. Vaughn expressed for the class sincere gratitude to the class's benefactor, who does not wish to have his name made known.

A complete and itemized statement of the expense and receipts for the Senior Weekend proceedings may be inspected at the VILLANOVAN office at any time. Also, the same may be had by consulting Mr. Vaughn or Florindo Tronicelli, class treasurer. Lack of space does not permit the printing of an itemized account in these columns.

There will be an important meeting of the Senior Class this noon in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall. Seniors desiring further knowledge of the class's financial standing may have theh opportunity to raise the question for discussion at that time.

The Villanovan Seven Years Ago

C & F EVENING SCHOOL

The recent addition to the department of the Commerce and Finance, is slowly but steadily progressing. Under the guidance of Rev. Joseph C. Barley, O. S. A., who is also dean of the Business Day school a broad fundamental and comprehensive training in the principals of business has been provided.

Courses in Economics taught by Father Bartley are already under way as well as Accounting taught by Professor Shaeffer. Courses in principals of Business Law and Real Estate Law are now being conducted by Professors Henry and O'Neill respectively. With these studies as a foundation it is planned to include many other branches in the curriculum of the Evening School.

At the present time there are approximately thirty students attending nightly sessions in Mendel Hall, the magnificient new addition on the campus. With the support of those in day schools and the benefits derived from an extensive advertising campaign, it is hoped that before long it will become an integral part of the already well established College of Commerce and Finance.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

SELECTION of John McIntyre as a special announcer for the CBS Ed Wynn series completes the company.

McIntyre, a former west coast radio actor and announcer, is also heard on the "March of Time." A native of California, McIntyre spent the last eight years, before coming east a few months ago, in Los Angeles. He is heard in special announcements while John S. Young, another prominent network announcer, serves as Wynn's comedy foil.

When Russian Ambassador Troyanovsky's wife and the Russian Consul General in New York were expected as guests of Arthur Pryor, Jr., at a broadcast of the "March of Time" editors searched hopefully for some piece of news from the steppes that would bear dramatization as a gesture to their visitors. Try as they might, the "Timers" were left sadly to reflect that it was a quiet day indeed in Moscow.

* * *

John S. Young, announcer and comedy foil for Ed Wynn on CBS, was born August 3, 1903, in Springfield, Mass.

Was educated at Yale, Columbia and Cornell Universities.

Studied to be a playwright in George Pierce Baker's famous "47 Workshop."

Entered radio as an announcer in 1925 on a local station in Boston.

Was brought to New York in 1928.

Among his ancestors was John Young, the founder of Salem, Mass., in 1638.

Another John Young was former Mayor of New York.

Among his classmates at Yale were Rudy Vallee, Lanny Ross and Ben Cutler.

A crack swimmer at College, he taught swimming at boys' camps summers.

Considered one of the most versatile people in radio.

He plays the violin, piano, guitar, banjo, ukelele and vibraharp.

Speaks fluently German, French, Italian and Spanish.

Recipient of honorary LL.D. degree from St. Benedict's College.

Has given courses at Oxford University and New York University.

He collects and answers his fan mail personally.

He is an expert extemporaneous speaker.

Balzac, Shakespeare, Tschaikowsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff are among his favorites.

He is not married.

Collects rare books and manuscripts, first editions and paintings.

Vital Statistics: Weight 175, height 5 feet 11 inches, brown hair, blue eyes.

Time: .With .Ed .Wynn. every Thursday from 9.30 to 10.00 P. M., EST., over the WABC-CBS network.

Sponsor: Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corporation.

* * *

Ray Noble, who was recently voted one of the most popular orchestra leaders on radio, again penned another of his marvelous melodies, the title of which is "The Touch of Your Lips," which was introduced to the public for the first time via the Coca Cola Air Waves Wednesday night, February 19. Not only has Ray bcome a famous orchestra leader, but also as a composer of songs. He has penned such past hits as "Goodnight Sweetheart," "The Very Thought of You," "Love is the Sweetest Thing,' and his recent success which he introduced a month ago, "If You Love Me."

Al Bowlly, the popular young vocalist who has been heard on all of Ray Noble's programs has been taken ill and will be off the air while he is convalescing in North Adams.

Globe Trotting

By FRED WATERS

MEXICO

(From an interview with Mr. Peter P. Kerr, Villanova student.)

Sweet Serenade

"In Mexico they handle the women very differently than you do in this country. For instance, girls of seven years and up, until married, are rearely seen in public without a chaperon. (This custom, and others to be mentioned, vary somewhat in the rural and urban districts, but are generally the rule.)

On theh bathing beaches early in the morning, when men are not as yet about, you will notice the fairer sex in bathing. But as the day goes on, the condition is reversed. Except for family groups, the men predominate. Seldom do women bathe with the males.

"A beau, on a date, usually has two others, besides himself, to look after—his date and her chaperon. The saying: 'Three's a crowd,' can apply here very well.

"If you want to show a girl that you like her particularly well, procure a garb virtue with wit, as it is obfessional musicians can be hired to seranade her. The usual time for these seranades ranges from midnight to early dawn.

"Often a group of boys, economizing, hire a serenader for the entire night at reduced rates, to play to each of their girl-friends."

Barefoot Ladies

"In cities, the clothes do not vary much from those to be found in the U. S. But the attire in the vast rural districts is quite interesting. In the Yucatan the men usually wear white shirts, which are not tucked in, but flow loosely over the waist, and about the top of white ducks, which extend to the knees. This costume is finished off by a pair of roped sandals.

"The women can be seen walking about in long, flowing dresses, that are completely sleeveless. They go about, for the most part, barefoot."

Hands Off

"How do Mexicans regard the Monroe Doctrine?"

"Mexico considers itself as a full-

Continued on Page Six

VILLANOVA CLUB OF PHILADELPHIA ELECTS OFFICERS

Joseph D. Freney, '21, Chosen To Fill Presidential Post Of Club

HOUSEMAN IS SECRETARY

By ROBERT G. HOWE

New officers of the Villanova Alumni Club of Philadelphia were selected at a meeting of the association held last Thursday at the Philopatrian Club of 1923 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

The annual election, presided over by former President McCoy, '29, resulted in the appointment of Joseph Freney, '27, to fulfill the presidential vacancy.

Among the other officers elected at this session of the club were John A. Klekotka, '35, who succeeded Vice-President Samuel B. Miles, '34; Joseph P. Houseman, '33, secretary, succeeded Martin L. Gill, '32; Joseph A. Cunningham, '22, who will take over the office of Mr. Houseman former treasurer of the association.

In addition to these new appointments, Mr. Miles and Charles Laughlin, '23, were elected representatives on the Board of Governors of the National Alumni Association. Mr. Miles was selected to succeed former President McCoy while Mr. Laughlin was retained from last year.

The newly elected president, Joseph D. Freney, graduated from Villanova College with a degree of Bachelor of Science in Economics in 1927. He continued his studies at Dickinson Law School and graduated in 1932. Mr. Freney is now carrying on a successful career with his offices at 1401 Franklin Trust Building. He has always been an active member of the Alumni and last year was chairman of the annual football banquet. His brother, John Freney, was president of the National Alumni Association.

President-elect Freney on receiving his new position heartily thanked the club members for the confidence placed in him. He made it plain that he would do his utmost in fulfilling the position given him.

Upon receiving his presidential powers, Mr. Freney began his official duties by proposing his intention to establish new committees in order that the members may have more available opportunities to become active in the association.

He proposed the formation of the following committees: an employment committee to formulate plans for a local placement bureau which will in time converge with the National Alumni office; entertainment committee to furnish plans for refreshments, entertainment, etc., at the regular meetings; a dinner committee which will conduct the traditional football dinner; a membership committee to stimulate interest in the Philadelphia district and to solicit new members; other minor committees among which will be to arrange a supper dance for club members.

According to a new decision of the officers the regular meeting will be held on the third Thursday of every month, with the exception of July and August. This decision will do away with the meetings scheduled for alternate Thursdays.

The next meeting of the Villanova Club will be held on March 19 at the Philopatrian Club. A very interesting schedule of entertainments has been planned. Mr. D. F. White, general manager of the Cunard White Star Lines, a prominent steamship company of Philadelphia, will be the guest speaker of the evening.

College of Arts Posts Schedule

Continued From Page One

represent themselves well in this test of their knowledge.

As is the custom, these examinations are written tests.

The comprehensives will be conducted from 2:30 P. M. until 5:30 P. M. in Room 106, Mendel Hall, according to the following schedule as posted on the bulletin board:

Monday, March 9—Latin.
Tuesday, March 10—Sociology.
Wednesday, March 11—History.
Thursday, March 12—Philosophy: Epistemology, Ontology, Cosmology, Natural Theology.
Friday, March 13—Religion.
Tuesday, March 17—Logic, Ethics.
Wednesday, March 18—Psychology.
Thursday, March 19—English.

PHILA. ALUMNI PREXY

JOSEPH D. FRENEY, '27, who was elected last Thursday night to succeed Thomas McCoy, '29, as president of the Philadelphia Alumni Association.

SMALL ATTENDANCE NOTED AT DEBATES

Interclass Orators Forced To Speak Before Very Limited Audience

Every afternoon at one o'clock, debates are presented in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall, a function which will continue until the latter part of March. These debates are those of an Inter-class debating tournament being held among the members of the campus schools who take public speaking. The tournament is being sponsored by the Beta Gamma Debating Fraternity and is under the supervision of Mr. Anthony J. Frayne, instructor of public speaking.

In the last issue of the VILLANOVAN, it was definitely stated that the attendance was not what it should be. It seems, however, that the student body has begun to realize the benefits derived by attending these debates, for the number of individuals present has increased somewhat. On the other hand, many vacant seats may still be observed while the speaker is delivering his message.

The topic for all debates still remains: RESOLVED: That Congress should be permitted to over-ride by a two-third majority vote any decision of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional.

Below is presented the calandar for the week beginning tomorrow and terminating Tuesday, March 3. The numbers in parentheses represent the team numbers. Further information will be obtained by referring to the bulletin board.

Wed., Feb. 26—Jr. C. & F. (3) vs. Soph. Arts (6).
Thurs., Feb. 27—Jr. Arts (4) vs. Soph. C. & F. (5).
Fri., Feb. 28—Jr. C. & F. (4) vs. Fr. Engrs. (3).
Mon., Mar. 2—Soph. C. & F. (6) vs. Fr. Engrs. (4).

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Five

grown republic, not to be dictated to by any foreign nation. While the United States would be accepted as a very valuable ally, if the country were ever invaded by a foreign power, yet Mexicans resent very deeply, any interference in their own internal affairs.

"The Mexican government, especially in its present delicate position, probably appreciates very much the recent United States 'Hands Off' policy."

Short Notes

"Students have their annual vacations in winter—for one month.

"So called 'revolutions,' played up in American papers, are usually only riots, such as might even occur in the U. S. They do not amount to a row of peas.

"Newspapers are mostly Government owned. No such thing as 'Freedom of the Press,' as we know it.

"The Vera-Cruz, Mexico City Railroad, is so steep at times, that two electric engines are required to pull an ordinary five car train. (Probably better than a 'scenic thrill ride' on the down grade.)

"Chicken and Turkey are the chief meats of Mexicans.

"The famous Floating Gardens of Xochimilco resemble a scene from paradise. They consist of enormous tracts of all types of beautiful flowers, inter-woven with countless canals. These flowers are immense, about ten times their ordinary size. Their scent is not however increased, as a matter of fact, they are absolutely odourless!"

"Bull fighthg is practiced all over Mexico. It is really not as brutal as many would believe. The fighter is seldom even so much as scratched.

"Killing the bull with a spear is certainly no more brutal than lopping off it's head with a chop-ax, in some slaughter house. And the horses which the fighters ride are usually so old or worn, that they are ready for the glue factory anyway."

Luckies—a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

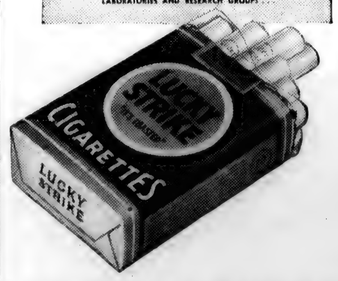
CENTER LEAVES

The top leaves of all tobacco plants tend to give a definitely harsh, alkaline taste. The bottom leaves tend to acidity in the smoke. It is only the center leaves which approach in nature the most palatable acid-alkaline balance. In LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes the center leaves are used.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS



"IT'S TOASTED"—Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Sports Editor A. R. C.

BOXING has always been a popular sport in the professional world of sports activities, but it has only recently begun to create more than just a moderate interest in the intercollegiate field.

At present, the majority of colleges and universities in the United States have boxing squads representing them along with football, baseball, basketball, etc.

Villanova College has made several strides toward the developing sports for its student body. It was only two weeks ago that the efforts of this institution were fully realized, when the Penn boxers were met in the local ring.

Approximately 1600 fans passed through the gates at the gym to witness the humbling of the Quakers by a "rookie" Villanova outfit. Of course a 1600 turn-out is no large gathering, but considering that the turn-out for activities here has never been to any appreciable extent, it was at least an indication that boxing, as a Villanova College sport, has all the potentialities of succeeding.

With their recent setback at the hands of the Western Maryland boxers, the Villanova varsity outfit will endeavor to down the Washington and Jefferson collegiate mittmen tonight.

The boys are in Washington, we wish to extend them our wishes of good luck. If our team comes through this one tonight. They are doing wonders, for the Presidents have gained wins over the great Pitt and Lock Haven squads.

ALTHOUGH the idea is not our own, we are taking the liberty to express it, since it originated within the VILLANOVAN office several weeks ago.

There were several students and an official discussing sports as a whole, at Villanova College, when one of the group started to talk about soccer. His points were very clear and showed possibilities; therefore, we take it upon ourselves to introduce them to you.

Soccer is one of the greatest sports that now exist, and it leaves a wide open field for all students who care to participate. Then, in considering anything, the usual stumbling block is the expense of

Continued on Page Nine

KITTENS CONTINUE UNDEFEATED WITH THREE MORE WINS

Frosh Run Up Streak Against Naval Hospital, Pottstown and Printers

By WILLIAM BOWKER

With three victories in as many days, Villanova's brilliant frosh quintet stretched their streak to 12 consecutive wins. United States Naval Hospital was vanquished Monday night, 29-23, on their home court. Tuesday afternoon the Pottstown Falcons were shellacked, 34-19. Game No. 12 saw a 26-12 conquest of the Star Printers from Coatesville in the preliminary to the Villanova-Dickinson contest.

In the return fray with the Naval Hospital, the Thirty-Niners found a little more opposition offered by the home lads, who were defeated 42-21 two weeks ago on Alumni court. Lou Dubino notched a two-pointer for the Kittens, but Duck's foul gave the homesters their first count. Both teams scored from the field to make the score 4-3 for the 'Cats. At 6-5 Montgomery started things moving with a brace of field goals, giving momentum to a drive that pushed the count to 18-5 for the visitors. It was not until then that the Sailors were able to halt the parade with Dam's foul. A late rally by the losers brought them within four points of the winners. At halftime the scoreboard had 18

Continued on Page Eight

Tuesday, February 25, 1936 Page Seven

Villanovan Sports

Terrors Outbox Wildcats

Burrs Take Interscholastic Swim

W. CATHOLIC WINS AS KELLEY BREAKS 2 MEET RECORDS

St. Francis Prep Finishes Second With Falcons In Third

ST. JOSEPH'S PREP FAILS TO GATHER ANY POINTS

No. Catholic Shatters Medley Relay Mark in Fast Time of 1:31.8

By JAMES U. MEILER

West Catholic High School won the National Catholic Interscholastic Swimming Meet Saturday, February 22 at the second annual Villanova meet which was held in the Villanova pool.

Six meet, two pool, and one city Interscholastic records were broken.

West Catholic, City Catholic League Champs, took four out of eight first places, and besides, set there of the new records. They garnered 38 points to win the team title. St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn finished second with a total of 24 points. North Catholic placed third with a total of 19 points. Brooklyn Prep. finished fourth garnering 13 points. La Salle wound up fifth with seven points. St. Joseph's Prep failed to garner a point.

Walter Kelley, Burr natator, was the leading scorer of the meet. Besides capturing firsts in the 50 and 100 yards free style, he set a new mark in each event. Kelley has successfully defended his title in the 50 yard free style for the second successive year, and this year bettered his old mark of 26.1 seconds by 1:1 seconds. He was clocked in 25 seconds flat. This record bettered the pool mark of 25:3 seconds established by Bill Leahy who is attending Villanova this year.

New Pool Records

Kelley set a new record in the 100 yard free style when he finished in 56 seconds flat. Bill Leahy former St. Joseph's Natator and present Villanova merman did this event in 59:9 seconds. This time was fastest up until yesterday when Kelley bettered it. In winning this event Kelley set a new pool mark and a new City mark which was 56:7 seconds and a new championship mark.

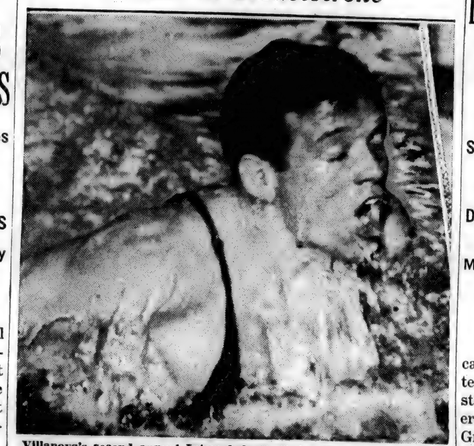
Charlie Timmins, Frank Maltett, Francis Sherlock and Tommy Rowan of West Catholic's 200 yard

Continued on Page Eight

KITTENS MEET STRONG FOES

With their next game scheduled for next Friday, the Frosh quintet are practicing assiduously for their coming encounters. Ursinus will prove a formidable opponent for the yearlings and the following night Temple will be met in a return engagement. To date the Frosh team is still unbeaten.

Winner in Breaststroke



Villanova's second annual Interscholastic Swim Meet held last Saturday at the college pool, brought a group of star mermen. Pictured above is Charles Spangler, who wore the colors of North Catholic High, one of the scintillating swimmers. He captured the 100 yard breaststroke event in the fast time of 1:15.7.

Wildcats Manage to Snap Jinx But Bow to C. C. N. Y.

BATTERYMEN HOLD INITIAL WORKOUT IN COLLEGE GYM

Baseball Candidates Conduct Meeting Emphasizing Season's Plans

Spring is just around the corner. Do not doubt this broad statement, for if you take a walk down to the gym, and watch the proceedings, you will be justified in agreeing with this writer. Immediately after the baseball meeting Wednesday, in which Coach Doc Jacobs put emphasis on his plans for the coming season; the varsity battery candidates reported for light practice in the capacious field house.

Jacobs indicated that the value of early practice for the batterymen is essential in today's baseball world. Every baseball club centers its attack on these two vital positions; hence these men require a few weeks of advance drilling to limber their arms up. In concluding the session, the well-known diamond coach stated that as far as the theory of baseball was concerned, it would be put into practice, when the team takes to the field.

The men who have reported to Manager Frank Moriarity are: Catchers Ed Leahy, Andy Stopper and Mike Garbark, brother of the Cleveland Indian backstop. The pitchers are the veterans Tom Collins, Joe McGovern and Ed Vaughn, and the up and coming sophomores, "Wild" Bill McLaughlin, Tom Kane and Franny Escott.

Continued on Page Ten

Losing Streak Broken With 28-21 Victory Over Red Devils

O'MEARA STARS

Playing on the home floor last Wednesday night, the Villanova basketeers finally snapped their prolonged losing streak by defeating a rather strong Dickinson quintet, 28-21. But the Wildcats slipped once more into the oblivion of defeat when they were overwhelmed by a fast-stepping C. C. N. Y. aggregation.

Even in victory Villanova was none too impressive. The 'Cats got the jump on Dickinson's Red Devils when Ben Geraghty opened the scoring with a goal from the field and ran the count to 6-0. At this point the homesters' attack bogged down, and by half time the Red Devils had cut the lead to 11-8.

At the very outset of the second half Dickinson flashed a whirlwind offensive that overtook the Wildcats. But Harry McNally stepped into the picture and threw two pretty field goals to give Villanova the lead once more.

Again the Red Devils rallied to

Continued on Page Nine

BUCKNELL HERE TONIGHT

The Wildcats will try to avenge a one point defeat tonight in the Villanova gymnasium when they play a return game with the Bisons from Lewisburg, Pa. In their first encounter, Bucknell defeated the Main Liners 35 to 34. The preliminary game will feature a meet between two dormitory teams.

EXPERIENCE AIDS WEST. MARYLAND MITTMEN IN WIN

Sala, Pantaleo and Jarosik Gather Villanova's Three Points

DENNIS AND PONTECARVO WIN BY TECHNICAL KAYO

Marylanders Make Sure Of Victory by Taking Early Bouts

By F. P. BONETTI

Villanova's Fighting Wildcats ran into a snag in attempting to win their second straight boxing match. Western Maryland's powerful Green Terrors outboxed the 'Cats by the score of 5 to 3. But in defeat the Wildcats looked very impressive, since they lost to a strong Terrors outfit.

The Westminister boys started out on the right foot by winning the first bout Mike Rodriguez, of Villanova, started out fast and seemed on his way to vic-

Continued on Page Ten

LAFAYETTE BREAKS SWIMMERS STREAK BY EASY VICTORY

Loss of Freshmen Weakened Cats, Allowing Easy 57-11 Win

Villanova's three-meet winning streak was snapped last Wednesday when the Lafayette College swimming team paddled to an easy victory over the 'Cat natators in the Lafayette Memorial Gym at Easton, winning by an unbalanced 57-11 score.

Because of local meet rules, Villanova was not permitted to use its freshmen, who make up the main strength of the team. In the opinion of Coach Martin Gill, even if Villanova had been up to full strength, the 'Cats would not have won the meet, although the score would have been materially different.

Lafayette came within one event of making a clean sweep of the meet. The Maroons won seven of the eight first places. Villanova's lone winner was in the 150-yard backstroke, which Wilmer Booth captured.

Stepping into the lead with a first and second in the 100-yard freestyle, Lafayette went on to pile up points with never a doubt as to the outcome of the meet.

Lafayette started its wins when Papp and Volkman swam home ahead of Joe Duffy, in the comparatively slow time of one minute.

In the 200-yard breaststroke

Continued on Page Nine

Baseball Schedule Includes Twenty Games

HOME SEASON ENDS WITH MAROON FIVE

Lafayette Quintet Is Last Foe Of Season on Local Court

Lafayette will help close the home season for the Villanova basketeers when they clash with Captain Ben Geraghty and his mates, in what should prove to be an interesting game tomorrow night, at the college gym.

The Maroon five from Easton, Pa., has compiled an enviable record so far this season, and they will endeavor to add the Wildcats to their list of victims. The visitors are led by Captain Ira Saurman, former all-State forward of New Jersey, from Bordentown Military School.

Coach Shellenberger boasts of a fast and aggressive squad, as most of the players are recruited from the football eleven. He believes that this game will be one of the severest tasks undertaken by his minions, so far this season, even though the Felines have run into plenty of bad luck.

Shellenberger will probably start his strongest line-up, which is centered around Bob Wolf, a former guard who has been converted into a pivot man. He will be flanked by Bill Wild and Saurman at forwards, with Jack Cooper, a highly touted defense man and either Charley Collini or Rossiter at the guard posts.

LAFAYETTE		VILLANOVA
Wild	forward	Geraghty
Saurman	forward	Noonan
Wolf	center	Brennan
Cooper	guard	O'Meara
Collini	guard	McNally

TRACK TEAM HOLDS INITIAL PRACTICE

Successful Season Predicted; Excellent Material Found Among Candidates

This afternoon track will get under way when all candidates will have a brief workout on the board track beneath the north stand of the stadium. All those who are interested in engaging in track are requested to report to room 213 in Mendel Hall at one o'clock this afternoon where they will receive the necessary information.

Since track is a major sport, freshmen are not eligible to compete on the team but all freshmen who are desirous of participating in track in their upper years are urged to come out and work with the Varsity.

Three meets are already definitely scheduled, but the final dates have not been settled upon. They are with La Salle, Temple and West Chester Teachers. Other meets are pending and a full schedule will soon be completed.

Villanova should have a good year on the cinder path since there is no dearth of excellent material from which to form a team. Those who are expected to form the nucleus of the team are: Benedict Maloney, in the one and two mile runs; Charles Kain in the mile; Joseph Shea, who will also compete in the longer distance; Charles Noonan, who will compete in the pole vault, and Frank Nye, who will putt the shot.

Football Men to Run

Fritz Monahan will continue to run the sprints as he did on last year's team. Bill Christopher and Art Raimo will run in the sprints if football practice does not interfere. Jerry Sherlock and Jack Earle will both compete in the 440 yard dashes.

George Wrona, who is a two year Varsity man, is expected to earn valuable points in the quarter mile and is expected to stabilize the relay team. Vic Ashe and Bill Lafferty can be counted on to garner points in the furlong dash. Tom Cooke will engage in both the broad jump and high jump while Bill Sweeny and Walt Korchinski will hurl the javelin and discus.

With these men as a center a good track team is expected. Entries will probably be made in the Penn relays if a good mile relay is formed and if individual performances come through as expected.

Undefeated Freshmen to Meet Ursinus

—Photo Courtesy 1936 Belle Air

Villanova's prospects of stellar seasons for the next three years are justified by this undefeated freshman basketball squad. Reading from left to right are: Walter Burlington, Joseph Carrig, Abraham Hobson, Louis Wannemacher, Ace Hopkins, John Krutulis, Arthur Vigilante, captain of the team; Matthew Kuber, Jack Dempsey, Charles Vondra, Louis Dubino, James Montgomery and Coach Al Severance. The Frosh play two games over the weekend with Temple and Ursinus. They broke a 23-game winning streak of the Owls two weeks ago, and the Temple Frosh are out for revenge.

Kittens Continue Unbeaten Streak With Twelfth Consecutive Victory

Continued From Page Seven

for the Blue and White and 14 for the Doctors.

Kittens Finish Fast

Hospital's late first-half drive was continued until Wanamaker broke an 18-18 tie with a foul. Three more points were added to the Main Line score before the Sea Doctors counted on Duck's second foul of the game. Dubino, Hopkins and Vigilante then chalked up seven markers to provide the margin of victory. Bruflat and Burgess ended the setto with a field goal apiece.

Tuesday afternoon the Pottstown Falcons fell in a one-sided affair which culminated in a 34-19 score. Vigilante counted first for the Main Liners. Three more points were added before the Birds were able to break into the scoring column. G. Kozlowski tacked on a second basket to Sweda's first, bringing the score up to within a single marker of the amount complied by the Frosh. There was not much action for the rest of the half, only one more marker being racked up by the Pottstowners and five by the victors. Hopkins counted two field goals and Montgomery one to conclude the scoring for the half.

Hopkins Paces Scorers

After the intermission the Towners were blanked after Foley's double-decker, while the Yearlings pushed the score to 23-7, with Joe Hopkins leading the pack. The boys then eased the pressure long enough to allow the visitors a point on Hoslader's free throw. Four more tallies were chalked up by the Kitten machine and then the Falcons were permitted a few moments with the ball. Johnny Krutilis hurt his ankle at this point and had to be removed from the fray. Joe Carrig sank two field goals and Duke Dempsey one to conclude the contest with the Liners far ahead, 34-19.

Victory No. 12 was gained at the expense of the Star Printers of Coatesville. There was no difficulty in winning this battle as the Printers at no time being within striking distance of the Thirty-Niners.

Compile Huge Lead

Montgomery dropped a twin-pointer to open the attack, and in short order the Coatesvillians found themselves with a deficit of five points. Conrad scored on a foul and then, with the tally 8-5, the Cats ran up five markers before Morgan counted the Typers' only field goal of the half. Vigilante replied in like manner to bring the score to 15-7 as the teams left the floor.

In an abbreviated second half, the Villanova quintet bore down on the opposition and quickly put the game on ice with seven tallies. Slider's toss from the charity circle was good and this, coupled with baskets by McLean and Conrad completed the losers' scoring for this half. Wanamaker and Vigilante each swished the hoop from the field to put the final touches on the 12th straight of the season.

Lineups:

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	3	1	7
Hopkins, forward	2	1	5
Dubino, center	2	0	4
Wanamaker, guard	2	0	4
Vigilante, guard	2	0	4
Carrig, forward	1	0	2
Dempsey, guard	1	0	2
Totals	12	6	28

STAR PRINTERS—COATESVILLE	G.	F.	P.
Conrad, forward	1	1	3
Deering, forward	0	0	0
Morgan, center	1	2	4
Slider, guard	0	1	1
Cross, guard	0	2	2
McLean, guard	1	0	2
Roper, guard	0	0	0
Totals	12	2	26
Score by halves:
Villanova	15	11—26
Coatesville	7	5—12

U. S. NAVAL HOSPITAL	G.	F.	P.
Bergan, forward	1	0	2
Kulina, forward	1	0	2
Dam, forward	1	3	5
Bruflat, center	1	0	2
Crumpler, center	0	0	0
Deagan, forward	0	0	0
Duck, guard	1	0	2
Burgess, guard	2	0	4
Totals	9	5	23

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
Wanamaker, forward	1	1	3
Kuber, forward	0	0	0
Montgomery, forward	2	1	5
Dubino, center	1	0	2
Vondra, guard	0	0	0
Krutulis, guard	0	1	1
Dempsey, guard	1	0	2
Vigilante, guard	2	0	4
Carrig, forward	0	0	0
Hopkins, forward	1	1	3
Burlington, center	1	1	3
Totals	12	5	29
Score by halves:
Villanova	18	11—29
Hospital	14	9—23

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	2	2	6
Hopkins, forward	5	1	11
Dubino, center	0	0	0
Krutulis, guard	0	1	1
Vigilante, guard	3	2	8
Burlington, center	0	1	1
Wanamaker, guard	0	0	0
Carrig, forward	2	1	5
Dempsey, guard	1	0	2
Kuber, guard	0	0	0
Vondra, guard	0	0	0
Totals	13	8	34

POTTSTOWN	G.	F.	P.
Pollick, forward	0	0	0
Powell, forward	0	0	0
G. Kozlowski, center	2	1	5
A. Kozlowski, guard	1	2	4
Sweda, guard	1	0	2
Takach, guard	0	0	0
Foley, guard	2	3	7
Hoslador, guard	0	1	1
Totals	6	7	19
Score by halves:
Villanova	10	24—34
Pottstown	5	14—19

W. Catholic Wins Swimming Tourney

Continued From Page Seven

relay team, bettered their last year mark by 3-10ths of a second, their time for this event was 1:48.4.

One of the most exciting events of the day was the performance of Jack Lynch, a one legged swimmer of St. Francis Prep. He won the 100 yard back stroke in 1:7.2. This mark was 7 seconds better than last years mark set by Bill Bowwin of West Catholic.

One of the upsets was recorded when Charlie Timmins, Burr diver defeated Ed Banin, Brooklyn Prep in the fancy diving. Banin is the champion inter-scholastic diver of New York City, while Timmins is the champion for the Catholic League here in the Quaker City. Timmins had a total of 58:4 points, Ed Pfeiffer also of West Catholic finished second with 58 points, the New Yorker finished third with 53:7 points.

Falcons Shatter Mark

The remaining record was broken by North Catholics medley relay team. The "Falcons" gained two first places in this meet. The relay composed of Spangler, Fiedler and Casey beat St. Francis to win this 150 yard event in 1:29.5. West Catholic had formerly held the record for this event in 1:31. 8.

Spangler of the Falcons defeated Hugh Coyle in the 100 yard breast stroke event in 1:15.7 He barely nosed out Coyle of Roman Catholic.

Bill Cail established a new mark when he won the 220 yard free style in 2:29.5. This time was better than that set up by Bill Leahy of 2:36.7.

There were seven schools entered. These sent over a hundred representatives to contest. The meet was very interesting as can be seen by the above data.

The summaries:

200-Yard Relay (on Time)

First heat—Won by St. Francis, Brooklyn; Gibbons, Diamond, McKee, Preachy); second, La Salle; third, Roman Catholic; fourth, St. Joseph's. Time 1.51.3.

Second heat—Won by West Catholic (Timmens, Maitet, Sherlock, Rowan); second, Brooklyn Prep; third, North Catholic. Time, 1.8.4. (New record. Old record, 1.48.7 made by West Catholic (Rowland, McDermott, Murray, Leary) 1935.

Brooklyn Prep; third, St. Francis, Brooklyn; fourth, La Salle.

100-Yard Breaststroke

First heat—Won by Charles Spangler, North Catholic; second, Hugh Coyle, Roman Catholic; third, Joseph Boyer, West Catholic; fourth, Joseph Furey, St. Joseph's. Time, 1.15.7.

Second heat—Won by Saisman, West Catholic; second, Whalen, West Catholic; third, Bichon, St. Joseph's. Time, 1.29.4.

Final—Won by Spangler; second, Hugh Coyle; third, Joe Boyer; fourth, Saisnon. Time, 1.15.7.

220-Yard Freestyle

First heat—Won by Bill Hooper, West Catholic; second, Gowen, North Catholic; third, Doyle, St. Joseph's; fourth, Henkies, Roman Catholic. Time 2.39.9.

Second heat—Won by Bill Call, St. Francis, Brooklyn; second, Lumsden, North Catholic; third, Steiert, West Catholic. Time, 2.29.5.

Final—Won by Bill Call; second, Lumsden; third, Hooper; fourth, Steiert. Time, 2.29.5. (New record. Old record 2.36.7 made by Bill Leahy, St. Joseph's, 1935.)

100-Yard Backstroke

First heat—Won by Lawler, Brooklyn Prep; second, eLahy, St. Joseph's; third, McDermott, West Catholic; fourth, Farrell, North Catholic. Time, 1.12.9.

Second heat—Won by John Lynch, St. Francis, Brooklyn; second, Flynn, Roman Catholic; third, Weed, St. Joseph's. Time, 1.07.2. (New record. Old record 1.14.2 made by William Boudwin, West Catholic, 1935.)

Third heat—Won by Harvey, Brooklyn Prep; second, Fiedler, North Catholic; third, Diamond, St. Francis, Brooklyn. Time 1.15.7.

Final—Won by John Lynch; second, Lawler; third, Harvey; fourth, Fiedler. Time, 1.07.2.

100-Yard Freestyle

First heat—Won by Tom Rowan, West Catholic; second, Kempton, West Catholic; third, O'Neill, Roman Catholic; fourth, Furlong, North Catholic. Time 1.02.3.

Second heat—Won by McKee, St. Francis, Brooklyn; second, Maletet, West Catholic; third, O'Bert, St. Joseph's; fourth, Clyne, North Catholic. Time, 1.03.2.

Third heat—Won by Walter Kelley, West Catholic; second, Burns, La Salle; third, Gibbons, St. Francis. Time, 56 seconds. (New record. Old record, 459.9 seconds made by Bill Leahy, St. Joseph's, 1935.)

Final—Won by Kelley; second, Burns; third, Rowan; fourth, McKee. Time, 56 seconds.

50-Yard Freestyle

Final—Won by Kelley; second, Edmonds; third, Steinglass; fourth, Coyle. Time, 25 seconds. (New championship and pool record. Old championship record, 26.1 seconds made by Kelley, 1935. Pool record held by Bill Leahy, Villanova, 25.3 seconds.)

Diving

Won by Timmens, West Catholic, 58.4 points; second, Pfeiffer, West Catholic, 58 points; third, Bannin, Brooklyn Prep, 53.7 points; fourth, Sweda, North Catholic, 49.9 points.

150-Yard Medley Relay

Won by North Catholic (Fiedler, Spangler, Casey); second, St. Francis, Brooklyn; third, West Catholic; fourth, Roman Catholic. Time, 1 min. 29.5 sec. (New record. Old record held by West Catholic (Boudin, McKee, Kelley, 1 min. 31.8 sec.)

TWELVE CONTESTS ON FOREIGN SOIL

Penn Will Be Met in Opener At Franklin Field April 1st

Schedule

Apr.	1	Penn	Away
"	2	Cornell	Home
"	3	Princeton	Away
"	15	Ursinus	Away
"	16	St. John's	Home
"	17	Providence	Home
"	18	Penn A. C.	Home
"	25	Lehigh	Away
"	28	Temple	Away
"	30	Colgate	Away
May	1	Cornell	Away
"	2	Bucknell	Away
"	5	Lehigh	Home
"	6	Temple	Home
"	8	Long Island U.	Away
"	9	Fordham	Away
"	13	St. John's	Away
"	14	Providence	Away
"	22	Ursinus	Home
"	25	Long Island U.	Home

With April 1st set as the opening date, the baseball team has begun its daily practices in the new gym. With most of last year's regulars back and a host of new candidates coming up from the freshman ranks, Coach Jacobs will have an abundance of material round from which heh can build a fine team.

From last year's varsity team these men return: Arthur Mahan, Leo Schoppmeyer, Ben Geraghty, Bunny Galazin, Mike O'Meara and Bill Vaughn. Around these men Coach Doc Jacobs will have the nucleus of his 1936 baseball team. With Mahan on first base, Schoppmeyer on second and Geraghty at short stop he has what appears to be one of the best infields in the East. Mahan is a terrific slugger, last year he batted well over three hundred and the same is expected of him this coming season. Schoppmeyer, a brilliant fielder is expected to regain the batting form displayed by him during his freshman year. Last year he had an almost perfect fielding record, but his batting average was not up to par. Ben Geraghty, who is expected to go to the majors after his college days, is also expected to be a big help, both afield and at bat this season. Of the outfielders Galazin and O'Meara are the only veterans to return. Galazin during his freshman year was a terrific hitter, but last year, due to a back ailment he was not able to do himself justice.

With such notable teams as Penn, Cornell, Princeton, Temple and Colgate on their schedule the baseball team will have to work pretty hard in order to round into form by April 1st since the weather will not permit them to go outdoors for several weeks.

MENDEL COMMUTERS SET PACE IN LOOP

Kerrigan, O'Connor and Barr Go on Scoring Spree Against Foes

Last week's schedule practically clinched the second half title for the Mendel Day Hops when they garnered three more victories to run their total up to eight straight wins.

The Mendel commuters set up a new record when they tallied 65 points against the business men. Every player on the team scored as every shot that the Mendelites made seemed to ring true. Especial credit can be given to no individuals, as the whole team played as a unit.

Mendel's two other victories were scored at the expense of the Austinites and the Mendel boarders. In both these contests Mendel ran up an early lead and was never headed. The battle with Austin was the more keenly contested, but the superiority of the Day Hops was never in question. Mendel will have to drop their two remaining contests and Alumni will have to win their three remaining tussles if the Mendelites are even to be tied.

Two other games were played with Alumni breaking even. Alumni beat Fedigan rather easily and their defeat at the hands of the Austinites has been protested With one and one-half minutes of the game remaining Austin held an eight point advantage, leading 26-18. The Alumni quintet started to rally and in less than a minute the score stood at 26-24. Austin started to rally and in less than a minute the score stood at 26-24. Austin started to freeze the ball but Alumni gained possession of the ball under Austin's basket and a long pass was made to Bobrowski of Alumni who was standing under his own basket. He made a successful lay-up shot, and as the ball was in mid-air the timekeeper's whistle blew ending the game.

The basket was obviously good and was so called by the referee. However, Conch Robinson of Austin and Fr. McKee, Austin's moderator, both claimed that the game was over before the final basket was made. They, agreed, however, to play an extra period under protest. During the extra period Austin tallied two field goals while holding Alumni scoreless. During the extra period, however, Austin's victory was practically nullified, for Jack Robinson made a substitution which is never allowed in an extra period.

Fr. Ludwig, Alumni's coach, has entered a protest to the Intramural Board, basing his claims on Austin's illegal substitution.

Quite a lot depends on the decision of the board, for, if they decide in favor of Alumni, the outcome of the second half will be a toss-up.

Second half anecdotes...Scoring ability of Mike Totin and George Schelle . . . inability of the C. and F. five to win a game . . . the record score turn up by the Mendel Day Hop quintet

PENNACS ON TOP

Bill Anderson's Penn A. C. quintet trimmed Brooklyn K. of C. by a 40-34 count Saturday at New York. Johnny Jones led the Pennacs with 20 points.

Helps Shatter Jinx

MICHAEL O'MEARA

Showing his basketball "eye" to advantage, Mike O'Meara, star forward, was instrumental in shaking the "jinx" that has prevailed over the Villanova five, last Wewnesday night. His late field goals proved to be the deciding factor of the tussle.

Lafayette Breaks Swimmers' Streak

Continued From Page Seven

Kiefer, Lafayette, set a fast pace to lead his teammate, Jack Light and Toby Greco, Villanova, in the smart time of 2:52. Kiefer won over his opponents by a small margin, and was pressed closely at the finish.

Hensler Double Winner

The Maroons had their star and most consistent performer entered in the 440- and 220-yard freestyle. John Hensler, besides taking these two events in good time, added still more points to Lafayette's total by coming in first as anchor man on the relay team.

In the 440, Hensler and Smart both outswam Wilmer Booth to take first and second in six minutes.

Villanova's only first came in the 150-yard breaststroke, when Wilmer Booth showed his heels in a clean victory over Emmett and Imel, Lafayette, in 2:59:8.

Lafayette's monotonous firsts and seconds began again, to continue for the end of the meet. Stoffett and Papp took the 50-yard freestyle, with Duffy, Villanova, third. John Hansler and Heim won the 220, leading Toby Greco and the Maroons clinched the 440 relay.

The diving meet was again won by Lafayete with Borroman piling up 112.22 points to set a new pool record. Hartranft took a second, with Bill Durkin, Villanova, taking third.

Durkin's performance was all the more remarkable, as the Lafayette meet was the first time he had ever entered competition in intercollegiates as a diver. Coach Gil particularly praised this sophomore for his courage and ability.

Wildcats Win And Lose in Two Frays

Continued From Page Seven

within a point of the pace-setters. Mike O'Meara was the Wildcat hero of this occasion. In less than a minute he racked up three field goals from the middle of the floor. These last goals gave Villanova a lead that was not overtaken.

The C. C. N. Y. game in New York was a different matter entirely. It was the worst defeat the 'Cats have been administered this season. Against St. John's and Manhattan the Blue and White played good ball and with a little more luck could have eked out a victory.

'Cats Score First

The Wildcats started the game off on the right foot when they scored first, but the Lavender's very effective zone defense soon had the visitors thoroughly under control. Then the City College boys set their own scoring machine in action and put the game on ice.

Strangely enough, the Lavender scoring parade was headed by the two guards, Fliegel and Levine, who garnered enough points between them to beat the 'Cats. Levine with 4 field goals and 3 fouls was individual high scorer, followed closely by Fliegel, who had 2 goals and 5 foul tosses.

Capt. Ben Garghty was the leader of the Villanova's meager scoring with 5 points. The efficiency of the C. C. N. Y. zone defense can be easily realized when one sees a total of but 6 goals from the field by the Wildcats.

In the last few games, even in the ones they lost, Villanova held its own from the field but lost because of inaccuracy at the foul line. However, against City College they were outscored 12-6 in field goals.

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
O'Meara, forward	4	0	8
Geraghty, forward, guard	1	0	2
Noonan, forward	1	2	4
Brennan, center	1	0	2
McNally, guard	3	2	8
Ryan, guard, center	0	2	2
Robinson, guard	1	0	2
Totals	11	6	28

DICKINSON	G.	F.	P.
K'rst'er, forward	0	0	0
Miller, forward	4	2	10
Sivess, center	0	1	1
Eaton, guard, center	2	2	6
Sterner, guard	0	2	2
Doll, guard	1	0	2
Smith, forward	0	0	0
Totals	8	5	21

Halftime score: Villanova, 11; Dickinson, 8. Referees: Dan Redmond and Tom Devlin. Time of halves: 20 minutes.

C. C. N. Y. (36)	G.	F.	P.
Seldman, lf	0	0	0
Singer, lf	2	1	5
Goldstein, rf	1	3	5
Kovner, rf	1	0	2
Katz, rf	2	0	4
Kopitko, c	0	0	0
Fliegel, lg	2	5	9
Levine, rg	4	3	11
I. Katz, rg	0	1	1
Totals	12	12	36

VILLANOVA (18)	G.	F.	P.
O'Meara, lf	1	1	3
Geraghty, rg	1	3	5
Brennan, c	1	1	3
Ryan, lg	1	0	2
Noonan, rf	1	0	2
McNally rg	1	1	3
Collins, rg	0	0	0
Robinson, rg	0	0	0
Totals	6	6	18

Referee: Dave Welsh. Umpire: Dick Meehan. Time of halves: 20 minutes.

HANGER SPARKLES

Roger Hanger, who was captain of Lower Merion High's State championship five of 1933, led Penn to a 38-31 victory over Cornell last Saturday. Hanger collected 13 markers.

Intra-Mural Line-ups and Scores

ALUMNI HALL	G.	F.	P.
V. McHugh, forward	4	1	9
Horn, forward	1	0	2
O'Connell, center	2	2	6
Brobowski, guard	4	1	9
Murphy, guard	1	1	3
Totals	13	5	31

FEDIGAN HALL	G.	F.	P.
Sheftic, forward	6	1	13
Stotter, forward	1	0	2
Shea, center	1	0	2
Angiolozi, guard	1	0	2
Stahmann, guard	1	0	2
Totals	12	2	26

C. & F. DAY HOPS	G.	F.	P.
Brasca, forward	1	0	2
J. Schelle, forward	2	0	4
A. Connor, center	1	0	2
G. Schelle, guard	7	0	14
Allessandroli, guard	2	0	4
Totals	13	2	28

MENDEL DAY HOPS	G.	F.	P.
Burns, forward	1	0	2
Beittenmiller, forward	6	3	15
Narkin, center	4	0	8
O'Connor, center	3	1	7
Thorne, guard	4	0	8
Murphy, guard	2	0	4
Barr, forward	8	0	13
Agnes, guard	4	0	8
Totals	30	5	55

AUSTIN HALL	G.	F.	P.
McGrory, center	1	0	2
Conte, forward	2	0	4
Fr. McKee, forward	1	0	2
Gadsby, guard	1	0	2
McCabe, guard	0	1	1
Totals	5	2	12

MENDEL DAY HOPS	G.	F.	P.
Beittenmiller, forward	1	1	3
O'Connor, forward	4	1	9
Duffy, center	4	1	9
Agnes, guard	1	0	2
Murphy, guard	1	0	2
Totals	8	3	19

AUSTIN	G.	F.	P.
Totin, forward	6	1	13
Dinges, forward	1	0	2
F. McShea, center	1	0	2
Conte, center	2	0	4
McCabe, guard	1	1	3
Mayell, guard	2	3	7
Totals	13	4	30

ALUMNI	G.	F.	P.
Bobrowski, forward	1	0	2
Soviero, forward	0	2	2
Horn, forward	3	0	6
O'Connell, center	2	0	4
Higgins, center	0	2	2
Pantaleo, guard	2	1	5
V. McHugh, guard	2	0	4
Totals	10	6	25

MENDEL RESIDENTS	G.	F.	P.
Costello, forward	2	1	5
Carroll, forward	1	0	2
Hart, center	4	1	9
Dimon, guard	1	0	2
Delate, guard	1	0	2
Capellaro, guard	1	0	2
Schaedler, guard	1	0	2
Totals	10	3	23

MENDEL DAY HOPS	G.	F.	P.
Murphy, forward	0	1	1
McManus, forward	1	1	3
Barr, forward	3	2	8
O'Connor, center	5	2	12
Beittenmiller, guard	2	1	5
Totals	11	7	29

Intra-Mural Standings

	W.	L.
Mendel Day Hops	8	0
Alumni	5	2
Mendel Residents	3	3
Austin	2	3
Fedigan	1	6
C. & F. Dayhops	0	4

In the Limelight

By NORTON CRANE PADEN

HEIGH ho and lack a day — here we are back on the old column after a long lay off due to brain fag. I hope you liked the guest writers. As basketball season is still running high it is altogether proper that another basketeer well known by Villanovans should enter this column. Jack Robinson, commonly known as Robbie, but christened John Joseph Aloysius Robinson, was born in Brooklyn. The natal day took place on January 2, 1914, just a little too late to be a New Year's present.

Upon being informed of the good news Mr. Robinson Sr. ceased his attempt to wear a path in the hospital corridor and began to plan a successful future for his boy. After this momentous decision, four or five years passed. During this time many changes occurred in the life of our young hero. The most notable of these was his transition from the clamp on type of unmentionables.

It was during this time that dolls took a backward step and little Jawn decided to become a man. Subsequently he entered the Queen of All Saints Grammar School. Brooklyn thinks well of its native son as Robbie has never moved from there; in fact, he has never left the house where he first saw the light of day.

Now to get on with my yarn. A very eventful eight years were in store for our hero when he entered grammar school and he took advantage of every opportunity to build himself up physically. (It is partly due to this early training that Robbie is considered by his erstwhile manager, Tom Ryan, as Villanova's white hope.)

During his stay at this elementary school Jack played three sports; namely, basketball, baseball and football. It was on this basketball team that Robbie got his first taste of competitive ball at forward. He played this position at forward for two years and a wealth of information was gained by this association to serve him in good stead later on. Football also claimed his attention and Robbie, already wellversed in the art of snapping the ball, took his place at center and held down this position for two years. At baseball games Jack was to be found holding down a pasture position; namely, left field. For two seasons this spot held his attention.

His period of primary education finally up, Jack hied himself to Brooklyn Prep, were he was greeted with open arms. He remained at this institution four years playing football for one year at his old position at center. The other three years were devoted to the pursuit of studies and the playing of his favorite sport, basketball. The forward position was open and Robbie clamped down and cinched the job.

When he started down the floor the opposing players wished they had brought their bicycles or at least their roller skates. It took at least a Mack truck to stop him and sundry points were gained by our hero from as many points on the floor.

Graduation finally came and with tears the coaching staff and the faculty saw him bid his adieu to his prep. Jack then went to Long Island where his family were wont to spend the summers to recuperate and to gird himself for the coming ordeal when he entered Villanova as a freshman in the fall.

Robbie entered Villanova in the fall of '32 with a milling bunch of other frosh and was immediately assigned to the trunk-carrying brigade. He entered into all things with such good spirit that soon he was well liked by companion frosh and upper classmen alike. Nothing was too tough for Robbie to take though he often dodged the boys in the white hats as did all other frosh.

Fall slowly passed and it was basketball season at last. Robbie enrolled in the ranks of the frosh basketeers and demonstrated by his knowledge and keen eye that he was entitled to a berth on the squad. He was assigned his old familiar position at forward and was instrumental in garnering many points for the Main Line Kittens.

During this season, the Frosh were quite successful in their attempt to bring the bacon back to Villanova and only lost two games. (Robbie thinks that they won about nine.) As this took up most of his time during the winter, Robbie decided that he had been inside too long and he started to play intra-mural baseball.

After summer vacation, he returned to Villanova as a proud bearer of a white hat. As a V. C. he was terrific. (I ought to know I was a member of the entering freshman class. The things I learned in the first few days would amaze you.) He played varsity basketball in this year at his position at forward and also played a few intra-mural sports as well.

During the summer of his sophomore year, Robbie worked as a counsellor at a boys' camp teaching all the dear little fellows how to have muscles like Popeye and a physique like Charles Atlas.

Junior year finally rolled around and with it came Jack. It was during this year that Robbie took upon himself not only the job of holding down his position at forward on the varsity quintet but also undertook the job as mentor of the Fedigan Hall basketeers. During the balmy season, Jack swung a mean golf club averaging better than many of them and as good as some.

The summer vacation finally came and Robbie desirous of being better remunerated for his summer services joined the Pinkerton Detective Agency and worked as a Dick or a Flycop for the remainder of the summer. I forgot to mention that Jack was a very active member of the Junior Prom Committee and helped to make the Prom a success by his unceasing efforts.

Robbie is a member of the senior class and is one of the mainstays of the varsity team. Even though the team has not had a very successful season to date, Robbie has done well. Recently he completed his work on the Senior Prom Committee and as the Prom was voted a complete success, committee work really helped it.

Jack is a Senior Arts man and is planning a career as a barrister after the completion of his work at Villanova. His favorite sport is basketball, of course, and his favorite indoor sport is bridge. He lays all the credit of being a bridge shark on the doorstep of Mr. Simms.

As a pool and billiard player he is unsurpassed.

A member of the Varsity Club Robbie is one of the most popular and active men on the campus. It will be with regret that we will see him go this June but our congratulations will be for a real "good egg."

Sportorial

Continued From Page Seven

the project Well, it would take very little to equip a soccer squad. The only equipment needed is a pair of shoes and a suit for each member of the squad.

As far as the arranging of a schedule is concerned, there would be no difficulty as any of the leading collegiate teams would be "tickled" to play you.

When you have eliminated the above obstacles, the way is clear. If the student body here took enough interest in the matter, we feel sure that it would meet with the approval of the authorities and thus make way for a still wider field of athletics for Villanova College

Baseball Schedule Includes Twenty Games

HOME SEASON ENDS WITH MAROON FIVE

Lafayette Quintet Is Last Foe Of Season on Local Court

Lafayette will help close the home season for the Villanova basketeers when they clash with Captain Ben Geraghty and his mates, in what should prove to be an interesting game tomorrow night, at the college gym.

The Maroon five from Easton, Pa., has completed an enviable record so far this season, and they will endeavor to add the Wildcats to their list of victims. The visitors are led by Captain Ira Sturman, former all-State forward of New Jersey, from Bordentown Military School.

Coach Shellenberger boasts of a fast and aggressive squad, as most of the players are recruited from the football eleven. He believes that this game will be one of the severest tasks undertaken by his minions, so far this season, even though the Reliacs have cut into plenty of bad luck.

Shellenberger will probably start his strongest line-up, which is centered around Bob Wolf, a former guard who has been converted into a pivot man. He will be flanked by Bill Wild and Sturman at forwards, with Jack Cooper, a highly touted defense man and either Charley Collini or Rossiter at the guard posts.

LAFAYETTE		VILLANOVA
Wild	forward	Geraghty
Sturman	forward	Nosnin
Wolf	center	Brennan
Cooper	guard	O'Meara
Collini	guard	McNally

TRACK TEAM HOLDS INITIAL PRACTICE

Successful Season Predicted; Excellent Material Found Among Candidates

This afternoon track will get under way when all candidates will have a brief workout on the board track beneath the north stand of the stadium. All those who are interested in engaging in track are requested to report to room 213 in Mendel Hall at one o'clock this afternoon where they will receive the necessary information.

Since track is a major sport, freshmen are not eligible to compete on the team but all freshmen who are desirous of participating in track in their upper years are urged to come out and work with the Varsity.

Three meets are already definitely scheduled, but the final dates have not been settled upon. They are with La Salle, Temple and West Chester Teachers. Other meets are pending and a full schedule will soon be completed.

Villanova should have a good year on the cinder path since there is no dearth of excellent material from which to form a team. Those who are expected to form the nucleus of the team are Benedict Maloney, in the one and two mile run; Charles Kuhn in the mile; Joseph Shea, who will also compete in the longer distances; Charles Noonan, who will compete in the pole vault, and Frank Nye, who will putt the shot.

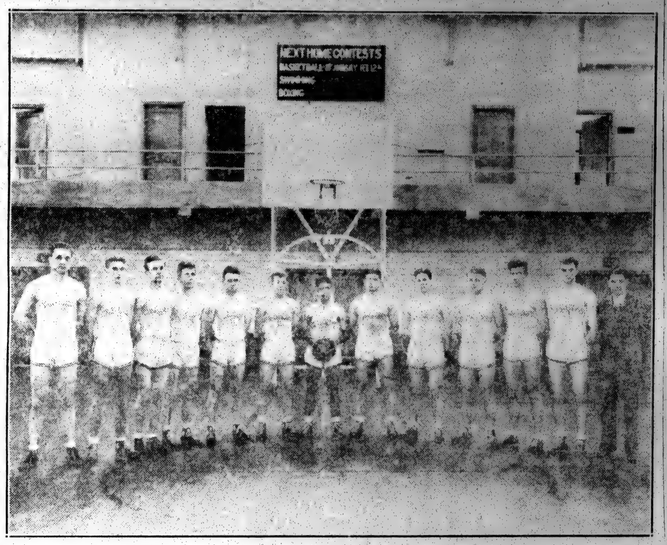
Football Men to Run

Fritz Monahan will continue to run the sprints as he did on last year's team. Bill Christopher and Art Raimo will run in the sprints if football practice does not interfere. Jerry Sherlock and Jack Earle will both compete in the 440 yard dashes.

George Wiedon, who is a two year Varsity man, is expected to earn valuable points in the quarter mile and is expected to stabilize the relay team. Vic Asbo and Bill Doherty can be counted on to garner points in the furlong dash. Tom Clarke will engage in both the broad jump and high jump while Bill Sweeny and Walt Korchinski will hurl the javelin and discus.

With these men as a center a good track team is expected. Entries will probably be made in the Penn relays if a good mile relay is formed and if individual performances come through as expected.

Undefeated Freshmen to Meet Ursinus



—Photo Courtesy 1936 Belle Air

Villanova's prospects of stellar seasons for the next three years are justified by this undefeated freshman basketball squad. Reading from left to right are: Walter Burlington, Joseph Carrig, Abraham Hobson, Louis Wannemacher, Ace Hopkins, John Krutulis, Arthur Vigilante, captain of the team; Matthew Kuhr, Jack Dempsey, Charles Vondra, Louis Dubino, James Montgomery and Coach Al Severance. The Frosh play two games over the weekend with Temple and Ursinus. They broke a 23-game winning streak of the Owls two weeks ago, and the Temple Frosh are out for revenge.

TWELVE CONTESTS ON FOREIGN SOIL

Penn Will Be Met in Opener At Franklin Field April 1st

Schedule

Apr.	1—Penn	Away
"	2—Cornell	Home
"	3—Princeton	Away
"	15—Ursinus	Away
"	16—St. John's	Home
"	17—Providence	Home
"	18—Penn, A. C.	Home
"	25—Lehigh	Away
"	28—Temple	Away
"	30—Colgate	Away
May	1—Cornell	Away
"	2—Bucknell	Away
"	5—Lehigh	Home
"	6—Temple	Home
"	8—Long Island U.	Away
"	9—Fordham	Away
"	13—St. John's	Away
"	14—Providence	Away
"	22—Ursinus	Home
"	25—Long Island U.	Home

With April 1st set as the opening date, the baseball team has begun its daily practices in the new gym. With most of last year's regulars back and a host of new candidates coming up from the freshman ranks, Coach Jacobs will have an abundance of material round from which heh can build a fine team.

From last year's varsity team these men return: Arthur Mahan, Leo Schoppmeyer, Ben Geraghty, Bunny Galazin, Mike O'Meara and Bill Vaughn. Around these men Coach Doc Jacobs will have the nucleus of his 1936 baseball team. With Mahan on first base, Schoppmeyer on second and Geraghty at short stop he has what appears to be one of the best infields in the East. Mahan is a terrific slugger, last year he batted well over three hundred and the same is expected of him this coming season. Schoppmeyer, a brilliant fielder is expected to regain the batting form displayed by him during his freshman year. Last year he had an almost perfect fielding record, but his batting average was not up to par. Ben Geraghty, who is expected to go to the majors after his college days, is also expected to be a big help, both afield and at bat this season. Of the outfielders Galazin and O'Meara are the only veterans to return. Galazin during his freshman year was a terrific hitter, but last year, due to a back ailment he was not able to do himself justice.

With such notable teams as Penn, Cornell, Princeton, Temple and Colgate on their schedule the baseball team will have to work pretty hard in order to round into form by April 1st since the weather will not permit them to go outdoors for several weeks.

Kittens Continue Unbeaten Streak With Twelfth Consecutive Victory

Continued From Page Seven

for the Blue and White and 14 for the Doctors.

Kittens Finish Fast

Hospital's late first-half drive was continued until Wanamaker broke an 18-18 tie with a foul. Three more points were added to the Main Line score before the Sea Doctors counted on Duck's second foul of the game. Dubino, Hopkins and Vigilante then chalked up seven markers to provide the margin of victory. Bruflat and Burgess ended the setto with a field goal apiece.

Tuesday afternoon the Pottstown Falcons fell in a one-sided affair which culminated in a 34-19 score. Vigilante counted first for the Main Liners. Three more points were added before the Birds were able to break into the scoring column. G. Kozlowski tacked on a second basket to Sweda's first, bringing the score up to within a single marker of the amount compiled by the Frosh. There was not much action for the rest of the half, only one more marker being racked up by the Pottstowners and five by the victors. Hopkins counted two field goals and Montgomery one to conclude the scoring for the half.

Hopkins Paces Scorers

After the intermission the Townies were thanked after Foley's double-decker, while Thew Yearlings rushed the score to 23-7, with Joe Hopkins leading the pack. The boys then eased the pressure long enough to allow the visitors a point on Hoslader's free throw. Four more tallies were chalked up by the Kitten machine and then the Falcons were permitted a few moments with the ball. Johnny Krutilis hurt his ankle at this point and had to be removed from the fray. Joe Carrig sank two field goals and Duke Dempsey one to conclude the contest with the Linfers far ahead, 34-19.

Victory No. 12 was gained at the expense of the Star Printers of Coatesville. There was no difficulty in winning this battle as the Printers at no time being within striking distance of the Thirty-Niners.

Compile Huge Lead

Montgomery dropped a twin pointer to open the attack and in short order the Coatesvillians found themselves with a deficit of five points. Conrad scored on a foul and then, with the tally 8-5, the Cats ran up five markers before Morgan counted the Typers' only field goal of the half. Vigilante replied in like manner to bring the score to 15-7 as the teams left the floor.

In an abbreviated second half, the Villanova quintet bore down on the opposition and quickly put the game on ice with seven tallies. Slider's toss from the charity circle was good and this, coupled with baskets by McLean and Conrad completed the losers' scoring for this half. Wanamaker and Vigilante each swished the hoop from the field to put the final touches on the 12th straight of the season.

Lineups:

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	3	1	7
Hopkins, forward	2	1	5
Dubino, center	2	0	4
Wanamaker, guard	2	0	4
Vigilante, guard	2	0	4
Curtis, forward	0	0	0
Dempsey, guard	1	0	2
Totals	12	2	26

STAR PRINTERS—COATESVILLE	G.	F.	P.
Conrad, forward	1	1	3
Deering, forward	0	0	0
Morgan, center	1	2	4
Slider, guard	0	1	1
Crose, guard	0	2	2
McLean, guard	1	0	2
Roper, guard	0	0	0
Totals	12	2	26

Score by halves:

Villanova	15	11—26
Coatesville	7	5—12

U. S. NAVAL HOSPITAL

	G.	F.	P.
Bergan, forward	1	0	2
Kubiza, forward	1	0	2
Dam, forward	1	3	5
Bruflat, center	0	0	0
Chumpler, center	0	0	0
Deagan, forward	0	0	0
Duck, guard	1	2	4
Burgess, guard	2	0	4
Totals	9	5	23

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
Wanamaker, forward	1	1	3
Kuhrr, forward	0	0	0
Montgomery, forward	2	1	5
Dubino, center	1	0	2
Vondra, guard	0	0	0
Krutulis, guard	0	1	1
Dempsey, guard	1	2	4
Vigilante, guard	2	0	4
Carrig, forward	0	0	0
Hopkins, forward	1	1	3
Burlington, center	1	1	3
Totals	12	5	29

Score by halves:

Villanova	18	11—29
Hospital	14	9—23

VILLANOVA	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	2	2	6
Hopkins, forward	5	1	11
Dubino, center	0	0	0
Krutulis, guard	0	1	1
Vigilante, guard	3	2	8
Burlington, center	0	1	1
Wanamaker, guard	0	0	0
Carrig, forward	2	1	5
Dempsey, guard	1	0	2
Kuhrr, guard	0	0	0
Vondra, guard	0	0	0
Totals	13	8	34

POTTSTOWN	G.	F.	P.
Pollick, forward	0	0	0
Powell, forward	0	1	1
G. Kozlowski, center	2	1	5
A. Kozlowski, guard	1	2	4
Sweda, guard	2	1	5
Takach, guard	0	0	0
Foley, guard	2	1	5
Hostader, guard	0	1	1
Totals	9	7	19

Score by halves:

Villanova	10	24—34
Pottstown	5	14—19

W. Catholic Wins Swimming Tourney

Continued From Page Seven

relay team, bettered their last year mark by 3-10ths of a second, their time for this event was 1:48.4.

One of the most exciting events of the day was the performance of Jack Lynch, a one legged swimmer of St. Francis Prep. He won the 100 yard back stroke in 1:12. This mark was 7 seconds better than last years mark set by Bill Bowwin of West Catholic.

One of the upsets was recorded when Charlie Timmins, Burr diver defeated Ed Banin, Brooklyn Prep in the fancy diving. Banin is the champion inter-scholastic diver of New York City, while Timmins is the champion for the Catholic League here in the Quaker City. Timmins had a total of 58:4 points, Ed Pfeiffer also of West Catholic finished second with 58 points, the New Yorker finished third with 53:7 points.

Falcons Shatter Mark

The remaining record was broken by North Catholics medley relay team. The "Falcons" gained two first places in this meet. The relay composed of Spangler, Fiedler and Casey beat St. Francis to win this 150 yard event in 1:29.5. West Catholic had formerly held the record for this event in 1:31. 8.

Spangler of the Falcons defeated Hugh Coyle in the 100 yard breast stroke event in 1:15.7. He barely nosed out Coyle of Roman Catholic.

Bill Call established a new mark when he won the 220 yard free style in 2:29.5. This time was better than that set up by Bill Leahy of 2:36.7.

There were seven schools entered. These sent over a hundred representatives to compete. The meet was very interesting as can be seen by the above data.

The summaries:

300-Yard Relay (on Time)

First heat—Won by St. Francis, Brooklyn (Gibbons, Diamond, McRee, Dresch); second, La Salle; third, Roman Catholic; fourth, St. Joseph's. Time 1.54.3.

Second heat—Won by West Catholic (Timmins, Miller, Sherlock, Rowan); second, Brooklyn Prep; third, North Catholic. Time, 1.54.5. (New record. Old record, 1:54.7 made by West Catholic (Rowan, Timmins, Miller, Sherlock).

Final—Won by West Catholic; second, St. Joseph's; third, Murray, Leary). 1935.

Brooklyn Prep; third, St. Francis, Brooklyn; fourth, La Salle.

100-Yard Breaststroke

First heat—Won by Charles Spangler, North Catholic; second, Hugh Coyle, Roman Catholic; third, Joseph Boyer, West Catholic; fourth, Joseph Furey, St. Joseph's. Time, 1.15.7.

Second heat—Won by Raisman, West Catholic; second, Whalen, West Catholic; third, Eichman, St. Joseph's. Time 1.25.4.

Final—Won by Spangler; second, Hugh Coyle; third, Joe Boyer; fourth, Raisman. Time, 1.15.7.

220-Yard Freestyle

First heat—Won by Bill Hooper, West Catholic; second, Gowen, North Catholic; third, Doyle, St. Joseph's; fourth, Henkles, Roman Catholic. Time 2.39.9.

Second heat—Won by Bill Call, St. Francis, Brooklyn; second, Lumsden, North Catholic; third, Steiert, West Catholic. Time, 2.29.5.

Final—Won by Bill Call; second, Lumsden; third, Hooper; fourth, Steiert. Time, 2.29.5. (New record. Old record 2.36.7 made by Bill Leahy, St. Joseph's, 1935.)

150-Yard Backstroke

First heat—Won by Lawler, Brooklyn Prep; second, eLahy, St. Joseph's; third, McDermott, West Catholic; fourth, Farrell, North Catholic. Time, 1.12.9.

Second heat—Won by John Lynch, St. Francis, Brooklyn; second, Flinn, Roman Catholic; third, Weeks, St. Joseph's. Time, 1.07.2. (New record. Old record, 1.14.2 made by William Boudwin, West Catholic, 1935.)

Final—Won by Harvey, Brooklyn Prep; second, Fiedler, North Catholic; third, Diamond, St. Francis, Brooklyn. Time 1.15.7.

Final—Won by John Lynch; second, Lawler; third, Harvey; fourth, Fiedler. Time, 1.07.2.

100-Yard Freestyle

First heat—Won by Tom Rowan, West Catholic; second, Kempton, West Catholic; third, O'Neill, Roman Catholic; fourth, Furlong, North Catholic. Time 1.16.3.

Second heat—Won by McKee, St. Francis, Brooklyn; second, Matetel, West Catholic; third, O'Bert, St. Joseph's; fourth, Clifford, North Catholic. Time 1.03.2.

Final heat—Won by Walter Kelley, West Catholic; second, Burns, La Salle; third, Gibbons, St. Francis. Time, 56 seconds. (New record. Old record, 1.59.9 seconds made by Bill Leahy, St. Joseph's, 1935.) Kenny Nolan second, Burns third; Rowan; fourth, McKee. Time, 55 seconds.

50-Yard Freestyle

Final—Won by Kelley; second, Edmondson; third, Steinglass; fourth, Coyle. Time, 25 seconds. (New championship and pool record. Old championship record, 26.1 seconds, made by Kelley, 1935. Pool record held by Bill Leahy, Villanova, 25.3 seconds.)

Diving

Won by Timmons, West Catholic, 84.4 points; second, Preiffer, West Catholic, 58 points; third, Banain, Brooklyn Prep, 53.7 points; fourth, Swartz, North Catholic, 19.9 points.

150-Yard Medley Relay

Won by North Catholic (Fiedler, Spangler, Casey); second, St. Francis, Brooklyn; third, West Catholic; fourth, Roman Catholic. Time, 1 min. 29.5 sec. (New record. Old record held by West Catholic (Smith, McKee, Kelley, 1 min. 31.8 sec.)

MENDEL COMMUTERS SET PACE IN LOOP

Kerrigan, O'Connor and Barr Go on Scoring Spree Against Foes

Last week's schedule practically clinched the second half title for the Mendel Day Hops when they garnered three more victories to run their total up to eight straight wins.

The Mendel commuters set up a new record when they tallied 65 points against the business men. Every player on the team scored as every shot that the Mendelites made seemed to ring true. Especial credit can be given to no individuals, as the whole team played as a unit.

Mendel's two other victories were scored at the expense of the Austinites and the Mendel boarders. In both these contests Mendel ran up an early lead and was never headed. The battle with Austin was the more keenly contested, but the superiority of the Day Hops was never in question. Mendel will have to drop their two remaining contests and Alumni will have to win their three remaining tussles if the Mendelites are even to be tied.

Two other games were played with Alumni breaking even. Alumni beat Federal Friday easily and their defeat at the hands of the Austinites has been protested. With one and one-half minutes of the game remaining, Austin held an eight point advantage, leading 20-12. The Alumni quintet started a last minute rally and [illegible] the score to 20-20. Alumni scored the ball under Austin's basket and a long pass was made to Bobrowski of Alumni who was standing under his own basket. He made a successful layup and as the ball was in motion the timekeeper's whistle blew ending the game.

The basket was obviously good and was so called by the referee. However, Gench Robinson of Austin and Fr. McKee, Austin's moderator, both claimed that the game was over before the final basket was made. They, agreed, however, to play an extra period under protest. During the extra period Austin tallied two field goals while holding Alumni scoreless. During the extra period, however, Austin's victory was practically nullified, for Jack Robinson made a substitution which is never allowed in an extra period.

Fr. Ludwig, Alumni's coach, has entered a protest to the Intramural Board, basing his claims on Austin's illegal substitution.

Quite a lot depends on the decision of the board, for, if they decide in favor of Alumni, the outcome of the second half will be a toss-up.

Second half anecdotes... Scoring ability of Mike Totin and George Schelle... Inability of the C. and F. five to win a game... The record old score run up by the Mendel Day Hop quintet...

PENNACS ON TOP

Bill Anderson's Penn A. C. quintet trimmed Brooklyn K. of C. by a 40-34 count Saturday at New York. Johnny Jones led the Pennacs with 20 points.

Helps Shatter Jinx

MICHAEL O'MEARA

Showing his basketball "eye" to advantage, Mike O'Meara, star forward, was instrumental in shaking the "jinx" that has prevailed over the Villanova five last Wednesday night. His [illegible] field goals proved to be the deciding factor of the fracas.

Wildcats Win And Lose in Two Frays

Continued From Page Seven

within a point of the pace-setters. Mike O'Meara was the Wildcat hero of this occasion. In less than a minute he racked up three field goals from the middle of the floor. These last goals gave Villanova a lead that was not overtaken.

The C. C. N. Y. game in New York was a different matter entirely. It was the worst defeat the Cats have been administered this season. Against St. John's and Manhattan the Blue and White played good ball and with a little more luck could have eked out a victory.

Cats Score First

The Wildcats started the game off on the right foot when they scored first, but the Lavender's very effective zone defense soon had the visitors thoroughly under control. Then the City College boys set their own scoring machine in action and put the game on ice.

Strangely enough the Lavender scoring parade was headed by the two guards, Fliegel and Levine, who garnered enough points between them to beat the Cats single-handed by field goals and 3 fouls was individual high scorer, followed closely by Fliegel who had 2 goals and 3 fouls to his credit.

Capt. Dan Conway was the leader of the Villanovans, missing only two free throws. The efficiency of the C. C. N. Y. zone defense can be easily realized when one [illegible] of his 9 goals from [illegible] to the Wildcats.

In the Villanova camp even [illegible] the Cats were hopelessly [illegible] Fliegel, Levine, Conway and Hoffman [illegible] Cats. The efficiency of the C. C. N. Y. zone defense can be easily realized when one [illegible] of his 9 goals from [illegible] to the Wildcats.

In the Villanova camp even [illegible] the Cats were hopelessly [illegible] Fliegel, Levine, Conway and Hoffman [illegible] Cats.

	G.	F.	P.
Totals	11	6	28

C. C. N. Y. (36)	G.	F.	P.
Seidman, lf	0	0	0
Singer, lf	2	1	5
Goldstein, rf	2	1	5
Kovner, rf	1	0	2
S. Katz, rf	2	0	4
Koplitz, c	0	1	1
Fliegel, lg	4	3	11
Levine, rg	4	1	9
I. Katz, rg	0	1	1
Totals	12	12	36

VILLANOVA (18)	G.	F.	P.
O'Meara, lf	3	1	7
Conway, rf	1	3	5
Brennan, c	1	1	3
Flynn, lg	1	0	2
Noonan, rg	0	0	0
McNally, rg	1	0	2
Totals	7	5	19

Referee, Dan Richmond and Tom Devine. Time of halves: 20 minutes.

Scoring by halves:

Villanova	8	21
C. C. N. Y.	11	25

Here and Tuesday

By EDWARD L. COLLINS

WELL, I will start things rolling with a bit of sound advice...If you care to call it advice...
Think big and your deeds will grow.
Think small and you fall behind,
Think that you can, and you will;
It's all in the state of mind.

No, it isn't from Shakespeare...
Coming across an article in the February 19 edition of the Main Line Daily Times, suburban Philadelphia newspaper, it made one lift one's eyebrows. You see, it concerned the much-discussed Villanova College basketball team, and the writer of the article, one Mr. Herbert Good, sports editor of the Times, treated the situation in a fine manner. Mr. Good's article reads as follows:

"The Villanova team has failed to score as many victories as anticipated and unless the team comes out of its slump in a hurry the 1935-36 campaign will be one of the worst in history. Perhaps there has been dissension, maybe some of the boys haven't the right idea. We don't know and what's more we don't care. Whatever it may be, don't be too quick to criticize Coach Doc Jacobs.

"This is the first poor season he's had since he's been coaching. Surely a coach can't put out a winner forever. No one is more disappointed over the result to date than he is. Many times there are forces far beyond a coach's control which disrupt a team, if the team is disrupted. He should not be unfairly criticized. Let's hope all this talk you hear is so much hot air.

"Don't be too harsh on the players, either. They've been trying hard, perhaps they've been trying too hard and thus have been tightening up. They seem to have the stuff and yet they can't win. It's happened many times to better teams than Villanova. It's just one of those unexplainable somethings which make the sports world so interesting and yet so exasperating at times.

"Villanova fans should ease up on the hammers and criticism and get out and root for their team harder than ever. A team needs support, when things are going wrong, not when everything is rosy. So many fans can't seem to get that in their noodles. Give them the encouragement they need tonight and perhaps they'll end their losing streak at Dickinson's expense.

"After all a team that can hold Duquesne to a four point victory, St. John's to two points and Manhattan to three hasn't been laying down on the job. Let 'em know you're still back of them tonight."

The beauty of this article is that it was written by a person who is in a position to make or break a team. I make reference to sports writers. Mr. Good took every angle into consideration, and handled it very capably.

One passage states "if the team is disrupted." Well, right here and now let me make it known that the team isn't and never has been disrupted.

In conclusion I will string along with [illegible] when he says that any team that can hold Duquesne to a six-point victory, St. John's to two points and Manhattan to three hasn't been LAYING down on the job.

And, now, something that is very, very true...

What Makes the Game

"I fumbled," said the sad-eyed lad,
"And lost the golden chance I had!"
"That's quite all right," his coach replied,
"I understand how hard you tried.
Forget it now! Go back and fight
With all your strength and all your might

"Take hold of this consoling thought:
If every ball that's thrown were caught;
If no one faltered; no one fell;
If every play we tried went well;
If gain with every venture came,
There would be nothing to the game.

"What makes the game? Not perfect play,
But golden chances thrown away!
The fumbled ball; the slight mistake
Which men however skillful make,
The faulty judgment and the will
To wait and work for victory still.

"And so with life! If all were plain
If men perfection could attain,
If neither doubt nor loss nor fear
Should ever test our courage here;
If we knew all, and all could see,
Then deadly dull this life would be."

Gus Hanley, a member of last year's freshman class and watch charm guard, is now pursuing his higher educational efforts at the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Fla....Gus, through Pete McManus and this column, wishes to extend his greeting to his ex-classmates...

Lou Biester (C&F) and Dan O'Connor (Engineer) are setting the fans crazy with their basketball antics over in the Borough of Yeadon...Both are well up in the scoring list...

The boys in the business school are wondering if the lunch stand in that building will be reopened...It is quite annoying to walk to Mendel Hall to secure a sandwich when the accommodation could easily be taken care of...

Vince Zizac, ex-Wildcat gridiron performer is now taking a fling at the grunt and groan racket...In 16 engagements Vince has been on the short end only once...After leaving the Main Line institution he played a season of professional football with the Philadelphia Eagles and Chicago Bears but a shoulder injury had him on the shelf for a while.

You will hear more of Zizac on the mat, where he is regarded as a comer, and on the gridiron where he holds forth at guard or tackle.

Speaking of the wrestling business, one Mr. Danno O'Mahoney is on his way back to Ireland to practice some Irish reels. And Dean Detton or Yvon Robert appear to be the logical successor. Naturally, picked by the mat impresarios. If Detton gets by his assignment with Strangler Lewis on the 28th of this month then he will have the inside track.

Pat Pascucci, debonair South Philadelphian, does a splendid (?) job along with Frank Bonetti in issuing the publicity of the college sports.

INTER-DORM BOWLERS APPROACH FINAL ROUND

Geraghty, Olivari and Emmerling Appear as Outstanding Competitors

With the end fast approaching, the instramural bowling contest leaves the number of participants reduced to twelve. The tournament has been going on for several weeks and it is expected to be completed Thursday.

The halls represented are Alumni, Austin, Mendel and Fedigen. The Dayhop groups took little interest in the tourney and as a result there are no commuters represented.

The leading candidates for the tourney title are; Geraghty, Olivari, Emmerling and Troncelliti. The candidates for the laurels are anticipating heated contests before the winner is decided.

Much credit is to be given Ray Murphy and Leo Schoppmeyer for their efforts in conducting the meet.

The winner of this tournament is to receive a new sport jacket, the expense of which will be defrayed from the entrance fee collected from the participants.

(Next to Seville Theatre)
Meet Your Friends at
The Bryn Mawr Confectionery
Tasty Sandwiches
Reasonably Priced
Luches-Dinners-Platters
Music Free Dancing

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED .. 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed .. 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

Experience Aids Western Maryland

Continued From Page Seven

tory, but Robert Dennis, of the Terrors still had something to say, he began to throw leather with fierce rapidity. The result was Rodriquez became excited and this caused him to let his guard fall, resulting in a technical knockout victory for the W. Marylanders.

Carl Panteleo, Villanova's little Wildcat, fought Bill Skeen of the Green Terrors in the 125 lb. class. But, Skeen did not have much of a chance once Panteleo began to put on the pressure. Panteleo faked with his left and drove a roundhouse to Skeen's jaw and down he went for the count. This bout tied the count at one all.

In the third clash of the evening, John Warman 135 lb. W. Maryland and Joe Bobrowski, 134 lb. put a sizzling three rounder. The fight was hard fought and very close, but Warman was given the decision on his aggressiveness. This put the Green Terrors out in front for the second time.

Butler Lacks Experience

In the 145 lb. class, Rodman Haynes an experienced ringman showed to a slight advantage over Butler, who was fighting in his first inter-collegiate match. After three rounds of hard fighting, Haynes was given the decision.

The fourth bout of the evening brought together, Bill Willoughby, 155 pounder of the Green Terrors and Joe Carrig of the Cats. These boys started out at a terrific pace and the first two rounds were very close, but in the last round Willoughby showed to advantage and was declared the winner. This bout put the match on the ice for the Marylanders. Even if the Villanovans won all of their remaining bouts, they would receive nothing better than a 4 to 4 decision.

Jarosik Wins on Technical

The 165 pound class brought together Jack Jarosik of the Cats, and Clinton Walker of the Terrors. No sooner had the bout been under way, Jarosik began to throw sledge hammer rights at his bewildered opponent. The result was that Jarosik was declared the winner by a technical knockout. This raised the hopes of the Villanovans who were now rooting for a draw, since they could no longer win the meet.

Captain Tony Sala, Villanova's Inter-collegiate, light heavy weight champion once more returned to his own class. Sala handed Tony Ortenzi of the Terrors a fine pasting. But Orenzi fought back and managed to stay the limit. Sala was declared the winner at the end of three rounds. This victory made the score 4 to 3 in favor of the Marylanders and it looked as if the Cats might tie it up at 4 all.

The last fight of the evening brought together Captain Thomas Pontecarvo of the Terrors and Dick Mulvihill of the Cats. Experience played a big part in this bout, for Pontecarvo was a seasoned ringman with three years experience in the squared circle and Mulvihill was fighting in his first inter-collegiate match. Pontecarvo won this one on a technical knockout, but not until Mulvihill had put up a fierce struggle.

This final bout placed the count 5 to 3 in favor of W. Marylanders, thus giving them the match.

The summaries:

115-pound class—Robert Dennis, Western Maryland, defeated Manuel Rodriguez, technical knockout.

125-pound class—Carl Pantaleo, Villanova, defeated William Skeen, knockout.

135-pound class—John Warnan, Western Maryland, defeated Joseph Bobrowski, decision.

145-pound class—Rodman Haynes, Western Maryland, defeated Jim Butler, decision.

155-pound class—William Willoughby, Western Maryland, defeated Joe Carrig, decision.

165-pound class—John Jarosik, Villanova, defeated Clinton Walker, technical knockout.

1745-pound class—Captain Anthony Sala, Villanova, defeated Anthony Ortenzi, decision.

Heavyweight class—Captain Thomas Pontecarvo, Western Maryland, defeated Dick Mulvihill, technical knockout.

Referee—Charles Short. Judge — Paul Menton and Victor Schmidt.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

PROGRESS IS SLOW IN P. K. P. BOWLING

Only Few Matches Completed In Bowling Tourney; Due To End Soon

Progress has been comparatively slow in the Phi Kappa Pi bowling tournament during the last week, and only a few matches have been played off.

Jerry Agnes won over Bill Monroe in the first round in two straight games, 100 to 84 and 123 to 94. Agnes will meet Al Hoffman in the second round. Hoffman won by default over Tom O'Brien in the first round. The winner of the Fister-Dethloff match will advance to the quarter-finals to meet Frank Rodgers.

Pat Kelly, Kensington's pride, defeated M. Sullivan in the first round only to go down in defeat before Courtin in a closely contested match. Courtin won the last two of their scheduled three games.

Sheviand defaulted to Ed Murphy in the first round. Murphy will meet Hallahan, and the winner of this match will meet the winner of the Bittenmiller-Cook match in the quarter-finals.

The tournament will probably be completed within the coming week. Matches are held every afternoon and on Saturday in the gymnasium.

BLACKBIRDS HAVE RECORD

Long Island University boasts the best record in intercollegiate basketball circles. Their record to date consists of twenty-five consecutive wins, and only one more game stands in the way of an undefeated season.

PANTHERS HOST WIN

Temple travels to Pittsburgh tonight to meet the strong Panther five. The Owls must win in order to remain in the race for Eastern Conference honors.

JEANNETT'S
BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas For All Occasions
Specializing in Corsages
Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association
823 Lancaster Ave.
Bryn Mawr 570

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

★ SAVE AFTER SEVEN AND SUNDAY, TOO ★
Bargain rates are in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.

From College to Home Town	STATION TO STATION* (Night and Sunday)	DAY RATE* (Before 7 P.M. Weekdays)
60 MILES	35¢	45¢
100 MILES	35¢	60¢
150 MILES	50¢	80¢
200 MILES	60¢	$1.00
250 MILES	70¢	$1.20
300 MILES	80¢	$1.40

*3-minute connections
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Batterymen Hold Initial Practice

Continued From Page Seven

This is not the complete list of throwers and receivers, as a few have not reported as yet.

Practice Depends on Weather

As soon as the weather permits, the rest of the squad will join these men in daily workouts on the diamond in back of the stadium. There is an abundance of sophomore material, which promises an open fight for the places left open by graduation. Two places were vacated in the outfield, when Captain Jim Murphy and Tony Zimkus received their sheepskins last spring.

Frankie Skaff, one of the hardest hitters the Wildcats ever had, has joined the roster of the Brooklyn Dodgers. His departure leaves the hot corner vacant. The rest of the team remains intact; consequently Coach Jacobs will have little to worry about, when the team trots out on the field for the opening game of the difficult schedule, which has been arranged with some of the leading college nines in the East.

COLLEGE BILLIARD TOURNEY TUESDAY

The dates of the annual national intercollegiate billiard championship tournaments have been announced by the Association of College Unions, sponsors of the events, through its president, Carl Lauterbach, of Rochester University. The National Billiard Association of America will as during the past four years, lend advisory aid.

The pocket billiards tourney will be held on February 27; straight rail on March 5; and three-cushions on March 12.

The tournaments are conducted by telegraph, each college using a uniform set of key-shots, which were drawn up before the first intercollegiate competition five years ago by Charles C. Peterson, noted billiard authority and today called "The Father of Intercollegiate Billiards."

Wisconsin University won last year's straight-rail event (the closest scoring tournament) dethroning the defending champions, Michigan State. Purdue finished second.

DR. HEPBURN TALKS ON ORIGINAL TEXTS

Noted Hahnemann Physiologist Features Slides In Talk to Seminar

Featuring slides of old editions of books found in the Hahnemann library, Dr. Joseph eHpburn, of the library, Dr. Joseph Hepburn, of the lege, presented the weekly science seminar with an interesting talk on original manuscripts and texts of pioneers in the medical profession.

Dr. Hepburn is a noted physiologist, having done extensive study of the alimentary tract and on the electric thermometer for use on internal organs.

His discussion centered on books as far back as 1848 and a brief explanation on the authors of each successive century. The first authority mentioned in the compiling of medical works was Paracelsus who was the first to translate medical editions from Latin to German.

The outstanding character in Dr. Hepburn's discourse was the founder of the Hahnemann hospital and medical school, namely Dr. Hahnemann. Hahnemann, during his career, founded the form of medical treatment known as homeopathy. He was also a great chemist and found that treatment administered to a healthy man could cause the same symptoms as in the diseased.

Many of the slodes flashed on the screen contained covers and frontspiece of original books, all found in the school library in North Philadelphia. The science seminar was very fortunate in procuring Dr. Hepburn as a speaker and the speaker was well received, many of the students remembering the doctor's appearance here more than a year ago when he delivered an interestingly instructive discourse on his 3 years of experimentation with the gastro-intestinal tract.

PRE-MED SOCIAL PROVES SUCCESS

L. K. D. Fraternity Sponsored Gala Reunion Dance on Friday Last

"And a good time was had by all" is the only manner in which to describe the social success scored by the annual Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity dance held last Friday night in the gymnasium.

Charming young women and their handsome gallants of the premedic organization, each attired in attractive gown and "best suit," gyrated and dipped in rhythm to the superlative melody attained that night by the Villanovans, whose performance, as predicted, far outshone any yet given by them.

This scene, greatly enhanced, by a romantic background of soft, mellow lights suspended from the decorative blue and white ceiling, is one always to be remembered as the outstanding fraternity hop of the year '36.

Nearly 94 Years Old, College Has Colorful History of Progress

Classes Began in 1842 With Total Enrollment of Six Students; Villanovan Section Formerly Known as "Belle - Air"

By CHARLES STAHLECKER

AS THE 94th anniversary of the opening of classes at Villanova College draws near many stirring events are recalled that are but milestones in the wonderful heritage and colorful background of this institution.

Formerly called Belle Air the grounds which today we know as Villanova comprised the estate of John Rudolph, a Catholic merchant of Philadelphia. After his death the beautiful estate was offered for sale in 1841, and on Wednesday, October 13, 1841, the day preceding the one appointed for the public sale, Belle Air was purchased by the Augustinian Order for $18,000.

Opened on September 14, 1842, with but six students in attendance, Villanova soon increased its facilities, and the enrollment numbered 45 within two years. During this time classes were held on the first floor of Belle Air Mansion.

In 1844 the first new college building was completed, classes being transferred to it immediately. Three years later the first public commencement was held in July.

The Pennsylvania Legislature incorporated Villanova as the "Augustinian College of Villanova in the County of Delaware and State of Pennsylvania" in 1848. By virtue of this charter the president and faculty were empowered to grant degrees.

At the commencement exercises of 1857 the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon James F. Dooley and Henry C. Alexander. This was the first time that the college had exercised its power to grant degrees.

A long contemplated college building was begun on April 1, 1873. This structure was completed on February 3, 1874, and named Alumni Hall. At the same time a new postoffice was opened, the nearest one heretofore having been at Haverford.

On July 3, 1887, the present chapel of St. Thomas of Villanova was dedicated after four years were spent in its construction. Its architectural beauty and attractive design are are outstanding. It re-echoes the traditions of those many students who have daily gathered under her pinnacled towers to do homage to God.

With the dawn of the 20th century Villanova started to take rapid strides in progress. In 1901 the new twin buildings, College Hall and Monastery were dedicated. This addition permitted the establishment, in 1905, of the Engineering Department, which has since been ranked among the foremost in the country. These commendable achievements occurred under the leadership of Father Delurey, who occupied the presidency for 15 years. He was succeeded in turn by Fathers Dean, Driscoll, Hickey and Sullivan.

In 1912, St. Rita's Hall, the original monastery, was completely destroyed by fire. But again the authorities courageously combatted the misfortune and set out to rebuild. As a result of their efforts the present St. Rita's Hall arose. Corr Hall was begun and a School of Science was augmented. Thus equipped, the Augustinian Fathers were prepared to extend further their influence into the field of education and Catholic action.

In 1922, the Commerce and Finance School was inaugurated, and the rapid increase in enrollment necessitated, in 1925, the construction of Austin Hall. A library containing over 30,000 books was incorporated in its east wing.

Following the election of Father Griffin an intensive program of development was initiated in 1926. But a ruinous fire completely leveled College Hall in January, 1928, destroying student quarters, classrooms, and nearly all of the offices and records. Within a short time, however, the stately walls of the present Mendel Hall arose. Housing student quarters, class rooms and laboratories for the Engineering and Science Department this structure presents an impressive piece of architecture to the eye. About the same time Fedigan Hall, our latest dormitory, was added to the fast increasing number of campus buildings.

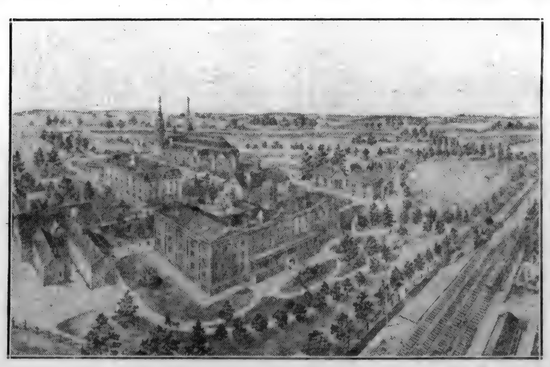
A cherished plan of the Augustinian Fathers was consummated on April 1, 1932, when the newly erected $350,000 Auditorium-Gymnasium was formally opened by the glamorous intra-fraternal bal. But the following summer saw a severe blow again dealt to the Order. The monastery and part of Good Counsel Hall fell prey to the ravages of another fire.

A $500,000 loss greeted the newly elected administration, headed by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, president; Rev. Bernard M. Albers, vice-president, and Rev. Charles A. Melchoir, procurator. Under their guidance, however, reconstruction made rapid progress and improvements were numerous. Over the ashes of the old monastery arose a collegiate Gothic building, three stories in height, which is a credit to modern architecture.

And in 1936 the college is still going forward in its plan of improved facilities. The installation of the Congressional system of cataloguing in the library and the beautification of the campus are but two steps of the many in that direction.

STAFF TO MEET

All members of the VILLANOVAN staff are requested to attend an important meeting today at noon. Matters concerning the annual staff dinner-dance will be discussed. The date must be decided upon.



—Photo Courtesy 1936 Belle Air

VILLANOVA COLLEGE, above, as it looked more than 40 years ago during the 15-year reign of Father A. Delaurey, O. S. A., in the presidency. Most of the buildings are unfamiliar to the students of Villanova today. They are (1) The Parish Church, St. Thomas of Villanova, now the student chapel; (2) St. Rita's Hall; (3) The original College Chapel; (4) The Academy, where classes were conducted; (5) The gymnasium; (6) A Barn; (7) The railroad station. As can be seen from the picture at the right, Villanova has made rapid advances since the days of Fr. Delaurey. Nearly all are beautiful new buildings. They are: (1) Fedigan Hall; (2) Mendel Hall; (3) The Monastery; (4) The Chapel; (5) St. Rita's Hall; (6) Alumni Hall; (7) Austin Hall; (8) St. Mary's Hall; (9) School of Commerce and Finance; (10) The railroad station. In the upper inset are the new gymnasium and Goodrean Stadium.

GROUP PICTURES TAKEN THIS WEEK

Photos of Various Organizations May Be Had At Book Store

Students are again reminded to take special notice of the many posters on the campus announcing the times and places for the taking of the various group pictures for the 1936 Belle Air. New notices concerning later pictures will be found on the college bulletin boards or in the VILLANOVAN.

In order to make final arrangements for the completion of the year book there will be a special meeting of all staff members tomorrow at one o'clock. It is necessary for all to attend.

Pictures of all the varsity teams, intra-mural teams, boxing, 150-lb. team and the various freshmen teams are on sale at the bookroom.

Individual pictures of the following men have been sent from Zamsky's to the bookroom. If these pictures are not called for by one week from today they will again return to Zamsky's.

The men whose pictures are involved are: Albert Ryan, Benjamin Geraghty, William Sweeney, James Schnell, Carmen Giordano, Paul Donahue Joseph Badamo, Edward Lahey, Joseph Malcom Anthony Zanni, John McGrath and Vincent Locasale.

EDITOR E. J. CASEY NAMES ASSOCIATES

Mario Menocal Chosen College Editor, Sanborn Given Copy Editor's Post

Edward J. Casey, recently appointed editor-in-chief of the Villanova Engineer, has named Mario Menocal as college editor; and Joseph Sanborn, copy editor, to his staff for the coming year. The incoming staff has had invaluable experience in the past which should aid in making the monthly better than ever.

The new appointees will assume their duties immediately and will unite with their fellow staff members in producing the March issue. There will be no radical changes in the make-up of the magazine over that of last year's. However the new style of printing introduced at the start of the year will be continued.

There are many positions open to students who are in any way gifted in writing or business experience or along the lines of departmental work. Several students have been making quite a name for themselves in the various departments, and it is the hope of the officers that their work will continue and encourage their fellow classmates to enlist in the production of the Engineer.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT SET FOR MARCH 4

Important Final Sessions Of Group Being Held in Preparation for Event

Attendance at the meetings of the Glee Club, has been very favorable the last few rehearsals. The session last Thursday evening was very successful. Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., moderator of the club, wishes to congratulate the members on the fine cooperation shown by them.

Songs were practiced and final arrangements were made for the concert to be rendered by the club on Wednesday evening, March 4, in the Commerce and Finance auditorium. The student body, friends and faculty are cordially invited to attend. Much labor and time have been spent in preparing for this concert; therefore, it is sincerely hoped that the student body will show its appreciation by having a record turnout at the concert on March 4.

All the members of the club are reminded of the importance of their attendance every meeting if the concert is to be successful. Some members have neglected to attend practice sessions, but it is hoped these members will be present at the rehearshals in the future.

Important sessions will be held on Monday and Thursday evening in the Commerce and Finance auditorium immediately following evening chapel. All members who are to take part in the concert are requested to attend these rehearsals. All other students who wish to become members of the Glee Club may report at this time.

Weekly Calendar

TODAY

VILLANOVAN Meeting, 119 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Belle Air Staff Meeting, 51 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Senior Class Meeting, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Foreign Relations, 213 Mendel Hall ..... 1:15 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 2:30 P. M.
Freshman Debating, 204 Mendel Hall ..... 7:00 P. M.
Vilanova-Bucknell, Basketbal, Villanova Gym ..... 8:30 P. M.

WEDNESDAY

Junior Class Meeting, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 2:30 P. M.
Villanova-Lafayette, Basketball, Villanova Gym ..... 8:30 P. M.

THURSDAY

Lambda Kappa Delta Meeting, 210 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.

MONDAY

Phi Kappa Pi Meeting, Mendel Hall ..... 11:35 A. M.
Villanova Engineer, Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.

Here and There

By EDWARD L. COLLINS

WELL, I will start things rolling with a lot of sound advice. If you care to call it advice.

[illegible] and you fall behind. The[illegible] you, and you will find in the state of mind.

[illegible] Main [illegible] Daily [illegible] smoothly [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] Show.

[illegible] Good sports editor of the Times, treated the situation in a like manner. Mr. Goode's article reads as follows:

The Villanova team has failed to score as many victories as anticipated and unless the team comes out of its slump in a hurry the 1935-36 campaign will be one of the worst in history. Perhaps there has been dissension, maybe some of the boys haven't the right idea. We don't know and what's more we don't care. Whatever it may be, don't be too quick to criticize, Coach Doc Jacobs.

"This is the first poor season he's had since he's been coaching. Sure, a coach can't put out a winner for ever. No one is more disappointed over the result to date than he is. Many times there are forces far beyond a coach's control which disrupt a team, if the team is disrupted he should not be unfairly criticized. Let's hope all this talk you hear is so much hot air.

"Don't be too harsh on the players either. They've been trying hard, perhaps they've been trying too hard and thus have been tightening up. They seem to have the stuff and yet they can't win. It's happened many times to better teams than Villanova. It's just one of those inexplainable somethings which make the sports world so interesting and yet so exasperating at times.

"Villanova fans should ease up on the hammers and criticism and get out and root for their team harder than ever. A team needs support when things are going wrong, not when everything is rosy. So many fans can't seem to get that in their noodles. Give them the encouragement they need tonight and perhaps they'll end their losing streak at Dickinson's expense.

"After all a team that can hold [illegible] to a four point victory, a [illegible] to two points and [illegible] to three [illegible] are no commuters repre[illegible] leading candidates for the [illegible] are Connolly, Olivari, [illegible] Bonetti. The [illegible] before [illegible] this season. [illegible] The Gamecock [illegible] Bonetti [illegible] Bonetti [illegible] Bonetti

Sees Industry as Facing Terrible Shortage of Technical Students

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 23.—American business and industry faces "a terrible shortage of technically trained men, according to the recent statement of Dr. Harvey N. Davis, president of Stevens Institute of Technology. Among general non-technical industries in particular, he said, the demand for engineering school graduates far exceeds the supply.

"The employment situation definitely broke for Stevens alumni early last Spring," Dr. Davis said. "Ninety-six per cent. of the graduates of the six depression classes, 1930 to 1935, are employed, close to what one would expect in normal times. For last June's seniors, the figures are 91 per cent. employed and more jobs have been turned down than there are men left."

General business concerns of a non-technical nature, Dr. Davis said, are showing an increased preference for graduates of technical schools.

"In the boom years most of our graduates were absorbed by the utilities," he explained. "Now, however, all the men we can supply are being taken by industry.

STUDENTS ELECT MAYOR OF CITY

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

LOGAN, Utah, Feb. 23—Newest municipality in Utah is "Windbreak City," organized by Utah State College students who came to school in automobile trailers, removed the wheels, banked the travelling houses against the cold, and settled down for the winter.

The citizens of Windbreak City turned out of their 12 trailers the other day to elect Ivan Theusen, of Rexburg, Idaho, mayor, and Leonard Christensen, of Los Angeles, Cal. and Ned Tucker of Fairview, Utah, councilmen.

Power of Supreme Court Voted As Socially Damaging by College Men

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23, (ACP)—The power of the United States Supreme Court to invalidate legislation has reached socially damaging proportions, in the opinion of American college students, and should be curbed without delay.

Revision of the constitution so as to check the power of the high court is favored by a majority of students, according to an Associated Collegiate Press survey just completed.

Remedies ranging from increasing the number of Supreme Court justices by naming liberal appointees known to have kept pace with the times to giving congress the power to reinstate legislation thrown out by the court are suggested by college leaders.

Strongly urging revision, The Ohio State Lantern commends a state law-maker:

"Usually conservative, 'safe and sane' Senator Vic Donahey announced in Washington that he favors a revision of the Constitution because he believes it has not kept pace with the times.

Chesterfields! well that's different

—their aroma is pleasing
—they're milder
—they taste better
—they burn right
—they don't shed tobacco crumbs

They Satisfy

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 17 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1936 Price: Five Cents

STUDENTS TO HEAR FR. KILEY SPEAK ON CONVERSION

Is Second Faculty Member To Address College In Lenten Sermons

FR. STANFORD OPENS EXERCISES WITH TALK

Stresses Character Building And Understanding Of Laws of God

Rev. Thomas A. Kiley, O. S. A., professor of Latin in the School of Arts, will address the students on the subject of conversion, this evening in the college chapel.

Fr. Kiley's sermon will be the second in a series of sermons to be given here in the college chapel every Tuesday evening. He was preceded by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, who spoke last Tuesday evening at the opening of the Lenten devotions.

Dr. Stanford based his sermon on the Biblical psalm concerning acquiring of understanding of the law of God and the keeping of that law. "Here at Villanova your opportunities for obtaining a complete understanding of the law of God are excellent. There is no reason why any man educated in our Catholic colleges should be led astray by the pagan philosophies of the non-sectarian schools." Follow-this idea he went on to state that a man's character is easily developed by acts of self-control and by good deeds.

The president further stated that

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN STAFF TO DINE AND DANCE

Annual Affair Set for April 21; Hallahan Is Chairman

It was announced yesterday by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, that the annual Villanovan Dinner-Dance will be held on April 21.

John W. Hallahan, Jr., senior civil engineering student, has been appointed by Fr. McKee as the chairman and toastmaster of the occasion.

Senior members of the editorial staff will be presented with the Villanovan key at the dinner, as a token of their service and loyalty throughou their staff membership. The men, who are to receive keys are: John DiJoseph, editor-in-chief; Carmen Giordano, exchange editor; Anthony Catrambone, sports editor; and John Hallahan, associate college editor.

Arrangements for the affair have not been announced to date although the general plans include dinner and dancing at one of Philadelphia's hotels. Several well known speakers will be invited to attend, supplementing speeches by the moderator, editor and incoming editor.

FROSH TO DEBATE ST. JOHN'S FRIDAY

This Friday night the Freshman debating team of Villanova will travel to St. John's to uphold the affirmative side in a debate over the well-known Congress and Supreme Court conflict.

Joseph Houseman, society moderator, has picked a team of John Dimon, James Quigley, and Thomas Delate whom he feels capable of making a good showing after weeks of preparation.

LENTEN SPEAKER

REV. THOMAS A. KILEY, O. S. A., professor of Latin and second in a series of Lenten speakers, will address the student body tonight in chapel on "Conversion."

P. K. P. FRATERNITY HOLDS INITIATIONS

Two Hour Ceremony Proves Tedious for Thirty-Two New Members

Thirty-two neophytes from the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes were accepted as members by Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, and initiated into the frat last week, in the annual ceremonies.

Following the two-hour initiation ceremony, a banquet was held in the college dining hall. James Alan, president of the fraternity and master of ceremonies, introduced many favorite speakers.

The first speaker on the program was Dr. C .T. Humphrey, dean of the School of Engineering, who stressed the importance of participance in extra-curricular activities and the ever-increasing need of good-fellowship, both in college life as well as in later life.

Becoming quite a feature of the annual rites is the increasing number of graduates in attendance. Interspersed throughout the gathering were many members of previous years. The two alumni speakers of the evening were John Klekotka, former president of the fraternity, and Paetrus Banmiller, former editor of the Engineer and present registrar and alumni secretary.

Mr. Klekotka and Mr. Banmiller both in their impromptu speeches

Continued on Page Four

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Members of the Student Council will convene this evening at 5:30 P. M. in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall.

Do You Know How Much Food Is Used in the College Dining Hall?

Three times a day the doors of the college dining hall open to admit a pack of 325 hungry students to its waiting cafeteria. Three times a day the innumerable plates and three hundred and twenty-five forks, knives, cups and saucers pass across the slide laden with food for the famished tribe. How many ever stop their complaining long enough to wonder where it all comes from or how much is used?

The editor of the VILLANOVAN became curious and brooded the thought over his cup and doughnuts in the Pie Shoppe and so here appears the summary.

It may be interesting to know that the milk, cream, tea and coffee used each day amounts to over 131 gallons per day. Aside from the enormous amount of liquid consumed there are 140 loaves of bread, each containing about 40 slices, used a day. Laying the loaves end to end this bread would reach almost to the post office.

It would pay the college to buy a fruit plantation rather than have to buy the fruit to supply the hungry mouths of its students. The 250 oranges and 160 grapefruit used here for breakfasts during the week would keep three good-sized trees busy for quite a time, while the 40 pounds of prunes and 27 dozen bananas would supply a zoo

Continued on Page Four

HOLY HOUR THURSDAY

Rev. Stephen F. Lanen, O. S. A., will conduct the Holy Hour this Thursday evening in the College Chapel between 5:30 and 6:30 P. M. His topic of sermon will be "Faith."

U. S. Navy Wants College Men For Aviation Cadets

By JOHN W. HALLAHAN

It has been announced through the registrar's office that the United States Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., desires to enroll a quota of candidates from the senior classes and alumni of the universities and colleges of the country for training as aviation cadets in the Naval Reserve.

This year, it is expected that about 20 candidates will be selected for the elimination training, to be given at the Naval Reserve Aviation Unit, Navy Yard, Philadelphia, Pa. There will be five consecutive training classes, of four students per class. The first class will start training about May 15, 1936, and classes are of about one month's duration. Candidates will be selected from among those who make their permanent residence in this naval district, which includes Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware.

The training program is similar to that conducted last year, and briefly, is as follows: A candidate selected for training is enrolled as a seaman, second class, V-5, USNR., ordered to active duty with pay at one of the Reserve Bases and designated a student Naval Aviation Pilot upon commencing his elimination flight training.

Upon completion of this training of one month's duration, and if selected, this candidate is ordered to duty at Pensacola, Florida, for further training, and appointed as

Continued on Page Three

Holy Name Group To Hear Address On Next Sunday

Prominent Bryn Mawr Resident Will Speak at Regular Communion Breakfast

Mr. Gordon M. Burlingame, of the Bryn Mawr Trust Company will address the Villanova College Holy Name Society at its fourth monthly Communion breakfast of 1936 which will be held this Sunday morning, March 8, in the dining hall, Mendel Hall.

The subject of Mr. Burlingame's address will be "The Round Table Discussions As Held in Philadelphia." This subject should prove to be of more than a little interest to the student body here at the college enrolled in the Holy Name Society and so a large turnout is expected.

Immediately following the 8:30 o'clock Mass in the college chapel, the society will adjourn to Room 106 Mendel Hall for its regular meeting. After the business of the meeting has been attended to, the group will move to the dining hall, where the breakfast will be served, followed by the talk of Mr. Burlingame.

2ND GROUP PICTURE SCHEDULE APPEARS

Belle Air Photographer to Be Here March 10 For Pictures

The afternoon of Tuesday March 10 has been appointed by Robert McGrory, Editor of the Belle Air, as the second day set aside for the taking of campus group pictures.

Beginning with the Sanctuary Society and finishing up with the North Jersey club at 3:50, the afternoon proves to be a busy one for all concerned. In order that unnecessary delays are not caused, it is necessary for moderators and organizations to kep an eye peeled

Continued on Page Three

JUNIORS DECIDE PERMANENT DATES

Blazer Ball Will Be Held May 6; Dinner - Dance May 9

Permanent dates for the Junior Dinner-Dance and the annual Blazer Ball were decided upon last Wednesday at a meeting of the entire Junior Class.

In accordance with the popular consent of the class members, the date for the Blazer Ball has been set for Wednesday, May 6. This affair has been given annually by the Juniors to celebrate the inception of the traditional Junior Blazers.

After having given the question much consideration ,the members of the Junior Class selected Saturday evening, May 9, as the most suitable date for their annual dinner-dance. This date is the only possible one that will be satisfactory to the majority of the Junior Class members.

These two affairs, together with the other evening social, the Junior Premenade of Friday, May 8, will be the most important and colorful of the entire Junior Week program. The dinner-dance will bring this memorable week to a hoped-for successful termination. In addition, it will be the last "get-together" of the Junior Class before the summer vacation.

Another important decision was reached at this meeting. The assessment to each member of the Junior Class has been set at $9.

Vice President, Registrar Attend Guidance Meeting

Fr. Albers, Paetrus Banmiller Visit Harrisburg Catholic High on Wednesday

On Wednesday of the past week, the Very Rev. Owen F. Reilly, Principal of Harrisburg Catholic High School, was the host to Rev. B. M. Albers, O. S. A., vice president of the college, and Paetrus Banmiller, Registrar, on the occasion of a guidance conference for the boys of the senior class.

Harrisburg Catholic High School has been the Alma Mater many Villanova boys, beginning with John Daly, '26 -its first graduating class of '22.

Mr. Banmiller himself, is an alumnus of Harrisburg Catholic High School.

At the present time, the following students represent Harrisburg Catholic High School at Villanova College: Francis Nye, sophomore, Thomas J. Schaedler, freshman, and Robert L. Grant, freshman.

COLLEGE DEBATERS VICTORIOUS IN ONE; LOSE 2 CONTESTS

Local Negative Team Defeats U. of P. Representatives; Affirmative Loses

GEORGETOWN ORATORS SUPERIOR TO VILLANOVA

Southerners' Affirmative Group Wins Decision After Heated Debate

Opening its 1936 season last week with a series of three debates, two with the University of Pennsylvania Evening School on a home-and-home basis, and the other with Georgetown University, the Beta Gamma Debaters won one and lost two of the verbal tilts.

At the inauguration of the new season, the Villanova team of John Chapple, Edward McDevitt and William Corkill successfully defended the negative of the resolution at the U. of P. while their cohorts, Joseph Carroll, Victor Ashe, and Anthony Differ were forced to bow at home in attempting to prove the affirmative.

Again debating the same question last Friday night, before an audience of over 150, in the Mendel Hall Amphitheater, Villanova, in the negative with Messrs. Chapple and McDevitt composing the team, lost to Georgetown University by a vote of two to one, favoring the Southern visitors.

Resolved, "that Congress should be empowered to over-ride, by a two-thirds majority vote, any de-

Continued on Page Four

ENGINEERS ATTEND PHILA. CONVENTION

Fifteen Mechanical Engineering Students Meet Senior Club Members

The annual meeting of the Philadelphia Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was held at the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia last Tuesday evening.

The Villanova Student Branch's representation numbered 15 students, the largest group from any one college. Among the colleges represented were Drexel, Penn State, Swarthmore, Haverford.

Prof. J. S. Morehouse, moderator of the Villanova Chapter, was highly pleased at this splendid turnout.

Mr. Morehouse arranged the students from the various colleges in such a way that no student was seated beside a student from the same college or beside a well-known friend. In this way the students and senior members made rapid friendship with each other.

To further interest the students and urge further acquaintanceship, a past chairman of the section was seated at each table. The chairman acted as host of the table and made the necessary introductions among the students and members.

At the meeting following the dinner the assembly was addressed by Ernest Hartford, Assistant Secretary of the A. S. M. E., and R. L.

Continued on Page Four

GLEE CLUB IN FIRST RECITAL

The college glee club will present its first concert tomorrow evening at 7.30 P. M., in the Commerce and Finance School auditorium. Mr. Paul D. Teel will conduct the choral society in its initial endeavor.

Included in the program will be renditions of "Finlandia," "Talk About Jerusalem," and "Shadow March."

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY PARRIN, '37.....Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36.....Sports Editor
CHARLES STAHLECKER, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37.....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36.....Associate College Editor
Norton C. Faden, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Carmen Giordano, '36.....Exchange Editor
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Simons, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Pilion, '38
Anthony T. Meli, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vassaliuzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '37 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Jannel Smitz, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39 — James Meller, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — Richard Mulvihil, '39
Eugene DiCavaicanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Walter L. Salalty, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Bernard J. Miller, '39

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Liguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager

Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—

LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - MARCH 3, 1936

AGREEING WITH DIOGENES

THE RECENT REMARKS of Democratic Senator Rush Holt, of West Virginia, that WPA administration in that State reeks with politics, that a person cannot get on relief or relief work without an O. K. from the county boss, and that the salaries of political appointees are beyond the requirements of their positions, is but one of many audible charges that have been recently brought forth. Whether these charges presage the advent of the coming campaign or not, the fact cannot be over-looked that in the main they are true, and likewise that they are by no means confined to West Virginia.

For years Philadelphia has maintained a single party in power, who by the solidarity of their organization have obtained such a "strangle-hold" upon the administration of public works in that city that it is practically impossible for the people to expect other than the mal-administration of official duties. Their grasp upon WPA, and Relief is so tight, that the very purposes of these measures are being defeated by political rapacity.

A person not carrying the necessary credentials finds it either impossible in Philadelphia's works administration to meet an individual who has the authority to employ workers, or else is forced to stand the contumely of some individual who has all the arrogance of importance but none of its qualities.

The spoilage system is the most pernicious outcome of a republican form of government. But there is no reason why there should not be limits to it aside from the final uprising of the people against the increasing burden of taxation. If fidelity to the cause of the party must be rewarded by the emoluments of public positions, it should not entail the like employment of every friend and relation of the appointee in lesser positions.

It has been said that Diogenes could wander for days through the halls of the modern citadels without finding an honest man, and the more minutely we examine the present political system, the more inclined we are to agree with this.

What a world we live in! Under six, we believe in Santa Claus; over sixty, we believe in "Doc" Townsend!

CREDIT WHERE IT IS DUE

THE Holy season of Lent began last Wednesday and in all Catholic journals there appeared some comment on the forty-day season of penitence. But it is very seldom that one finds any remarks coming from a non-Catholic periodical. However, in the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger on Wednesday last there appeared the following editorial:

"In commemoration of the events of long ago there begins today the Lenten season which leads to Good Friday and the festival of Easter. Fittingly they come at the close of Winter, when the world looks forward to a longed-for Spring and must await its coming with hope and faith. Patience and temptation are the Lenten theme, but beyond lies the year's resurrection and rejoicing.

By ancient custom this is a time of self-denial, of commemoration by penance and penitence. Some self-indulgence is set aside, some small sacrifice made, so that forty days of fasting and prayer may not be forgotten amid the hurry and worry of modern life. With some, this is solemn duty of Christianity, with very many it is an acknowledgement of the spiritual need for self-discipline, which is part of nearly all religious faith and practice. There are many too, who make their offering of self-denial as a tribute of thanksgiving. All these will keep Lent in their fashion, as it has been kept since long ago in all the Christian world."

Just as we are always only too ready to pounce on people for casting up unsavory remarks at untimely moments so it is only fitting that we show our appreciation of their kindly attitude towards our beliefs. It is our opinion that the Evening Ledger in printing such an editorial is worthy of mention as a grateful gesture on our part.

PRE-WAR ALLIANCES REVIVED

IT is a foregone conclusion that France and Russia will conclude a rapproachement somewhat similar to the pre-war alliance existing between the two countries.

Its terms are simple. If France is attacked on her eastern front, Soviet Russia will supply as many guns and men as needed. If the Soviet Union is attacked on her western front, France will do the same. The only nation which conceivably do the attacking in either case is Nazi Germany. Hence the treaty is undisguisedly a warinng to Adolph Hitler's expanionist urge.

But the implications of the treaty are somewhat more complicated, and taken in conjunction with the thunder in the Far East, they last week provided many a foreign capital with fruitful speculation.

A Germany thus isloated will undoubtedly seek some means of retaliation. Hence the cause for alarm over the maneuvering between Berlin and Rome, with a stopover in Vienna. If France and Russia revive two thirds of the original Triple Entente, then Germany seeks to revive the original Triple Alliance, which also included Italy and Austria-Hungary.

Italy, at present an outcast among the nations, is similarly eager for a multilateral front against her many enemies and the Fascist press left no doubt that an Italo-German pact was not too far-fetched an idea.

These proposed pacts serve to revive talk of the return to the alliance system which covered Europe before the war and had something to do with the magnitude of that conflict.

Will Europe keep the peace or must there be another world conflagration? Only time itself will be able to answer this question.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

JOHN (explanatory note).
Man: Ss-sh-ah.
Friend: Whafor?
Man: Wanna lissen to a fish?
Friend: What kindova fish?
Man: Halibut.
Friend: Whaddya wanna lissen to that kindova fish for?
Man: Oh, sh-ah for the halibut!

• • •

Oral repetitions, current exasperation of overworked students, evoked the following message printed on a University of Detroit blackboard that is not without its point: "Dear Prof, Coffey knows all the answers. Please don't wake me up. Thank you, I remain—,"

Jack
Went to pick Violets —
And Mary
But
Mary's little brother
Came along
And so They Picked violets.

• • •

Heard at a dance: "You'd be a swell dancer if it weren't for two things—your feet."

• • •

Leap Year Fantasy

Slippery ice — very thin,
Pretty girl — tumbled in,
Saw a boy — on the bank,
Gave a shriek—then she sank,
Boy on bank—heard her shout
Jumped right in—helped her out.
Now he's hers — very nice,
But she had—to break the ice.

• • •

At Bucknell, the student directory lists a Bull, Crabb, Egit, three Foxes, three Martins and a Swan. But fortunately there is a Hunter on hand to take care of the situation. The color scheme is also well-developed with four Browns, three Greens and two Whites; whereas, for vocations, they can furnish a Carpenter, two Cooks, a Farmer, a Gardener, three Weavers and two Bakers.

• • •

No doubt similar episodes to this have often happened in colleges, but it's still good. We are thinking of a psychology professor who stamped into a first-hour class, threw down his notes and began to lecture. Rapidly, concisely, rising his best witticisms, he talked for 15 minutes. Then he stopped.

"Any questions?" he asked
There were none.

So he began to ask questions of this student and that. None of them could answer.

"Good Lord!" he burst out finally, "have I spent this whole semester for nothing. "Don't you know a blessed thing about this course?"

And a brave boy raised his hand and said, "No, sir. This is a class in 18th century prose."

• • •

In the opinion of the serious-minded clas of 1939 at Princeton, things to be desired at that university are: Music with dinner and dinner without scrambled eggs, larger cream pitchers at all times, the addition of co-eds, and abolition of classes.

Otherwise, say the Frosh, the place is all right.

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

TO HARRY EINSTEIN, of Eddie Cantor program fame, went the prize last week for the outstanding bone-head move. Einstein petitioned in court to have his name legally changed to his radio moniker, Parkyarkarkus. Needless to say the petition was not granted.

• • •

Irving Jaffee, former Olympic skating champion brought to light, a short time ago, the startling fact that had the American skating representatives been judged as to their amateur standing as had the members of the European teams the good old United States would have won the skating title at the recent winter sports in Germany. Jaffee and Jack Shea, both title-holders in past Olympic tests, were declared professionals because the former had endorsed a line of skates, while the latter had given a testimonial for a cigarette firm.

But herein lies the rub, says Jaffee, ..var Ballangrud, of Norway, owns a large sporting goods store at Oslo and Karl Schaefer, of Austria, has lent his name to advertise skates. Now both these foreign skating stars were allowed to compete as amateurs and thus the title was snatched away from the United States representatives.

Jaffee is quoted as saying, "Next time they have Olympic Games, I'm going to Norway or Finland with Jack Shea and we'll hire ourselves out as representatives of their teams. It PAYS to be an amateur in those countries."

• • •

Following Top Row's palpable foul in the Santa Anita classic, as revealed by the newsreels, many suggestions from racing fans as to how this fouling can be detected were submitted. One racing addict went so far as to suggest a concrete roadway be built inside the rail so that the judges can be driven around the track abreast of the horses, and thus be in a position to see any foul that is committed. "The referee of a boxing match," writes the fan, "doesn't station himself in the gallery and the umpire of a ball game doesn't post himself in left field."...He speaks the truth, egad!

• • •

It was Top Row, you know, who fouled Rosemont on whom we had our dough and Jockey Wayne Wright did a thorough job of it according to the cameras. But speaking of Rosemont, we are obliged to hang our head in shame. It seems that some of the fair ones from the school just around the bend took offense at our seeming "dig" at that fine old institution of higher something or other. "Or was the 'dig' at them," they ask? In our own defense we must say there was no inference intended. A thousand pardons are begged of ONE and all.

• • •

A college man recently established the record of eating 48 eggs in 48 minutes and still some people wonder if a college education is worth while.

CAMPUS CELEBS - - - By Bruno

As We See It - - - On Habits

By HARRY PARKIN

WE DO NOT think it would be amiss to preface this article with some few words of explanation of how it came to be executed. At the same time however, we are not unmindful of the tendency of many readers to pass over the preface of a book, or even those passages that may be given over to the description of the locale of the plot, as a bothersome interruption to the interest of the story, which must be gotten over as rapidly as possible. In fact, it has been said that Fielding can be read with equal enjoyment, but in half the time, if the reader will skip every other chapter; for in doing so he will not only hasten the continuity of the story but also be spared the philosophizing of the author. To our explanation, however, before the patience of the reader become entirely exhausted upon this lengthy preface.

We have, within the past three weeks, had the occasion to spend some little time in the most charming company — none other than that of the amiable Dr. Goldsmith —with whom it was more than delightful to renew an acquaintanceship, which the past few years has permitted to fall into desuetude Goldsmith, as the reader is well aware, was accustomed to heighten the effect, as well as lend an air o faincerity and authenticity to his essays by introducing them with a short sketch from contemporary life. We have in the ensuing matter attempted to do likewise; and although this is our only claim to similarity, it may satisfactorily account to the librarian, we hope we sound plausible, for our remissness in the matter of returning the book when it was due.

In a society that is equally remarkable for its pernicious vices, and innocent follies, there is no fault which seems to be so little attended as the development of evil habits. This is more noteworthy when we are reminded that most of our actions are result of habit rather than deliberation—so that there is a definite need for the early and constant supervision of our reactions, if we are to avoid the difficulties that generaly accrue from thoughtless behavior.

Harmful habits are usually the outcome of inattention, or careless indulgence—but in either case the result upon the beholder is distasteful. This is the more pitiable when the offender is unmindful of his offense. Hence we cannot exercise too much caution in interpreting the causes of our actions if we are to obviate the likelihood of such unpleasant characteristics developing within ourselves.

We were prompted to this reflection, by reason of a rather peculiar incident that befell us the other day while out walking.

The sudden moderation in the weather had prompted my friend, J., and I, to avail ourselves of the unexpected opportunity for exercising ourselves after the enforced inactivity of the past few months. We were ambling along and amusing ourselves by discussing the effect of weather conditions upon the individual. Indeed, I may say that there was no more opportune time for the evaluation of such conjectures than this was. People seemed more inclined to dawdle with their friends, and to receive the salutations of acquaintances with more appearance of good humor, than was customary upon the colder days. It appeared as though the languor of the south had been wafted northward on the warm breezes, and had dispelled the desire for haste that had been so markedly characteristic of so many individuals.

While amiably engaged in the exchange of some trifling and some serious conjectures of this nature, we were suddenly accosted by an individual of careless appearance and indifferent mien. His most prepossessing quality was his eyes, which seemed to be the reflection of a tolerant and serene mind. These he moved with such deliberate slowness that they appeared reluctant to leave each object they rested upon lest they miss some detail of its structure that was worthy of noting. It was not, however, until he had spoken at some little length that we apprehended the tendency of the eyes to mirror the guilt or embarrassment that the mind may never comprehend, or acknowledge. It seemed as though the truth that is resident in all nature had determined that one part of a man's anatomy must be truthful despite the consummate duplicity that the rest may be brought to practice.

I had hardly noted this feature about him, when he was introduced to me as Mr. S., and we were exchanging the civilities of the occasion. Upon every topic that was mentioned S, demonstrating a mind capable of grasping, and appreciating the tragic and amusing incidents of contemporary life. Likewise, he showed as profound a respect and sympathy in referring to the former, as he did wit and insouciance in relating the latter. In fact he impressed me as being one of those rare individuals who has the happy faculty of combining a congenial disposition with an intelligent and learned mind.

Our conversation had continued for some little time, and I may say with a great deal of pleasure to me, when I happened to mention the name of a person who was a mutual friend of both S. and myself. At this change in the trend of the conversation J. began to exhibit a marked desire to restore the talk to a more impersonal basis. Although this action, on his part, was but slightly noticed at the time, in view of future developments, I was forcefully reminded of it.

Continuing in this vein I mentioned a certain young lady who had recently become affianced to a particular friend of mine. It was then that S. showed the peculiar desire to become confidential.

"She," he said, "has lived across the way from me for some few years now, and I have yet to observe a time when her conduct has not been indelicate."

"Certainly, sir," I answered, "your implication is too serious to be spoken so generally. My friend is not so foolish as to have chosen a young lady whose indiscretions have become public gossip."

"To enumerate," he said, and this with a cynical look," would be as painful for me to recount, as for you to listen."

These words were particularly objectionable both because of their implied insult to a gentleman whom we regard so highly, as well as their tendency to besmirch a name, which had as often been extolled to us as a kind of feminine exemplar of sincerity, propriety, and innocence. Before I could reply, however, J., quite judiciously, inserted a remark into the discussion, that directed the conversation upon a less controversial subject. After a few strained remarks on both sides, we separated, with equal satisfaction, doubtlessly, upon both of our parts.

After walking a short distance in silence, J., as though interpreting my thoughts, said, "You seemed quite disturbed over the thoughtless remarks of S., and I may say justly so. But his attitude, unfortunately, toward the feminine portion of society is the unconscious rather than deliberate result of his upbringing."

"In order that you might not judge too harshly of him, I shall tell you the circumstances that lead to his present feelings. He was the first-born of his parents, and for three years enjoyed all the unnatural privileges of any only child. Both of his parents lavished upon him all the affection and favors that well-meaning but overindulgent parents are accustomed to according their first child. He needed only to exhibit a wish to have it granted, in fact his parents were so mindful of his well-being that they frequently saved him even the feeling of want, for they anticipated and granted his every requirement. The effect of such unstinting generosity upon an adult is harmful enough, but when exercised upon a child, who is as yet incapable of comprehending the cause of such beneficence, it is even more detrimental."

"Approximately three years later a daughter was born, whose coming altered the whole course of the parents' treatment toward S. Where once his childish gambols were received with ecstatic applause and exclamations from his parents, they were now ignored. Where formerly his wants were anticipated they were now unheeded. Where before there was no dearth of tenderness afforded him, he must now be satisfied with an occasional caress. So he was not long in learning that his parents had other occupations, besides his amusement. eBing of an imaginative and sensitive nature, he gradually withdrew into himself, and by circumstances, was forced to find contentment in the discarded favors of his sister. Quite naturally it was not long before he associated his sister with the change of attitude of his parents. So that he saw her, rather than the foolishness of his parents, as the bar to his enjoyment."

"Unfortunately, the treatment his parents afforded him was continued through adolescence, so that the detestation, he came to feel for his sister, was gradually extended to the whole of her sex. Every courtesy that was given to the girls of his acquaintance, was regarded as a deprivation of himself. Hence it was not long before he unconsciously came to see evil in everything that was feminine."

"S., as you have just witnessed, is an amiable and intelligent companion upon every subject but that of women. But he has been so accustomed to consider them with illfavor during his life, that he unconsciously speaks poorly of them upon every occasion. And I certainly hope that his lamentable history will extenuate the unpleasant impression, he invariably creates when he happens to speak of women."

J. had hardly finished speaking when we arrived at my dwelling. Having taken leave of him I repaired to my study, where I thought, how harmful are evil habits that they can exercise so baneful a control over the individual — with what subtlety they weave the net of our mental depravity, so that our minds, on certain topics, can no longer enjoy the charms of moral beauty and decorum. It is indeed pitiable that man should permit his native innocence and sincerity to be obscured by the failure to discipline his actions to the dictates of his intellect.

The Villanovan Seven Years Ago

Ole Man Winter in spite of his sudden and unexpected attack last Thursday morning, failed to inspire terror in the stanch hearts of the Villanova student body. On the contrary he afforded them a rare means of amusement in the form of a tug of war and a snow fight.

Conti's Conquerors and Henry's Haulers fought it out in a battle-royal knee deep in a sea of snow. The tug of war came first. The line tightened, and for what seemed to be ages neither side held the advantage. Then someone in Henry's line slipped and fell, dragging two or three of his teammates with him. A chain is as strong as its weakest link. Quick to seize the advantage, Conti's consort tugged the harder and soon succeeded in dragging their opponents across the finish line.

Henry and his boys were undaunted and determined. They sought retaliation in the form of a snow fight. Conti obligingly complied with his request by bathing Henry's face with a handful of snow and the second phase of the great battle was on. For five or ten minutes the battle waged furious and strong but neither side would withdraw. To make matters worse the men were so covered with snow that it was impossible to recognize anyone and as a result many a man had his face washed by a member of his own team. When it was seen that neither side could be proclaimed the winner the battle was stopped by sympathetic bystanders and the match was declared a draw.

As a reward both teams had their pictures in the Philadelphia papers and appeared in the news reels throughout the country.

St. John, Baptist High School Hears Timely Address

Through the courtesy of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Eugene Murphy, the movie, "Life at Villanova," was shown to the students of St. John the Baptist High School, on Friday of last week, which is conducted by the Brothers of Mary, under Brother George Stegwarth, S. M., Principal.

While Paetrus Banmiller, Registrar, showed the film, Rev. B. M. Albers, O. S. A., made appropriate comments.

John Gillespie, Class of '30, former Villanova star fullback, who is a teacher coach at St. John the Baptist High School, was an interested spectator.

NOTE CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Those students who have submitted names of friends to whom they wish to have the VILLANOVAN sent are asked to please notify the Circulation Department Manager, Basil Dobrowolski, of any change of address. This causes needless expense and it is hoped that it will be done away with.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

WITH a glissando of tympani and shrieking violins, Columbia presented last Saturday night, "Leap (out of character) Year" revue. It went like this, from 9:30 to 10 P. M., EST, LYT (Leap Year time): Introduction, sung by announcer; Loretta Hotchcha) Lee, sang an opera aria; Howard Barlow, with symphony orchestra, conducted "Tiger Rag"; Clarence (Swish) Tiffingtuffer, of "Myrt and Marge" cast, recited in his best baritone Hamlet's soliloquy; David ("Pool's Gold") Ross described a wrestling match; "March of Time" cast dramatized "Humpty Dumpty"; and Guy Lombardo, of the saxophone Lombardos, conducted an all-string orchestra in an American hill-billy medley and played for the first time in eight year, his fiddle.

• • •

Ed Wynn's shoes cost $2005 and are 29 years old. This fantastic extravagance is founded in sentiment. Ed bought them for $5 in 1907 and has worn them in every radio, stage and screen appearance since. When he sported them in the first program of his new CBS series he told questioners they had become a habit, made him feel comfortable and were lucky. He has spent about $2000 to keep them repaired. They're size 16, marvelously patched and altogether amazing.

• • •

The young man who "goes to town" on hot trumpet solos and "scat" songs with the Fred Waring gang is John Gus Davis, of Brazil (Johnny pronounces it Bray-zil), Indiana!

When Johnny sings a hi-de-ho number he rises on his toes, throws his head way back, half closes his eyes, opens his mouth wide, and shouts "who-ho-ho-ho."

It all began with a number entitled "Don't Bring Me Posies," which Johnny sang in his early teens when playing with Jack O'Grady's Orchestra back in Terre Haute, Ind. The job of soloist was thrust upon young Davis and, loathe to take warbling seriously, he began "singing for laughs." He's been at it ever since.

Johnny first "mastered" the trumpet at the age of three. By the time he was 12, he had a yen for jazz and took himself off to the big city—Terre Haute—to join O'Grady's band, playing at the Grand Theater. He went to school in Terre Haute mornings and was graduated with good averages, considering.

Having dispensed with such extra-curricular activities as schooling, Johnny now devoted his entire time to jazz. He served time with one maestro after another and finally came East with Smith Ballew's band in 1930, then joined the Red Nichols outfit. Fred Waring heard Johnny a-trumpeting and singing at the Park Central Hotel, New York City, and Johnny has been one of the outstanding headliners of Waring's picked men ever since.

• • •

Music and comedy are the favorite radio fare of Mary Pickford, hostess each Tuesday night on CBS in "Parties at Pickfair." "Music comes first," said Miss Pickford. "I don't mean that I listen only to serious music, either. Music creates a mood of leisure and thoughtfulness or, if it is dance music, exhilaration and stimulation. On the other hand, I often turn to comedy to give me laughs and amusement without leaving me weighted down with serious problems."

• • •

Opera and concert lovers aren't Igor Gorin's only admirers. The young baritone of the CBS "Hollywood Hotel" programs received an ardent fan letter from a race track the other day. The gentleman of the turf wanted Gorin to know he had named a race horse after him.

• • •

Stop watches of the directors of "Lombardo Road" were recently drafted to time the duration of that note Saxophonist Carmen Lombardo holds so long in "St. Louis Blues." Official time was 55.5 seconds. They call it a record.

• • •

Ray Noble, famous international orchestra leader, who is heard over the Columbia network every Wednesday night on the Coca Cola program and Mondays and Saturday's from Rockefeller's Rainbow Room over NBC, is leaving said Rainbow Room, March 10, a month earlier than his contract finishes owing to the overwhelming demands for his personal appearances in theatres.

He will make a number of personal appearances throughout the principal cities of the U. S. and Canada at the same time continuing with the Coca Cola program while on the road. He will return to the Rainbow Room early in October and will then continue his NBC broadcasts.

Pass In Review

By RICHARD L. G. DEVERALL

WAT DO YOU THINK of the criticism offered by Mr. Hoover relative to the New Deal?" asked a professor of a student the other day.

"I don't know. I never read the newspapers," the student retorted.

"You, Jones, what do you think?"

"I don't know."

The professor then proceeded to lecture his class on the duties of college men to inform themselves with regard to the world about them. He called it intellectual appreciation and social appreciation. It is possible to live in this world and not know what is going on in the world, but I for one, would not like to be such a person. I do not mean to say that we should spend hours each day reading newspapers, magazines and books, but we should do our best to develop an appreciation of the present and the past.

Dead is the man who know not the history of the Church, the world and his nation. How can one appreciate the struggle between Hitler and the Pope unless one knows the history of Germany from the time of Hildebrand down through Bismarck to Bruening?

I think it was Emerson who said that if a man would be wise he should spend five hours a day reading good literature, history or philosophy, or what have you. Sound advice, this, yes?

It is said that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. That axiom of psychology is sound, for it rests on experimental evidence. But what do we mean by play? Analysing the term "play," it would appear that play is a sort of recreation, a changing from one task to something that is totally different. It does not necessarily mean wasting time. Unfortunately, it means that to most persons, but such a conception is erroneous. The historian plays by writing "confession" stories; the professor of philosophy plays by reading detective stories. Each thing complements the other. Avocation supplements vocation. If the philosopher spent his time playing some stupid card game, he would be wasting his time. But by reading detective stories he applies the logical method developed in his philosophical research. He exercises, as it were, his mind.

Lent is upon us. Why not make our penance a joyous one. A penance done with a heavy heart and with sorrow and longing for freedom, is no penance at all. We should do penance with a light heart. We should joyously offer up to Christ a token of our affection and love for Him.

As the professor mentioned in the first paragraph discovered, many of us do not read good books. Why not resolve, for Christ's sake, to read a few good books as a penance for our laziness in the past. For instance, a reading of Fulton Sheen's Mystical Body of Christ would be the best thing in the world. Or what about reading a good Life of Christ. Do you know all about His personal life? Do you know as much about Christ as you do about Joe Louis?

Many of us have assumed some sort of negative penance. But you know how those things go. For instance, I know one chap that gave up smoking cigarettes — and who now smokes cigars and pipes! Setting yourself down to read a good, thick, solid tome is an excellent penance. It is good for your soul and good for your mind. What do you say? Are you going to raid the library and keep Father Falvey busy every night?

L. K. D. TO RAFFLE PROMENADE TICKET

Winner Also to Get Corsage, Price of Renting Tux, And Car

Bringing together the old members and the initiation—recovering freshmen for the first time, the L. K. D. Fraternity held its weekly meeting last Thursday afternoon. Returns of the fraternity dance were given and also some miscellaneous new matters were brought up.

The returns and reports of the dance, given last Friday evening, proved the dance to have been the highlight in the social activities of the college up to date.

The renovated Villanovan Orchestra furnished dancing feet with a pulsating rhythm and brought the realm of low-priced dances a desired possibility. The fraternity also climaxed the dance by installing their false ceiling in the college gymnasium, a feature already viewed at the Belle Air Ball.

In the course of new business, a chance book to be issued by the fraternity prior to the Junior Prom was proposed and discussed. This chance book would comprise of 10-cent tickets with the purpose of winning a ticket to the prom, the price of renting a tux, a car, and buying a corsage.

This ticket, if not used, could be redeemed for its equivalent of $20. If this plan goes through, a fact almost decided now, the tickets will be available from any members of the fraternity.

In concluding the meeting, President Bigley commented on the failure of certain members to participate in th affairs of the organization. This "dead wood," Bigley stated, would either return in full capacity or be treated according to the situation present. During the course of this week a list of these members in question will be printed with a request to see Mr. Bigley in person.

Students to Hear Fr. Kiley Speak

Continued From Page One

the Lenten season was an excellent time to help develop character and curb free will by the practice of penitential acts.

Foremost among the practices advised by Fr. Stanford was the attendance at daily Mass and the reception of Holy Communion.

"Self-sacrifice is the strongest element in the development of the character of young men. It is therefore necessary for you men to make the utmost use of the opportunities afforded you here at Villanova during the Lenten season. Daily Mass and Communion will help you to regulate the order of your day and leave you in a physical and mental state of perfect health."

Engineers Attend Phila. Convention

Continued From Page One

Sackett, Dean of the School of Engineering of Penn State College.

Although the addresses were concluded at 9:20 P. M., the meeting was not disbanded until shortly after 10:30. This manifests the greater interest of the students and members in each other. Mr. Morehouse said, in commenting on this, "Practical information that will aid the student in later life is only one of the many benefits of student-member conversation."

Many congratulations were extended to the Villanova branch and, in particular, to Prof. Morehouse, to whom most of the credit for the successful meeting was due.

Know How Much Food Is Used?

Continued From Page One

full of monkeys for almost a week.

Villanova students have a great love for spices as the survey amply shows. Can you realize that 35 bottles of catsup, 50 pounds of sugar, 4 pounds of salt, 4 gallons of mustard, and, on occasions when we have pancakes, 7 gallons of syrup are consumed daily by the dining room ravishers. It can never be said of Villanova students that they do not know on which side of their bread the butter may be found for said students use 60 pounds of the spread per day.

Vegetables, too, are used in great quantities. Sixteen cans of peas, 26 cans of beans and corn and 200 pounds of potatoes help to make up the daily diet of vegetables.

The 720 eggs placed before us on the days when we have eggs would keep two hhndred or more chickens busy doing nothing but laying eggs for the college.

It takes 320 beef killings to supply us with our daily supply of loin, and the complete annihilation of a barnyard would be necessary to keep us in our 650 pounds of chicken used a week.

The sweet tooth is not absent here at college as is well proven by the fact that we use here on various days 30 dozen coffee cakes, 50 dozen crullers, and over 400 bricks of ice cream.

It may be well, also, to mention the fact that it takes nine men to distribute the food to this gang and their job is by no means an easy one. Over 300 bowls are left on the tables daily and careless students throw over 500 paper cups on the floor. How many students realize the extra work they create for these men? How many students would do this if they were being watched by their friends from back home?

P. K. P. Fraternity Holds Initiations

Continued From Page One

cited loyalty and organization as the means of a fraternity's existence. Mr. Allan expressed his gratitude to Mr. Banmiller for his many invaluable words of counsel to the incoming members, and also expressed the opinion that with such a speech as an initiative, the ensuing year will be one of the greatest in the fraternity's history.

Of the newly inducted members, the freshmen number the most, being 70 per cent of the total group, while the sophomores were 6 per cent and the juniors 71 per cent. The incoming men are: Francis J. Mozzi, Frank M. Carrol, Samuel H. Brown, Thomas J. Furey, Alfredo Melian, Raul Melian, Jack Dunnigan, Leo B. Bicker, Anthony J. Cirrito, Joseph Quinn, Cyril E. Daly, John W. Burke, Robert J. Mattis, Frederick Welty, Daniel Smith, Harold F. Murphy, Thomas Schaedler, John C. Linsley, Edward Coneen, Ferdinand J. Stackel, Frank Hanlon, Walter Buechner, Vincent Shugrue, Hugh Ferguson, James Carrol, Joseph Rosbert, Jerry Agnes, Edward Fister, Arnold Lanza, Richard Foote, Edward McHugh, and Samuel Quaranta.

College Debaters Victorious in One

Continued From Page One

cision of the Supreme Court, declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional, "has been the topic throughout the series, as it will be for the remainder of the year.

Dayton University is the next debate listed on the present schedule, and they will be met in the Mendel Hall Amphitheater, on March 10, with Villanova upholding the affirmative of the resolution.

Weekly Calendar

TODAY

VILLANOVAN Meeting, 119 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Belle Air Staff Meeting, 51 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Foreign Relations, 213 Mendel Hall ..... 1:15 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 2:30 P. M.
Student Council, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 5:30 P. M.
Freshman Debating, 204 Mendel Hall ..... 7:00 P. M.
Villanova-Temple, Boxing, Villanova Gym ..... 8:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY

Junior Class Meeting, 212 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall ..... 2:30 P. M.
Glee Club Concert, Commerce Auditorium ..... 8:00 P. M.

THURSDAY

Lambda Kappa Delta Meeting, 210 Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.

MONDAY

Phi Kappa Pi Meeting, Mendel Hall ..... 11:35 A. M.
Villanova Engineer, Mendel Hall ..... 1:00 P. M.

LECTURES AT LANCASTER

Rev. Charles Tighe, Principal Of Catholic High School, Host To Father Albers

During the past week, Rev. B. M. Albers, O. S. A., was the guest of Rev. Charles J. Tighe, Principal of Lancaster Catholic High School on the occasion of his giving an address to the senior class. Lancaster Catholic High School is one of the outstanding schools of the Harrisburg Diocese.

In the past years a number of Villanova boys have taken their preparatory work there. William Dinges, a sophomore engineer, is a graduate of Lancaster Catholic High School.

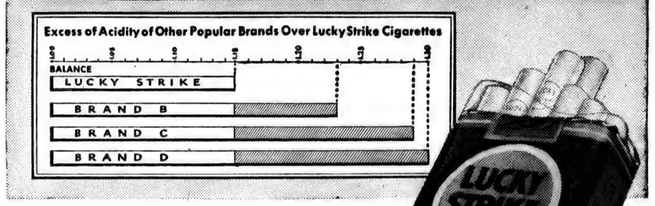
OLYMPIC SWIMMING DATES

Places on Uncle Sam's Olympic swimming team will be decided at the tryouts to be held at Providence, R. I., July 10-11-12 in the Rocky Point Pool. The aquatic group, which will sail for Berlin July 15, will consist of 22 swimmers and divers, 11 water polo players, coaches and managers.

Luckies a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"

Luckies are less acid



STANDARDIZED UNIFORMITY

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill—uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!*

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

"IT'S TOASTED" — Your throat protection — against irritation — against cough

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Sports Editor A. R. C.

ANOTHER sport has been entered into the record books, although the record is not impressive, it does not take away the glory that is deserving to several retiring members of the basketball team. Mike O'Meara, the eagle-eyed son of the Felines attack for three seasons, Jack Robinson and Tom Ryan also members of the team for three campaigns sang their swan song last night. We of the VILLANOVAN staff, who have known them since their freshman days, wish them the best of the best for their outstanding performances.

—V—

Now that the Mendel Hall Dayhop group is assured of the second half crown and are preparing to meet the strong Austin Hall quintet, we are taking the liberty to make a prediction, it is our contention that the commuters will take the season's laurels. Rather a broad statement, we know, but it is good enough for us.

Watching the "train and trolley" team go through the formality of a tussle with their brother riders from the Commerce and Finance school—and it was merely a formality, as the business men were completely outplayed—we gathered several outstanding qualities. First, the spirit of the group as a whole; secondly, the team-work and thirdly, the ability of each man as a basketball player.

The Austinites have not fared so well in the second half race. Whether it was a case of just taking things easy we do not know, however they have been placed at a disadvantage for the Dayhops have been playing bang-up ball, whereas, they have been straggling along.

One thing is certain that the play-off will not be a walk-away for either one.

—V—

Baseball drills will start soon for all candidates. "Doc" Jacobs has had the luring candidates out for two weeks, but will not make his call for fielders until the weather permits going outdoors.

The schedule as arranged calls for 20 contests, the majority of which will be played on foreign fields. Several of the East's leading Intercollegiate nines are scheduled, namely: Fordham, Penn, Cornell, Colgate and Princeton. Only three replacements are required to make up a strong team and with the host of available men, Villanova should enjoy a great season.

—V—

Some time ago through this column we stated that Doctor D'Elisecu, director of athletics at Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, was the donor of a cup to be presented to the most improved boxing candidate at Villanova College. Hbwever, we have been informed that he has changed the gift to a bronze statue instead of a silver loving cup.

—V—

Villanova may be represented at the Philadelphia Sports Carnival to be held Thursday, March 12th, at the Convention Hall. Ray Gadsby and eight members of the Wildcat boxing squad have been invited to attend as a collegiate unit. Many Olympic stars, past and prospective, are among those who will be present, such as Ted Meredith, Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke.

—V—

While we are discussing Olympics, the matter of swimming tryouts for "the meeting of the nations" in August has been settled withwith Providence, R. I., as the place, and July 10-11-12 as the time. Several collegiate stars are included among the hopeful entrants, and many places will be filled by them.

—V—

The Violets of N. Y. U. have been humbled; another feather in our hat for we predicted it. Their experience should be a lesson to the "hecklers" of the now ended Villanova varsity's campaign. In the former instance it was the case of a fast team not being able to keep up the pace after a strenuous early season. In the latter, it was the case of a good team not being able to get out from under during a strenuous schedule.

Villanovan Sports

FROSH FIVE WINS FIFTEENTH

HOME SEASON ENDS WITH WIN AGAINST LAFAYETTE CAGERS

Sophomores Impress Audience With Spirited Play In 35-26 Victory

BISONS ROUT 'CATS 43-36

By JOHN L. SIMONS

After being stampeded on Tuesday evening by Bucknell's Thundering Herd to the tune of 43-36, Villanova came back the following night to administer a sound beating to the Maroons of Lafayette, and repeated at Easton, Saturday.

Bucknell brought a team of fast-cutting, sharp-shooting basketeers down to the Main Line gym Tuesday, and their fast-breaking offensive was just a little too much for the 'Cats to stop. Still the Bisons had anything but an easy time of it.

The homesters fought back tooth and nail, and the outcome of the game was in doubt until the last minutes. Mike O'Meara set the scoring pace for his teammates, his six goals and a foul being very instrumental in keeping the game close.

Wednesday's clash with Lafayette saw an improved Villanova team in action. Coach Jacobs started a substitute team, composed for the most part of last year's successful freshman squad. The shock troops started off with a bang on Eddie

Continued on Page Six

INDOOR PRACTICE FOR BASEBALLERS

McLaughlin and Escott, Both Left-Handers Balance Pitching Staff

Coach George Jacob's call for varsity baseball candidates last week has earnestly been answered with a swarm of eager Wildcat hopefuls who started practicing in the gym, for the coming season.

Practice sessions will be held daily in the capacious field house, until Old Man Winter gradually betakes himself to other points. The work indoors is beneficial to all members, as they can easily limber up their stiff legs and arms, Coach Jacobs has realized the value and necessity of this form of exercise; hence he is on hand to watch over the boys to keep them from overdoing it.

The team is expected to be in excellent shape when the first game rolls around. Penn will be met in the opener, April 1; then Cornell and Princeton will furnish the opposition on successive days following the curtain-lifter. Much need not be said about these clubs, as every one knows the caliber of baseball they play. The 'Cat nine is not badly weakened by graduation, as only three members have gone by the boards; however, there promises to be a general scramble for their positions, since there are many able candidates.

Among the pitchers, Franny Escott and Bill McLaughlin have shown promise as top-notchers, so far in their workouts. Both are recruited from the last year's Freshman team, and both heave them from the portside; hence the Felines will be equally balanced in the hurling department, as the right-handed veterans Ed Vaughn, Joe McGovern and Tom Collins are expected to continue in their old strides.

Villanova Frosh Record

Frosh		Opponents
40	Westminster	22
43	Trinity Club	15
31	Banks Business School	14
29	Haverford Aces	22
29	Collegiate Prep	23
35	West Chester Frosh	22
42	Naval Hospital	21
29	St. John's Frosh	27
43	Temple Frosh	33
29	Naval Hospital	23
34	Pottstown Falcons	19
26	Star Printers	12
37	Fedigan Steamrollers	19
58	Ursinus Frosh	11
31	Temple Frosh	28
536	TOTAL	311

Boxers Defeat Presidents By 4-3 Count; Temple Foe To Be Met Here Tonight

Washington and Jefferson Humbled In Home Lair

WASHINGTON, PA.—The newly organized Wildcat boxing team made it two out of three here tonight by trouncing the Presidents of Washington and Jefferson College, 4 to 3.

The Presidents had previously defeated Pitt and Lock Haven, two strong clubs; while the Villanova squad had just dropped a tough one at Western Maryland after having defeated Penn at home.

Speaking to Ray Gadsby, coach of the Main Line boxing team, it has been found that the match with the Green Terrors of Westminster was close in more respects than one. Perhaps it would be interesting to go over each bout of that match to see what really happened there.

The first bout of the evening found Mike Rodriguez pitted against Bob Bennett. Mike was well on the way to a draw at least when the fight was stopped in the third round because of an eye injury. This boy Bennett, who is runner-up to the intercollegiate champion, did not completely outbox our representative. He made his rival back up constantly.

In the next bout, Villanova, with Carl Pantaleo, evened the count when he knocked out Bill Skeen in the second round. Carl's constant body attack, mixed with a series of straight right crosses, sent his man out for the count.

Decision Unpopular

In the 135 class, John Warnan was awarded an unpopular decision over Bobrowski.

Jim Butler was the next Wildcat to enter the ring. He gave the fans something to remember. Fighting a veteran, Rodman Haynes, he displayed remarkable skill and endurance, standing up under a strong puncher. Butler made his opponent retreat several times. The final tabulation, how, ever, was in favor of Haynes.

Joe Carrig, the "blonde flash" from Jersey City, entered the ring for the fifth bout of the evening. Joe started out in the first round and boxed Bill Willoughby to a standstill. In this round he floored his rival. For the remaining two rounds Carrig outpunched, outsmarted, and made his rival back away. When the decision was awarded to his opponent, probably the most surprised of the lot was Willoughby himself. The referee cast his vote for the Wildcat, but the two judges voted in favor of the Green Terror.

The 165-pound card was a change in tide for the Wildcats. Jack "Sparks" Jarosik entered the ring

Continued on Page Seven

Encounter With Owls Looms as Tough Assignment

With a brilliant victory over Washington and Jefferson safely tucked away under their belts, the boxing team is strenuously preparing for their final dual meet of the year.

Tonight at the Villanova gym the Wildcats will come to blows with their perennial rivals, "The Temple Owls." So far this year the Owls have met such teams as West Virginia, Bucknell, Pitt and C. C. N. Y. They have been very impressive in all of these meets and the Wildcats should have a very busy night.

Coach Gadsby, when interviewed about this meet quoted the following, "The Temple team this year is very strong, they boast such veterans and individual stars as Andy Pettineo, a three-year veteran, Glenn Mulhern and McKenna, but after our team showed up so brilliantly against W. and J. I predict we will not only give the Owls a busy night but we will defeat them." Thus Ray Gadsby has aroused the hopes of the Wildcat students who are pulling for a Villanova victory.

Pettineo Dangerous

Much can be said about the above mentioned Temple men. Pettineo, a 125-pounder, after losing his first bout to a W. Virginia man, has won three consecutive fights. He is a veteran of three years' ring experience, and has shown he will be a thorn in the side of Carl Panteleo, the little Wildcat slugger. Glenn, a 115-pounder, who is a graduate of Southern High School, the same school which has sent Pettineo to Temple, is a rapid-firing little thunderbolt and he also has won his last three fights.

In the heavier divisions there are such men as, Mulhern, 175, and McKenna, 145. Mulhern has yet to taste the bitter herbs of defeat and he is strenuously pointing himself for Villanova's captain and intercollegiate champion, Tony Sala. This fight between Mulhern and Sala should be a rip-snorter. Thus far this year Sala has given all of his rivals a fine pasting and it is hoped, by his many Wildcat rooters that he will emerge victorious so that he may have an unblemished record when he invades the Penn State lair for the inter-collegiates.

All of the members of the Wildcat squad are tediously training for this Owl encounter. The main reason being that those who are impressive will be sent to the inter-collegiates. Carl Panteleo, rugged 125-pounder, Jack Jarosik, 165, and Tony Sala, 175, and Bob Buckly, heavyweight, are a few of the

Continued on Page Seven

REMAIN UNBEATEN WITH THREE MORE VICTORIES ADDED

Kittens End Home Season By Downing Ursinus And Temple Fives

STEAMROLLERS ROUTED

By WILLIAM BOWKER

Fifteen straight triumphs have been amassed by the Kittens as a result of victories over the Fedigan Steamrollers, the Ursinus Frosh, and last, but not least, the Temple Owlets.

Thirty-seven points to nineteen was the result of the first encounter, while the Bear Cubs were swamped 58-11. The third win saw a 31-28 count at the final whistle.

Conquest number thirteen, at the expense of the Steam Rollers, was not gained so easily as the score would indicate. At the end of the first half the victors were a mere three points ahead of their opponents. Jim Montgomery started the ball rolling with a free throw, and five more tallies were added to this before Mike Garbark, stellar forward of the footballers, dropped into the hoop the first of his four field goals.

Two more brought the road flatteners within a single point of the Frosh. Joe Hopkins' foul and double-decker gave the winners a

Continued on Page Six

RODGERS REACHES SEMI-FINAL ROUND

Engineers Bowling Tourney Moves Slowly Into Last Lap

Frank Rodgers, senior engineer and captain of last season's 150-pound football team, reached the semi-finals in the Phi Kappa Pi bowling tournament last week when he defeated Ed Fister.

In the upper bracket, Jerry Agnes advanced to the quarter-finals when he won from Al Hoffman. J. G. Devine emerged the victor in his match with Denny in the first round and will next meet Tom Fury who defeated Joe O'Brien in two straight games last Saturday. The winner of the Devine-Fury match will go to the quarter-finals to meet Courtin. Courtin last week defeated Pat Kelly in a hotly contested match. J. Rhoads defeated Barr in the first round.

Ed Murphy, who won on default from Shevland, will meet Hallahan. The winner of this match will meet Joe Cook, who entered the quarter-finals.

The matches in the tournament have been far between because of the inability of the contestants to agree on a suitable time to play.

The affair is the first of its kind to be held by the Phi Kappa Pi, but the fraternity hopes to make it annual. Much of the success of the tournament will depend on the entries playing their matches on date.

STAFF MEETING CALLED

There will be a very important meeting of the VILLANOVAN sports staff tomorrow afternoon at 1 P. M. All writers are requested to attend as matters of importance will be discussed.

MENDEL DAYHOPS TAKE SECOND HALF INTRA-MURAL RACE

Schedule Will Be Concluded In Order to Determine Point Winners

MEET AUSTIN FOR TITLE

STANDING

	Won	Lost
Mendel Day Hops	9	0
Alumni	5	2
Austin	5	3
Mendel Residents	4	4
Fedigan	3	7
C. & F. Day Hops	0	10

Last week the Mendel Day Hop quintet clinched the second-half championship without playing a game. The five from the business school decided to forfeit their six remaining games. This enabled the Mendel commuters to score their ninth straight triumph without scoring a point. Practically every team in the league was affected by the business men's decision.

Coach Robinson, of Austin, expressed the opinion that this was unfair to those teams that had already beaten the C. and F. five.

On Tuesday night, the teams from Fedigan and Austin engaged in a game that was played preliminary to the varsity's encounter with Bucknell. The Austinites came out on top by the score of 14-8. Austin led at the half, 3-2.

Close guarding marked the game and the players were nervous in their first appearance before a large gallery. Several passes went awry due to the gazing of several players at the fair sex who were quite in the majority at the game.

Seventh Defeat for Fedigan

Totin and McGrory, of Austin, and Sheftic, of Fedigan shone for their respective teams. This defeat was Fedigan's seventh setback and Austin's fourth victory.

Last Thursday night Austin came through with their fifth triumph when they defeated the Mendel Residents in a free-scoring game, 43-34.

Hart, of Mendel, and Conte, of Austin, both tallied 14 points to carry off high-scoring honors. The scoring ability of Austin was well-distributed while Mendel relied on Hart and Capellaro.

At one point of the second half, Austin lead 33-18, but Mendel rallied and made the game much closer. The game was marked by poor guarding on the part of both teams, which factor accounts for the large score.

The schedule will be completed this week and the playoffs will be held next week between Austin and the Mendel Day Hops.

Special note should be made of the fact that this week's schedule does not begin until Wednesday due to the varsity's game on Monday night and the boxing meet with Temple on Tuesday night.

MENDEL RESIDENTS

	G.	F.	P.
Costello, forward	2	1	5
Carroll, forward	1	0	2
Hart, center	4	1	9
Dimon, guard	0	1	1
Delate, guard	1	0	2
Capellaro, guard	1	0	2
Schaedler, guard	1	0	2
Totals	10	3	23

MENDEL DAY HOPS

	G.	F.	P.
Murphy, forward	0	1	1
McManus, forward	1	1	3
Barr, forward	3	2	8
O'Connor, center	5	2	12
Beittenmiller, guard	2	1	5
Totals	11	7	29

AUSTIN

	G.	F.	P.
Badamo, forward	5	0	0
McCabe, forward	2	0	4
McGrory, center	5	0	10
Frachia, guard	2	1	5
Conte, guard	7	0	4
Totals	21	1	43

MENDEL RESIDENTS

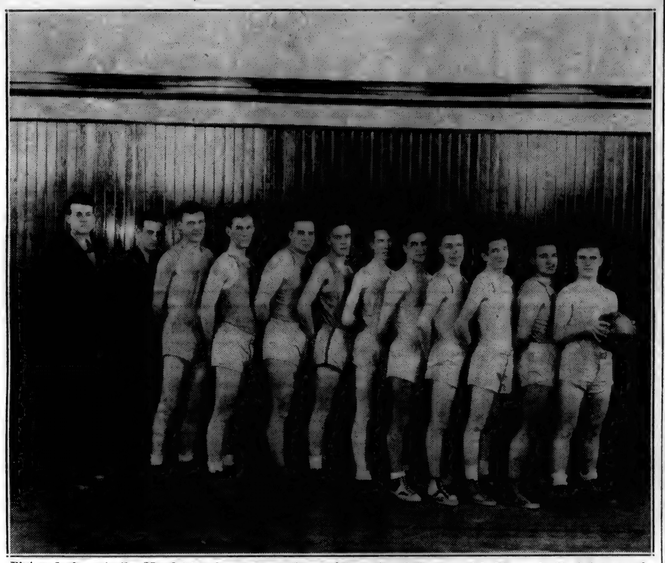
	G.	F.	P.
Delate, forward	3	1	7
Carroll, forward	1	0	2
Schaedler, forward	0	0	0
Hart, center	6	2	14
Capellaro, guard	4	1	9
Dunigan, guard	2	0	4
Totals	16	4	36

SCHEDULE

March 4
Alumni vs. Mendel Residents. (Afternoon)
Alumni vs. Mendel Day Hops. (Evening 1st. game)
Mendel Res. vs. Austin. (Evening 2nd. game)

March 5
Alumni vs. Austin. (Evening)

WINNERS IN SECOND-HALF RACE



Pictured above is the Mendel Dayhop aggregation which captured the second-half race in the intra-mural league. Their record includes nine straight wins, placing them two games ahead of the second-place Alumni five. The "train and trolley" team was the runner-up in the first-half race. They will meet Austin Hall for the season's laurels. Reading from left to right they are: Coach Joe Duffy, Manager John McManus, Ed Hoffman, Dan O'Connor, Bill Thorn, Ed Murphy, Ed Carliss, Wiffy Burns, Joe Rospert, Gene Barr, Jerry Agnes, Joe Bittemiller.

Kittens Run Up Fifteenth Straight At Expense of Temple Frosh Five Baskets by Vigilante and Hopkins, and a free-throw by Burlington gave the Frosh sixteen, and Nye's counter for the losers put the score at 16-13 at half-time.

After the intermission the yearlings found themselves and hammered the basket with shots until the youngsters were fifteen points ahead of the veterans. Due to Val Rizzo's flashy passing the Sophs counted on Andy Stopper's twin-pointer. Mellus' two baskets concluded the losers' scoring for the evening, and the Infants ran the count to thirty seven, with Dubino and Dempsey heading the pack.

Lou Dubino and Joe Hopkins paced the Main Liners with eleven and ten tallies, respectively. Mike Garbark excelled for the pigskin toters with nine markers. "Dynamite" Nick Kotys and Ray Stoviak completed the losers' roster and made their presence felt by sparkling floor play.

Little opposition was found in the Ursinus Frosh, who were met Friday afternoon. The Cubs were unable to pierce the Kittens' defense until fifteen minutes of the game had passed. By this time, the Villanovans, with Jim Montgomery at the helm, sailed to an eighteen-point advantage. Two dozen points were on the boards before the visitors had counted their second field goal of the half. Dubino, Hopkins and Krutulis marked up a few more while Eshback tallied the losers' final point of the period. Score at halftime, 31-6.

No let-up in play was seen as the yearlings added twenty-one more to their slate before Flamish found the hoop for the Collegeville lads. What might be deemed a rally by the visitors occurred at this stage of the game as Powers and Broomall added three counts to Flamish's for five straight while holding the conquerors scoreless. Three field goals by the Cats concluded the one-sided fray.

All but Kuber and Wanamaker had a hand in the scoring. Jim Montgomery's six goals and foul were enough to lead Lou Dubino by one tally. Joe Hopkins had three less than the latter.

In their second victory over Temple's Owlets, the Kittens found the going a bit harder than in their two previous games. Krutulis nipped the meshes to commence the action. Dubino and Hopkins counted to give the victors six points before Shapiro's free toss drew blood for the Mitten Hailers.

Black's toss from the charity circle doubled the Flock's score, but they were unable to further their four-point margin. But Mellus and Garbark knotted the count at nine all. Dubino tallied for the Thirty-Niners and Garbark again brought the Pavers even with the opposition.

cause until fifteen tallies were chalked up by the Main Liners. A determined rally was staged by the Birds, and half-time found the score standing 16-12 in the hosts' favor.

History repeated itself in the second half as the homesters put on a spurt with Johnny Krutulis' four field goals and Vigilante's free throws carrying the burden of the attack, and ran the score to 28-14. This rally was followed by similar action on the part of the visitors, who drew within three points of their opponents. A small dispute arose at the time of Vigilante's being expelled from the game on personal fouls, and shortly after this the tussle was concluded with Dubino's free throw.

Johnny Krutulis paced the victors with six twin-pointers. Joe Macall had an even dozen tallies to his credit to lead the Temple quintet.

URSINUS

	G.	F.	P.
Flamish, f	1	0	2
Eshback, f	1	0	2
Sampson, f	0	0	0
Egret, f	0	0	0
Dunn, c	0	0	0
Harbaugh, c	0	0	0
Powers, g	1	0	2
Broomall, g	0	1	1
Gushard, g	1	0	2
Miller, g	1	0	2
Totals	5	1	11

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, f	6	1	13
Hopkins, f	3	3	9
Wanamaker, f	0	0	0
Hobson, f	1	0	2
Dubino, c	6	0	12
Burlington, c	2	0	4
Krutulis, g	2	1	5
Vigilante, g	2	2	6
Vondra, g	1	0	2
Dempsey, g	2	1	5
Kuba, g	0	0	0
Totals	25	8	58

Score by halves:
Villanova ..... 31 27—58
Ursinus ..... 6 5—11
Referee—Redmond. Time of halves —20 minutes.

TEMPLE FRESH

	G.	F.	P.
Potfora, f	1	0	2
Kolman, f	0	0	0
Shapiro, f	2	2	6
Chapman, c	1	0	2
Walters, g	1	1	3
Black, g	1	3	5
Dotti, g	0	0	0
Macali, f	3	0	6
Caucci, c	1	2	4
Totals	10	8	28

VILLANOVA F.

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, f	1	1	3
Hopkins, f	2	2	6
Dubino, c	3	1	7
Krutulis, g	6	0	12
Dempsey, g	0	0	0
Vigilante, g	0	3	3
Wanamaker, g	0	0	0
Totals	12	7	31

Score by halves:
Temple ..... 12 16—28
Villanova ..... 16 15—31
Referees: Reagan and Redmond. Time of halves: 20 minutes.

WILDCAT MERMEN BEAT OSTEOPATHY

Capture Five Events With Bill Leahy Taking Two Firsts

Tuesday afternoon in the Villanova Pool the Wildcat mermen swamped the College of Osteopathy by the score of 38-38.

Bill Leahy was the shining light of the home team as he carried off first-place honors in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle events. His effort to pick up a 12-foot deficit on the anchor lap of the relay all but succeeded as Lubin, Osteopathy's anchor man, just beat him out by a touch.

Five of the seven first places were taken by Villanova. Bill Booth won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:25 without extending himself. In the 100-yard breaststroke, Toby Greco won as he pleased with the time of 1 minute and 18 seconds.

Tom Carbine swam a good race in the 220-yard freestyle and outlasted Perry, of Osteopathy, who just managed to win over Bill Bailey for second place.

Flocco, of Osteopathy, gave a brilliant exhibition in the dive to carry off his team's only triumph in the individual events. Jim Gallagher, of Villanova, beat out his teammate, Court Kitchel, for second place in this event.

Flocco also swam in the first position on the winning relay team, besides taking third in the breaststroke to bring his scoring total to 8 points, which number Lubin also tallied.

The swimming team is undefeated in their home pool this season which is quite an improvement over last year's record.

The summaries:

200-yard relay—Won by Osteopathy (Fiacco, Peery, Hylander, Lubin); second, Villanova (Booth, Canter, Cousart, Leahy). Time, 2.48.3.

Diving—Won by Fiacco, Osteopathy, 89.3; second, Gallagher, Villanova; third, Koch, Osteopathy.

50-yard freestyle—Won by Leahy, Villanova; second, Lubin, Osteopathy; third, Tylander, Osteopathy. Time, 25.4 seconds.

100-yard breaststroke—Won by Greco, Villanova; second, Burnard, Osteopathy; third, Flacco, Osteopathy. Time, 1.18.

220-yard freestyle—Won by Carbine, Villanova; second, Lubin, Osteopathy; third, Bailey, Villanova. Time, 2.47.

100-yard freestyle—Won by Leahy, Villanova; second, Lubin, Osteopathy; third, Cousart, Villanova. Time, 58 seconds.

100-yard backstroke—Won by Booth, Villanova; second, Bailey, Villanova. Time, 1.25.

LEADS E. I. L. SCORING

Bill Nash, captain of the Columbia Lions, leaders in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, is making the race for individual scoring honors in that league a runaway. Although he has played in but eight games, his 97 points give him a lead of almost 20 points over his nearest rival.

Home Season Closes With Maroon Five

Continued From Page Five

Collins' field goal in the first ten seconds. They went on to amass a substantial lead before retiring in favor of the regulars.

Sophomores Take Spotlight

Charley Noonan and Walter McKenna, two sophs starting their first game of the year stood out in the Blue and White lineup. Noonan was especially brilliant. Besides being the game's high scorer, he was an invaluable asset to the Wildcats under both backboards. Time after time he leaped into the air from the midst of a scrimmage under the basket to grab the ball.

Coach Jacobs' reserves set a hot pace from the first whistle. Field goals in quick succession by Collins, Robinson, McKenna and Noonan gave Villanova a commanding 8-1 lead, a lead which the home team never relinquished. The defensive strength of the shock troops was shown when they held the Maroons scoreless from the field for the first seven minutes of the game.

After warming the bench for the greater part of the initial half, the regulars were finally sent in and managed to keep out in front so that the half-time score read Villanova 17, Lafayette 11.

Still, although the regulars even improved the lead slightly in the second half, the subs seemed to click as a team in smoother fashion than did the varsity cast. Charley Noonan's playing was just about the best flashed by a Villanova man all year, and the floor work of Collins, Robinson, and McKenna left little to be desired.

This tussle marked the last game for the varsity on its home court for the now fast-closing campaign.

Seventeen points wer credited to Mike O'Meara, brilliant Villanova varsity forward as the Blue and White added its second victory of the week over Lafayette, Saturday, at Easton.

Making most of his shots from the side and from difficult angles, the former North Catholic luminary kept the Main Liners in the thick of the contest.

In the closing minutes of the game, the Maroon rallied to bring the score to 29-25. The charges of "Doc" Jacobs then went away to clinch the victory by a comfortable margin.

Coach Paul Shellenberger, of the Easton crew, sent in several players to guard O'Meara, whose seven goals and three fouls were tops for the night, but the Villanova forward still found the range.

BUCKNELL

	G.	F.	P.
Monahan, forward	6	2	14
Sager, forward	0	0	0
Deegan, forward	3	0	6
Foltz, center	7	2	16
Flier, guard	2	2	6
Smith, guard	0	0	0
Carpenter, guard	0	1	1
Totals	18	7	43

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Geraghty, forward	2	2	6
Noonan, forward	0	0	0
McNally, forward	1	0	2
Robinson, forward	3	0	6
Brennan, center	3	0	6
Marquette, center	1	0	2
O'Meara, guard	6	1	13
Ryan, guard, center	1	0	2
Collins, guard	1	3	5
McKenna, guard	0	0	0
Totals	16	4	36

Bucknell ..... 21 22—43
Villanova ..... 19 17—36
Referee—Livingston and Emery.

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
McKenna, forward	2	1	5
Noonan, forward	3	2	11
O'Meara, forward	2	2	6
Marquette, center	1	0	2
Brennan, center	1	0	2
Robinson, guard	1	1	3
Collins, guard	1	1	3
McNally, guard	1	1	3
Ryan, guard	0	0	0
Totals	14	7	35

LAFAYETTE

	G.	F.	P.
Saurman, forward	1	2	4
Cooper, forward	2	1	5
Wild, forward	2	0	4
Wolf, center	1	1	3
Hatch, center	0	0	0
Cillini, guard	0	0	0
Steinhardt, guard	0	0	0
Benjamin, guard, forward	2	0	4
Rossitter, guard	2	2	6
Vernon, guard	0	0	0
Totals	10	6	26

Score at half time—Villanova, 17; Lafayette, 11. Referees—Walter Hafas and Ben Emery.

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Noonan, f	2	3	7
Ryan, f	0	0	0
O'Meara, f	7	3	17
McKenna, f	0	0	0
Brennan, c	3	1	7
Collins, g	0	2	2
McNally, g	0	0	0
Robinson, g	2	1	5
Totals	12	10	34

LAFAYETTE

	G.	F.	P.
Wild, f	3	1	7
Benjamin, f	0	0	0
Saurman, f	1	1	3
Cooper, c-f	2	1	5
Wolf, c	1	1	3
Steinhardt, g	0	2	2
Rossitter, g	0	1	1
Cillini, g	2	2	6
Vernon, g	0	0	0
Totals	8	9	25

Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee—Julian. Umpire—Wilwer.

U. S. Navy Seeking Men for Aviation

Continued From Page One

Aviation Cadet. These Cadets will be given the full course in flight training at Pensacola, a course of about one year's duration, and, upon graduation, will be ordered to active duty with the Aircraft Squadrons, U. S. Fleet, for a period not to exceed three years.

They will remain Aviation Cadets for the entire three years, and, at the conclusion of the period of active duty with the Fleet each Cadet will be eligible for commission as Ensign in the Naval Reserve. The date of rank will be retroactive to the date of first appointment as an Aviation Cadet, in order that they may not lose precedence with classmates commissioned from the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Applications of qualified candidates must be forwarded to the Navy Department for final selection about a month prior to the starting of a training class. In order to schedule physical examinations and interviews incident to selection by the Local Selection Board, it is necessary that applications be made without delay.

General requirements for appointment are first that the applicant be a male citizen of the United States. He must be not less than 20 years of age, nor over 28 years at the time of appointment as aviation cadet, and must agree to remain on active duty for four years, including the period of training at Pensacola, if such is authorized by the Navy Department. If applicant is a minor written consent of parent or guardian is required.

Furthermore, he must be unmarried and agree to remain so during the period of active duty with the Navy. Also, he must agree to maintain flying efficiency so far as is practicable by associating himself with a Naval Reserve Aviation Unit, after completing his training and required active duty, and receiving commission in the Naval Reserve.

More specific requirements, those of educational nature are that candidates must either be graduates of recognized universities or colleges or must be able to present a certificate signed by the registrar of a recognized college or university, showing satisfactory completion of one-half or more of the necessary credits leading to a degree which normally requires four years of work, and who possess a mathematical education.

Paetrus Banmiller, registrar at Villanova, urges all students interested in this course and in applying for selection as candidates, to see him in his office at their earliest convenience, as the names must be turned in to the Commandant within a few weeks.

2nd Group Picture Schedule Appears

Continued From Page One

for the schedule and to follow it accordingly. This will not be difficult as schedules will appear on various school bulletin boards and in the VILLANOVAN.

The pictures already taken may be seen and ordered at the book room. Those students who do not get copies of the Belle Air by reason of their tuition and who desire to obtain one may do so through David Craig of the Belle Air business staff.

It is again requested by the photographers and the annual's staff that the students offer their utmost co-operation in this venure. The yearbrook editors are satisfied with student attitude so far and it is hoped that this spirit will prevail for the remainder of the work to be done in order that this year's annual will see publication at an arly date.

Belle-Air Group Pictures Scheduled For March 10

Photograph	Place	Time
1. Sanctuary Society	New Gym	1:00 P. M.
2. Epsilon Phi Theta	New Gym	1:10 P. M.
3. Lambda Kappa Delta	New Gym	1:20 P. M.
4. Varsity Club ("V" Sweaters)	New Gym	1:30 P. M.
5. VILLANOVAN STAFF	New Gym	1:40 P. M.
6. Non Residents' Club	New Gym	1:50 P. M.
7. Intramural Committee	New Gym	2:00 P. M.
8. Vilanova Engineer Staff	New Gym	2:10 P. M.
9. Mendel Bulletin Staff	New Gym	2:20 P. M.
10. Student Council	New Gym	2:30 P. M.
11. Catholic Press Apostolate	New Gym	2:45 P. M.
12. International Relations	New Gym	3:00 P. M.
13. Freshman Debating Society	New Gym	3:15 P. M.
14. Boxing Team	New Gym	3:30 P. M.
15. Wilkes-Barre Club	New Gym	3:40 P. M.
16. North Jersey Club	New Gym	3:50 P. M.

NOTE: All members of respective groups must be on hand at the scheduled time for their group.

W. and J. Humbled By 'Cats Mittmen

Continued From Page Five

set on placing Clinton Walker flat on his back. Jack later confided that he thought that was the only way he could win. Jarsik was a little wild in the first round but concentrated his blows to a two-handed attack to the body and head and sent his man to dreamland in the second

Sala Wins

The next bout found Villanova's captain and intercollegiate champion, Tony Sala, faced by Tony Ortenzi. The Green Terrors were out to win this one. Tony went out in the first canto and took it "cagey." In the second round, Sala stepped out to give his opponent a lesson in boxing, and clubbed him all over the ring. His constant right cross and hook sent the lad from Western Maryland into a state of dreams many times. The last round was a repetition of the second and Sala really showed his worth as champion. The Wildcat won hands down and was awarded a very popular decision. In the last bout Dick Mulvihill fought a great fight with Pontecarvo but the bout was stopped in the second round when Dick was weak from hard and bruising body attacks. It was a good fight while it lasted.

Here at Washington the story was different. The Wildcats started off with the count one to nothing against them and with only six bouts to be fought. Therefore to win this match Villanova had to win four of the six; which is exactly what they did. The visiting team was thus handicapped because they had to forfeit the 115 pound bout due to Rodriguez's injury, and the 145 lb. class was called off by mutual agreement when both contestants were overweight.

Pantaleo Undefeated

Carl Pantaleo, thus far undefeated, started the card in fine style by winning a decision from Parks. This victory for Villanova evened the count. However, the Presidents jumped ahead again when Conte was awarded a decision over Bobrowski.

The following bout was in the 155 division. Villanova's Joe Carrig was pitted against Reed, captain of the home team. In the second round of this fight, Reed unintentionally fouled his opponent. Carrig doubled up and to all appearances seemed in great pain. The referee, however, called time in. At this point Gadsby jumped up and protested; not against the foul but at the action of the referee in allowing the fight to go on without giving Carrig time to rest. The fight was halted, but for good, and the decision was given to Reed because of "coach interference."

Coach Gadsby should be lauded, not criticised, for his interference. Knowing that Villanova would lose the decision by forfeit if he protested during the bout, Gadsby proved that the primary purpose of athletics at any institution is the building of character and body, not the winning of games. No coach likes to lose contests, yet he sacrificed the bout rather than have Carrig fight in the condition he was in after being fouled.

As a result of the Carrig-Reed bout the Presidents held a 3 to 1 lead. The Wildcats had to win all three remaining bouts. Jarosik and Sala did their part when they defeated Lichvar and Skulos respectively. Jarsik won by decision while Sala won by K. O.

Buckley Looks Good

The final bout of the evening found Buckley, a new addition to the team, against Moorehead, a big boy with a terrific right. The Villanova supporters were hoping for the best. Buckley, a California product, had never fought before. The Wildcat entry came through in fine style and surprised everyone by scoring a K. O.

TRACKMEN REPORT FOR DAILY WORK-OUTS

Freshmen Appear for Practice Sessions Along With Veterans

Track practice has been going on for the past week, with the candidates working out daily on the board track under the north stand of the stadium. The sessions consist of strenuous calesthentics and wind sprints, under the supervision of Ben Maloney.

These sessions will continue until the weather permits use of the cinderpaths. To date, the earnestness and spirit of the aspirants has been keen. There are several freshmen candidates who have reported, but the freshman rules will not allow their competing in scheduled meets. However it is felt that the practice will not hurt any of them and will tend toward the attaining of a better squad in the future.

Several of the upper-classmen have not reported for practice as yet, but will be present at the drills in the near future. Eddie McDevitt, who runs the 440 dash, is expected to report for the first time along with the other veterans. His appearance will help bolster the team.

The new equipment will be distributed in the near future and all desiring to compete in the track and field activities are to report for practice at the earliest possible time.

Boxers Encounter Owls Here Tonight

Continued From Page Five

boys who have their yearning eyes pointing toward Penn State and the inter-collegiates.

The following is the Wildcat team which will face Temple. Vince Shugue, 115, a new comer fighting in his first bout. Carl Panteleo, 125, Stan Bobrouski, 135, Jim Butler, 145, Joe Carrig, 155, Jack Jarosik, 165, Tony Sala and Bob Buckley a new heavyweight making his first appearance in the home ring.

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

CERTIFIED
MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

Here and There

By EDWARD L. COLLINS

CHARLEY HIGGINS, Frosh business man, will be a welcome addition to the track team...That is, if yearlings are permitted to participate in track and field events.

Charley can kick his gangling legs over the bamboo stick to the height of 6' 2". And if that isn't high jumping good enough for these parts then I miss my guess.

Another first-year man, Joe Carrig, who scintillates on the basketball court and in the squared circle, turns his attentions to pole-vaulting in the spring. "Silent Joe" soars close to 12 feet over the crossbar and should be a consistent point winner in the dual meets. While performing for Seton Hall Prep, Joe received an injury to his leg that put him on the shelf for quite a spell. By dint of hard work and plenty of exercise in the form of handball and plenty of walking the injured member gradually was restored to its former strength.

There have been rumors circulating about the campus that freshmen will be allowed to perform with the varsity baseball nine. If this is done then the ball tossers will have a more than successful campaign.

Word comes from New England way that Bobby Bond is another Hal Chase and George Sisler rolled into one. Hope Bobby can live up to expectations.

Lenny Merullo, who works out with the Cubs when they are about the Beantown City, covers the short field like the proverbial blanket...and what a gun (arm to you).

Other performers of the inner garden are Cowboy Crowley, at the keystone sack, and Charley Dellumomo, Baltimore boy, who will take care of the duties at the hot corner.

The Frosh would add a great deal of power, both at bat and afield, if allowed to compete...The inner cordon of the banner 1935 campaign has been greatly weakened by the graduation of Frankie Skaff, hard-hitting third sacker, now with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The shortstop post will be a wide open affair along with third base.

This leaves only Captain Artie Mahan at the initial hassock, and Leo Schoppmeyer, holdover second baseman, to bear the brunt of the attack. But with a galaxy of stars in the person of mound aces the Wildcats will throw up a powerful defense.

The recent 57-11 drubbing the natators received at the hands of the Lafayette College swimmers resulted in a bit of cockiness to be thrown about the collective heads of the freshmen members of the team...The yearlings were not permitted to participate in the meet and they believe that the outcome would have been entirely different had they been allowed to compete.

Wilmer Booth, acting captain was the lone Villanovan to carry off a first place and if the freshmen think they have 46 points (the margin of victory) stowed away among them, then I admire them for their confidence—or maybe it is over-confidence.

The issue will be settled this afternoon when the frosh members of the team line up against the varsity performers in a grudge battle ...I wish the varsity members the best of luck for they will need it against an extremely bunch of cocky Frosh...See you all next week.

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

NEW REDUCED SUNDAY RATES ON OUT-OF-TOWN CALLS
Bargain rates are now in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

MENDEL DAYHOPS TAKE SECOND HALF INTRA-MURAL RACE

Schedule Will Be Concluded In Order to Determine Point Winners

MEET AUSTIN FOR TITLE

STANDING	Won	Lost
Mendel Day Hops	9	0
Alumni	5	2
Austin	5	3
Mendel Residents	4	4
Fedigan	3	6
C. & F. Day Hops	0	10

Last week the Mendel Day Hop quintet clinched the second-half championship without playing a game. The five from the business school decided to forfeit their six remaining games. This enabled the Mendel comanders to score their ninth straight triumph without scoring a point. Practically every team in the league was affected by the business men's decision.

Coach Robinson, of Austin, expressed the opinion that this was unfair to those teams that had already beaten the C. and F. five.

On Tuesday night, the teams from Fedigan and Austin engaged in a game that was played preliminary to the varsity's encounter with Bucknell. The Austinites came out on top by the score of 4-3. Austin lead at the half, 3-2.

Close guarding marked the game and the players were nervous in their first appearance before a large gallery. Several players were away due to the gazing of several players at the fair sex who were quite in the majority at the game.

Seventh Defeat for Fedigan

Tom and Mullroy, of Austin, and Snetine of Fedigan shone for their respective teams. The latter four were Fedigan seventh defeat and Austin's fourth victory.

Last Thursday night Austin came through with their fifth triumph when they defeated the Mendel Residents in a free scoring game, 15-11.

Tom of Mendel, and Curry, of Austin, both tallied 11 points to carry off high-scoring honors. The scoring ability of Austin was well distributed while Mendel relied on Hart and Capellaro.

At one point of the second half, Austin had 33-15 but Mendel rallied and made the game much closer. The game was marked by poor guarding on the part of both teams which factor account for the large score.

The schedule will be completed this week and the play-offed be scheduled before Easter and the Mendel Day Hops.

A word of note should be made of the fact that the weekly results do not begin until Wednesday of the varsity's game and the morning after the meeting of the Tuesday night.

MENDEL RESIDENTS

	G.	F.	P.
[illegible]	1	0	2
[illegible]	0	0	0
[illegible]	0	0	0
[illegible]	0	0	0
[illegible]	1	0	2
[illegible]	0	0	0

GENIUS IS AIDED BY STOMACH AILMENTS

Anatomist Advances Novel Theory to Account For Literary Creations

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 2—"Genius doubtless, like an army, travels on its stomach, but what a stomach!"

Taking a side glance at "the influence of the stomach on the human mind," Dr. T. Wingate Todd, anatomist at Western Reserve University's School of Medicine last week took stock of the results of his nearly 12 years of research on the human stomach.

He chose Samuel Johnson as a good exemple, stating that "there is no doubt at all of Johnson's chronic indigestion and the resultant cantankerous disposition with which there goes a brilliance of imagery and creative thought.

"Benedick's 'quick wit and queasy stomach' (in Shakespeare's 'Much Ado About Nothing') reminds us of the indebtedness of both literature and science to indigestion.

"Would Darwin have framed the theory of evolution had it not been for the imagery created by his chronic indigestion?

"Would Conrad have written his stories had the facts of his expe-rience not been sharpened and amplified by nervous dyspepsia?"

COLLEGE PRINTS FIRST MAGAZINE

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 2—The oldest magazine in America, the Yale Literary Magazine, February 22 celebrated the 100th anniversary of its birth.

The guardian of Yale traditions during the century since its founding in -1836, the "Lit" has seen many rival publications on the campus rise to glory and quickly fall into oblivion. During its entire existence, the magazine has not changed its form, except in 1932 when its cover was switched from brown to blue, a change that called forth such a storm of protest that the original color was re-adopted the following year.

The anniversary issue of the Lit contains articles by former editors and contributors who have since become famous, including Sinclair Lewis, Stephen Vincent Binet, Thornton Wilder, I ilip Barry and William Lyon Phelps.

"MOCK" SENATE DEFENDS COURT

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 3—The check-and-balance system of government received a thorough "going over" at the sessions of the "model Senate' held here on the New Jersey College for Women campus.

Senators impersonated by students from many Eastern campuses debated long and loud on the proposed Constitutional amendment which would give Congress power to over-ride decisions of the ... preme Court. They voted 46 to 43 to defeat the measure.

Collegiate World

By COLLEGIATE DIGEST and Associated Collegiate Press

Freshmen at Waldorf College have invented a lot of new facts for scientiats and educators. Recent examination answers revealed the following new facts:

1. Shelly unfortunately died while drowning in the Gulf of Leghorn.
2. Dido means the same, and is usually represented by Dido marks.
3. Romeo and Juliet are an example of an heroic couplet.
4. Milton wrote "Paradise Lost", then his wife died and he wrote "Paradise Regained."
5. Keats is a poet who wrote on a greasy urn.
6. Robert Louis Stevenson got married and went on his honeymoon. It was then he wrote "Travels With a Donkey."
7. Robinson Caruso was a great singer who lived on an island.
8. A yokel is the way people talk to each other in the Alps.
9. Rural life is found mostly in the country.
10. A corps is a dead gentleman, a corpse is a dead lady.

Says Law Students Are Being Trained As Young Provincials

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

New York City, Nov. 3—(ACP—The Columbia University Law Schools' Dean Young B. Smith believes that law students today are being trained to be young provincials, and he believes that something should be done about it.

In his annual report to the president of the university, unusually critical this year, Dean Smith advocated a teaching of public law that should be more closely integrated with private law. He said:

"The government, political parties and the people generally are measuring the fundamental law in an intensive effort to bring economic legislation in business, labor and agriculture within the framework of the constitution.

"Considerations of public interest of the national economy are present more and more in the adjudication of disputes which had called only for the allipication of the formulae concerning private wrongs or obligations. The student must be led to see that more is involved than the mere evolution and application of common-law rules."

Law courses also should incorporate sufficient foreign material to counteract "the tendency of law students toward smug provincialism," Dean Smith said. Study of legal problems and the solutions they have received in other countries promotes "a healthy skepticism in regard to the completeness and permanence of our own solutions," the report observed.

To enable law schools to carry out a better job of teaching, larger funds must be made available for their budgets, Dean Smith said.

"One has only to compare the budgets of law schools with those of medical and other professional schools to realize that this is so," he commented, adding that considering the limited funds at their disposal the law schools have "done remarkably well."

INVITE POLISH STUDENTS TO JOIN COLLEGIATE CLUB

Francis Klekotka, Club Secretary, Invites Villanova Students To Become Members

In a letter to the editor of the VILLANOVAN, Francis Klekotka, graduate of Villanova, and secretary of the Polish Intercollegiate Club of Philadelphia, extended to the Polish students of the college an invitation to attend their next meeting, which will take place on Sunday, March 8, at 3 o'clock, at 645 N. 15th St.

The purpose of this organization is to enable the Polish race to become more familiar and acquainted with their own education, interests, and background.

Mr. Klekotka urges that the Polish students in Villanova become interested in this society.

Chesterfield

Outstanding.. for mildness .. for better taste

On the air—

WEDNESDAY ROSA PONSELLE
SATURDAY NINO MARTINI

KOSTELANETZ ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS
9 P. M. (E. S. T.)—COLUMBIA NETWORK

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 18 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1936 Price: Five Cents

BETA GAMMA GROUP TO OPPOSE DAYTON ORATORS TONIGHT

Affirmative Team of Differ, Ashe and Carroll to Face Visitors

NEGATIVE DEBATORS MEET TEMPLE U. TOMORROW

Contest Will Be Broadcast Over Station WIP, 10:05 To 10:45 P. M.

Beta Gamma Debating Society will met the Dayton University debating team here at Villanova tonight in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall, at 8 P. M.

The Villanova team will enter the debate defending the affirmative viewpoint of the resolution. The Dayton debaters, making a tour of the East in respect to their forensic relations with other institutions, will uphold the negative side of the question.

Representatives of Villanova will include the Messrs. Joseph Carrol, Victor Ashe and Anthony Differ, each being a junior member of the School of Arts and Philosophy. The three gentlemen mentioned above will attempt again, in view of a previous defeat meted them by the representatives of the debating team from the University of Pennsylvania Evening School, to uphold successfully the affirmative aspect of the resolution.

The topic for the debate is, Resolved, That Congress should be permitted to over-ride by a two-third majority vote and decision of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional.

It was also announced that Villa-

Continued on Page Four

IRISH-AMERICAN DANCE MARCH 16

College Gymnasium Will Be Scene of St. Patrick's Eve Affair

On St. Patrick's Eve, March 16, the largest crowd ever to attend a local Irish-American dance is expected to be present at this annual affair for the benefit of Our Mother of Good Counsel Parish, Bryn Mawr, Pa., to be held in the Villanova College Gymnasium.

Rev. Emile H. Misson, O. S. A., has been selected general chairman and will have charge of the affair, with committees under his general supervision.

The syncopations for the occasion will be furnished by the renowned Four Provinces Orchestra, which is heard very Monday and Friday evenings emanating from Station WDAS.

There will be many extra features included with this dance. Four awards of $200.00, $150.00, $100.00 and $50.00, respectively, will be given to lucky winners.

In addition to the awards, there

Continued on Page Eight

MISS CLARK MADE NOTARY PUBLIC

Miss Mary Clark, Bursar of Villanova College, has been commissioned by the State of Pennsylvania to act in the capacity of notary public here at Villanova College.

This notice will be of interest to those students desiring to transact legal business who formerly had to go into Bryn Mawr to take out affidavits and to make applications for driving licenses. This also includes the faculty members who have income tax reports to make out.

Fr. Vrana Originates Novel Way Of Teaching Liturgy

Moving Pictures to Be Used in Illustrated Lectures

REV. JOHN J. VRANA O. S. A.

Within the next few weeks, students in the course of Principles of Religion II will have presented to them the doctrine, history and ceremonies of the Sacrament of Baptism, accompanied by both still pictures and moving pictures.

These illustrated lectures have been prepared at Villanova under the direction of Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A. As far as is known, this is the first time that an attempt has been made to illustrate all of the teachings in reference to the Sacrament of Baptism, as well as its administration.

The pictures are synchronized to fit in with the lectures.

The students who have been very well pleased with the six lectures on the Sacrifice of the Mass that have been similarly prepared by Father Vrana, will look forward with interest to the two lectures on the Sacrament of Baptism.

The first lecture is concerned with the doctrine and history of the Sacrament of Baptism and is accompanied by still life pictures. By means of an ingenious schematic outline which builds up on the screen, all of the various topics into which the subject matter is divided, are kept constantly before the mind of the student.

The second lecture is a complete portrayal of all of the ceremonies of the Sacrament of Baptism by means of motion pictures.

The moving pictures of Solemn Baptism were taken in the college chapel. Part of the film dealing with Baptism in case of necessity was taken at the Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital.

Work on this project was begun

Continued on Page Four

Glee Club Opens Season Before Meager Audience

College Choristers Present Initial Concert of Year Last Wednesday

Poor attendance marked the first concert of the current year by the College Glee Club, under the direction of Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., last Wednesday evening.

Paul D. Teel conducted the concert. He opened the program with a few remarks concerning the work of the Glee Club. After these comments, the chorus sang the selection, "The Winter Song."

A trumpet solo, "If All These Endearing Young Charms," was rendered by talented John Hobson, which was followed by the chorus singing "The Shadow March" and "Talk About Jerusalem Morning."

John Chapple gave a tenor solo, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," and then pleased the audience with his version of "Melancholy Baby."

The chorus then sang "Finlandia." This was followed by the audience singing the Alma Mater, and the concert came to an end.

GUILD CARD PARTY PLANS GO FORWARD

Various Appointed Committees Begin Work; Decide On Prizes

Centering their discussion on the distribution of prizes to male contestants, but rendering no definite decision, the Augustinian Seminary Guild began formulating plans for the third annual card party, at a meeting of the clerical members held on March 4, in the community room of the Monastery.

After a great deal of deliberation on the above question, it was decided to place the responsibility of reaching a decision in the hands of the prize committee.

Another item of outstanding importance was definitely settled when the chance books again were placed under the supervision of Rev. Francis L. Dennis, O. S. A., of the Malvern Preparatory School.

Fr. Dennis has been very instru-

Continued on Page Four

STAFF MEETS THURSDAY

The Villanovan staff will meet Thursday at 1:00 P. M. in the office to discuss plans for the Annual Staff Dinner Dance. All members who are not present will automatically exclude themselves from the annual affair.

COMPETITIVE TESTS DATE NOW DEFINITE

Monday, June 22, Chosen For Scholarship Exams to Determine Qualified Students

Villanova College will conduct competitive scholarship examinations on Monday, June 22, 1936, here at the college. There will be three scholarships for a four-year college course, valued at $1000 each to be awarded to properly qualified students for use beginning in September, 1936.

Catholic young men who are high school graduates and in need of financial help to assist them through college, are eligible to apply for examination.

The award of scholarship privilege will be based upon the results of competitive examinations covering the following subjects: English, History, Mathematics, and a foreign language.

Under the heading of foreign language, the candidate may select either Latin, French, Spanish or German. In respect to mathematics, the subject matter will consist of an understanding in the fundamental operations, factoring, divisors, fractions, exponents and radicals and in the construction and so-

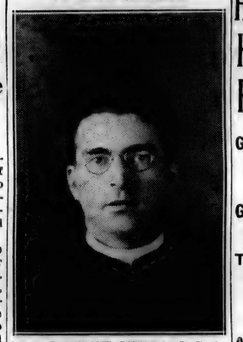
Continued on Page Four

Councillors Meet

The Student Council will convene tonight in room 215 Mendel Hall at 5.30 P. M. All members are urged to attend in view of the fact that several important matters are to be discussed.

The Council Constitution Committee has finished its work of drafting a constitution and tonight it will be presented to the group for discussion and approval.

TO GIVE SERMON



REV. PATRICK O'SHEA, O. S. A., assistant in St. Thomas' parish, will talk to the student body on Frayer tonight in the third of a series of Lenten sermons.

College Student Rescues Woman From Gas Peril

Irving Uram Risks Life To Save Neighbor In Phila. Home

Fame again comes to Villanova College, but not in the form of athletic conquests or scholastic achievement. This time Villanova is proud to note the fact that one of her students was the sole instrument in the saving of he life of a human being.

At the peril of his own life Irving Uram, sophomore in the School of Science, rushed into a room full of flames and escaping gas to rescue unconscious Mrs. Leo Shapiro from the very threshold of death.

Despite the warnings of bystanders, Mr. Uram, clad only in pajamas and expecting any moment a recurrence of the first explosion that caused the disaster, was forced to remove a heavy portion of a stove from the woman's body before being able to carry her out into the street. Fortunately nothing further happened and the woman was quickly taken to the hospital where she is on the road to recovery.

POSTMASTERS SEE VILLANOVA FILM

At a meeting of the postmasters and clerks from all of the post-offices along the Main Line, held at the Bryn Mawr Postoffice last Friday evening, the film, "Life at Villanova," was presented by Mr. Paetrus Banmiller.

The postal employes also viewed a recent government film of three reels, dealing with the operation of the modern postal service.

BELLE AIR MEETS

There will be an important meeting of the Business and Circulating Staffs of the "Belle Air" on Wednesday, March 11, 1936, in Room 51, Mendel Hall Dorm, the "Belle Air Office." The time of the meeting is 1 P. M.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY HEARS BRYN MAWR RESIDENT SPEAK

Gordon M. Burlingame Gives Address to Group at Monthly Communion Breakfast

GUEST SPEAKER TELLS OF ROUND TABLE DISCUSSION

This Practice as Carried On In Philadelphia Great Aid To Catholics, Says Speaker

"The Round Table discussions as practiced here in Philadelphia have broadened many a man's religious scope and have taught us Catholics that our religion is the only true faith." Thus spoke Gordon Burlingame to the members of the Villanova College Holy Name society at their monthly Communion breakfast last Sunday morning.

Mr. Burlingame, member of the Bryn Mawr Trust Company, a graduate of Lehigh University and popular in Catholic movements in Philadelphia and on the Main Line, spoke to the college society on the "Round Table" discussions held frequently in Philadelphia.

According to Mr. Burlingame who has been in the movement since its beginning, the "Round Table" had its start at a social gathering of Catholics and non-Catholics back in 1928. This gathering met frequently to discuss the various religious topics current in the gossip of the day. From this social gathering grew the movement now on foot which in addition to laymen, includes clergy of Catholic, Non-Catholic and Jewish faiths. At present there are 90

Continued on Page Three

FR. O'SHEA SPEAKS AT CHAPEL SERVICE

Third Discourse in Lenten Series to Be Delivered This Evening

Rev. Patrick O'Shea, O. S. A., assistant in the parish of St. Thomas of Villanova, will give the third in a series of Lenten sermons to the student body this evening at the daily chapel service. The topic of Fr. O'Shea's sermon will be a discussion of prayer.

Last Tuesday evening the second sermon of the Lenten series was given by Rev. Thomas A. Kiley, O. S. A. Speaking on conversions and basing his ideas on the biblical passage of the Book of Job, Fr. Kiley gave a new light on conversions. The quotation used by the speaker spoke of the faithful rendering their garments and doing penance for their past sins.

Fr. Kiley related that it was not

Continued on Page Four

Eastern Pennsylvania Police School Opens at Villanova College March 5

Some sixty or seventy student police attended the opening session of the Police School of Eastern Pennsylvania at Villanova College on Thursday, March 5.

The Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college welcomed the police students to the Main Line school expressing his interest in the project and his hopes for its complete success.

The school providing for fifty hours of instruction will continue through April and May. Officers attending at least three-fourths of these classes will receive a certificate of attendance at th conclusion of th course. These certificates qualify the bearer to take advance courses in fingerprinting, latent evidence, identification, etc.

Experts from the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C., the Pennsylvania State Police, the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol, and the District Attorney's office are acting as instructors in the school. Other members of the staff are well-known professional men and reputable police officers who have long practical experience.

The plans and policies of the school are directed by an executive committee chosen from among the

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36.....Sports Editor
CHARLES STAHLECKER, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37.....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36.....Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Carmen Giordano, '36.....Exchange Editor
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Simons, '38
James R. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Pilion, '38
Anthony T. Meli, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vassalluzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '37 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Rene Caillet, '39 — James Meller, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — Richard Mulvihil, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Walter La Balaity, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Bernard J. Miller, '39

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Linguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager

Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - MARCH 10, 1936

THE OCCUPATION OF RHINELAND

THE FORMAL repudiation of the Versailles Treaty has been completed by the German occupation of the demilitarized Rhineland. This demonstrates the fact that no country can be expected to adhere to an agreement that is detrimental to national honour or safety. Both the Treaty and the Locarno Pact were stupid attempts to bludgeon a defenseless nation in to a continued sense of insecurity, while her hostile neighbors armed themselves with impunity. The fanatical hatred which France feels for Germany, led her to force upon the latter a peace treaty that was the shame and degradation of the defeated, and her own future undoing.

The Rhineland is a definite portion of Germany. Its inhabitants are all Germans, and to assume that any nation will permit itself to remain unprotected for a distance of 50 kilometers inland from its borders, is placing a little too much credulity in the possibility of a man's sacrificing his personal safety to any written agreement with his enemy.

The Allied Powers in continuing to regard Germany as a constant threat to the peace of Europe, and as such, to be denied her rights as a nation, are doing more to provoke the hostilities they so purportedly wish to avoid than if they attempted a more equitable settlement of the matter. Germany is a major Power in the world, and national pride if nothing else, will not permit her to be forced into a position of subserviency. She must be afforded her rights and privileges as a nation and any attempt to deny them will merely prompt her to more drastic measures. The sooner this fact is realized and acted upon the more speedily will German antagonism and Allied suspicion be allayed.

The countries of Europe are too intimately associated with each other to make it possible for one to depredate another without suffering in like manner itself. Economically, also, the several countries are too dependent upon one another for a war to be other than costly for both sides. But in spite of this we find France seeking the necessary assistance to recreate the holocaust of 1914. If her foresight was equal to her capacity for drawing up unreasonable and impossible treaties she could forestall a great deal of future trouble by making the necessary advances toward Germany, who is as little inclined to actual hostilities as she is.

Hitler's movement into Rhineland is neither an impetuous nor an ill-planned gesture but the natural outcome of military preparedness. His excuse of the recently ratified Franco-Russian Pact is obviously the acceptance of the first thing that came to mind—had it not been this, it would have been something else. His occupation, however, is one of the most intelligent steps that has yet been taken to eradicate the suspicions and ill-feelings that have been dorman in Europe since the World War. He has again made Rhineland a part of Germany as the people wished it to be, thereby removing their individual distrust of France's intentions. Therefore it devolves upon the rest of Europe to convince the German people that have been dormant in Europe since of potential "cut-throats" who are only awaiting their oportunity. This can only be done by the formal acceptance of the German people upon an equal footing with the rest of the world.

The greatest detriment to the general security of Europe is the foolish, and unnatural spirit of nationalism that is impregnated into the minds of the people from their childhood. They almost all believe that their own country is the apogee of perfection, and thereby justified in the vicious excesses that personad greed may lead them into. But the sooner they realize that their own security cannot be maintained by the unlawful oppression of another, the more rapidly will peace become possible to the whole of Europe.

ARBITRATION OVER VIOLENCE

THE NEWS that the building service employes union of New York now on strike has unconditionally accepted Mayor LaGuardia's offer to settle the differences of opinion was received on all sides with expressions of joy.

The Realty Advisory Board, representing the operators, agreed to submit the proposal—which calls for a "preferential shop"—to its members.

These latest developments raised renewed hope for speedy settlement of the strik that has crippled Greater New York over a period of weeks.

Semi-official sources have related that building owners were disgusted over the turn of events. They have had to face the ire of angry tenants complaining because of cold rooms and no elevator service.

An indication of the terrific tenant pressure being exerted on the owners was manifest lately when the tenants of five Greenwich Village apartment houses signed a resolution urging the owners to accept the Mayor's proposal, and if this resolution were not complied with, they threatened to inaugurate a rent strike.

Union leaders have intimated that there will be no backdown on their part, and they expect a fight to the finish to obtain their ends.

If capital and labor were to realize that more can be accomplished over the conference table than over picket lines and riot sticks, much could be accomplished to instill a mutual understanding between these two hostile groups.

LORD DUNSANY writes that we are losing a lot of adjectives. But it seems that in this country at least three new ones appear for every adjective that has been cast into limbo.

Nouns, too, such as boondoggle and brain trust, rise to smite the eye of the reader.

Sports are filled with new ones, such as dizzy and daffy, pepper and big or little poison.

New dictionaries give half a million words, tens of thousands of which old Noah Webster never heard.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

IT IS THE custom of Louisiana State University to stage an annual Wild West show, with bronco-busting, steer-roping, and a cow-milking contest with the object being to fill a pop bottle instead of the conventional pail. It is rumored this is a great sport.

* * *

Last night I held a hand
So dainty and so weak
I thought my heart would surely burst
So wildly did it beat.
No other hand e'er held so tight
Could greater gladness bring
Than one I held last night.
It was—four aces and a king!

* * *

Prof. (angrily): Who put this stuff on the board?
Stude: The dean did, sir.
Prof: Good stuff, isn't it?

* * *

Newest riddle: What is the difference between a cat and a comma? The answer is that a cat has its clause at the end of its paws; but a comma had its pause at the end of a clause.

* * *

A rather heavy young woman at an Eastern college, was asked by her history professor to tell what made the Tower of Pisa lean. Miss Chubby answered: "I don't know, or I'd take some myself." — The Haya.

* * *

A Frenchman, just arrived in America, was thoroughly disgusted with the illogical pronunciation of English words. When he considered the different pronunciation of "ough" he was exasperated. But he took the first boat home when a newspaper came out with the headline: "'Cavalcade' Pronounced Success!"

* * *

The Tatler consoled us by telling us things could be worse—"The instrument where the music goes 'round and round' might have had more valves."

* * *

The following ad appeared in a Syracuse paper giving the address and telephone number of a sorority house: "Lost—woman's purse containing Psi U. Phi Psi, and Beta pins. Valued for sentimental reasons."

* * *

Odds and ends: At Iowa a girl was expelled from school for cheating because she was caught counting her ribs in a physiology test... The average Harvard student carries exactly 22 cents on his person ...The ideal girl is a myth.

* * *

At Indiana State Teachers' College a reporter stopped several students and asked them for a definition of a goblet. One said it was about the size of a dwarf, only uglier; another guessed it was a four-lined stanza in poetry; a third thought it was a turkey. But the fourth answer was the prize-winning one—it was "A goblet is a sailor's little boy."

* * *

A freshman at the University of California filled in his "church preference" on the registration blank as "red brick."

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

IF OUR READERS will excuse the fact that we pattern the following mark of appreciation from the pillar written by that rubbish digger-upper from Gotham, Walter Winchell, we will begin this week's endeavor with . . . Orchids to the college glee club for an excellent performance on the evening of Wednesday last. The choral club certainly put on a great show for its initial attempt and much credit is due Rev. Charles Brown, O. S. A., director of the group, and Paul Teel, conductor. Two soloists also were featured during the program, Jack Chapple rendered "The World is Waiting For 'The Sunrise," and "Melancholy Baby" in enviable fashion, while John Hobson played a trumpet solo, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." All that is needed now is a little of that ever-lacking student support.

Only a short time ago it was our pleasure to receive the first two copies of "The Prep," a bi-monthly publication edited by students of Villanova Preparatory school at Ojai, Calif. The Prep" is an outstanding example of what such a periodical should be and we offer congratulations to editor Vernon Smith. We must say we considered it a privilege to pay the eight cents postage due on the parcel.

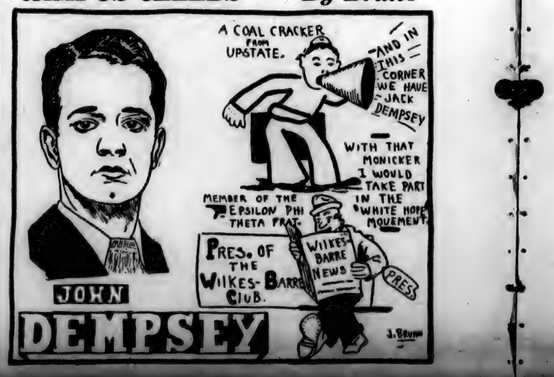
Suggestive Song Title: Dinah (Norton Paden. . .Wahoo (Charlie Cox). . .I'm Looking At The World Through Rose-Colored Glasses (Jack Geraghty). .The Stein Song (Larry Reilly) Buddy Can You Spare A Dime (Al Ryan). . .The Reefer Man (Jim Schell). . .The Gentleman Obviously Doesn't Believe (Art Carleton). . .The General's Fast Asleep (Pershing Calabro). . .Moon Over Miami (Pete McManus). . .After You've Gone (Art Noble). . .Sandman (Ed Quinn). . .The Champagne Waltz (Stan Narkin.)

Don't Say A Word, Just Dance . . .(Bill Dinges) . . . O. K. Toots ("Dutch.. Stahman) . . Easter Parade (Bob McGrory) . . . I'd Rather Lead A Band ("Railroad" Bowker) . . . I'm Putting All My Eggs In One Basket (Louise of the Pie Shop).

Quite by accident we stumbled on the fact recently that Eddie O'Brien, the Syracuse speed demon, was at one time thinking seriously of entering Villanova. But certain conditions made Eddie change his mind and so the Wildcat institution lost a world's record smasher when the former Malvern Prep star packed up his duds and pushed off for Syracuse. Eddie must have seen the great future that lay in front of him if he directed his efforts as a cinder path artist for Villanova, so-o-o he chose Syracuse.

Former President Hoover says: "Blessed are the young for they shall inherit the national debt." In a way they are like the meek, who if they inherit the earth, will find that a 90 per cent mortgage goes along with it.

CAMPUS CELEBS - - - By Bruno



As We See It - - - Reflections

By HARRY PARKIN

MAN rarely accomplishes anything of note unless he is actuated by enthusiasm. If he is to be stirred from his lethargy, he must be impassionately appealed to, for to appeal to his intellect is to gain little more than his momentary attention. Truth, honesty, justice, may all be outraged, but unless he is informed of this with hyperbolical emphasis, he will rarely be moved to more than a passing lament. Whether this is a defensive reaction against the multitude of villainies that are going on about him, or an indisposition to use his intelligence because of custom or environment, it is worth considering the number of times his sympathies have been preyed upon, and he has been lead into vicious excesses, through the discerning glibness of some charlatan. Enthusiasm will never compensate for the want of intelligent appreciation. In fact its tendency to exhaust itself in useless efforts, should make the discriminating man regard it with less partiality than the rational apprehension of situations and their requirements.

* * *

It is not how rapidly we reach our destination that matters, but how well we spend the time we are there. Let the time of our stay be as wil used as that of our passage —let it reflect your thankfulness and appreciation for the Giver by being sincere and thoughtful in your consumption of it. Whether your hour be spent in the contemplation of the murmuring brook, or in the hectic pursuits of worldly men, let its results be suggestive of your kinship with all humanity.

* * *

The music of the soul is a well-spent life. What if the ears of others are not attuned to his measure so long as its sweetness and cadence is acceptable and harmonious to the Director?

* * *

The aggressive antagonism that characterizes the attitude of many of our so-called liberalists, against the Church, is at first sight rather difficult to analyze by those who are familiar with Her doctrines. In fact the more closely we examine this attitude, the more inclined we are to attribute it to either ignorance of he Church and her teachings, or as the defense mechanism of a subversive form of individualized liberalism. For the church as she exists today is the only force that is consistently occupied with the spreading of the social and moral rights and requirements of all mankind. Her doctrines are the true essence of liberalism—for they alone are able to satisfy the spiritual and physic needs of men. Nor are they designed to aid the members of one class through the suffering and degredation of another. Ridiculous as this may seem, or difficult to acknowledge, it nevertheless holds true that the only logical answer to the social and political ills that are affecting the world today is to be found in the teachings of the Catholic Church. For justification we need only say, seek them out and they themselves will defend this statement.

* * *

One who has had occasion to read the heresies that have periodically appeared in the history of the Church, will , possibly, find some cause for remark in the attitude of today. Our age seems more productive of unbelief than of heresy. And of the two the former is the less excusable, for while the latter is the result of loose or illogical thinking upon religious dogmas, the other is the result of actual ignorance—a condition that is hardly tolerable in an age that offers men the greatest facilities for enlightening themselves upon any subject that they may choose that has ever been known.

* * *

Cynics are said to be individuals who took their ideals too seriously. but we are inclined to believe that they never understood them.

* * *

The philosopher said "If I show a greater partiality for my books than for men, it is because they are never offensive when I disagree with them."

Pass In Review

By RICHARD L. G. DEVERALL

THE QUESTION of peace and war is certainly a vexing one. In his address to the Cardinals made on Christmas Eve, 1934, our Holy Father said: "...we invoke peace, we bless peace, we pray for peace. If by chance there should be some who, owing to the new phenomenon of suicidal and homicidal mania, truly prefer war to peace, then we have another prayer which it will become our duty to utter, and we would say to our Blessed Lord, "Scatter thou the people who want war."

Thre are some who think that the causes of war are so deeply rooted in human nature that this awful phenomenon must continue to desolate the human race, that it must continue to divide families, scater nations and cause brother to fight brother. Sir Norman Angell, in his "Peace and the Plain Man" (Villanova Library JX-1952-A737) neatly demonstrates how foolish war is, and how fallacious are the arguments of those who defend it.

War is inevitable? It it? Well, if it is inevitable, does that mean that we should spend millions of dollars preparing for it, as we do in these United States? What an illogical and foolish conclusion! It is a doctrine of the Holy Catholic Church that all men are members of the Mystical Body of Christ. Each man, as Msgr. Shen puts it, is one cell of Christ's Mystical Body. To argue that war is inevitable, and therefore must be prepared for, is a denial of the reality of this doctrine of Holy Mother Church.

Do capitalists and munitions-makers plot wars? Sir Norman thinks that they do not. It is a patent fact that the last war dealt capitalism a death blow. Even the most unenlightened of capitalists now realize that another world war would ruin the present economic system. As for munitions-makers causing war, that also is an untenable thesis. Wars come from the unenlightened masses, not from a few greedy business men. It is true that avaricious profiteers feed upon war, but they do not cause war.

Sir Norman indicates that if future wars are to be avoided, we must educate the masses of mankind. One of man's fondest pastimes is hating people. The Germans hate the Jews. The Italians hate the Ethiopians. The Americans used to hate the English—now they hate the Rooshians. And so it seems that every peoples has certain pet hates of its own. Don't restrain munitions-makers if you want to eradicate war, says Sir Norman. Educate people to such an extent that munitions-makers are no longer necessary. That is the true reform, for it removes the cause of the difficulty.

When one has a pain in the stomach, one does not take morphine to remove the pain, for morphine merely deadens the senses. One removes the causes of the trouble.

Why can't we utilize the tremendous energy expended in war for some useful purpose. Why can't we wage war on sin? Why can't we mobilize the entire nation just as we did during the past world war, and direct our corporate energies to the stamping out of vice, crime, immorality and injustice — social and personal.

Pacifism is no cure for the war business. We had pacifism long before the World War, and it collapsed as soon as the August, 1914, turmoil settled upon the world. If we want to eliminate war from modern society, we must eliminate arms, armies and militarists; not to mention yellow journalists, professional stirrers-up of hatred (like Hitler) and so forth. There are many who argue against this, but it is the only solution. When you approach a friend, you don't do so while holding a club behind your back. Yet that is just what we do today. We tell our neighbors that we love them, and at the same time we dangle a hundred battleships in front of their noses and say: "See! I dare you to start something."

Ah, no! We Catholics are above such un-Christian and illogical methods of eradicating war. Christ told us to love one another. We believe Him, He is our God. Even though His Commandments may appear foolish and uneconomic at times, we must obey Him. If we want to stamp war out of this world, we must be fools for Christ's sake.

We heartily endorse Sir Norman Angell's book, for it stimulates minds and awakens the ethical nature of man.

FRESHMAN ORATORS DEFEAT ST. JOHN'S

Decision Unanimous as Local Team of Dimon, Quigley And Delate Triumph

The freshman Debating Team won a unanimous decision over the freshman team from St. John's in Brooklyn last Friday night. Villanova, upholding the affirmative side of the well-known Congress and Supreme Court controversy, had a team consisting of John Dimon, James Quigley, and Thomas Delate while James Tierney and John Bell were the debaters for St. John's.

The debate, which was held in the DeGray auditorium, was a formal one as all the contestants wore black robes lending a judicial prestige to the occassion. The judges were Mr. Murtaugh, Fr. Knox and Dr. Vittulli.

The affirmative side based their proof on the following arguments; the court did not legally have the power to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional; there is urgent need for some reform; and if Congress was to be given this added power, they would not misuse it but rather employ it benefically for the people.

The negative maintained that if this check was put on the Supreme Court, the people's rights would be taken away; and that the people's rights must be protected by law. In rebuttal Villanova showed itself to be decidedly superior.

After the debate was over, the audience was permitted to ask the speakers any pertinent questions they wished. Mr. Houseman was so impressed by this custom that he is going to inovate it here.

Holy Name Society Tendered Address

Continued From Page One

men in the organization, equally divided into Catholic and non-Catholic.

At these meetings, held every month, a paper is read giving both the Catholic and non-Catholic sides of a religious question. After the papers have been read the members are allowed to build up or tear down the arguments as they see fit.

Mr. Burlingame believes that these arguments, rather than creating hard feelings, serve to aid good fellowship and to create broad-mindedness. It also broadens and helps one's own faith because of the necessary research it entails.

In order that no false doctrines will be preached by members, all papers must be submitted a month ahead of time to prominent clergymen who act as moderators to the organization.

"The topics discussed by us are many," says Mr. Burlingame. "Birth Control, The Blessed Virgin, The Communion of Saints and Sterilization are all presented to us, and it is extremely interesting to hear the viewpoints of the different religions. Most of our trouble comes from the Presbyterian and Baptist, while the Anglican agrees with us in everything except the communion with Rome. One of the pet topics of all the non-Catholics is their trying to prove that the Roman Catholic Church is political and un-Christian. However, I am firmly convinced due to these arguments that the Catholic Church is the one and only true Church."

After he had finished speaking, Mr. Burlingame left himself open for questions. Possibly the most interesting answer to the questions put to him was the fact that it is necessary for a man to bring a person of the opposite side with him in order to obtain admittance to the "Round Table."

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

IN AN Atlantic City (N. J.) hospital last week lay an elderly lady gamely recovering from injuries sustained in a motor mishap. Next to her bed was a small radio set. To it she owed one of the major disappointments of her life. It had failed to bring in the program of her son a week before, his first in a new VBS series. That night he was to be on again. Meanwhile, at WPG, Atlantic City station, a familiar voice was telephoning a personal order for the purchase of a half hour's time at 9:30 P. M. (EST). It was the voice of Ed Wynn and he hailed it as the biggest money's worth he'd ever received when hospital attendants later reported how his mother laughed and cried as his CBS program came to her that night from her bedside radio.

SPRAWL OF TIME — Ted Jewett, "March of Time" actor, finished a rehearsal the other day, chose a nice comfortable chair in the studio and dozed peacefully off. Howard Barlow and members of his orchestra who entered soon after winked at each other and watched Barlow's poised baton as he grinned a whispered order. "Tar-r-raa!" blew the trumpets and up popped Jewett. He grabbed his script, rushed toward the microphone, tripped and sprawled on the floor as mirthful laughter filled the CBS studio. Ted did not acknowledge the jibes which followed his sheepish exit but observers say they saw him biting his lip.

* * *

Starlines

TED HUSING was born in Deming, N. M., November 27, 1901. Named Edward Britt Husing after father's favorite prizefighter, Johnny Britt. Tagged with sobriquet of "Ted" by childhood sweetheart. Moved to Gloversville, N. Y., and later to New York City. Acted as mascot for five Columbia University athletic teams. Educated in N. Y. C. Attended Stuyvesant High, Pace Institute and Columbia Extension. Participated in all major sports. Member all-State football and soccer teams. Joined S. A. T. C. in an attempt to get overseas, but Armistice intervined. First employed as payroll clerk with N. Y. corporation at $42.50 a week. Left home to travel on own and seek adventure. Hitchhiked all over the United States. Supported self working as actor, soldier, policeman and aviator. Returned to New York. A period of idleness followed a brief career in Wall Street. Pilot with Aero-Marine Airways, but was transferred to Miami after crackup. Lonesome for bright lights, returned as "flying cop" with N. Y. Police Dept. An outside loop proved his "Jonah" and once again he was out of a job. Next drawn into the Florida land boom. On its collapse, back to New York. Won announcing audition over 619 applicants, because, as he says, "I could talk longer and louder than any of the other boys." Joined staff of the newly organized CBS on Christmas Day, 1927. Has participated in almost every conceivable type of broadcast.

VITAL STATISTICS: Six feet tall, weigh 175 pounds, has brown hair and eyes.

AIR TIME: Wildroot Company—Mondays, 7:15 to 7:30 P. M., EST. "Camel Caravan" —Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9:00 to 9:30 P. M., EST.

* * *

Alexander Gray, romantic baritone, returns to radio to take a leading role with Charles Hanson Towne, noted editor and columnist, and Mark Warnow's Concert Orchestra in the new Chrysler "Airs show" to be broadcast over 44 stations of the CBS nation-wide net work each Thursday, from 8:00 to 8:30 P. M., EST, beginning March 12. Working with the Warnow orchestra will be a chorus of 14 mixed voices under the direction of Lyn Murray. It will work collectively as a choir and in its component parts as the "Chrysler Eight," male voices, and the "Chrysler Six," female voices, to add variety to melodic interpretations of popular and semi-classical selections.

Globe Trotting

By FRED WATERS

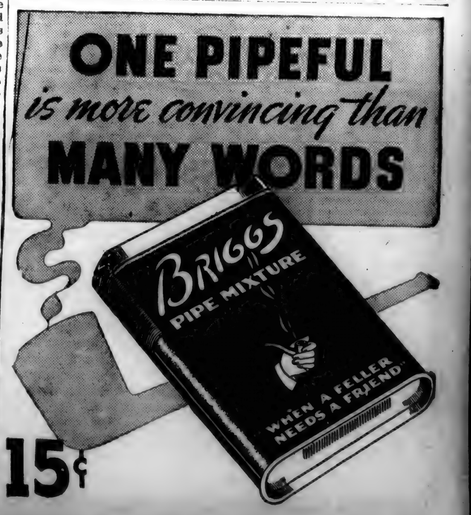
(From an interview with Fr. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., Professor at Villanova, and native of Spain.)
Disastrous Separation

"Up to and including the 16th Century, Spain was at the height of its glory. Up to that time it had conquered and flourished in the sign of the 'Cross and the Crown.' However, in the 17th Century a sect sprang up, called Jansenism, resulting in a separation of this traditional relationship. From that time hence the star of Spain has sunk deeper and deeper into darkness. Recently, however, except for the Leftist reigns of terror, my country has advanced marvelously in every direction.

Continued on Page Eight

Church in Politics?

"Practically all Spaniards are Catholic. Some of them have joined what might correspond to your Catholic Action Clubs. As in this country, so in Spain, not ALL Catholics joined. These clubs, having an enormous membership and being perfectly organized, took sides in political questions. But bear this in mind, the clergy took absolutely no part in such moves. Priests are not interested in one group of Catholics, but in all. In politics Leftists and Rightists and Monarchists disagree, but in religion



FRESHMAN SCIENCE GROUP CONVENES

Special Seminar Is Held To Orienate First Year Pre-Medicals

Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O. S. A., Dean of the Science School, addressed the freshmen Science group in a special Seminar held for it last Thursday, on the subject of keeping pace in studies and not becoming negligent.

Fr. Dougherty stressed the fact that sacrifices are being made to keep the young men in school, and that they should realize that fact and strive to be worthy of such sacrifices. This, of course, can only be attained by securing satisfactory grades in all subjects.

The fact that the instructors are willing to aid the students in their studies was greatly stressed. The science men were repeatedly advised that instructors are not dictators who command work and are to be satisfied, but are men who wish to educate and build fine young men.

It was also correlated with the first two facts that the students should attend to their religious exercises, while a school and when in the world. Fr. Dougherty advised that the students should begin immediately with Lent and make some self-denial.

Fourth Concert For Youth To Be Held March 19

Jose Iturbi Will Conduct Philadelphia Orchestra In Recital

The Fourth Concert for Youth by the Philadelphia Orchestra will be held at the Academy of Music at 7:45, Thursday, March 19. Jose Iturbi will conduct and Harl McDonald will be master of ceremonies.

Dr. McDonald has promised his youthful audience several surprises, and has announced that he will analyze, briefly, the music on the program so that the audience will be familiar with the various themes and will be able to recognize them and better understand the scores.

The program includes: Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," by Mozart, Symphony in D minor, by Cesar Franck, Debussy's Nocturnes and the Siegfried Idyl and Prelude to "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner. The songs will be: Sailing, The Bells of St. Mary's and Brahms' Lullaby.

Police School Opens at College

Continued From Page One

police chiefs and prominent citiens. An advisory committee of prominent citizens has also been formed. A director is immediately responsible in carrying out all policies of the executive committee.

The director of the newly organized police school is Dr. J. A. Detlefsen, and the treasurer is W. Raymond Sakers. Among the list of outstanding citizens comprising the executive committee, we find that one of our professors, namely, Mr. Patrick Dougherty. Prof. Dougherty is a member of the faculty of the Commerce and Finance School.

The advisory committee-at-large is made up of five prominent citizens. The Very Rev. E. V. Stanford, O. S. A., LL. D., president of Villanova College, is a member of this committee and affords our institution the honor of having two men selected to act in an advisory capacity in the conducting and regulating of the Police School of Eastern Pennsylvania.

Fr. O'Shea Speaks At Chapel Service

Continued on Page One

necessary to literally "rend our garments" or otherwise show outwardly that we repent, but to change within and let none but Almighty God know what is going on within our souls. It is necessary to be converted within ourselves and cast off our former bad habits and companions. By this explanation Fr. Kiley threw a new light on the subject of conversions and left much food for thought in the minds of all who heard him.

Guild Card Party Plans Go Forward

Continued on Page One

mental in the past in disposing of these books, and this year the entire committee will cooperate with him in distributing these books. Rev. Bernard McConville, O. S. A., of Villanova College, will assist Fr. Dennis in this undertaking.

Rev. Michael J. O'Donnell, O. S. A., procurator of St. Mary's Hall, is again handling the distribution of the tickets. Fr. O'Donnell, as in the past, will be assisted by members from the various districts in general, and by Rev. Thomas Gilligan, O. S. A., in particular. Tickets will also be distributed through the mails to all those who have attended these social affairs in the past. The committee hopes it will be able to dispose of 5000 tickets.

Fr. Gilligan, who is assistant master of the professed, is organizing a group to take charge of the program.

The program will differ this year than in the past, insofar as advertisement is solicited. By this innovation, the Guild hopes that a new source of revenue will be opened and financial returns greatly enhanced.

Rev. Emile Misson, O. S. A., of Our Mother of Good Counsel Parish, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and Rev. Brendan McConnell, O. S. A., of Mother of Good Consolation Church, Chestnut Hill, will be at the head of the prizes for the affair.

Both have had invaluable experience in conducting card parties, and this experience will enable them to overcome some difficulties encountered in the past. In order to have sufficient number of prizes, the committee is calling upon friends to contribute some.

Others in attendance at the meeting were: Rev. James Donellon, O. S. A.; Rev. Francis Ludwig, O. S. A.; Rev. Leo Hart, O. S. A.; and Rev George DeMarco, O. S. A.

A very important meeting of women of the committee will be held on Wednesday, March 18, at 8 o'clock in the college gymnasium. According to Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., chaplain, all new members will be welcomed.

Competitive Tests Date Now Definite

Continued on Page One

lution of simple equations, including quadratic equations involving one unknown factor. Particular stress will be laid upon original demonstration, constructions and practical applications of theorems in Plane Geometry.

The questions in the examinations will be based upon the material ordinarily covered during the high school course.

The results from last June's examinations are very interesting. Among the 55 candidates who took the examination, 27 different high schools were represented. The three winners from 1935 who are now in attendance are: Pershing Calabro, of Philadelphia, a member of the Arts School; Anthony J. Cirrito, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., who is a member of the School of Technology, and William Kokes, of Cape May, N. J., a member of the Arts School, concludes the list. Each of these students are honor men in their various schools up to date.

Any person who knows of any high school student desirous of such scholarship aid to Villanova College kindly write to the Registrar for syllabus of examinations and application blank.

Beta Gamma Group To Oppose Dayton

Continued From Page One

nova's negative two-man team composed of John Chapple and Edward McDevitt will debate the team representing Temple University March 18. The debate, the question of which is mentioned above, will be presented over Station WIP, Philadelphia, from 10:05 P. M. to 10:45 P. M.

During the past week, debates have been arranged scheduling meets with Fordham University and Canisius College of Buffalo.

So far this season, Beta Gamma has lost two and won one contest.

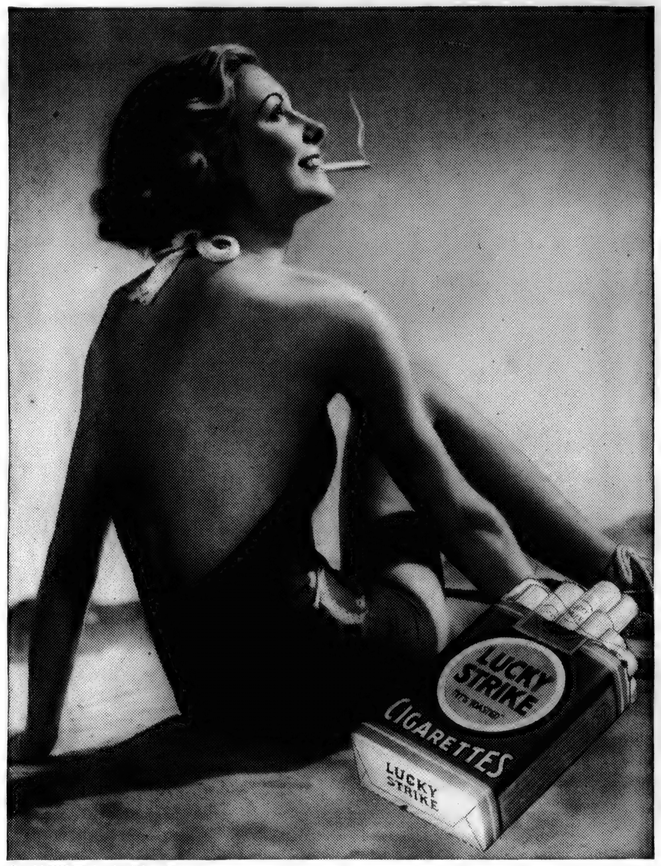
Fr. Vrana Begins Teaching Method

Continued From Page One

in July, 1935. The script was written after careful research work into authoritative sources. The actual filming of the picture and the presentation of the still life pictures were not begun until later. Just recently the work has been completed.

If the illustrated lectures of the Sacrament of Baptism prove to be of distinct help to the students in bringing before them a clearer understanding of the liturgy of the Sacrament, Father Vrana then proposes to prepare similarly illustrated lectures on the other Sacraments.

Bill Nash, captain of the league-leading Columbia five, must gather 31 points in the two remaining contests to equal the Eastern Intercollegiate loop scoring record. Nash has 114 points in nine games.



Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

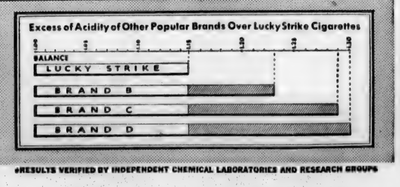
Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.



*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

Sportorial

By Sports Editor A. R. C.

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—The column, this week is being handled by Norton C. Faden, Associate Sports Editor.)

FAST Monday night at the Philadelphia Arena, Villanova went down to defeat at the hands of Temple University, winding up a rather disastrous season. It was disastrous in the sense only in the sense that many games were lost, but the old fight that the Wildcats are noted for has been shown all season. By the Law of Averages, a basketball team has to lose a game every now and then and also by this same law a college cannot keep putting out successful teams year in and year out. Don't forget that every good club has its off seasons and this was one of the basketeers' bad years.

—V—

The fate of boxing as a major sport lies now in the hands of the athletic officials. This sport has seemed to grasp the attention of every one interested in Villanova teams so quickly that such a decision should be made. Student and outside support is behind it as could well be seen at the Temple meet last Tuesday night. It would spread Villanova's reputation far and wide by contacts with colleges not played in any of the other sports.

—V—

Orchids to Ray Gadsby, boxing mentor, for a very successful season. Three wins out of four starts is an enviable record especially when you stop to realize that he worked with a green team. Considerate and understanding in all a "swell fellow" — no wonder he is successful.

—V—

With spring in the air, the baseball team has come out of winter quarters and soon the crack of the bat will be heard over the campus. With a flock of veterans reporting to Coach "Doc" Jacobs, a good season is foreseen by all concerned.

—V—

Temple University will make its debut in the Olympic basketball tryouts on Thursday night when it plays Rider College, of Trenton, at the Central High School court. The winner of the Temple-Rider game will play St. Johns, of Annapolis, at Philadelphia the following night. The contests are part of the District No. 2 eliminations.

—V—

Speaking of basketball, a very important game will take place on our own campus tomorrow night. The Train and Trolley boys and sons of Austin will have a play-off. It should be interesting to watch, especialy with enthusiasm running high on both sides of the fence. It will start promptly at 7:30 P. M. and the new gym will be the scene of the conflict. It the commuters display as much speed on the floor as they do running for a train, a few track records will be broken as well.

—V—

Frank Skaff visited the old Alma Mater a few days last week. He will be remembered as Villanova's iron man in the hot corner. His coaching of the junior varsity football team caused considerable flurry among those in the know as he did a swell job. He stopped off here on his way South to the training quarters of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Ben Geraghty also represents Villanova in this Major League club.

—V—

In computing the total number of points scored per man during the past basketball season, it was found that Michael O'Meara, a resident of Fedigan Hall and an able forward on the varsity team had topped the list. Garnering well over 100 points, Mike put a wide margin between himself and his runner - up. Don Brennan, center of the team, came next in line with one point short of an even 100.

—V—

It seems that there is a dearth of track equipment. Promising candidates have reported to the gym but they cannot get outfitted. If a representative track team is desired at Villanova, this matter should be taken into consideration.

Villanovan Sports

WILDCATS OUTPOINT TEMPLE

FROSH END SEASON; WERE UNDEFEATED IN 17 ENCOUNTERS

Walbrook Quintet Last Team to Fall Before Kitten Fighting Attack

TWO VICTORIES OVER OWL TEAM SEASON'S HIGHLIGHT

Frosh Scoring Kept Down by Ragged Teamwork; Long Shots Ineffective

With the Wlbrook team of Baltimore as its victim Villanova's undefeated Freshman basketball squad closed its season last Saturday evening with its record for the campaign showing 17 victories and not a defeat. Previous to that the Kittens gained their 16th in a row by taking the Star Printers of Coatesville into camp on Wednesday afternoon.

The yearlings were anything but convincing in their season's closer. The final score, 39-22, doesn't show the closeness of the game. Villanova stepped out to a comfortable lea don field goals by Dubino and Vigilante an dthree fouls by Hopkins. But the Baltimore boys came back strong and began to connect on long pot shots. Two field goals by Battalion tied the score at 11-11

At this point, the Kittens came to life and regained the lead. Successive goals by Krutulis, Montgomery, and Vigilante increased the Villanova margin at halftime to 22-15.

Ragged teamwork kept the frosh point total down. Loose passing and failure to follow the numerous long shots made the Kittens more ineffective than usual.

Only the spurts of individual brilliance on the part of Dubino, Krutulis and Vigilante saved the undefeated record. Lou Dubino was the chief point-getter with six field goals, most of which he got on follow-up shots.

Krutulis and Vigilante, though not scoring as heavily as Dubino, came through with goals at crucial moments.

Levinson and Blades were the visitors' best performers. Levinson, a guard, shook himself loose under

Continued on Page Six

MIKE O'MEARA LEADS VILLANOVA SCORERS

Don Brennan, Pivot Man, Is Close Second With 99 Points

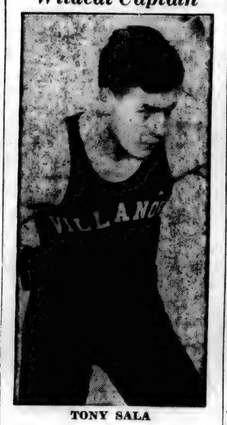
By WILLIAM BOWKER

During the past season of 18 games, the Wildcats' varsity basketball team scored 561 points, which were distributed in various quantities among the players.

Mike O'Meara, stellar forward, was the leader, tallying nearly one-fifth of the total for the year's scoring. The former North Catholic luminary counted 131 markers, and was followed by Don Brennan, pivot man, who failed to make 100 points by a field goal. Sixteen tallies divided the tall center from the next in line, Benny Geraghty and Harry McNally. Geraghty sank 32 baskets and 18 free throws for 82, and McNally com-

Continued on Page Six

Wildcat Captain



TONY SALA

WILDCAT CHAMPION FAILS TO GET BID

Eastern Boxing Association Ignores Tony Sala in Extending Invitations

When the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association holds its 13th annual tournament at Penn State this Friday and Saturday, March 13th and 14th, it may be minus the defending champion of the light-heavyweight class. As late as Sunday, Tony Sala, who currently reigns supreme among the 175-pounders of the East, had not received his expected invitation to compete in the tournament.

Each year in addition to the teams which comprise the association several invited teams participate in the tournament. Last year Villanova received an invitation, and as a result Tony gained his championship.

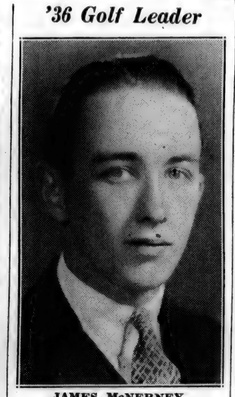
In view of the fact that Tony is a defending champ and in addition undefeated in two years of collegiate boxing, it was expected that he would be invited to defend his crown even if the other Wildcat boxers were not.

But to date, the association composed of Syracuse, Army, Western Maryland, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Penn State seems to have overlooked their 175-lb. titleholder.

Tony is in fine shape and ready to give his best, which incidentally

Continued on Page Six

'36 Golf Leader



JAMES McNERNEY

M'NERNEY ELECTED TO CAPTAIN GOLF

Senior Made Hole-in-One In 1934; Has Enviable Win Record

At a meeting held on Friday afternoon, the Villanova golf team elected James McNerney, a senior in the Business School, to captain the team for the coming season.

McNerney contested for the post with David Cragg, a senior in the School of Science. Both candidates were three-letter men, having won their minor V's since they were freshmen.

The two alternated last year in the position of two and three on the team.

Hole-in-One Fame

McNerney crashed into the immortals of golf two years ago, when playing Gibbs, of Osteopathy. He teed up for the ninth hole at St. Davids, a 190-yard hole, drove off, the ball rose in a perfect arc, and settled ten feet from the green, where it bounced and rolled until it dropped slowly into the cup. Although behind at this point, McNerney went on to defeat Gibbs, 6 and 5, as Villanova clinched the meet, 4-2.

McNerney, playing at number three position, has an enviable record of wins in his years of intercollegiate competition. The new captain is popular with his squad, and promises that this year's links combine will set a pace for succeeding golfers to shoot at in years to come.

Ray Gadsby, Boxing Mentor, Gives A Sports Scribe His Views On Sports

(Editor's Note:—The following is a personal interview with Ray Gadsby, boxing coach, concerning his first year at Villanova.)

By F. P. BONETTI

"Hello Ray, how is everything? Can I have a few minutes of your time?"

"Sure, Frank, what's on your mind?"

"Well, I was asked by my editor to get your views on your experiences here at Villanova, so here goes.

"What was your first impression of Villanova?"

"Frank, when I first came here I was pleasantly surprised. The fellows treated me more like a friend than a stranger. They were and still are congenial and helpful. But the finest compliment any new coach can receive was the one awaiting me on my arrival at the gym. I was expecting to see only about 10 or 12 candidates out for the team, but there they were—20 men anxiously awaiting to go to work. Every day the list of candidates increased and when the day for the intramurals arrived I had enough men to arrange 11 bouts."

"Ray, will you tell our readers something about the meets Villa-

Continued on Page Seven

VILLANOVA BOXERS WIN THREE BOUTS TO TROUNCE OWL TEAM

Shugrue, Pantaleo and Butler Lose Bouts to Aggressive Temple Mittmen

OWLS FORFEIT TWO BOUTS TO GIVE VILLANOVA EDGE

Bobrowski and Jarosik Take Respective Bouts Via Knock-out Route

By PAT VASSALLUZZO

The Villanova boxing team brought its season to a close last Tuesday with an impressive victory over the Temple Owls. Coach Gadsby's boys won two of the scheduled eight bouts by forfeit, two by the K. O. route and one by decision to score five points. The final result was 5 to 3.

Villanova started with a two-point advantage when Mulhern and McKenna forfeited to Sala and Buckley respectively. The Owls quickly evened matters when Nick Glenn and Andy Pettineo were awarded decisions. The Wildcats jumped ahead again when Bobrowski scored on a knockout. Again, however, the fighting Owls made it a tie by virtue of Liebovitz's victory over Butler. The 'Cats however, with Carrig and Jarosik as the point gatherers, finished with two victories to take the meet.

The first bout of the card found Shugrue, a new addition to the Wildcat squad opposed by Nick Glenn. Both contestants took it easy in the first round. In the second round Glenn's constant left jab kept Shugrue backing away. At the close of this round the Wildcat representative seemed very tired. In the final setto, Shugrue, still tired, had poor timing and missed frequently; while Glenn, in his anxiousness to win the bout, used poor judgment several times by leading with his right. The decision was awarded to the visitor.

The next bout proved to be one of the most interesting of the evening. Carl Pantaleo was pitted against Andy Pettineo. Both Pantaleo and Pettineo seemed content

Continued on Page Seven

MENDEL RESIDENTS UPSET AUSTINITES

Alumni and Austin to Have Play-off to Decide Second Place Honors

On last Tuesday afternoon the quintet from Alumni set about clinching second place when they edged out the Mendel Residents, 28-27. Play was close throughout with Mendel displaying the form with which they started the second half. Alumni, however, was a little too good and their coolness won out in the end.

Capellaro, of Mendel, carried off high-scoring honors with four twin-pointers and a foul to total nine markers. Dimon, of Mendel, and J. McHugh, and Horn, of Alumni, followed "Cappy" with eight points. Both teams were handicapped by the absence of several of their stars.

On Tuesday night the Alumni

Continued on Page Six

VILLANOVA DOWNED BY TEMPLE QUINTET

41 to 27 Defeat Closes Very Disasterous Season For Wildcats

By losing a 41-27 contest to Temple, the Villanova varsity quintet closed a disastrous season at the Philadelphia Arena last Monday night. Captain Ernie Messikomer and Charlie Noonan precipitated a fistic encounter to enliven the proceedings late in the second half.

Messikomer and Noonan, the new "White Hope" of Austin Hall, started tossing fists at each other and they were soon joined by the rest of their respective teams and a representative gathering of the spectators. The long arm of the law made itself evident, and in a few moments the game was again under way.

As soon as the sound of the first whistle had died, the Owls started their march. Seven points were rolled up before the Wildcats tallied on Mike O'Meara's free throw. Mike followed this up with a short one from the floor, and these, with another counter, brought the Main Liners within three of their opponents. This ray of hope was soon extinguished when the Flock widened the margin between the two teams to 10 points. This lead was gradually lessened by the Blue and White, but at halftime the quintets retired with the Flock on the long end of a 22-14 score.

Don Shields, lanky Owl forward, went on a rampage and scored the majority of his 16 points in the second period. Villanova's boys gave valiant battle against overwhelming odds, but this was not their night. During this canto, Referee Pat Kennedy saw fit to banish Harry McNally and Pat Marquette on personal fouls. Shortly after this Noonan and Messikomer indulged in their fistic encounter. Upon resumption of the game the Mitten Hallers ran wild, scoring at will while allowing the 'Cats only two points on Wait McKenna's field goal.

Mike O'Meara and Jack Robinson, playing their last game for Villanova, shared scoring honors with six markers apiece, while Tom Ryan, also concluding his career at the Main Line institution, sparkled with his floorwork. Don Shields paced the winners with seven field goals and two fouls for 16 counters.

Every man on the Villanova squad saw action, with the members of last year's frosh five giving a good account of themselves.

TEMPLE

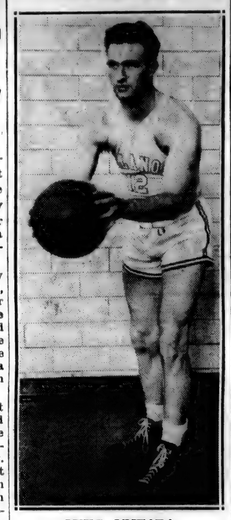
	G.	F.	P.
Dubin, forward	2	0	4
Shields, forward	7	2	16
Bloom, center	2	2	6
Messikomer, guard	1	4	6
Casper, guard	0	4	4
Juenger, center	2	1	5
Totals	14	13	41

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
McNally, forward	0	0	0
Noonan, forward	1	1	3
Brennan, center	1	2	4
Collins, guard	1	2	4
O'Meara, guard	2	2	6
Marquette, center	1	0	2
Ryan, forward	0	0	0
Robinson, forward	3	0	6
McKenna, forward	1	0	2
Totals	10	7	27

Half-time score—Temple, 22; Villanova, 14. Foul tries—Temple, 19; Villanova, 10. Referees—Abrams and Kennedy.

Led Scorers



MIKE O'MEARA

Mike O'Meara Tops 'Cat Scoring List

Continued From Page Five

piled his amount with 23 field goals and 36 charity throws.

Battling Charlie Noonan was fifth in line with 63 markers, compiling them by means of two dozen double-deckers and 15 fouls. Jack Robinson, Abe Collins and Tommy Ryan were closely bunched together, Robby having a three-point lead over Abe who, in turn, with 30 tallies headed Ryan by one. Walt McKenna and Pat Marquette followed with seven and six, respectively. The two Leo's, Schoppmeyer and Mooney, failed to score.

O'Meara, Brennan and McNally were the only members of the squad to see action in every fray. Noonan, Ryan and Collins each participated in one less, while Robby took part in 16 contests. Geraghty played in 12 of the encounters, while McKenna and Marquette took part in five and four tussles. Schoppy helped defeat the P. M. C. Cadets. Leo Mooney had to retire due to illness before he had a chance to display his wares.

In the production of field goals, O'Meara paced the field with 56 twin-pointers. Brennan had a dozen less, and Geraghty followed with 32 double-deckers. Charlie Noonan had two dozen baskets, leading Harry McNally by one. Tommy Ryan's even dozen field tosses put him next in that department. His roomy, Jack Robinson, led Abe Collins, who had ten, by a single basket. Pat Marquette and Wally McKenny were tied with thre apiece.

Harry McNally led the foul making parade with 36 scores. This gave him a commanding lead over Mike O'Meara who put 19 in from the charity line. Noonan's 15 single-pointers placed him three behind the deposed Geraghty. Jack Robinson again nosed out Abe Collins by a goal. McKenna's foul enabled him to lead Marquette by a single point.

Individual scoring records:

VILLANOVA VARSITY

	G.	Goals—Fd.	Foul	P.
O'Meara	18	56	19	131
Brennan	18	44	10	98
Geraghty	12	32	18	82
Noonan	17	24	15	63
McNally	18	23	36	82
Robinson	16	11	11	33
Collins	17	10	10	30
Ryan	17	12	5	29
McKenna	5	3	1	7
Marquette	4	3	0	6
Schoppmeyer	1	0	0	0
Mooney	0	0	0	0
Totals		218	125	561

J. OLIVARI WINS MURAL BOWLING

Troncelliti Carries Fight To Final Frame; Gains Second Place

In the final match of the Intra-Mural Bowling Tournament last Tuesday afternoon, Jordan Olivari defeated Florindo Troncelliti to carry off the championship.

Troncelliti is a Senior in the C. & F. and art editor of the Belle Air. Olivari, who rooms in Fedigan Hall, is the president of the Sophomore Class, and a tackle on the varsity football team. He is also the ranking honor man of his class in the C. & F. School.

It seemed as though Troncelliti would take the title, but Olivari finished strongly and tied the game at 135 pins. As the playoff game began, it became apparent that Olivari had regained his form. With few misses he pulled away from Troncelliti and rolled up the score of 191 to his opponent's 177.

Geraghty and Emmerling seemed to have what was needed to win the title but they couldn't stand the pace set by the finalists and dropped out in the semi-finals.

Fedigan, Austin, Mendel and Alumni had representatives in the tournament. The Daybops had only a slight interst in the tourney and consequently did not have many entries.

As winner of the tournament Olivari will receive a specially selected sport jacket. The expense of this prize has been defrayed by the entrance fee collected from each participant.

JACOBSMEN WAIT FOR DRY GROUND

As Veterans Return, Hopes Of Baseball Team Are Sent Soaring

Rounding into shape, the Villanova varsity baseball club is anxiously waiting for suitable weather which will enable them to leave the gym, for the open field, where daily practices will be held to put the finishing touches on the team, in preparation for the opening game with Penn ,April 1, away.

Many candidates have shown promise in their workouts, but Walt McKenna and Franny Escott, both new-comers, have sparkled have the others; the former seems to have Frankie Skaff's old position at third clinched. The outfield positions will be the hardest to fill, but Mike O'Meara, Bunny Galazin and Stoviak will see plenty of action of these posts; however Escott is as capable a fielder as he is a pitcher, and undoubtably Coach Jacobs will have ways to keep him in the game.

In the infield, the veterans Captain Art Mahan and Leo Schoppmeyer are again primed to start; however the latter will cover a new territory, when he takeks over the shortstop position. Mahan will again be probable infield. The battery candidates have a few weeks advance drilling on the other members of the team, and so far both the entire hurling and receiving staffs have shown mid-season form.

With most of the veterans back, the Wildcats should enjoyy one of their best seasons. The schedule contains 20 tough games; the opponents will be some of the best clubs in the East. Little need be said about teams, such as, Princeton, Cornell and others of the same calibre.

Mendel Residents Upset Austinites

Continued From Page Five

five engaged in their second encounter of the day, but this time they were not so successful as they were humbled by the Mendel Day Hops, who encountered no difficulty in winning out 27-18.

The Day Hops got off to an early lead and were never headed. Your correspondent decided that the best way to report on these games would be to engage in them so he picked on the league champions. Although scoring no points, your scribe lent his moral support and took a few bumps from the scrappy champs.

Mendel's spirit was outstanding as they tried to make every pass good and every shot perfect. Alumni's lack of teamwork was especially noticeable in contrast to the smooth passing of the commuters.

A noteworthy feature of the game was the number of shots taken by Joe Horn and Vinnie McHugh, of Alumni. Between them they took as many shots as the entire Mendel team did throughout the entire game.

This victory enabled the Mendel quintet to finish the second half with a clean slate, having scored 10 successive victories.

Austin and Mendel's Resident five were to have engaged in a second game that evening, but, however, because of the Glee Club concert it was held over to Thursday evening.

Mendel emerged victorious by the count of 29-25 to end their schedule with five victories and five losses. Austin's defeat assured Alumni of at least a tie for second place even if they drop their final encounter to Austin.

The game was Mendel's all the way as they piled up a 21-13 lead at half-time. "Buzz" Hart, of Mendel, continued his activities in the scoring field as he found the hoop for eight points. "Buzz" has averaged eight points a game to place him high among the scorers although he has participated in only five games due to his previous activities on the freshman quintet.

McCabe, of Austin, carried off high-scoring honors for his team as he rang up seven markers. Mike Totin, of the same team, who led the league in scoring for the first half still has not found his "eye" and tallied only four points.

One game remains to be played in the second half and that battle between Austin and Alumni will decide the occupancy of second place in the second-half of the league.

This game will probably be played next week prior to the playoff games between Austin and the Mendel Day Hops for the championship of the Intramural League.

TENNIS PRACTICE COMMENCES SOON

Four Lost by Graduation While Six Return to Strengthen Hopes

Tennis, a minor sport at Villanova College, will swing into action during the next week, when the first call will be answered by the racquet wielders. The practice sessions will be conducted in the gym until the outdoor courts are available.

Last year's team did not enjoy more than a mediocre season, but this was largely due to the disorganized way in which things were run. However, it is expected that with the Rev. Charles J. Melchoir, O. S. A., faculty advisor to all sports activities and Frank Grawer, senior manager; acting together the sport will rise to one of the popular positions it holds at other institutions.

Graduation took four veterans in Captain Steve Kramer, John Barry and the Malhame brothers, Chester and George. There are six members of last year's squad remaining and they will form the nucleus of this year's outfit. These men are Captain Jim Allen, Fen Maloney, Frank Rodgers, Bill Thorne, Tom Cooke and Cousart.

It is expected the intramural tennis tournament that will be conducted soon will uncover several promising candidates to round out the squad.

Grewer has made several connections with other school teams and has rounded out a schedule which is subject to approval by Father Melchoir. The Penn courtment will be the first foe of the campaign, being met sometime around April 11th.

Temple is scheduled for two matches, West Chester and Albright also are listed for two encounters. Others are: Muhlenberg, Bloomsburg, Ursinus and Osteopathy.

John Chapple is the junior manager but as yet there is no assistant, and anyone desiring to fill the post may see Frank Grewer.

Wildcat Champion Fails to Get Bid

Continued From Page Five

is plenty, in the defense of his hard-earned laurels. However, if the invitation does come through, his road to victory and the retaining of his crown will be anything but easy.

Jeffries, of Syracuse; Smith, of Harvard, and Ortenzi, of Western Maryland, are three topnotchers in the light-heavyweight class. Ray Jeffries, Syracuse's hope, looms as the most formidable battler of this trio. Ray is a Philadelphia lad and has gained high ranking in amateur boxing in the Quaker City.

Ray competed in the tournament last year but had the misfortune to stack up against Bernie Kaplan, of Western Maryland in an early round bout and was eliminated. He is undefeated this year.

Bill Smith, the foremost of Harvard's entries, won the 165-lb. championship last year but has been fighting at 175 this season. He also has yet to be defeated during the current campaign.

If Sala is enabled to defend his title, there will be six defending champions endeavoring to hold on to their laurels. In addition to

Frosh End Season; Were Undefeated

Continued From Page Five

the basket several times to sink "sucker" shots. Blades, his running mate at guard, was the Baltimoreans' ace performer. He shut out his man from the field and was an important factor in the rally that tied the score at 11-11. He scored the first basket of the game when he dribbled through the Villanova team to sink one from in close.

Wednesday's game with the Star Printers was a breeze. The Kittens had no trouble whatsoever, having things their own way from start to finish.

Much credit is due this freshman aggregation. They have completed a 17-game schedule with 17 victories over some very able opposition. The highlights of the season were of course the two victories over the otherwise undefeated Temple Freshmen quintet.

"Slim" Montgomery, Lou Dubino, Captain Art Vigilante, Johnny Krutulis, Joe Hopkins and Lou Wannemaker are to be commended for the fine work they have displayed this season.

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	3	1	7
Wanamaker, forward	3	2	8
Dubino, forward	1	2	4
Krutulis, center	4	1	9
Vigilante, guard	1	2	4
Hopkins, guard	0	0	0
Dempsey, guard	1	0	2
Burlington, guard	4	0	8
Kuber, guard	0	0	0
Vondra, guard	0	0	0
Totals	17	9	43

STAR PRINTERS

	G.	F.	P.
Deering, forward	3	0	6
Poff, forward	1	0	2
Morgan, forward	0	0	0
Entrekin, center	1	1	3
Cross, guard	2	1	5
Long, guard	1	3	5
McLain, guard	2	0	4
Roper, guard	0	0	0
Totals	10	5	25

VILLANOVA

	G.	F.	P.
Montgomery, forward	2	1	5
Hopkins, forward	0	1	1
Dubino, forward	4	5	13
Krutulis, center	2	4	8
Vigilante, center	2	4	8
Dempsey, guard	0	0	0
Wanamaker, guard	3	1	7
Burlington, guard	0	1	1
Vondra, guard	0	0	0
Totals	14	11	39

WOLBROOK

	G.	F.	P.
Lafferty, forward	1	0	2
Battalion, forward	2	0	4
Mullins, forward	1	0	2
Levinson, center	3	2	8
Blades, center	2	1	5
Gristel, guard	0	1	1
Tawney, guard	0	0	0
Ruckless, guard	0	0	0
Porter, guard	0	0	0
Totals	9	4	22

WILDCAT MERMEN MEET OSTEOPATHY WEDNESDAY

Six Events Scheduled; Frosh Are Able to Take an Active Part in Swim

The Villanova College mermen will encounter the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy in the West Branch Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday, March 11, at 3:30 P. M. This dual meet is the second of a home and home series, the first of which Villanova won by a margin of 10 points.

Tony, two Penn State men, Russ Crisswell, State's captain and 115-pounder, and Lou Ritzie, 155 pounder, will defend in their respective divisions. Art McGivern, of Syracuse, welterweight, and Tom Pontecarvo, Western Maryland's captain, heavyweight, will also defend. Bill Smith, of Harvard, as mentioned previously, will fight in the 175-lb. class and will not defend his 165-lb. crown.

Intra-Mural Lineups

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
Soviero, forward	3	0	6
J. McHugh, forward	4	0	8
O'Connell, center	3	0	6
Murphy, guard	4	0	8
Horn, guard	0	0	0
Totals	14	0	28

MENDEL RESIDENTS

	G.	F.	P.
Dunigan, forward	2	0	4
Dimon, forward	4	0	8
Carroll, center	1	0	2
Delate, guard	2	0	4
Capellaro, guard	4	1	9
Totals	13	1	27

MENDEL DAY HOPS

	G.	F.	P.
McManus, forward	1	0	2
Burns, forward	4	0	8
Barr, forward	2	0	4
Duffy, center	0	1	1
Narkin, guard	3	1	7
Beitenmiller, guard	2	0	4
O'Connor, guard	1	2	4
Totals	13	3	27

ALUMNI

	G.	F.	P.
V. McHugh, forward	2	4	8
Horn, forward	3	1	7
O'Connell, center	2	0	4
Looram, guard	0	0	0
Murphy, guard	0	0	0
Soviero, guard	0	0	0
Totals	7	4	18

AUSTIN

	G.	F.	P.
Dinges, forward	2	1	5
Conli, forward	1	1	3
McCabe, center	3	1	7
Mayell, center	1	0	2
O'Brien, guard	2	0	4
Totin, guard	2	0	4
Totals	11	3	25

MENDEL RESIDENTS

	G.	F.	P.
Costello, forward	3	0	6
Carroll, forward	2	1	5
Hart, center	4	0	8
Capellaro, guard	2	2	6
Dunigan, guard	1	2	4
Totals	12	5	29

Intra-Mural Standings

	W.	L.
Mendel Day Hops	10	0
Alumni	6	3
Austin	5	4
Mendel Residents	5	5
Fedigan	3	7
C. and F.	0	10

THREE VILLANOVA STUDENTS ELIGIBLE FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Heidelberg University Offers Invitations to College Men for Summer Courses

TWO ALUMNI OF VILLANOVA HAVE STUDIED IN GERMANY

Thomas McFeeley, '34, and Charles McGough, '35, Matriculated There

Three students of Villanova College will be eligible to receive academic scholarships to the University of Heidelberg for the regular summer courses, it was announced yesterday by Mr. Paetrus F. Banmiller, registrar.

Each year the German University extends to a select list of recognized American colleges and universities this opportunity to send deserving and representative students to take advantage of the many educational facilities at Heidelberg. Although senior students are preferred, the administration reserves the right to recommend underclassmen for this privilege.

This year the University of Heidelberg is celebrating its 550th anniversary from June 27th to June 30th and gladly extends its invitation to these celebrations to all foreign participants of the summer courses. In order to provide a fitting display of its progress the university has reconstructed and extended the contents of the many summer courses (which last from June 29th to August 8th) to fit present-day needs and interests.

During the past two years Villanova has been represented at the university by Mr. Thomas McFeeley, who graduated from the School of Commerce and Finance in 1934, and by Mr. Charles McGough, who received his bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering in 1935. Both men were extremely enthusiastic about their journeys and experiences when they returned.

The credits obtained while taking these summer courses can be applied to a master's degree and are duly recognized as graduate work of high calibre.

All students who are interested in receiving these scholarship privileges, seniors preferred, are urged to see Mr. Banmiller at once since their registration must be sent to Heidelberg in the near future.

ACTIVITIES BEGUN BY SPANISH CLUB

Organization Under Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., Gains New Impetus

Last Friday a very important meeting of the Spanish Club was held in order to determine its future. Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., native of Spain, presided.

Thirty students were present, representing Cuba, Puerto Rico, Spain, Peru, The Philippines and Mexico. Many Spanish language students also participated.

The club intends to be very active during the balance of the year. Its foreign members are going to distribute newspapers and magazines from their own countrys.

At each meeting, to be held twice a month, a five minute talk in Spanish, will be held between two of the students. Fr. Lozano believes that these brief discussions will be helpful to the Spanish language students, especially in having them hear the correct pronunciation.

During the next few months, similar clubs, both in this country, and abroad will be contacted, and correspondence between the members of each will be carried on.

The date for the next meeting has not yet been decided, but it will be posted soon.

All members are reminded to be present in the Gym this afternoon at 3:30, when the Spanish Club picture will be taken for the Belle Aire.

Villanova Boxers Trounce Owl Team

Continued From Page Five

to size each other up in the first round, the former scored several times with left hooks while the latter was more concerned with short rights to the body. Pantaleo opened the second round with an attack to the head; but Pettineo retaliated with an attack that sent the Villanovan to the ropes several times. On one occasion Pantaleo, trapped against the ropes, was forced by a vicious attack to the head; to turn his back to his opponent. Pettineo showed unwarranted sportsmanship by walking away and allowing his foe to recover. Pantaleo seemed to weaken; but he came back in the last round and forced the fight. The judges disagreed so the referee awarded the decision to Pettineo.

In the 135 class Stan Bobrowski was opposed by Matt Feinstein. Except for a few lefts to the stomach by the Owl nothing much happened. One of these was rather low and the referee gave a warning In the second round Feinstein changed his tactics and began throwing them to the head. Bobrowski began looking for an opening, meanwhile walking into a few rights. He soon found his opening and connected a right to the head that sent his opponent down on one knee. At the count of five Feinstein seemed to recover; but he did not get up. At the count of ten he jumped up, but it was too late. He had already been counted out. Whether Feinstein meant to arise at the count of nine or whether he quit is a matter of conjecture, for it was plain that he was well aware of what it was all about.

In the 145 division, Butler's inability to follow up advantages cost him a decision. This was one of the closest fights of the evening. Butler started at the bell and was very aggressive throughout the first round. He trapped his opponent, Liebovitz, in a corner and connected with both rights and lefts. Liebovitz came back strong, getting over two or three rights right before the bell. In the second round Butler trapped the Owl mittman in a corner again but let him slip away. Again right before the bell Liebovitz scored with three lefts and then a right to the jaw. In the final round both got in a few good ones. Butler, however, had his opponent just about ready for the haymaker several times but failed to follow up. The decision was awarded to Liebovitz.

The 155 bout was a thriller. Joe Carrig was pitted against Sam Showalter. At the sound of the bell both started fast and seemed willing to mix it up. Carrig landed a few to the head that sent Carrig down. Carrig, however, jumped up without taking a count. Showalter connected with a left jab to the nose, causing it to bleed. The round ended with Showalter holding a slight advantage.

The second round was rather tame compared to the first. Except for two lefts by Carrig, whose nose was still bleeding, at the start of the round and another powerful right at the close of the round, neither did much damage. Carrig came out fighting in the last round. He semed to realize he needed this round to get the decision. Showalter realized that he too needed this round.

The Owl began throwing roundhouse rights, intent upon knocking out his opponent. However, they were wild and he did not connect with any of them. Every time he swung his right and missed Carrig jabbed through the opening with his left. Carrig threw a left, right, and another left to the head that staggered Showalter and gave him a nose bleed. After that it was all over but the shouting. Up until the bell Carrig was still fighting hard. The decision was awarded to Carrig.

In the 165 class both Jarosik and Timmons started at the bell. They semed to be testing each other's ability to take it, for they took turns shooting some hard ones to the head. Neither seemed much affected. However, right before the bell for the end of the first round Jarosik connected with a hard right that staggered Timmons.

Jarosik opened the second round with numerous lefts to his opponent's jaw, and then, finding the opening he was looking for, he sent a powerful right to the same part of the head that sent Timmons clear off his fet. His head landed outside the ropes, and if ever anyone semed out, he did. With both eyes and mouth wide open he did not move until the count of eight. At the count of nine, still in dreamland, he gamely got up. It must have ben instinct that made him get up for he could hardly keep his feet, and did not know what it was all about. The referee was just about to stop the fight when the Temple coach threw in the towel. The bout ended after 1 minute and 40 seconds of the second round.

There were also several exhibition bouts before and after the meet. The first of these found Bob Daniello and O'Connell facing each other. The next found Joe Tanzola opposed to Joe Badamo. Both these bouts were two rounds and no decisions were given.

Not to disappoint the fans that came out to see Tony Sala, captain of the Villanova team and intercollegiate champion, Coach Gadsby had Sala and Buckley, a heavyweight, put on an exhibition match.

The fans wer also given a special treat when Eddie Michaels grappled with Di Bonventuro in a five-minute wrestling match. This affair could be compared with the comedies shown in motion picture houses in conjunction with the feature, for that is what it was, a delightful comedy.

Summary:

Summary:

115—Nick Glenn, Temple, won decision over Shugrue, Villanova.

125—Andy Fettineo, Temple, won decision over Carl Pantaleo, Villanova.

135—Bobrowski, Villanova, knocked out Matte Feinstein, Temple, second round.

145—Liebovitz, Temple, won decision over Butler, Villanova.

155—Carrig, Villanova, won decision over Showalter, Temple.

165—Jarosik, Villanova, won T. K. O. over Timmons, Temple, in second round.

175—Mulhern, Temple, forfeited to Sala, Villanova.

Unlimited—McKenna, Temple, forfeited to Buckley, Villanova.

Referee, Bryan Hayes. Judges Mealey and Murphy.

L. K. D. FRATERNITY APPOINTS KEFFER

Assistant Infirmarian Chosen Head of Key Committee at Recent Meeting

Coasting along in the lull of activities, the Lamba Kappa Delta fraternity held its weekly meeting last Thursday to clear up any previous business and to begin work on the purchasing of the senior keys.

The key situation will be handled by a chosen committee under the chairmanship of William Keffer, who was elected to this position by President Joseph Bigley. Mr. Keffer is the college assistant infirmarian and also an active senior fraternity member. In connection with these keys a small fraternity pin, attainable by all members at a small cost, was discussed. Further details on the design and cost of these pins will be investigated by the key committee.

The initiation of the new members who were unable to be present at the last was reported to be in line immediately following the Easter vacation. In conclusion, President Bigley asked the support of all members in paying their dues so as to make all future activities an easier task for the organization.

The date of the Belle Air picture, which is scheduled at 1:20 P. M. today, was also reminded to the members.

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED — 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed — 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

(Next to Seville Theatre)
Meet Your Friends at
The Bryn Mawr Confectionery
Tasty Sandwiches
Reasonably Priced
Luncheons-Dinners-Platters
Music Free Dancing

Gadsby Discusses Mittmen's Season

Continued From Page Five

nova has participated in this year?"

"Sure, I'll be glad to. Our first meet was with Penn. They were reputed to have a strong team and naturally I was anxious to win this one for many reasons. The boys wanted this one, for they wanted to avenge a previous defeat at the hands of Penn last year.

"On Saturday night, February 15, Villanova met and defeated the U. of P. at our gym. But not until we had a very busy night. The spectators were treated to a very enjoyable evening. There were several surprises, the main one being the defeat of Jack Jarosik, who has since then been undefeated.

"The following week we encountered Western Maryland at Westminster, Md. The school authorities and students as a whole were very nice, but I am deeply sorry I cannot say that about the officials of the meet. In two classes, the 155 and 145, decisions were given which I think weren't very fair. Joe Carrig fighting in the 155-pound division was given what I term a "raw deal." He outfought his opponent and yet the decision was rendered against him. In the previous match Jim Butler gave his opponent a boxing lesson, but still he lost the decision. The least he should have received was a draw. We lost this meet by the score of 5 to 3.

"Immediately following these matches at Westminster we motored up to Washington, Pa., to meet W. and J. Upon arriving there we were not received as cordially as I expected, the reason why I do not know. That evening when both teams were being weighed in, we encountered a little trouble. The Washington and Jefferson coach weighed a boy by the name of Basso to fight in the 145-pound division, even though his weight was 154. After several minutes of furious argument it was decided to throw the match out. Our boys in this meet were very impressive and the final score was 4 to 3 in our favor.

"Our motor trip home was one of fun and enjoyment. The boys were in fine spirits because they had licked a strong W. and J. team.

"Our last meet of the year was that with Temple, held March 3 at our gym. Temple won the first two bouts, this was disappointing in that Carl Pantaleo, our 125 pounder was defeated. Previous to this match he had had a clean slate. A pleasant surprise was given to me in the form shown by Stan Brobowski. Previous to the Temple meet he had not been very impressive, but on this occasion he was brilliant; the result was he knocked his opponent out in the second round. Another surprise was given me by Jack Jarosik, who after losing his first bout to Penn, has been undefeated. He met in the Temple man a strong slugger, but after two rounds of slugging Jarosik put Timmons away."

"Say, Ray, that was our final meet, wasn't it?"

"Yes, it was the final dual meet, but we still have the intercollegiates and one invitation meet."

"What about this invitation meet, Ray?"

"Well, the Penn Athletic Club in Philadelphia, gives a tea once a month to which they invite notables from all walks of life. We have been invited to send four of our men to box against four of Penn's men. The men to represent us will be: Carl Pantaleo, 125; Joe Carrig, 155; Jack Jarosik, 165, and Tony Sala, 175."

"That should be an interesting match, Ray, since our four best men will represent us."

"Coach, what do you think of the future of boxing here at Villanova?"

"Boxing, I predict, will be one of Villanova's most popular sports inside of one year. Next year we should have one of the best teams in the East, Frank; at the Temple meet there were over 2500 spectators, and at this rate, with a better and more experienced team next year, we should pack them in at every match."

"Well, Ray, thanks for your valuable time and we wish Tony Sala loads of luck at Penn State, and I hope Villanova has one of the best if not the best team in the country next year."

"Thanks, Frank, so do I."

FOREIGN RELATIONS CLUB GIVEN BOOKS

Second Installment Received by Organization From Carnegie Foundation

The second installment of books for the International Relations Club has been received from the Cornegie Endowment for International Peace, and is at present in the college library.

This particular group of books are of special interest and value because they demonstrate the need for intelligent study of the changing world conditions. Included in this installment are the following books: "Peace and the Plain Man," by Sir Norman Angell; "Democratic Governments in Europe," by Buell, Chase and Valeur; "Labour's Way to Peace," by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, M. P.; International Security," by Philip Jessup; "The Treaty of Versailles and After," by Lord Riddell; "International Organizations In Which the United States Participates," by Laurence Schmeckelier.

The International Relations Club has also received from the same source numerous pamphlets. These pamphlets are also available in the library. They are of particular importance because they contain information that cannot be easily obtained elsewhere. These current pamphlets show explicitly the demands of modern civilization on the nation as a whole.

A change has been made in the schedule of meetings of the society. The regular session of the International Relations Club will be held today at 1:30 P. M.

JEANNETT'S
BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas For All Occasions
Specializing in Corsages
Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association
823 Lancaster Ave.
Bryn Mawr 570

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats
$24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

CERTIFIED
MILK
CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

PRINCETON CHOOSES FUND COMMITTEE

Princeton, N. J., March 1—Appointment of the 1936 Princeton memorial fund committee here today by William A. Carlile, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, president of the senior class, marks the 20th anniversity of the graduating class insurance plan of pledging a gift to the university to be paid at the 20th reunion of the class.

The class of 1936 is the 20th class to follow the insurance plan of financing a gift to the university. Since the class of 1916 started this innovation, nearly 6000 members of the 19 classes have pledged a total of $1,860,000 in insurance gifts. Because its college career was disrupted by the World War, the class of 1917 is not a participant in this program.

Unlike the other classes the initial gift of the class of 1916 was made on a 25-year basis and thus the first gift will mature in 1938. As in the case of all funds, the money will be used by the university for whatever purpose the contributors select.

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Three

they are all Catholic. The clergy have never meddled in politics."

They Went Wild

"What caused recent revolution? "Tired of dictatorship, the Spanish people revolted. And so formed the first republic.

But we were not prepared for this type of government. When it came, many believed that they could do anything they wished. Churches were razed; prisons emptied; law and order openly flouted; riots became every-day occurances. The government continually promised and promised, but did nothing. Finally it all ended. A safe and sane government was voted into power.

Divided, We Fall

"The Spanish, at heart a peace loving people, were thoroughly tired of the old state of affairs. In the 1933 elections, the Rightist party won. This group was making admirable progress up until the 1936 elections. A break in their ranks caused the downfall. The Rightist party comprised two elements, the Monarchists, who demanded the instant return of the king; and the Catholic Action, which believed in watchful waiting, and possible future restoration of the Bourbons. United, the Rightists would have won the elections, but divided they lost.

Here and There

Before he can receive a degree, a student has to pass a Government Comprehensive Exam. If he fails, he has to repeat the ENTIRE course.

"Co-education, even in grammar school is unheard of throughout Spain.

"I want to take this opportunity to express my gratification especially to the Augustinian priests in this country.

"I like this country very much. Everyone has been very hospitable. But, I must confess, there is no place like home.

"When I first saw the New York sky-scrapers, I could not believe my eyes. I was astounded.

"Premier Azana, Leftist leader, was taught by the Augustinians. In school he was a very bad little boy, was often disciplined."

"I do not believe that the present abnormal situation will exist long. The Spanish people will sooner or later react. The Monarchy will not return immediately, but it will eventually."

VICE PRESIDENT VISITS CONSHOHOCKEN SCHOOL

Fr. Albers, Paetrus Banmiller Lecture at St. Matthew's On Monday

On Monday of the past week, Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., and Paetrus Bannmiller, visited St. Matthew's Catholic Church School in Conshohocken as the guests of Rev. William A. O'Donnell, pastor of St. Matthew's parish. The occasion was the guidance conference for the boys of the senior class.

This high school has sent a number of it graduates to Villanova in recent years. Those students from there who go to Villanova now are aJmes Cook, sophomore, chemical engineer, and John Bruno, junior, pre-med.

An interesting feature which Fr. Albers and Mr. Bannmiller uncovered in their visit to this high school is the fact that each year the alumni contribute $200 for scholarship fund for one of the members of the graduating class. This fund can be used at any college to help defray expenses.

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE EXTENDS INVITATIONS

An invitation has been received from the German Department of Swarthmore College to attend the German Evening to be held at Swarthmore next Friday evening, March 3. Many of the German students of Villanova are expected to attend. Other students who may be interested are also invited.

The performance is scheduled for 8:15 at Clothier Memorial. The last train leaves Philadelphia at 7:45. There will be no charge for the performance.

Irish-American Dance March 16

Continued From Page One

will also be door prizes distributed to those in attendance. A photograph of the chairman of the ticket comittee will be the first door prize. The only method of securing the name of the chairman is to inquire of any member of Our Mother of Good Counsel Parish.

Other door prizes include an electric iron, a $5.00 Coty set, an order for the cleaning and pressing of a suit or dress, and a beautiful plant.

For centuries the world has gone to the Near East for its flavors and aromas and spices.

...and today Chesterfield imports thousands of bales of tobacco from Turkey and Greece to add flavor and fragrance to Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Turkish tobacco is expensive. The import duty alone is 35 cents a pound. But no other place except Turkey and Greece can raise tobacco of this particular aroma and flavor.

This Turkish tobacco, blended with our own American tobaccos in the correct proportions to bring out the finer qualities of each tobacco, helps to make Chesterfields outstanding for mildness and for better taste.

Outstanding

.. for mildness
.. for better taste

On the air—

WEDNESDAY	SATURDAY
ROSA	NINO
PONSELLE	MARTINI

KOSTELANETZ ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS
9 P. M. (E. S. T.)—COLUMBIA NETWORK

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 19 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 17, 1936 Price: Five Cents

LOCAL STUDENTS IN ATTENDANCE AT PEACE CONFERENCE

Benedict Maloney and Gibbons Kolb Delegates to Meeting in Washington

12 SCHOOLS REPRESENTED

The Student Peace Conference, which was sponsored by The Catholic Association for International Peace, of which Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, is one of the vice-presidents, was held at Trinity College, Washington, D. C., last Saturday.

Delegates representing Villanova College were J. Benedict Maloney, junior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, and Gibbons Kolb, a freshman in the School of Commerce and Finance.

The conference included talks by the various college and university representatives on "Obstables to World Peace," "A Catholic's Duty as a Conscientious Objector to War," "Women and Peace Movements," "The Catholic Student and World Peace," and others.

Mr. Maloney, who supported cooperation with non-Catholic organizations for peace, opened his talk by saying, "International peace is an ideal to be striven for but if we wish to have reality in peace we must have cooperation. This question of cooperation is the main cog in the wheel of international peace. But to admit of cooperation is not to deny or weaken the necessity of a distinctly Catholic group."

Villanova's representative then pointed out the various aspects

Continued on Page Four

ENGINEERS ADDRESS STUDENTS IN PHILA.

Lectures by General Electric Engineers Precede Inspection Trips

Prof. J. Stanley Morehouse, director of the Student Chapter of the ASME, has announced that a visit will be made to the Delaware Station of the Philadelphia Electric Company to inspect the new 165 kw. turbo-generator and the new pulverized coal equipped boilers in the near future by a combined group of mechanical and electrical engineering students.

Anticipating this inspection tour and in keeping with his new policy of a lecture previous to an inspection tour, Mr. Morehouse made arrangements to have a few of the Philadelphia Electric Company's engineers discuss the several phases of the plant before the student group.

Assembled in the auditorium of the Edison Building last Monday afternoon, the group heard lectures by the company's engineers. Norbert Walker, mechanical engineer

Continued on Page Four

BUECHE AT OPEN HOUSE

Paetrus Banmiller and Prof. Beuche Attend Fete at Norristown

Paetrus Banmiller, registrar, and Professor H. S. Bueche, professor of electrical engineering, were the speakers at the open house night conducted for the benefit of students and parents at Norristown High School, last Friday evening, March 13th. In their talks they described the highlights of Villanova College and numerous advantages it offered students interested in attending college.

The affair was attended by representatives of 25 differen colleges, each college having a separate room in which these representatives explained the various facilities and advantages of their respective schools.

To Sing Tonight At St. Patrick's Day Celebration

Appearing before the public for their second concert of the year, the Villanova College Glee Club will give a recital tonight at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Parish Hall in Philadelphia.

According to Rev. Charles P. Brown O. S. A., moderator of the club, the choristers were invited to take part in a gala entertainment celebrating the Feast of Saint Patrick.

Paul D. Teel will conduct the college vocalists.

They are scheduled to appear before the audience at 8:30 P. M. After the entertainment, dancing is on the program to conclude affair. program to conclude the affair.

CATHOLIC SOCIETY ANNOUNCES CONTEST

American Historical Organization Sponsoring Competitive Essay Contest

For college students interested in competitive essay writing, the American Catholic Historical Society announces an intercollegiate historical essay contest.

The purpose of contest is to foster interest in Catholic historical personage of Catholic History in the Americas. Essays may be submitted to: Editor, Essay Committee, American Catholic Historical Society, 715 Spruce, Philadelphia, Penna.

The rules governing the contest are:

1. Only college and university students are eligible.
2. Each essay submitted for the contest must be accompanied by a letter from the college head or a professor identifying the writer and testifying that the work is the student's own.
3. The contest began March 1st and ends midnight, October 1, 1936.
4. The essay must be no less than 2500 words in length.
5. Every essay must be typed.

Continued on Page Four

VILLANOVAN STAFF SELECTS ORCHESTRA

Villanovans to Play at Dinner-Dance; Green Hill Farms Scene of Affair

Announcement that the annual Villanovan dinner-dance will be held on Tuesday evening, April 21, was closely followed by a further bulletin that it has been arranged by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, that the "Villanovans," college dance orchestra, will supply the music for the social, to which all members of the staff will be invited.

The scene of the affair will, in all probability, be the Green Hill Farms, Lancaster Pike and City Line, the setting for last year's very successful social.

An announcement to the effect that all members intending to attend the dinner-dance must make known their intentions on or before Tuesday, March 51, and at the same time they must declare whether or not they will escort a lady.

This year it is planned to digress from previous plans in order to arrange for several speakers for the evening, among whom will be Fr. McKee, and John DiJoseph, editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVAN.

GUILD TO MEET

A drive for prizes will be the topic of discussion at tomorrow night's meeting of the Augustinian Seminary Guild at 8:30 P. M. in the Lounge Room of the gymnasium.

TO ADDRESS STUDENTS

REV. JOHN M. SPARROW, O. S. A., Litt. D., who will address the student body tonight in the college chapel at 6:30 P. M. Fr. Sparrow, who has not announced his topic, is the fourth in a series of Lenten speakers.

LENTEN SERMON TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Fr. Sparrow's Address Is Fourth in Series of Seasonal Discourses

Tonight the fourth of a series of Lenten sermons will be delivered by Rev. John Sparrow, O. S. A., member of the faculty in the School of Arts. As yet Fr. Sparrow has not announced the topic of his discourse.

Last Tuesday evening the student body was given a sermon by Rev. Patrick O'Shea, O. S. A., of St. Thomas of Villanova Parish, Bryn Mawr, as the third of a series of Lenten discourses presented during Lent. Fr. O'Shea chose for his topic, "Prayer," and based his words on the theory of St. Charles, which claims that the most important means of salvation is Prayer.

Using the concrete example that God provides all of his creatures with a means of self-defense against their natural enemies, the seaker told us that man's most horrible enemy is sin. In order to fortify ourselves against this evil, God has provided us with an excellent force with which to repel the throes of temptation. This means is prayer.

But prayer in itself is not sufficient. It must be prayer which is

Continued on Page Four

Vice President Visits Trenton High Schools

Fr. Albers Addresses Class at Immaculate Conception and Cathedral High

Yesterday Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of Villanova College, and Mr. Paetrus Banmiller, registrar, visited Immaculate Conception and Cathedral high schools at Trenton, N. J. Fr. Albers addressed the students on Catholic college education.

Students at Villanova from Trenton who attended these schools are: From Cathedral High—Robert McGrory, senior C. & F.; James Dwyer, freshman, C. & F.; Thomas Delate, freshman Arts; Eugene Di Cavalcante, Science freshman; Joseph Feehan, sophomore C. & F.; Robert Immordino, Science senior, and Joseph Rossi, freshman C. & F. From Immaculate Conception High—Clement Modestini, freshman Science, and Paul Kichinko, sophomore Civil Engineer.

Open House Will Commence May 4, States Chairman

The second annual Open House, which was successfully inaugurated at Villanova College last year, will be held on Monday and Tuesday, May 4 and 5, from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 9 in the evening.

This announcement was disclosed by Gerald Kunz, chairman of the Open House committee, and a junior in the School of Technology.

Open House, which is held in conjunction with Junior Week, attracted hundreds of visitors to the campus last year, and proved very entertaining to those in attendance, as evidenced by their intense interest in the various demonstrations.

OFFER TRIP, $500 IN PRIZE CONTEST

Essay on General Subject Of "The Economic Value Of Advertising"

An all-expense trip to Boston, plus $500 in cash, is being offered undergraduate students in colleges and universities for essays on "The Economic Function of Advertising," in a contest being sponsored by Advertising Age, The National Newspaper of Advertising, 100 E. Ohio St., Chicago.

The contest is open to any undergraduate, without restriction, and requires no entry blank and no entry fee.

Essays are limited to 1500 words in length, and must be submitted to the Contest Secretary prior to May 15, 1936.

The writer of the best essay will be awarded $250 in cash, plus an all-expense trip to Boston, where he will be awarded his prize at the annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America, the large national association of advertising interests. This organization's convention wil be held June 28 to July 2.

The writer of the essay consider-

Continued on Page Four

DOHERTY ADDRESSES AIEE CONVENTION

Senior Engineer Delivers Paper at Moore School Of Technology

Joseph F. Doherty, senior in the School of Technology last Monday addressed the Twelfth Student Branch Convention of the AIEE held at the Moore School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Doherty's paper, entitled "The Development of the Coaxial Cable for Telephonic Transmission," was one of several presented by students of the several colleges represented.

Dr. Harold Pender and Dr. George W. McClelland, both of the University of Pennsylvania, delivered welcoming addresses to the student assembly.

Following a luncheon as guests of the University, the entire body of students made a visit to the Franklin Institute where the various phases of electrical engineering were discussed.

At the Engineers Club in Central Philadelphia the convention attended a dinner. This was followed by the regular Philadelphia section meeting of the local branches. Featured as this latter meeting

Continued on Page Three

COUNCILLORS CONVENE

The Student Council is scheduled to meet tonight at 5:30 P. M. in the amphitheatre of Mendel Hall. Roll call will be made.

BETA GAMMA GROUP WILL DEBATE OVER RADIO STATION WIP

Varsity Debaters Secure Time On Air for Four Successive Fridays; Start Friday

MEET TEMPLE TOMORROW

It was announced today that the Beta Gamma debaters have obtained radio time over station WIP, Philadelphia, for a series of intercollegiate debates, to be held on the beginning this Friday, March 20th, four successive Friday afternoons and continuing for four weeks thereafter.

The time of this schedule is at 4:00 P. M. and until 4:45 P. M. each afternoon. It will be arranged, if possible, to meet varius other colleges and universities on these dates, but at present there has been no schedule announced.

This Wednesday, March 18th, it is also planned to meet Temple University, over station WIP, at 10:00 P. M. for a forty-five minute period. The Villanova team will be composed of Victor Ashe, Anthony Differ and Joseph Carroll, who will defend the negative of the question upholding the Townsend Plan. Temple University will defend the 'Plan" against the Beta Gamma Attacks.

A special business meeting of the Beta Gamma chapter of the Villanova Literary Society will be held tomorrow, Wednesday, March 18th, at 1:00 P. M., in Room No. 214, Mendel Hall, at which time all business of the remainder of the season will be discussed.

In their debate on last Tuesday, March 10th, with Dayton Univer-

Continued on Page Four

CATHOLIC GROUP HOLDS CONFERENCE

Essay Contest Is Announced by Catholic Conference on Family Life

The Convention of the Catholic Conference on Family Life will be held at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Indiana, March 19 and 20. The second day of the convention will be set aside entirely for teachers of various courses relating to family life.

In addition to this convention, the Catholic Conference on Family Life will hold its second annual essay contest. Last year's contest aroused a great amount of enthusiasm among Catholic college and university students and proved singularly successful.

The following are the rules for the contest:

Any Catholic college student attending an eligible Catholic college or university may take part in the contest. An "eligible" college or

Continued on Page Four

ORATOR VISITS CAMPUS

Monsignor Gonne, of Manchester, England, Is Guest of Fr. Stanford

Very Rev. Msgr. Francis Gonne, of St. Bede's College, Manchester, England, who has been delivering a Lenten course in New York City, was a guest at Rosemont College on last Monday.

On Tuesday the Monsignor visited Villanova College and was shown about the grounds as the guest of the Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A.

The Monsignor expressed his admiration of the facilities and equipment of the college. He also commented favorably on the attitude and bearing of the students he observed in the laboratories and on the campus. Villanova's recent guest is an outstanding radio orator in England.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36.....Sports Editor
CHARLES STAHLECKER, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37.....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36.....Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Carmen Giordano, '36.....Exchange Editor
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall .....Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37
James H. Lyons, Jr., '36
Joseph Toland, '36
Anthony T. Meli, '37
Thomas Kennedy, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37
William Bowker, '38
Frank Bonetti, '39
James Tofani, '39
Daniel Smith, '39
Robert Howe, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39
Eugene Looram, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39
John L. Simons, '38
Edward L. Collins, '38
John W. Pilion, '38
Joseph Sanborn, '38
Pasquale Vassalluzzo, '37
Leonard Flinkman, '39
Leo Golden, '39
Paul Juergens, '37
Martin Kassell, '39
James Kutz, '39
John Dimon, '39
James Meller, '39
Richard Mulvihil, '39
Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39
Edward Kelly, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39
George Fanning, '37
John Mullin, '37
Walter L. Baially, '39
Norris Horn, '37
Anthony Differ, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Lingutti, '37 John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager

Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post-office, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - MARCH 17, 1936

POLITICS BLAMED FOR CRIME WAVE

IN a recent address before a New York audience, J. Edgar Hover, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, speaking of the unprecedented spread of crime throughout the entire country during the past few years said, "When a man commits a crime and starts upon his escape, the easiest avenue towards freedom is after he has been apprehended by a law-enforcement agency." And further, "The American should make it his business to combat crime and all of the filthy and stultifying influences which foster crime." In other words, the citizen's obligations to the country is not satisfied by the establishment of a police system—but his interest, in what is ultimately his own well-being, must extend into the courts to the final conviction and incarceration of the law breaker.

These charges are by no means new. The connection between rotten politics and crime is too tacitly understood by the majority of people for it come as as surprise. But, when the pronouncements of a man whose position and experience lend credulity to his words, are speeches of those stultifying influences of which, "the most important of all is rotten politics," it is time that the ordinary citizen take interest.

It is a well-known fact that many criminals have enjoyed a long life of crime before they are brought to the higher courts, and this in many cases is not due to the lack of vigilance on the part of the police. The fault lies in the lower courts, where a little bit of "pull" judiciously exercised can bring about a man's release for offenses that merit jail terms.

The public is failing to interest itself in this matter of "cleaning" the lower courts, is forced not only to bear the onus of the situation, and its unnecessary expense, but is also increasing the likelihood that he, himself, will be the next victim of the purse slim footpad.

A RAY OF HOPE

ENCOURAGING reports for increased industrial activity were reported in the monthly journal of the American Federation of Labor. However the Federation accused industry of laying the groundwork for another depression by pushing production ahead of purchasing power.

The organization predicted that high profits in the last half of 1935 would lead to expanded production and increased employment in the immediate future.

A pessimistic note was added to the finding in that the nation is experiencing the beginning of unbalance between production and purchasing power. When production outstrips buying power, sooner or later the increase in production must stop for want of a market. The immediate results of this are that men are laid off, profits decline and depression follows. It is important for labor to realize that the next depression begins here and now, while we are recovering from the last.

In the last half of 1935, profits of 120 large corporations increased 141 per cent. Increased earnings of industry made possible a substantial lifting of wages, but actually average wage rates were reduced by one per cent per hour between July and December, 1935; hours of work were lengthened so that the average work week was three hours longer in December than in July, and by this increase more that 1,000,000 jobs were denied to the unemployed.

Nevertheless despite the note of pessimism pervading this article a ray of light may be seen through the clouds which have hung over the country for the past five years. And increased activity in the industrial field may be looked for in the future.

STILL ANOTHER WAR MENACE

WHAT WITH THE Italian-Ethiopian crisis still in full sway and the situation on the Continent looking blacker each day the world is indeed busy keeping track of the train of events. But another war menace has crept into the foreground now, an old acquaintance to be sure, but nevertheless a threat to world peace.

Russian and Manchukuoan troops are once again baring their teeth in seething hatred toward one another. This condition is a potent reminder of the ever-existing danger of a Russo-Japanese war. True, this latest threat may be no more serious than others in the past but such clashes have a cumulative power about them that eventually leads to disastrous results. The recent statement made by Stalin that Russia will unequivocally back Mongolia against Japan must be accepted as a clear exposition of policy. Invasion of Russia's territory, on the other hand, would be an unquestionable cause for war.

We cannot but agree that Russia has been more reasonable than Japan in seeking to relieve an extremely tense situation. Authorities at Moscow have put forth the idea of a mixed commission to settle the dispute but to date Japan has given no sign of reciprocal action. Despite the fact that the attack made by the military powers of Japan on the civil powers has to all appearances failed for the moment, the army still remains the strongest force in the State.

Moreover, even civilian sentiment tends toward the side of aggression in Japan. Nor are present conditions in Europe calculated to induce a pacific mood at Tokio.

WHAT PRICE INVESTIGATION?

IN RECENT YEARS the legislative investigation committee has become an important and vital institution in American life. Such inquiry bared the Teapot Dome scandal. Similar investigations have uncovered other harmful and dangerous practices and made possible constructive legislation.

But such committees have also become political instruments—agencies for personal advancement on the part of the chief inquisitors. More than one national reputation has been "made" in recent years through just such probes.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

THE FOLLOWING ditty was written by Leo Schoppmeyer, '37, in honor of our intercollegiate champion, Tony Sala.

"You're the top — you're a Sala knock-out
You're the top — you're a Temple walk-out
You're his easy sway, his fighting way, his hunch
He's only in college, not bad at knowledge—
But how he can punch.
He's the king, in a touch division,
He's the sting of a deep incision
I may be wrong, but I'll string along with the Wop,
For if baby, I'm the bottom, he's the Top."

• • •

Four pledges from Columbia were sent to Barnard College and told to propose to the first girls they saw. Two of the girls accepted.

• • •

Gardenias to the University of Minnesota student who failed in a course on "How to Study," yet made a "B" average for two semesters.

• • •

Here is one for the "Oh; John, don't—"
When Noah sailed the water blue,
He had his troubles same as you;
For forty days he drove the ark
Before he found a place to park.

• • •

The Catholic University tells of a student who speaks regretfully of the Budapest cafes. Beer is served in a glass shaped something like an old-fashioned lamp chimney. When you have drunk one of them empty, you blow in it and it whistles a deep sorrowful note. Then the waiter comes and fills your glass again.

• • •

Harvard's "Crimson" printed this story in its original form, with the proviso that all true Harvard men reverse the situations. A Yale man, this version has it, rushed in to consult President Angell.

"I'm in trouble," he confessed.

"Why bother me?" asked the president.

"It's a matter of life and death."

"What's that to me?"

Then the Yale man had to blurt out his confession.

"Mr. President, I just ran over a Harvard man and killed him."

"Well, well," (the story has Yale's president beaming all over), "why didn't you say so? Go right over to the bursar's office and collect your bounty."

• • •

ODDITIES: At Marquette, students living in fraternity houses have their names, characteristics and peculiarities listed with the police....There are just 5,844 square squares of glass in the east and west dining halls at Notre Dame.

• • •

Probably the most unique scholarship in America is one offered by Hamilton College. It is worth $500 and is open to all men in America by the name of Hamilton.

• • •

The ideal University of Utah man wears striped clothes and loud socks, co-eds voted. Then they picked a conservative dresser as "most popular man."

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

CONGRATULATIONS to Tony Sala upon his successful defense of his intercollegiate lightheavyweight boxing crown. Should Tony win again next year he will enter the intercollegiate Hall of Fame for very few fighters have held a title for three years.

• • •

Famous stars of the screen, stage, and radio out of character are not at all as you think they are. For instance:

Groucho Marx has been know to sit sphinx-like for hours while Harpo kept up an incessant stream of talk.

Lawrence Tibbet can most always be found humming Harlemanian jazz when offstage.

Once without his fire hat and goggles Ed Wynn looks as if he were on his way to the classroom to discourse on the Piscatorial life in Tibet.

And when not up to her comic antics, Mary Boland is known as one of the most sedate and reserved residents of either Broadway or Hollywood.

Dorothy Parker, who quips of tonight are tomorrow's broadsides, is the exemplar of politeness.

Beatrice Lillie, when not engaged in genteel ribaldries onstage, is every inch a Lady Peel.

Out of bounds of an audience, Fanny Brice refuses to utter a syllable in dialect.

• • •

Ted Scales of London Scales, who weights nothing more than the evidence for and against boxers for the daily press in his native city, is here in the good old U. S. on a sabbatical holiday, but like the busman, Ted can't keep his hand out even while vacationing.

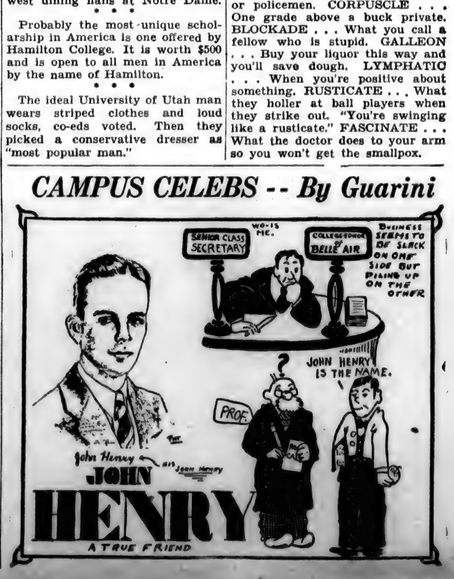
The other night he went to see the Golden Gloves tournament in Gotham and sat next to a typical New York fight fan, a talkative chap, quite eager to explain everything to a stranger in a strange land. So when the writer commented:

"I say, this Birk looks a bit of all right, doesn't he though?" The New Yorker's brow became furrowed with more wrinkles than the saddest looking prune. "Who'd you say?" he inquired plainly puzzled. "Birk," replied Ted "B-U-R-K-E—Birk!" "Oh," said the New Yorker, his frown dissolving into a smile of tolerant amusement. "You mean BOIKE!"

• • •

Lexicon of a Fight Manager: DECIMATE . . . To make a guess, as, "He decimated the crowd at 5,000." EMOLUMENT . . . A large statue made out of carved stone. LETHARGY . . . A disease you get in the Hawaiian islands. PANTALOON . . . A group of soldiers or policemen. CORPUSCLE . . . One grade above a buck private. BLOCKADE . . . What you call a fellow who is stupid. GALLEON . . . Buy your liquor this way and you'll save dough. LYMPHATIC . . . When you're positive about something. RUSTICATE . . . What they holler at ball players when they strike out. "You're swinging like a rusticate." FASCINATE . . . What the doctor does to your arm so you won't get the smallpox.

CAMPUS CELEBS -- By Guarini



As We See It - - - Reflections

By HARRY PARKIN

THE thought of the vast number of books that we have yet not read, and the little time we may devote to them, causes us to lament upon the brevity of life.

• • •

Early the other morning we stood for a few minutes and looked at the moon, like a jewel it nestled in the diaphanous folds of the serried banks of clouds—now and then the gossamer of some passing vapours threw a delicate film across its features as though the heavens were reluctant at this prodigality of beauty. Alone—aloof—serene — the night's most beautiful gift to the harrassed spirit of man. 'Twas then we realized how few things appeal to what is deepest and most abiding in man—his eternal search for beauty. How well He knows the hearts of men, Who placed it there.

• • •

Life without love! What does wisdom and skill avail us; amiability, wit, good will, companions—are all useless to us if we have not that spark of divinity called love.

• • •

Poets have sung in sonorous and majestic numbers of the truth and beauty that abides in nature, but the true poem has never been transcribed. The soul writhes at its impotency in the description of its real feelings. Words are but the stereotyped reproduction of what the eye and mind immediately apprehends. The true sentiments flee before the confines of exposition.

• • •

Solitude is our last refuge from the trifling travails of the day. The solitude that just precedes sleep—the one inviolable asylum wherein our fancies roam unchained, till languor overcomes our limbs and we can think no more.

Though his works redound with the contemplation and wisdom that is the pride of every age, we must be shown his life before we'll grant that he's a philosopher. How well does his life reflect the dictates of his thoughts. To live a life of simplicity, trustfulness, and love is the only criterion of a philosopher, and not the subtlety of his reasoning.

• • •

Can we stimulate but one person to contemplation upon the things we urge, and our efforts will not have been fruitless—the same as the person who saves but one soul, even though it be his own, has not lived in vain.

• • •

Someone has said to read good books, and to read them well—that is with the proper understanding and appreciation—requires a more rigorous course of training than is undergone by athletes. And as the athlete excells only in proportion to the determination that characterizes the direction of his efforts, so too does this apply to the former case.

• • •

If we have learned to read only in order to devour the vitiated "truck" that is daily streaming from the presses, we have debased one of the noblest faculties that man enjoys—it were as though a man, who had learned to sleep, should spend the rest of his life in unconsciousness. Good books are the everlasting heritage of men. To spurn them is to deny the mind the most salutary tonic to which it can be exposed.

• • •

Our greatest delight is to watch the crimson brilliance that is sunset. Could a man transcribe this almost indescribable beauty onto canvass, his fame would last through the ages though he never do another thing. And yet this is but one part of the harmony and perfection that is nature.

• • •

You say, that women were made to weep—but then again men must listen to them, and of the two we think the latter is far more unpleasant.

Pass In Review

By RICHARD L. G. DEVERALL

A SEARCHING ANALYSIS of the present economic crisis is to be found in Msgr. John A. Ryan's A BETTER ECONOMIC ORDER, now to be found in the Villanova College Library.

Father Ryan discusses what some people term "normalcy" and finds that such a theory of economic being is an abstraction not worthy of further consideration. He states that the theories of depressions outlined by classical economists are superficial. According to Father Ryan, too much of the national income was converted into production. The masses, possessing little or no buying power, could not purchase the goods being produced and a period of industrial and financial stagnation was inevitable.

Father Ryan castigates those who preach the doctrine of natural recovery and governmental non-interference, for, says Father Ryan, to speak of "natural" and of "economics" in the same breath is to confuse terms. The economic system is an unnatural thing created by men, and as such its needs guidance and help. As for government keeping out of business, it is noted that the Hoover Administration refrained from interfering for one entire year—and the depression went from a panic to a national catastrophe!

To effect permanent recovery, if indeed we are ever to have recovery, it is recommended that purchasing power be more widely distributed. The thirty-hour week is recommended, but it is not that it is to be considered only as an emergency measure. Another important idea advanced is that government bonds should be non-interest bearinging. Government loans, per se, are non-productive, and according to Catholic economists interest on such bonds is usury.

Before discussing methods of recovery, Father Ryan discusses certain other methods being used in foreign countries, i. e., Fascism, Socialism and Communism. He rejects all three on the ground that they tend to limit the liberty of the people. Although his thesis may be a correct one, he does not adduce sufficient evidence to support his view. Capitalism limits liberty in just such wise as does Communism. The real fault with Communism is that it is philosophically unsound, for it subjects the individual to the all-powerful State—an old Hegelian doctrine now revived by the atheistic Muscovites.

Father Ryan comments that "in order to be just, an economic system must rest upon and be permeated by certain definite ethical principles." The first of these principles is that all human beings have an equal right to the fruits of the bounty of nature. Second, men "are obliged to use the goods and opportunities of the earth in accordance with the laws of justice and charity." That third principle is that stated by Aristotle and reiterated by St. Thomas Aquinas: "It is evident. . .that it is better to have property private, but make use of it common." This last principle is not Communism, but the Christian conception of the rights and duties of property holding, a muchly forgotten doctrine in this day and age.

The day of the Captain of Industry has passed. In the future industrial democracy, labor is to share in management, profits and management. If we do not accept this formula, it is perhaps because our economics is more Protestant than Catholic. As Father Ryan states, ". . .the industrial system proposed by the Pope would occupy a middle ground between capitalism and Communism, between individualism and Socialism." Capitalism can be as wrong and as immoral as is Communism. Both are extremes of the same economic heresy. As in most things, the true system is the gold mean between the two.

Father Ryan visualizes the New Deal as embodying the ethical principles necessary for the emergence of a new, Christian, industrial democracy. The writer of this review cannot be certain on this point, but it seems to him that the present administration is tending more to Fascism than to industrial democracy. Indeed, the concentration in the hands of governmental bureaucrats of ownership and operation of certain industries, a point approved of by Father Ryan, smacks to me more of socialism than Christian industrial democracy. It is a strange thing how a man can denounce Socialism in one part of a book and approve it when it assumes another form!

The book is recommended to all Villanova men, for it is intensely stimulating. Pertinently, it might be remarked that it has attracted wide attenion in non-Catholic circles.

L. K. D. FRATERNITY PLANS APRIL DANCE

Saturday 25th Date Set By Pre-Meds for Spring Social

Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity started preparations on its coming dance to be held Saturday, April 25, by appointing a committee at the weekly meeting held last Thursday in Mendel Hall.

A committee under the chairmanship of William Christman will start more detailed plans for the dance sometime in the near future. This committee is composed of representatives from each class and includes McLoughlin, Immordino, Fitzgerald, Tretta, Krupa, Tanzola, Uram, Goggi, Keffer, Caillet and Kutz. The group will have full duty of organizing the affair.

A second committee appointed to complete the purchasing of the senior keys and determine the acquiring of fraternity pins. This elected body is composed of Shaffer, Christman, Zanni, McEvilly, Vazzalluzzo, Centrella and Urie.

The idea of chancing off the full necessities for the Junior Prom or its equivalent in cash an amount of $20, was accepted by the authorities and will go into effect sometime during this week. The lucky number drawing will take place on the afternoon of Friday, April 24, a date which precedes the prom by several weeks.

Doherty Addresses AIEE Convention

Continued From Page One

were addresses by Charles F. Scott, of the faculty of Yale University, and L. W. W. Morrow, editor of "Electrical World."

The colleges and universities represented at the convention were Delaware, Drevel, Havrford, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, Lehigh, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Swarthmore, and Villanova.

The Villanovan Seven Years Ago

St. Patrick's Dance by Pre-Meds

WITH THE GYM decorated in the appropriate green and white in honor of Patrick, Patron Saint of the Emerald Isle, Lambda Kappa Delta held its annual spring dance last Saturday evening. Many of the school celebrities and pre-medical faculty were present.

Villanova College banners along with fraternity banners emblazoned the walls, lending to the gym an atmosphere that had never heretofore been given to it. Needless to say that this was the first dance that has been held in the gymn since last year's tragedy, because of the necessity of using the main floor for laboratories, and it is hoped that it will be used once more in the future. Great credit should be given to the committee and the number of co-workers in the fraternity who have labored to make the dance a success, not only socially but financially.

The performance of the orchestra, the "Villanovans," was of the best variety, mixing dream waltzes with fast fox trots and rendering their own editions of various popular songs. Aside from the ordinary form of dancing the fraternity had many entertainers for the intermissions. This is an invitation, and it is hoped by all that this will continue at all of the dances, as it seems to lend more of a cosmopolitan air to the dances, and it affords enjoyment to hose who do not dance but only go for the purpose of chaperoning or merely to hear the music.

Edward Britt, chairman of the Senior Ball was the chairman of the committee, and due to his experience carried out the affair and not only did himself credit but also the fraternity of which he is a member.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

JOKES are the least important requisites in a radio comedian's repertoire, according to Ed Wynn.

"Of course," says Wynn, "a new and original joke is always searched for. But we don't have to worry about cracking new ones if we can make the old ones sound new."

Good taste, personality, public favor and talent are all more vital to a funny man's success than gags, Ed feels. In other words, he believes it's not what a comedian says that matters, but how he says it.

Jack Benny, on the other hand, represents the school of funsters who value humorous material highly. He pays Harry Conn $1250 a week for writing his scripts. Most of the other laugh provokers on the air devote a good deal of their spare time to gag hunting.

Due to the elevator strike in New York City these past few days, Ray Noble would do swell as a Swiss mountain climber. Sunday, when the strike started, Ray was caught unawares in his apartment on the 31st floor. As you evidently know by now, he did not enjoy his day of rest for his Sunday was spent on the stairs between his apartment and the street.

Connie Boswell who had bought tickets for the hockey matches Sunday had to be carried down 12 flights and carried up 12 flights by her husband, Harry Leedy.

• • •

Starlines

ALEXANDER GRAY, baritone star of the new Chrysler Airshow on CBS. Was born, raised and schooled in ePnnsylvania. Sold magazines to get through grade school. Changed his wares to pots and pans to get through college. Divided time between the Penn State Glee Club and athletics. Carried his wrestling prowess to the stoke-hole of a merchantman. Returned from Europe to become a trade magazine editor and ad manager. Finding business dull, decided to skip it for voice culture. Won a contest sponsored by the National Federated Music Clubs. Went to the New York music marts with a voice for sale. After camping on the Ziegfeld threshold for weeks, got his break. Was given a spot in the "Frolics" on the Amsterdam Roof. The "Follies" next claimed him as leading man. With Marilyn Miller, was a sensation in "Sally." Was next the never-to-be-forgotten "Shadow" in "Desert Song." Off to Hollywood, played the "Song of the Flame" and other hits. Then back to New York to star on the radio for Columbia. Has recently won new laurels in concert work through the East. Leaves the city for rustic Long Island whenever he can. Says it gives him more opportunity to mix music with athletics. Likes to row, swim and ride. Enjoys a good book. THUMBNAIL CHROMO: 5 feet 11 inches, 165 pounds, blue eyes and brown wavy hair. PROGRAM TIME: Thursdays from 8 to 8:30 P. M., EST, via CBS. SPONSOR: Chrysler Sales Division of Chrysler Sales Corporation.

• • •

The stage doorman, Mrs. Lane and, finally, the police department in Cleveland were called into action to discourage a persistent Mr. Lane who claimed the right to adopt Priscilla and Rosemary, of Waring's Pennsylvanians. Mr. Lane bore a slightly faded snapshot of two blond youngsters and was convinced he had discovered his long-lost daughters. Since only legal matters would thwart him, it was explained that the Lane sisters' real name is Mullican and that they are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mullican, of Indianola, Iowa.

• • •

Andre Kostelanetz has turned academician with a study class. The class has a motto, "Hear Yourself as Others Hear You," which is what it does. Every Chesterfield program is recorded as it goes over the air. The recording of the last program is then played back for the assembled orchestra and chorus at rehearsal. Discussions are conducted while each member of the organization gets a perspective on himself.

Globe Trotting

By FRED WATERS

IRELAND

(From an interview with Dr. Jeremiah O'Sullivan, of Blackrock College, Queens University, native of Ireland, and at present professor of history at Villanova.)

No Paid Coaches!

"In Ireland 'hurling' is our national sport. Hurling is very much like your hockey, except that a small ball is used instead of a puck. This sport is legendary in the history of Ireland, dating back to 300 A. D.

"In these and all other sports there are no paid coaches. In Irish schools sports exist for sport's sake alone, and are not commercialized entertainment.

• • •

Irish Dancing

"The Irish enjoy dancing very much. But unfortunately such recreation, although not prohibited, is nevertheless frowned upon, all of which has resulted in a very fascinating custom. Several times a year the younger, and even the older generation set out into the country. Here they dance and play on the cross-roads to their heart's content among the rural surroundings.

• • •

Irishmen

"The Irish are a very peace-loving and friendly people. The impression that Irishmen are always looking for a good fight is due to some of our immigrants in this country. But such people are usually drawn from the backward class in Ireland, and hence are not true representatives of our race. A country can never be judged fairly by its immigrants.

• • •

Linguist

"Most Irishmen speak English. They acquire their accent due to their early training. Before going to school, where they are taught English, Irish children are instructed in their native tongue. Later after learning English, their original accent is retained. Many are bi-linguists; that is, speak both Irish and English."

"Are you a bi-linguist?"

"No. Such a person knows two languages. I am conversant with Irish, German, French, Latin and English, with smatterings of Spanish and Italian.

• • •

In Ireland

"When someone dies in a village, everyone takes a three-day holiday, and many celebrations are held in his memory.

• • •

"Gardens are the pride and joy of all Irishmen. Every home has a garden.

Continued on Page Eight

Weekly Calendar

TODAY

VILLANOVAN Meeting, 119 Mendel Hall .....1:00 P. M.
Belle Air Staff Meeting, 51 Mendel Hall .....1:00 P. M.
Foreign Relations, 213 Mendel Hall .....1:15 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall .....2:30 P. M.
Student Council, 215 Mendel Hall .....5:30 P. M.
Freshman Debating, 204 Mendel Hall .....7:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY

Junior Class Meeting, 212 Mendel Hall .....1:00 P. M.
Beta Gamma, 215 Mendel Hall .....2:30 P. M.

THURSDAY

Lambda Kappa Delta Meeting, 210 Mendel Hall .....1:00 P. M.
Glee Club Rehearsal .....7:00 P. M.

MONDAY

Phi Kappa Pi Meeting, Mendel Hall .....11:35 A. M.

LOCAL STUDENTS ATTEND PARLEY

Continued From Page One

continuing, "The Catholic Association for International Peace is not a strictly propaganda organization. It is a research group studying the matter from every angle and striving to work out the best solution for the various problems. It then seeks to educate its fellow co-religionists."

Mr. Maloney stressed that the really worth while non-Catholic organizations endeavor to cooperate with the Catholic association. He stated, "Take for example the attitude of some of these organizations toward the Regional Peace Conference held at Villanova College in May, 1935. On the occasion, the various peace organizations having offices in Philadelphia were very active in encouraging the conference. They were most anxious that a permanent organization of a Catholic association be formed in Philadelphia."

He concluded his speech by adding, "The National Conference of Jews and Christians, and the National Conference of Church-Related Colleges are existing organizations that have worked out a worth while plan of cooperation in their respective fields. Why would not some similar arrangement work in the interests of international peace?"

In addition to Villanova, other colleges represented included Trinity, Georgetown University, College of Notre Dame of Maryland, Immaculata Seminary, Catholic University of America, Mt. St. Joseph's Mt. St. Mary's, Holy Cross, Georgetown Visitation Convent, Rosemont College and College of St. Elizabeth. Conference included Miss Phyllis Finbeth.

Other local delegates at the conference included Miss Phyllis Finnegan, of Rosemont College, and Miss Josephine Rucker, of Mt. St. Joseph's College.

Catholic Group Holds Conference

Continued From Page One

university is one in which at least three students participate.

The essays must not be less than 1000 nor more than 2000 words in length.

Topics may be chosen from the fields of sociology of the family, Christian marriage, parent education and home economics. In fact, the only restriction, insofar as subject matter in concerned, is that it relate definitely to the home or to family life. Stories will be accepted as well as essays, provided only that they have a family plot.

The person locally in charge of the contest shall, with the cooperation of two other individuals, select the best essay and send it to the national headquarters of the Catholic Conference on Family Life, 1312 Massachusetts Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.

All essays to be submitted for final judgment must be on hand at national headquarters no later than May 1.

The essays meriting the major prizes will appear in The Catholic Family Monthly, official organ of the Catholic Conference on Family Life.

The following prizes will be awarded: First prize, $25; second prize, $10; third and fourth prizes, single volumes on the family. Ten subscriptions to The Catholic Family Monthly will also be awarded.

Offer Trip, $500 In Prize Contest

Continued From Page One

ed second best will receive $100 in cash, the third best $50, and the next ten, $10 each.

A distinguished group of 15 advertising and publishing executives, including Edgar Kobak, National Broadcasting Company; Chester H. Lang, General Electric Company; Ken R. Dyke, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company; Frank Braucher, Crowell Publishing Company; Major James G. Stahlman, "Nashville Banner," and P. L. Thomson, Western Electric Company, will judge the Essays submitted.

Complete details of the competition may be secured from the Contest Secretary, 100 E. Ohio St., Chicago, or by applying at the Villanovan Office.

Engineers Address Students in Phila.

Continued From Page One

who was graduated from Villanova with the class of 1923, was the first to address the group.

His discussion concerned the mechanical features of the plant. Mr. Walker was followed by D. F. Schick, who expxlained the function of welding in the plant and how stresses set up in the electric welds were relieved.

The concluding speaker was W. B. Morton, electric project engineer, who explained some of the more important of the many electrical features of the plant. The student members of the AIEE Chapter were particularly interested in this lecture.

Previous to these discussions, the combined group visited the Evening Public Ledger plant in central Philadelphia where they had the priviledge of inspecting the various mechanisms while in operation

Prof Morehouse and the two student chapters wish to express their gratitude to Mr. Walker through whom the addresses were arranged, to the gentlemen who gave the discussions, and to the Philadelphia Electric Company.

Catholic Society Announces Contest

Continued From Page One

double spaced, on one side of paper.

6. Sources shall be reliably documented.

7. The essay shall be unsigned, but clipped with it shall be the name of the writer and name of the essay in an envelope.

8. The judges shall be a committee selected by the American Catholic Historical Society.

9. The American Catholic Historical Society reserves the right to publish in the Records of the Society, in whole or in part, without further obligation, any essay presented in this contest.

10. First Prize, $100.00; second prize, $50.00; third and fourth prizes, $25.00 each.

Lenten Sermon to Be Given Tonight

Continued From Page One

sincere and comes from the bottom of the heart. Prayer which only takes the form of words is not half so valuable as the prayer which has behind it real supplication or thanksgiving.

In conclusion, Fr. O'Shea presented as proof of the power and value of prayer many excerpts from sacred scriptures and finally the prayer of Marshal Foch, the French hero of the World War.

Beta Gamma Will Debate Tomorrow

Continued From Page One

sity, the Beta Gamma debaters, upholding the affirmative of the Supreme Court question, were declared by the judges of the evening to have emerged on a par with the visitors, the debate being declared a tie.

Anthony Differ and Joseph Carroll, of the School of Arts, defended Villanova on the question; resolved: "that the Congress should be permitted to override, by a two-thirds majority vote, any decision of the Supreme Court, declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional.

Final Date For Belle Air Pictures Announced As Wed. March 18

Photograph	Place	Time
Junior Week Chairman	Reception Room*	12:45 P. M.
Blazer Ball Chairman	Reception Room	12:55 P. M.
Junior Prom Chairman	Reception Room	1:15 P. M.
Junior Prom Committee	Reception Room	1:15 P. M.
International Relations Society	Reception Room	1:15 P. M.
Catholic Press Apostolate	Reception Room	1:30 P. M.
Varsity Club	Gymnasium	4:00 P. M.

*Mendel Hall

FINAL SCHEDULE OUT

Belle Air Photography Editor Announces Last Date for Pictures

Wednesday, March 18, 1936, has been set aside as the final date for the taking of group pictures for the 1936 Belle Air. The Photography Editor wishes to announce that any group failing to put in appearance at the scheduled time will out of necessity be excluded from the book.

The Belle Air Staff as a whole wishes to take this opportunity to thank the student body for the splendid spirit of cooperation shown in the taking of group pictures thus far, and looks for a continuance of this spirit.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

For twenty-five years the research staff of The American Tobacco Company has worked steadily to produce a measurably finer cigarette—namely, a cigarette having a minimum of volatile components, with an improved richness of taste—"A LIGHT SMOKE."

We believe that Lucky Strike Cigarettes embody a number of genuinely basic improvements, and that all these improvements combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Excess of Acidity of Other Popular Brands Over Lucky Strike Cigarettes

Copyright, 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Sports Editor A. R. C.

EDITOR'S NOTE:—The column this week is being handled by NORTON C. PADEN, Associate sports editor.

WITH the advent of longer days and balmy weather, a young man's fancy turns to spring sports, in this case. Devotees of baseball are seen braving the soft ground to get their arms and batting eye in condition for the annual intra-mural baseball season. Embryo track and field stars are donning their spikes and taking to the cinder paths.

—V—

In this column last week, we spoke of Frank Skaff and Ben Geraghty who are at present at the Brooklyn Dodger's training camp. During the week, the Dodgers played the Phillies and their win was chiefly due to the playing of Ben Geraghty, who had two hits and two runs out of two times at bat. The eye is still there and most of his big league training took place right here on our own campus.

—V—

Golfers and tennis fans had better start limbering up and wiping the dust from their respective weapons as their season will start as soon as ground conditions will permit its occurence. A few letters to the weatherman might help to hasten it.

—V—

Spring practice for the basketball team has been inaugurated and the basketeers practice three nights a week under the watchful eye of coach Doc Jacobs. It is mainly to co-ordinate the regular varsity players with the new men coming up from the Frosh team. Another repetition of last season's results will not occur if Doc has anything to say about it. From the looks of the material coming up Villanova's '37 quintet will be par excellence.

—V—

The wearers of the moleksin are also tightening up their muscles in preparation for the rigorous training period before them. A few weeks of real workouts in the spring usually shows the difference between a well-organized grid squad and a "bunch of palookas" in the fall.

—V—

Recognition again comes to Villanova in the shape of Tony Sala. When other crowns were tottering at the Intercollegiate matches held at Penn State over the week-end, Tony managed to fasten his on all the tighter. Penn State took the meet by garnering 24 points. Their deciding victory came in the heavyweight division when Richter won the crown. Villanova received fourth place with Sala's lone tally of five points.

—V—

A little story reached the ears of your columnist that has a very decided humorous touch and also one of pathos. None other than Charlie Cox, football mentor and star extraordinary is going to coach the Kitten baseball team. The combination of the Texan's ignorance of the fine points of the game and the greeness of the Freshmen should provide no end of amusement for the campus for weeks to come.

—V—

New track equipment has been ordered and should be in any day now so there will be plenty for everyone who has the inclination and the talent to participate in this field of athletics. To date a few meets have been definitely settled and more are under consideration on a tentative schedule.

—V—

It was found that in response to a questionaire submitted to the members of the inter-collegiate coaches association that diving has no place in inter-collegiate swimming meets and should be eliminated. This idea was submitted to the press by Bob Miller, Bowdoin mentor and his arguments were that: It was uninteresting to the spectators, it was not a swimming event and it deprived swimmers

Continued on Page Seven

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, March 17, 1936 Page Five

SALA RETAINS CHAMPIONSHIP

OSTEOPATHY SINKS WILDCAT NATATORS

Meet Tied at 33 All; Victory Awarded to Osteopathy on Relay Win

On Wednesday afternoon, in the closest meet of the current season, the Villanova swimming team was defeated by the College of Osteopathy, in the West Branch Y. M. C. A. by the margin of six inches.

According to intercollegiate swimming rules, if the point score of two teams engaged in a dual meet is tied, victory is awarded to the team which has won the relay race.

When the score was tabulated after the final event, it was found that each team had gained 33 points. However, since the Osteopathy relay team had beaten the Villanova four by the margin of six inches, the victor's wreath was borne away by the College of Osteopathy swimmers.

'Cats Take Three Firsts

Out of the seven events, Villanova had to be content with only three first places. Wilmer Booth in the backstroke, Toby Greco in the breaststroke and Bill Leahy in the 100-yard freestyle.

The only double winner of the day was Si Lubin in the 40- and 220-yard freestyle. The other Osteopathy winner was Ruggerio Flocco in the fancy diving.

In the 160- yard relay, Flocco drew away from Booth on the turn and gave his second man a lead over Jimmy Cousart who, fighting all the way, left to our third man, Joe Duffy, only a slight deficit to make up. Coming down his last lap it seemed as though Joe would overtake Hylander, Osteopathy's man, but he wavered a little in the closing yards and, when Bill Leahy hit the water, Lubin had a two-yard lead. Lubin held this lead until after the turn and staved off the driving finish of Leahy, beating him to the finish by half a foot.

Flocco Outclasses Field

Having won the event, which afterward proved to be the margin of victory, Osteopathy went on to win the diving in the person of their Middle Atlantic champion, Ruggerio Flocco. His teammate,

Continued on Page Six

GOLF AND TENNIS IN NEAR FUTURE

Weather Permitting, Spring Tournaments Will Start Shortly

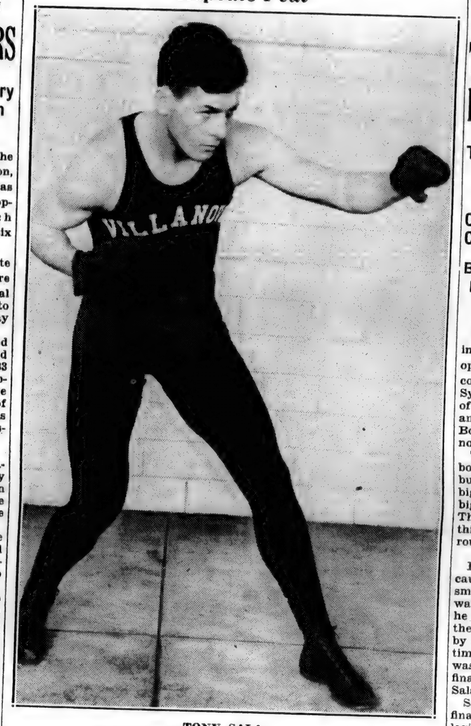
With the advent of spring and its balmy weather, the tennis and golf enthusiasts are taking their weapons out of the moth balls and preparing for the coming racquet and par-chasing tournaments.

According to the intra-mural committee, the beginning of the net competition awaits the drying rays of the sun and the fixing up of the courts by the ground crew. Those seeking the honor of making a hole-in-one will have an opportunity to do so late in the month, it is hoped.

As soon as the courts are in shape, the net fans will take the kinks out of their arms and prepare for the fray. This tourney will give Ben Maloney a chance to revenge his defeat by Jim Dwyer, who conquered him in the fall tournament. Dwyer won in straight sets, 9-7, 6-3, after an exhausting battle, which will, no doubt, be carried into the spring competition.

Among the stars of the fall frays

Continued on Page Six



Repeats Feat

TONY SALA

Varsity Football Team Commences Spring Practice on Mendel Field

The varsity football squad started regular spring practice yesterday. New candidates for the team had been working out daily in the gymnasium for the past month under Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher and Coach Bob Reagan, who have been teaching the newcomers the fundamentals of the famous Rockne system and acquainting them with the general outline of the work to be done is spring practice. Members of last year's team joined the squad yesterday.

Among the veterans, who are back, are Captain Tony Sala, who just successfully retained his intercollegiate light-heavyweight boxing title; George Fox, Bunny Galazin, Jordan Olivar, John Mellus, Bill Rogers, Joe Missar, Val Rizzo, Johnnie McKenna, Mike Garbark, Bob Egan and Pat Marquette on the line. In the backfield, Dick Emmerling, Bill Christopher, Andy Stopper, Ray Stoviac, Frank Nye, Jerry Sherlock, Art Raimo, Jack Earle and Jim O'Neill are among those who saw action last year.

There are about 25 new candidates for the team most of whom were members of last year's freshman team, in place of the six players lost through graduation. The biggest gaps to be filled will be at guard and quarterback, left vacant by the graduation of Eddie Michaels, Milan Vidnovic and Johnny Higgins.

At present, Val Rizzo, a tackle last year, has been switched to guard to fill one of the vacancies. Joe Missar, who saw much action last season, will probably fill the other guard position, Bill Christopher, who was out part of last year because of injuries, is the leading candidate for the quarterback position. Stuhldreher has made no other changes besides Rizzo, but will probably try many combinations to find a well-balanced team.

Several of last season's veterans, among them Andy Stopper, Ray Stoviac, Bunny Galazin and Mike Garbark will not participate spring practice since they are trying out for positions on the baseball team.

Spring training this year is at least a week later in starting than in previous years because of the weather. However, the players, both the veterans and the newcomers, are a willing bunch of boys and Coach Stuhldreher is looking forward to a successful spring practice in preparation for the 10-game schedule next fall.

Some practice games with other colleges and universities have been planned for the spring, although nothing has been definitely settled. These games will probably take place in the latter part of April.

DOC JACOBS, IRONMAN

Doc Jacobs is a very busy man nowadays as he is holding down a two-man job. In the afternoon he coaches the Villanova diamond luminaries, and three nights a week he confines his activities to coaching the basketball team. The team is going through their paces in the first stages of spring practice.

This is a commendable feat and recognition will not be long forthcoming.

WILDCAT DEFENDS TITLE SUCCESSFULLY IN STATE TOURNEY

Tony Sala Defeats D'Luski, Ortenzi and Smith; Gives Villanova Fourth Place

CHAMPION APPOINTED TO CAPTAINCY FOR NEXT YEAR

Bronze Statue Donated By Dr. D'Eliscu to Be Presented To Sala by Gadsby

Tony Sala, defending champion in the 175 division, met as his first opponent in the 1936 Eastern Intercollegiate bouts, Bob D'Luski, of Syracuse. D'Luski, with a height of 6 feet 4 inches had both a height and reach advantage over Sala. Both of these advantages proved no hindrance to the Villanova boy.

The opening round was a corker, both boys started to slug furiously, but Sala's finesse proved to be his biggest weapon in cutting down the big awkward boy from Syracuse. The second round started fast, but this belonged to Sala, who won this round by the proverbial mile.

Right Staggers Sala

In the final stanza, D'Luski caught Sala unawares with a smashing right hand punch; Sala was woozy for a few seconds, but he went on to win the round, and the bout. Sala won all three rounds by a comfortable margin. The only time that D'Luski showed anything was in the first few seconds of the final round. This win advanced Sala to the semi-final round.

Saturday afternoon the semi-final bouts of the Eastern Intercollegiate Association were fought, in

Continued on Page Seven

BASKETEERS BEGIN SPRING TRAINING

Veterans Practice With New Men to Coordinate Both Groups

As an aftermath of the disastrous season recently completed, Coach "Doc" Jacobs is inaugurating spring basketball practice. This move is new to the annals of the court sport at Villanova.

Practice will be held three times weekly for approximately five weeks, in an attempt to synchronize the veterans of the past campaign with the members of this year's brilliant frosh aggregration. All positions are open to competition, and no player is certain of his post. Coach Jacobs expects to get a line on the new men as well as to rub off the rough spots for next year. It is felt that this training will furnish the extra practice which the squad is unable to get in the autumn, due to the necessity of Coach Jacobs' presence on the gridiron.

Frosh Show Class

Members remaining from the 1935-36 edition of the Wildcat court machine are Don Brennan, lanky center; his understudy, Pat Marquette; "Battling Chas." Noonan, elongated forward; Abe Collins, Walt McKenna, and Harry McNally, stellar guards, completes the roster of veterans.

With Noonan at one forward post the graduates from the Kitten squad will have to tussle for the

Continued on Page Seven

Day-Hops Trim Austinites In First Game of Playoff

Commuters Triumph in One-Sided Victory To Clinch First Leg of a Two-Game Play-Off

O'CONNOR HIGH SCORER OF LEAGUE

Austin Hall tasted the bitter dregs of defeat at the hands of the Mendel Day Hops last Wednesday night, in the first game of the playoff for the intra-mural basketball crown, by the lop-sided score of 42 to 11 in the new gymnasium.

Although disappointed by the one-sided score, Jack Robinson, Austins' coach, stated, "I can take no credit away from the Day Hops. They were phenomenal."

The accurate passing and shooting attack of the Day Hops was the outstanding feature of the game. They opened the contest fast and furiously and soon had a comfortable lead.

Remarkable shots by Dan O'Connor, high-scorer of the league as well as of this game, increased the Day Hops' margin until at half-time they led by 19 points.

Throughout the game Austin fought to overcome the Commuters' lead, but the fine teamwork of the boys from Mendel kept them out in front.

With the start of the second half, it was hoped that Austin's men would cut down the Day Hops' lead, but they couldn't seem to click well at all although Coach Robinson tried out a number of different combinations. The Mendel boys steadily increased their lead, and when the final whistle blew they were 31 points ahead of their rivals.

Leading the scorers, was Dan O'Connor, Day Hop, who rang up five field goals and two foul shots for a total of 12 points. Three points behind him was another Day Hop, Joe Beitenmiller, and tied at six points apiece were two more Day Hops, Gene Barr and Harold Murphy. High-scorer for Austin Hall was Mike Totin with two field goals and one free throw for five points.

According to the original arrangements it was decided that one team would have to win two games in order to consider itself the champion, consequently the men from Austin will have an opportunity to redeem themselves tonight, after Chapel, in the new gymnasium.

With 10 straight wins under their belt the Day Hops feel confident that they can show their heels to

Continued on Page Seven

Osteopathy Sinks Wildcat Natators

Continued From Page Five

Hylander, took second place over Villanova's Bill Durkin.

With the iron hot, Osteopathy struck again and Lubin beat Bill Leahy to the tape in the 40-yard freestyle race, Hylander taking third.

Toby Greco, who has only been beaten once this year, finally broke the ice for Villanova by winning the 100-yard breaststroke in 1 minute 18.7 seconds. Bernard and Flocco, of Osteopathy, finished second and third, respectively.

Backstroke Taken by Booth

The Villanova mermen seemed to have found their pace when Bill Booth won the backstroke with Bill Bailey second. Then Bill Leahy came through with a win in the 100-yard freestyle with Jim Cousart second.

Lubin Wins 220

Hoping to break Villanova's winning streak, Osteopathy sent their star swimmer, Lubin, against Tom Carbine in the 220. Their hopes were fulfilled when Lubin took a lead on the first three laps and overcame Carbine's effort to overtake him. Bill Bailey took third place, about a lap behind.

The summaries:

160-yard Relay — Won by Osteopathy (Flocco, Perry, Hylandef, Lubin). Second, Villanova (Booth, Cousart, Duffy, Leahy). Time, 1:33.3.

Diving — Won by Flocco, Osteopathy; second, Hylander, Osteopathy; third, Durkin, Villanova.

40-yard Freestyle — Won by Lubin, Osteopathy; second, Leahy, Villanova; third, Hylander, Osteopathy. Time, 21 sec.

100-yard Breaststroke — Won by Greco, Villanova; second, Bernard, Osteopathy; third, Flocco, Osteopathy. Time, 1:18.7.

100-yard Backstroke — Won by Booth, Villanova; second, Bailey, Villanova; third, Koch, Osteopathy. Time, 1:11.

100-yard Freestyle — Won by Leahy, Villanova; second, Cousart, Villanova; third, Perry, Osteopathy. Time, 62.5.

220-yard Freestyle — Won by Lubin, Osteopathy; second, Carbine, Villanova; third, Bailey, Villanova. Time, 3:40.

'CAT NINE STARTS OUTDOOR PRACTICE

Jacobsmen Quit Gym for Stadium; Veterans and Newcomers Improve

Now that the warmer weather has decided to stay, the Villanova varsity baseball team has vacated the gym and is strenuously practicing in the open air in order to get in shape for the opening tussle with Penn, at Franklin Field, April 1.

The recent rainfall has turned the baseball field into a miniature lake; hence the players are forced to work out in the stadium, which is not suitable for diamond activities. The pitchers as yet have not been able to bear down because of the earliness of the season; consequently, the batters have been batting the apple all over the orchard. Art Mahan, particularly, has been poling long drives consistently.

Competition Keen at Keystone

Don Brennan, varsity basketball center, has reported for practice, and has been favorably commented upon by Coach Jacobs; his work at second base has proved that he is a polished performer; hence Joe McCabe and John Higgins will find plenty of competition from the lanky courtman for the keystone sack. There have been no other noticeable changes in the probable lineup, and the indications are that Coach Jacobs will undoubtedly conform with his present selections, when the season finally rolls around.

Mike O'Meara, Bunny Galazin and Ray Stoviak are the logical choices for the outfield, but Franny Escott and Bill McLaughlin, both pitchers, are expected to give this trio a hard fight. The infield will have Mahan at first; Higgins, McCabe or Brennan at second; Walt McKenna at third, and Leo Schoppmeyer in the short field. Mike Garbark and Leahy will share the backstop duties, while Tom Collins, Joe McGovern, Ed Vaughn, Tom Kane, McLaughlin and Escott will divide the pitching assignments.

Another game has been added to the already difficult schedule. On their way home from engagements with Colgate and Cornell, the Wildcats will combat the strong Penn State club, May 2, at State College.

RODGERS REACHES FINAL ROUND OF P. K. P. BOWLING

Winner of Agnes, Curtin Match To Play Rodgers in Final Match This Week

Frank Rodgers, senior engineer, reached the final round in the Phi Kappa Pi bowling tournament last Saturday when he defeated Jim Cook by a score of 2 to 0.

In previous matches Cook won from Murphy, 2-1. Jack Furey beat John Denny, 2-1, also. Then Furey was eliminated from the contest by Jack Curtin who defeated him, 2-0.

Before entering the final round Rodgers did some very skillful bowling to defeat Jim Cook. Agnes entered the semi final round by eliminating Jack Rhoades by a score of 2-1.

Curtin and Agnes will play their semi-final match sometime next week. The winner of this match will bowl Rodgers for the championship of Phi Kappa Phi.

The tournament was very slow in being contested because of the fact that contestants found it hard to agree on a time to play.

In the Limelight

Baseball is in the air...So's yours truly. Mahan, however, is in the limelight; so it's about time we got started.

At about the same time Connie Mack was building his great team in 1913, another baseball star was born. Some men are born with silver spoons in their mouths, some only with toothpicks. Mahan, it seems, was born chewing a first-baseman's mitt.

On June 8, 1913, Villanova College received a wire from Mr. Mahan that a son and heir had been born that day and that he would like to put in a reservation for little Arthur L. Mahan. The proud father stated that Artie would be ready for Villanova in 1932.

From 1913 to 1932 is history. Being a resident of Somerville, Mass., Artie had no other choice but to enroll at St. Joseph's Grammar School. Don't get us wrong. There is another Somerville; but it is an institution for the feeble-minded (we hear they have quite a few around Mass. way).

While at St. Joe's Artie played two years of both baseball and football. On the diamond he played first base and pitched. On the gridiron Mahan was a backfield man. Our hero says that he also took part in intra-murals and room games. We wonder what he means by room games?

Upon graduating (?) from St. Joe's Artie left town and went to St. John's High School, at Cambridge, Mass. After helping the baseball team win the championship in his freshman year, Mahan went back home and enrolled at Somerville High.

At Somerville, Artie played baseball and basketball for two years. One man can't win a championship so Somerville High never did. They did win the league basketball championship in Artie's senior year.

And then...Villanova, in 1932. In his first year here Mahan played frosh baseball. Artie soon became the Jimmie Fox of Villanova. Built like the former Mackman, he throws and bats right-handed, and hits them to all parts of the field. Very frequently they go over the fence. It is no wonder then that Coach "Doc" Jacobs has him batting No. 4.

At the close of his junior year Artie was elected to lead the Wildcat team. Talking over the outlook for the coming season, the versatile captain states: "Plenty of pitchers this year and the season's prospects look pretty good. Sophomore material is showing up well."

Artie is a senior in the Arts School. You know the old saying, "every Mahan to his art." Baseball is the captain's favorite sport and he expects to follow in this line after leaving Villanova. If he can get in a little teaching on the side he may do so.

Our hero played baseball under McInnis, a member of Connie Mack's $1,000,000 infield, during the summer. He also played in the Cape Cod and Boston Twilight leagues.

Mahan has been playing the initial sack for the Wildcat varsity nine since he became a regular in his sophomore year. In addition to being one of the best fielding first-basemen ever to play for Villanova, Artie has been one of the most consistent hitters on the squad. His batting average while at Villanova has been well over the .300 mark.

This season Mahan leads the varsity through one of the toughest schedules ever arranged. Twenty games are listed and included among the foes are Penn, Temple,

Continued on Page Seven

FROSH SCORING RECORD

Name	Position	Games	F'ld G'ls	Fouls	Total
Dubino	C	17	58	15	131
Montgomery	F	17	46	23	115
Krutulis	G	14	35	12	82
Vigilante	G	16	27	20	74
Hopkins	F	16	25	16	66
Wanamaker	F-G	17	10	6	44
Carrig	F	12	18	2	38
Dempsey	F	15	13	4	30
Burlington	C	11	11	5	27
Hobson	F	3	2	0	4
Hart	C	3	2	0	4
Kane	F-G	8	1	0	2
Kuber	G	11	0	1	1
Baker	G	2	0	0	0
Jarosik	G	1	0	0	0
Totals			257	104	618

IMPORTANT TRACK MEETING THURSDAY

Relay Team for Penn Relays Will Be Picked Soon; Practices Daily

After a rather incomplete season last Spring, when only four meets were held, Villanova's track schedule is again a representative one. Already, meets are pending with six schools: Temple, P. M. C., Ursinus, F. & M., Rider College, West Chester, and Seton Hall.

In addition to these dual meets, Villanova will have an entry in the Penn Relays, which Relay Carnival is one of the most important intercollegiate track events of the year. As in former years, Villanova will be represented by a mile relay team.

In the special events on the program, the lone possible Wildcat entrant is Ben Maloney. If he can get into the proper condition by the time of the meet, Ben will run in the 3000 meter steeplechase, one of the feature events of th Carnival. Because this event is such a grueling grind, Ben is not sure at the present time that he will be able to work himself into the tip-top condition so necessary for the race.

In preparation for the extensive schedule made for the cinderpathers, practices are being held every afternoon on the board track under the north stand of the football stadium. However, as soon as the stadium track is dried up enough to permit its use, the boys will workout on their natural element, the cinder path.

Still, the number of candidates who have been actively training is not large enough to bring the Wildcats successfully through the difficult season ahead. In order to get more candidates to report, there will be a meeting of all who are interested in track and field held in room 213 Mendel on Thursday, March 19, at 1 P. M. All who wish to come out for the team, whether they be track or field men, are strongly urged to attend this meeting. Important matters will be discussed.

New equipment in the form of new track suits and new sweaters has been ordered for twenty-four men. This new equipment is not as yet in the gym, but it is expected to arrive in the very near future.

At the present time, the chief worry of the Villanova trackstera is the formation of a one-mile relay team to run in the Penn Relays. Only two of last year's four are still in school. Last year's captain and Villanova's best quartermiler, "Jumbo" Jim Elliott, and Alex Kramer, another ace 440 man, were lost by graduation.

Yet, with two veterans to form the nucleus and a wealth of material on hand from which to choose the remainder of the team the outlook is decidedly bright. The two returning members of the 1935 relay team are George Wrona, a senior, and a member of the team from his sophomore year, and Fritz Monohan, a junior.

Among the candidates for the remaining two posts are Jack Earle and Jerry Sherlock, football backs who had track experience at Collingswood High. Bill Lafferty, another ex-Collingswood trackman,

Continued on Page Seven

Golf and Tennis In Near Future

Continued From Page Five

who are expected to attempt to wrest the diadem from the freshman's head are Johnny Costello, Mendel resident and basketball luminary; Frankie Megaro, the pride of Fedigan, and Ernie Zalom, the Day Hops' banner-bearer. Much interest was shown in the last tournament, and it is expected that the new one will bring out the Bill Tildens and Fred Perrys in great numbers.

For the newcomers to Villanova the annual intra-mural golf tourney is held at the Main Line Open Course, St. Davids. One day is devoted to the competition. Last year's title was won by John Bruno, a sophomore Day Hop at the time. He carded an 87, to lead Sam Canale, a classmate and brother commuter.

Par for the course is 72, and due to the tricky layout of the holes, the winner's score is very commendable, as were the tallies of the other contestants. If the same response is given this year as last, there will be some torrid doings on the Main Line late in March.

Here and There

By WILLIAM BOWKER

SPRING is here, or so it would seem from the fair and rainy weather we've been having.... Which reminds us that something new is being introduced on the campus....Spring basketball practice is what we mean....And speaking of basketball, have any of you loyal Villanova sport fans been to the high school games held in the gym recently?...The spirit shown by the youngsters is phenomenal when compared to the feeble shouts of the spectators at the college frays. Take a lesson from the younger generation and do some yelling at the next athletic contest. We have four hard-working cheerleaders, but they are useless if there is no support given them.... So take heed.

Turning to something more cheerful, we see that Ben Geraghty and Frankie Skaff are doing well with Casey Stengel's Brooklyn Dodgers. ...Our lads, by the way, were outside getting batting practice last week in spite of the inclement weather.

Don't forget the opening game with Penn on April Fool's Day.... The Wildcats will do no fooling that day....They intend to make a good record this season with a minimum number of defeats....Which number is zero, of course....If what they say about left-handers is true, Villanova has a large collection of madmen....Art Mahan, Mike O'Meara, "Quack" Escott, Bill McLaughlin and "Sugar" Kane all throw from the portside.... However, Joe McGovern, "Needle" Collins, Ed Vaughn, Joe Alessandroni, Ed Leahy and Leo Schoppmeyer, among others, restore the balance....There are quite a few members of the basketball squad out for the nine....Come out and look them over.

We now direct our attention to boxing....Congrats to the team for a successful campaign....We saw the Temple bouts and we are certain that the boy hit by Jack Jarosik actually bounced on the canvas....By this time the returns on the intercollegiates will be in.... There seems to be a dearth of 115-pounders in school....Coach Gadsby found it necessary to use three different boxers in four meets.... He also predicts a successful future for the ring sport in the Wildcat lair....And the attendance figures for the past season will bear him out.

Within a few weeks the intramural tennis tourney will have been completed....Anyone who can swing a racquet should enter....If you don't reach the finals, you at least get some exercise....Which is very beneficial to everybody.... Promising material for the varsity tennis team is often found through the tournament, so if you think you are of varsity caliber, here's your chance to prove it.

Bill Burke, Harry Guckenberger and the two Donovan's, Ed and Hack, Kevin Quinn's managerial assistants, will soon have their hands full, as the Feline pigskin squad is preparing to cavort on Mendel field....The Frosh have been working out in the gym for the past few weeks, and they will be joined by the veterans of last year's very successful campaign.... And with these few remarks yours truly will close. This time next week Edward L. "Abe" Collins will be back at the helm, and he'll see you then.

Basketeers Begin Spring Training

Continued From Page Five

other position, although Noonan's seniority will not assure him his place. Among the youngsters who will challenge the "Thin Man" are Jim Montgomery, tricky ball handler from out Ohio way; Joe Hopkins, former Malvern luminary, and Lou Wanamaker, who also plays guard occasionally. There seems to be a preponderance of guards, as the Thirty-Niners are sending no less than four up to the big time in the persons of Johnny Krutulis, "Duke" Dempsey, "Chuck" Vondra, and last, but not least, Art Vigilante, the North Jersey star.

Lou Dubino and Wally Burlington will see to it that Brennan and Marquette will hustle if either of them is to jump center for the Blue and White next season.

From these men must be found replacements for Mike O'Meara, Tommy Ryan, Jack Robinson and Ben Geraghty, who have completed their court life as Wildcats.

Dayhops Take First Playoff Game, 42-11

Continued From Page Six

Austin again. However, if Coach Robinson can get his men to guard better and shoot more consistently in tonight's game, Austin may break through and win. If this should happen it will necessitate the playing of another game at a later date.

In any event the intra-mural score will not be affected by the outcome of the playoff.

MENDEL HALL DAY HOPS

	G.	F.	P.
McaMnus, forward	0	1	1
Barr, forward	2	2	6
O'Connor, center	5	2	12
Thorn, forward	0	0	0
Duffy, center	1	1	3
Murphy, forward	3	0	6
Beittenmiller, guard	4	1	9
Narkin, guard	1	0	2
Agnes, guard	1	1	3
Totals	17	8	42

AUSTIN HALL

Badamo, forward	0	0	0
Totin, forward	2	1	5
Dinges, forward	1	0	2
Conte, forward	0	0	0
Monohan, center	1	0	2
Frachia, guard	0	1	1
Mayell, guard	0	0	0
Bruno, guard	0	0	0
McGrory, guard	0	1	1
Zibell, guard	0	0	0
Totals	4	3	11

Southern Trip for Tennis Team

Villanova's racquet swingers are slated to continue their season during Junior Week with a trip through Maryland and the District of Columbia, meeting Navy and Catholic University and perhaps Loyola and one or two others.

Only eligible upperclassmen will be carried: freshmen and transfers coming under the one-year rule are excluded.

In the Limelight

Continued From Page Six

Princeton, Colgate, Cornell and Fordham.

There is a rumor floating about the campus to the effect that Artie Mahan has already been contacted by big league scouts. Mahan would neither confirm nor deny this rumor. However, it would not be surprising to hear of a fellow by the name of Arthur L. Mahan playing first base for some major league team in a few years.

And so...dear readers, ends the story of the Somerville slugger. May this column be the first to wish him the best of luck and pleasant sailing . . .

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

of practice time. We wonder how this ruling would be appreciated in Villanova. A note submitted to this columnist at the VILLANOVAN office would be appreciated and the best ideas will be taken into consideration.

—V—

Dave Smuckler, Temple backfield threat, has returned to the Owls encampment. He was greeted with open arms and the old chestnut—"Come home all is forgiven." Everything is peaches and cream along Broad Street and people are wondering.

—V—

If schedules can be arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned, the Villanova golf team will journey to southern climes to play the pick of the Dixie schools. According to Manager Jack Geraghty, two matches have been definitely arranged with Virginia schools, while others are under consideration.

Wildcat Defends Title Successfully

Continued From Page Five

order that the finals could be completed in the evening.

Ortenzi Falls Next

In the 175-pound division, Villanova's entry met and defeated Tony Ortenzi, of Western Maryland, by virtue of a three-round decision. Ortenzi, whom Sala had previously defeated earlier in the season, put up a game and courageous fight but he was no match for the hard-hitting, fast-stepping Villanova boy. Sala hit Ortenzi repeatedly with short left jabs and right crosses. Sala displayed his 1935 form by turning back the Western Marylander. He not only out-boxed him, but out-fought him. At the end of three rounds there was no question as to who the winner would be. Sala won all three rounds.

In the finals that evening, Tony met Bill Smith, of Harvard.

Smith Favored

Pre-fight predictions were in favor of Smith, because of his impressiveness shown in his bout this afternoon. Another thing that placed Smith as the favorite was the fact that Smith scored a clean knockout over Mauger, of Penn, while Sala defeated Mauger by virtue of a unanimous decision.

Smith, who is defending champion of the 165-pound class, could not compete in this division because he was over the 165-pound weight limit. In the opening round, both boys came out fighting, they met in the center of the ring and exchanged hard blows. Smith landed a left jab and a right cross, Sala retaliated with hard rights and lefts.

In the next two rounds it was all Sala; he out-boxed and out-maneuvered Smith. He won both of these rounds easily. At the end of the three rounds, Sala received the unanimous decision of the judges and referee.

By winning this fight Sala became a two-time champion. Sala, who is a junior this year, will be back again next year to defend his title. Coach Gadsby has announced that Sala will receive the trophy presented to the most improved boxer on the squad. This trophy is donated by Dr. D'Eliscu.

Sala won lead four of his teammates against four picked men from Penn on Thursday, March 19, at the Penn A. C.

The men who will represent Villanova are Pantaleo, 126; Carrig, 155; Jarosik, 165, and Sala, 175.

The following is the tentative schedule for the 1937 boxing team at Villanova: (pending the approval of Rev. Fr. Melchoir, O. S. A.)

P. M. C., M. I. T., Harvard, Penn, Temple, Western Maryland, Washington & Jefferson.

JIMMY DYKES REMEMBERED

Many people along the Main Line are starting to wonder if Jimmy Dykes will lead the White Sox to a higher berth in the American League this season. This should be of interest to Villanova students as it will be remembered that Jimmy spoke here at a Holy Name breakfast.

Important Track Meeting Thursday

Continued From Page Six

and Frank "Pop" Shealey, a former St. John's Prep, Danver's runners are also competing for the relay team.

The outlook for the field half of the track and field program is hampered very much by the loss, also by graduation, of Carl Hickey, former hop-skip-and-jump titleholder in the Penn Relays. Besides this event Carl was a consistent winner in the pole vault and broad jump.

Don't forget the meeting Thursday at one o'clock for all those interested in coming out for either track or field events.

GOLF LEADER OUT OF ACTIVE COMPETITION

Appendicitis Stops Jim McNerney From Taking Active Part in Golf Matches

Villanova's golf team suffered a severe setback last Sunday when Jim McNerney, captain of the team, was removed to the hospital following an attack of appendicitis.

Jim was elected captain only last week. He defeated David Cragg, who was the only logical contender, outside of McNerney, for the title. Both were three-letter men, having played on the team since their freshman year.

McNerney broke into the limelight when he sank a phenomenal hole in one while competing on the Main Line Open Golf Course. It immediately earned for him the cognomen of "Hole-in-One Jim."

Due to this mishap, Jim will be out of golfing for the entire season. As he is well liked by the other members of the team and is also greatly depended on to pull the team out of a pinch, his absence will be keenly felt. Whether or not it will have any effect on their scoring ability remains to be seen.

The golf team is due to start for a southern tour as soon as a complete schedule is made up. Jim was scheduled to make this trip, but due to this calamity, and it is a calamity, according to the members of the team, another man will be picked to fill his shoes.

WILDCAT TENNIS SQUAD GETS A NEW MODERATOR

Rev. Charles J. Melchoir Named As New Faculty Adviser; Frank Grewer Manager

Tennis long a minor sport at Villanova, will receive new life this year with the installation of Rev. Charles J. Melchoir as faculty adviser. Further changes are apparent in the appointment of Frank Grewer as senior manager. This sport, a minor item in the Wildcat athletic schedule, is expected to be bolstered greatly by the insertion of this new blood in the managerial ranks.

Practice is to begin this week in the gym, which has been vacated by the football team, and the racqueteers will follow the gridiron warriors to the open spaces as soon as the courts are sufficiently hardened.

Graduation has torn big holes in the array of tennis talent, taking Captain Steve Kramer, Johnny Barry, former court star, and the brothers Malhame, George and Chester. Hopes for a successful season are not entirely gone, however, as six veterans are present in the persons of Jim Allen, who will lead the netmen, Ben Maloney, Frank Rodgers, Bill Thorne, Tom Cook and Al Cousart. These men are expected to form a nucleus about which a team will be built. The results of the spring intermural tournament will bring forth new material for the squad, it is hoped.

Penn's Blue and Red court representatives will furnish the opposition in the Wildcats' first meet of the season.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED - 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed - 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

Bargain rates are in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.
SAVE AFTER SEVEN
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Day-Hops Trim Austinites In First Game of Playoff

Commuters Triumph in One-Sided Victory To Clinch First Leg of a Two-Game Play-Off

O'CONNOR HIGH SCORER OF LEAGUE

Austin Hall tasted the bitter dregs of defeat at the hands of the Mendel Day Hops last Wednesday night, in the first game of the playoff for the intra-mural basketball crown, by the lop-sided score of 42 to 11 in the new gymnasium.

Although disappointed by the one-sided score, Jack Robinson, Austins' coach, stated, "I can take no credit away from the Day Hops. They were phenomenal."

The accurate passing and shooting attack of the Day Hops was the outstanding feature of the game. They opened the contest fast and furiously and soon had a comfortable lead.

Remarkable shots by Dan O'Connor, high-scorer of the league as well as of this game, increased the Day Hops' margin until at half time they led by 19 points.

Throughout the game Austin fought to overcome the Commuters' lead, but the fine teamwork of the boys from Mendel kept them out in front.

With the start of the second half, it was hoped that Austin's men would cut down the Day Hops' lead, but they couldn't seem to click well at all although Coach Robinson tried out a number of different combinations. The Mendel boys steadily increased their lead, and when the final whistle blew they were 31 points ahead of their rivals.

Leading the scorers, was Dan O'Connor, Day Hop who rang up five field goals and two foul shots for a total of 12 points. Three points behind him was another Day Hop, Joe Bettenmiller, and tied at six points apiece were two more Day Hops, Gene Barr and Harold Murphy. High-scorer for Austin Hall was Mike Tobin with two field goals and one free throw for five points.

According to the original arrangements it was decided that one team would have to win two games in order to consider itself the champion, consequently the men from Austin will have an opportunity to redeem themselves tonight, after Chapel, in the new gymnasium.

With 10 straight wins under their belt the Day Hops feel confident that they can show their heels to

Continued on Page Seven

Osteopathy Sinks Wildcat Natators

Continued From Page One

Hylands, Jones, second; Lee, Villanova, third. Time, 1:27.

With the iron foil Odgers and Schenck again met Labin and Bill Leahy to the tape to the 100-yard freestyle to the Drexel hiking third.

Toby Labin, who has only been seen once this year, finally broke loose for Villanova by winning the 100-yard breast-stroke in 1 minute 18 seconds. Bennett and Fleischer of Osteopathy finished second and third, respectively.

Backstroke Taken by Booth

The Villanova mermen seemed to have found their pace when Bill Booth won the backstroke with Bill Bailey second. Then Bill Leahy came through with a win in the 100-yard freestyle with Jim Conant second.

Labin Wins 220

Hoping to break Villanova's winning streak, Osteopathy sent their star swimmer, Labin, against Tom Carbine in the 220. Their hopes were fulfilled when Labin took a lead on the first three laps and held on the final lap to overcome Carbine's effort to overtake him. Bill Bailey took third place about a lap behind.

The summaries:

100-yard Relay — Won by Osteopathy (Odgers, Perry, Hylander, Labin), second, Villanova (Booth, Conant, Duffy, Leahy). Time, 4:23.7.

Diving — Won by Fleece, Osteopathy; second, Hylander, Osteopathy; third, Durkin, Villanova.

50-Yard Freestyle — Won by Labin, Osteopathy; second, Leahy, Villanova; third, Hylander, Osteopathy. Time, 21 sec.

100-yard Breaststroke — Won by Green, Villanova; second, Bernard, Osteopathy; third, Fleece, Osteopathy. Time, 1:18.7.

100-yard Backstroke — Won by Booth, Villanova; second, Bailey, Villanova; third, Kelly, Osteopathy. Time, 1:11.

100-yard Freestyle — Won by Leahy, Villanova; second, Conant, Villanova; third, Perry, Osteopathy. Time, 62.5.

220-yard Freestyle — Won by Labin, Osteopathy; second, Carbine, Villanova; third, Bailey, Villanova. Time, 2:49.

'CAT NINE STARTS OUTDOOR PRACTICE

Jacobsmen Quit Gym for Stadium; Veterans and Newcomers Improve

Now that the warmer weather has decided to stay, the Villanova varsity baseball team has vacated the gym and is strenuously practicing in the open air in order to get in shape for the opening tussle with Penn, at Franklin Field, April 1.

The recent rainfall has turned the baseball field into a miniature lake; hence the players are forced to work out in the stadium, which is not suitable for diamond activities. The pitchers as yet have not been able to bear down because of the earliness of the season; consequently, the batters have been batting the apple all over the orchard. Art Mahan, particularly, has been poling long drives consistently.

Competition Keen at Keystone

Don Brennan, varsity basketball center, has reported for practice, and has been favorably commented upon by Coach Jacobs; his work at second base has proved that he is a polished performer; hence Joe McCabe and John Higgins will find plenty of competition for the lanky countryman for the keystone sack. There have been no other noticeable changes in the probable lineup, and the indications are that Coach Jacobs will undoubtedly conform with his present selections, when the season finally rolls around.

Mike O'Meara, Sunny Galazin and Ray Schostak are the logical choices for the outfield, but Franny Escott and Bill McLaughlin, both pitchers, are expected to give this trio a hard fight. The infield will have Mahan at first, Higgins, McCabe or Brennan at second, Walt McKeman at third, and Lew Schoppe, newcomer, in shortstop. Mike Garbark and Leahy will share the backstop duties, while Tom Collins, Joe McGovern, Ed Vaughn, Tom Kane, McLaughlin and Escott will divide the pitching assignments.

Another game has been added to the already difficult schedule. On their way home from engagements with Colgate and Cornell, the Wildcats will combat the strong Penn State club, May 2, at State College.

RODGERS REACHES FINAL ROUND OF P. K. P. BOWLING

Winner of Agnes, Curtin Match To Play Rodgers in Final Match This Week

Frank Rodgers, senior engineer, reached the final round in the Phi Kappa Pi bowling tournament last Saturday when he defeated Jim Cook by a score of 2 to 0.

In previous matches Cook won from Murphy, 2-1. Jack Furey beat John Denny, 2-1, also. Then Furey was eliminated from the contest by Jack Curtin who defeated him, 2-0.

Before entering the final round Rodgers did some very skillful bowling to defeat Jim Cook. Agnes entered the semi final round by eliminating Jack Rhoades by a score of 2-1.

Curtin and Agnes will play their semi-final match sometime next week. The winner of this match will bowl Rodgers for the championship of Phi Kappa Phi.

The tournament was very slow in being contested because of the fact that contestants found it hard to agree on a time to play.

In the Limelight

Baseball is in the air...So's yours truly. Mahan, however, is in the limelight; so it's about time we got started.

At about the same time Connie Mack was building his great team in 1913, another baseball star was born. Some men are born with silver spoons in their mouths, some only with toothpicks. Mahan, it seems, was born chewing a first-baseman's mitt.

On June 8, 1913, Villanova College received a wire from Mr. Mahan that a son and heir had been born that day and that he would like to put in a reservation for little Arthur L. Mahan. The proud father stated that Artie would be ready for Villanova in 1932.

From 1913 to 1932 is history. Being a resident of Somerville, Mass., Artie had no other choice but to enroll at St. Joseph's Grammar School. Don't get us wrong. There is another Somerville; but it is an institution for the feeble-minded (we hear they have quite a few around Mass. way).

While at St. Joe's Artie played two years of both baseball and football. On the diamond he played first base and pitched. On the gridiron Mahan was a backfield man. Our hero says that he also took part in intra-murals and town games. We wonder what he means by town games?

Upon graduating (?) from St. Joe's Artie left town and went to St. John's High School, at Cambridge, Mass. After helping the baseball team win the championship in his freshman year, Mahan went back home and enrolled at Somerville High.

At Somerville, Artie played baseball and basketball for two years. One man can't win a championship so Somerville High never did. They did win the league basketball championship in Artie's senior year.

And then...Villanova, in 1932. In his first year here Mahan played frosh baseball. Artie soon became the Jimmie Fox of Villanova. Built like the former Mackman, he throws and bats right-handed, and hits them to all parts of the field. Very frequently they go over the fence. It is no wonder then that Coach "Doc" Jacobs has him batting No. 4.

At the close of his junior year Artie was elected to lead the Wildcat team. Talking over the outlook for the coming season, the versatile captain states: "Plenty of pitchers this year and the season's prospects look pretty good. Sophomore material is showing up well."

Artie is a senior in the Arts School. You know the old saying, "every Mahan to his art." Baseball is the captain's favorite sport and he expects to follow in this line after leaving Villanova. If he can get in a little teaching on the side he may do so.

Our hero played baseball under Melmus, a member of Connie Mack's $1,000,000 infield, during the summer. He also played in the Cape Cod and Boston Twilight leagues.

Mahan has been playing the initial sack for the Wildcat varsity nine since he became a regular in his sophomore year. In addition to being one of the best fielding first-basemen ever to play for Villanova, Artie has been one of the most consistent hitters on the squad. His batting average while at Villanova has been well over the .300 mark.

This season Mahan leads the varsity through one of the toughest schedules ever arranged. Twenty games are listed and included among the foes are Penn, Temple,

Continued on Page Seven

FROSH SCORING RECORD

Name	Position	Games	Fld G'ls	Fouls	Total
Dubino	C	17	58	13	131
Montgomery	F	17	46	23	115
Krutulis	C	11	35	12	82
Vigilante	G	16	27	20	74
Hopkins	F	16	25	16	66
Wanamaker	F-G	17	19	6	44
Carrig	F	12	18	2	38
Dempsey	F	15	13	4	30
Burlington	C	11	11	5	27
Hobson	F	6	2	0	4
Hart	C	3	2	0	4
Vondra	F-G	8	1	0	2
Kuther	G	11	0	1	1
Baker	G	2	0	0	0
Jarosik	G	1	0	0	0
Totals			257	101	613

IMPORTANT TRACK MEETING THURSDAY

Relay Team for Penn Relays Will Be Picked Soon; Practices Daily

After a rather incomplete season last Spring, when only four meets were held, Villanova's track schedule is again a representative one. Already, meets are pending with six schools: Temple, P. M. C., Ursinus, F. & M., Rider College, West Chester, and Seton Hall.

In addition to these dual meets, Villanova will have an entry in the Penn Relays, which Relay Carnival is one of the most important intercollegiate track events of the year. As in former years, Villanova will be represented by a mile relay team.

In the special events on the program, the lone possible Wildcat entrant is Ben Maloney. If he can get into the proper condition by the time of the meet, Ben will run in the 3000 meter steeplechase, one of the feature events of th Carnival. Because th's event is such a grueling grind, Ben is not sure at the present time that he will be able to work himself into the tip-top condition so necessary for the race.

In preparation for the extensive schedule made for the cinderpathers, practices are being held every afternoon on the board track under the north stand of the football stadium. However, as soon as the stadium track is dried up enough to permit its use, the boys will workout on their natural element, the cinder path.

Still, the number of candidates who have been actively training is not large enough to bring the Wildcats successfully through the difficult season ahead. In order to get more candidates to report, there will be a meeting of all who are interested in track and field held in room 213 Mendel on Thursday, March 19, at 1 P. M. All who wish to come out for the team, whether they be track or f i e l d men, are strongly urged to attend this meeting. Important matters will be discussed.

The equipment in the form of new track suits and new sweaters has been ordered for twenty-four men. This new equipment is not as yet in the gym, but it is expected to arrive in the very near future.

At the present time, the chief work of the Villanova tracksters is the formation of a one-mile relay team to run in the Penn Relays. Only two of last year's four are still in school. Last year's captain and Villanova's best quarter-miler, "Jumbo" Jim Elliott, and Alex Kramer, another ace 440 man, were lost by graduation.

Lou Dubino and Wally Burlington will see to it that Brennan and Marquette will hustle if either of them is to jump center for the Blue and White next season.

From these men must be found replacements for Mike O'Meara, Tommy Ryan, Jack Robinson and Ben Geraghty, who have completed their court life as Wildcats.

Golf and Tennis In Near Future

Continued From Page Five

who are expected to attempt to wrest the diadem from the freshman's head are Johnny Costello, Mendel resident and basketball luminary; Frankie Megaro, the pride of Fedigan, and Ernie Zallom, the Day Hops' banner-bearer. Much interest was shown in the last tournament, and it is expected that the new one will bring out the great numbers.

For the newcomers to Villanova the annual intra-mural golf tourney is held at the Main Line Open Course, St. Davids. One day is devoted to the competition. Last year's title was won by John Bruno, a sophomore Day Hop at the time. He carded an 87, to lead Sam Canale, a classmate and brother commuter.

Par for the course is 72, and due to the tricky layout of the holes, the winner's score is very commendable, as were the tallies of the other contestants. If the same response is given this year as last, there will be some torrid doings on the Main Line late in March.

Here and There

By WILLIAM BOWKER

SPRING is here, or so it would seem from the fair and rainy weather we've been having..., Which reminds us that something new is being introduced on the campus....Spring basketball practice is what we mean....And speaking of basketball, have any of you loyal Villanova sport fans been to the high school games held in the gym recently?...The spirit shown by the youngsters is phenomenal when compared to the feeble shouts of the spectators at the college frays. Take a lesson from the younger generation and do some yelling at the next athletic contest. We have four hard-working cheerleaders, but they are useless if there is no support given them.... So take heed.

Turning to something more cheerful, we see that Ben Geraghty and Frankie Skaff are doing well with Casey Stengel's Brooklyn Dodgers. ...Our lads, by the way, were outside getting batting practice last week in spite of the inclement weather.

Don't forget the opening game with Penn on April Fool's Day.... The Wildcats will do no fooling that day....They intend to make a good record this season with a minimum number of defeats...Which number is zero, of course...If what they say about left-handers is true, Villanova has a large collection of madmen....Art Mahan, Mike O'Meara, "Quack" Escott, Bill McLaughlin and "Sugar" Kane all throw from the portside.... However, Joe McGovern, "Needle" Collins, Ed Vaughn, Joe Alessandroni, Ed Leahy and Leo Schoppmeyer, among others, restore the balance....There are quite a few members of the basketball squad out for the nine....Come out and look them over.

We now direct our attention to boxing....Congrats to the team for a successful campaign....We saw the Temple bouts and we are certain that the boy hit by Jack Jarosik actually bounced on the canvas....By this time the returns on the intercollegiates will be in.... There seems to be a dearth of 115-pounders in school....Coach Gadsby found it necessary to use three different boxers in four meets... He also predicts a successful future for the ring sport in the Wildcat lair....And the attendance figures for the past season will bear him out.

Within a few weeks the intramural tennis tourney will have been completed....Anyone who can swing a racquet should enter...If you don't reach the finals, you at least get some exercise....Which is very beneficial to everybody.... Promising material for the varsity tennis team is often found through the tournament, so if you think you are of varsity caliber, here's your chance to prove it.

Bill Burke, Harry Guckenberger and the two Donovan's, Ed and Hack, Kevin Quinn's managerial assistants, will soon have their hands full, as the Feline pigskin squad is preparing to cavort on Mendel field....The Frosh have been working out in the gym for the past few weeks, and they will be joined by the veterans of last year's very successful campaign.... And with these few remarks yours truly will close. This time next week Edward L. "Abe" Collins will be back at the helm, and he'll see you then.

Basketeers Begin Spring Training

Continued From Page Five

other position, although Noonan's seniority will not assure him his place. Among the youngsters who will challenge the "Thin Man" are Jim Montgomery, tricky ball handler from out Ohio way; Joe Hopkins, former Malvern luminary, and Lou Wanamaker, who also plays guard occasionally. There seems to be a preponderance of guards, as the Thirty-Niners are sending no less than four up to the big time in the persons of Johnny Krutulis, "Duke" Dempsey, "Chuck" Vondra, and last, but not least, Art Vigilante, the North Jersey star.

Lou Dubino and Wally Burlington will see to it that Brennan and Marquette will hustle if either of them is to jump center for the Blue and White next season.

From these men must be found replacements for Mike O'Meara, Tommy Ryan, Jack Robinson and Ben Geraghty, who have completed their court life as Wildcats.

Dayhops Take First Playoff Game, 42-11

Continued From Page Six

Austin again. However, if Coach Robinson can get his men to guard better and shoot more consistently in tonight's game, Austin may break through and win. If this should happen it will necessitate the playing of another game at a later date.

In any event the intra-mural score will not be affected by the outcome of the playoff.

MENDEL HALL DAY HOPS

	G.	F.	P.
McAlinus, forward	0	1	1
Barr, forward	2	2	6
O'Connor, center	5	2	12
Thorn, forward	0	0	0
Duffy, center	1	1	3
Murphy, forward	3	0	6
Bettenmiller, guard	4	1	9
Narkin, guard	1	0	2
Agnes, guard	1	1	3
Totals	17	8	42

AUSTIN HALL

Badamo, forward	0	0	0
Totin, forward	2	1	5
Dinges, forward	1	0	2
Conte, forward	0	0	0
Monohan, center	1	0	2
Frachia, guard	0	1	1
Mayell, guard	0	0	0
Bruno, guard	0	0	0
McGrory, guard	0	1	1
Zitelli, guard	0	0	0
Totals	4	3	11

Southern Trip for Tennis Team

Villanova's racquet swingers are slated to continue their season during Junior Week with a trip through Maryland and the District of Columbia, meeting Navy and Catholic University and perhaps Loyola and one or two others.

Only eligible upperclassmen will be carried: freshmen and transfers coming under the one-year rule are excluded.

Wildcat Defends Title Successfully

Continued From Page Five

order that the finals could be completed in the evening.

Ortenzi Falls Next

In the 175-pound division, Villanova's entry met and defeated Tony Ortenzi, of Western Maryland, by virtue of a three-round decision. Ortenzi, whom Sala had previously defeated earlier in the season, put up a game and courageous fight but he was no match for the hard-hitting, fast-stepping Villanova boy. Sala hit Ortenzi repeatedly with short left jabs and right crosses. Sala displayed his 1935 form by turning back the Western Marylander. He not only out-boxed him, but out-fought him. At the end of three rounds there was no question as to who the winner would be. Sala won all three rounds.

In the finals that evening, Tony met Bill Smith, of Harvard.

Smith Favored

Pre-fight predictions were in favor of Smith, because of his impressiveness shown in his bout this afternoon. Another thing that placed Smith as the favorite was the fact that Smith scored a clean knockout over Mauger, of Penn, while Sala defeated Mauger by virtue of a unanimous decision.

Smith, who is defending champion of the 165-pound class, could not compete in this division because he was over the 165-pound weight limit. In the opening round, both boys came out fighting, they met in the center of the ring and exchanged hard blows. Smith landed a left jab and a right cross, Sala retaliated with hard rights and lefts.

In the next two rounds it was all Sala; he out-boxed and out-maneuvered Smith. He won both of these rounds easily. At the end of the three rounds, Sala received the unanimous decision of the judges and referee.

By winning this fight Sala became a two-time champion. Sala, who is a junior this year, will be back again next year to defend his title. Coach Gadsby has announced that Sala will receive the trophy presented to the most improved boxer on the squad. This trophy is donated by Dr. D'Eliscu.

Sala will lead four of his teammates against four picked men from Penn on Thursday, March 19, at the Penn A. C.

The men who will represent Villanova are Pantaleo, 126; Carrig, 135; Jarosik, 165, and Sala, 175.

The following is the tentative schedule for the 1937 boxing team at Villanova: (pending the approval of Rev. Fr. Melchoir, O. S. A.) P. M. C., M. I. T., Harvard, Penn, Temple, Western Maryland, Washington & Jefferson.

JIMMY DYKES REMEMBERED

Many people along the Main Line are starting to wonder if Jimmy Dykes will lead the White Sox to a higher berth in the American League this season. This should be of interest to Villanov: students as it will be remembered that Jimmy spoke here at a Holy Name breakfast.

In the Limelight

Continued From Page Six

Princeton, Colgate, Cornell and Fordham.

There is a rumor floating about the campus to the effect that Artie Mahan has already been contacted by big league scouts. Mahan would neither confirm nor deny this rumor. However, it would not be surprising to hear of a fellow by the name of Arthur L. Mahan playing first base for some major league team in a few years.

And so...dear readers, ends the story of the Somerville slugger. May this column be the first to wish him the best of luck and pleasant sailing . . .

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

of practice time. We wonder how this ruling would be appreciated in Villanova. A note submitted to this columnist at the VILLANOVAN office would be appreciated and the best ideas will be taken into consideration.

—V—

Dave Smuckler, Temple backfield threat, has returned to the Owls encampment. He was greeted with open arms and the old chestnut—"Come home all is forgiven." Everything is peaches and cream along Broad Street and people are wondering.

—V—

If schedules can be arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned, the Villanova golf team will journey to southern climes to play the pick of the Dixie schools. According to Manager Jack Geraghty, two matches have been definitely arranged with Virginia schools, while others are under consideration.

Important Track Meeting Thursday

Continued From Page Six

and Frank "Pop" Shealey, a former St. John's Prep, Danver's runners are also competing for the relay team.

The outlook for the field half of the track and field program is hampered very much by the loss, also by graduation, of Carl Hickey, former hop-skip-and-jump titleholder in the Penn Relays. Besides this event Carl was a consistent winner in the pole vault and broad jump.

Don't forget the meeting Thursday at one o'clock for all those interested in coming out for either track or field events.

GOLF LEADER OUT OF ACTIVE COMPETITION

Appendicitis Stops Jim McNerney From Taking Active Part In Golf Matches

Villanova's golf team suffered a severe setback last Sunday when Jim McNerney, captain of the team, was removed to the hospital following an attack of appendicitis.

Jim was elected captain only last week. He defeated David Cragg, who was the only logical contender, outside of McNerney, for the title. Both were three-letter men, having played on the team since their freshman year.

McNerney broke into the limelight when he sunk a phenomenal hole in one while competing on the Main Line Open Golf Course. It immediately earned for him the cognomen of "Hole-in-One Jim."

Due to this mishap, Jim will be out of golfing for the entire season. As he is well liked by the other members of the team and is also greatly depended on to pull the team out of a pinch, his absence will be keenly felt. Whether or not it will have any effect on their scoring ability remains to be seen.

The golf team is due to start for a southern tour as soon as a complete schedule is made up. Jim was scheduled to make this trip, but due to this calamity, and it is a calamity, according to the members of the team, another man will be picked to fill his shoes.

WILDCAT TENNIS SQUAD GETS A NEW MODERATOR

Rev. Charles J. Melchoir Named As New Faculty Adviser; Frank Grewer Manager

Tennis long a minor sport at Villanova, will receive new life this year with the installation of Rev. Charles J. Melchoir as faculty adviser. Further changes are apparent in the appointment of Frank Grewer as senior manager. This sport, a minor item in the Wildcat athletic schedule, is expected to be bolstered greatly by the insertion of this new blood in the managerial ranks.

Practice is to begin this week in the gym, which has been vacated by the football team, and the racqueteers will follow the gridiron warriors to the open spaces as soon as the courts are sufficiently hardened.

Graduation has torn big holes in the array of tennis talent, taking Captain Steve Kramer, Johnny Barry, former court star, and the brothers Malhame, George and Chester. Hopes for a successful season are not entirely gone, however, as six veterans are present in the persons of Jim Allen, who will lead the netmen, Ben Maloney, Frank Rodgers, Bill Thorne, Tom Cook and Al Cousart. These men are expected to form a nucleus about which a team will be built. The results of the spring intermural tournament will bring forth new material for the squad, it is hoped.

Penn's Blue and Red court representatives will furnish the opposition in the Wildcats' first meet of the season.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See ED MICHAELS Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2714 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

BEFORE YOU GET BUSY WITH YOUR BOOKS THIS EVENING —
TELEPHONE HOME
LOW NIGHT RATES
NOW START AT 7 P.M.
— the best time for family reunions
Bargain rates are in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.
SAVE AFTER SEVEN
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Supporters Stubbornly Fight The Gradual Decline of "Hell Week"

MADISON, Wis., Mar. 16 (ACP)—Hell Week is dying, but the traditional fraternity initiation period still has loyal supporters, according to Associated Collegiate Press correspondents at Middle Western, Pacific, and Southern schools. Despite the annual barrage of criticism, plenty of pledges absorbed the presented doses of punishment and indignity this year.

"And why not?" demanded the anonymous and slightly ungrammatical forestry student who denounced Penn State Collegian editors for the paper's anti-Hell policy with: The foresters are more of a gentleman in their crudest moments than you are. A self-respecting fraternity wants men in its membership, not 'sissies'."

Slightly at variance dith this view, was the stand taken by nine Penn State fraternities, Alpha Chi Rho, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu and Triangle, after listening to a plea by Wilbur M. Walden, national secretary of Alpha Chi Rho, declared a permanent ban on Hell Week.

Continue Practices

Similar action was taken by the University Disciplinary Committee at DePauw, with social probation the penalty for fraternities declining to abolish outlawed initiation practices. "The fraternity world is changing," said The DePauw, student paper, in commenting on the decision. "If we contemplate for long the fraternity of ten years ago we shall find ourselves holding a mess of pottage."

The University of Tennessee's Orange and White asked the Interfraternity Council to order discontinuance of Hell Week. "Many of our fraternities have gone beyond the limits of reason, and even respectability in their application of this pre-initiation custom," says The Orange and White. Considering the violence to which some of our fraternities have resorted, Tennessee is lucky that more 'accidents' have not occurred."

Plan Campaign

Meanwhile, the National Interfraternity Council planned a national campaign. The Council has repeatedly gone on record as opposing every Hell Week practice. Unmoved by all this, however, are the editors of The Golden Gater, San Francisco State College publication. Remarking the transfer of freshman "discipline" from an association of men students to the sophomore class in an editorial headed "Must States Always Mind Their Manners?" they say. "It's time for us to forget our 'high-falutin' philosophy and get some collegiate color in our veins. Let the bulbous-browed individuals pursue their one-track academic ways. We'll take a little fun and spirit with OUR medicine."

STUDENTS REVEAL MARITAL FEELINGS

New York, March 16—You may think you'd like to marry money, but the chances are that when you come to a decision you won't much care.

At least this attitude is indicated in a six-year survey of the problem just completed by Dr. Ray Erwin Baber, professor of Sociology in New York University.

Dr. Baber, who conducts a course at the university's Washington Square College entitled "Marriage and Family Life," interviewed 642 college students and 220 parents on the matter of choosing a marriage partner.

The students, 321 young women, declared that economic status was a matter of small concern when it came to selecting a mate, since 93 per cent of the men said they would marry a girl of lower economic rank than their own and 82 per cent of the women were of the same opinion.

Not so many of the 220 parents (105 fathers and 115 mothers) took the same view of the question. Sixty-six per cent of the fathers declared they would be willing to allow their daughters to marry a person of lower economic rank and 69 per cent of the mothers agreed.

On the question "would you marry a person of lower moral standards than your own?" Twenty per cent of the men answered yes, and one-fifth of the women replied affirmatively.

Fifty-eight per cent of the men and 42 per cent of the women would marry outside their own faith, while on the question of intelligence, the men voted 76 per cent in favor of a less intelligent mate, 18 per cent of the women.

SYRACUSE WORKING FOR STUDENT UNION

Undergraduates Willing to Contribute Funds; $22,500 on Hand

A student union building project of Syracuse University will be financed by funds accumulated during the past 10 years and contributions from students and alumni. The first concrete steps toward its realization were taken last year when 2400 students petitioned for a permanent students union building after a decade of sporadic undergraduate demands.

A student union building would focus the interests of 1548 Syracuse undergraduates living in the city or commuting daily from nearby districts on the campus, leaders contend. It would enable students to conduct meetings, hold inexpensive weekly dances, make social contacts, and develop acquaintanceship, as well as serve as a rallying point for returning alumni.

An alumni fund of $20,000 previously allocated for a women's building and $2500 raised by popular subscription in 1926 may be available for financing if additional money is raised through student contributions. Proceeds of the 1936 senior ball, amounting to $364.16, were turned over to the student union fund two weeks ago.

Says College Publications Are Enervated by Modern Journalism

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 16—Collegiate newspapers, literary, humorous and other publications are no better than they are largely because undergraduate editors fail to discriminate between professional journalistic practices which they can and cannot imitate to their advantage.

Not all methods which make for success in commercial journalism are adaptable to students publications; others which could, perhaps, be imitated ought not to be because they are unworthy of any journalism, amateur or professional.

Poor Judgment

An historical survey of undergraduate periodicals reveals that since their inception they have used commercial newspapers and other publications as their models. Innovations in them have followed similar ones in publications admired by college boys and girls. There has been much poor judgment and little discrimination in getting "on the bandwagon" whenever a new circulation-getter was concocted by some successful practicing alumnus.

The most obvious case in point, perhaps, is the extent to which undergraduate comic publications have prostrated themselves before College Humor magazine. The main purpose of many student editors of allegedly funny publications is to "make" College Humor; serving the interests of the campus us subscribers may become entirely secondary.

Follow Fads

College literary and news publications do not have the financial incentive to imitate any particular standard magazine or newspaper, but the urge to emulate the latest fad or fancy is strong. Five years ago there was scarcely a college literary publication which considered itself "chic" that was not as much a replica of Henry L. Mencken's American Mercury as conditions and faculty censors permitted. As the influence of Mr. Mencken's contribution to American a waned, sycophants of the Mercury have decreased in number. At present there are several popular models including The New Yorker, Harpers, Vanity Fair, and Time, awaiting the appearance of a new idea which all will want to copy.

Columnist Craze

In imitation of current professional newspaper practice the "colyum" is the contemporary rage. Heywood Broun, Walter Lippmann, and Walter Winchell serve as models for more aspiring journalists than all the good examples in all the good textbooks on journalism.

Reasons for this situation are not difficult to find. First, the professional model is the easiest to obtain and the most obvious. Undergraduate readers are accustomed to reading regular newspapers, and it is therefore supposed that they desire their campus publications to be of the same kind. Second, most undergraduate editors consider somewhat seriously a professional journalistic career and regard the practical experience gained by working for a student periodical as of more value than theoretical courses taught by elderly professors, and from parents and alumni, cause sympathetic smiles for the old fogeys.

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Three

"No trucks are, by law, allowed on the streets on Sunday.

* * *

"All Holy Days are observed at national holidays.

* * *

"The lack of formality of Americans impressed me very much. For instance, I have been asked personal questions, which I would never think of asking anyone else myself. (This author hastily reflected!)

* * *

Sidelights

"Universities are a corporation of different colleges. Not a wire can be seen overhead in Irish cities, all are underground, even those of the tram-ways (trolleys). Ireland is noted for its watering places (seashore resorts)."

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 20 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1936 Price: Five Cents

DR. GITHENS TALKS TO STUDENTS ABOUT POISONOUS SNAKES

Noted Authority Illustrates Lecture With Live North American Varieties

SHOWS MOTION PICTURES

Illustrating with the aid of live snakes and preserved specimens in a discourse on North American poisonous snakes, Dr. Thomas S. Githens, head of the Antivenin Institute at Glenolden, Pa., addressed a combined seminar of the Science, Arts, and Engineering Schools, at the most interesting weekly session of the year last Thursday.

With Dr. Githens was his assistant, Mr. Joseph Hockings, who assisted the doctor during the lecture by handling the live snakes and answering random questions asked by the students.

Dr. Githen's lecture consisted of a brief history of the Antivenin Institute, a classification of reptiles, a description of the various North American reptiles, their relative importance, the preparation of antivenin and climaxed with a brief but interesting and instructive film of the institute and the snakes they utilize.

Several scientists, interested in preparing a specific anti-toxin for the venom of poisonous snakes, united in their common aim to find the antivenin and created the Antivenin Institute. Their efforts, however, were not very successful, and the institution collapsed.

The Sharp & Dohme Co., a Philadelphia concern selling commer-

Continued on Page Four

NOMINATIONS WILL BE HELD BY LKD

Preliminary Drafts Are Set For April 2; Annual Dance Is April 25

Annual nominations of officers of the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity for the 1936-37 term will be held at the next session on Thursday, April 2. This announcement was made at a meeting of the fraternity on last Thursday.

The initial nominations will decide the fraternity members who will be eligible for election to the following capacities: President, sergeant-at-arms, Student Council representative and four councilmen for the board of directors These nominees will be taken from the present Junior class. The other nominations to be made are vice-president and treasurer, both of whom will be Sophomores. The secretary must be a member of the Freshman division. These nominations will cover a period of approximately two weeks, terminating in elections in early May.

Dance Date Is April 25

The annual dance to be given by the fraternity will be held definitely on Saturday, April 25. William Christman, chairman of the dance committee, predicts the finest so-

Continued on Page Seven

REPRESENTS VILLANOVA

Dean Carl T. Humphrey Attends Engineering Exercises At Lafayette College

Dean Carl T. Humphrey, D. Sc., was the official representative of Villanova College last Friday, at the exercises celebrating the completion of 70 years of Engineering at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

The principal speakers were Dr. C. F. Kettering, president of General Motors Research Corporation, and Col. R. I. Rees, vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., also an outstanding leader in Engineering education.

WILL WRITE PLAY

Fr. Burns to Produce "Joan of Arc" for Historical Society

Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Ph. D., dean of the School of Arts and Letters, will write a play entitled "Joan of Arc," to be presented by the American Historical Society of Philadelphia next fall

Rehearsals for the play will commence in August and the production will be brought before the public at the Academy of Music in the early part of November.

Fr. Burns has to his credit other works, among which are included, "Vision," a passion play; "Sermons for Lent," and "The Seven Last Words."

LADIES COMMITTEE AT GUILD MEETING

Over Fifty-five Members Attend as Further Committees Are Appointed

Representatives from New Jersey, Philadelphia, and the Main Line attended a meeting of the Ladies' Committee of the Augustinian Guild held in the Lounge Room at the Villanova College gymnasium last Wednesday.

Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., chaplain of the college, conducted the meeting at which over 55 members were present. Fr. Brown thanked those attending for their good work in the past and stressed tohe necessity of duplicating and even bettering this achievement. He also expressed the appreciation of the Augustinian Fathers for the work done in the past, the efforts on the part of the members being the sole means by which they were able to meet the heavy financial burden of carrying on the work of the seminaries.

Plans for this year's card party were placed before the committee for consideration. Captains of the various committees were announced and each captain in turn explained what he wished hi committee to accomplish in the respective districts.

Rev. Emil Misson, of Mother of Good Counsel Parish, in Bryn Mawr, selected chair ladies from the various groups and asked them in turn to select active committees. He stated the importance of collecting prizes for this year's affair declaring that some 700 prizes will be necessary

The question regarding the program for the card party was discussed by Rev. Thomas Gilligan, O. S. A., and it was decided by the committee that a program with advertisements should be had. This plan is expected to greatly increase the revenue. Mrs. Charles McFad-

Continued on Page Four

Joseph Malcolm To Give Paper at Lafayette Parley

Occasion of Annual Eastern Student Conference of A. S. M. E.

Joseph Malcolm, senior mechanical engineer, will present a paper on the "Hardening of Low Carbon Steels," at the Annual Eastern Student Conference of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to be held at Lafayette College in Easton on April 20 and 21.

The student chapter of Villanova will make an inspection tour of the Richmond Station of the Philadelphia Electric Company to inspect the new pulverized coal fed boilers and the new 165,000 kw. turbo-generating unit this Saturday.

The A. S. M. E. group will be accompanied by the Student Chapter of the A. I. E. E.

Prof. J. Stanley Morehouse issued the following directions for reaching the Richmond Station. Take the Frankford Elevated to Girard Ave. and there transfer to No. 15 car. Get off at Lewis St. and walk two blocks east to the plant. The tour of the plant will begin at 9:30 A. M.

Batter Up! . . A Yearly Indicator of Spring

Spring scene on Mendel Field, the most popular campus playground, which is being variously used these days. Any time during the day one can see a group of boys as pictured above engaged in the spring-time game. In the background can be seen the newly constructed baseball backstop for the coming intramural campaign. The varsity grid team utilizes the field for practice from 3 to 5 each afternoon.

Crack Of Bat, Bark Of Quarterback, Song Of Birds, Say Spring Is Here

By JOSEPH TOLAND

The crack of the bat, the soar of the horsehide, the clipped bark of the football quarterback, the blaring of radios from wide open windows and the premature wearing of new spring clothes about the campus, all indicate positive proofs that spring has really returned to Villanova in all its auditory glory.

At last old man Winter has relinquished his icy grip on our weary campus and wth la ray of hope and joyous anticipation of the beautiful season to come we drag our spring coats from among their haven in the mothballs and send home the iceskates and woolen gloves.

Campus fields are alive with happy youth enjoying the first outdoor recreation since the snow storms descended upon us back in November. Coach Stuhldreher has his minions out on Mendel Field where they are daily going through their paces in preparation for next season's campaign.

Down behind the stadium Doc Jacobs is teaching his diamond proteges a few tricks of the trade so as to have them ready for their opener with Penn. All the fields about the campus are busy with study-worn students out for a breath of good, clean air.

The robin and bobwhite have again returned to sing their carefree songs in the nearby woods while the verdant swards of the campus form a pleasing background for the new green tint of the early-budding trees.

Overcoats are forgotten as listless students roam the ice-free campus and drink in the dawn of Mother Nature's radiant new season. The season of joy, season of listlessness, season of relaxation and time of dreams and sulphur and molasses has at last come back ot us. Yes, fellows, we have waited long enough and have been fully rewarded. Spring is here to stay.

VARSITY DEBATERS ENGAGE U. OF PA.

Will Defend Affimative of Supreme Court and Congress Question

Beta Gamma varsity debaters will meet the University of Pennsylvania team this Friday, in a discussion of the Supreme Court and Congress question. Villanova will defend the affirmative of the resolution in the amphitheater at 8:00 P. M.

Victor Ashe, Joseph Carroll, and Anthony Differ will uphold the Beta Gamma then as they did last Wednesday evening over radio station WIP, when they met Temple University on the negative of the Townsend Plan. No decision was given in this radio debate, as in the custom, listeners being asked to send in their votes.

For a period of four consecutive Fridays, the Beta Gamma will be the hosts in a series of intercollegiate debates, to be given over radio station WIP, Philadelphia. The schedule is set for 45 minute periods, from 4:00 to 4:45 P. M.

COLLEGE REPRESENTED

Very Rev Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, and Rev. Paul F. Healey, O. S. A., Prior of Villanova Monastery, represented the college at the consecration of Bishop Hugh L. Lamb, D. D., Titular Bishop of Helas and Auxiliary Bishop of Philadelphia on last Thursday. The ceremony took place at SS. Peter and Paul Cathedral in Philadelphia.

YEARBOOK EDITOR WANTS SNAPSHOTS

Guarantees to Return All Informal Snapshots After Used for Book

As one of the final steps in completion of the photography department of the Belle Air yearbook of the college, Florindo Troncelliti, photography editor, has called for all snapshots of the college that are available.

Any student desiring to present snapshots for publication in the annual are informed to deliver them to Messrs. Charles Betz, Frank Shaffer, Edward Donahue or present them to the office of the Belle Air, Room 51, Mendel Hall. It is the wish of the photography editors that all students cooperate with the Belle Air staff in making this section of the book attractive.

All prints are to be in before the Easter vacation and Mr. Troncelliti guarantees that all will be returned to their owners as soon as the snapshot section is completed.

It has also been announced that due to the preparation necessary for the quarterly examinations there will be no group pictures taken for the Belle Air this week. All spring sport pictures will be taken next week.

STAFF MEETS TODAY

The entire Villanovan staff will meet today at 1 P. M. in the office, 119 Mendel Hall to discuss the forthcoming Dinner-Dance.

REV. JOHN F. BURNS WILL GIVE LENTEN ADDRESS TONIGHT

Salvation Is Subject Chosen By Arts School Dean Sermon

IS ACTIVE IN PARISHES

Salvation will be the subject of a discourse given tonight by Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Arts and Philosophy, as the fifth of a series of sermons to the college students during the Lenten season.

Fr. Burns' reputation as a speaker is well-known to the student body. He is also outstanding in the literary world, being the author of several religious books. Among them are "Sermons for Lent," which was published last year, and "The Seven Last Words," published two years ago.

During the current Lenten season, Fr. Burns has been conducting a Novena of Grace in honor of St. Francis Xavier at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, in Philadelphia; and Lenten courses at St. Nicholas Church, Atlantic City, and Our Lady of Mercy Church, in Philadelphia

Last Tuesday evening the student body was addressed by Rev. John Sparrow, O. S. A., professor of philosophy in the School of Arts. The subject of Fr. Sparrow's address, unannounced until its deliverance, was love of God and love of neighbor.

Fr. Sparrow began his talk by mentioning the fact that Jesus Christ was annoyed when anyone asked Him the road to Salvation. Christ always told them, he said,

Continued on Page Four

FROSH DEBATERS DEFEAT FORDHAM

First Year Forensic Group Is Victorious Over New York Rivals

The Villanova Freshmen debaters were declared the victors over the Fordham University yearlings in a contest held last week, in the Mendel Hall Amphitheater. The topic under discussion was the current Congress and Supreme Court question.

The Villanova team, which upheld the affirmative side of the question, was composed of John E. Dimon, James M. Quigley and Thomas E. Delate. The visitors were represented by William J. Smullen, Donald C. Wilson and John M. Keever.

Vernard J. Kelly, a graduate of Annapolis, and at present Deputy Attorney General of Pennsylvania, acted in the capacity of critic judge and was free to pass judgment and comment on any of the individual speakers.

John Keever Is Best Speaker

At the conclusion of the debate, Mr. Kelly commended both teams upon their excellent work, particularly for their delivery, posture and breathing, which are essential in the development of good speakers. Mr. Kelly singled out John

Continued on Page Four

NAMES TRIPS FOR A. I. E. E.

Electrical Engineering Students To Visit Bell Telephone Offices And Plants

James McBrearty, senior in the School of Technology, and president of the Student Chapter of the AIEE, has announced the tentative trip schedule for the remainder of the year.

Besides the trip they will make with the ASME chapter next Saturday, the society will also visit the Bell Telephone offices to inspect the various functions and electrical

Supporters Stubbornly Fight The Gradual Decline of "Hell Week"

MADISON, Wis., Mar. 16 (ACP)—Hell Week is dying, but the traditional fraternity initiation period still has loyal supporters, according to Associated Collegiate Press correspondents at Middle Western, Pacific and Southern schools. Despite the annual barrage of criticism, plenty of pledges absorbed the presented doses of punishment and indignity this year.

"And why not?" demanded the anonymous and slightly unanimatical forestry student who denounced Penn State Collegian editors for the paper's anti-Hell policy with. "The foresters are more of a gentleman in their crudest moments than you are. A self-respecting fraternity wants men in its membership, not 'sissies'."

Slightly at variance with this view, was the stand taken by nine Penn State fraternities, Alpha Chi Rho, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu and Triangle, after listening to a plea by Wilbur M. Walden, national secretary of Alpha Chi Rho, declaring a permanent ban on Hell Week.

Continue Practices

Similar action was taken by the University Disciplinary Committee at DePauw, with social probation the penalty for fraternities declining to abolish outlawed initiation practices. "The fraternity world is changing," said The DePauw, student paper, in commenting on the decision. "If we contemplate for long the fraternity of ten years ago we shall find ourselves holding a mess of pottage."

The University of Tennessee's Orange and White asked the Interfraternity Council to order discontinuance of Hell Week. "Many of our fraternities have gone beyond the limits of reason, and even respectability in their application of this pre-initiation custom," says The Orange and White. Considering the violence to which some of our fraternities have resorted, Tennessee is lucky that more accidents have not occurred."

Plan Campaign

Meanwhile, the National Interfraternity Council planned a national campaign. The Council has repeatedly gone on record as opposing every Hell Week practice. Unmoved by all this, however, are the editors of The Golden Gater, San Francisco State College publication. Remarking the transfer of freshman "discipline" from an association of men students to the sophomore class in an editorial headed "Must States Always Mind Their Manners?" they say. "It's time for us to forget our 'highfalutin' philosophy and get some collegiate color in our veins. Let the bulbous-browed individuals pursue their one-track academic ways. We'll take a little fun and spirit with OUR medicine."

STUDENTS REVEAL MARITAL FEELINGS

New York, March 16—You may think you'd like to marry money, but the chances are that when you come to a decision you won't much care.

At least this attitude is indicated in a six-year survey of the problem just completed by Dr. Ray Ewin Baber, professor of Sociology in New York University.

Dr. Baber, who conducts a course at the university's Washington Square College entitled "Marriage and Family Life," interviewed 642 college students and 220 parents on the matter of choosing a marriage partner.

The students, 321 young women, declared that economic status was a matter of small concern when it came to selecting a mate, since 93 per cent of the men said they would marry a girl of lower economic rank than their own and 82 per cent of the women were of the same opinion.

Not so many of the 220 parents (105 fathers and 115 mothers) took the same view of the question. Sixty-six per cent of the fathers declared they would be willing to allow their daughters to marry a person of lower economic rank and 69 per cent of the mothers agreed.

On the question "would you marry a person of lower moral standards than your own?" Twenty per cent of the men answered yes, and one-fifth of the women replied affirmatively.

Fifty-eight per cent of the men and 42 per cent of the women would marry outside their own faith, while on the question of intelligence, the men voted 76 per cent in favor of a less intelligent mate, 18 per cent of the women.

SYRACUSE WORKING FOR STUDENT UNION

Undergraduates Willing to Contribute Funds; $22,500 on Hand

A student union building project of Syracuse University will be financed by funds accumulated during the past 10 years and contributions from students and alumni. The first concrete steps toward its realization were taken last year when 2400 students petitioned for a permanent students union building after a decade of sporadic undergraduate demands.

A student union building would focus the interests of 1518 Syracuse undergraduates living in the city or commuting daily from nearby districts on the campus, leaders contend. It would enable students to conduct meetings, hold inexpensive weekly dances, make social contacts, and develop acquaintanceship, as well as serve as a rallying point for returning alumni.

An alumni fund of $20,000 previously allocated for a women's building and $2500 raised by popular subscription in 1926 may be available for financing if additional money is raised through student contributions. Proceeds of the 1936 senior ball, amounting to $3616, were turned over to the student union fund two weeks ago.

Says College Publications Are Enervated by Modern Journalism

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 16—Collegiate newspapers, literary, humorous and other publications are no better than they are largely because undergraduate editors fail to discriminate between professional journalistic practices which they can and cannot imitate to their advantage.

Not all methods which make for success in commercial journalism are adaptable to students publications; others which could, perhaps, be imitated ought not to be because they are unworthy of any journalism, amateur or professional.

Poor Judgment

An historical survey of undergraduate periodicals reveals that since their inception they have used commercial newspapers and other publications as their models. Innovations in them have followed similar ones in publications admired by college boys and girls. There has been much poor judgment and little discrimination in getting "on the bandwagon" whenever a new circulation-getter was concocted by some successful practicing alumnus.

The most obvious case in point, perhaps, is the extent to which undergraduate comic publications have prostrated themselves before College Humor magazine. The main purpose of many student editors of allegedly funny publications is to "make" College Humor; serving the interests of the campus subscribers may become entirely secondary.

Follow Fads

College literary and news publications do not have the financial incentive to imitate any particular standard magazine or newspaper, but the urge to emulate the latest fad or fancy is strong. Five years ago there was scarcely a college literary publication which considered itself "chic" that was not as much a replica of Henry L. Mencken's American Mercury as conditions and faculty censors permitted. As the influence of Mr. Mencken's contribution to American a waned, sycophants of the Mercury have decreased in number. At present there are several popular models including The New Yorker, Harpers, Vanity Fair, and Time, awaiting the appearance of a new idea which all will want to copy.

Columnist Craze

In imitation of current professional newspaper practice the "column" is the contemporary rage. Heywood Broun, Walter Lippmann, and Walter Winchell serve as models for more aspiring journalists than all the good examples in all the good textbooks on journalism.

Reasons for this situation are not difficult to findt .First, the professional model is the easiest to obtain and the most obvious. Undergraduate readers are accustomed to reading regular newspapers, and it is therefore supposed that they desire their campus publications to be of the same kind. Second, most undergraduate editors consider somewhat seriously a professional journalistic career and regard the practical experience gained by working for a student periodical as of more value than theoretical courses taught by elderly professors, and from parents and alumni, cause sympathetic smiles for the old fogeys.

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Three

"No trucks are, by law, allowed on the streets on Sunday.

* * *

"All Holy Days are observed at national holidays.

* * *

"The lack of formality of Americans impressed me very much. For instance, I have been asked personal questions, which I would never think of asking anyone else myself. (This author hastily reflected!)

* * *

Sidelights

"Universities are a corporation of different colleges. Not a wire can be seen overhead in Irish cities, all are underground, even those of the tram-ways (trolleys). Ireland is noted for its watering places (seashore resorts)."

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 20 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1936 Price: Five Cents

DR. GITHENS TALKS TO STUDENTS ABOUT POISONOUS SNAKES

Noted Authority Illustrates Lecture With Live North American Varieties

SHOWS MOTION PICTURES

Illustrating with the aid of live snakes and preserved specimens in a discourse on North American poisonous snakes, Dr. Thomas S. Githens, head of the Antivenin Institute at Glenolden, Pa., addressed a combined seminar of the Science, Arts, and Engineering Schools, at the most interesting weekly session of the year last Thursday.

With Dr. Githens was his assistant, Mr. Joseph Hockings, who assisted the doctor during the lecture by handli.; the live snakes and answering random questions asked by the students.

Dr. Githen's lecture consisted of a brief history of the Antivenin Institute, a classification of reptiles, a description of the various North American reptiles, their relative importance, the preparation of antivenin and climaxed with a brief but interesting and instructive film of the institute and the snakes they utilize.

Several scientists, interested in preparing a specific anti-toxin for the venom of poisonous snakes, united in their common aim to find the antivenin and created the Antivenin Institute. Their efforts, however, were not very successful, and the institution collapsed.

The Sharp & Dohme Co., a Philadelphia concern selling commer-

Continued on Page Four

NOMINATIONS WILL BE HELD BY LKD

Preliminary Drafts Are Set For April 2; Annual Dance Is April 25

Annual nominations of officers of the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity for the 1936-37 term will be held at the next session on Thursday, April 2. This announcement was made at a meeting of the fraternity on last Thursday.

The initial nominations will decide the fraternity members who will be eligible for election to the following capacities: President, sergeant-at-arms, Student Council representative and four councilmen for the board of directors. These nominees will be taken from the present Junior class. The other nominations to be made are vice-president and treasurer, both of whom will be Sophomores. The secretary must be a member of the Freshman division. These nominations will cover a period of approximately two weeks, terminating in elections in early May.

Dance Date Is April 25

The annual dance to be given by the fraternity will be held definitely on Saturday, April 25. William Christman, chairman of the dance committee, predicts the finest so-

Continued on Page Seven

REPRESENTS VILLANOVA

Dean Carl T. Humphrey Attends Engineering Exercises At Lafayette College

Dean Carl T. Humphrey, D. Sc., was the official representative of Villanova College last Friday, at the exercises celebrating the completion of 70 years of Engineering at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

The principal speakers were Dr. C. F. Kettering, president of General Motors Research Corporation, and Col. R. I. Rees, vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., also an outstanding leader in Engineering education.

WILL WRITE PLAY

Fr. Burns to Produce "Joan of Arc" for Historical Society

Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Ph. D., dean of the School of Arts and Letters, will write a play entitled "Joan of Arc," to be presented by the American Historical Society of Philadelphia next fall.

Rehearsals for the play will commence in August and the production will be brought before the public at the Academy of Music in the early part of November.

Fr. Burns has to his credit other works, among which are included, "Vision," a passion play; "Sermons for Lent," and "The Seven Last Words."

LADIES COMMITTEE AT GUILD MEETING

Over Fifty-five Members Attend as Further Committees Are Appointed

Representatives from New Jersey, Philadelphia, and the Main Line attended a meeting of the Ladies' Committee of the Augustinian Guild held in the Lounge Room at the Villanova College gymnasium last Wednesday.

Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., chaplain of the college, conducted the meeting at which over 55 members were present. Fr. Brown thanked those attending for their good work in the past and stressed tohe necessity of duplicating and even bettering this achievement. He also expressed the appreciation of the Augustinian Fathers for the work done in the past, the efforts on the part of the members being the sole means by which they were able to meet the heavy financial burden of carrying on the work of the seminaries.

Plans for this year's card party were placed before the committee for consideration. Captains of the various committees were announced and each captain in turn explained what he wished hi committee to accomplish in the respective districts.

Rev. Emil Misson, of Mother of Good Counsel Parish, in Bryn Mawr, selected chair ladies from the various groups and asked them in turn to select active committees. He stated the importance of collecting prizes for this year's affair declaring that some 700 prizes will be necessary.

The question regarding the program for the card party was discussed by Rev. Thomas Gilligan, O. S. A., and it was decided by the committee that a program with advertisements should be had. This plan is expected to greatly increase the revenue. Mrs. Charles McFad-

Continued on Page Four

Joseph Malcolm To Give Paper at Lafayette Parley

Occasion of Annual Eastern Student Conference of A. S. M. E.

Joseph Malcolm, senior mechanical engineer, will present a paper on the "Hardening of Low Carbon Steels," at the Annual Eastern Student Conference of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to be held at Lafayette College in Easton on April 20 and 21.

The student chapter of Villanova will make an inspection tour of the Richmond Station of the Philadelphia Electric Company to inspect the new pulverized coal fed boilers and the new 165,000 kw. turbo-generating unit this Saturday.

The A. S. M. E. group will be accompanied by the Student Chapter of the A. I. E. E.

Prof. J. Stanley Morehouse issued the following directions for reaching the Richmond Station. Take the Frankford Elevated to Girard Ave. and there transfer to No. 15 car. Get off at Lewis St. and walk two blocks east to the plant. The tour of the plant will begin at 9:30 A. M.

Batter Up! . . A Yearly Indicator of Spring

Spring scene on Mendel Field, the most popular campus playground, which is being variously used these days. Any time during the day one can see a group of boys as pictured above engaged in the spring-time game. In the background can be seen the newly constructed baseball backstop for the coming intramural campaign. The varsity grid team utilizes the field for practice from 3 to 5 each afternoon.

Crack Of Bat, Bark Of Quarterback, Song Of Birds, Say Spring Is Here

By JOSEPH TOLAND

The crack of the bat, the soar of the horsehide, the clipped bark of the football quarterback, the blaring of radios from wide open windows and the premature wearing of new spring clothes about the campus, all indicate positive proofs that spring has really returned to Villanova in all its auditory glory.

At last old man Winter has relinquished his icy grip on our weary campus and with la ray of hope and joyous anticipation of the beautiful season to come we drag our spring coats from among their haven in the mothballs and send home the iceskates and woolen gloves.

Campus fields are alive with happy youth enjoying the first outdoor recreation since the snow storms descended upon us back in November. Coach Stuhldreher has his minions out on Mendel Field where they are daily going through their paces in preparation for next season's campaign.

Down behind the stadium Doc Jacobs is teaching his diamond proteges a few tricks of the trade so as to have them ready for their opener with Penn. All the fields about the campus are busy with study-worn students out for a breath of good, clean air.

The robin and bobwhite have again returned to sing their carefree songs in the nearby woods while the verdant swards of the campus form a pleasing background for the new green tint of the early-budding trees.

Overcoats are forgotten as listless students roam the ice-free campus and drink in the dawn of Mother Nature's radiant new season. The season of joy, season of listlessness, season of relaxation and time of dreams and sulphur and molasses has at last come back of us. Yes, fellows, we have waited long enough and have been fully rewarded. Spring is here to stay.

VARSITY DEBATERS ENGAGE U. OF PA.

Will Defend Affimative of Supreme Court and Congress Question

Beta Gamma varsity debaters will meet the University of Pennsylvania team this Friday, in a discussion of the Supreme Court and Congress question. Villanova will defend the affirmative of the resolution in the amphitheater at 8:00 P. M.

Victor Ashe, Joseph Carroll, and Anthony Differ will uphold the Beta Gamma then as they did last Wednesday evening over radio station WIP, when they met Temple University on the negative of the Townsend Plan. No decision was given in this radio debate, as is the custom, listeners being asked to send in their votes.

For a period of four consecutive Fridays, the Beta Gamma will be the hosts in a series of intercollegiate debates, to be given over radio station WIP, Philadelphia. The schedule is set for 45 minute periods, from 4:00 to 4:45 P. M.

COLLEGE REPRESENTED

Very Rev Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, and Rev. Paul F. Healey, O. S. A., Prior of Villanova Monastery, represented the college at the consecration of Bishop Hugh L. Lamb, D. D., Titular Bishop of Helas and Auxiliary Bishop of Philadelphia on last Thursday. The ceremony took place at SS. Peter and Paul Cathedral in Philadelphia.

YEARBOOK EDITOR WANTS SNAPSHOTS

Guarantees to Return All Informal Snapshots After Used for Book

As one of the final steps in completion of the photography department of the Belle Air yearbook of the college, Florindo Troncelliti, photography editor, has called for all snapshots of the college that are available.

Any student desiring to present snapshots for publication in the annual are informed to deliver them to Messrs. Charles Belz, Frank Shaffer, Edward Donahue or present them to the office of the Belle Air, Room 51, Mendel Hall. It is the wish of the photography editors that all students cooperate with the Belle Air staff in making this section of the book attractive.

All prints are to be in before the Easter vacation and Mr. Troncelliti guarantees that all will be returned to their owners as soon as the snapshot section is completed.

It has also been announced that due to the preparation necessary for the quarterly examinations there will be no group pictures taken for the Belle Air this week. All spring sport pictures will be taken next week.

STAFF MEETS TODAY

The entire Villanovan staff will meet today at 1 P. M. in the office, 119 Mendel Hall to discuss the forthcoming Dinner-Dance.

REV. JOHN F. BURNS WILL GIVE LENTEN ADDRESS TONIGHT

Salvation Is Subject Chosen By Arts School Dean Sermon

IS ACTIVE IN PARISHES

Salvation will be the subject of a discourse given tonight by Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Arts and Philosophy, as the fifth of a series of sermons to the college students during the Lenten season.

Fr. Burns' reputation as a speaker is well-known to the student body. He is also outstanding in the literary world, being the author of several religious books. Among them are "Sermons for Lent," which was published last year, and "The Seven Last Words," published two years ago.

During the current Lenten season, Fr. Burns has been conducting a Novena of Grace in honor of St. Francis Xavier at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, in Philadelphia; and Lenten courses at St. Nicholas Church, Atlantic City, and Our Lady of Mercy Church, in Philadelphia.

Last Tuesday evening the student body was addressed by Rev. John Sparrow, O. S. A., professor of philosophy in the School of Arts. The subject of Fr. Sparrow's address, unannounced until its deliverance, was love of God and love of neighbor.

Fr. Sparrow began his talk by mentioning the fact that Jesus Christ was annoyed when anyone asked Him the road to Salvation. Christ always told them, he said,

Continued on Page Four

FROSH DEBATERS DEFEAT FORDHAM

First Year Forensic Group Is Victorious Over New York Rivals

The Villanova Freshmen debaters were declared the victors over the Fordham University yearlings in a contest held last week, in the Mendel Hall Amphitheater. The topic under discussion was the current Congress and Supreme Court question.

The Villanova team, which upheld the affirmative side of the question, was composed of John E. Dimon, James M. Quigley and Thomas E. Delate. The visitors were represented by William J. Smullen, Donald C. Wilson and John M. Keever.

Vernard J. Kelly, a graduate of Annapolis, and at present Deputy Attorney General of Pennsylvania, acted in the capacity of critic judge and was free to pass judgment and comment on any of the individual speakers.

John Keever Is Best Speaker

At the conclusion of the debate, Mr. Kelly commended both teams upon their excellent work, particularly for their delivery, posture and breathing, which are essential in the development of good speakers. Mr. Kelly singled out John

Continued on Page Four

NAMES TRIPS FOR A. I. E. E.

Electrical Engineering Students To Visit Bell Telephone Offices And Plants

James McBrearty, senior in the School of Technology, and president of the Student Chapter of the AIEE, has announced the tentative trip schedule for the remainder of the year.

Besides the trip they will make with the ASME chapter next Saturday, the society will also visit the Bell Telephone offices to inspect the various functions and electrical units

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36.....Editor-in-Chief
BARRY PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36.....Sports Editor
CHARLES STABLECKER, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37.....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36.....Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Darmen Giordano, '36.....Exchange Editor
Pio F. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Simons, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Pullon, '38
Anthony T. Mell, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vassalluzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Finkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '37 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39 — James Meiler, '39
Eugene Looram, '37 — Richard Mulvihil, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Walter L. Balatty, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39 — Anthony Differ, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Linguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager

Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova, scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1926

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association. Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

UESDAY - - - - MARCH 24, 1936

FLOOD RELIEF

WHILE Federal, State, and private agencies are exerting every effort to bring relief to the flood stricken areas of the country, it woud be well to recall that these disasters do not lack precedent. Yearly each of the present inundated areas have a tidal increase in their local waterways due to the greater or lesser severity of the preceding winter. Yearly each of these districts suffers a proportionate property loss. And yearly we wonder when the Government will come to the conclusion that it is time to obviate these useless disasters by the construction of the necessary bulwarks.

It seems to be an unfortunate concomitant of man's intellectual advancement that it should be at the expense of his faculty for foresight—because it is impossible to reconcile the periodic loss of life and property to any other cause than the failure to consider the catastrophes of the past in the light of future events.

Although the life of the average individual is so short that there is little likely hood of his suffering more than one of these disasters, nevertheless the State is not adequately supplying relief until it makes the necessary provisions for preventing the hazard. The expense of providing against such occurrences will undoubtedly be great, but when considered in the light of the aggregate losses that will accrue from the failure to do anything about the conditions, they are comparatively small.

If our determination to eradicate the future possibilities of floods, is equal to our sincerity and efforts in relieving the distress that they cause, a great deal of suffering can be avoided.

HARMONY AMONG NAVAL POWERS

FOLLOWING a long and draw out period of parley the London Naval Conference has finally arrived at something concrete. On Wednesday, the new treaty which will render null and voil preceding agreements, will be signed by the United States, Great Britain, and France. The question of capital ship tonnage has been reserved by Italy and at any rate Mussolini does not favor entering into agreements with sanctionist countries. However, the general opinion has it that once the Ethiopian affair is settled he will join the rest.

Japan and Germany are looking in from the outside. But some time in the near future Great Britain and Germany will draw up a treaty among themselves quite similar to that one agreed upon by the three powers and that Japan, with the United States and Great Britain will, in a distinct protocol adherence, reaffirm to the article in the London treaty of 1930 "humanizing" submarine warfare.

When the Conference first met, this was not the expected result, but under the current circumstances it is perhaps the best that could be expected. The Irish Free State has refused its signature, and the United States has made the reservation that, if it felt that Great Britain was building far too many light cruisers, it might reopen the question of the heavier cruisers. Under the new system of British naval bases, it seems that this will hardly be necessary. That is unless there is another European war. It was this spectre that was dancing before the eyes of the delegates throughout their deliberations.

In view of the forces lined up against Germany it is hardly to be conceived that Hitler will provoke such a conflict. As it stands now, the new treaty is a qualitative one with limitations. It is not exactly what would be evolved in time of peace. For example it does not touch upon the issue of armaments reduction. But it does assure the harmony of three great naval powers and perhaps in time to come another. The abstention of Japan is an unfortunate condition which for the time being is uncurable.

CATHOLIC SERVICE IN THE EAST

IN the face of such discouraging reports from Japan, where jingoism at the moment runs rampant, comes refreshing news.

A number of Catholic university students at the University of Tokyo have banned together in an effort to stamp out poverty and the roots of crime in the poverty-ridden district of Mikawishama, one of Tokyo's immense and wretched surburbs.

In the midst of this seething population they have established the Jochi Catholic settlement, and these noble-spirited sons of Nippon live like the people around them, eat laborer's fare and make what start they can without earthly resources at their command.

Beginning with the kindergarten for the smallest children they organized other units for the recreation and useful training of children. Other endeavors in the humanitarian line followed: a library, a dispensary, a recreation and movie center, and a simple type of cooperative store.

Soon the 13,000 destitute families in this group of hovels began to look up to these young social workers for the information so necessary for success in a densely populated area.

Aside from the great work that is being done to alleviate the wretched conditions of the populace is the stimulating effect upon the students themselves, who have learned to realize at first hand the difficulties besetting the destitute.

We in this country may not be able to follow the example of our Eastern cousins but we do much to alleviate conditions in this country by contributing more generously to societies which are well trained by practice and experience to carry on this work.

TRUE TO THE inconsistency expected of a dictator, Adolf Hitler in his wrathful Reichstag speech accused Russia of dethroning God. All to true, but has Hitler set a better example? Already Germany has shown pagan trends and persecution among the Jews and Catholics and Protestant "liberals" cannot be recorded an any defense of religion.

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

OF INTEREST to all students in colleges throughout the United States is the following which has been the result of careful research on the part of prominent educators in this country.

The "earn your way through college" illusion is being dispelled. Not only have conditions of unemployment rendered it virtually impossible for a boy to meet his entire college expenses through his own efforts, but the great increase in the total number of students requiring financial ai dhas brought into focus with incapable clarity the weaknesses of such a project.

Unquestionably the tremendous increase in college registration during the post-war decade was due, more than to any other cause, to wdiespread belief that any one of average ability and health could, and indeed should, earn a college education, in many cases to be followed by professional training on the same basis.

A different attitude prevails today. With increasing frequency college administrators are pointing out the disadvantages, and in many cases the downright dangers, which accompany the effort to combine full-time collegiate study with an extensive program of self-support.

The conclusions of the investigations group which constitutes the first methodical analysis of the darker side of the picture uncovered the following facts: the health hazards involved in this self-support idea are most serious; constant worry over financial matters produces a demoralizing effect on the student; the more numerous the self-supporting students the thinner the chances of success; this excessive number renders competition too keen; this plan of self-support jeopardizes extra-curricular activities.

At this point our readers will probably say, "What is the answer?" It may be that part of the answer is to be found in the growing belief that a considerable number of the boys and girls now going to college would be better off doing something else. But the best solution proposed thus far is that one put forth by President Conant, of Harvard University. He has proposed the establishment of additional large scholarships as the best means of freeing superior students from the necessity of outside employment.

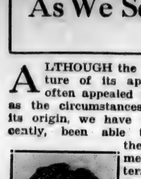
Presumably such scholarships would provide stipends of a size sufficient not only to cover tuition charges but also to meet the major part of the recipient's living costs. They would be, in effect, fellowships and would be restricted to students of outstanding ability. Such restrictions would no doubt be difficult, but perhaps this is as it should be, and just as it means larger scholarships so it means fewer.

However this would do away with the harm, not in the existence of part-time work, but of overwork as the result of an unsystematic fashion of employment. As it is today one student receives too much of everything while another receives too little. The problem should be dealt with from the other end. Start with a student who needs and deserves assistance. Study his situation from the supply of scholarships, loan funds, and jobs and assign to him that needed combination. And so for the next and the next.

This problem is a matter of prescription for the individual, not distribution to the group.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano



THE University of San Francisco's "Foghorn" gives the shocking palaver:

Connect 20,000 volts across a pint. If the current jumps it, the product is poor.

If the current causes a precipitation of lye, tin, arsenic, iron, slag, and alum, the whiskey is fair.

If the liquor chases the current back to the generator, you've got good stuff.

• • •

Football season is the only season when you can have a girl in one ar mand a blanket in the other without someone's making a crack about it.

• • •

When you
Started this
You thought it
Was a poem.
By this time
You probably see
That you
Were mistaken.
Isn't it funny
How people will continue
To read something
Even when they know
They're being Fooled

• • •

"How did you get on with Jeanette?" asked one fraternity brother of another.

"I started off well," sighed the ardent lover. "I said that I was knee-deep in love with her."

"Sounds all right. What was her reaction to that?"

The young suitor grimaced. "She promised to put me on her wading list."

• • •

Prosperity is returning in American colleges. It is reported that students are lending longer pencils this year.

• • •

There is a rumor about collegiate circles which is to the effect that fraternity men at Western Reserve debated the question, Resolved, That the shiny nose is preferable to the hole in the stocking.

• • •

Scene: A mass meeting.
Speaker: "Down with capitalism!"
Voice from rear: "And punctuation too!"

• • •

"Marriage is a swell institution, but I'm not ready for an institution yet."—Mae West.

• • •

Soph: "Goodbye, Mother. I'm leaving for school now."
Mother: "Goodbye, dear. Be good. Have a good time."
Soph: "Can't you make up your mind, Mother."

• • •

Stanford University regulations keep the nearest bar at least five miles from the school.

CAMPUS CELEBS -- By Guarini

As We See It - - - Reflections

By HARRY PARKIN

ALTHOUGH the whimsical nature of its application had often appealed to us, as well as the circumstances surrounding its origin, we have not, until recently, been able to determine the geneological merits of the term "Doc." At first appearance its originator had seemed to use it indiscriminately, that is, as a title of approbation or one of opprobrium; but as we attended its usage more closely it became apparent that the term was more often a prelude to censure than to praise.

As the student body has been using the term with little or no attempt at discrimination there was, naturally, no likelihood of learning its true status from them. Fortunately, however, its innovator has had occasion to define it—a "Doc," it seems, is an individual who has the degree, but neither the intelligence nor learning that should accompany it—while a doctor is one who not only has the physical sign of his initiative, but likewise the knowledge of well directed efforts.

We have been at some pains to enlighten the student body upon this subject in order that they may be forewarned—for in having it applied to themselves, and being cognizant of what is to follow, they will have some few moments in which to fashion an excuse suitable for their delinquency or mistake. Although excuses are for the most part the defensive afterthoughts of a foolish action, by which we hope to ease the egotism of burden of censure—and are usually regarded as such—they are the most frequent means by which a man fools himself.

• • •

The monist is an individual who finds an adequate explanation of the phenomena about him by attributing many godly characteristics to a distinctly un-godly agent.

• • •

The other day we happened to come across one of those proselytizing pamphlets, that some religions are in the practice of circulating, and were no little surprised to learn that "it was his mission to prepare a new phase of the Christian religion, to be used during the coming age, now at hand: for as the world and man evolve so also must religion change." Which is, if nothing else, an ingenious way of explaining away their lateness in the period of time, by complimenting modernity upon its superior intellectual standards. But what constitutes the evolution of man? Certainly it cannot be physical, for he retains the same form now that he had with the birth of Christianity—and if it's intellectual, it places at nought the numerous authorities that are decrying the cultural degeneracy of this age. We are not suggesting that these statements are inconsistent with the evidences of history, but we are conjecturing upon the real basis of their advancement.

• • •

Marriage in the modern interpretation of the word, is an institution in which one personality must dominate over the other—or end in divorce. Due either to faulty home training or selfishness, men and women seem to have lost all conception of the mutual duties entailed by entrance into this holy state.

• • •

Nothing is so conventionally revealing as the modern female's clothing.

• • •

The only thing that recommends this article to us, and more than likely to the reader also, is the knowledge that it has at last come to this unnatural and doleful conclusion.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

LUCKY BOYS...Trey Peters, 21-year-old banjo player, and Bill Marshall, 17, baritone, left their jobs in a Texas oil field and journeyed to Chicago to try to interest Fred Waring in their talents. Fred was too busy and told them to look him up in Detroit, the Pennsylvanians' next stop on their vaudeville tour.

The Texas lads went on to Detroit and got themselves hired as members of the Waring troupe. Their break was facilitated by the fact that many of Waring's boys were down with bad colds.

Fred introduced Peters and Marshall on his broadcast and considers them real finds. The boys say: "We had a hunch we could put it over, even though our pals thought we were crazy."

DEPENDABLE . . . Frank Munn, tenor star of the American Album of Familiar Music program, is a dependable sort of individual. He lived in the Bronx for 30 years, has never been late for rehearsals or broadcast and still uses a watch he won in an amateur contest when he was a youngster.

WEATHER ITEM . . . Old Man Winter blew his breath fiercely in the faces of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians while they were on tour in the Midwest and laid 32 of them low. Of these, five caught the grippe, seven laryngitis and the rest just plain colds. Almost simultaneously Dick Powell was bitten by a similar germ and missed his first Hollywood Hotel broadcast.

• • •

A new series of weekly full-hour programs entitide "Your Hit Parade," presenting the 15 most outstanding song favorites of the week, was inaugurated over the nationwide Columbia network Saturday, May 2, from 10 to 11 P. M., EDST. It will be heard each week at the same time. "Your Hit Parade" has long been one of the most popular program series on the air and is famous for its policy of presenting the nation's hit dance tunes exactly as they were written and as they were played when they first gained favor. Each week the sponsors, the makers of Lucky Strike cigarettes, conduct an exhaustive coast-to-coast survey to give listeners an authentic list of the 15 numbers most frequently played and sung throughout the country that week. The survey covers sheet music and recording companies, radio reporth, radio stations and band leaders. Five old favorites also are played on each program.

• • •

Three broadcasts of major interest are being arranged by the Columbia Broadcasting System for month of April. They are, with exact time to be set later:

April 5—A magnificent Palm Sunday service from Jerusalem.

April 12—Easter benediction of Pope Pius XI, from Vatican City.

April 13—President Roosevelt's address to the Young Democrats of Maryland, from Baltimore.

The Easter program from the aVtican will include the elevation of the host, the sounding of silver trumpets, the singing of the Sistine choir, a description of the Papal procession and the benediction, which is to be given from the balcony of St. Peter's Church. Last year the CBS network opened early in order that the Pope's voice might be heard in America at 5:30 A. M., EST. It may be necessary to do the same thing again this Easter.

• • •

Starlines

PHIL SPITALNY, maestro of noted all-girl orchestra, conducts the CBS "Hour of Charm." Born in odessa, Russia. Same to America when 17. Settled with his mother and brother in Cleveland, O. Played with brother in local bands. Became one of Cleveland's favorite conductors. Was booked for a short engagement at Loew's State Theatre in Boston. Remained for two years conducting a 40-piece symphony orchestra. Became nationally known in America; then made a world tour. Was first to use women vocalists with band about nine years ago. Against advice of his friends, decided to form an all-girl orchestra. Toured 17 States and auditioned over 1000 girls. Most difficult task was to gain parents' permission for girls to leave home. Found most talented musicians in smaller cities. Has found that young women are easier to manage than men. First presented them at Capitol Theatre in New York three years ago. Has since made two tours of the country with marked success. Works about 15 hours a day, making arrangements and rehearsing. Keeps his proteges hard at work in strict routine. Admired by them as a kindly adviser as well as taskmaster. Gesticulates extravagantly when he conducts. Has a keen sense of humor, which he displays in rehearsals.

VITAL STATISTICS: Is of medium height, has bushy dark hair, brown eyes and weighs 165 pounds.

PROGRAM: "Hour of Charm" featuring Maxine, vocalist; Three Little Words, vocal trio; Evelyn Kay, violinist; and other instrumentalists, heard over nation-wide Columbia network each Sunday from 6:00 to 6:30 P. M., EST. Sponsored by Sales Affiliates, Inc

CHORAL GROUP IN SECOND RECITAL

Glee Club Renders Concert In Lady of Mount Carmel School Hall

The Villanova Glee Club presented its second concert in Our Lady of Mt. Carmel School Hall, 3rd and Wolf Sts., Philadelphia, last Tuesday.

The thirty-five members of the glee club were under the direction of Paul Teel. John Chapple sang a solo of "Mother Machree." The concert was arranged by Father McGarrity, assistant pastor of the parish.

The attendance was large and after the concert an informal dance was held. The members of the glee club enjoyed this dance so much that Fr. Brown expressed the opinion that the boys would be glad to present another such parish social at any time.

Anyone desiring to make arrangements for a concert communicate with either Frs. Burns, Brown, or Ludwig.

There is a possibility of the glee club presenting a concert tonight at the Rosemont parish hall.

The Villanovan

Seven Years Ago

What is now known as Villanova was originally called Belle Air and was the estate of John Rudolph, a Catholic merchant of Philadelphia. He died in 1838 and the estate was offered for sale in 1841. It was purchased on October 13, 1841, by the Brothers of the Order of Hermits of St. Augustine for $18,000.

The first members of the order to reside at Villanova were Brothers Dennis Gallagher and Jeremiah Flynn, who were sent from St. Augustine's Church in Philadelphia to open the mansion Fr. Dwyer, of St. Augustine's, said Mass in the parlor and blessed the new monastery on St. Augustine's Day, August 28, 1843, placing it under the protection of St. Thomas of Villanova.

School was begun in September, 1843, with an enrollment of six students and during the next two years 45 students were in attendance. Their instructors comprised of three priests and two lay teachers. The first floor of the mansion was devoted to classes, the professors had the second floor and the students lived on the third.

The first new college building was erected in 1844 and students were moved out of the monastery. The first prospective of the college was issued in 1844 and it may be of interest to note that the fee was "For pupils over 12 years of age, $125 per annum, payable half-yearly in advance."

A new chapel was built in 1846 which was used for classes during week days. However, misfortune befell the Augustinians when St. Augustine's Church was burned and the college was forced to close in February, 1845. College reopened the following year and was granted its charter in 1847. Fr. Dwyer was the first president and the college made great strides under his tutelage.

In February, 1849, the first college buildings as we know them today were erected This first building was the present west wing of Alumni Hall. In 1873 the first real college building was erected. In 1887 came the present chapel and in 1901 College Hall and the Monastery were erected. In 1912 the new St. Rita's Hall was built for the use of the seminarians. College Hall was destroyed in 1928 but is now again ready for dedication.

Pass In Review

By RICHARD L. G. DEVERALL

EXAMINATION time. Horrid thought! Yes, it is examination time, and woe to the man who has not prepared himself?

But why are examinations feared? Do we fear them because they overtax our minds? Clearly that can hardly be the case, for we have covered (?) the material many times. Can it be that unfair questions are asked? That can hardly be, for most professors advise their students what sort of questions they are to answer. Perhaps the answer is to be found in this: students let things slide until the last moment; and then, in a glorious burst of energetic application, endeavor to masticate three month's work in one night. If such is the case, intellectual toxicity ensues.

Before we go ahead, let us ask what an examination is. According to all authorities from the time of Aristotle down, an examination is a device used to determine whether a student has mastered the matter studied. Questions are asked in such a manner that the professor can tell precisely what the student knows (the latter, of course, being an ideal rarely achieved). On the student's part, an examination is to be looked forward to, for he is going to find out how much he has learned. An examination, to a good student, is the greatest sort of competition in the world, for he matches his wits with those of his professor.

Suppose you purchased a car from an automobile dealer. Would you accept the car unless you had tested it? Would you believe that it could do all that it was advertised to do, or would you buy it without any further investigation? Why, you'd give the thing a thorough examination, wouldn't you? Well, it is the same thing in school. You are buying from the college authorities a certain amount of their time. s it not the most logical thing n thie world, when you have completed your course of instruction, to examine yourself and see how well you have been taught. f you don't feel that way, you don't belong in college.

Some fellows think that if they pass an examination, by hook or by crook, they have succeeded in their course. Usually this implies two general methods; cramming the night before, or writing out a set of crib notes. If you prepare crib notes, you learn nothing, for the examination consists in transcribing notes. Any stenographer can do that. As for the cramming, a series of brilliant studies, carried on by Iowa State University, clearly indicate that the crammer forgets everything he studied within from one to two months. Does it not seem to be a poor way of doing things: you pay thousands of dollars to procure an education, and then you deliberately cheat yourself. As for the parents, well, they just pay, and pay, and pay—and they get nothing for it—nor do you.

It is a peculiar thing, but the man who knows his subject never studies. Constant application, say an hour or so every evening, is the real key to success. Never study! It is bad for you. Just carry on, every day, and examinations lose their quality of striking terror in the heart of the student.

Now doesn't it seem more sensible to follow such a procedure? As long as you let things slide until the last day, just so long are examinations going to be your Waterloo. Why not think this over during the week and do better during the final quarter. You'll find that your experiment in planned education is intensely practical! And, another important consideration, your folks will appreciate the news of your six or seven "A's."

Globe Trotting

By FRED WATERS

ITALY

(From an interview with Frank Bellarmino, senior premedical student at Villanova, and former resident of Italy.)

MUSSOLINI

"After the war various brigands went roving about Italy, plundering, killing and causing general havoc throughout the entire country. During the reign of these "La Mafia," or Black Hand organizations (as they were called), a farmer before going out to tend his farm in the morning, said goodbye to each member of his family, for all he knew it might be the last time he would ever see them again alive.

"This was the state of affairs when Benito Mussolini commenced to harangue and bombast the nation through a Socialist paper, of which he was editor. This ambitious gentleman did not confine his efforts to written criticism. He had soon enlisted the sympathy of Italy's World War Veterans, and with their aid made his famous march on Rome. After this very successful "coup d'etat," Mussolini declared himself Premier, and later Dictator.

"His reign has been marked with tremendous success. During the past 10 years Italy has advanced marvelously in every direction. Living conditions have been improved; and by far the most important, the morale of the Italian people has been restored. Mussolini has become the idol of practically every Italian."

• • •

ETHIOPIA

"What do you think about Mussolini's Ethiopian Campaign?" "Morally, of course, it is not justified. But economically Italy has just as much right to Ethiopia as Britain had to Australia, South Africa, Rhodesia, and so on. Also Italy is in great need of some outlet for her population. She might have acquired this necessary outlet at the close of the World War, when Germany's colonies were divided among some of the Allies, but although she had sacrificed as much as either France or England, in the matter of colonies she was left in the cold."

Continued on Page Four

"CELLOPHANE KEEPS IT FACTORY FRESH"

15¢

Dr. Githens Talks To Local Students

Continued From Page One

cia lchemical products, a branch of which is the M ord Laboratories, took over the Institute and is now supporting it in its research for snake venom preventative.

Dr. Githens divided snakes into four groups, according to the development of their dental organs. The snakes which do not have fangs are placed in the first category. These are harmless to man in regard only to their poisonous effect.

Those snakes which have fangs developed at the rear of their jaws are placed in the second class. Thes rea lso comparatively harmless, in that they seldom can grasp a limb of a human so fully with their jaws that their fangs will puncture the skin.

The third group consists of those whose fangs are located in the front of their mouths. An example of this type is the King Cobra. The Old World species mple the third group.

The last group consists, with few exceptions, of the North American snakes, which are called vipers. They are distinguish d by having fangs hinged to the ro of the fore part of the mouth. This enables them to fold the fangs back against the roof of the mouth and so close the morth without biting themselves.

The United States has been divided into six districts, according to the occurrence of the snakes in each district. Group I consists of all the New England states and several of the Middle Atlantic states; the Timber rattler and the Copperhead are p valent. Group II—the Eastern Coast; the Coral snake. Group III—all the South Atlantic states and the Gulg; the Timber rattler, Copperhead, Water Moccasin.

This section boasts of having both the larg t and the smallest species of poisonous vipers. They are, respectively, the Florida diamond-backed rattler and the Pigmy rattler. The Coral snake is also found there. Group IV—the Northwestern range; Prairie rattler is most abund nt. Group V—Texas; Copperhead and Texas diamond-back rattler. Group VI includes the Western or Pacific coast and contains the Pacific rattlesnake.

Most important of all the snakes is the Texas diamond-backed rattler. It is very abundant and vicious, and alone accounts for approximately 300 snake bites a year, from 10 to 30 per cent. of which are fatal. This reptile alone causes more deaths than the mortality incurred from the bites of all the other snakes together.

With the aid of preserved skins and mounted specimens Dr. Githens illustrated the characteristics of the various snakes. The Florida diamond-backed rattler was observed to be the largest of all the reptiles. It was explained that this animal was the largest and most poisonous of all the North American rattlers, although it is not as important as the Texas rattler.

He explained that the characteristics of all poisonous snakes were a broad, flat, diamond-shaped head and slitted, cat-like eyes, in contrast to the non-poisonous snake which has rounded pupils and a small, narrow head.

Another interesting explanation was that the amount of venom a snake is able to inject depends directly upon its size. In this respect the Copperhead is not very poisonous because it is not unusually large. It is troublesome, however, because it has no fear of man and will even hibernate in a farmer's barn through the Winter. It is because of this fact that the reptile accounts for the greatest number of bites of all the snakes.

Dr. Githens then proceeded to demonstrate, with the aid of his assistant, Mr. Hockings, how snake venom is extracted from the live specimen. This was accomplished by taking out of a large flour bag, a long black non-poisonous snake. The animal was grasped behind the head and its jaws forced open. It's fangs were then stuck through a rubber membrane covering the mouth of a cone-shaped glass, and pressure applied at the region where the venom glands were located.

Proceeding from the demonstration on the extraction of venom, Dr. Githens explained how antivenin is prepared. The liquid venom, which is a viscid amber fluid, is placed in a Petrie dish and dried in an incubator overnight. Dilute solutions of the resulting solid are prepared and injected into selected horses. The injections are increased in strength and finally the horse is bled. The fluid is treated and dried and the crystalline antivenin is ready for immediate application.

An interesting and instructive film was then shown which pictured snakes in their natural habitats, the capturing of live snakes, the Antivenin Institute, its members, the preparation of antivenin, and the treatment of snake-bites.

Ladies Committee At Guild Meeting

Continued From Page One

den, of Ardmore, was asked to act as chairlady of this committee and as her past experience has been notable it is expected that under her guidance the programs will be of an outstanding type.

Rev. James Donnellon, O. S. A., announced that ample room will be provided in the locker room for refreshments. Members of the committee will solicit the necessary refreshments and even greater returns than those received in the past are looked for by Fr. Donnellon and his assistants.

It was announced by Rev. Francis L. Dennis, O. S. A., that over 1200 books of tickets have been distributed and he is hopeful that 800 more will be in circulation prior to the date of the card party.

Frosh Debaters Defeat Fordham

Continued From Page One

Keever as giving the most brilliant individual performance of the debate.

Mr. Smullen expressed the desire that Fordham and Villanova should extend their relations beyond Freshman debating and should include all major events

Paetrus F. Banmiller, registrar of the college, acted as chairman for the occasion.

LENTEN SPEAKER

REV. JOHN F. BURNS, O. S. A.

Rev. John F. Burns To Give Address

Continued From Page One

that they must love God and their neighbor and keep the commandments. Aside from this Christ would only repeat his famous parable of the Good Samaritan.

Further developing his topic the speaker told the students that pagan inteerst in their neighbor must come from the heart in recognition of the fact that one's neighbor is imbued with the likeness of God. In conclusion Fr. Sparrow claimed that if we analyze ourselves we shall never be cruel and harsh towards our neighbor but will always follow the sacred tenets of the golden rule.

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Three

"Is not Italy well supplied with colonies without Ethiopia?" "Yes. But most of these are either too small, or unsuited for any further coloniation. Certain sections of Ethiopia are suitable for Italian immigrants.'

* * *

AN OLD ITALIAN CUSTOM

"Instead of saying 'Hands Up!' a true Italian robber will make his victim lower his head and put his hands between his legs.

"At the age of 18, every Italian youth is compelled to enter the army for a year and a half, after this he becomes a member of the reserve.

"Christmas trees are unknown in most parts of Italy. Yuletide gifts are not exchanged until the Epiphany.

"Italy has recently assumed the guise of 'father' over Austria. But as a matter of fact, even today, among Italians Austria is their traditional enemy.

"In the country districts, there is seldom marriage for love. If you like a girl, without consulting her, you see her parents. If satisfactory to them and if the dowry is sufficient, the girl is politely informed that she is soon to have a husband. Sometimes she is very much distressed, sometimes very pleased, but in any event it usually does not make much difference anyhow.

* * *

SIDELIGHTS

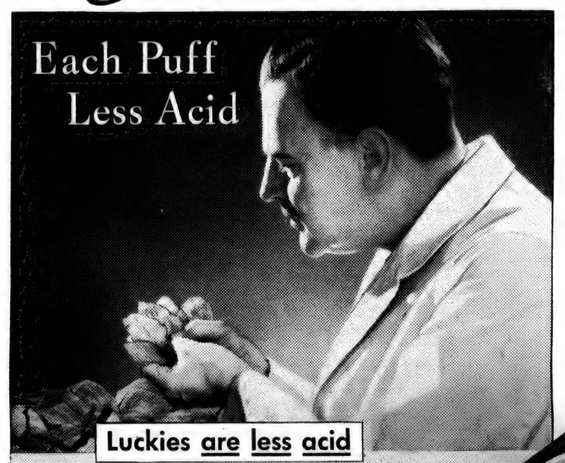
"The U. S. Italian immigration quota has not been filled since Mussolini came into power over 10 years ago.

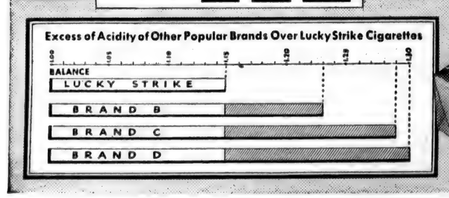
"Italians think of the United States as a virtual paradise. Many believe that money lies about on the streets, to be had merely for the picking up.

"Italy cannot possibly pay her war debts to this country, she just naturally does not have the money.

"Recently when my grandmother died, my father sent her wedding ring and earrings to Mussolini, just as practically every woman in Italy has already done, and received substitutes made of iron."

Luckies — a light smoke





OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO —"IT'S TOASTED"

SCIENTIFIC BLENDING

The blending of tobaccos to secure a given taste—uniformly, season after season and year after year—is both an art and a science.

Every fresh blending of Lucky Strike tobacco contains more than 100 different types produced on thousands of different farms—not only in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland and other States, but tobacco-lands in Macedonia and Xanthia in Greece, Smyrna and Samsoun in Turkey—where the finest Turkish tobacco is grown.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

"IT'S TOASTED"—Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By the Sports Editor

VILLANOVA'S varsity eleven can take a deep sigh of relief now, for the game with Temple this coming fall will be marked by failure of one David Smukler to take the field against the Wildcat squad. The outstanding fullback for two seasons on Pop Warner's teams, has given up his college education for a position with a South Philadelphia brokerage firm.

In resigning from Temple University, Smukler made the following statement: "I am sorry to leave so abruptly, but I feel it is to my advantage to withdraw. My future is more important so I am doing what my parents and I think best."

His withdrawal is the second blow dealt Warner since the last campaign, and leaves him somewhat "in the hole." Johnny Kusko, another promising fullback was dropped from the school, due to deficiencies in his studies. Chris Pappas, an inexperienced sophomore, is the only veteran fullback returning, for a system of play that requires several good men to fill the position during the course of a game.

—V—

On behalf of Villanova College, the members of the boxing squad and Coach Ray Gadsby we take this opportunity to thank the members of the Penn Athletic Club for their kind invitation and hospitality at the Business Men's luncheon. Our boys were asked to put on an exhibition and at the conclusion received trophies from the club.

—V—

Villanova's golf team is making extensive preparations for a trip to be taken through Virginia next week. To date, the arrangements are not certain, with three colleges still to be heard from.

The matches definitely scheduled are: University of Virginia, April 1st, at Charlottesville, Va., and the University of Richmond, at Richmond, on April 3.

Replies have not been received from the University of Western Maryland, to be met on Monday, March 30, Emory and Henry, on March 31, Washington and Lee on April 2, and Georgetown, on April 4. Information should be definitely received by next Thursday.

Disaster recently visited the golf team when its captain and number one player, Jim McNerney, was taken to the hospital with a severe attack of appendicitis. A hasty rearrangement of the team was made with the result that Dave Cragg is playing in the number one, Gene Barr at number two, Joe Duffy in the number three position, with the last position still open for the trip.

—V—

Any of you that have any doubts as to the team that is expected here this coming Fall, just take a jaunt to the field behind Mendel Hall and gaze upon the most promising material that Harry Stuhldreher has had for many seasons. Five lettermen will be lost in June but pay particular attention to that frosh group that is coming up.

Twenty-seven veterans and some twenty new candidates will be battling for the eleven positions on the Varsity eleven. If we cannot get a good team out of that group, then we can never get one.

—V—

These Mendel dayhops are here again. This time instead of predicting their possible win over the Austinites, we must extend our congratulations for the way they took the title. We hear that the commuters may play the Temple and Pennsylvania intramural winners. If they succeed in arranging the games, we will go far enough to make another prediction, that is to the effect that they will not fare so well against the Owls and Quakers, as they did at home.

—V—

Congratulations to Frank Rodgers for his achievement in the Phi Kappa Phi Bowling Tournament. In winning, Frank was extended to the limit by Jerry Agnes, who also deserves some praise for his efforts.

To Bill Leahy we also extend our best, for his point gathering during the just recently past swimming campaign of the Wildcat Mermen.

Continued on Page Six

Mendel Dayhops Win Mural Crown

Sports Scribe Believes West Point Policy Unfair

Action Taken by Army in Appointing All-American, Darrell Lester, to Point Shows Poor Sportsmanship

By GENE LOORAM

Last week a short item appeared in several newspapers, while numerous other papers did not consider it of enough importance to put it in print. Prominent among those papers which failed to report upon the occurrence were all the Philadelphia dailies.

The item stated that Darrell Lester, a senior of Texas Christian University, had been offered and had accepted an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. Everyone likes to see strong, healthy, young men enter the army, but the fact that must be noted is that Darrell Lester has been an outstanding and nationally famous performer at center on Texas Christian's football team for the past three seasons.

Lester attained the ambition of all football players, the All-American eleven, for the past two years. In his sophomore year his play was not good enough to merit him All-American honors, but in his junior and senior years he reached the peak and attained first mention on the majority of All-American selections.

In choosing Lester as All-American in 1934, Lawrence Perry, noted sports writer, said: "Lester stood out like a lighthouse all season, even when Texas Christian was losing. He carried a terrific charge and outranked a group of fine pivot-men in the Southwest."

In 1935 the Associated Press picked Lester as All-American center even above such an outstanding player as Gomer Jones of Ohio State.

So we se the caliber of this star football player and embrya soldier. No doubts can be expressed as to the value he could add to any football team in the country.

Accepts Appointment

Lester will graduate in June and the telegram he received from the Texas congressman stated that his appointment would become effective immediately upon graduation.

Continued on Page Six

Promising Hurler

BILL McLAUGHLIN

Among the new pitching candidates for Doc Jacobs' varsity nine is Bill McLaughlin, sophomore left-hander, who possesses all the earmarks of being a starter.

AUSTINITES DROP SECOND STRAIGHT IN LOOP PLAYOFF

Commuters Flashy Attack Too Much for Bewildered Boarder Quintet

32 - 21 SCORE IMPRESSIVE

By WILLIAM BOWKER

With a 32-21 victory last Monday Night, the Mendel Day-Hops captured the intramural basketball crown for 1936. This win, their second straight of the playoffs, followed the 42-11 trouncing they administered to their opponents on the Wednesday previous.

After trailing 8-0, the Train and Trolley lads opened up their vaunted passing and scoring attack to tally 16 points before the bewildered Austinites were able to recover themselves. However, the McKeemen were not

Continued on Page Six

BASEBALL PRACTICE REVEALS SLUGGERS

Mahan, O'Meara and Stoviak Wield Powerful Bats In Workouts

Consistent balmy weather has still prevented the varsity baseball team from leaving the stadium for the regular field located in back of the vast structure. At present, there are numerous workmen earnestly trying to put the infield in shape not only in time for adequate practice sessions, but also for the opening game with Cornell, April 2.

Abe Collins, of "Here and There" fame has finally shed his winter wraps in order to practice for the coming season. Coach Doc Jacobs expects much from the diminutive basketball luminary. His play at the keystone sack will undoubtedly catch the eyes of many, and may cause no little worry among the other three aspirants for this position.

Slugging Features Workouts

The recent batting practice has revealed some pre-season Babe Ruths. Mike O'Meara, Ray Stoviak and Art Mahan have been poling long drives consistently. O'Meara stepped to the plate on two particular occasions and promptly smacked the deliveries of the hurlers into the far stands.

The members of the team are not loquacious about their showing this coming year; however, it is no secret that Villanova will be represented by one of the best clubs that has ever been assembled on the Wildcat campus. Every player on the team has had many years of experience at his position; the pitching staff, particularly, will be envied by many a team. It is on this staff that Coach Jacobs depends, because he can choose from anyone and feel justified.

Only two weeks intervene until the opening fray of the 21-game schedule will be played at Franklin Field, April 1, with Penn.

MURAL NOTICE

Due to the quarterly exams, the intramural swimming meet has been postponed until the night of March 30, Mr. Martin Gill, instructor of English and swimming mentor, has arranged a list of events that should offer an opportunity even to the most diversified talent. A large number of entrants is expected and much spirited rivalry should ensue.

The results of this mermen's holiday will have an important bearing on the intramural standing. Alumni, which holds the lead in the intramural standing to date, expects to annex the swimming laurels and has entered a very strong and well-balanced team in the meet.

An important fact to be kept in mind when submitting entries is that no one who has competed on the Villanova swimming team may engage in the intramural meet.

RODGERS WINS P. K. P. BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Agnes Presses Winner Throughout Match But Final Spurt Decides Meet

Frank Rodgers captured the Phi Kappa Pi Bowling Tournament by defeating Jerry Agnes by a score of two to one. The match was close and was decided by Rodgers' final spurt.

Agnes eliminated Courtin to enter the final round. Here again the match went to the score of two to one.

Rodgers seemed to be the favorite throughout. He rarely had trouble in overcoming his opponents. He defeated Cook to enter the final round which he eventually won.

Agnes defeated Courtin and Furey to enter the final round against Rodgers.

The tournament is an annual affair and will be even better next year than it was this year. The committee in charge of the tournament deserves a lot of credit for the way in which they took charge.

Bowling is becoming an annual scheduled event in the program for the winter Intra-Murals as among the Fraternities.

Villanova Boxers Give Exhibition Before Business Men's Luncheon

The Villanova boxing team were guests of the Penn Athletic Club at a luncheon last Thursday afternoon They were scheduled to put on an exhibition match with Temple University but only one "Owl" made an appearance. Your correspondent guessed that the Villanova victory early in the season, in a dual meet, was probably too much for the Templars.

Consequently Coach Ray Gadsby arranged three exhibition matches between the members of the Wildcat team.

Carrig Is Impressive

The first bout brought together Joe Carrig and Buzz Davis, of freshman football fame. Both men went at it in a very business-like manner; there was no slacking. The bout was pretty even, but Joe Carrig received the decision on his consistent lebt-jabbing and brilliant boxing. This bout brought many cheers from the gathering of 400 business men, who make it a weekly habit to attend these luncheons.

An interesting heavyweight battle took place when Bob Buckley and Stan Wysocki, both freshman football men, came to blows. Wysocki, a big blond boxer continually left-jabbed his opponent, but Buckley, a vicious slugger often slipped under Wysocki's guard and hammered him with rights and lefts. This bout was the boxer versus the slugger type; this time the slugger won out on a close decision. Buckley was announced the winner.

Butler Suffers Kayo

Tony Guida, 145, the only "Owl" with enough intestinal fortitude to make an appearance, fought Jim Butler, 145, of Villanova. Both boys came out fast for the opening bell and met in the center of the ring. Guida threw a vicious right; Butler retaliated, but Guida followed closely with another right which sent Butler to the canvas. Butler arose at the count of nine but again succumbed to a hard smash from Guida's fist. Jim Butler again showed his grit and gameness, but his nerve could not overcome Guida's terrific hitting power. The result was a knockout victory for the "Owl" boxer in the first round.

Sala Shades Jarosik

In the final bout of the afternoon, Jack Jarosik, Villanova, met Tony Sala, intercollegiate champion. This fight was a hummer, both boys stood toe to toe and slugged away for three rounds. Jarosik put up a game fight, but Sala was too clever and strong for him. Sala's punches continually shook Jarosik, who surprised everyone by slugging with Sala. Sala was given the decision by the unanimous vote of the judges and the referee.

At the end of the bouts, it was announced from the ring that the winners would receive large bronze statuettes of a boxer while the loser would receive a smaller edition of the same. The boxers were shown the awards after the bouts, but will not receive them until their names have been inscribed on them.

After a warm shower and the business of dressing were over, everyone, including boxers, seconds and coaches of both teams were invited to have luncheon in the Penn-ac room.

Before leaving, the visiting Wildcats were invited to return there next year and put on a boxing show for the Pennacs.

With the exhibitions the 'Cats hung up the gloves for the season.

SPORTS STAFF MEETS

All members of the sports staff are requested to attend a meeting today in the VILLANOVAN office, at 1 P. M. sharp. It is imperative that all members be present.

Varsity Swimming Record

		V.Opp.
W. Chester State Tchrs.	42	24
Swarthmore	39	36
W. Chester State Tchrs.	44	22
Lafayette	11	57
Phila. Col. Osteopathy	38	28
Phila. Col. Osteopathy	33	*33

* This meet was awarded to Osteopathy because they won the relay event.

Dr. Githens Talks To Local Students

Continued From Page One

cial lchemical products, a branch of which is the Medical Laboratories, took over the Institute and is now supporting it in its research for snake venom preventative.

Dr. Githens divided snakes into four groups, according to the development of their dental organs. The snakes which do not have fangs are placed in the first category. These are harmless to man in regard only to their poisonous effect.

Those snakes which have fangs developed at the rear of their jaws are placed in the second class. These are also comparatively harmless, in that they seldom can grasp a limb of a human so fully with their jaws that their fangs will puncture the skin.

The third group consists of those whose fangs are located in the front of their mouths. An example of this type is the King Cobra. The Old World species comple the third group.

The last group consists, with few exceptions, of the North American snakes, which are called vipers. They are distinguished by having fangs hinged to the roof of the fore part of the mouth. This enables them to fold the fangs back against the roof of the mouth and so close the mouth without biting themselves.

The United States has been divided into six districts, according to the occurrence of the snakes in each district. Group I consists of all the New England states and a part of the Middle Atlantic states; the Timber rattler and the Copperhead are prevalent. Group II the Eastern Coast; the Coral snake. Group III all the South Atlantic states and the Gulf; the Timber rattler, Copperhead, Water Moccasin.

This section boasts of having both the largest and the smallest species of poisonous vipers. They are, respectively, the Florida diamond-backed rattler and the Pigmy rattler. The Coral snake is also found there. Group IV—the Northwestern range; Prairie rattler is most abundant. Group V—Texas; Copperhead and Texas diamond-back rattler. Group VI includes the Western or Pacific coast and contains the Pacific rattle-snake.

Most important of all the snakes is the Texas diamond-backed rattler. It is very abundant and vicious, and alone accounts for approximately 300 snake bites a year, from 10 to 30 per cent. of which are fatal. This reptile alone causes more deaths than the mortality incurred from the bites of all the other snakes together.

With the aid of preserved skins and mounted specimens Dr. Githens illustrated the characteristics of the various snakes. The Florida diamond-backed rattler was observed to be the largest of all the reptiles. It was explained that this animal was the largest and most poisonous of all the North American rattlers, although it is not as important as the Texas rattler.

He explained that the characteristics of all poisonous snakes were a broad, flat, diamond-shaped head and slitted, cat-like eyes, in contrast to the non-poisonous snake which has rounded pupils and a small, narrow head.

Another interesting explanation was that the amount of venom a snake is able to inject depends directly upon its size. In this respect the Copperhead is not very poisonous because it is not unusually large. It is troublesome, however, because it has no fear of man and will even hibernate in a farmer's barn through the Winter. It is because of this fact that the reptile accounts for the greatest number of bites of all the snakes.

Dr. Githens then proceeded to demonstrate, with the aid of his assistant, Mr. Hockings, how snake venom is extracted from the live specimen. This was accomplished by taking out of a large flour bag, a long black non-poisonous snake. The animal was grasped behind the head and its jaws forced open. It's fangs were then stuck through a rubber membrane covering the mouth of a cone-shaped glass, and pressure applied at the region where the venom glands were located.

Proceeding from the demonstration on the extraction of venom, Dr. Githens explained how anti-venin is prepared. The liquid venom, which is a viscid amber fluid, is placed in a Petrie dish and dried in an incubator overnight. Dilute solutions of the resulting solid are prepared and injected into selected horses. The injections are increased in strength and finally the horse is bled. The fluid is treated and dried and the crystalline antivenin is ready for immediate application.

An interesting and instructive film was then shown which pictured snakes in their natural habitats, the capturing of live snakes, the Antivenin Institute, its members, the preparation of antivenin, and the treatment of snake-bites.

Ladies Committee At Guild Meeting

Continued From Page One

don, of Ardmore, was asked to act as chairlady of this committee and as her past experience has been notable it is expected that under her guidance the programs will be of an outstanding type.

Rev. James Donnellon, O. S. A., announced that ample room will be provided in the locker room for refreshments. Members of the committee will solicit the necessary refreshments and even greater returns than those received in the past are looked for by Fr. Donnellon and his assistants.

It was announced by Rev. Francis L. Dennis, O. S. A., that over 1200 books of tickets have been distributed and he is hopeful that 800 more will be in circulation prior to the date of the card party.

Frosh Debaters Defeat Fordham

Continued From Page One

Keever as giving the most brilliant individual performance of the debate.

Mr. Smullen expressed the desire that Fordham and Villanova should extend their relations beyond Freshman debating and should include all major events.

Paetrus F. Banmiller, registrar of the college, acted as chairman for the occasion.

LENTEN SPEAKER

REV. JOHN F. BURNS, O. S. A.

Rev. John F. Burns To Give Address

Continued From Page One

that they must love God and their neighbor and keep the commandments. Aside from this Christ would only repeat his famous parable of the Good Samaritan.

Further developing his topic the speaker told the students that pagan inteerst in their neighbor must come from the heart in recognition of the fact that one's neighbor is imbued with the likeness of God. In conclusion Fr. Sparrow claimed that if we analyze ourselves we shall never be cruel and harsh towards our neighbor but will always follow the sacred tenets of the golden rule.

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Three

"Is not Italy well supplied with colonies without Ethiopia?" "Yes. But most of these are either too small, or unsuited for any further colonization. Certain sections of Ethiopia are suitable for Italian immigrants."

* * *

AN OLD ITALIAN CUSTOM

"Instead of saying 'Hands Up!' a true Italian robber will make his victim lower his head and put his hands between his legs.

"At the age of 18, every Italian youth is compelled to enter the army for a year and a half, after this he becomes a member of the reserve.

"Christmas trees are unknown in most parts of Italy. Yuletide gifts are not exchanged until the Epiphany.

"Italy has recently assumed the guise of 'father' over Austria. But as a matter of fact, even today, among Italians Austria is their traditional enemy.

"In the country districts, there is seldom marriage for love. If you like a girl, without consulting her, you see her parents. If satisfactory to them and if the dowry is sufficient, the girl is politely informed that she is soon to have a husband. Sometimes she is very much distressed, sometimes very pleased, but in any event it usually does not make much difference anyhow.

* * *

SIDELIGHTS

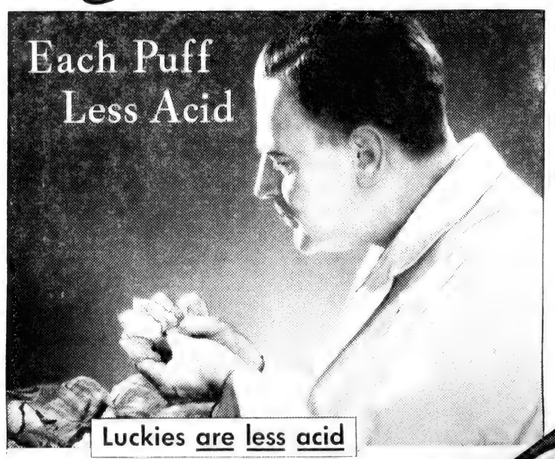
"The U. S. Italian immigration quota has not been filled since Mussolini came into power over 10 years ago.

"Italians think of the United States as a virtual paradise. Many believe that money lies about on the streets, to be had merely for the picking up.

"Italy cannot possibly pay her war debts to this country, she just naturally does not have the money.

"Recently when my grandmother died, my father sent her wedding ring and earrings to Mussolini, just as practically every woman in Italy has already done, and received substitutes made of iron."

Luckies — a light smoke

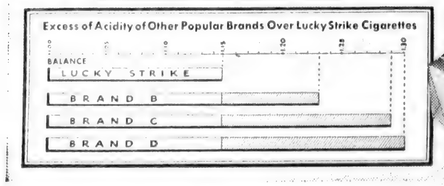


OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO —"IT'S TOASTED"

SCIENTIFIC BLENDING

The blending of tobaccos to secure a given taste—uniformly, season after season and year after year—is both an art and a science.

Every fresh blending of Lucky Strike tobacco contains more than 100 different types produced on thousands of different farms—not only in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland and other States, but tobacco-lands in Macedonia and Xanthia in Greece, Smyrna and Samsoun in Turkey—where the finest Turkish tobacco is grown.



LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

"IT'S TOASTED"—Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Villanovan Sports

Sportorial

By the Sports Editor

VILLANOVA'S varsity eleven can take a deep sigh of relief now, for the game with Temple this coming fall will be marked by failure of one David Smukler to take the field against the Wildcat squad. The outstanding fullback for two seasons on Pop Warner's teams, has given up his college education for a position with a South Philadelphia brokerage firm.

In resigning from Temple University, Smukler made the following statement: "I am sorry to leave so abruptly, but I feel it is to my advantage to withdraw. My future is more important so I am doing what my parents and I think best."

His withdrawal is the second blow dealt Warner since the last campaign, and leaves him somewhat "in the hole." Johnny Kusko, another promising fullback was dropped from the school, due to deficiencies in his studies. Chris Pappas, an inexperienced sophomore, is the only veteran fullback returning, for a system of play that requires several good men to fill the position during the course of a game.

—V—

On behalf of Villanova College, the members of the boxing squad and Coach Ray Gadsby we take this opportunity to thank the members of the Penn Athletic Club for their kind invitation and hospitality at the Business Men's luncheon. Our boys were asked to put on an exhibition and at the conclusion received trophies from the club.

—V—

Villanova's golf team is making extensive preparations for a trip to be taken through Virginia next week. To date, the arrangements are not certain, with three colleges still to be heard from.

The matches definitely scheduled are: University of Virginia, April 1st, at Charlottesville, Va., and the University of Richmond, at Richmond, on April 3.

Replies have not been received from the University of Western Maryland, to be met on Monday, March 30. Emory and Henry, on March 31, Washington and Lee on April 2, and Georgetown, on April 4. Information should be definitely received by next Thursday.

Disaster recently visited the golf team when its captain and number one player, Jim McNerney, was taken to the hospital with a severe attack of appendicitis. A hasty rearrangement of the team was made with the result that Dave Cragg is playing in the number one, Gene Barr at number two, Joe Duffy in the number three position, with the last position still open for the trip.

—V—

Any of you that have any doubts as to the team that is expected here this coming Fall, just take a jaunt to the field behind Mendel Hall and gaze upon the most promising material that Harry Stuhldreher has had for many seasons. Five lettermen will be lost in June but pay particular attention to that frosh group that is coming up.

Twenty-seven veterans and some twenty new candidates will be battling for the eleven positions on the Varsity eleven. If we cannot get a good team out of that group, then we can never get one.

—V—

"these Mendel dayhops are here again. This time instead of predicting their possible win over the Austinites, we must extend our congratulations for the way they took the title. We hear that the commuters may play the Temple and Pennsylvania intramural winners. If they succeed in arranging the games, we will go far enough to make another prediction, that is to the effect that they will not fare so well against the Owls and Quakers, as they did at home.

—V—

Congratulations to Frank Rodgers for his achievement in the Phi Kappa Phi Bowling Tournament. In winning, Frank was extended to the limit by Jerry Agnes, who also deserves some praise for his efforts.

To Bill Leahy we also extend our best, for his point gathering during the just recently past swimming campaign of the Wildcat Mermen.

Continued on Page Six

Mendel Dayhops Win Mural Crown

Sports Scribe Believes West Point Policy Unfair

Action Taken by Army in Appointing All-American, Darrell Lester, to Point Shows Poor Sportsmanship

By GENT LOORAM

Last week a short item appeared in several newspapers, while numerous other papers did not consider it of enough importance to put it in print. Prominent among those papers which failed to report upon the occurrence were all the Philadelphia dailies.

The item stated that Darrell Lester, a senior of Texas Christian University, had been offered and had accepted an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. Everyone likes to see strong, healthy, young men enter the army, but the fact that must be noted is that Darrell Lester has been an outstanding and nationally famous performer at center on Texas Christian's football team for the past three seasons.

Lester attained the ambition of all football players, the All-American eleven, for the past two years. In his sophomore year his play was not good enough to merit him All-American honors, but in his junior and senior years he reached the peak and attained first mention on the majority of All-American selections.

In choosing Lester as All-American in 1934, Lawrence Perry, noted sports writer, said: "Lester stood out like a lighthouse all season, even when Texas Christian was losing. He carried a terrific charge and outranked a group of fine pivot-men in the Southwest."

In 1935 the Associated Press picked Lester as All-American center even above such an outstanding player as Gomer Jones of Ohio State.

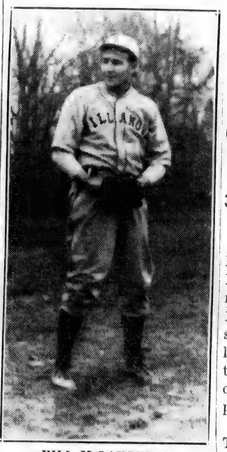
So we se the caliber of this star football player and embrya soldier. No doubts can be expressed as to the value he could add to any football team in the country.

Accepts Appointment

Lester will graduate in June and the telegram he received from the Texas congressman stated that his appointment would become effective immediately upon graduation.

Continued on Page Six

Promising Hurler



BILL McLAUGHLIN

Among the new pitching candidates for Doc Jacobs' varsity nine is Bill McLaughlin, sophomore left-hander, who possesses all the earmarks of being a starter.

AUSTINITES DROP SECOND STRAIGHT IN LOOP PLAYOFF

Commuters Flashy Attack Too Much for Bewildered Boarder Quintet

32 - 21 SCORE IMPRESSIVE

By WILLIAM BOWKER

With a 32-21 victory last Monday Night, the Mendel Day-Hops captured the intramural basketball crown for 1936. This win, their second straight of the playoffs, followed the 42-11 trouncing they administered to their opponents on the Wednesday previous.

After trailing 8-0, the Train and Trolley lads opened up their vaunted passing and scoring attack to tally 16 points before the bewildered Austinites were able to recover themselves. However, the McKeemen were not

Continued on Page Six

BASEBALL PRACTICE REVEALS SLUGGERS

Mahan, O'Meara and Stoviak Wield Powerful Bats In Workouts

Consistent balmy weather has still prevented the varsity baseball team from leaving the stadium for the regular field located in back of the vast structure. At present, there are numerous workmen earnestly trying to put the infield in shape not only in time for adequate practice sessions, but also for the opening game with Cornell, April 2.

Abe Collins, of "Here and There" fame has finally shed his winter wraps in order to practice for the coming season. Coach Doc Jacobs expects much from the diminutive basketball luminary. His play at the keystone sack will undoubtedly catch the eyes of many, and may cause no little worry among the other three aspirants for this position.

Slugging Features Workouts

The recent batting practice has revealed some pre-season Babe Ruths. Mike O'Meara, Ray Stoviak and Art Mahan have been poling long drives consistently. O'Meara stepped to the plate on two particular occasions and promptly smacked the deliveries of the hurlers into the far stands.

The members of the team are not loquacious about their showing this coming year; however, it is no secret that Villanova will be represented by one of the best clubs that has ever been assembled on the Wildcat campus. Every player on the team has had many years of experience at his position; the pitching staff, particularly, will be envied by many a team. It is on this staff that Coach Jacobs depends, because he can choose from anyone and feel justified.

Only two weeks intervene until the opening fray of the 21-game schedule will be played at Franklin Field, April 1, with Penn.

Continued on Page Six

MURAL NOTICE

Due to the quarterly exams, the intramural swimming meet has been postponed until the night of March 30. Mr. Martin Gill, instructor of English and swimming mentor, has arranged a list of events that should offer an opportunity, even to the most diversified talent. A large number of entrants is expected and much spirited rivalry should ensue.

The results of this mermen's holiday will have an important bearing on the intramural standing. Alumni, which holds the lead in the intramural standing to date, expects to annex the swimming laurels and has entered a very strong and well-balanced team in the meet.

An important fact to be kept in mind when submitting entries is that no one who has competed on the Villanova swimming team may engage in the intramural meet.

RODGERS WINS P. K. P. BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Agnes Presses Winner Throughout Match But Final Spurt Decides Meet

Frank Rodgers captured the Phi Kappa Pi Bowling Tournament by defeating Jerry Agnes by a score of two to one. The match was close and was decided by Rodgers' final spurt.

Agnes eliminated Courtin to enter the final round. Here again the match went to the score of two to one.

Rodgers seemed to be the favorite throughout. He rarely had trouble in overcoming his opponents. He defeated Cook to enter the final round which he eventually won.

Agnes defeated Courtin and Furey to enter the final round against Rodgers.

The tournament is an annual affair and will be even better next year than it was this year. The committee in charge of the tournament deserves a lot of credit for the way in which they took charge.

Bowling is becoming an annual scheduled event in the program for the winter Intra-Murals as among the Fraternities.

Villanova Boxers Give Exhibition Before Business Men's Luncheon

The Villanova boxing team were guests of the Penn Athletic Club at a luncheon last Thursday afternoon. They were scheduled to put on an exhibition match with Temple University but only one "Owl" made an appearance. Your correspondent guessed that the Villanova victory early in the season, in a dual meet, was probably too much for the Templars.

Consequently Coach Ray Gadsby arranged three exhibition matches between the members of the Wildcat team.

Carrig Is Impressive

The first bout brought together Joe Carrig and Buzz Davis, of freshman football fame. Both men went at it in a very business-like manner; there was no slacking. The bout was pretty even, but Joe Carrig received the decision on his consistent lebt-jabbing and brilliant boxing. This bout brought many cheers from the gathering of 400 business men, who make it a weekly habit to attend these luncheons.

An interesting heavyweight battle took place when Bob Buckley and Stan Wysocki, both freshman football men, came to blows. Wysocki, a big blond boxer continually left-jabbed his opponent, but Buckley, a vicious slugger often slipped under Wysocki's guard and hammered him with rights and lefts. This bout was the boxer versus the slugger type; this time the slugger won out on a close decision. Buckley was announced the winner.

Butler Suffers Kayo

Tony Guida, 145, the only "Owl" with enough intestinal fortitude to make an appearance, fought Jim Butler, 145, of Villanova. Both boys came out fast for the opening bell and met in the center of the ring. Guida threw a vicious right; Butler retaliated, but Guida followed closely with another right which sent Butler to the canvas. Butler arose at the count of nine but again succumbed to a hard smash from Guida's fist. Jim Butler again showed his grit and gameness, but his nerve could not overcome Guida's terrific hitting power. The result was a knockout victory for the "Owl" boxer in the first round.

Sala Shades Jarosik

In the final bout of the afternoon, Jack Jarosik, Villanova, met Tony Sala, intercollegiate champion. This fight was a hummer, both boys stood toe to toe and slugged away for three rounds. Jarosik put up a game fight, but Sala was too clever and strong for him. Sala's punches continually shook Jarosik, who surprised everyone by slugging with Sala. Sala was given the decision by the unanimous vote of the judges and the referee.

At the end of the bouts, it was announced from the ring that the winners would receive large bronze statuettes of a boxer while the loser would receive a smaller edition of the same. The boxers were shown the awards after the bouts, but will not receive them until their names have been inscribed on them.

After a warm shower and the business of dressing were over, everyone, including boxers, seconds and coaches of both teams were invited to have luncheon in the Penn-ac room.

Before leaving, the visiting Wildcats were invited to return there next year and put on a boxing show for the Penmacs.

With the exhibitions the 'Cats hung up the gloves for the season.

SPORTS STAFF MEETS

All members of the sports staff are requested to attend a meeting today in the VILLANOVAN office, at 1 P. M. sharp. It is imperative that all members be present.

Varsity Swimming Record

		V.Opp.
W. Chester State Tchrs.	42	24
Swarthmore	39	36
W. Chester State Tchrs.	44	22
Lafayette	11	57
Phila. Col. Osteopathy	38	28
Phila. Col. Osteopathy	33	33

* This meet was awarded to Osteopathy because they won the relay event.

SPRING PRACTICE FOR FOOTBALL MEN HINDERED BY RAIN

Wet Grounds Slow Up Work For Varsity Grid Hopefuls

SEVERAL FRESHMEN SHINE

Rain offered its damp greetings to the Villanova football squad on the opening days of spring practice last week. After a month of conditioning and training in the gymnasium the team came out into the open early to find that the Weather Man had ordered rain for the third week of March. However, the squad proved that they "can take it" by going through practice in the rain and muck for more than two hours each day.

The quarterbacks fumbled a great many punts because of the slimey condition of the ball and the sogginess of the turf. They tasted mud more than once when, turning sharply to a oic the ends running down under the kicks, they fell on the slippery ground.

Gridders Start Slowly

To date, the main function of practice has been to limber up the players' muscles. Calisthenics and lateral passing are used for this purpose. Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher has also given his proteges several basic plays to use in dummy scrimmage.

No definite lineup has been decided upon yet, but the sophomores of last season are expected to be the bulwarks of the team. John McKenna and Bill Thompson will be at center. Val Rizzo, Joe Missar, Ed Sydnor and Mike Hanna are guards.

To fill the tackle berths there are Jordan Olivari, Oliver Volpe, John Mellus, Pat Marquette and Bill Rodgers. Bob Egan and Alex Beili are the Sophomores who play end. Bill O'Neil is the only quarterback from the Sophomore class. For the halfback positions there are Jerry Sherlock and Francis Nye, and Art Raimo and Jack Earle are fullbacks.

Four Seniors in Finale

The men who will play their last season of college football next season are Stan Galazin, center; George Fox, end; Bill Christopher, quarterback; and Dick Emmerling, fullback. These men played fine ball last season and they will be counted on to come through with their best in their Senior year.

Several promising freshmen are among the candidates: Louis Dymond, 200-pound center from Coughlin High, Wilkes-Barre; John Henry, Haverford High; Matt Kuber, Malvern Prep; LeRoy McKee, Frankford High, and Charles Kratchowil, Jeannette, Pa., all guards; and a trio of ends, Chester Pudlowski, Wilkes-Barre; John Wysacki, Hanover Township, and Bill Cochrane, Jersey City.

Former Owl Here

Among the backfield candidates there are Harvey Buek, formerly of Lower Merion, who played on the Owl's freshman team last year; John Gilmartin, 194-pound fullback from East Hampton, L. I.; Anthony Pryz, St. Rita's, Chicago; John Yauch, Trinity High, Washington, Pa.; Bernie Dempsey, Williamsport, Pa.; Jack Buckley, Asbury Park, N. J., and Delbert Walborn, Montgomery High School, near Williamsport.

Blase Ravikio and Bob Baker, two of the freshmen, have been sick this last week, and so they have not yet reported for outdoor practice.

Believing in having a team that can think as well as use brute strength, Coach Stuhldreher has "skull practice" six days a week at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Nothing has been definitely settled as yet, but several practice games are planned both at home and away.

TEMPLE STARS HONORED

Captain Ernie Messikomer and Meyer Bloom of Temple court fame this past season were honored with positions on the Eastern Conferences All-star quintet. Don Shields, another member of the Owl five was awarded a place on the second team.

Individual Swimming Scores

William L. Leahy—51.
Wilmer T. Booth—38.
Toby Greco—27.
Thos. J. Carbine—20.
James Cousart—17.
William Bailey—14.
Joseph Duffy—12.
James Gallagher—7.
Donald Canter—6.
William Durkin—2.
Court Kitchel—2.
Ward Scanlon—1.

PURDUE AND CORNELL ANNEX BILLIARD CROWN

Two Schools Join Michigan University in Collegiate Billiard Championships

Purdue and Cornell has joined Michigan University in the ranks of intercollegiate billiards champions. The Boilermakers annexed the straight rail billiards title with a total score of 404; while the Ithacans were conquering nine other schools to capture the three-cushion championship. Cornell's winning score was 81, a scant one-point margin over Wisconsin, last year's title-holders.

The competing colleges in the straight rail tournament with their respective scores follow: Purdue, 404; Wisconsin, 350; Cornell, 303; Michigan, 265; Indiana, 241; Iowa, 231; Minnesota, 223; Michigan State, 214; Kansas, 204; Pennsylvania, 183; Brown, 165; Iowa State, 148; Rochester, 79; Illinois, 70.

Michigan, Purdue and Cornell will be awarded the Gene Tunney, Gar Wood and Noble Kizer trophies, emblematic of the three billiards chmpionships.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

Bil has 5 points to show for his part in five meets. Quite an accomplishment indeed. This rating would give him an average of two firsts in every meet.

—V—

The most recent news on the campus is that Jordan Olivari, of football fame and winner in the intramural bowling tournament, Troncelliti, runner-up of the matches, and Frank Rodgers will represent Villanova at the Penn Relays, April 24-25, when the intercollegiate championships will be determined.

There will be several tune-up matches arranged before these men participate in the event. They will face rivals from Drexel, Temple and possibly Penn, after the Easter vacation.

SKAFF AND GERAGHTY SUFFERING SORE ARMS

Frank Skaff and Ben Geraghty, both products of Villanova varsity teams, have been confined to the sidelines with injuries. Geraghty has a sore arm that prevents his seeing action, while Skaff is suffering from a similar ailment, but is considered to be more serious.

These men are at Clearwater, Fla., the training camp of the Brooklyn Dodgers. According to reports both were doing well until their injuries.

West Point Policy Believed Unfair

Continued From Page Five

In answer to this offer Lester wired an immediate acceptance.

If Lester was to pursue his studies at any other institute of higher learning in the country, his collegiate football days would definitely be over due to the eligibility rules in force at all colleges which state that three years of varsity sport is all a player is entitled to.

Such is not the case, however, at West Point, where Lester may compete against other college varsities for three more years. In viewing this one can foresee a very amusing happening. If Lester engages in plebe football, it will be quite comical to view him in action against prep school centers. It will not be so amusing, however, to the particular prep school centers that he will be opposing.

Regulations for West Point stipulate that the age limit for entrance to the Academy is 17 to 22. In describing Lester in 1934, Lawrence Perry stated that he was 6 feet 4 inches in height, weighed 215 pounds, and was 21 years of age.

That means that at present Lester is in the last days of his 23d year or might, perhaps, even have celebrated his 23d birthday already.

On account of the fact that Lester has received and accepted the appointment, he must of necessity still be 22, OR MUST HE?

Experienced Veteran

Lester will be much older and much more experienced than the men he will face in future collegiate competition. However, we are going on an assumption. Perhaps Lester only has plans of going through four years at the Point and then receiving his commission without engaging in any sport at all. However, is that the believeable impression, if, according to the eligibility rules of West Point, or rather the lack of them, he may play.

Interesting indeed will be the manner in which the Naval authorities at Annapolis view this development. They have protested in years gone by against the methods employed by the Army to obtain experienced football players and they even severed relations with their brother school for a time because of such occurrences.

Annapolis protested against the use of Jack Buckler, star Army half-back, who also played varsity football while attending college in Texas prior to his entrance to West Poi

Further developments in the case of this Jacksboro, Texas, youth, Darrell Lester, are dependent upon the action of proper authorities and upon the crowd's demand.

Is such a flagrant breach of good sportsmanship to be permitted or will the proper action be taken to offset these means to obtain such a fleeting end as a good football team

Placing an experienced man against another who is much less experienced invites additional injuries, if such a thing is possible in football. Proper steps must be taken by those qualified to do so.

OKLAHOMA GRAPPLERS TOPS

Oklahoma A. & M. wrestlers are the possessors of the team title in the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The Aggies have won the honors four consecutive years and will be defending them tonight.

FROSH BASEBALL ASPIRANTS WILL START WORK-OUTS

Keen Battle Takes Place For Catching and Outfield Positions

BOND HAS EDGE AT FIRST

Mendel Field will soon resound to the crack of the bat as Freshmen baseball aspirants go through their paces. A large turn-out is expected and it will be no easy task to pick the men that are to play varsity ball in the years to come.

A tentative schedule of eight games has been arranged and, when the schedule is finally completed, it is hoped that quite a large roster of opponents will engage in combat with the Kittens' nine.

Penn State will be met in a single game at State. Last year Penn came here and were repulsed by the present Sophomores in easy fashion. The Nittany Lions will be out for revenge when the 'Cats invade their lair. However, their revenge will probably have to be postponed until some future year if the Frosh fulfill expectations.

A home-and-home series is scheduled with Ursinus. Last year the Ursinus Cubs were bested in an 11-inning struggle. The final count stood 15-10 in favor of the Kittens after their 11th inning rally which netted them five runs.

The first inning was scoreless and in the second frame Ursinus gained a momentary lead which they relinquished when Villanova came to bat in the first half of the third. The Collegeville nine never again took the lead. However, their single tally in the last half of the ninth knotted the count and caused the two extra innings of play. This year the Frosh adherents are confident that only the regulation nine innings will be required to send the Cubs down to defeat

Games with Temple and Penn are pending. The team from Broad St. will have to battle against the odds of the jinx that the Cats hold over the Scarlet warriors.

Competition will be keen for all positions when the Frosh take possession of Mendel Field. Especially keen will be the battle for the outfield positions and for catcher.

The duties of the initial sack will be held down by either Bill Cochrane, who hails from Jersey City, or by the Watertown flash, Bobby Bond. Bob played first for St. John's Prep, of Danvers. Last summer he manned first for the Bourne team in the Cape Cod League.

Second base will most likely be covered by "Cowboy" Crawley, who gathered his baseball knowledge at Kents Hill Academy. During the summer he opposed Bond as a member of the Barnstable team, which is also in the Cape Cod League.

Shortstop will probably go to a teammate of the two previously mentioned infielders, Lenny Merullo. He prepped with Bob Bond and played with "Cowboy" last summer as they rolled up a large number of double plays due to their exceptional teamwork.

The infield will be rounded out with Charley Delluomo handling all chances at the hot corner. Charley hails from the South and,

Dayhops Capture Mural Loop Title

Continued From Page Five

completly outclassed, as they displayed their best game of the season, Mike Totin tallied first, and his mates followed with three more double deckers to give the residents an eight point advantage.

Beitenmiller and Frachia matched fouls to make the count 9-1. It was at this point that the commuters' attack began to function. With O'Connor leading the victory march, the winners tallied 16 markers, 14 of them before the halftime whistle.

Mayell Stars

Mayell's foul for the Hallers broke up the victors' attack momentarily but not for long. It was Mayell's playing that kept the losers in the contest, his five points coming at critical times. O'Connor and Beitenmiller, aided by Gene Barr, then put the fray on ice with six tallies in short order. From then on the issue was never in doubt, although the Austinites did not cease trying.

As was said before, O'Connor paced the scoring with six twin-pointers to put him far in front for the campaign. Joe Beitenmiller, the mad engineer, followed his classmate with three and one for seven. Five points sufficed to lead the McKeemen, Totin and Mayell each compiling that amount for the night.

Coach Robinson is to be complimented for the fine spirit his boys showed in a losing cause.

Austin

	G.	F.	P.
Totin, forward	2	1	5
Conte, forward	2	0	4
Frachia, center	1	1	3
Bruno, forward	0	0	0
Badama, guard	2	0	4
Mayell, guard	2	1	5
Totals	9	3	21

Model Day-Hops

	G.	F.	P.
Beitenmiller, forward	3	1	7
McManus, forward	1	0	2
O'Connor, center	6	0	12
Murphy, guard	1	1	3
Barr, guard	3	0	6
Agnes, guard	1	0	2
Totals	15	2	32

EQUIPMENT NEEDED

All members of intramural basketball teams are requested to return all equipment to Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of the inter-dorm sports. It is especially urgent that the suits be in before the end of the week.

according to hearsay, is a polished performer.

Catching duties will be taken over by Art Vigilante of Frosh basketball fame, Bill Neborak, or Tony Pyrz, if the latter is excused from football practice.

Pitching duties will fall on the shoulders of Joe Desmond, Lou Wannemacher, and John Krutulis.

Garden patrol will be undertaken by the three most promising of the following: Jim Montgomery, the aforementioned Wannemacher, Jack Costello, Harold Murphy and whatever flychasers are excused from their gridiron duties.

Prospects for the year are brilliant and if the Frosh uphold the record of previous Kitten teams, they will be doing a fine job.

Answer Stuhldreher's First Call for Spring Practice

Rain and a soggy field could not prevent the Blue and White football candidates as Harry Stuhldreher, who will start his 12th campaign next fall as Villanova's head mentor, put the squad through long workouts during the past week on the Mendel Hall field. The Wildcat aspirants will practice for six weeks and if the attitude taken by the candidates is a basis for predictions, things appear rosy for the team.

Behind The Bat

George (Doc) Jacobs, varsity baseball coach is an alumnus of Villanova College. In his undergraduate days at the Main Line institution he was star baseball catcher and a center on the basketball team. Doc Jacobs has been head mentor of the baseball nine since 1933. Since that time he has made an enviable record for himself. His teams are now ranked with the best in the country.

Captain Artie Mahan is the star first baseman on the team. He is a consistent hitter, batting well over .300 in his two-year stay with the Wildcats. Mahan is a senior and is rated by many experts as potential big league material. He bats and throws left-handed.

Edward Lahey, husky catcher from Waterbury, Conn., has been a member of the varsity for the past two years. In that time he has served as a capable understudy. In this, his last year, much is expected of Lahey, since he is the only seasoned catcher to return.

Ray Stoviak, a sophomore, who plays left field, was varsity halfback on this year's football team. As a freshman he was a consistent hitter and a brilliant fielder. Stoviak is expected to bolster the Wildcat team considerably both with his hitting and fielding.

Edward Vaughn, a veteran right hand pitcher, has been a mainstay of the hurling staff since his sophomore year. He can always be depended on for his share of wins. In this, his final year, Ed expects to turn in more victories than ever before.

Leo Schoppmeyer, brilliant second baseman of last year's team, will be shifted to shortstop to fill a vacancy made by graduation. His versatility and his fine throwing arm will aid him materially in making him a star shortstop. He is a consistent hitter, and many big league scouts have their eyes on him.

Tom Collins, a senior hurler, is serving his third year as a member of the varsity. He is a big righthander and throws a very fast ball. His wins greatly over-shadow his losses, during the past three years.

John Higgins, star quarterback on the Wildcat football team for the past three years, is a fast fielder and a man who can be depended upon to hit in the pinches. This is his first year on the baseball nine. Pre-season predictions place him as a regular on this year's team.

Mike Garbark, big blond catcher from last year's freshman nine, is a right hander. He is a hard hitter, batting well over the .300 mark. He is expected to put up a strong fight for the varsity berth. Mike is the brother of the Cleveland Indians' backstop, and much baseball knowledge has been handed down to him.

Joe McGovern is another veteran of the pitching staff. In his three-year term he has been noted for his fast curve ball. Last year he won many games; he is very strong in the pinches and knows the ins and outs of baseball thoroughly.

Mike O'Meara, a Senior, of N. E. Catholic High School in Philadelphia, is the only veteran outfielder to return. Much is expected of him in both the hitting and fielding departments. He has also been a member of the varsity basketball team for the past three seasons. His experience should help the Wildcat nine materially this year

Frank Escott, a sophomore left-hand flinger was one of the stars on last year's freshman nine. eH has a fast ball and superb control. He is being counted on heavily this year.

Don Brennan, star center on this year's basketball team, will be a candidate for second base. He is a sophomore, but did not play baseball as a freshman. Paul Kane and Bill McLaughlin, pitchers, from whom much is expected this year, are sophomores.

Bill McLaughlin, another sophomore left-hander, was one of the star twirlers of last year's freshman team. He has a fast ball and with the development of more control should prove a great benefit to the squad.

In the Limelight

Here's the tale of one, Edward Vaughn, member of the school of Commerce and Finance, where to work is to play and to play is to work.

Our interview with this fellow was a difficult one, since we had to do all the talking, as a matter of fact we even had to figure out his age. You know . . . the Business School influence.

Ed was born on the 25th of May 25, 1914. If you take the trouble to figure it out, that makes him exactly 21 years, ten months and 29 days old. His first glimpse of the cruel world was made from the window of an upstown New York City home, and this same home has been his place of habitation since then.

Of course as all other youngsters, the early life of our bashful hero was spent in pulling pranks such as throwing rocks at windows . . . Remember the rock-throwing for the plot of this tale lies in the term. Outside of the early tricks his life was dull. His grammar school education was gathered at some Long Island institution. He cannot recall the name, and we assure you that we will not try to find it out for him.

His higher education was acquired at the High School of Commerce in the Metropolitan city, Berkeley Prep, and Villanova College. First we shall discuss his career at the Business School. Here, our hero played baseball and basketball for three years, and had the distinction of being elected to the captaincy of both sports in his senior year. He was also a member of the swimming squad, taking part in the 50 yard free-style event and serving as the lead-off man in the relay events.

His education at Berbeley Preparatory School was very short, Ed spent only one-half semester at this institution, but found enough time play baseball. He pitched as well as playing in the outfield...remember our mentioning of the rock-throwing?

Now we take you to Eddie's more serious undertakings, which begin with his enrollment at Villanova College in the fall of 1932. Like the rest of the frosh group, this youth was inclined to avoid the sophomore gang...here again his modesty prevails; for we know he did not want it known that he is a pretty good weight lifter, you know how it is, the upper-classmen might have taken advantage of it.

Let us turn to his athletic prowess on our own campus. To begin with he played on the Freshman nine coached by Bill Tracy. A real good club with a swell record, and Eddie was an important factor in the attaining of that record. After the baseball season was concluded Mrs. Vaughn's little boy took in the intramural sports, competing with the Mendel dormitory in basketball and touch football.

In his sophomore year, Ed became one of the starting pitchers on Doc Jacobs' varsity nine. His season's record was three wins in five starts. Last season's schedule which included some of the best intercollegiate teams in the east found Ed toeing the mound in six games and bringing in a victory in every one.

He is a slow ball pitcher, who combines headwork with his assignment and gets the results. He will be back for the present campaign which swings into action April 1. Our opinion is that to start the season on the right foot Jacobs will call on Vaughn to perform the mound duties.

In his spare moments he finds time to take part in the editing of the Belle Air, Villanova senior class book. He is an associate sports editor, and served on the Junior Prom Committee last year.

He intends to be a big business man when he gets out of school, and has a secret craving to play in fast company baseball.

Here and There

By EDWARD L. COLLINS

AFTER being away from the sound of a typewriter and the hurly-burly activities of a newspaper office it isn't very easy to get back in swing. Especially your columnist who has been on the shelf with "La Grippe" for a period of two weeks.

Sitting in the infirmary getting the best of service, and food that would do justice to any cook of the old school (the old school of cooking, my friend) gave one plenty of time to reminisce. And let me tell you reminiscing is a great thing.

Aside from what went on in the infirmary I deem it advisable to break out in a little news of more importance...With that here we go....LeRoy Haynes, recent conqueror of Primo Carnera, is more or lesa a model young man. LeRoy does not smoke, drink, chew nor swear....But his one glaring vice is that of participating in the game of African golf....In other words he likes to hear the sound of the ivories—and not on a piano.

Jay Berwanger had a unique honor accorded him some time ago by the University of Chicago authorities. He was the recipient of an honorary degree of Master of Football Arts due to his prowess as a gridiron performer.

Berwanger, now that the football campaign has been put away in moth balls, has his eyes on the coming track campaign and hopes for a place on the Olympic team. The All-American backfield ace will strive for the decathlon title in the forthcoming Olympic tryouts.

In a recent dual meet with Notre Dame, the hCicago flash was a close second to big Don Elser, of the Irish. Elser outscored his football rival by the score of 10 to 8...e getting his points by virtue of a first in the shotput, a tie for first in the high jump and third place in the low hurdles.

Berwanger's eight points came from a first in the broad jump and second to Elser in the shotput. Both of these men should make a strong bid to represent Uncle Same at Berlin during the summer months.

John "Ring" Lardner, noted baseball commentator, writes a few ditties about the major league teams from the city, town or hamlet where they are training.

Here is what Lardnerhas to say of the "Always-give-you-a-laugh Brooklyn Dodgers" now at Clearwater, Fla.

"Hats off! Along the street there comes
A queer collection of stars and BUMS,
A flash of color on Clearwater's sky—
Hats off! The Dodgers are passing by!"

And from Orlando, Fla., comes another laughable ditty.

"Orlando's former lodgers, the screwy Brooklyn Dodgers,
Have vanished from the city with their uniforms and bats,
And the sheriff (close behind them) doesn't want to find them,
For their places have been taken by the law-abiding Nats."

Concerning the stars and bums of the Flatbush nine; the few—and few they are—stars they have stand out like lighthouses, and they have plenty bums on the squad. Maybe I am inferring, I do not know. Half the time I wonder what I write...So long. See you all next week.

Nominations Will Be Held By LKD

Continued From Page One

cial ever held by the society. He also wishes the backing and cooperation of all interested in the affair.

Drawing books were distributed to the fraternity members at the meeting last Thursday. The fraternity is offering a very valuable and unusual prize to the lucky winner. The prize entitles the winner to a complete Junior Promenade evening, including tickets to the affair, a dress suit, a corsage for the young lady and transportation for the evening—the hire of a car. If the winner of the drawing, which will be held April 24, desires cash, he shall receive a sum of $20.00 instead of the above offering.

A report was received at this recent meeting from the Lambda Kappa Delta Ring Committee. The report states that the fraternity rings for Senior members will be available this week. This committee is also undertaking plans for acquiring fraternity pins.

CONDITION IMPROVING

Fr. Fitzmaurice, Struck by Automobile, Is Making Satisfactory Progress to Recovery

The students will be glad to know that Rev. John Fitzmaurice, O. S. A., is making satisfactory progress in recovering from the injuries received when he was struck by an automobile while crossing the street near the Sacred Heart Convent in Philadelphia.

The accident happened at 7:00 P. M. one week ago today. For a period of 48 hours his condition was considered critical, but the doctors now give assurance that he is out of danger.

The sympathy of the students is extended to Fr. Fitzmaurice.

CLASS TO MEET

All members of the Junior Class are asked to watch the bulletin boards for notice of an important meeting of the class this week.

(Next to Seville Theatre)
Meet Your Friends at
The Bryn Mawr Confectionery
Tasty Sandwiches
Reasonably Priced
Luches-Dinners-Platters
Music Free Dancing

JEANNETT'S
BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas For All Occasions
Specializing in Corsages
Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association
823 Lancaster Ave.
Bryn Mawr 570

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

CERTIFIED
MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

SENIORS REFURNISH LEISURE QUARTERS

Elmira College Students Give Unusual Gift Five Months Before Graduation

The senior class at Elmira College has decided to make the class gift to the college at this time, instead of waiting until commencement, as has been customary for many years.

The class of 1936 has expressed its originality not only in choosing an unusual time for making its gift, but in the kind of gift selected. Instead of presenting a check for the endowment or loyalty fund, as has often been done, this year's senior class decided to redecorate and refurnish the recreation room. This room, as its name suggests, is set aside exclusively for student recreation. Adjoining Fassett Dining Commons, the "rec" room is a favorite place for after-dinner dancing in the evening.

Upon its own iniative, with the approval of the administration, the senior class committee selected appropriate draperies, furniture and decorations for the room. The work was done during the holidays, so that when the students returned from the Christmas vacation they found the recreation hall transformed—gay with red leather-cushioned furniture, harmonizing draperies and redecorated walls.

For five months the seniors will enjoy the fruits of their labors, and departing in June will leave for the other classes a pleasant reminder of their interest in the Elmira campus.

Courses In Italian Universities Rigidly Outlined By Royal Decree

ROME, March 23 — "Snap courses" have been abolished in Italian universities, by the royal decree that went into effect with the first of the year.

Italian students, who have perhaps been inclined to lean at the task of their university educations, who have in the past had no required courses except Latin and Italian, and who were coming to the belief they charge to American students that athletics are the most important part of he university, are worried by the terms of the new decree.

There is reason for their concern. In the past students needed only to take four courses during each of the first three college years, and only three in the last year.

When they had passed the examinations in these courses, and examinations in Latin and Italian composition, and defended a brief thesis, they were granted their degrees as doctors. Now, under the new regulations, six courses must be taken each year, the examination in Latin must still be passed, and the thesis must still be written and defended. To American ways of computing, these six courses would amount to 18 hours of classwork a week.

What is more disquieting to many students is the fact that only six of the 24 courses now prescribed for the degree are elective. When the student graduates from the lyceum and is ready to enter college he decides whether he will work for a degree in jurisprudence, political science, statistics, economics and commerce, philology, pedagogy, letters, philosophy, foreign languages and literature, medicine, chemistry, physics, mathematics, natural sciences, biology, geology, pharmacy, engineering (civil, industrial, naval and mechanical, chemical, aeronautical, mining), architecture, agriculture, forestry, veterinary medicine, or geography. From that point, his course is rigidly outlined for him. He is permitted only five electives, and only two of these may be outside his own faculty.

To be admitted to the degree in letters, which corresponds most closely to our degree in liberal arts, the student in Italy must master two-year courses in Italian literature, Latin literature, Greek literature, romance philology, glottology, and the history of art, and single-year courses in Greek history, Roman history, medieval history, modern history, archeology, geography, and philosophy. At least three of his five electives must be selected from one of the three concentration groups—the classical, the modern, and the oriental.

The only redeeming feature of the new decree, says the students, is the fact that class attendance is still not compulsory, and it is still possible, they hope, to pass examinations with someone else's lecture notes.

STUDENT TO WIN B. A. IN ONE YEAR

CHICAGO, March 23—A B. A. degree in eight months!

That will be the record of Donald MacMurray, sensational New York prodigy, if he graduates from the University of Chicago in May according to schedule.

MacMurray, who graduated from a Bronx high school at 15, is the fastest of prodigies attracted by Chicago's New Plan, allowing graduation as soon as candidates can pass examinations.

MacMurray studies 14 hours a day (with the aid of coffee and chocolate bars) then takes two days off and goes hiking.

Collegiate World

By COLLEGIATE DIGEST and Associated Collegiate Press

You're ignorant of the realities of life if you're of college age, thinks Dr. William Carpenter MacCarty, of the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota

The doctor parcels out your life like this:

1. Pre-birth — age of ancestral defects.
2. Birth to 16 years — age of supreme ignorance, affection and confidence.
3. Sixteen to 25 — age of energy, optimism, imagination, adventure, discovery, invention and ignorance of the realities of life.
4. Twenty-five to 55 — age of egotism, self-confidence, selfishness, over-expansion and frequent mistakes.
5. Fifty-five to death — age of experience, wisdom, tolerance, conservatism and simplicity.

* * *

In addition to being ignorant of the realities of life, you (if you're a coed) are probably also badly spoiled.

Or at least so thinks another doctor, Prof. Charles Reed, of Northwestern University, who thinks the human race is degenerating, that all us young 'uns are getting soft.

"The daughters," he says, "are pampered and petted. They don't get enough sunshine or exercise. They can't take it the way their grandmothers did."

* * *

The newest organization among college men is the VFW, a military organization.

It means: Veterans of Future Wars, and the organizers maintain they ought to have their bonus through Congress by July at least.

It all started with students at the Virginia Military Institute and already has a chapter in Alaska, so they say.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS SWELL AT CORNELL

McMullen Grant Is Now Over Million Mark; 30 Students To Be Selected in '37

The desire of a self-made man to help young men obtain an engineering education at Cornell University will be realized in greater degree than ever, beginning next September when 30 McMullen regional scholarships will be awarded, doubling the number of last year.

John B. McMullen, of Norwalk, Conn., president of the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Dredging Company, bequeathed to Cornell in 1923 part of his estate consisting largely of stock in his dredging company. The income from this concern has steadily mounted until the McMullen fund at Cornell exceeds $1,000,000.

Until last year aid was furnished only to engineering students in attendance at the university. This year 85 students received cash grants of $200 on this basis.

Now the benefits of the fund have been made available to preparatory and high school students in the 15 regions outside of New York State into which the country is divided for the awards Next September 30 incoming students, to be selected on the basis of scholarship, character and personality will each receive cash scholarships of $200 for four years, a total of $800.

aroma... it's as much a part of Chesterfield as the taste

Did you ever notice the difference in the aroma of Chesterfield tobacco?

Every person who knows about tobacco will understand this... for to get a pleasing aroma is just like getting a pleasing taste from fruit.

Mild ripe tobaccos, home-grown, and welded with the right kind of tobacco from far-off Greece and Turkey (Samsoun, Smyrna, Xanthi and Cavalla)...

...that's why Chesterfield has a more pleasing aroma.

...with that pleasing aroma

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 21 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Dinner-Dances for Easter Planned By Home-Towners

North Jersey and Wilkes-Barre Clubs Will Stage Eighth and Tenth Annual Spring Socials in Easter Week

ZANNI AND NOLL NAMED CHAIRMEN

Two of the most active home town clubs, the North Jersey and the Wilkes-Barre Club, have completed final arrangements for the Easter holiday dances to be held in their respective localities.

The North Jersey Club will hold its annual affair Easter Monday, April 13, in the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark, New Jersey. Music will be furnished by the Royal Crest Orchestra, one of the foremost dance ensembles in Newark.

Anthony Zanni, an active member of the club, has charge of the dance. All plans have been completed and the affair will be a supper-dance. Dress will be semi-forma.l.

Edward Carlin, president of the club, extends an invitation to all the alumni and friends of the club to attend this gala event. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. Zanni or any member of the club.

The Wilkes-Barre Club will hold its Annual Easter Dance on Tuesday night, April 14, in the Tarleton, one of the most popular night clubs of Hazleton, Pa. and located on the Hazleton-Wilkes-Barre Hwy., U. S. route 309. This affair also will be a dinner-dance. It will be a closed affair, limited to the present members of the club in good standing.

Rev. Bernard J. McConville, O. S. A., moderator of the Wilkes-Barre Club, will present the key of the club to the graduating members at the dinner. The Wilkes-Barre Clubbers will dance to the music of Jack Kelley and his Tarleton Orchestra. The committees in charge of the Wilkes-Barre event are John Noll, chairman; Edmund Virusky, Paul Milnamow, William B. Cleary, and Charles Betz. The Key Com-

Continued on Page Eight

EASTER DANCE CHAIRMAN

ANTHONY ZANNI, a senior in the School of Science, who has been named to the chairmanship of the North Jersey Club's Eighth Annual Easter Dance, which will be held in the Robert Treat Hotel, in Newark, N. J., on April 13.

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY PROF. MOREHOUSE

Lower Merion Seniors Are Acquainted With Work of College Curriculum

Senior students in the Lower Merion Senior High School, who are interested in Villanova College, were afforded an opportunity to confer with Prof. J. Stanley Morehouse, M. E., head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at Villanova College, yesterday from 10:15 to 11 A. M., during their regular club period.

The students were acquainted with the various departments and the educational requirements required to enter these departments. Many interesting features and sidelights on the college life in general were woven into the informal meeting which gave the audience a vivid picture of Villanova scholastically and socially.

Prof. Morehouse is a graduate of Stevens Tech and has had several years of practical experience in the field of engineering. He was associated with the late Thomas A. Edison, the "Wizard of Menlo Park," in the Service Engineering Depart-

Continued on Page Four

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

The Student Council will convene tonight for the last time before Easter vacation in Room 215, Mendel Hall, at 5:30 P. M. Important matters will be discussed.

$100 OFFERED FOR BEST COLLEGE PLAY

Stage, Popular Magazine, Sponsors Monthly Contest for Students

Stage, popular drama magazine, has opened its doors of competitive play-writing to the students of Villanova. A representative prize of $100 will be given for the best short play received before April 15, 1936. One play a month will be published, as long as acceptable manuscripts are submitted.

The conditions of the competition are simple. The plays must be the work of accredited students and accompanied by an endorsement to this effect by a faculty member of the English or drama departments. Plays need not be written during the current term to be eligible as long as they comply in other respects with the competition requirements.

Stage wishes to stress upon the minds of those who wish to enter the contest that highest consideration will be given to those manuscripts that have neither been published nor produced elsewhere. Preference will be shown to plays which can be acted within 45 minutes and which are contemporary in theme.

All plays will be read promptly and accepted or rejected as quickly as possible. The playwright re-

Continued on Page Four

NEW BY-LAWS VOTED

A. S. C. E. Members Accept New Constitutional By-Laws

A new set of constitutional by-laws was presented and accepted by the A. S. C. E. fraternity at their weekly meeting held yesterday. The meeting showed a reunited interest in the society for which President William Monroe expressed his gratification.

Plans were formulated for a coming trip to the Sun Ship Yards which is to be made by the association immediately after the Easter vacation.

ACCEPTS GUILD POST

REV. FRANCIS X. COAN, O. S. A., professor of biology in the School of Science, who has accepted the task to act as chairman in taking charge of patrons for the Annual Augustinian Seminary Guild Card Party which is to be held April 21 in the college gymnasium.

FR. COAN IN CHARGE OF GUILD PATRONS

Biology Professor Will Solicit Patronage for Annual Card Party

Rev. Francis X. Coan, O. S. A., has accepted the duty of soliciting patronage for the Augustinian Seminary Guild Card Party which will be held April 21, in the Villanova gymnasium.

Simultaneously with the divulgence of this news, Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., the director of the guild, announced the securing of Al Phillips and his orchestra to furnish the rhythms for the occasion.

Fr. Coan, who is professor of biology in the School of Science, has had wide experience in soliciting patrons. He has worked successfully with Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Arts and Philosophy, in conjunction with the latter's play, "Vision."

It s expectied that Fr. Coan, with the invaluable experience he has obtained, will be instrumental in enhancing the source of revenue, which will be of considerable assistance in the advancement of the Seminary Guilds cause.

Within the immediate future Fr. Coan will contact his many friends and acquaintances to present to them the opportunity of subscribing to the cause.

Fr. Brown, in co menting on the contacts to be made with Fr. Coan, stated: "In the event he is unable to make all the necessary contacts, his many friends should not feel

Continued on Page Four

Glee Club Gives Special Concert For Parishioners

The Villanova Glee Club rendered a concert in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium last Tuesday for the entertainment of the ladies of St. Thomas of Villanova Parish. The vocalizations of the Glee Club were under the direction of Paul D. Teel, who has been undertaking the capacity of director of the club since the founding of this year's society. Adding to the evening's entertainment, a selection was given by John F. Chapple.

The possibility of a tour of concerts by the Glee Club has been considered by Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., moderator of the club. Arrangements for the prospective tours by the Glee Club will be taken up immediately after the Easter holidays.

Debaters Lose to Penn; To Meet Geneva Tonight

Beta Gamma Team Loses Close Decision To University of Pennsylvania On Supreme Court Question

NOTED LAWYERS ACT AS JUDGES

HEADS DANCE COMMITTEE

JOHN NOLL, a junior in the School of Science, who has been given charge of the Wilkes-Barre Club's 10th Annual Easter Dance which will take place at The Tarleton, in Hazelton, on April 14.

This evening at 8:00 P. M. in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall, the Beta Gamma Debating Society of Villanova College will be hosts to the forensic representatives of Geneva College.

The Villanova debaters, defending the affirmative viewpoint of the question, include the Messrs. John Chapple, Edward McDevitt, and William Corkill.

The title of the debate, familiar to those interested in debating activities, remains: RESOLVED: That Congress should be given the power to over-ride by a two-thirds majority vote, any decision of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional.

Next Friday evening Beta Gamma will debate with St. Joseph's College. As is customary, the debate will be presented in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall. The topic of this debate is that concerning the Supreme Court, the affirmative of which question will be upheld by the Villanova team, composed of the Messrs. Chapple, McDevitt and Corkill.

Last Friday night, the Beta Gamma debaters were defeated by the representatives from the University of Pennsylvania in a debate on the Supreme Court question. Witnessed by an audience of over 100, the Villanova debaters gallantly defended the affirmative, upholding the rights of Congress to determine the constitutionality of their acts.

Joseph Carroll and Anthony Differ carried Villanova efficiently throughout the course of the discussion, but the handicapping absence of Victor Ashe placed the team in a position from which they could not recover, despite the fact

Continued on Page Four

STUDENTS TO HEAR FR. O'LEARY SPEAK

Popular Campus Professor Will Deliver Lenten Sermon Tonight

"Confession" will be the subject of the sermon to be given tonight by Rev. John S. O'Leary, popular teacher of mathematics in the School of Technology.

Fr. O'Leary was preceded by Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., dean of the School of Arts, who spoke upon Salvation and the glories of the Blessed Virgin.

The entire sermon can be summed up in the following text quoted by the speaker before he began. Concerning the Blessed Virgin someone was said to exclaim, "Who is this that cometh forth like morning rising, bright as the sun, fair as the moon, and powerful as an army drawn up in battle array." Such a description amply covers, explained the speaker, what most of us think of the Blessed Mother.

Taking the text and analyzing its various parts he explained to us that "cometh forth like morning rising" is comparable to the glories of the Virgin who appears to us with the quiet majesty of the first break of dawn. "Bright as the sun" means that the beauty and glory of the Virgin are unsurpassable in their magnitude as the sun has no

Continued on Page Four

MEETING AT LAFAYETTE

Student Chapters of A. S. M. E. To Convene at Easton

On April 20 and 21, the student chapter of the A. S. M. E., of Villanova, will attend the annual student meeting to be held at Lafayette College in Easton.

Prof. Morehouse, moderator of the society, has announced that Joseph Maicoim, a senior, will present a paper on "The Hardening of Low Carbon Steel." Yesterday, the society held a meeting at which plans were made for proposed exhibitions for the annual open house, to be held on May 4 and 5.

CLASS OF '37 TO ESTABLISH FUND

Net Proceeds of Promenade and Ball Will Found Scholarship Trust

Villanova's junior class has decided to establish a 1937 Scholarship Fund with the proceeds of the Junior Promenade of this year and the Senior Ball of next year. This decision was reached at a meeting of the junior class last Thursday.

The custom of contributing a sum of money for the establishment of a Scholarship Fund is well established here at Villanova. For the past nine years each graduating class has given the net profits of its Senior Ball toward this fund.

A committee appointed to interview Very Rev. E. V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, regarding the fund presented its report to the junior class members at this recent meeting. Aloysius Fitzpatrick, representing the committee, rendered the opinion of the administration regarding the possibilities of establishing the fund. As has been its custom, the college administration recognizes the worthiness of the enterprise

Continued on Page Eight

STAFF MUST SIGN

All staff members of this paper are reminded that unless they sign for the Dinner-Dance by 5:30 P. M. today, they will be automatically excluded from the affair.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36.....Editor-in-Chief
BARRY PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36.....Sports Editor
CHARLES STARLECKER, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE QUARINI, '37....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors
John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36.....Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Carmen Giordano, '36.....Exchange Editor
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor

Staff Writers
John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Bimons, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Pillon, '38
Anthony T. Meli, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vazzalluzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '37 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani, '39 — Martin Kassel, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39 — James Mellor, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — Richard Mulvihil, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff
Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Sicowron, '39 — Walter L. Bainty, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39 — Anthony Differ, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff
Paschal Linguitti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager
Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
L E O GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.
Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post-office, December 27, 1928.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest
Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - MARCH 31, 1936

LEFTIST GAINS

ACCORDING to the latest reports from the recent national elections in Spain that age-old country of monarchy and latan unstabilized land of turmoil has turned to the Left, or the radical wing of government.

This coup was accomplished by a queer quirk of the Spanish election law which states that any party polling a majority of the votes in any district is entitled to four fifths of the seats contested. As luck would have it the Left parties won victories in districts with a greater number of delegates to be selected, while the country as a whole voted against it.

The formation of a Center party at the last moment invalidated 340,000 votes which ordinarily would have gone against it. Also a great number of Catholics, because of the religious turmoil, absented themselves. Hence a number of votes were lost to the cause of the Right, or the conservative element.

The Leftists were out in force, while in Madrid alone about 125,000 registered citizens did not take advantage of the plebiscite.

Add to these factors the indifference to government and the supreme confidence of the Rightist party and the causes for the victory of the Left are only too evident.

Perhaps a warning may be gleaned from these startling returns. In America, Communism and Socialism are openly flouted, yet after each election the leaders of these two parties have made surprising gains. Economic conditions greatly influence the trend of an election. With world affairs as they are, radical tenets are finding a ready ear in most corners of the world. Only by taking an active interest in the affairs of the government may much of the evils now inherent in our republic be abolished.

A MOVE FOR BETTER GRAMMAR

IN far away Seattle a teacher has improvised a means whereby he can, without too great an effort on his part, bring to the attention of his students the fact that they have made a grammatical error somewhere in their speech. When such a mistake appears the teacher strikes his "grammatical gong," which rests on his desk, and the erring student is made aware of his defective speech.

It might be well to borrow this "grammatical gong" from the teacher and put it in use in broadcasting studios, the halycon halls of Hollywood, political and professional meetings and such. If this were done, there would be few people for whom the gong would not ring. Not long ago the King of England was charged with a slight misuse of the King's English, and there has been more than one verse by poets laureate that would not have passed the ordinary copy reader's pencil unaltered. It is a common occurrence for the college professor to split infinitives while others dangle participles for amusement's sake.

Perhaps the most glaring error that has cropped up in some time was made at a recent educational conference at Boston. "We ain't got no roast beef what's underdoner," was the contribution made by a waiter in the town where the most perfect English is spoken. Such mutilation of our language does not call for the tinkle of the gong, rather it demands the stentorian tones of London's Big Ben.

It has even been suggested that a grammatical gong be placed in every household. But it is our opinion that however musical the tone of the gong, it is to be feared it would make for domestic discord.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATIONS

ALTHOUGH Federal Investigation Committees are rarely remedial, they do justify, to some slight extent, the expense and time that are devoted to them, by giving the interested citizen some inkling of the consistent manner in which he is exploited. Similarly do they reveal the odious methods which many business men use to camouflage their real activities. A revelation of this nature was made last week by the Federal Communications Commission in publicising the record of the A. T. & T. dividens and employment during the depressilon.

In order to maintain their $9 per share dividend the A. T. & T. found it necessary to dispose of 124,000 employees. And this at a time when W. S. Gifford, president of the company, in the capacity of the Hoover National Relief Director, was urging the business men of the nation to exert every effort to foster the return of prosperity and the increase in employment.

It is little wonder that so many governmental programs are faulty and inefficient in their administration and farcial in their outcome, when the men who are directing them, exhort us to do one thing and themselves practice the contrary. Whether this duplicity was conscious or not, the fact cannot be gainsaid that Mr. Gifford showed a lamentable lack of discretion in directing the activities of his company in one manner, and publicly advocating the direct opposite.

IT'S HARDLY A MAN'S WORLD

NOW THAT the elevator strike is over in New York, let's consider what effect a one-day strike of the women of this country would have. As long as such a thing is not likely to occur we will merely look at this question theoretically.

There are over 500,000 women employed by one national telephone company alone. Engaged in the manufacturing business there are 1,800,000, 2,000,000 are employed as clerks, and 3,000,000 are employed in domestic and personal service.

In a word the workaday world could not function without its women. And in the final analysis, isn't that just what the women have been trying to prove?

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

A TIME-BOMB hoax incident which was carried out on March 6 by 25 architecture students of Syracuse University aroused local and Federal authorities to action. The imitation bomb, which made from an old alarm clock, two eight-inch car ons filled with wet sugar and water, was sent to one of the college officials. Although the case has been dropped by Government and school authorities, the reports indicate that the culprits are suffering from parental admonishments and shame.

• • •

The Tower again obliges us with a few common definitions:
Bar: a large hairy animal.
Fizz: the hide with which peaches are covered.
Gin: the place between the lower lip and the Adam's apple.
Glass: that which the teacher has to sit in front of and look at.
Martini: the name of a popular Italian.
Dry Martini: the same man turned prohibitionist.
Wine: that which a dog does when a flea becomes obstreperous.

• • •

According to one professor, a characteristic of Communists is that "when one gets hit, they all lie down."

• • •

We read of a music student at Ohio State who, on an examination paper, referred frequently to Low and Grin's "Wedding March."

• • •

The University of Oklahoma claims the laziest bunch of hitch-hikers on record. A special bulletin board is provided on which students wishing to go home for the week-end write their names and destination and go back to the fire until some kind autoist takes pity upon them.

• • •

It's a funny world. If a man gets money he's a grafter. If he keeps it he's a miser. If he spends it he's a playboy. If he doesn't get it, he's a ne'er-do-well. If he tries to get it he's a capitalist. If he doesn't try to get it he lacks ambition. If he gets it without working he's a parasite. If he accumulates it after a lifetime of hard work, he's a sucker. You can't win.

• • •

One of the best-known trick plays in the history of football was executed by the Carlisle Indians in 1903, under the tutelage of "Pop" Warner. The ball was carried 105 yards, through Harvard, tucked under a player's jersey.

• • •

Definition of a reverie: the man who wears white knickers and blows the whistle at football games.

• • •

Suggested stationery:
Aviator—Fly paper.
Shelk—Sand paper.
Motorist—Carbon paper.
Business Manager—Note paper.
Student—Copy paper.

• • •

It is interesting to note that a Hendrix College professor has weighed a ray of sunlight.

• • •

Women make better lawyers than men according to every comparative measurement of those characteristics of lawyers studied by the Human Engineering Laboratory of Stevens Institute.

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

DID YOU Know That: Jack Feron opened the Spring term here at Villanova a short time ago with the first pair of white shoes to be sported since Winter set in on us? (That excludes Tom O'Mahoney, who wears 'em year in and year out)...Ed "Powerhouse" Kelly threatened to wipe up the floor with Bill Cleary 'cause the two were caught making merely passing comments in an exam but were excused from the scene nevertheless? "If it hadn't been for you," said Kelly as he measured Bill off with a Baer-ish haymaker....A certain Sophomore was caught in the act of penning verses to his lady love?...Back Bay, Boston, has a certain attraction for our own drawling Jim Downs? (That is, of course, only temporarily.)...Bill Christopher just breezed by the twenty-one mark? And if we're not mistaken there was a card in the mail signed "Gladys."

• • •

The season of Lent is nearly over but each day finds those resolutions harder to keep. The most difficult one of all is keeping away from the more potent beverages, according to a campus wit. For what with "pickled" pears, "stewed" prunes, "boiled" mackerel, "canned" vegetables, "tight" shoes, "oiled" machinery, and "potted" geraniums everywhere in evidence the temptation is verra, verra strong.

• • •

A certain assistant in a pre-med chemical lab recently created a furore when he told one of his understudies that the glassware that particular student was using looked like the windows in Bigley's car. Exceptional presence of mind on the part of a dozen or so students averted what pointed towards a catastrophe.

• • •

Not long ago the VILLANOVAN ran a story praising a certain Irving Uram to the skies because he rescued a woman from her gas-laden home. But what our staff reporter missed up on was the fact that after all the excitement had died down Irv dashed home to "hit the books." Reporters came hot on his trail along with the ever-present photographers and the following morning Uram's picture appeared in one of the local publications showing our hero seated at his desk figuratively devouring the contents of Jordan's textbook on bacteriology.

• • •

By means of a derby hat, black topcoat, and a carefully reversed collar, Charlie Miller succeeded one night last week in petrifying two members of the fair sex who were calling upon particular friends of theirs at Austin Hall. Annoyed at the racket the visitors were making "Fr." Miller rushed downstairs and proceeded to call the intruders down. Great consternation followed until, quite by accident, Paul Kerrigan came along and shouted, "Hi, Charlie!"

CAMPUS CELEBS -- By Guarini

As We See It - - - - On Prudence

By HARRY PARKIN

TO A SOCIETY that is more accustomed to indulge its foibles, than to study their restraint, no exhortation can prove less acceptable than that which recommends prudence. In fact if we were unmindful of the natural promptings of the spirit of man, which are, unfortunately, so seldomly as one with his actions, we should, certainly, put our time and this space to a more remunerative purpose. But the fact that the virtues which the spirit and conscience commend to the intellect, are so immeasurably beneficial to the individual and his environment, and so readily apprehended as such once they are examined, prompts us to recommend directly to you that of prudence—which is the font from which we gain an appreciation and understanding of all the others.

Prudence is the impersonal interpretation of our sensory impressions, in order that our reactions may be commensurate with all the factors that are involved. Or more properly perhaps, it is circumspection in speech and action; not because of any want of courage, but rather that all things be justly treated. It lends hesitation to judgment lest it be rash, caution to speech lest it needlessly offend, and discretion to action lest its practitioner suffer the pains or embarrassment of precipitancy.

A prudent man is a valuable adjunct to every discussion. He attends carefully to the words of others, usually being the last to speak, but when he does so he not only phrases his thoughts in a manner that takes cognizance of the opinions of others, but also, and this more often than not, is able to express in a clear and convincing manner the actual relation which each discourse bears to the matter under discussion. Never a disputant; he saves himself no little time and energy by ignoring the foolish and illogical absurdities that prejudice is accustomed to propound. And where others are apt to see an insult to their intelligence or convictions, he sees only another man trying to find the answers to the questions that vex him from the limited faculties that nature has given him, or from the lack of their proper direction and function, which opportunity has denied him.

Unfortunately, the nature of our social institutions are such as to impede rather than to aid the cultivation of prudence. The superficialities of our speech and conduct with which we seek to impress our contemporaries, so exclusively occupy us, that we are only occasionally brought to the consideration of prehended intellectually, and exterthose things that can only be appanalized by disciplined practice. The salient feature of our cultural and educational system seems to be a reluctance toward anything that requires concentrated and consistent effort to attain, when it can be counterfeited or feigned upon those occasions when it adds to our aggrandizement. Virtues are cultivated for ostentation and not for the improvement of the ego. Or again why strive aftr a virtu that only th discrning can see, when there are so few who are actually discerning....Few men have the acumen, to determine the spurious from the true source, that moves us to action. These statements, like all fallacies, can be easily discountenanced if carried to their natural conclusions; but the distortion of values that their specious claims provoke in the minds of those who interpret them as plausible, cannot, so readily, be undone.

The man who cherishes the opinions of fools, or of the unlearned, has either the standards of the one, or little to commend him above the approbation of the other. In this latter respect he is not unlike the high school lad, who having learned a theorem in geometry, amazes his parents, who know nothing of the subject, with his dexterity in solving it—but what likelihood would he have of impressing the author of his text book with his knowledge. So it is with virtue, we can never simper or profess our way beyond the one infallible judge, nor can we long delude ourselves. The beauty of virtue lies in its unconscious manifestation so that is relatively impossible to play the part consistently.

The prudent man may never be inscribed on the scroll of fame as a vigorous, imaginative and original thinker, but in the ledger of humanity, wherein all our deeds are recorded, he can have no greater praise attributed to him than that he was prudent.

Pass In Review

By R. L. G. DEVERALL

A FEW WEEKS ago, we celebrated the feast of St. Thomas Aquinas, patrol of scholars. Our library, (up to the minute as it always it), has just received an interpretation of St. Thomas by one of our mighty lay philosophers, Jacques Maritain. THE ANGELIC DOCTOR is the name of the name of the book. (Library reference BX—4700—T. 6 M 35.)

Whenever we are out in the world, and after a discussion of some sort, when we mention St. Thomas Aquinas brows are invariably lifted, pained surprise is registered on the faces of those non-Catholics present, and we are made to feel that we have perpetrated a fauxipas.

Most people outside of the Church—and I daresay even a few Catholics, too—seem to feel that because Thomas wrote six hundred years ago he is, ipso facto, behind the time and of no value. Yet when we examine the writings of St. Thomas, we find that they are the most exalted philosophical works ever to leave the pen of a human being.

St. Thomas wrote in a great age: the thirteenth, greatest of centuries was his stage, his theatre of operations. Before the thirteenth century, Europe had been absorbing the barbarians and fighting internal decay. After the thirteenth century, Europe was immersed in the decadence of the Renaissance, the blood of the Protestant Revolt and the hatred of modern Nationalism.

It would appear that only during the thirteenth century could a great philosopher have withdrawn from the particularisms and localisms that mark the philosophies of all other ages, and given to the world a lasting and ever-new philosophy. And St. Thomas, under the patronage of the Holy See, did that very thing.

The life of St. Thomas is one of the most romantic biographies that history offers us. The life of St. Thomas was that of a religious. Even as a little child, he had remained within the comforting shelter of the monastic cloister. Years of study, intense preparation and dynamic application to reading and writing, gave St. Thomas a mastery of philosophy that few before or since his time have accomplished.

A tireless worker, Thomas had the happy faculty of abstraction: he could remove his mind from his body, so to speak, and even physical pain could not bring him out of one of his intellectual trances. Yet at the same time he had a child-like devotion to the welfare of those about him. And, "such was the purity of his heart, that...his general confession before he died was the confession of a child of five."

The philosophy of St. Thomas Aquinas as found in his SUMMA THEOLOGICA (and some hundred or more other books that the Saint composed), says Mr. Maritain, "is not the property of St. Thomas. It is the common property of the Church and mankind." Although Thomas only lived forty-nine years (he died in 1274), he achieved a monumental success in all of his works. Indeed, Pope Benedict XV said: "...St. Thomas should be called not only the Angelic Doctor, but also the Common or Universal Doctor of the Church: for the Church has adopted his philosophy for her own as innumerable documents of every kind attest."

The Catholic of to-day is invited, if not commanded, by Holy Mother Church to seek Thomas if Truth is to be found. Our day is an age of mental decay, of intellectual dishonesty and intellectual weakness. St. Thomas was fundamentally a defender of human reason, an apostle of the mind. St. Thomas defended the spirit and the mind, whereas our time exalts the flesh, the animal emotions and intellectual degeneracy (vide Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini). St. Thomas, strangely, is the apostle of our time. Christian social reconstruction is based largely on the teachings of the Angelic Dictor. Read this book. Live with Thomas. Learn to love him.

Coincident with this life of St. Thomas, the library has received a copy of Amintore Fanfani's monumental work, "Catholicism, Protestantism and Capitalism."

This great work discusses the relation between a religion, a sect, and an economic philosophy. Prof. Fanfani considers Capitalism not only as an economic system, but as a mode of life; hence, the term, "capitalistic spirit." And, having concluded that capitalism is a social philosophy, it is evident that it can affect or modify a religious system.

The capitalist spirit is merely the prevailing economic spirit of any given period. The pre-capitalist, or mediaevalist, conceived wealth as a thing invented for social usage. The modern capitalist, in contradistinction, assumed that wealth has only individual importance. Wealth is no longer an instrument used to achieve the common good, but is exploited only to satisfy the cravings of an individual's will, be it good or bad.

The modern capitalist spirit had its genesis in the period extending from the Crusades to the Protestant Revolution. The mediaevalist, with his Christian ideal of human solidarity, gave way to the selfish banker who exploited all means in order to swell an already distended money box.

After the Protestant Revolution, the common law contained many capitalistically inhibiting prohibitions. The capitalist, therefore, had to capture the State. The Protestant Revolution was utilized by bourgeois capitalists to smash the legislation of a formerly Catholic age! The Glorious Revolution in England, and the French Revolution of 1789 assured the bourgeoisie petit of preponderance in the social and economic world. The State is no longer the guardian of Justice, but too frequently is an instrument of the greedy capitalist.

Is there any clash between the ethics of capitalism and the eternal moral dogmas of Roman Catholicism? The Catholic attitude is best expressed in the prolific writings of St. Thomas Aquinas. Every human act, says Thomas, should glorify God. 'Man's ultimate end, whether he prays, works, studies, does business, eats or amuses himself, is always God....In other words, human action should be a continual prayer.' To St. Thomas, wealth is good, for God created it. But wealth has an end, the service of man. When wealth becomes an end in itself, not a means, it is "damnable filthy lucre."

Now the capitalist conception of human life rests on the departmentalization of human activity. "It fixes its gave on natural and in

Continued on Page Eight

The Villanovan Seven Years Ago

ELABORATE PLANS FOR NEW PIE SHOP BARED

A NEW ADDITION to the Pie Shop will await the return of the students from the Easter vacation. The new location is to be the former dynamo lab situated in the basement of Mendel Hall, touching the southern side of Louie's old establishment.

Having three entrances, north, east and south, the location shall be convenient to all those who desire to have a warm meal or a soda. The new restaurant shall accommodate a hundred patrons simultaneously within its spacious confines.

A low white ceiling studded with heavy beams and supported with substantial pillars after the old English tavern style, covers a group of tables for the customers. Along the southern wall of the restaurant are ranged the lockers of the Day Hops. The western eighth of the room is taken up with a marble soda fountain and lunch counter of the same material, with its equipment of steam tables and beverage urns. The extreme northwestern end of the new restaurant is taken up with the kitchen proper and its modern cluinary equipment which assures the nth degree of hygienic precaution.

Louie shall be assisted by a staff of seven assistants in his management of the new Pie Shoppe, thereby assuring quicker service to those who have limited time for eating.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

THIS is just one of those many peculiar situations that arises with radio artists. Connie Boswell of the famous Boswell Sisters and popular singer with the Refreshment Time program featuring Ray Noble went on a trip to Briarcliff, New York, to visit her pet bulldog at the Briarcliff Kennels. On the way her car broke down. Connie had her chauffeur take her to the nearest phones to tell her sisters the reason for the delay.

On using the phone she noticed a picture of the Boswell Sisters on the table. Naturally, Connie scrutinized this picture very closely to see to whom it was autographed—whereupon the lady of the household said, "Oh, they are the Boswell Sisters. They are my cousins." Upon which Connie said, "oh yes," and left. On her return to New York she immediately wrote this lady a letter with ten cents enclosed to pay for the phone call, thanked her for her hospitality and signed it, "Connie Boswell."

No, this lady is in no way related to the Boswell Sisters. We are wondering if her face is red.

Here's a man who doesn't mind spending money for his instruments. Nick Pisani, first violinist with Ray Noble has just proven that Mr. Noble pays the largest salaries to musicians of any dance orchestra. Nick bought a Joseph Galiano Violin worth $5000. The violin was made in 1743.

• • •

Songs

Connie Boswell, vocal soloist with Ray Noble's Orchestra on CBS, has written a song in collaboration with Nat Schwartz, entitled "Mommy," which she sang on the "Refreshment Time" program March 25. The previous night, Tuesday, Fritzi Scheff sang "Twilight on the Trail" from the film, "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," on the "Lavender and Old Lace broadcast. She dedicated it to the memory of John Fox, Jr., to whom she was married after inspiring him to write the book on which the motion picture is based.

• • •

Starlines

You know him as Glen Gray, president of the Casa Loma Orchestra on CBS.

Full name is Glen Gray Knoblauch.

Born in Metamora, Ill., June 7, 1903.

Educated there and at Illinois Wesleyan College.

Played basketbal, baseball and football.

Studied clarinet with Albert Luanconi of St. Cecilia's Academy in Rome.

Taught self on other instruments.

Plays saxophone, clarinet and flute with the Caca Lomans.

At 16, played piccolo in small-town concert band at $1.50 a performance.

Earned college tuition playing music and working in a brickyard.

Was clarinet soloist with Detroit Symphony.

Joined Jean Goldkette's Orchestra in Detroit in 1924.

In 1929, joined group of young musicians for an engagement in Toronto.

Made such a hit, they incorporated and elected genial Glen president.

Took name of the resort where they were playing — the "Casa Loma."

Booked band into Steel Pier at Atlantic City for Summers of 1931 and 1932.

Played hotels through Middle West during Fall and Winter of 1932 and 1933.

Became national favorites of the college crowds.

Were featured at Glen Island Casino in New York in Summer of 1933.

Moved into the fashionable Essex House, New York City, in the Fall of 1933.

Made CBS air debut shortly afterwards on the "Camel Caravan."

Played at Villanova's Belle-Air Ball, February 7, 1936.

Recently signed to succeed Ray Noble in the "Rainbow Room atop Radio City.

Is known as "Spike" to his fellow Casa Lomans.

Likes to dance, attend shows, play tennis and swim.

VITAL STATISTICS: Is 6 foot 3½ inches tall; weighs 220 pounds; has brown hair and eyes.

AIR TIME: Tuesday and Thursday, 9:00 to 9:30 P. M., EST. Rebroadcast to the West, 11:30 to 12 Midnight, CNYT.

(End)

GLOBE TROTTING

By FRED WATERS

IT'S CALLED COMMUNISM

By FRED WATERS

(Due to strict censorship, it is very difficult to learn the true state of affairs existing in Russia today. In this interview, Basil W. Dobrowolski, student at Villanova, and native of Russia, has given some of the information he has been able to discover about his native land. More will appear in a later interview.)

Murder, Death, Crime, for Bread!

THE stealing of food is the greatest crime problem in Russia today.

"In Moscow, four desperate men banded together, and broke into a house, to find something to eat. Food! Food! was their only desire as they madly searched the place. Suddenly the police appeared. The four men were arrested and tried. They pleaded hunger. The verdict was death, and they were shot on the spot.

"A woman was coming out of a State store, carrying a loaf of black bread under her arm, when suddenly two men glided near, and slugged her on the head, took the bread and left the unconscious body in the gutter.

"Such are the lengths to which Russians will go in order to obtain food.

• • •

Two Million Martyrs

"In 1923 alone, resistance to the Bolshevist regime became so intense, that two million Russians had to be butchered before Stalin was able to tighten his death grip on the nation.

"Stalin's name, which translated means "steel" is very appropriate. Force and ruthless murder both spell the secret of his success.

"Even today that same merciless force is the only mainstay of his power. The majority of Russians are thoroughly disgusted. At the slightest opening they will strike. But, at present, their hopes are very scant. Stalin's iron yoke holds them firmly in check. His armed police force, who incidentally are the best treated class in the country, command the scene completely, and are usually quite loyal to their master."

• • •

Communism in U. S.

"Why are Communists usually mixed up in most labor disputes and strikes in this country?"

"Their main purpose is to promote discontent. They are trying their best to do everything in their power to further labor dissension and class warfare. By such activities, it is their fond hope that the system of government in this nation will be slowly undermined.

"But I believe that in any nation there are a certain number of down and outers. If such desire to get together and call themselves Communists, so be it; they are a pitiful minority, and will certainly not cause the overthrow of the vast majority of freedom-loving Americans.

• • •

Smash!

"But when these Communists, or what you will, begin to infect other classes with their false philosophies, then there is danger.

"When a rat starts to dig into a wall, the wall will resist its efforts to a certain extent, but in the absence of any counter-assault, that rat will eventually gain its ends.

"So with Communism. It is certainly resisted by most American laborers, but mere resistance, as in the case of the rat against the wall, is not sufficient. There must be some positive action, some counter-attack.

"To date that counter-attack with isolated exceptions, has been lacking. And meanwhile the attack itself gains greater strength; the

Continued on Page

NOMINATIONS HELD BY SCIENCE GROUP

Officers to Be Installed at Fraternity Dinner-Dance April 25

Preliminary nominations for next year's officers of the science fraternity were held at the weekly meeting of the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity last Thursday in Mendel Hall. The newly elected officers will be installed at the fraternity dinner-dance on April 25.

At present there are three nominees for the presidency, all of whom are present juniors. These in line for election are John McLaughlin, Gerald Piserchia and Manrico Troncelitti. The retiring president is Joseph Bigley, who will relinquish his post at the end of the school term. The nominations are not completed and it is a possibility that there will be more candidates to be considered before the election.

To the present sophomore class goes the honor of placing two officers; that of vice-president and of treasurer. In this respect the fraternity nominated Joseph Tolan, James Gray and James Keegan to the former, and Louis Centrella and Andrew Conte to handle the finances of the organization. James Kutz and Rene Cailliet, of the freshman class, will be considered to fill the position of secretary.

Three seniors, so far, are the choice to represent the fraternity in the Student Council; namely, Pasquale Vassalluzzo, Pio Goggi and Joseph Tanzola, all active members of the science school. The nominations were concluded for the day by selecting John Donovan and Louis Santamarin to act as sergeant-at-arms during the next term.

Students to Hear Fr. O'Leary Speak

Continued From Page One

equal in the heavenly bodies. "Fair as the moon" shows her extreme beauty, while the first phrase "powerful as an army drawn up in battle array" is self explanatory. "There is no one of us who does not thrill at the sight of the army of his own nation, because it means security and happiness."

The Blessed Virgin, too he explained, is our security and happiness in heaven.

Because of her position as the Mother of God, Mary is the most powerful and the greatest of all saints. Because of her Immaculate Conception and spotless life her arrival in heaven must have been a wonderful sight.

Mary is as much of a mother as she is queen of heaven. At the consumation of his life Jesus gave to us a new Church and a new life. All life must have a guiding influence. In human and animal existence the desired influence is usually held by a mother. Christ knowing the frailties of human beings gave to us His own blessed mother so that we may not be left to drift away without the influence and love of a spiritual mother.

Mary is the root of all good, and it is through her that grace and goodness comes to us. Without her intercession and loving protection Salvation is impossible.

$100 Offered for Best College Play

Continued From Page One

tains full production rights. He may feel free to have his play produced even though the original may still be in the hands of Stage.

Address: Short Play Editor, Stage, 50 E. 42nd St., New York.

Fr. Coan in Charge Of Guild Patrons

Continued From Page One

alighted, and should assume the responsibility of sending the donation to Fr. Coan, in care of Villanova College."

Al Phillips and his orchestra have recently completed a one-year stay at the Streets of Paris Cafe, Philadelphia, and for the past three years have played every Sunday evening at the Circle Club. Those who have danced to the rhythms of Phillips' Orchestra will attest that it is one of the foremost bands in the local district.

The next meeting of the clerical and lay committees of the Guild will be held tomorrow evening in the Lounge Room of the gymnasium. Fr. Brown hopes that this conference will be better attended than the previous one, which resulted in poor attendance due to inclement weather conditions.

The primary purpose of the meeting is to report progress made by the various committees. In regards to the cooperation to be extended to the various committees Fr. Brown said: "Because of the tremendous task of raising funds for the Seminary, and the lack of time, it is necessary to redouble our efforts, and have as many earnest workers as possible."

Tickets and chance books have been in the mails and returns are gradually coming in. Those desiring tickets for the occasion may secure them by writing Rev. Michae. J. O'Donnell, St. Mary's Hall, Villanova College. Chance books are obtainable from Rev. Francis L. Dennis, of the Malvern Preparatory School.

PROS SIGN VANDY GUARD

Sam Brown, star guard at the University of Vanderbilt for three seasons, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League. Brown stands well over six feet and weighs 220 pounds.

Debaters to Meet Geneva Tonight

Continued From Page One

that Carroll, on last minute notice, attemptedto fill the vacancy. The University of Pennsylvania was successfully represented by the Messrs. Manoff, Ginsberg and Arnold.

The Hon. Edwin C. Embardt, James A. Somers, Esq., and Mortimer N. Eastburn, Esq., acted as judges for the evening. Mr. Embardt, formerly a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature, and just recently appointed the Chief of the Bureau of Weights and Measures of Philadelphia, presented the decision of the judges.

Mr. Somers and Mr. Eastburn are both active members of the Philadelphia Bar, as is Mr. Embardt at the present time. The former judge is quite well known in Philadelphia as one of the city's foremost trial lawyers, and Mr. Eastburn is recognized as an authority on real estate and decendents' estate law in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In the name of the eBta Gamma and the Villanova Literary Society, a vote of thanks was extended to the judges for their kindness in offering their services as judges of the debate by the presiding chairman, John Hallahan, president of the Literary Society. Immediately following the debate, the participants, judges, and those connected with the event convened to the College Dining Hall, where a supper was provided.

IMPORTANT MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the Junior Blazer Committee today at 1:00 P. M. in Room 213, Mendel Hall.

Address Delivered By Prof. Morehouse

Continued From Page One

ment. He was also connected with the Atwater Kent Corporation in the Ignition and Light Department.

Since his coming to Villanova in 1921, he has been actively engaged in teaching thermo-dynamics, mechanical drawing, heating, ventilating and air-conditioning. He is the author of a text used in the latter course and has compiled a text on "Kinematics."

Prof. Morehouse's teaching experiences, together with his affiliations with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, of which he is a member and committeeman, admirably qualify him as a student counselor and guidance leader.

FINAL SCHEDULE OUT

Last Date Belle-Air Group Pictures Announced by Editor as Thursday

Final group pictures for the Belle Air will be taken on Thursday, April 2, 1936. The schedule at this time includes the Spring sports pictures and those groups which have not yet been photographed.

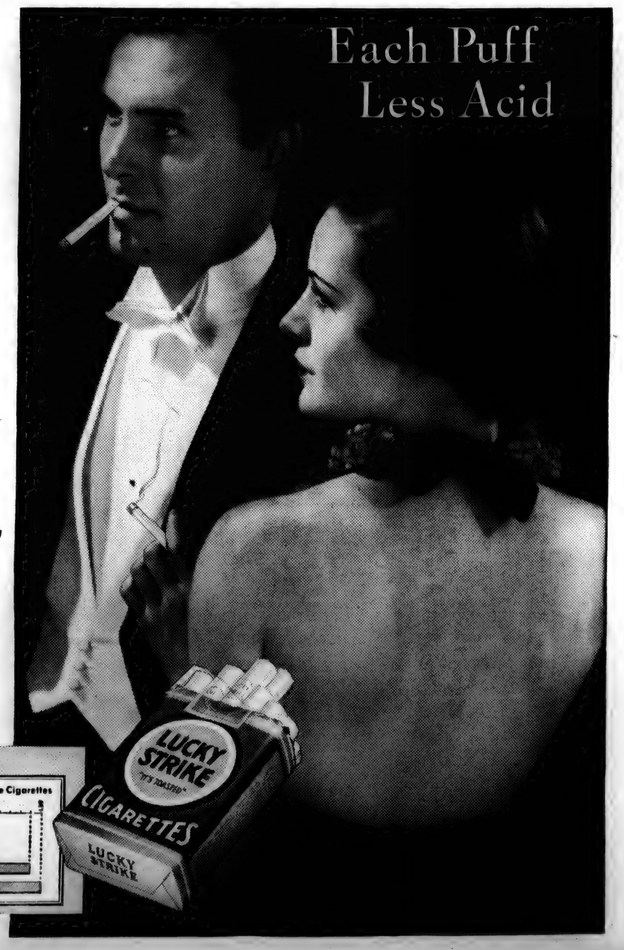
The photography editor wishes to announce that anyone desiring any of the group pictures taken for the Belle Air may obtain the same by placing their order at the College book store.

The members of the circulation staff of the annual will approach the students in the near future in regards to having their names placed on the annual. The students are asked to co-operate with the staff by placing their orders early.

Thursday Last Day for Group Pictures

Photograph	Place	Time
Debating Society (Formal)	Mendel Hall	1:00 P. M.
Cheerleaders (Sweaters)	New Gymnasium	1:15 P. M.
Tennis Team (Outfits)	New Gymnasium	1:20 P. M.
Golf Team (Outfits)	New Gymnasium	1:25 P. M.

Each Puff Less Acid



Each puff less acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill, uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

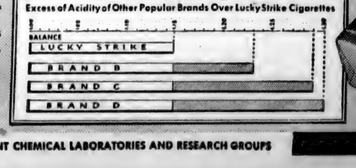
Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation—against cough

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.



*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Sportorial

By the Sports Editor

TOMORROW afternoon will find the Villanova varsity nine opening its 1936 baseball campaign, with an invasion of Franklin Field, the lair of the Red and Blue squad. Penn has already played its opener, having met the Penn A. C. last Saturday. The final score being 11-9 in favor of the Pennacs.

"Doc" Jacobs will be leading a mixed squad of veterans and inexperienced men, with the latter predominating, but in our opinion it will not take long for the new men to fill in the empty spots, and tomorrow's tussle should be an easy one for the Wildcats.

The starting pitcher is not yet known, but in all probability veteran Eddie Vaughn will toe the mound in the lid-lifter. Through this column the student body of Villanova College extends the team its best wishes for a successful season.

—V—

It is rumored that Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, stopped off at Charlottesville, Va., last Saturday night, to witness the final rounds of the national boxing championship and college trials for the United States Olympic team. The reason for the visit, according to reports, was to attempt to find a "white Hope."

His eye was focused upon the activities of Izzy Richter, Penn State entrant and former possessor of National A. A. A. title, and, Fred Cramer, West Virginia's representative in the heavyweight ranks. He is the holder of the title in the Southern Conference.

—V—

We wonder if Mister Tunney could find time to come to Villanova, for we are sure he would save a lot of time by doing so. This college boasts of a man who can lick both of the aforementioned. He is the Eastern Intercollegiate champion, our own Tony Sala.

Of course if Gene must have two, well then we'll show him Jack Robinson, "our ace in the hole." So come on over sometime Gene.

—V—

We were sorry to hear of the sudden illness of Jim McNerny, Villanova golf captain. His loss will be keenly felt by the team. Jim was taken ill last week with an attack of appendicitis and there are no chances of his competing this season. In his place the golfers have elected Dave Craig as acting captain laving Jim with an honorary title of team captain.

—V—

Speaking of golf reminds us that the annual intramural golf tournament which took the spotlight last year by way of its unusual uncoverings, is still indefinite. One thing is certain though, according to the committee, the tourney will be conducted. But due to the nability to obtain a course it will be run off as soon as the proper connections are made.

—V—

The intramural baseball loop will swing into action some day soon, therefore it is advisable for all those interested to keep a close watch of th bulletin boards. According to the Pie Shop chatter the Day Hops are expecting to put out a good club, and from information we have on hand it seems that as in basketball the race will narrow down to the Day Hops, Austin and Alumni, the latter being the favorite.

—V—

THE RECENT game between the Mendel Dayhops and the Templars of Temple intramural champs of their respective schools marked a new era in the field of sports, INTERCOLLEGIATE INTRAMURAL SPORTS which meets with the hearty approval of this column. There is nothing that makes a sport more interesting than keen rivalry. We believe the step taken by the two teams should be encouraged by the proper authorities and their aid should be given to develop such relations.

The Dayhops travel to Wilmington Saturday night to meet the Wilmington Y. M. C. A. champions, a club rated high in independent circles. A victory means

Continued on Page Six

Villanovan Sports

'CAT NINE OPENS AT PENN

Leads Villanova Team Against Quakers

CAPTAIN ARTY MAHAN,
who will lead the Villanova varsity nine in its quest for a victory over the Penn baseball team at Franklin Field tomorrow. He will cavort at the initial sack and bat in the clean-up position, a place earned by his ability with the willow. He has been a consistent .300 hitter in his two previous seasons of varsity competition and is expecting a banner season as the leader of a potentially strong club.

QUAKERS FIRST ON EXTENSIVE ROSTER OF BASEBALLERS

Cornell, Princeton and P. A. C. Will Be Met in Successive Games

ITHICANS WILL OPEN HERE

Probable Line-Up

Penn	Villanova
Fernidez, 3b	Sheftic or
Reed, ss	Stopper, 2b
Lees, cf	Escott, cf
Mohler, 1b	Mahan, 1b
Hauze, 2b	Stoviak, lf
Warwick, lf	Schoppmeyer, ss
Honeywright, rf	Garbark, c
Ritchie or	O'Meara or
Gentino, c	Brennan, rf
Barton	McKenna, 3b
Effinger or	McLaughlin or
Norton, p	Vaughn, p

Villanova College opens its baseball season tomorrow when the Wildcat nine opposes the University of Pennsylvania team on Franklin field.

Five Juniors, and four Seniors will compose the Quaker squad which opposes Villanova. No members of last year's Freshman squad succeeded in making this year's varsity team.

Among the members of the starting team for Penn are: Edward Warwick, varsity football and track man, who plays leftfield; Edgar Mohler, from Beckley, W. Va., at first-base; James Hauze, a member of last year's squad, at second-base; Tommy Rees, at shortstop; William Brobston, a newcomer from Nazareth, at third; George Lees, pitcher and outfielder last year, in rightfield; Steve Slobojun, inactive last

Continued on Page Seven

TWO MATCHES FOR VARSITY GOLFERS

Virginia and Richmond U. Play Host To Linksmen

Villanova's golf team will set out on a four day trip through Virginia today, if a reduced schedule is approved by the Athletic office.

The original schedule called for a five day, six match trip, but due to the failure of several colleges to answer challenges sent by Manager Jack Geraghty, the roster has been reduced.

Of the original teams challenged, only the University of Virginia, and the University of Richmond have replied, the former offering a match on Wednesday, April 1, at Charlottesville, Va., and Richmond meeting Villanova on Friday, April 3, at Richmond. These matches are definite, and it needs only the approbation from the authorities to

Continued on Page Seven

Boxers Engage in Seven Meets in 1937 Season

Jan. 15.	P. M. C.	Home
Feb. 9.	Western Md.	Home
Feb. 20.	Penn	Away
Feb. 23.	W. & J.	Home
Feb. 26—	Temple	Away
Mar. 4.	Bucknell	Home
Mar. 8.	To be announced.

Spurred on by a successful boxing season the Villanova fistman have outlined an ambitious schedule for next year which will bring them face to face with some of the strongest ring opponents in intercollegiate circles.

Coach Ray Gadsby, who brought the Wildcats through the perilous course of four strong opponents this year, with but one defeat and proud victories over Penn, Temple and Washington and Jefferson, has been alert to the possibility of regaining for the Main Line institution the reputation it once enjoyed.

Not since the days of Tommy O'Malley, once master of all he surveyed in college boxing, has such enthusiasm been shown in the squared circle among the Villanova adherents. Under the intrepid O'Malley, the Wildcats fought their way to the top rank among colleges.

The intervening years saw only a luke warm attitude toward the ring. The revival, which began two years ago, reached its zenith when Tony Sala captured the intercollegiate light heavyweight championship last year and this year.

Coach Ray Gadsby, alert to the potentialities of Villanova boxers, has been spending his energies contacting the leading colleges in the East for meets. The result has been that he has signed up five matches and will shortly sign two additional meets.

Lead Off With P. M. C.

The 'Cats will lead off next year with Pennsylvania Military College on January 15. The Green Terrors from Western Maryland will be the next ring opponents, on Feb-

Continued on Page Six

New Era in Intramurals Announced; Meets to Be Held With Penn-Temple

By NORTON CRANE PADEN

Thursday night marked the beginning of a new era in intra-mural sports at Villanova when the Mendel Dayhop basketball team played the Templars from Temple U. The action took place in the new gym and these intra-mural champions from their respective schools had it hot and heavy for the entire game.

The innovation is this. Plans are already well under way for triangular meets in intra-mural sports with Temple and Penn. The leaders of their respective sports will get together after the season with the "tops" of the aforementioned schools and decide a mythical championship.

Games will probably be played on a home and home basis, although this has not been definitely decided upon. A meeting of Mr. Scherbaum, director of intra-mural athletics at Temple University; Mr. Meredith, director of intra-mural sports at the University of Pennsylvania; and Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., director of intramural athletics at Villanova, will be held in the near future and they will draw up definite plans on the different meets.

Such a series would no doubt add life to an intra-mural season that otherwise has the appearance of a wake until just before championships are decided. It would also mean that the different sports, that drag on for an interminable period, would be run off faster due to these extra games.

Such a series has been favored in larger institutions as every year the members of the big three; namely, Harvard, Princeton and Yale, have an intra-mural playoff

TEMPLE ENTERS FINALS IN OLYMPIC TRY-OUTS

Gains Hard Earned Victory Over Purple Eagles of Niagara By 37-36 Score

Playing before a disappointing crowd of 1000 at the Penn Palestra, last Saturday night, the Temple University basketball quintet defeated the Purple Eagles of Niagara U. to enter the final round of the Olympic basketball trials.

A foul goal by Captain Messikomer in the waning seconds proved to be the margin of victory, in a tussle that had the few who turned out constantly on edge. The final score was 37-36.

Messikomer with three field goals and six out of six foul tries was the high man with twelve points. Don Bhields, Owis forward, and Paul, center of the Purple squad, each had five field goals for ten points.

Niagara had a 14-12 lead at half time.

INTRA-MURAL GOLF TOURNEY PLANNED

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A. to Start Play as Soon As Site Is Found

Having completed their Winter intral-mural schedule, Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., and his committee are now looking forward to balmy weather. The first Spring sport now in consideration by the committee.

This Spring Fr. McKee will attempt to stage such an intra-mural golf tournament as has never been attempted before. There has been a little trouble in getting a course. But, as soon as one is obtained the tournament will get under way. Members of the varsity golf team will not be able to participate.

The main reason for this tournament is to help uncover enough material for next year's varsity. With so many students who indulge in the game, preparing daily for the tournament there should not be much trouble in securing candidates.

Day-hop students are asked to continue the support given by them in the recent basketball tourney so that all students will be ably represented.

Many courses near and around the college have been priced and in a few days a course will be selected. The tournament will continue for only one day but if enough candidates report it will continue for several

Dayhops Win From Templars by 33-30 Score

VARSITY SQUAD GAINS 5-1 WIN OVER FROSH NINE

Tussle Marked by Slugging Power of Stoviak And Hopkins

'CATS GATHER EIGHT HITS

Villanova students had an opportunity of seeing this year's diamond aggregation in action as the varsity triumphed over the Frosh, 5-1, on Mendel Field last Saturday. Hits were few, and of the thirteen made the Kittens garnered five, while the Wildcats took the lion's share. Considering the condition of the field, defensive play was commendable, although the game as a whole was rather listless.

Both teams were held scoreless in the initial inning, the first three men on each side being retired in order. The last half of the following canto saw the varsity big guns go into action as Captain "Philbert" Mahan doubled into deep right. Ray Stoviak then drove a ringing single to the same sector to send home the season's first tally. This was all that the veterans were able to muster for this session, but they took up their task in the third frame when Stopper walked, stole second, advanced to third on Escott's infield out and crossed the platter on Stoviak's second successive single. Pitcher Jim Schelle of the youngsters then retired Leo Schoppmeyer to conclude the inning and his work on the mound.

Varsity Line-Up Changes

General replacements took place in the varsity at this time, as Harry McNally took over Mike Garbark's catching duties, Johnny Higgins went to second base, Don Brennan to right field, and Tom "Needle" Collins assumed the hurling duties. Whereupon the Freshman welcomed the newcomers by scoring their only run of the fray. Joe Hopkins doubled to open the inning, and advanced to third on Montgomery's out. Willie McLaughlin then obtained part revenge for the treatment he received earlier in the contest by singling Hoppy in. From this point until the seventh there was no more offensive action by either side, when the Wildcats ended the tallying for the game with Higgin's score on an error, a sacrifice by Collins, and Don Brennan's long two-bagger to the center pasture.

Charlie Cox's charges started a futile rally on Costello's scratch single in the closing frame off Joe McGovern, but the uprising fell flat as he died on first when Montgomery was called out on strikes by Umpire Joe Carrig, of Ray Gadsby's boxing squad.

Only one outstanding incident marked the fr . This occurred in the sixth, when the Frosh infield combination of Joe Merullo, Matsinger, and Bobby Bond participated in a sparkling double play, nabbing Stoviak and McKenna, to close the inning.

Ray Stoviak, the halfback and left fielder, amassed three bingles for four trips to the plate, while McLaughlin garnered two for two, for a perfect day, and Joe Hopkins took a double and a single out of three times at bat.

Line-ups:

Varsity	AB.	H.	R.
Stopper, rf	2	0	1
Brennan, rf	1	1	0
Escott, cf	4	0	0
Mahan, 1b	4	1	1
Stoviak, lf	4	3	0
Schoppmeyer, ss	4	0	0
Garbark, c	2	0	0
McNally, c	1	0	0
McKenna, 3b	3	1	1
Sheffic, 2b	3	1	1
Higgins, 2b	2	0	1
Vaughn, p	2	0	0
Collin..s, p	0	0	0
McGovern, p	0	0	0
Totals	31	8	5

Frosh	AB.	H.	R.
Merullo, ss	3	0	0
Bond, 1b	3	0	0
Montgomery, lf, 3b	4	0	0
Panteleo, lf	1	0	0
Costello, lf	1	1	0
Wanamaker, cf	3	0	0
Matsinger, 2b	4	0	1
Vigilante, c	4	0	0
Hopkins, rf	3	2	1
Deluomo, 3b	3	0	0
Schelle, p	2	0	0
McLaughlin, p	2	2	0
Cassel, p	0	0	0
Totals	33	5	1

Score by innings:

Frosh	000	010	000	—1
Varsity	011	200	10*	—5

Errors—Varsity, 3; Frosh, 2. Double plays—Frosh, 1. Two-base hits—Brennan, Mahan, McKenna, Hopkins. Triple—Sheffie.

In the Limelight

By JOHN I. SIMONS

As the hero of this week's thumbnail sketch we have Tom Collins, the pride of North Andover and Villanova. Tom has been one of the most prominent men on the campus since his freshman year, and it is the object of this sketch to show what causes his popularity.

Tommy was born almost 23 years ago, on May 1, 1913, to be exact, in the small town of North Andover, Massachusetts. (North Andover has a population of 500 at normal times but of 501 during Christmas, Easter and summer vacations).

Like all other lads, Tom went to grammar school, at the Merrimac School in his home town. Grammar school days were busy ones for our hero as far as sports were concerned. He played soccer, hockey, hurling, and of course baseball. During these days, however, Tom did not give his attention and abilities to pitching. He was a third baseman, and a good one.

In the fall of 1928 the time came for Tom to go to high school. There being no school of secondary learning in his home town, he had to go to schooi in Haverhill, nine miles away. So for four years Tommy hopped trucks in his quest for an education at St. James High.

Athletically Tom waited only until the spring of his freshman year to gain notice. He made the baseball team as a pitcher, at which position he has stayed ever since.

For four years he was the St. James team's ace twirler, and his good work and popularity gained him the captaincy in his senior year. Not only did he captain the team, but in the absence of a coach he took on the added duties of coaching.

For the first three years Tom confined his athletic activities to the national pastime, but in his senior year he blossomed forth as a football halfback.

Although he devoted much of his time to sports, Tom did not neglect his studies. Far from it. At graduation in June, 1932, our Tom, in addition to being valedctorian, won medals in Greek and Latin.

During the summer of 1932 Bill Crawford, a friend of "Doc" Jacobs, persuaded Tommy that it was for his best interests to enroll at Villanova. Consequently that September he "bummed" down all the way from New England and became a student in the Commerce and Finance School.

Both the freshman football and baseball teams numbered "Needle," as he was known to his new teammates, among their members. Tommy, perhaps with the memory of the medals he won in Greek and Latin fresh in mind, turned to quarterbacking, where brains are of primary importance.

It was the sophomore year that established Tommy as the winning pitcher that he is. During that spring he went through the whole season undefeated. He emerged victorious in five consecutive contests, listing among his victims West Chester and Lehigh.

The "Needles" biggest asset is a fast ball that really zips. Tommy's Massachusetts friends tell an interesting story about his hard one. It seems that Tom was pitching a night game in his native State this past summer, and his fast ball had the opposing hitters so completely baffled they could get but one hit off his delivery. The batter who managed to get the hit told "Needle" that the only way he hit the ball was by watching the flame on the fast one as it was burned in.

When asked how he expected to make out this season, Tommy was rather non-committal. "I don't know what kind of a year I'll have. If "Doc" hollers at me a little more, I'll probably have a good one. If I get that first one in there, I'll have a good year."

At this stage of his school life Tommy is very naturally looking forward to what he is going to do after graduation. He is majoring in transportation and has prospects for a position in the executive department of the Greyhound Bus Company.

"Needle" was ready with a reply when asked what was his greatest thrill in sports. Oddly enough it was not connected with baseball but with automobile racing. "My greatest thrill was when I drove in a race at Rockingham Speedway, now Rockingham horse race track. The regular driver, Joe Havesin, had a stroke, and his mechanic didn't want to drive. I drove and finished the race in second place."

Tommy started the season off in fine style by pitching two hitless innings against the freshmen last Saturday. He has the best wishes of this column for a successful season in this, his last year. After this year he is "hanging up his spikes unless the Deans quit baseball."

Intra-Mural Swimming Meet

Wednesday, April 1, 7:15 P. M.

Order of events:

1—100-yd. freestyle relay
3—50-yd. backstroke
2—50-yd. breaststroke
4—50-yd. freestyle
5—Fancy diving
6—200-yd freestyle
7—100-yd. freestyle.

No contestant may participate in more than two events, exclusive of the relay.

The required dives will be: Front swan, front jack, plain jack, plain back.

Point scoring in all events will be: 5-3-1.

Hand in names and events to prefects or hall managers.

Mural Teams May Meet City Rivals

Continued From Page Five

in all sports to decide the championship of the three schools.

According to Fr. McKee, a basketball game would have been possible with Penn if the regular intra-mural season had not dragged. If the game with Temple is any indication of the type of play to be found in future engagements, this idea of triangular meets should meet with great success on our campus.

The play was fast and clean and many times in the game a prediction of the outcome would have been impossible. The superior brand of ball displayed by the Commuters finally settled the decision in favor of the travel-conscious Wildcats.

If the students back this idea as well as they came to the support of their own hall teams this season, the success of the venture is assured. It all depends on the students themselves: no interest — no meets; no backing — no games. Take your choice, but it is the prediction of this writer that it will find favor in the eyes of all concerned.

A little more prestige will be added to the college as a whole and reputation for clean sportmanship and fair play will get a better circulation — if that is possible.

Seven Meets Carded In Boxers' Schedule

Continued From Page Five

ruary 9. Then will follow one of the busiest six days for any ring team as the Wildcats will meet three major opponents starting with Penn on February 20, then Washington and Jefferson on February 23 and ending up with Temple, February 26.

Two matches have yet to be consummated, one of them with Bucknell is awaiting an agreement on an agreeable date. Ancient rivals to every other sport, the two institutions are planning to add to ring sports.

The final match of the season has not been definitely settled but the Main Liners have three major colleges on the list for possible opponents and it may be some time before a decision is made.

The seven meets planned will lead the Wildcats into Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament at Syracuse, which will be held about March 12 and 13, making the eighth contest for Captain Tony Sala, who must defend the light heavyweight championship.

Sala has turned a deaf ear to those who have been urging a professional career on him. He asserted yesterday that when he has hung up his gloves after the intercollegiate next year he will definitely be through with boxing.

Closely associated with the ring nearly all his life, Sala knows its vicissitudes and wants no part of it. He would much rather start on a business career and build up slowly for a future. The "up today and down tomorrow" possibilities which a ring career holds, has no lure for him.

Health More Important

"I've seen my share of the professional ring and I don't want any part of it," Sala said yesterday. "I have my health now and I would like to keep it. In my close association with boxers I have seen too many of them receive injuries which put them out of the ring and hindered them for life. The money rewards are not large enough to compensate for such a heavy loss.

"Of course I am grateful to those friends who have my interest at heart, but I honestly do not think my best interests would be served by a professional career. When I have finished college I expect to enter business."

MURAL CHAMPIONS DEFEAT OWL FOES WITH LATE RALLY

Contest Is First of Kind Attempted Between Two Schools

PITMAN PACES SCORERS

Another victory was added to the long string compiled by the Mendel Day-Hops as they defeated the Physical Education champs of Temple, 33-30, last Thursday night, in the new gym. Close play marked the contest and the suuei was not decided until late in the second half.

Duffy started the victors on the right foot by sinking a field goal shortly after the opening whistle, but this advantage was not long-lived as Pitman knotted the count. From this point through the first period the fighting was nip and tuck with the Flock matching everything that Al Fitzpatrick's men had to offer. Stellar work by Joe Beitenmiller and Dan O'Connor was instrumental in keeping the opposing forces at bay, although at no time were they out of sight of the victors. Dotti's last minute basket tied the tally as the preliminary canto ended.

It was in the second half that the train and trolley boys displayed their superiority. Employing a passing attack that bewildered their opponents, the Main Liners slowly and steadily drew away from the Mitten Hallers. Gene Barr, junior engineer, led the attack, scoring five tallies in this half to insure victory for his mates. Temple's representatives did not give up, however, and started an interesting but ineffective rally which fell three short of the winners' count.

Scoring honors for the fray went to Pitman, of the visitors, who tallied nine counters on four field goals and a foul. Dan O'Connor, league high scorer, and Gene Barr, tied with Alfano, of our feathered friends, at seven points each. Alfano also was impressive with his floorwork. John McManus entered the game when Referee Abe Collins saw fit to banish Jerry Agnes on personal fouls.

If arrangements now under consideration go through, the Champs will be able to continue their winning ways at the expense of Penn's inter-hall victors.

Line-up:

Villanova	G.	F.	P.
O'Connor, forward	3	1	7
Beitenmiller, forward	2	2	6
Duffy, center	2	0	4
Murphy, guard	3	0	6
Barr, forward	3	1	7
Agnes, guard	1	1	3
Rodgers, forward	0	0	0
McManus, guard	0	0	0
Totals	14	5	33

Temple	G.	F.	P.
Pitman, forward	4	1	9
Himmelstein, forward	1	3	5
Colley, forward	1	0	2
Dotti, center	3	0	6
Alfano, guard	3	1	7
Dordick, guard	0	1	1
Totals	12	6	30

Score by halves:

Villanova	16	17	33
Temple	16	14	30

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

a lot to the boys...so let us wish them luck.

—V—

The spring training sessions have narrowed down to hard work. Every day now the candidates will be scrimmaging. Harry Stuhldreher has arranged strenuous scrimmage sessions. Things look very rosy for the coming fall.

—V—

That irrepressible Lou Marechal, former editor of this column, has been transferred by his company, TWA, from the Chicago offices to his hometown, Philadelphia. Lou advocated many things in this pillar and was one of the most-read writers of the VILLANOVAN.

PREPARE FOR OPENER

Pennsylvania Military College's baseball squad is preparing for their opening tussle with Delaware on April 22nd. Coach Jud Timm made his first call yesterday and found twenty-five aspirants awaiting his appearance.

Next Week: "Jottings on the Varsity"

Behind The Bat

By GENE LOORAM

LAST Tuesday the freshmen baseball team opened practice on Mendel Field. The equipment handed out to the Kitten aspirants consisted of five pairs of well-used pants, several jersies, and one well-taped bat. However, the Frosh were granted the use of at least a whole half-dozen balls...

Despite their appearance the Thirty-niners put on an impressive exhibition. Fly-shagging and infield practice was the order for the first day....Each player was allowed two "swats" and then the first freshmen practice for 1936 was at an end....

Wednesday saw the ball-players get down to serious business and batting practice saw the pitching candidates take the mound....Joe Desmond, George Schelle, John Krutulis, Lou Wannemacher and Vincent Padula showed good control, although they will not open up for quite a while....

Infield practice showed that Bob Bond, Lenny Merullo, "Cowboy" Crawley and Charley Delluomo were not over-rated in the least.... Bob Bond, however, furnished comical interlude with his queer delivery when he took a turn at tossing them up in batting practice. His vain attempts to catch several poflies made him weave like a "drunk."...

By far the most impressive in batting practice was "Cowboy" Crawley who sent them to the far reaches of all fields. "Cowboy" is a natural, for no two hits go to the same field....

Art Vigilante and Bill Neborak handled the catching duties and both did splendid jobs...It's going to be a tough job to name one of them as first string and have to relegate the other to second string. ...This writer's guess is that for this year anyhow no definite choice will be made, and they will divide the receiving duties....

Harry Matsinger displayed a natural aptitude for covering the short field and handled quite a few difficult chances....Carl Pantaleo's excellent play at the hot corner was quite a surprise....If Carl were only about six inches taller, he'd be unbeatable in practically any sport....

Another surprise was furnished by "Moe" Dimon's cavorting at any position that struck his fancy.... Ray Strauss, another Rabbit Maranville, started to display his ability and was imediately sent down to the gym for more equipment....

A practice game with the varsity was scheduled for last Friday but Old Jupiter Pluvius had the last say and the Frosh could only talk about what might have happened. ...Nothing more has been announced concerning the schedule, so it still stands at three scheduled games....There is no dearth of possible opponents, so let's hope that a decent schedule will be arranged in order to let the Kittens get into the swing of things....

Little has been said about the outfield as yet, but there are quite a few capable fly-chasers who have yet to prove their hitting ability.... Batting practice seems to be restricted to those few who are in he least need of it....I wonder who the snappy player is who hits them in infield practice?????...The football men have to stick to that sport; and hence the Frosh will not be able to muster their full strength....

Johnny Krutulis is one of the hardest playing men in Villanova these days....He takes his baseball very seriously and strenuously and then engages in Spring basketball practice at night...The frosh basketball team will be well represented on the diamond with Johnny Krutulis, Jim Montgomery, Art Vigilante, Joe Hopkins and Lou Dubino holding down berths....

It's a fine thing for, unless something happens in the interim, they'll be able to play their opener in their basketball uniforms....Since I wrote the beginning of this column three more war-clubs have been added to the Frosh collection.... They are of varying lengths but they all weigh a ton, for your correspondent TRIED to lift them....

Abe Collins has been looking over the Frosh each afternoon and besides stating the superiority of Pennsylvania basketball over the brand displayed throughout the rest of the country he took time out to say that the Frosh looked all right...Abe is on a furlough from the varsity ball club while he is recuperating from his recent illness.

Golf Schedule

March 30	W. Maryland	Away
March 31	W. & L.	Away
April 2	Emory & Henry	Away
April 3	U. of Richmond	Away
April 4	Georgetown	Away
Rpril 6	Williams (ten.)	Home
April 15	Lafayette	Home
April 17	Temple	Home
April 21	Osteopathy	Home
April 26	Llanerch "B"	Away
April 28	Delaware	Home
April 29	Pennsylvania	Home
May 4	Temple	Away
May 5	Osteopathy	Away
May 6	West Chester	Home
May 12	P. M. C.	Home

Quakers First On Extensive Roster

Continued From Page Five

year because of injuries, in centerfield; David Ritche, a catcher; and No. pitcher is Captain Andy Barton, a former Upper Darby star. In addition to Barton, the other pitchers whom Coach Cariss can call are: Louis Effinger, George Jeffers, Edward Mennies, Leo Morse, and James Morton.

There are plenty of reserve infielders as well as outfielders. As in the past th Quaker team expects a good season. Coach Cariss has made a name for himself by putting out big league material.

Villanova on the other hand will present a splendid array of talent. They have been practicing daily for the past two months under the able coaching of Doc Jacobs.

The team comprises such players as: Captain Artie Mahan, at first base; Ed Leahy, catcher; Ray Stoviak, in left-field; Ed Vaughn, No. 1 pitcher; Leo Schoppmeyer, playing shortstop; Tom Collins, at third; Johnny Higgins, in the outfield; Mike Garbark, regular catcher; Joe McGovern a hurler; Mike O'Meara, only veteran outfielder; Don Brennan, a reserve outfielder, and Bill McLaughlin, a sophomore flinger.

Vaughn will probably oppose Barton. This game will be a pitching duel between these two men; Vaughn is out to duplicate his victory of last year.

Penn opened their season against the Penn A. C. and lost by a score of 11-12.

On Thursday Villanova opens its home season when the Cornell aggregation comes to the Main Line college from far up on Cuyahoga's Waters. The Ithacans are expected to present a strong array of pifayers. Captain Downer, star basketball player, who pitches, will go to the Pittsburgh Pirates upon graduation. He has already signed the contract.

The same team that starts the Penn game will probably start the Cornell game except for the hurling duty.

Friday Villanova lines up against the strong Princeton nine which lost to Fordham last Saturday by one run.

Garry LeVan, star football player, in center field; Perry, at first base; Paine, at right-field; Sandbach, at second-base; French, at third; Hill, in left-field; Shubert, at shortstop; Reichel, at catcher, and Morris pitching, are the probable starters.

The game was very close throughout and was decided in the eighth inning when Fordham pushed in the winning run.

On Saturday the Wildcat baseball team lines up against the Penn A. C. team here at Villanova.

The Quaker Club of Philadelphia comes to Villanova with a victory over the University of Pennsylvania nine.

SCHEDULE FOR THE WEEK

April 1	Penn	Away
April 2	Cornell	Home
April 3	Princeton	Away
April 4	Penn A. C.	Home

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

Acting Captain

DAVID CRAGG, senior pre-medical student, who has been elected to act as captain of the golf squad. The appointment came about as the result of the sudden illness of the leader, Jim McNerny. However Cragg will take over the reins for the rest of the season, since McNerny's illness will not permit his participation in athletics.

Two Matches For Varsity Golfers

Continued From Page Five

send the team away.

The golf team is travelling under an ill star this season. Of first importance was the sudden illness of Captain James McNerney, who was operated on at St. Mary's Hospital last week. He will be lost to the team for the season. Another piece of ill luck was the collapse of the original trip, and the final blow came yesterday, when the two men playing the middle positions, Eugene Barr, and Joseph Duffy, were not permitted to make the trip, due to conflicts in their laboratory schedule.

As regards the tentative trip, the following men will make up the team complement: David Cragg, acting captain, Robert Stockton, James Dwyrtr, John McManus and John B. Geraghty, Jr.

RAMS TAKE OPENER

Fordham's battering ram, batted its way to a 2-1 victory over the Princeton Tigers last Saturday afternoon in the season's opener for both schools. The game was played on the Nassau's diamond.

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 12, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

Here and There

By EDWARD I. COLLINS

THE GAME of Badminton that has been sweeping the country was originally called "poona." it had its origin in far off India and was picked up by some English officers stationed there. ...While on furlough they carried tales of the game back to England, and the Duke of Beaufort introduced it to English society at a house party at his home, "Badminton," in Gloucestershire, England.

Many of the outstanding ranking tennis players of the country claim that three sets of Badminton are more exhausting and tax the strength of the participants more than five sets of tennis....

The most gruelling sport in the world today is that of Jai Alai (pronounced hi-li and means merry festival. But for all the competitiveness it is a very lucrative game. Many players in Cuba get from $750 to $1500 a month....Most of the players are of Latin origin and speed and agility play a prominent part in determining the victor.... The sport gathered quite a following in Miami a few years ago and still flourishes in that section along with many Latin-American countries.

With most of the collegiate baseball teams due to swing into action this week the Villanova nine will pry off the lid with the Quakers of Pennsylvania in high hopes of a successful campaign.

Good news came to the Villanova forces with the announcement of Ken Berry's ineligibility for baseball duty with the Temple baseball team. Berry, southpaw twirler, was the Owl's outstanding hurler last season and holds a decision over the 'Cat nine...although in a return engagement the Main Liners pounded him unmercifully. Poor support by the Owls' infield aided materially in the rout.

Something that should apply to quite a number of students at Villanova College is the following: "If you can't Boost don't Knock."

Many of the students have possibilities as critics—in certain fields. Criticizing seems to be a major sport at the college—but on the other hand some people have nothing else to do.

In a recent conversation, Harry McNally, varsity basketball player, expressed the opinion that it would be an excellent idea if one hour a week could be devoted to a course in etiquette.

The course would not be compulsory, but for the benefit of those who would like to be able to conduct themselves as gentlemen. The manners of some students are woefully conspicuous by their absence.

A word of praise to the members of the postoffice staff for their untiring efforts in serving the students of Villanova College. A loud cheer for Jewell Harrison, Jimmy Claffey and the rest of the boys. With that, so long all. Be back next week, same time, same place.

"SAY... Old Timer"
Springtime is playtime, just the right time for a real time in the big town. Fact is, it's high time you got busy learning how "to go to town" with our map extraordinary. You've never seen the "like" and while on the subject you'll like the conveniently situated Empire for your headquarters. Just whistle and we'll send our map—FREE.
RATES ARE FROM $2.50 FOR TWO (GARAGE 50c)
HOTEL EMPIRE
Broadway at 63rd St.
NEW YORK CITY
EDWARD B. BELL, Manager

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED - 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed - 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

Save Time... Save Trouble... Save Disappointment...
TELEPHONE
YOUR INVITATION AND BE SURE SHE'LL COME!
Incidentally, SAVE MONEY, too.
Bargain rates are in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.
SAVE AFTER SEVEN
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

ENGINEERS INSPECT G-E BRANCH PLANT

Through the courtesy of the General Electric engineers, forty representatives of the three undergraduate engineering societies of Villanova attended an inspection tour of the Philadelphia Electric Company's Richmond Plant.

Professors J. Stanley Morehouse and Harry S. Buecheand Harry S. Bueche, with Ass't. Prof. William J. Barber, conducted the tour of the plant, on Saturday from 9:00 A. M. to 12:15 P. M.

The visit was made mainly to inspect the new 65,000 kw. turbo-generator which has the largest condenser on record, and the different turbines, boilers and electric switch units.

Of particular interest to the students was the compound of paint and cork that covered the two outside conveyors of the plant. This compound prevents the condensation of moisture on the outside surface.

In accordance with their recently adopted schedule, the A. S. M. E. and the A. I. E. E. are now making preparations to visit the Bell Telephone offices in Central Philadelphia to inspect the various functions associated with electrical and mechanical engineering.

Class of '37 to Establish Fund

Continued From Page One

and has offered its encouragement and backing in this regard.

At Thursday's meeting the junior dinner-dance committee also presented a report on its activities. John McLaughlin, chairman of the committee, named several mid-city hotels that were considered satisfactory places for the annual junior dinner-dance. This report was somewhat disputed, however.

Several of the class members presented the opinion that a mid-city hotel would not be altogether to their liking and suggested satisfactory out-of-town localities that could fulfill the capacity. This question will be considered further at the next session of the class.

Pass In Review

Continued From Page Three

particular on economic goals; it precludes supernatural, religious goals." "In an age when Catholicism was the living soul of Western civilization, the capitalist spirit was anathema to all men of good will. But today those in high places know little of our Catholic past.

The economic doctrines going under the name of Liberalism and individualistic Capitalism are positively immoral. Our conception of life is supernatural, we repeat, that of the capitalist is natural. Therefore, "in their general lines, Catholic social ethics are always antithetical to those of capitalism."

But stop! We have said enough. Read this book and reread it. It is one of the most remarkable books of our day. It consists of only two hundred twenty-four pages.

...ew books received at the library are:

Devin-Adair Co., "A Saint of Today," by J. J. Daley, S. J.
Sheed and Ward, "The Augustine Synthesis," by Erich Przywara, S. J.
Sheed and Ward, "Religion and the Modern State," by Christopher Dawson.
Sheed and Ward, "The Mystical Body of Christ," by Msgr. Fulton Sheen.

Collegiate World

By COLLEGIATE DIGEST and Associated Collegiate Press

COLLEGE: "Kindly keep to the walk" . . . cars and mud and coeds stepping testily . . . after all, loyalty to the party comes first" . . . professors with black bow ties . . . "roll call is a waste of time, I won't get excited if you don't show up" . . . cadets running to formation, rifles dragging, one hand fastening coat buttons . . . professors who twirl Phi Beta Kappa keys . . . "student government can never succeed at this university" . . . "tails at a reduced price" . . . green roadsters with rumble seated . . . coeds off in a self-conscious flourish to sorority houses . . . "more food, Mr. Er— Adams?" . . . 966 students to get Federal relief . . . quiet superiority of library assistants . . . dazed boys out into the bright sun from library seminars . . . "the fraternity system is breaking down" . . . cafe booths hazy with coed smoke . . . dishes . . . chatter . . . orange drinks and lipsticks . . .

Bright red fingernails . . . "isn't the river dirty" . . . red brick chimneys against a blue sky . . . shadow pools beneath towering pillars . . . "naw, naw, she's going steady" . . . beer steins and tweed suits . . . brief cases . . . paper littered teachers' offices . . . "if I stay in good wtih him Ill get magna" . . . "my god, do you type out all your notes?"

Slap of a sweaty back on the basketball floor . . . "know your shark anatomy and youll get the fundamentals" . . .

Globe Trotting

Continued From Page Three

walls of democracy, even in this country, are slowly but surely crumbling before its deadly advance. In the last national elections nearly a million American voters demonstrated their submission to its assault by voting the Communist ticket.

"Such would destroy our Government, and yet we sit complacently by doing nothing about it.

"Today the by-word of successful governments is SMASH, or be smashed! If Democracy is to survive it will have to adopt some of that smash. True, this is a free country, but traitors and would-be rebels are not tolerated in any form of government.

Sidelights

"Every crime from robbery up, is punishable by death. A very efficient means of eliminating excess population, or solving unemployment problems."

"What sports do Russians engage in?"

"Practically none. No sooner are they seven years old, than they are made to labor in the fields from sunrise to sunset. After they have finished, their supper consists of hard black bread and cabbage. After supper, the boys and girls get together and, rolling dried leaves, they use them to smoke, as we would a cigarette. Tobacco is strictly alloted, and is a rare luxury.

"Women work with men at all occupations. Whereas before the war only 600,000 women were employed, now over 8,000,000 work in factories, in road gangs, and in every other line of labor.

"When a Russian is able to obtain an extra allowance of food on special occasions, he really celebrates. He usually eats so much that he has to ask someone nearby to roll him onto the floor, so he can sleep it off."

SCIENTISTS READY FOR SOLAR ECLIPSE

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., March 30.—Setting up their instruments near the border of Siberia, American scientists hop soon to pierce the mystery of the solar corona—that irregular "ocean of flame" extending millions of miles beyond the surface of the sun.

Visible only during a total eclipse of the sun, the corona will next put on its show June 19, but already Harvard astronomers have arranged for front row seats.

The eclipse will not be visible from the western hemisphere. Starting in the Mideterranean, the 75 mile wide belt of total darkness will sweep eastward across Greece, the Black Sea, Siberia, Manchuria and northern Japan.

Home Town Clubs Plan Easter Dances

Continued From Page One

mittee is composed of Paul Milnamow, chairman; Charles Betz, Edmund Virusky.

Easter dances have been annual features of both clubs. This year's dance will be the eighth for the North Jersey Club and the tenth for the Wilkes-Barre Club.

The annual Christmas dances held by the North Jersey and Wilkes-Barre clubs in Elizabeth and Wilkes-Barre respectively were reported very successful both financially and socially, and it is expected by both clubs that the Easter dances will be equally as successful.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 22 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 7, 1936 Price: Five Cents

SIGN JAN GARBER FOR PROM

Maloney Named Editor

TO GUIDE DESTINIES OF THE VILLANOVAN

J. Benedict Maloney, junior Artsman, seated at the editor's desk, named today to succeed John C. DiJoseph, as executive of this paper, is busily engaged in planning ahead to maintain the high journalistic standing that the VILLANOVAN now enjoys. Harry Parkin, junior science (upper left), renamed as managing editor, and William Cleary, junior Commerce & Finance, (upper right), is reappointed business manager. Charles Stahlecker (lower left), junior Artsman, is promoted to the college editorship, and Norton Paden (lower right), junior Science, is named sports editor.

DEBATING SOCIETY ENGAGES 3 MAJOR RIVALS IN WEEK

Penn, St. Joseph's and Canisius Furnish Opposition on Supreme Court Issue

BETA GAMMA PREVAILS IN RADIO DEBATE

McDevitt, Corkill, Chapple Uphold Negative; Ashe, Differ and Carroll Affirmative

Three major debating teams were met over last week-end by Beta Gamma in non-decision contests. The University of Pennsylvania representatives upheld the affirmative of the well-known Supreme Court question over Radio Station WIP, on Friday afternoon, while Canisius College and St. Joseph's College traveled to Villanova on Frida yand Sunday evenings respectively.

Edward McDevitt, William Corkill and John Chapple, Villanova's negative team opposed the resolution both on Friday afternoon and Sunday evening; and the affirmative trio, Victor Ashe, Anthony Differ and Joseph Carroll met St. Joseph's debaters in the Amphitheater, Friday evening.

Edward Shovlin, sophomore in the School of Arts and Letters, acted as chairman of the Friday tilt, while John Simons, secretary-manager of the Beta Gamma Society, held the chair on Sunday. Audiences on both occasions were fair, although not so large as has been heretofore present.

Reports of the debate with St.

Continued on Page Eight

PARKIN AND CLEARY RETAIN POSITIONS

Guarini Renamed; Stahlecker, Paden Head College And Sport Staffs

J. Benedict Maloney, junior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, is the new editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVAN.

Announcement of this singular honor is made today in conjunction with the naming of other staff officers for the 1936-37 scholastic year by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, and the senior editorial board of this publication.

Mr. Maloney succeeds John C. DiJoseph, senior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, executive editor for the past year.

For the first time in the history of the paper major offices are retained for a second term by three staff members. Harry Parkin, junior Science School student is renamed managing editor; William Cleary, Commerce and Finance junior, is reappointed business manager, and Pasquale Guarini, Pre-Medical junior, remains as art and photography editor.

Charles Stahlecker, junior Artsman, is promoted to the college editorship and Norton Paden, junior Pre-Medical, is appointed sports editor.

Other appointments are: Edward Kelly, junior Business student, cir-

Continued on Page Eight

NEXT VILLANOVAN

Due to the Easter vacation, the next Villanovan will appear on the campus on April 28. It will be the first issue under the new editorial staff. The present editors wish the incoming staff the best of journalistic success.

Salem School To Sponsor Initial Collegiate Forum

Paetrus F. Banmiller to Represent College At Conference

Paetrus F. Banmiller, registrar of Villanova College, will represent Villanova in a College Night program to be held this evening at the Salem High School, of New Jersey. Consolidating in this program will be Pennsgrove Regional, Woodstown High School and Salem High.

This is the first time such a program of this type was ever staged in the County of Salem. Invitations have been issued to about 50 schools and colleges to actively participate in the program. Prospective candidates for institutions of higher learning and their parents, will have the opportunity to confer directly with the college representatives through the use of this project.

Villanova College has had many students from the various high schools in this locality.

DR. MUNCH SPEAKS AT SCIENCE FORUM

Noted Pharmacologist Discusses Modern Medical Theories, Science Data

"A peculiar prerogative of individuals of scientific minds bit by the bug of discontent" are two combined statements which constituted the address given to a science seminar last Thursday by Dr. James C. Munch, Ph. D.

Dr. Munch is renowned as a pharmacologist and research worker, numbering several important discoveries. At present he is connected with Temple University, the Mulford Laboratories at Glenolden, Pa., and occasionally is in the employ of the Federal Government.

Humorous sidelights and self-belittling remarks surrounded all the points of the talk.

It was explained by the doctor that all research workers are forever dissatisfied with present conditions, and, therefore, are continually prying and experimenting in an endeavor to remedy ailments of the day.

In that Dr. Munch is a pharmacologist and interested in physiological aspects of pharmacology, he confined his discussion to that field.

Small slips of filter paper saturated with a compound of urea were distributed among the students. At the conclusion of the seminar, it was asked of them whether the paper produced a sour, bitter, or sweet taste. It was found

Continued on Page Eight

Varied Four Hour Programs Listed For Mothers' Day Program, May 4

The class of 1937 has dedicated Monday afternoon, May 4, as Mothers' Day. This part of the traditional Junior Week has been set aside for the mothers of the entire student body. Chairman Thomas F. Kennedy, aided by his fellow committeemen, has arranged a very unique program.

The reception of the mothers at 1:30 P. M. in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance School will open the program. Following this the Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, will deliver an address of welcome to the mothers on behalf of the faculty of Villanova College.

The Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, will also say a few words in respect to college life here at Villanova.

Other features of the program will include various selections by the Glee Club. Several solos will be rendered by outstanding talent in this group. The other musical organization to share in this affair will be the Villanovans, the college dance orchestra. This unit will play several popular selections during the festivities held in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance Building.

The presentation of a moving pic-

Continued on Page Eight

POPULAR BAND NOW TOURING COUNTRY COMES HERE MAY 8

Committees Swing Into Action to Complete Plans for Traditional Junior Week Festivities

OPEN HOUSE PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

Experiments and Laboratory Work Will Feature Annual Junior Week Event

Preparations are under way for the second annual open house to be held on May 4 and 5, here at Villanova College. High school and college students and the general public are invited to inspect the college and witness various experiments which will be conducted for the visitors. The college will be opened from 2 P. M. until 9 P. M., and demonstrations will be held at frequent intervals during these hours on both days.

Members of the faculty are working on various demonstrations to be conducted by the Science and Technology Schools respectively for this project. The various laboratories will be open for inspection, and many of the latest developments in chemistry and engineering will be explained and developed by the members of the faculty with the assistance of the students.

The Commerce and Finance School will also give various demonstrations in modern methods of accounting and other subjects dealing on economic theories. The School of Arts and Philosophy will assist in the completion of the program with demonstrations in the fundamentals of education. In ad-

Continued on Page Eight

SUBSCRIPTION - $4

Hotel Adelphia Ballroom Selected For Class Dinner-Dance

A sensational last-minute choice in the selection of an orchestra for the Annual Junior Prom to be held May 8 was announced last night by Co-chairman Aloysius Fitzpatrick and John Chapple. The final selection made by the prom chairmen is that nationally famous aggregation, Jan Garber, the Idol of the Airwaves, and his orchestra.

Up until the last moment the committee had leaned towards a lesser known band, but when informed of the opportunity of securing this super attraction who has taken the country by storm during the past few years, they immediately took advantage of it.

The bid has been set at $4 per couple.

Garber, who has recently completed a most successful engagement at the Trianon in Chicago, will come to Villanova with a string of triumphs credited to his name that rivals those of any other musical contingent in the country. And with him playing at the

Continued on Page Eight

STUDENT ENGINEERS IN P. M. C. GATHERING

A. S. C. E. Members to Submit Papers for Annual Convention on May 16

William Munroe, president of the Villanova Chapter of the A. S. C. E., has announced that the Annual Student Convention of the A. S. C. E., will be held at Pennsylvania Military College on May 16.

In order to decide who will present a paper at the convention, a meeting of the society will be held today at 1:00 P. M., where initial papers will be presented. The most appropriate of these papers will be the one chosen for the convention. Among the candidates who will give their discussions today are Charles Kain and Laurence Shevland, both seniors, and Mario Menocal, Edward McHugh and Ward Scanlan.

During the evening of the convention, entertainment will be provided by the different chapters of the attending colleges and universities. M. Joseph O'Brien and J. Paul Skelly, of the sophomore class, are now seeking material and are trying to organize an entertainment group to represent Villanova.

In behalf of the student body of Villanova College, the VILLANOVAN extends sympathy to Victor Ashe, Junior Arts student, on the death of his beloved father, Mr. Alonzo Ashe.

PASSION OF CHRIST THEME OF SERMON

Fr. Coan Speaks to Students in Last of Lenten Series

Due to the usual delay accompanying the hearing of Confessions, the regular Lenten sermon was held last evening instead of at the usual time on Tuesday evening. Rev. Francis X. Coan, O. S. A., professor of biology in the School of Science, delivered the sermon last night. "The Passion and Death of Christ" was the theme of Fr. Coan's talk.

Tonight the regular evening devotions will consist of night prayers to be followed by Confessions. It is expected that all the students will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend Confession this evening in preparation for the regular weekly Mass which will be held tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock.

Last Tuesday evening the students heard a very interesting talk delivered by Rev. John J. O'Leary, O. S. A., on the subject of "Confession and Repentance."

Basing his talk on the fact that the greatest enemies of men and animals are hidden, Fr. O'Leary claimed that the greatest enemies of the soul lurk where the soul least suspects danger. However, the powers at our disposal to overcome these enemies are even more powerful than the forces of evil. To

Continued on Page Eight

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

JOHN C. DI JOSEPH, '36 ..... Editor-in-Chief
BARRY PARKIN, '37 ..... Managing Editor
BENEDICT MALONEY, '37 ..... College Editor
ANTHONY R. CATRAMBONE, '36 ..... Sports Editor
CHARLES STAHLECKER, '37 ..... Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37 ..... Business Manager
BASIL W. DOBROWOLSKI, '37 ..... Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37 ..... Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editors

John W. Hallahan, Jr., '36 ..... Associate College Editor
Norton C. Paden, '37 ..... Associate Sports Editor

Columnists

Carmen Giordano, '36 ..... Exchange Editor
Pio P. Goggi, '37 ..... Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall ..... Literary Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John L. Simons, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Edward L. Collins, '38
Joseph Toland, '38 — John W. Fullon, '38
Anthony I. Meli, '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Thomas Kennedy, '37 — Pasquale Vassalluzzo, '37
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
Frank Bonetti, '39 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Pofahl, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — John Clinton, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39 — James Meller, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — Richard Mulvihill, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Walter L. Baiatly, '39
Edward Kelly, '37 — Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39 — Anthony Differ, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Lingutti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Manager

Peter J. McManus

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association. Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - APRIL 7, 1936

RATE REDUCTIONS

IN a move calculated to force a postponement in the recently enacted railroad fare-rate a group of Eastern lines has filed a formal petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission for obtaining an 18-months stay of enforcement.

Including all lines except the Baltimore and Ohio, the petition asked the stay in order to try out experimental rates of their own.

After months of study the commission fixed a basic rate of two cents a mile in coaches, compared with the present three and one-half cent rate. Pullman surcharges were ordered eliminated, and a three cent rate stipulated for that type of transportation.

In their petition, the Eastern roads ask permission to fix a two and one half cent rate in coaches during the 18-month period. The three cent Pullman rate would be accepted.

The findings of the commission were based on a study of Southern and Western roads which had instituted a lower rate. The revenue reports from this change in policy were found to be favorable.

It is only through the medium of such an organization like the Interstate Commission that the liberties of the people can be adequately safeguarded. Perhaps, were there no such regulation of interstate industry, rates would be entirely out of proportion with the service rendered.

More power to the Commission in its endeavor to obtain a square deal for the American riding public!

POTENTIAL PEACEMAKER

THE United States as a potential world peacemaker is far from mere conjecture. At one time, it was Great Britain's boast that she could sit back, secure in her boundaries as an island, and control the destinies of the nations of the world, but the inventions of the airplane and the submarine have removed this safety factor and placed her within striking distance of her probable enemies.

Today, another greater nation has become the potential ruler of world destiny. The United States of America remains the only nation which is, perhaps, secure enough to dictate to the world powers. She is protected by the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, (a great German general has said that just to Land an invading army on our shores would require 60 troop ships, the size of the Leviathan, plus hundreds of supply ships and other hundreds of protection ships, and then he would not guarantee to return them).

On the south, Mexico is of insufficient strength to harass us and Canada, on the north, has gone on record in every foreign office as declaring that she would not Consider acts against the U. S., even for Great Britain, herself. Thus we find ourselves in that position of security necessary to such a dictatorship as would be required to establish world control.

Once already we have used this power. Japan had been considering invasion of Russia, and was prepared and waiting for the "zero hour." At the crucial moment, Washingtin sent for Russian delegates in preparation for formal recognition of the Soviet regime. Immediately upon this recognition, Japanese officials were called into conference, the entire project of invasion was abandoned and the then presiding militarist leader was retired.

Thus the United State proved her power and found a great ally for the future. In this same manner, she has it in her power to force into submission any nation that might run amuck at any time; that is, by moral persuasion, without war or bloodshed.

A FAIR TRIAL

IT CANNOT be expected that the execution at Trenton will be the satisfactory conclusion of the kidnaping at Hopewell. There are many people who believe Bruno Hauptmann a victim of circumstances, despite the fact that the trial was conducted in a judicial manner by an able and experienced judge. The judge was extremely careful not to allow the respect and love of the American people for the victim influence the jury in reaching a decision. Nor was the ill will for the prisoner published for the purpose of disturbing the even tenor of the court proceedings. Public interest in this most unusual case demanded that the people know all the details of the case and a little information about those involved. Yet all the publicity brought out was not permitted to sway the jury; in the court only pertinent facts were allowed.

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman in granting the extension to the doomed man was only doing his duty in seeing to it that an innocent man was not forced to pay the supreme penalty to satisfy the vengeance of the people. No one can now say that Gov. Hoffman did not do his best to exhaust every clue which might have thrown more light on the case or would have indicated the guilt of any other person. But he seems to have manifested a large amount of personal interest in Hauptmann. Few other governors would have jeopardized their political careers for an unknown criminal.

Hoffman also had an investigation made into the case. Was this made at his own expense or at that of the taxpayers who are still paying for the trial?

MOTHER'S APRON STRINGS

AN EMINENT authority has stated that mothers who monopolize the interests of their children are responsible for juvenile neurotics and delinquents. This is a broad statement. Undoubtedly some mothers do spoil their children, but it is our belief that most of them are better guides than phsychologists and Freutians.

"We may well wonder," says an eminent authority, "how a youngster incubated in a psychological institute would compare with one reared under the guidance of parents."

Quite likely he would be a neurotic. An orphan has always been a subject of pity rather than of congratulations, while mother's apron strings if not too tightly drawn, have their uses.

College Chatter

By Carmen Giordano

HERE'S a glossary of terms which might prove especially interesting to the Senior class:

Graduation is that process of getting rid of undesirable seniors in an honorable way by the process of

Commencement, a boring function devised to test the waiting stamina of

Seniors, gents that have spent four uneventful years at some college or other in a feeble attempt to get some Knowledge, an illusive muse that cannot be obtained by just a little Work, what the graduates are about to do when they are finished.

* * *

When a Notre Dame student came to class late, the professor remarked, "You should have been here 15 minutes ago." Replied said stude, "Why, what happened."

* * *

On the Hastings campus, a group of math students were reprimanded severely for leaving a classroom at ten minutes past the hour. They gave as a reason the fact that the teacher hadn't arrived. The next time the prof met them he said, "You could see that I was here. My hat was on the desk." On the following day, when the professor arrived, he found the room empty save for a single hat on each desk.

* * *

Paradise: He made a fortune with a paradise.

Paralyze: One is bad enough, but a paralyze will send you crazy.

Parch: We have a wonderful view from our front parch.

Peril: I gave my girl a peril for Christmas.

Primps: He left foot primps in the sands of time.

Prism: I prism you have had your lesson.

* * *

A student at a certain western university found himself caught without a term paper one day: so he snatched one from his fraternity's files, typed it and handed it in. It came back with an "A" on it and a note asking him to see the professor.

"Do you think that paper was worth an 'A'? queried the professor.

The student, thinking to charm the former with a display of modesty, admitted he had expected a "B."

"Well, it's worth an 'A,' see?" said the professor. "When I wrote it 15 years ago, it got a 'C.' I'm glad to see that it has at last received the recognition that it deserved."

* * *

A professor in Los Angeles, troubled with displinary problems, shouted, "Order, please." The good old in-the-rear-of-the-room sitter automatically responded, "Hot beef sandwich."

* * *

Wouldn't this make Barron Collier look like an amateur:

Pawnbroker's sign: See me at your earliest inconvenience.

Beauty Shop: If your hair isn't becoming to you, you should be coming to us.

Laundry: We soak the clothes, not the customer.

In the elevators of a Duluth hotel: You are never fully dressed until you wear a smile.

Texas cafe: Use less sugar and stir like ——, we don't mind the noise.

* * *

Colgate has an absent-minded professor, who, in a far-away moment drained the oil from his car and drove for two weeks with no oil.

* * *

In Montana, there is a town called Eurella. Traimmen differ as to the pronunciation of the name. Passengers are often startled upon arriving at the station to hear the conductor yell: "You're a liar! You're a liar!" Then from the brakeman at the other end: "You really are. You really are."

* * *

And with this, my last column, I bid all my friends a reluctant good-bye. I have tried my best to please. However, if I have offended anyone, it was purely unintentional. May I take this opportunity to express my thanks for the cooperation of my fellow staffmen, with orchids to our editor, John C. DiJoseph.

ODDS and ENDS

By Ben Maloney

ONCE AGAIN we find it necessary to bring to your knowledge the antics of Jim "Freitchie" Schell. When accosted by a down-and-outer on Chestnut St. only the other day and asked for "a little something for a cup of coffee" our Southern pride and joy was heard to reply in the following manner: "What do you think I do carry lumps of sugar around with me?"

* * *

THINGS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW: A member of the Freshman class is receiving literature from a nationally known corset company located in New Haven, Conn. Said Freshman it seems needs a decided reduction about the midriff and, too, he has inquired as to his possibilities as a salesman. (Or should we say, salesladY?)

...There is a very, very self-satisfied member of the Junior class who suffered the shocking experience of having his date fall asleep on him while he was paying her a call.... Your columnist, when digging up track candidates, ran across one modest fellow who declared, when asked if he was at all proficient at his particular distance, "Say, I've won so many races I have callouses on my chest"...Charlie O'Connell has a rib tickler that he prefers to pull in public speaking class. All about sitting and waiting to be called on, the agony of the suspense, and its comparison to the suspense undergone by a June bride.

* * *

Despite the untiring efforts of some people to change hockey into a commercialized racket, it is still amateurish at heart as the games in the Stanley Cup playoff showed. And perhaps the gamest, the scrappiest, the hardest-fighting group of hockey players ever to don skates is the New York American combine. Riddled by injuries and with little but fighting spirit to keep them going the New Yorkers made their supreme effort on Friday night to win the title but lost out to the fast-skating Toronto club.

But it wasn't easy for the Frenchies. The Americans gave Hainsworth, the victors' goalie, the sight of more rubber in those playoff games than comes out of good old Naugatuck, Conn. And the ever-scrapping Charlie Conacher, of the Toronto outfit, was on ice more often than restaurant window cod-often than restaurant window cod-fish from the vicious body-checks of the losers. But Friday night despite Goalie Worter's Thermopylean defense the Canadians marched through and won the title.

New York can well be proud of such a club for no other team has turned a season of failure into one of almost complete success.

* * *

SUGGESTIVE SONG TITLES: "It's No Fun" (Jack Hennessy)... "Every Little Breeze" (Joe Toland) ..."Every Minute of the Hour" (Nort Paden)..."A Newspaper Picture of You" (Dick Foote)... "First You Got Me High Then You Got Me Low" (Jack Geraghty)..."Too Much Imagination" (John McGrath) "Won't You Please Put on Your Wraps and Toddle Home (Ed Kelly)..."I Can't Get Started" (Bill Leahy)..."I Wanna Woo" (Joe Sanborn)..."I Dream Too Much" (Ed Reilly)..."There Is No Greater Love" (Dan O'Connor)..."I've Got My Fingers Crossed" (Joe Arthur) ..."Shake It Off" (Wifty Burns)... "Sweet Sue" (Joe Calandriello)... "Dancing Feet" (John Dimon).

* * *

With the above we have concluded our last bit of banter under the title "ODDS AND ENDS." For after the Easter recess you will have another staff member pounding out comments to you-and hoping to bring a laugh as we have endeavored to do. We hope that you enjoyed our column as much as we enjoyed writing it for you, and if during the course of our columnar banter we have injured anyone's feelings we are most contrite. To date all offenses have been forgiven save one and that one blemish on our record bothers us no end. So with one last appeal this prodigal pleads with John Eck, "Daddy, can't I please come home?"

* * *

So-long.

As We See It . . . . . Modern Learning

By HARRY PARKIN

NEW faults in an individual irk us so much as the superior manner in which certain moderns are accustomed to wave away the cultural and intellectual pretensions of the past. Were their statements less inclusive they would, perhaps, be more tolerable. Or if this boast was but the ephemeral vapourizings of an occasional individual, we could hardly find in it cause for serious objection. But the constant and wide-spread tendency to consider our own superficial accomplishments as the epitome of intellectual excellencies is more indicative of decay than of progress. Our unbounded admiration for what is ingenuously called "the latest," whether in religion, philosophy, or art is an obvious sign that we are gradually loosing the broad perspective of man's cultural development, and thereby stemming the natural tide of its progress. For, it was St. Augustine, we believe, who said, when a man becomes conscious of his progress he has stopped advancing.

We have so circumscribed our discoveries and trivial accomplishments with the opacity of self satisfaction, that failing to see any others we believe them non-existent, or so frightfully dull and unproductive that they are beyond the pale of consideration. Reality has no existence outside of our own experience. Because we did not live in the past we erroneously conclude that at best it was a sorry sort of existence, worked out under a stogy system of philosophy, in the torpid twilight of humanity's development. We falsely infer, because they left no records of an interest in the topics with which we are accustomed to enliven our literature and conversation, and which we naively call the 'impersonal discussion of truth," but which in reality is the discussion of a number of sensuous impressions and reactions that came into existence with the evolution of the first amobea, that they, accordingly, lacked both the topics and the intellects to understand them. Confusing our want of knowledge with their lack of it.

The knowledge of our day is not the labor acquired cognition of facts, that it once was, but rather the haphazard and casual information concerning its whereabouts. We speak rather loftily of our ability to find the books that contain the things we wish to ascertain—believing knowledge synonymous with information. If our closest approach to the enlightenment of the world is the ability to find it on the library shelf, we can as comfortably give over our brains to the same safe keeping, for so long as we are not constantly engaging them we have no further use of them—in fact we will be spared the occasional sense of our deficiency.

We grant, however, some exceptions to our general indictment for most will acknowledge that one or two of the ancients must have felt ill at ease in the rudeness that surrounded them. Those were exceptions for whom the rest of men were compelled to live and die barbarians. Yet inquiry reveals so different a story that we wonder at the origin of this quiotic belief.

It has been ascribed, and we see some truth in the statement, to our general ignorance of all those men who were associated with the development of polite learning. Occasionally we find people who read Shakespeare for pleasure, rarely those who are familiar with Jonson, Marlowe, Fletcher and Beaumont, and never those who have even a speaking acquaintance with Webster, Chapman, Decker, Mittleton, and a host of other lesser literary luminaries whose works trace the evolution of our early literature.

Yet all these men were sound and vigorous thinkers who took all nature for their "province," and by fidelity to her dictates produced works that reflected a greater glory to their age than this one may ever hope to imitate. They seemed, in many instances, to have greater motives for exerting themselves than we—as thought nature was just revealing herself to man, and he was stimulated to herculean efforts by the magnitude of his task. Even the common people took delight in these revelations—their supply of reading matter being limited, they were compelled to savour of every line for the sweetness that was seldomly available. We occasionally wonder how foolish it would have sounded to those people to have told them that the time would come when men would have the wisdom of the ages at his elbow, and not stir his hand to obtain it.

Where in the arts, can we find improvements since the beginning of this century. We confine ourselves to outlandish mimicry and unconventional interpretations of their works and call it "modern." Believing unconventionality and originality are synonymous. We seem disinclined to go to the original for inspiration, as though it required a bolder spirit and more inquiring mind than the present can muster.

The fact cannot be gainsaid, however, that this generation has seen many improvements, but these have een, principally, in those fields that ease the burden of physical existence. Comfort, ease, and security are the key-note of this age. In fact the increased mechanization of life is gradually producing a consequent debilitation of the intellect, that is being reflected in our attitude toward all effort—especially that concerned with the mind.

Pass In Review

By VERY REV. PAUL F. HEALY, O. S. A.

For this week, Fr. Healy, prior of the Villanova Monastery, has consented to be guest reviewer for the VILLANOVAN. We feel sure that Fr. Healy's interpretive and explanatory notes on "An Augustine Synthesis" will excite Villanova students to read and better understand a great work.

AN AUGUSTINE SYNTHESIS
Arranged by
Erich Przywara, S. J.
With an introduction by
C. C. Martindale, S. J.
Sheed & Ward, Inc., N. Y., 1936. $4

We seem to have passed from the symposium stage of writing and have now entered upon that of the synthesis—a healthy sign, since it harks back to the days of the great synthesis of the Thirteenth Century when principled thinking was in vogue and great things were accomplished in the moral, intellectual, and social life of the time. No matter how far fetched as a synthesis this work is in comparison with that of St. Thomas, it is however a step in the right direction, and maybe an opening wedge for, let us hope, a complementary sequel to that of the Angelic Doctor in the not too distant future.

Like the earlier synthesis on Newman by this celebrated Jesuit, Father Przywara, this present and latest of his prolific writings in the field of philosophy is no mere juxtaposition of texts, the placing of one text over against the other, for the mere sake of contrast or similarity; but there is present here that unity of theme, I might even say being, "Thou has created us for Thyself O God, and restless are our hearts until they rest in Thee," that manifests the spirit underlying the voluminous writings of the Great Doctor of Hippo.

The very titles of the chapters of this book make manifest this unity of theme: "Eternal Search for the Eternal God," "Creature—Creator," "Was, Shall Be, Is," "Spirit—God," "Man of God," "Man to God," "Man in God," all of which bespeak the truth of that paradoxical postulate of his confessions, "But thou wast more interior to me than the innermost part of my soul, and superior to the highest part thereof." Here we behold a powerful antidote against the poison of modern paganism with its false humanism, stressing immanence to the exclusion of transcendence and thereby opening the way for the return, or at least the revamping of the pantheism of the Neo Platonists. When then, when it is a matter of coping with paganism, is better qualified than Augustine? It is this thought that grows upon you in turning the pages of this synthesis, and when you come upon this passage on Page 304 you are certain that your guess is right:—

"God enjoineth this, that we be not men... What then did He wish them to become, but that which is expressed in the Psalm, 'I have said: You are gods, and all of you the sons of the Most High' (Ps. lxxxi, 6) ...'Shall I then,' says he, 'not be a man?' No, assuredly. For to this thou has been called by Him who for thy sake was made Man, that thou mayest not be man...For God wishes to make thee a god, not by nature as He is whom He hath begotten but by His gift and adoption. For as He by His humanity was made partaker of thy mortality, so by thy exaltation doth He make thee partaker of His immortality... so that the whole man deified may inhere in the eternal and immutable Truth.

Serm. (de Script. N. T.) CLXVI i, I; ii, 2; iv, 4.

One sees shining forth from every quotation a reflection of the immortal soul of Augustine in this freshness and vitality of his works; works that are immortal, having stood the test of time and tide so that when you come suddenly upon such phrases as: "Mystical Body," "King of Kings," you are made to blink so that you would hardly be surprised if you came upon such a phrase as "Catholic Action," or for that matter "Athlete of Christ," which I just found on Page 343.

Running true to form, Sheed & Ward have given us a very fine edition of this important work, well edited, and piessantly readable. It lacks a cross index.

Confessions Of An Editor

In Which the Editor Passes The Buck and Blames Everybody But Himself For The "Rag's" Success

By J. C. D. J., Editor.

AS A FITTING CONCLUSION to my editorship of the VILLANOVAN, it might not be amiss to say "thanks a million" to the numerous friends and invaluable abettors who have shown more than ordinary cooperation in making this year's edition a successful one.

So, with this parting shot ,I turn over the ship to the new pilot, BEN MALONEY . . . a swell guy and capable . . . I hope he avoids some of the storms I didn't . . . But there are many others who not infrequently get too little credit . . . REV. EDWARD B. McKEE, O. S. A., ace moderator and friend of ALL Villanova students . . . ANTHONY CATRAMBONE, JOHN HALLAHAN, CARMEN GIORDANO, three seniors and loyal pals who manned the ship with me for four years . . . HARRY PARKIN, CHAS. STAHLECKER and PAT GUARINI, invaluable associates . . . the Faculty and Administration, cooperation at all times . . . the YOUNG LADIES of the college office force, Misses ANN CONWAY, PURISSIMA GAFFNEY, MARIE DELANEY, MARY CLARK, JOSEPHINE CARLIN, et al . . . bouquets of orchids for their ever cheerful dispositions and kindnesses shown THE VILLANOVAN . . . the members of the ATHLETIC BOARD and COACHES . . . willing enough in cooperation to give us releases before other papers . . . RAY McKEON, publicity man par excellence and generous with journalistic advice . . . MAIN LINE TIMES COMPOSING ROOM GANG . . . patience personified and one of the better reasons for our success . . . MISS FITZPATRICK and MISS DEERY of the M. L. T. Office . . . cheerful and willing helpfulness . . . JIM CLAFFEY and JULES HARRISON and the rest of the boys at the postoffice, real fellows and loyal VILLANOVAN supporters . . . CLIFF, PAT, KELLY, PEANUTS, TOM, of the PIE SHOPPE force . . . courteous, friendly, and good service for EVERYBODY . . . ALL THE BOYS WHO EVER WORKED FOR THE VILLANOVAN . . . THE swellest bunch of fellows who ever set foot on the VILLANOVA campus . . . (Yes, I know it's an unqualified statement) . . . AND NOW . . . just in case it might appear I have forgotten others . . . I'll go the best for YOU . . . GOD BLESS YOU . . . and thanks.

SCIENCE DEAN TO TALK

Fr. Dougherty Will Address Kiwanis Club Next Tuesday

Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Science will deliver an addres on the Mendelian Laws of Heredity to the Main Line Kiwanis Club on next Tuesday evening at the Merion Cricket Club.

Fr. Dougherty will use illustrated slides to explain his talk to the members of the club.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

WHEN you see Miss Connie Boswell on Easter morning, you will be interested to know that she is wearing a fascinating ensemble to which five countries have contributed. The smart tailored suit is from England, the lace fichu is from Holland, her intriguing hat from Paris and the good old U. S. supplied her smart-looking shoes. Connie selected these on a recent European tour and so that dear old Ireland will not be forgotten, believe it or not, Connie Boswell will be carrying a miniature Shillelagh as a swagger stick.

* * *

OFF THE CBS CUFF

The quick-change artistry exhibited by Ed Wynn in the CBS Radio Playhouse is traceable largely to his busy valet, William Crowley. Wynn changes his costume half-a-dozen times during each program, Crowley arranges queer assortments of freak hats, loud neckties and unconventional coats neatly in order in the dressing room, working with the skill of long experience.

* * *

STARLINES

ED WYNN was born November 9, 1886, in Philadelphia. Was a classmate of Alexander Woollcott at Central High School. Father paid his tuition to the University of Pennsylvania, but—Ed never showed up because he got a job acting in stock at $12 a week. Later went to work in his father's retail hat store. Finally passed up the hat business to enter vaudeville, From the beginning always wrote his own material. Has composed the music and lyrics for many songs. Got his first "break" in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1914. Later, produced and wrote such shows as "The Perfect Fool." The title has clung to him. Has spent 29 years in the theatre. Always wears a pair of ancient brogans during broadcasts. Picked them up for $2.50 in Pittsburgh many years ago. Estimates they have cost him over $1400 in repairs since. Has worn out a quarter of a mile of shoe laces in them. Can't rehearse without a comic hat on his head. Changes costumes a half dozen times during each broadcast. Was the first radio comedian to insist on a studio audience. Asks that they applaud or laugh only if they want to do so! Is one of the most photographed people in the world. Has a collection of over 7000 photographs of himself. Favorite dish is Hal-ush-kas, an Hungarian treat of chopped meat. Has a 19-year-old son, Keenan, who lives at Great Neck, L. I. Keenan wants to be an actor but will not work for the "old man." Owns a yacht which he is thinking of calling "The Sea Gulliver."

Program: Ed Wynn as "Gulliver the Traveler."

Time: Every Thursday over coast-to-coast CBS network from 9:30 to 10 P. M., EST.

Sponsor: Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corp.

GLOBE TROTTING

By FRED WATERS

(From an interview with "Louie" (Pie Shoppe), native of Italy.)

Celebration

IF AN American were in Italy during Holy Week, he would probably imagine that the Italians were celebrating a belated Christmas. Everyone joins in the celebration. Processions are held all over the country. All business houses display pictures of a small lamb, symbolic of Christ.

"The most colorful event of the week takes place on the night of Good Friday. Every church in each of the parishes joins together in a monster demonstration, and marches in long procession down the main streets in the city.

* * *

Hammers and Clubs

"Tenebrae services, held in all the churches Wednesday evening, is one of the most interesting ceremonies held during the Week. After all of the candles, except one, have been extinguished one by one, the Priest begins to tap on the altar. Then the congregation joins in; this is where the younger members really go to town. When I was in Italy, the children used to bring along clubs and hammers and anything else with which they could raise a racket. Thus the slow tapping was often turned into a resounding bedlam.

* * *

Sidelights

"Before each Mass on Easter Sunday the sexton goes through the parish three times, summoning the people by knocking a wash-board with a pair of iron rods.

"A few of these customs might have changed since I was last in Italy.

"No matter how poor, every family has at least one lamb meal on Easter Sunday, in commemoration of Christ, Who is often represented by a lamb.

"There is no comparison between the American and Italian celebration of Holy Week. In Italy every one looks forward to this time, and when it comes, all, from little children to large business houses, join in.

In the Spring A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY (OR A YOUNG WOMAN'S) turns to Greyhound for vacation trips

Campus Agent
ED. DONOVAN
239 Austin Hall

NATURALLY so—for spring is on parade when you travel by highway, and every Greyhound bus offers a grandstand seat. Fares are kind to anemic budgets, while frequent schedules enable you to leave sooner and stay longer.

GREYHOUND Lines

Veterans of Future Wars Rapidly Form Clubs Throughout Country

NEW YORK, April 6—Repercussions of a quiet remark dropped in a Prince on bull-session swept the country last week as the latest of the bonus-seeking organizations, the Veterans of Future Wars, established chapters on more than 60 campuses and embarked on a program variously hailed as delightful, valuable and "unpatriotic."

"Because it is customary to pay bonuses before they are due," said the manifesto announcing the birth of the organization, "the Veterans of Future Wars demand immediate payment plus three per cent interest compounded annually from June 1, 1965, backward to June 1, 1935. Payment now, the manifesto emphasized, would "lift the country out of the depression" and enable benificiaries to enjoy the money before they lost their lives.

Hardly had the future veterans elected officers when the first chapter of an auxiliary society, the Association of Gold Star Mothers of Veterans of Future Wars was formed at Vassar. Indignant outbursts followed, and the name was changed to the "Ladies Auxiliary of Future Veterans." Loudest in denunciation, of course, were the other veterans' groups.

"Had the students confined their insulting remarks to the veterans, we would have laughed it off," said Joe E. Murray, former national chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, "but they have brought in the name of a group of women we hold sacred." ed, replied Louis J. Gorin, Jr., na- No satihe or disrespect was intentional commander. Gorin was unperturbed by American Legion threats of vigorous complaint to Princeton authorities, kept three secretaries busy sending instructions to new chapters.

The VFW's announced intention of establishing a chapter in every college in America seemed likely to succeed. Harvard, Williams, Union, Pennsylvania, Georgetown, Stanford, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Connecticut College for Women, New York University, Chicago, the University of Wisconsin, and Washington University of St. Louis were quick to get on the band wagon, with others coming fast.

Criticism and approbation were divided about 50-50, with most support coming from students, faculty members and outside liberals, charges of Communism and "un-Americanism" from the American Legion and other veterans' organizations.

Mrs. Mathilda Burling, president of the New York State Chapter of Gold Star Mothers, called the movement "unpatriotic and ill-mannered," and James E. Van Zandt, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said the students were "too yellow to go to war." The future veterans replied that Mr. Van Zandt was a Red, challenged him to debate.

A self-appointed strong-arm squad of athletes attempted to prevent formation of a VFW chapter at Rice Institute, Texas, with a barrage of mud-balls and cries of "Communists!" but were successfully repulsed.

City College of New York announced formation of a specialized affiliate: an Association of Foreign Correspondents of Future Wars, with "the purpose of training its members in the writing of atrocity stories and garbled war dispatches."

STUDENTS UNION BARRED DUE TO FORMER PLANS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 6—Because "it is not in accord with the plans already made by a recognized organization on the campus," Syracuse University's administration has barred establishment of a chapter of the American Student Union here.

In a brief statement Vice Chancellor William P. Graham declared that since a campus peace organization already has been set up by the student senates there is no need for another group.

The decision was made after Syril Gerber, field secretary of the Student Union, declared before a group of students that his organization would support a nation-wide "peace strike" on April 22.

SHARE WEALTH PLAN FAULTY

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6 — If each person in the U. S. was limited to a $5000 income a year and the excess redistributed, the average income would be increased by just $100, according to Dr. Ralph C. Epstein, dean of the University of Buffalo School of Business Administration.

Beyond that, there is not enough to go around, said Dr. Epstein.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

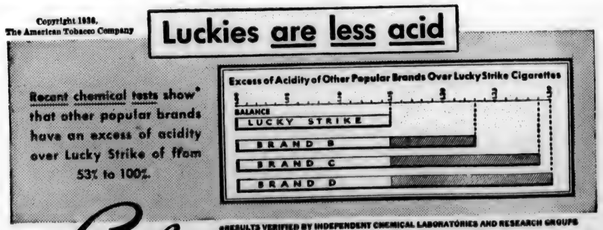
Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Luckies are less acid



*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

Collegiate World

By COLLEGIATE DIGEST and Associated Collegiate Press

When Fred Lemmer, student at the University of Minnesota, meets his English professor, Mr. Weaver, they both blush slightly.

Over a period of many weeks, Mr. Lemmer has broken all records for arriving late to Mr. Weaver's first-hour class. His alibis have varied: "My alarm clock is broken," or "There was a traffic jam," or "My car busted down."

Finally Mr. Weaver snarled, "Next time you'll tell me your house burned down."

Last week Mr. Lemmer was late again. During the night his house had burned down.

* * *

Governor Alf Landon is not the only Kansas male winning renown for his sense of economy.

Take the males at the University of Kansas for example. The men's council there has just issued a firm resolution requesting the girls of the campus to share evenly in the evening's expenses while dating the men. They have even gone so far as to formally request the cafe owners of the town to issue separate dinner checks for the women.

"Do not have a false sense of chivalry" the university men were advised by the council.

College Students Give Services To Flood Sufferers

Offer Dormitories to Homeless And Aid in Daming Rivers

BOSTON, March 6—Hundreds of New England college students offered their dormitories and services to flood sufferers last week when swollen rivers went on a rampage that cost scores of lives and caused property damage estimated in the millions.

Amherst and Massachusetts State dormitories, at Amherst, were opened to 1400 refugees, and Dartmouth students stood ready to join WPA workers in the task of sandbagging dams and river banks.

Although most New England colleges were safely out of the flood areas, nearly all suffered minor inconveniences. Mid-term vacations were curtailed for some, communications were out generally.

Other Eastern schools had second- or third-hand encounters with the flood, most severe of recent years. The Penn State boxing team, pointing for a match it was later to lose to the University of Wisconsin, was forced to postpone for three days its bouts in Madison until they could find transportation out of the flood area. Penn State furnished chat and power for citizens' use. Princeton reported severe distress among students who were notified, one the eve of the prom, that girls they'd bid were unable to get through.

BEARDS HAVE THEIR USES, SAYS STUDENT

Finds Intelligent Girls And Greets Faculty As Equals

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 6—Losing an inferiority complex, finding a broadminded, intelligent girl or impersonating a faculty member are all as easy as growing whiskers, in the opinion of Herbert Jensen, University of Minnesota senior, who is the owner of the school's only undergraduate beard.

"Everyone I meet suggests a reason for my beard," he says. "Just to clarify the situation, let me say that I have not been disappointed in love, I am not trying to establish myself as a campus personality, and I am not mentally deficient."

... ...

"To me my beard has been more than just whiskers. Psychologically speaking, it has been a boon to me in getting rid of an inferiority complex; it gives me that virile feeling.

"I'll admit, though, that it doesn't exactly please most girls. But at least I have the assurance that any girl who goes out with me is broadminded and intelligent," says the bearded man, who has not revealed the number of such girls at Minnesota.

"My beard also gives me an academic advantage over the smooth-shaven student," Jensen argues. "Members of the faculty are extraordinarily cordial to me. They nod at me on the street and shake hands with me in the classroom. They treat me as a colleague. My beard gets the credit."

Cultivation of the beard has been a matter of perseverance, explains Jensen. It received a severe setback when only two weeks old—a number of his fraternity brothers, ousy, forcibly removed a considerdoubtless motivated by petty jealable portion of it.

INAUGURAL DANCE FAILS

BALDWIN, Kan., April 6 — Students at Baker University here finally won a 42-year fight to permit school dances, banned since the university was founded.

But the inaugural dance had to be called off. Because of lack of interest, advance sales didn't justify hiring an orchestra

Sportorial

By the Sports Editor

SINCE THIS COLUMN is my last contribution to the VILLANOVAN, I intend to make it one of congratulations and thanks. Congratulatoins are in order for many while I also wish to extend my thinks to my confreres on the sports staff.

—V—

Last Wednesday Villanova downed a strong Penn nine to start off another fine year of 'Cat baseball. Ed Vaughan's pitching was above reproach while Captain Artie Mahan sparkled both offensively and defensively. The entire team is be complimented on their fine showing and, through medium of this column, the entire student body wishes them the best of success for the remainder of the season.

—V—

On Wednesday night the Intramural swimming meet was held and the fine competitive spirit of the MendelDay Hops wa once more exhibited. They entered the largest team and walked off with six of the seven first places. The Intramural committee i. to be praised on the precise and orderly fashion in which they conducted the entire meet. The varsity swimming team should not lack for members on next year's team for some of the talent displayed was quite good, although a little polishing up is needed.

—V—

Sunday afternoon Alumni's nine took the field against the Mendel Resident team and both teams displayed spirited, sandlot ball. There were quite a number of onlookers although the day was quite cold. This is truly indicative of the strides that Intra-mural athletics are making. Since the Intra-mural basketball champs opposed outside teams there is no reason why the same plan cannot be put in effect as regards baseball.

—V—

Next Saturday Villanova's netmen will oppose Penn's racqueteers on the Penn Dental courts. The 'Cats will present a line-up that will have to prove its salt, for there are very few left-overs on this year's squad. The first three assignments in the singles will go to Bill Thorne, Jim Dwyer, and Jim Cousart. Penn has a good team and we will be able to judge the quality of Villanova netmen from this encounter. However, the best of luck.

—V—

Many basketball fans complain that the reason their teams are not always at their best is because of the length and strenuousness of the schedules. It would be a revelation to some of these alibi artists if they consulted a resume of the schedule of the Original Celtics for the season of 1935-36 which has just been completed. Their record proves that a really good team can hold a winning pace for a long duration of time. In a period of five months they participated in EIGHTY-NINE contests. This is an imposing fact in itself but what is to be noted is that they won EIGHTY-SEVEN of them. Not content with this they have agreed to oppose a team of college stars; the receipts of which game will go to charity.

—V—

With the closing of my career as Sports Editor of the VILLANOVAN I wish to extend my thinks to all those who made it so enjoyable and, I hope, interesting to the readers. Several staff writers have not handled numerous assignments but they always handled the ones they did get with speed and interest. It's a difficult task to keep a group of writers busy who are always on the go and finishing one assignment before there is another for them to handle, so those whose writings did not always get into print and should not feel that they have any lack of ability but rather that the VILLANOVAN is published by an energetic group who keep the editors guessing.

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, April 7, 1936 Page Five

QUAKER NINE LOSES TO 'CATS

GOLF TEAM DROPS THREE MATCHES ON SOUTHERN INVASION

Virginia, Spiders and Georgetown Take Toll Of Wildcats

ENCOUNTER BAD WEATHER

By JACK GERAGHTY

On its first extended trip, the Villanova golf team dropped the three opening matches of the season.

Playing against bad weather, unfamiliar courses and stellar opponents, the linksmen were not as unskilled as the comparative scores would indicate.

In its first match with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, the team was defeated, 14 to 4.

Cavaliers Sweep

On a rainswept Farmington Country Club course, Villanova dropped the first match, being unable to take a match. Ed Reed, Cavalier captain, shot a sub-par 69 to defeat David Cragg, No. 1 man for Villanova, and Bob Stockton, Villanova, lost his match to Barty Shepherd. The two Villanova men each won one point by winning the last nine holes, but the Cavaliers garnered two points by taking the first nine and the match. Best ball went to Virginia.

On the second foursome, Jim Dwyer and Johnny McManus, both haived the last nine, but dropped the first nine and the match to Abe Caroll and Beverly Lamb, and in this match, Villanova won the best ball, giving a total score for the match of 14-4.

U. of Richmond Wins

After playing in rain, Villanova journeyed to Richmond University to meet a real Northern storm of wind and cold. Being better Eski-

Continued on Page Seven

Tennis Schedule

Date	Opponents	Place
April 11	U. of P.	Away
April 21	Temple University	Home
April 24	Elizabethtown College	Away
April 25	Bloomsburg Teachers	Away
April 28	St. Thomas College	Away
April 28	Ursinus College	Home
May 2	West Chester	Away
May 5	P. M. C.	Away
May 9	Albright	Away
May 12	Elizabethtown	Home
May 13	Ursinus	Away
May 16	West Chester	Home
May 18	Muhlenburg	Away
May 23	Osteopathy	Home
May 26	Albright	Home
May 27	P. M. C.	Home
May 30	Temple University	Away

Pending approval of the Moderator of Athletics.

TENNIS CAMPAIGN STARTS SATURDAY

Quakers First on Schedule For Inexperienced Wildcat Squad

With a formidable foe looming on the horizon in the shape of the University of Pennsylvania, the Villanova racqueteers will enter into a campaign of extensive training for the season.

The representatives of the Red and Blue will be met on April 11 in Quaker territory. According to Manager Frank Grewer, many matches have been scheduled for the net stars, but it cannot be released as yet, because it has not been sanctioned by the athletic authorities.

Many valuable men were lost through graduation, and the new men have not had a chance yet to show their ability. The lineup for the Penn matches will probably be chosen by comparison of past achievements.

A coach has not yet been assigned to instruct the tennis team, and a careful estimation of each player's ability can not be had due to this lack of expert opinion.

Bill Thorne, who captained the West Catholic netmen while a student at that institution, will no doubt play in the No. 1 position and Jim Cousart, also a West Catholic

Continued on Page Seven

Villanova Wins Opener; Three Games Washed Out

Vaughn and Mahan Share Spotlight in 7-1 Victory; Latter Takes Slugging Honors Featured By Homer

SOPHOMORE PLAYERS DISPLAY FORM

By JOHN DIMON

With the University of Pennsylvania furnishing the opposition, the Villanova baseball team opened its current season last Wednesday by defeating the Quakers 7-1 before a large half-frozen crowd at the wind-swept Franklin Field.

The Wildcats were ready to face a strenuous four day schedule, but inclement weather forced the postponement of the games carded with Cornell, Princeton, and Penn A. C., on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday respectively.

Penn put up a stern fight for four innings and were leading, 1-0 at that point. They received their lone tally in the very first canto when Fernandez was walked. He scored without a hit being made, and shattered the shutout hopes of the veteran Ed Vaughn.

After that shaky first inning, big Ed settled down and held the Red and Blue stickmen scoreless for the remainder of the game. He allowed but four scattered hits, and was the master throughout; however he was wild at times, but he was invincible in the pinches.

Unfortunately or maybe fortunately, the wind was blowing against the batters. The Cat swatters connected for eleven safeties off the deliveries of Lon Ettinger, Ed Mennies, and Jim Norton. Captain Arthur (what a) Mahan got four hits, one of which was an inside homer in the sixth inning that traveled the full length of the spacious bowl.

Experts say that Mahan's swat was, probably, one of the longest ever made on Franklin Field. The Sommerville, Mass. "Babe's" speed around the sacks on that occasion made Eddie Warwick—the great football and track star—who was chasing the ball in center field, look like an "also ran." Aside from his hitting prowess, Arty handled thir-

Continued on Page Six

DORM LOOP GAME MARKED BY ERRORS

Mendel Residents Trounce Alumni in Sloppy Encounter, 9-4

Despite the inclement weather Alumni and Mendel tangled in the first game of the 1936 intramural season Sunday afternoon after the teams of Fedigan and Austin decided to postpone their scheduled morning game due to the cold.

When the last ball had been pitched, the Skytoppers found themselves on the short end of a 13-9 score.

Four runs were scored by the victors in the initial inning on a group of three walks and two errors. Tom Delate, Mendel hurler, had a little difficulty finding the platter and before three outs were made nine men faced him. Mendel started off with a walk by Pete Bittenbender, who stole 2econd on the next pitch. He was put out when he attempted a steal to third,

Continued on Page Seven

Qualities For Baseball Success Told By Coach

By WILLIAM BOWKER

COACH DOC JACOBS

Many college baseball players have made names for themselves in the major leagues, and this year more collegians will attempt to crash into the ranks of the big-timers. Of the qualities necessary to succeed in fast company, few men are more qualified to tell about than Coach "Doc" Jacobs, Villanova baseball and basketball mentor who has sent five players up to the big leagues in the years since 1933, when he assumed the coaching reins here.

Three major qualities are indispensable to the major leaguer, considers Jacobs. These are innate intelligence, good physical condition and a desire to play. Every student of the game will see at once that there are numerous instances in every game in which a player is called upon to think quickly, and, what's more, think correctly. That is where innate intelligence enters into the picture. Pity the player who thinks slowly with three men on the bases and none out!

Bodily Strength a Requisite

Physical strength is of utmost importance in the big time because of the strenuous schedule which the teams in the American and National leagues undertake yearly. The season extends from early April to late September, and, if the team wins the pennant, into the first week of October. In these months all types of weather are encountered from the frosty breezes of early April to the melting, torrid sun of July and August, back to the chilly days of late September and October.

Add to this the strain of a 154-game schedule which includes contests on Sundays and double-headers on holidays. There is no let-up

Continued on Page Seven

MENDEL DAY HOPS CLOSE WITH WIN

Wilmington Club Gives Stern Opposition Before Bowing, 26-23

The Mendel Day Hops won their 14th consecutive victory last Saturday night at the expense of the Wilmington Boys' Club. The game was played at the Wilmington Recreation Center before a crowd of 200 spectators. The final score being 26-23.

It was only the fourth defeat in 38 starts for the Wilmington team who won the Delaware State Y. M. C. A. tournament this season.

The game was close all the way through. Wilmington drew first blood with a field goal. The day hops tied the score and took a one point lead by virtue of a foul. The Mendel boys managed to keep this slim margin throughout the first half. When the period ended they held a 15-16 advantage.

With only about seven minutes left for the final period, the Mendel Day Hops found themselves trailing 20-16, but timely field goals by Ed Murphy, Dan O'Connor, and Joe Bittenmiller put them out in front 22-20. Collins, former center from Salesianum High School sank a

Continued on Page Seven

VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM HAS NO REST

Play Seven Games During Easter Vacation; First With Seton Hall

With three games washed out during the past week, the Villanova varsity baseball team will remain idle until Saturday afternoon when the Seton Hall team is met at the North Jersey field. This means that the ball players will not go home for the Easter holiday, but Coach Doc Jacobs has arranged a schedule which will help to take up most of their time.

Ursinus College will keep the Main Liners busy on Wednesday afternoon at Collegeville. The following day St. John's sluggers will come to the Villanova diamond, Providence and Bucknell will follow in successive days.

Then there wil be an interval of a week before the Wildcats meet a strong Lehigh nine, on April 25 at Easton. Temple will play host to the team on April 28th, in the first of a home and home series.

The last mentioned game will hold the spotlight in the eyes of the Villanova fans.

Veterans of Future Wars Rapidly Form Clubs Throughout Country

NEW YORK, April 6—Repercussions of a quiet remark dropped in a Princeton bull-session swept the country last week as the latest of the bonus-seeking organizations, the Veterans of Future Wars, established chapters on more than 60 campuses and embarked on a program variously hailed as delightful, valuable and "unpatriotic."

"Because it is customary to pay bonuses before they are due," said the manifesto announcing the birth of the organization, "the Veterans of Future Wars demand immediate payment plus three per cent interest compounded annually from June 1, 1965, backward to June 1, 1935. Payment now, the manifesto emphasized, would "lift the country out of the depression" and enable beneficiaries to enjoy the money before they lost their lives.

Hardly had the future veterans elected officers when the first chapter of an auxiliary society, the Association of Gold Star Mothers of Veterans of Future Wars was formed at Vassar. Indignant outbursts followed, and the name was changed to the "Ladies Auxiliary of Future Veterans." Loudest in denunciation, of course, were the other veterans' groups.

"Had the students confined their insulting remarks to the veterans, we would have laughed it off," said Joe E. Murray, former national chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, "but they have brought in the name of a group of women we hold sacred," ed. replied Louis J. Gorin, Jr., na- No satihe or disrespect was intentional commander. Gorin was unperturbed by American Legion threats of vigorous complaint to Princeton authorities, kept three secretaries busy sending instructions to new chapters.

The VFW's announced intention of establishing a chapter in every college in America seemed likely to succeed. Harvard, Williams, Union, Pennsylvania, Georgetown, Stanford, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Connecticut College for Women, New York University, Chicago, the University of Wisconsin, and Washington University of St. Louis were quick to get on the band wagon, with others coming fast.

Criticism and approbation were divided about 50-50, with most support coming from students, faculty members and outside liberals, charges of Communism and "un-Americanism" from the American Legion and other veterans' organizations.

Mrs. Mathilda Burling, president of the New York State Chapter of Gold Star Mothers, called the movement "unpatriotic and ill-mannered," and James E. Van Zandt, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said the students were "too yellow to go to war." The future veterans replied that Mr. Van Zandt was a Red, challenged him to debate.

A self-appointed strong-arm squad of athletes attempted to prevent formation of a VFW chapter at Rice Institute, Texas, with a barrage of mud-balls and cries of "Communists!" but were successfully repulsed.

City College of New York announced formation of a specialized affiliate: an Association of Foreign Correspondents of Future Wars, with "the purpose of training its members in the writing of atrocity stories and garbled war dispatches."

STUDENTS UNION BARRED DUE TO FORMER PLANS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 6—Because "it is not in accord with the plans already made by a recognized organization on the campus," Syracuse University's administration has barred establishment of a chapter of the American Student Union here.

In a brief statement Vice Chancellor William P. Graham declared that since a campus peace organization already has been set up by the student senates there is no need for another group.

The decision was made after Syril Gerber, field secretary of the Student Union, declared before a group of students that his organization would support a nation-wide "peace strike" on April 22.

SHARE WEALTH PLAN FAULTY

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6 — If each person in the U. S. was limited to a $5000 income a year and the excess redistributed, the average income would be increased by just $100, according to Dr. Ralph C. Epstein, dean of the University of Buffalo School of Business Administration.

Beyond that, there is not enough to go around, said Dr. Epstein.

Collegiate World

By COLLEGIATE DIGEST and Associated Collegiate Press

When Fred Lemmer, student at the University of Minnesota, meets his English professor, Mr. Weaver, they both blush slightly.

Over a period of many weeks, Mr. Lemmer has broken all records for arriving late to Mr. Weaver's first hour class. His alibis have varied: "My alarm clock is broken," or "There was a traffic jam," or "My car busted down."

Finally Mr. Weaver snarled, "Next time you'll tell me your house burned down."

Last week Mr. Lemmer was late again. During the night his house had burned down.

Governor Alf Landon is not the only Kansas male winning renown for his sense of economy.

Take the males at the University of Kansas for example. The men's council there has just issued a firm resolution requesting the girls of the campus to share evenly in the evening's expenses while dating the men. They have even gone so far as to formally request that cafe owners of the town to issue separate dinner checks for the women.

"Do not have a false sense of chivalry," the university men were advised by the council.

College Students Give Services To Flood Sufferers

Offer Dormitories to Homeless And Aid in Daming Rivers

BOSTON, March 6—Hundreds of New England college students offered their dormitories and services to flood sufferers last week when swollen rivers went on a rampage that cost scores of lives and caused property damage estimated in the millions.

Amherst and Massachusetts State dormitories at Amherst, were opened to 1400 refugees, and Dartmouth students stood ready to join WPA workers in the task of sandbagging dams and river banks.

Although most New England colleges were safely out of the flood area, nearly all suffered minor inconveniences. Mid-term vacations were curtailed for some, communications were out generally.

Other Eastern schools had second- or third-hand encounters with the flood, most severe of recent years. The Penn State boxing team, pointing for a match it was later to lose to the University of Wisconsin, was forced to postpone for three days its bouts in Madison until they could find transportation out of the flood area. Penn State furnished chat and power for citizens' use. Princeton reported severe distress among students who were notified, one the eve of the prom, that girls they'd bid were unable to get through.

BEARDS HAVE THEIR USES, SAYS STUDENT

Finds Intelligent Girls And Greets Faculty As Equals

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 6—Losing an inferiority complex, finding a broadminded, intelligent girl or impersonating a faculty member are all as easy as growing whiskers, in the opinion of Herbert Jensen, University of Minnesota senior, who is the owner of the school's only undergraduate beard.

"Everyone I meet suggests a reason for my beard," he says. "Just to clarify the situation, let me say that I have not been disappointed in love, I am not trying to establish myself as a campus personality, and I am not mentally deficient."

"To me my beard has been more than just whiskers. Psychologically speaking, it has been a boon to me in getting rid of an inferiority complex; it gives me that virile feeling.

"I'll admit, though, that it doesn't exactly please most girls. But at least I have the assurance that any girl who goes out with me is broadminded and intelligent," says the bearded man, who has not revealed the number of such girls at Minnesota.

"My beard also gives me an academic advantage over the smooth-shaven student." Jensen argues. "Members of the faculty are extraordinarily cordial to me. They nod at me on the street and shake hands with me in the classroom. They treat me as a colleague. My beard gets the credit."

Cultivation of the beard has been a matter of perseverance, explains Jensen. It received a severe setback when only two weeks old—a number of his fraternity brothers, busy, forcibly removed a considerdoubtless motivated by petty jealable portion of it.

INAUGURAL DANCE FAILS

BALDWIN, Kan., April 6 — Students at Baker University here finally won a 42-year fight to permit school dances, banned since the university was founded.

But the inaugural dance had to be called off. Because of lack of interest, advance sales didn't justify hiring an orchestra.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

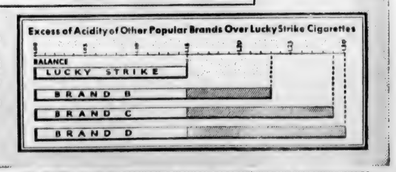
They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.



*RESULTS VERIFIED BY INDEPENDENT CHEMICAL LABORATORIES AND RESEARCH GROUPS

Luckies—"IT'S TOASTED"

Your throat protection—against irritation —against cough

Sportorial

By the Sports Editor

SINCE THIS COLUMN is my last contribution to the VILLANOVAN, I intend to make it one of congratulations and thanks. Congratulations are in order for many while I also wish to extend my thinks to my confreres on the sports staff.

—V—

Last Wednesday Villanova downed a strong Penn nine to start off another fine year of 'Cat baseball. Ed Vaughan's pitching was above reproach while Captain Artie Mahan sparkled both offensively and defensively. The entire team is be complimented on their fine showing and, through medium of this column, the entire student body wishes them the best of success for the remainder of the season.

—V—

On Wednesday night the Intramural swimming meet was held and the fine competitive spirit of the MendelDay Hops wa once more exhibited. They entered the largest team and walked off with six of the seven first places. The Intramural committee i. to be praised on the precise and orderly fashion in which they conducted the entire meet. The varsity swimming team should not lack for members on next year's team for some of the talent displayed was quite good, although a little polishing up is needed.

—V—

Sunday afternoon Alumni's nine took the field against the Mendel Resident team and both teams displayed spirited, sandlot ball. There were quite a number of onlookers although the day was quite cold. This is truly indicative of the strides that Intra-mural athletics are making. Since the Intra-mural basketball champs opposed outside teams there is no reason why the same plan cannot be put in effect as regards baseball.

—V—

Next Saturday Villanova's netmen will oppose Penn's racqueteers on the Penn Dental courts. The 'Cats will present a line-up that will have to prove its salt, for there are very few left-overs on this year's squad. The first three assignments in the singles will go to Bill Thorne, Jim Dwyer, and Jim Cousart. Penn has a good team and we will be able to judge the quality of Villanova netmen from this encounter. However, the best of luck.

—V—

Many basketball fans complain that the reason their teams are not always at their best is because of the length and strenuousness of the schedules. It would be a revelation to some of these alibi artists if they consulted a resume of the schedule of the Original Celtics for the season of 1935-36 which has just been completed. Their record proves that a really good team can hold a winning pace for a long duration of time. In a period of five months they participated in EIGHTY-NINE contests. This is an imposing fact in itself but what is to be noted is that they won EIGHTY-SEVEN of them. Not content with this they have agreed to go once a team of college stars; the receipts of which game will go to charity.

—V—

With the closing of my career as Sports Editor of the VILLANOVAN I wish to extend my thinks to all those who made it so enjoyable and, I hope, interesting to the readers. Several staff writers have not handled numerous assignments but they always handled the ones they did get with speed and interest. It's a difficult task to keep a group of writers busy who are always on the go and finishing one assignment before there is another for them to handle, so those whose writings did not always get into print and should not feel that they have any lack of ability but rather that the VILLANOVAN is published by an energetic group who keep the editors guessing.

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, April 7, 1936 Page Five

QUAKER NINE LOSES TO 'CATS

GOLF TEAM DROPS THREE MATCHES ON SOUTHERN INVASION

Virginia, Spiders and Georgetown Take Toll Of Wildcats

ENCOUNTER BAD WEATHER

By JACK GERAGHTY

On its first extended trip, the Villanova golf team dropped the three opening matches of the season.

Playing against bad weather, unfamiliar courses and stellar opponents, the linksmen were not as unskilled as the comparative scores would indicate.

In its first match with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, the team was defeated, 14 to 4.

Cavaliers Sweep

On a rainswept Farmington Country Club course, Villanova dropped the first match, being unable to take a match. Ed Reed, Cavalier captain, shot a sub-par 69 to defeat David Cragg, No. 1 man for Villanova, and Bob Stockton, Villanova, lost his match to Barty Shepherd. The two Villanova men each won one point by winning the last nine holes, but the Cavaliers garnered two points by taking the first nine and the match. Best ball went to Virginia.

On the second foursome, Jim Dwyer and Johnny McManus, both halved the last nine, but dropped the first nine and the match to Abe Caroll and Beverly Lamb, and in this match, Villanova won the best ball, giving a total score for the match of 14-4.

U. of Richmond Wins

After playing in rain, Villanova journeyed to Richmond University to meet a real Northern storm of wind and cold. Being better Eski-

Continued on Page Seven

Tennis Schedule

Date	Opponents	Place
April 11—U. of P.		Away
April 21—Temple University		Home
April 24—Elizabethtown College		Away
April 25—Bloomsburg Teachers		Away
April 26—St. Thomas College		Away
April 28—Ursinus College		Home
May 2—West Chester		Away
May 5—P. M. C.		Away
May 9—Albright		Away
May 12—Elizabethtown		Home
May 13—Ursinus		Away
May 16—West Chester		Home
May 18—Muhlenburg		Away
May 23—Osteopathy		Home
May 25—Albright		Home
May 27—P. M. C.		Home
May 30—Temple University		Away

Pending approval of the Moderator of Athletics.

TENNIS CAMPAIGN STARTS SATURDAY

Quakers First on Schedule For Inexperienced Wildcat Squad

With a formidable foe looming on the horizon in the shape of the University of Pennsylvania, the Villanova racqueteers will enter into a campaign of extensive training for the season.

The representatives of the Red and Blue will be met on April 11 in Quaker territory. According to Manager Frank Grewer, many matches have been scheduled for the net stars, but it cannot be released as yet, because it has not been sanctioned by the athletic authorities.

Many valuable men were lost through graduation, and the new men have not had a chance yet to show their ability. The lineup for the Penn matches will probably be chosen by comparison of past achievements.

A coach has not yet been assigned to instruct the tennis team, and a careful estimation of each player's ability can not be had due to this lack of expert opinion.

Bill Thorne, who captained the West Catholic netmen while a student at that institution, will no doubt play in the No. 1 position and Jim Cousart, also a West Catholic

Continued on Page Seven

Qualities For Baseball Success Told By Coach

By WILLIAM BOWKER

COACH DOC JACOBS

Many college baseball players have made names for themselves in the major leagues, and this year more collegians will attempt to crash into the ranks of the big-timers. Of the qualities necessary to succeed in fast company, few men are more qualified to tell about than Coach "Doc" Jacobs, Villanova baseball and basketball mentor, who has sent five players up to the big leagues in the years since 1933, when he assumed the coaching reins here.

Three major qualities are indispensable to the major leaguer, considers Jacobs. These are innate intelligence, good physical condition and a desire to play. Every student of the game will see at once that there are numerous instances in every game in which a player is called upon to think quickly, and, what's more, think correctly. That is where innate intelligence enters into the picture. Pity the player who thinks slowly with three men on the bases and none out!

Bodily Strength a Requisite

Physical strength is of utmost importance in the big time because of the strenuous schedule which the teams in the American and National leagues undertake yearly. The season extends from early April to late September, and, if the team wins the pennant, into the first week of October. In these months all types of weather are encountered from the frosty breezes of early April to the melting, torrid sun of July and August, back to the chilly days of late September and October.

Add to this the strain of a 154-game schedule which includes contests on Sundays and double-headers on holidays. There is no let-up

Continued on Page Seven

Villanova Wins Opener; Three Games Washed Out

Vaughn and Mahan Share Spotlight in 7-1 Victory; Latter Takes Slugging Honors Featured By Homer

SOPHOMORE PLAYERS DISPLAY FORM

By JOHN DIMON

With the University of Pennsylvania furnishing the opposition, the Villanova baseball team opened its current season last Wednesday by defeating the Quakers 7-1 before a large half-frozen crowd at the wind-swept Franklin Field.

The Wildcats were ready to face a strenuous four day schedule, but inclement weather forced the postponement of the games carded with Cornell, Princeton, and Penn A. C., on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday respectively.

Penn put up a stern fight for four innings and were leading, 1-0 at that point. They received their lone tally in the very first canto when Fernandez was walked. He scored without a hit being made, and shattered the shutout hopes of the veteran Ed Vaughn.

After that shaky first inning, big Ed settled down and held the Red and Blue stickmen scoreless for the remainder of the game. He allowed but four scattered hits, and was the master throughout; however he was wild at times, but he was invincible in the pinches.

Unfortunately or maybe fortunately, the wind was blowing against the batters. The Cat swatters connected for eleven safeties off the deliveries of Lon Effinger, Ed Mennies, and Jim Norton. Captain Arthur (what a) Mahan got four hits, one of which was an inside homer in the sixth inning that traveled the full length of the spacious bowl.

Experts say that Mahan's swat was, probably, one of the longest ever made on Franklin Field. The Sommerville, Mass. "Babe's" speed around the sacks on that occasion made Eddie Warwick—the great football and track star—who was chasing the ball in center field, look like an "also ran." Aside from his hitting prowess, Arty handled thir-

Continued on Page Six

DORM LOOP GAME MARKED BY ERRORS

Mendel Residents Trounce Alumni in Sloppy Encounter, 9-4

Despite the inclement weather Alumni and Mendel tangled in the first game of the 1936 intramural season Sunday afternoon after the teams of Fedigan and Austin decided to postpone their scheduled morning game due to the cold.

When the last ball had been pitched, the Skytoppers found themselves on the short end of a 13-9 score.

Four runs were scored by the victors in the initial inning on a group of three walks and two errors. Tom Delate, Mendel hurler, had a little difficulty finding the platter and before three outs were made nine men faced him. Mendel started off with a walk by Pete Bittenbender, who stole second on the next pitch. He was put out when he attempted a steal to third,

Continued on Page Seven

MENDEL DAY HOPS CLOSE WITH WIN

Wilmington Club Gives Stern Opposition Before Bowing, 26-23

The Mendel Day Hops won their 14th consecutive victory last Saturday night at the expense of the Wilmington Boys' Club. The game was played at the Wilmington Recreation Center before a crowd of 200 spectators. The final score being 26-23.

It was only the fourth defeat in 38 starts for the Wilmington team who won the Delaware State Y. M. C. A. tournament this season.

The game was close all the way through. Wilmington drew first blood with a field goal. The day hops tied the score and took a one point lead by virtue of a foul. The Mendel boys managed to keep this slim margin throughout the first half. When the period ended they held a 15-16 advantage.

With only about seven minutes left for the final period, the Mendel Day Hops found themselves trailing 20-16, but timely field goals by Ed Murphy, Dan O'Connor, and Joe Bittenmiller put them out in front 22-20. Collins, former center from Salesianum High School sank a

Continued on Page Seven

VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM HAS NO REST

Play Seven Games During Easter Vacation; First With Seton Hall

With three games washed out during the past week, the Villanova varsity baseball team will remain idle until Saturday afternoon when the Seton Hall team is met at the North Jersey field. This means that the ball players will not go home for the Easter holiday, but Coach Doc Jacobs has arranged a schedule which will help to take up most of their time.

Ursinus College will keep the Main Liners busy on Wednesday afternoon at Collegeville. The following day St. John's sluggers will come to the Villanova diamond, Providence and Bucknell will follow in successive days.

Then there will be an interval of a week before the Wildcats meet a strong Lehigh nine, on April 25 at Easton. Temple will play host to the team on April 28th, in the first of a home and home series.

The last mentioned game will hold the spotlight in the eyes of the Villanova fans.

DAYHOPS GAIN MURAL SWIM HONORS

Behind The Bat

By GENE LOORAM

IN TUNE with the times Villanova's varsity nine played an April Fool joke on Penn on April 1...the 'Cats presented a comparatively green array composed of three seniors, one junior, and five sophomores...their skill belied their experience, however... the entire nine is to be congratulated, but the lion's share must go to Art Mahan and Eddy Vaughn... Art's homer was one of the longest blows ever poled out on Franklin Field...

Vaughn was robbed of a shut-out when a walk, a sacrifice, and a passed ball were coupled in the first inning to give Pefn a tally although they did not get a hit... Mike Garbark, Franny Escott, and Walt Mc Kenna also played fine ball and are to be complimented... Escott must have amazed Penn for his two-ply blow came with two out and the bases loaded...

Old man weather came to Cornell's aid and the home opener was caffed off...May 1, Villanova will travel to Ithaca and, we hope, give the Cornel men their delayed trimming...Long Island University and Fordham are displaying the finest ball of the 'Cats' future opponents ...Russo, of I. I. U., is supposed to be a puzzle to all batters but he hasn't opposed Villanova yet...

The Frosh will get expert tutelage during the Easter holidays when Doc Jacobs will take them under his wing each morning during the vacation...his job will be quite simple for there are only a few rough spots visible on the Frosh nine...

"Second Wind" Merullo is not at all disappointed for he says he wasn't going home anyhow...he told his girl he'd learn to dance by Easter so he doesn't think he's had enough lessons yet...so the rumor goes...

Speaking of dancing Bob Bond is putting the finishing touches on the "Grapevine" and may give S. W. some lessons...Bob is also a bridge addict, so he appears to be the nominal choice for ladies' man on the Frosh team...

It's not such an easy job, however, to make such a selection on the varsity for there are so many candidates...your correspondent will put his nose to the grindstone, however, and try to find the winner...

Little known facts...Franny Escott and Art Mahan hail from the same town, Somerville, Massachusetts...Eddy Vaughn and Lou Wannemacher, the Frosh outfielder, played on the same independent team in New York...Pennsylvania, and not New York or Mass., has the most representatives on the varsity nine...the Keystone State has eight men on the varsity ball team...Frank Escott was chosen on the all-time St. John's Prep nine...St. John's is noted for being the incubator for future big league stars...

Casey Stengel has been putting the regular team on the field for the past few games...these are the men he intends to play the opening game...Ben Geraghty is holding down shortstop...his fielding and running on the base paths have been outstanding, while his stick work has surpassed that of the other shortstop candidates...Frank Skaff has been playing a good deal of ball at second, and, together with his ability to man the hot corner, he may gain the utility infield position...

An interesting sidelight to the fact that the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. won its way into the Olympic finals last week is that a certain frosh ball player, both baseball and basketball, played for them two years ago when they won the national Y. M. C. A. championship... he wishes his name withheld, however, for he is quite bashful...

Joe Carrig, the all-around athlete, showed up for Frosh practice last week and showed a natural aptitude to the game just as he has to practically all sports...At Seton Hall Prep, Joe played baseball, basketball, football and ran the 440 and pole-vaulted for the track team...such a natural athlete should be an asset to the frosh... beware Merullo and Matsinger...

Saturday the varsity will play one of the finest collegiate diamonds in the East when they travel to Seton Hall to play the Setonians...Seton Hall has fallen off in baseball the past few years, but a different story will be unfolded...

A certain varsity man always seems to have history periods on the days that he has to play ball... the history prof... beginning to get tired of the occurrence, for the same fellow went on all the basketball trips, too...

There is a certain rumor floating around the campus but it is unconfirmed, so it will have to wait because your correspondent doesn't want a suit against him...it concerns one of the most prominent varsity baseball players...Wir sehen uns bald wieder...

In the Limelight

By JOHN L. SIMONS

FOR THE third straight week the limelight has been focused on one of the members of the great pitching staff that carried the Villanova nine to a very successful season last spring.

This week's column is thereby devoted to the doings of one Joseph B. McGovern, who claims as his native town Schuylkill Haven, in the coal regions of Pennsylvania in the vicinity of Pottsville.

On the 29th day of August in the year 1913 the household of 34 Manganetta Street in the aforementioned Schuylkill Haven, celebrated the arrival of a newcomer to the fold. That was the beginning of Joe's career.

During his early years Joe attended the Schuylkill Haven Grammar School and Schuylkill Haven

High School. Being a sturdy young chap and athletically inclined, Joe naturally took an active part in those three sports that claim the attention of every red-blooded American boy, football, basketball and baseball.

Joe, however, concentrated on football and baseball. In the former sport he used his height and weight to good advantage at the tackle position; in baseball he was from the beginning a pitcher and has stuck to that post ever since.

His athletic prowess at high school attracted a great deal of attention among several of the colleges of the surrounding district. Consequently in the fall of 1931 Joe was registered at Albright College in Reading, not far from the home town. At Albright he had a scholarship for football and baseball, and naturally he engaged in these sports in his freshman year.

But his stay at the Reading institution was destined to be a short one. It was during the following summer that Joe received an offer to come to Villanova. He decided in favor of Villanova, and September, 1932, marked the entry into these portals of Joseph B. McGovern, of Schuylkill Haven.

As a Wildcat freshman, Joe was a tackle on the frosh football squad and a pitcher on the yearlings' nine. He played football in his sophomore year but dropped that sport last year in order to concentrate his energies on baseball.

The current season is Joe's third as a varsity hurler. The caliber of the pitching he has displayed during the two previous years has been better than a casual glance at his record of four wins and three defeats shows. He has faced the toughest opponents on the schedule and his record is even more enviable when viewed in that light.

The highlight of Joe's career as a Villanova baseballer was the encounter with the strong Penn A. C. club last spring. The clubmen's slab artist was in rare form and held the usually hard-hitting Wildcats to a few hits and two runs. Still Joe was undaunted by the lack of hitting on the part of his team-mates. He had a hop on his fast ball and a sharp break on his curve. These coupled with the almost uncanny control he exhibited were enough to defeat the Pennacs 2-1 in the best-played game of the season.

It was only with reluctance and the aid of quite a bit of urging on the part of your columnist that Joe expressed his views on the coming campaign. "The team is facing an extremely difficult 22-game schedule, but the all-around strength should pull the boys through on the winning side."

When pressed further and asked his own prospects for the year, he said, "With such a team backing me up I'm looking forward to a successful season."

In his spare time Joe spends his time on two hobbies, fishing and singing. In fact, he has earned quite a reputation on the campus as a songbird. His renditions of the vocals of popular songs are always enjoyed by his Fedigan Hall neighbors. Campus rumor has it that in his sophomore year Joe sang over Station WDAS in Philadelphia.

Joe is a student in the Commerce and Finance School and is majoring in education. After graduation in June he plans to enter the field of pro baseball; and he is also on the lookout for a coach-teacher job in some upstate school.

Thus is brought up to date the story of one Joseph B. McGovern, resident of Schuylkill Haven and one of "Doc" Jacobs' ace twirlers.

Take Lead In League Race With 39 Points In Meet

Fedigan Mermen Finish Second With Austin Third; Alumni and Mendel Residents Share Last Place

HOSEY - MURPHY DOUBLE WINNERS

By THOS. J. CARBINE

Displaying the kind of form that bespeaks class, the Mendel Day Hops won every first place except one in the Annual Intra-Mural Swimming Meet held last Wednesday night in the college pool.

Two Dayhops, Jack Hosey and Dan Murphy, held the high-scoring honors with 10 points apiece. John Rhoads, of Fedigan, followed close behind with 8¾ points.

All the swimming events except the 50-yd. freestyle were decided on time. The holders of the five fastest times in the heats qualified for the final in the 50-yard freestyle race.

Swimming strongly, the 100-yard freestyle relay team of the Mendel Day Hops, consisting of Victor Nicholson, Stanley Narkin, Marshall Ward, and Joseph Hooven, beat Fedigan Hall's team to the wall, Alumni taking third.

A novel situation arose in both heats of the 50-yard breaststroke event. The judges decided that all the contestants had used illegal kicks and were, therefore, according to the rules, disqualified. But because of the fact that ALL had used an illegal kick the judges agreed to overlook the infringement and to pick the victor as though nothing had happened.

The winner of the first heat was Dave Scanlon. Gene Looram was second and Dan O'Connor third. In the second heat Dan Murphey finished far ahead of the field to take first place. Carl Pantaleo had to put on a spirited finish to take second place from a determined Joe Badamo. Because he had the fastest time, Dan Murphey was awarded first place with Dave Scanian second and Gene Looram third.

Jack Hosey led his teammate, Victor Nicholson, to the tape in the first heat of the 50-yard backstroke race with Fred Melian third. In the second heat "Demon" Al Fitzpatrick went to town and left his competitors far behind. Charles Barret finished second and Ernest DeRossi third. Hosey's fast time with Nicholson second and Fitzpatrick third.

Because of the number of contestants it was necessary to hold heats and finals in the 50-yd. freestyle event. The first heat was won by Marshall Ward; second was Dave Scanlon, and third, Buzz Hart. In the second heat John Rhoads finished first and Andy VanDerslice beat out Schuyler for second place. Ed Conneen won the third heat with Harold Murphy in second and John Chapple third. The final heat was won by Ward. Rhoads finished ahead of Conneen to take second place.

In the diving event Dan Murphy gave a brilliant exhibition to cap the first place. Hooven beat out "Mickey Mouse" Badamo by one point for second place.

The long grind of the 220 saw Bill Dinges, Ray MacGregor, and Paul Quinn finish in that order in the first heat. Jack Hosey won the second heat with Tom Delate and Stanley Narkin second and third, respectively. The final places were in the same order as the men finished in the second heat.

John Rhoads won the first heat of the 100-yd. freestyle with VanDerslice second and Melian third. Chapple and Murphy finished in that order in the second heat. The first heat winners were the ultimate victors.

The Mendel Day Hops' team carried off the team prize with 39 points. Fedigan Hall was second with 14 points; Austin, third with four, and Alumni and the Mendel Residents tied for fourth place with three points each.

Team totals—First, Mendel Day Hops, 39 points; second, Fedigan, 14; third, Austin, 4; fourth, Alumni, 3, and Mendel Residents, 3.

Villanova Takes Opener From Penn

Continued From Page Five

teen chances at the initial bag flawlessly.

Penn's mere lead looked good for awhile but the Felines started a rumpus by filling the bags in the fourth inning. With two out, many thought that Villanova would lose another opportunity to score, but Franny Escott stepped to the portside of the plate and promptly smacked the third pitch into the right field bleachers. However, he was held up at second by ground rules, and only two runs were scored, but they spelled victory with a capital V for Doc Jacob's minions.

Sophomores Play Well

The highly-touted sophomores lived up to their pre-season expectations: Mike Garbark, catcher; Walt McKenna, third baseman; Walt Sheftic at second, and the aforementioned Escott in center field performed splendidly at their respective positions. Aside from handling Vaughn like a veteran, Garbark connected for two beautiful line drives into the outfield.

McKenna, as emotionless as ever, made the fans gasp when he reached far and high for unbelievable stabs. Walt is probably the season's find, since he was considered just another hopeful to fill in the gap left by Frank Skaff.

Although Sheftic did not hit safely, he, nevertheless, showed his worth in his performance at the keystone sack, handling eight out of nine possible chances offered him. However, his mighty swat against the Frosh last week gave proof that he has hitting abilities, which the future games may bring out.

Leo Schoppmeyer, who has accustomed himself to Ben Geraghty's old position, performed nobly on the field and at bat to help in the Wildcat cause. His wonderful work at the short field stamps him as one of the best around.

Jim Hauze and Warwick were impressive in Penn's defeat. Although the latter is a junior, he performed in his first varsity baseball game, because he did not report for the sport last year. Ed Mohler, towering first baseman, handled 12 chances perfectly, but he could not garner a hit.

VILLANOVA

	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftr, 2b	4	0	0	3	3
Escott, cf	5	0	1	1	0
Mahan, 1b	4	2	4	13	0
Stoviak, lf	4	0	1	1	0
Schoppmeyer, ss	4	2	1	1	0
Garbark, c	4	2	3	7	0
O'Meara, lf	5	0	0	0	0
McKenna, 3b	5	0	1	2	4
Vaughn, p	3	1	0	0	2
Totals	39	7	11	27	14

PENN

	ab	r	h	o	a
Fern'ez, ss	1	0	0	0	0
B'stein, 3b	4	0	0	2	2
Mohler, 1b	4	0	0	12	0
Hauze, 2b	4	0	1	1	4
Warwick, cf	4	0	1	1	1
Sto'jon, rf	4	0	1	0	0
Ritchie, c	3	0	0	7	0
Effinger, p	2	0	0	0	0
Hon'ett, lf	4	0	1	1	0
Norton, p	0	0	0	1	2
Genino, c	1	0	0	2	1
Mennies, p	0	0	0	0	0
*Field	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	31	1	4	27	11

*Batted for Mennies in ninth.

Villanova	0	0	0	2	2	1	0	2	0	—7
Penn	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—1

Errors—Sheftter, Schoppmeyer, Fernandez, Hauze, Norton.

Runs batted in—Escott, 2; Vaughn, Mahan, Schoppmeyer, Garbark. Two-base hits—Escott, Mahan. Home runs—Mahan. Stolen bases—Stoviak, Garbark. Sacrifices—Beinstein, Vaughn. Left on bases—Villanova, 12; Penn, 10. Base on balls—Off Vaughn, 5; Effinger, 5; Norton, 1. Struck out—By Effinger, 3; Vaughn, 3; Norton, 2; Mennies, 3. Hits—Off Effinger, 6 in 4 innings; Norton, 2 in 3; Mennies, 3 in 2. Wild pitches—Effinger, 2; Vaughn, Mennies. Passed ball — Garbark. Losing pitcher—Effinger. Umpires — Livingston and Wassner. Time—2h. 30m.

Mendel Dayhops Close With Win

Continued From Page Five

field goal and a foul to give Wilmington a lead of one point. O'Connor came through with two more field goals to put the game on ice.

This victory made it 21 out of 24 for the Mendel Day Hops who suffered setbacks from the Mendel Residents, Fedigan and Austin Halls, early in the intra-mural season.

MENDEL DAY HOPS

	Fld.	Fl.	T.P.
O'Connor, forward	5	0	10
Beittenmiller, forward	2	2	6
Duffy, center	1	2	4
Agnes, guard	1	0	2
Murphy, guard	1	0	2
Barr, guard	0	2	2
Rodgers, guard	0	0	0
Totals	11	4	26

WILMINGTON VARSITY

	Fld.	Fl.	T.P.
Salaty, forward	1	1	3
Czarnecki, forward	1	0	2
Collins, center	2	0	6
Musheinock, guard	3	0	6
Dobyrznski, guard	2	0	4
McNara	1	0	2
Totals	11	1	23

Referee—Sherwin.

Penn First Rival On Tennis Schedule

Continued From Page Five

prodigy, will hold down the second position. These positions are only tentative, however, as there are many other players who are fighting for these enviable positions.

One Senior Remains

Jim Allen, the only senior member of the team, should develop fine form in this, his final year at college.

The other members of this tentative lineup are Jim Dwyer, who came to Villanova from Trenton; Frank Rodgers, recent winner of the bowling tourney, who came from West Catholic; and Tom Cook, Penn Charter's sole representative on the squad.

Very good material can also be found in Ben Maloney and Norbert Ford. At present these two men are confining their activities solely to track, as this is their major sport and have not yet switched to the courts.

The Villanova courts will not be in condition for at least two weeks, and some new improvements will be added. A pipe line to convey water to the scene of action will be laid. It is not known as yet if all the courts can be improved in this short space of time, but if every tennis fan will chip in and devote a few of his leisure hours to this task, they should be completed in jig time.

ELECTIONS TO BE HELD

Immediately following the Easter Vacation election of officers for the Student Chapter of the A. I. E. E. will be held. The retiring officers are James McBrearty, president; Constantine B. Constantine, treasurer. Edward Casey, secretary, and Robert Strong, vice president.

OWL STAR HONORED

Don Shields, star sophomore forward of the Owls' quintet, has been forwarded a place on the second team of the American Olympic Basketball Committee.

Dorm Loop Game Marked By Errors

Continued From Page Five

and the Penthouse boys were blanked for the next two frames.

Alumni could not reach the scoring station until the first half of the fifth when the lads from the old Academy scored nine runs on one hit, about six free tickets to first, and numerous errors by the infield and outfield of the losers.

The weather was obviously telling on the effectiveness of both pitchers as the Mendelites came through with four runs in their half of the inning. Three of the runs were tallied when Johnny Costello cleared the sacks with a long triple to left center.

This concluded the scoring for the rest of the game until a lastinning rally by the losers netted two counters. Jim Carroll opened the session by driving a long triple to right. Two walks filled the bases and Tom Delate's hot drive past Gene Looram at first pushed the final tallies across.

Errors and walks played the most important part in the run-making, as three hits only were garnered by the victors and five by the losers.

"Smoke" Severo started in the box for Alumni, and was replaced by Carl Panteleo in the fourth. Tom Delate, "Speed" Farwell, and Johnny Costello had a hand in the Mendel pitching, with Costello showing the best assortment of curves and change of pace.

The outstanding defensive plays pulled by Bittenbender, Dunnigan, and Carroll, and the two putouts by Jim Carroll by means of the hidden ball trick. Zogby and Strauss were the victims. Coach "Cowboy" Crowley, of the Skytoppers shifted his men around like checkers in a vain attempt to gain victory.

Qualities For Baseball Success Told By Coach

Continued From Page Five

once the first game has started and the collegian who would be one of the immortals with Ruth, Lajoie, Cobb, Speaker and others must be of stern stuff and of good stuff; that is, he must have a capable set of hands, good feet, and most of all, good eyes.

These, in short, are the physical qualities of which Coach Jacobs speaks as being necessary to big leaguers.

Even more important to the college player with lofty ambitions is the desire to play the game. This is the most important of the three major qualities, because it is here where the success or failure of the collegian lies. A yearing to play ball rather than eat is highly commendable in the major league aspirant.

Quoting Jacobs about the desire to play on the part of the college ball players: "It has been my observation that college baseball players acquire a desire to play baseball which brings out their best qualities. They move up into the big leagues and that desire very shortly leaves them.

The playing of college baseball was based upon desire and was actually play for the students. When the big leagues sign them up, the playing instinct seems to die out, and the daily game becomes work. The college player gradually tires of his work."

Schedule Is Strenuous

Continuing his line of comparison between big league and college diamond play, the Wildcat mentor emphasized the fact that in intercollegiate competition the players are able to participate in about three games a week, whereas the big-timers play day after day, with many a train trip in between two days' play. It is this constant grind that burns out a college player more quickly than anything else connected with big league life. The collegian who can stand the grind is the one who will star.

Big leaguers are not made overnight, although one may flash across the sport horizon and quickly fade into the blackness of oblivion. Their training starts in high school, continues through their college days, and ends in the minor leagues, where the rough gems of the diamond receive their polish which is so necessary for top-flight baseball if they are to shine under the big league skies.

Knowledge of Principles Needed

Should the player have the three most desirable qualities for the highest class of baseball competition. Jacobs lists four steps which go to make up the training of a big leaguer. These stages of the ball player's career are usually taken care of during his apprenticeship days in high school, college and the minor leagues.

The preparatory studies consist of, first, the teaching of the fundamentals of the game. As in studies in the classroom, so in baseball is a comprehensive knowledge of the basic principles necessary. Contained in the first steps in baseball are a familiarity with the ways of playing one's position, and what to do each time the ball is hit.

Strategy comprises the second main lesson in this sport. Two sections go to make up the study of strategy. One is for outfielders and the other is for the guardians of the inner defense. As more games are won and lost by good or faulty brainwork, this department of the game is one of the most important, fore the strategy of the game can and one must play many years before fully mastered.

Form Improves Through Work

Step Number 3 depends upon the nature of the game, which is based on percentages, and is the study of percentages. The final stage, not the least important, is the improvement of batting form. This consists of a study of the finer points of hitting the pitcher. Practical examples of what batting study will do is found in the cases of many major leaguers, who have improved their hitting averages with a change of stance at the plate.

Being a big leaguer, then, is not so romantic as it may seem, but consists of hard work under various conditions which tax the strength of the participant. It is a strenuous occupation, but loved by all who indulge in it.

Wildcat Golfers Drop Three Matches

Continued From Page Five

mos than Villanova, the Spiders took almost a clean sweep, the only point getters for Villanova being Stockton and McManus, who halved best ball on the first nine. Johnny McManus dropped a thirty-foot putt for a birdie to halve best ball.

Jim Dwyer, Villanova number one man, was low scored for the Cats with a 78. Dave Ewell, his opponent, runner-up for the Southern Amateur last year, shot a par 73. Dave Cragg lost to Dick Gordon, and the Spiders won best ball.

Bob Stockton lost, 2 and 1, to Richard Wood, McManus lost, 5 and 4, to Bill Trevette.

Hoyas Eke Out Win

Georgetown managed to win the last match by taking the best ball in both foursomes. Jim Dwyer scored the first point for Villanova by scoring two birdies to win the timers play day after day, with many a train trip in between two days' play. It is this constant grind that burns out a college player more quickly than anything else connected with big league life. The collegian who can stand the grind is the one who will star.

Big leaguers are not made overnight, although one may flash across the sport horizon and quickly fade into the blackness of oblivion. Their training starts in high school, continues through their college days, and ends in the minor leagues, where the rough gems of the diamond receive their polish which is so necessary for top-flight baseball if they are to shine under the big league skies.

Knowledge of Principles Needed

Should the player have the three most desirable qualities for the highest class of baseball competition. Jacobs lists four steps which go to make up the training of a big leaguer. These stages of the ball player's career are usually taken care of during his apprenticeship days in high school, college and the minor leagues.

The preparatory studies consist of, first, the teaching of the fundamentals of the game. As in studies in the classroom, so in baseball is a comprehensive knowledge of the basic principles necessary. Contained in the first steps in baseball are a familiarity with the ways of playing one's position, and what to do each time the ball is hit.

Strategy comprises the second main lesson in this sport. Two sections go to make up the study of strategy. One is for outfielders and the other is for the guardians of the inner defense. As more games are won and lost by good or faulty brainwork, this department of the game is one of the most important, fore the strategy of the game can and one must play many years before fully mastered.

Form Improves Through Work

Step Number 3 depends upon the nature of the game, which is based

PRESIDENT AT MEETING

Fr. Stanford Will Represent Villanova at Conference Next Week

During the Easter holidays, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, will attend a three-day conference of the National Catholic Educational Association in New York City, April 13, 14 and 15.

Fr. Stanford, as chairman of the committee on by-laws, will deliver the report of that committee and will also present the report of the Eastern Regional Unit, of which he is the chairman.

EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE

Track equipment for the coming cinder campaign has arrived and is available to all prospective aspirants for the Wildcat track team. All necessary arrangements may be completed by applying at the gym.

Here and There

By EDWARD I. COLLINS

BASKETBALL, which will be included in the Olympic games at Berlin, will have teams from 22 nations. The game had its origin at Springfield, Mass., in 1891 by Dr. James A. Naismith.

The State of Kansas, now the home of the founder of the pastime, was the heaviest contributor.

The basketball fans of the country certainly should be commended for the manner in which they contributed to the drive to send Dr. Naismith and his wife to the Olympic basketball contests.

So regardless of the score it does seem a bit odd that the whole thing was clothed in the garb of secrecy.

I wonder if the attitude would have been different had the Wildcats been the victors? I wonder? Well, I'll stop wondering until next week. Same time, Same place.

Some of the brilliant stars of the game receive as high as $1,500 a month—and the season runs for six months.

The result of the recent scrimmage between the Villanova and Navy football teams seems to be shrouded in mystery—The Wildcats came out on the short end of the score and that may account for the secrecy. Then again the authorities at Annapolis did not care for the scrimmage to be publicized.

These inter-school contests that are held in the spring of the year are for the sole purpose of polishing off the rough spots of the players that cannot otherwise be accomplished in the fall.

JEANNETT'S
BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas For All Occasions
Specializing in Corsages
Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association
823 Lancaster Ave.
Bryn Mawr 570

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

(Next to Seville Theatre)
Meet Your Friends at
The Bryn Mawr Confectionery
Tasty Sandwiches
Reasonably Priced
Lunches-Dinners-Platters
Music Free Dancing

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED — 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed — 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop"
235 AUSTIN HALL
SHEALEY
(Campus Agent)

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

GOING HOME FOR EASTER?
...VISITING FRIENDS?
...TAKING A TRIP?
Whatever you do, let the Family know by TELEPHONE
It's all news to them!
SAVE AFTER SEVEN
Bargain rates are in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

L. K. D. WILL ELECT TWO NEW OFFICERS

Toland and Howe Proposed For Posts; Dance Plans Continue

Further plans for the coming fraternity dinner-dance were discussed at the weekly meeting of the L. K. D. Fraternity, held last Thursday. The site of the occasion has been limited at present to two Philadelphia hotels: the Adelphia and the Broadwood. Further action will be taken on this matter in the near future.

The nominations, opened last Thursday, were again in order with the result that two new candidates were proposed. Joseph Toland, present secretary, is the recently proposed treasurer, while Robert Howe, of the freshman class is an aspirant to the secretarial position. Further nominations will be considered up to and including the day of election which is to be held the first meeting after the Easter vacation.

The proposed pins, accessible to all members in good standing, were displayed to the fraternity and a preliminary order list was made up to see the reaction of the members. The meeting was closed by President Joseph Bigley after urging the members to complete their dues, so as to give the organization full power to go ahead with their plans.

Sign Jan Garber For Junior Prom

Continued From Page One

Junior Promenade, Villanova College will uphold its reputation of presenting nothing but the finest in the way of entertainment at its dances.

The college gymnasium will be decorated for th occasion, refreshments for the evening will be on hand, and the ballroom will be in readiness for the capacity crowd expected. Unique favors for the ladies have been selected by the Dance Committee and will be presented at the dance.

The Junior Dinner-Dance Committee has selected the ballroom of the Hotel Adelphia for the annual event. The committee, under John McLaughlin, after considering the bids of many mid-city hotels and local country clubs, decided that the Hotel Adelphia is the most satisfactory location for the Spring affair.

In all probability the orchestra for the occasion on Saturday, May 10, will be the Top-Hatters. This orchestra has gained renown through its original interpretations of modern melodies and is gaining rapidly in popularity through its many appearances in local ballrooms.

The committee in charge of the affair are also considering the possibility of contracting Jack Delmar and his Orchestra. This band has also been outstanding int its appearance throughout the Philadelphia district.

At last Thursday's Committee meeting several important decisions were reached. The subscription for the Prom was set at $4.00 per couple; there will be no patrons or patronesses; the ticket sale will be limited.

The bid was set at $4.00 because the committee believes that at that price a greater representation from the student body for the dance can be had. The co-chairmen of the Prom are planning along these lines for the traditional affair in the hope that the Prom will be essentially a Villanova one.

Concerning the patrons and patronesses it was decided that the time and expense entailed in securing them would not warrant the procedure.

Although the exact number has not been decided, the ticket sale, according to the co-chairmen, will be definitely limited. It is hoped that with the limitation of tickets, the dance can be a financial success and what is more important, will be socially more successful than former Villanova affairs. With a representative attendance of Villanova students and Alumni, the committee hopes that the dance will be more of a college affair and at the same time being less crowded, will be more enjoyable to the dancers.

RECEIVE VILLANOVAN APPOINTMENTS

Among those who were named to high positions on the VILLANOVAN staff are Edward Kely, Business School, appointed circulation manager, succeeding Basil Dobrowolski; Pasquale Guarini, Science School, photography editor; Pasquale Vassalluzzo, Science School, associate sports editor; Thomas Kennedy, Jr., Business School, copy editor. All are junior classmen.

FINAL PLANS LAID FOR STAFF SOCIAL

Senior Members of Editorial Board to Receive Keys at Dinner-Dance

Final arrangements for the annual VILLANOVAN dinner-dance and inauguration of the new staff have been made, and all is in readiness for the gala affair. The Green Hill Farms, City Line and Lancaster Pike, Overbrook, is to be the scene of the April 21 social, when the "Villanovans" will supply their rhythms from 8 P. M. until midnight.

More than 73 members and guests of the staff are expected to attend the affair accompanied by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, and several other members of the college faculty.

The incoming editorial staff will be formally inaugurated, and the VILLANOVAN Keys are to be presented to the four retiring senior editors. John DiJoseph, present editor-in-chief and the incoming editor-in-chief, Benedict Maloney, will join with Father McKee in presenting the speeches for the evening. John Hallahan, chairman of the dance will preside as the toastmaster for the evening.

Members of the staff, who are planning on escorting ladies to the dinner-dance, have been notified that they must meet the financial requirement, which is to be $1.50 on or before April 17. Payment may be made either to the editor-in-chief or to the chairman, or to Father McKee.

FR. LUNNEY AT CAPITOL

Faculty Member Attends Peace Conference in Washington April 13-14

Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., assistant professor of modern languages at Villanova College, will attend the 10th annual Conference of the Catholic Association for International Peace, to be held in Washington, Monday and Tuesday, April 13 and 14. Fr. Lunney, who will represent the college at the conference, is moderator of the International Relations Club of Villanova.

Parkin and Cleary Retain Positions

Continued From Page One

culation manager; Thomas Kennedy, also a junior in the same school, copy editor; Pasquale Vassalluzzo, junior Science student, associate sports editor.

Frank Bonetti, Business School junior is named exchange editor. Joseph Toland, sophomore Science student, is appointed to edit the 'Odds and Ends' column, while Pio P. Goggi, junior in the School of Science, is renamed to edit the Dial Log column. Richard L. G. Deverall, special student, will continue as literary editor.

Retiring from active service on the executive staff of the newspaper are four seniors, Mr. DiJoseph, Anthony Catrambone, Carmen Giordano, all senior Arts School students, and John W. Hallahan, Jr., senior in the School of Technology.

The annual staff dinner dance held in honor of the graduating senior staff members and for the formal induction of the new editors will be held at Green Hill Farms on April 21.

Passion of Christ Theme of Sermon

Continued From Page One

forgive sin is even greater than to raise the dead from the grave.

When Almighty God created man He gave him almost unlimited powers of free will. By this power He gave man the ability to choose between Himself and Satan. If man chooses Satan, God is powerless to stop him. It is in man's own free will that Salvation lies.

Repeated sin hardens the heart and renders man almost immune to the pleas of his conscience and knowledge of the right. The grip that sin can get on the heart is most powerful and to prove it, let man ask himself the question, "Am I entirely willing to give up mortal sin?" Most men find that they will not. With the final warning that unless man can do this his chances for salvation are small.

Dr. Munch Speaks At Science Forum

Continued From Page One

that the opinions varied. This supported the doctor's former results; in that this particular compound always produced different opinions among various people.

Comparative statistics were presented showing the relation of the number of deaths in the 18th century to those of today. It was observed that there were fewer deaths at the present time than there were previously.

Dr. Munch, then, discussed briefly and humorously angina pectoris, or commonly known as a pain of the heart. For the last year a Dr. Wolfe, of the Temple Medical School, has been working in conjunction with Dr. Munch to produce a substance to remedy the malady. They have been successful in preparing a solution from the pancreas which has been satisfactory in 85 per cent of 1000 cases.

It was explained that the first substance used to treat heart trouble was accidentally discovered by a woman in England known as Mother Hutton. A Dr. Witherling visited and determined that from about 20 or 30 substances which she prepared only one, a common flower named foxglove, was the necessary ingredient.

Substances have been developed along that line from the elementary structural formula of benzene. From that have been developed theelin, the female sex hormone; androsterone, the male sex hormone; cholesteral, ogosterol, the latter two being equal to Vitamin D, and Digitalis. All of these chemicals have great physiological importance, with a characteristic humor which Dr. Munch completed his talk marked his entire address, by relating a humorous incident.

Open House Plans Near Completion

Continued From Page One

dition to these demonstrations, the various student publications will be on display.

An extensive advertising plan is being carried on by the college, and all mail sent from the college from April 4 to May 4 will contain a small stamp with the insignia Open House and the date it is to be held. The students of various high schools of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, along with colleges and universities, will be invited. The outstanding success which this project proved last year has made the college authorities decide to make it a regular feature of Junior Week every year.

Debating Society Engages 3 Rivals

Continued From Page One

Joseph's College, held on March 20, over Radio Station WIP, gave the Beta Gamma team the decision by a 46 to 17 majority ballot of radio listeners. Thomas Bowes and Thomas Mathews, of St. Joseph's College, were the negative defendants both in that contest and at Villanova last Friday evening, opposing on that date the regular negative Villanova team.

There will be no further forensic activity until shortly after the Easter vacation, although the Beta Gamma holds an option on time next Friday over Radio Station WIP, at 4 P. M. The remaining list of debates of the Literary Society will be announced in the next issue of this paper, as there is nothing definite to date.

Varied Program For Mothers' Day

Continued From Page One

ture, entitled "College Life at Villanova," will conclude the portion of the program to be staged at that section of the campus. The inspection of the college library and a short tour of the campus will also be taken by the mothers and the students attending. The Mothers' Day program will be concluded with a luncheon to be served in the college dining hall at 4 o'clock.

Formal invitations will be issued to all the mothers of the entire student body in a few weeks. It is the wish of the committee that all the students back this program and show our parens the true and loyal support that men of Villanova have rendered to projects of this type in the past.

It's Coming—

The Class of '37

ANNOUNCES
THE SECURING OF

JAN GARBER
and His Orchestra

(Thru arrangement with Music Corp. of America)

FOR THE TRADITIONAL

Junior Promenade

May 8th 10 'til 2

-:- $4.00 Per Couple -:-

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 23 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1936 Price: Five Cents

CLASS NOMINATIONS ARE HEATED CONTESTS

Intense Struggle for Supremacy of Undergraduate Groups Marks Pre-Election Days; Freshmen Very Active

JUNIORS WAIT

Third Year Men Postpone Balloting Until Further Notice

A bitter struggle for supremacy in the various classes is anticipated as a result of the class nominations held during the past week under the supervision of the Student Council.

Significant with the announcement of the schedule for the elections is the temporary postponement of the Junior Class election, set for this Thursday, until further notice.

The Sophomore Class election will be held tomorrow, April 29, as planned, and the Freshmen will vote Thursday, April 30. The elections will be held in the rear of the dining hall, Mendel Hall, from 12 o'clock until 1 P. M.

Those aspiring for the much coveted presidency of the coming Senior Class include: W. Cleary, present chief executive of the Junior Class; Edward McDevitt, also of the School of Commerce and Finance; Harry Parkin, Science School; Gerald Kunz, a student in the School of Engineering, and Anthony Differ, of the Arts School.

Candidates for vice president are: Mario Menocal, Arthur Carleton, of the Technology Department, Albert Mayell, of the Arts School and Mario Tronceliti, a student in the Pre-Medical School.

Nominees for secretary include:

Continued on Page Eight

COLLEGE DOCTOR DIES

DR. ALEXANDER R. EVANS, who was college physician for the past 20 years, died at his home in Ardmore last Wednesday morning from a heart attack.

DR. EVANS FUNERAL HELD IN ARDMORE

School Physician Dies Suddenly at Home on Last Wednesday

Funeral services for Dr. Alexander R. Evans, college physician for twenty years, were held last Wednesday from his late residence, 135 Cricket Ave., Ardmore.

In 1894 he opened his own drug store in Bryn Mawr which he conducted for several years. Entering into the study of medicine, he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1905. He is survived by a son, four daughters and three sisters. His wife died in 1932.

Present at the funeral were: Dean

Continued on Page Eight

COMMUNISM TALK GIVEN BY PRIEST

Rev. Joseph Koncius Delivers Interesting Discourse On Russian Conditions

Rev. Joseph B. Koncius, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, Mt. Carmel, Pa., addressed the student body on "Communism in Russia" at the regular weekly seminar, 10.45 A. M., Thursday, April 23rd.

The Rev. Dr. Koncius, a native of Lithuania, taught at the University of Kansas before the World War, during which he was Lithuania's special envoy to Russia, and later, Lithuanian Ambassador to Germany.

Fr. Koncius is also a member of the Committee on Russia of the Catholic Association for International Peace.

In his discourse Fr. Koncius spoke of the economic and religious conditions in the land. He spoke about the rise of the Russian revolution after the World War and how Germany financed the return of the exiled Socialistic leaders to Russia. These men began their work with propaganda and within a short time they had so influenced the people and the soldiers that

Continued on Page Four

COUNCILORS MEET

There will be a meeting of the Student Council at 5.30 o'clock today in the Mendel Hall amphitheatre. All members are requested to attend.

Villanovan Editors Are Inducted At Dinner Dance; 4 Seniors Get Keys

Newly appointed editors for the ensuing year were officially inducted at the annual VILLANOVAN dinner-dance held last Tuesday evening at Green Hill Farms.

Simultaneous with the inauguration of the incoming editors, the retiring senior members of the editorial board were presented with VILLANOVAN keys, symbolic of four years of faithful service to the publication.

The Villanovans, college dance orchestra, rendered the melodious harmonies for the dancers and presented the popular hits of the day in their own inimitable style.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, was the first speaker for the evening. Fr. McKee congratulated the outgoing editors upon their journalistic success during the past year.

J. Benedict Maloney, present editor-in-chief, commended the retiring editors, particularly Mr. DiJoseph, whom he said was instrumental in the success of the paper.

John C. DiJoseph, retiring head, was high in his praise of the in-

Continued on Page Four

RETIRING EDITOR

JOHN C. DIJOSEPH,

HONOR ROLL LISTS ARE RELEASED BY 2 CAMPUS SCHOOLS

Freshman Class Outstanding In Science and Business School Ratings

SCHOOL OF ARTS WILL PUBLISH STANDINGS LATER

Junior and Senior Class Place Many Candidates On Honorary List

The honor rating for the 3rd quarter in both the School of Science and the Commerce and Finance School have been released recently with statements of appreciation from the deans of both schools. Honor Roll ratings were not able to be compiled in the school or Arts and Philosophy, due to a delay in the reception of marks from some of the professors.

In the two schools that released their ratings, it was noticeable that the Freshman class was outstanding. Norman A. Klein led the Business men in the freshman class, while Gus Giordano set the pace for the freshman Sciencemen. Vincent Ciacci and Joseph Licha led for first place in the Sophomore Science class.

The following is the honor roll as released in the respective schools:

School of Science

Freshman—Giordano, Gus; Borkoski, Winslow; Knaphle, Lawrance; Calliet, Rene; Urie, John; Kuber, Martin; Miller, Bernard; Kassel, Martin.

Sophomores—Ciacci, Vincent and Licha, Joseph; Canter, Harold; Stotter, Charles; Fracchia, Alfred; Federowicz, Joseph; Weber, Joseph.

Juniors—Perserchia, Gerald; Santamaria, Louis; Zion, Dave; Noll,

Continued on Page Eight

L. K. D. WINNER NAMED

Wm. J. Miller Wins Prize Having Cash Value of Twenty Dollars

William J. Miller, 2840 N. Garnet St., of Philadelphia, was the winner of the prize money chanced off by the Lambda Kappa Fraternity, of Villanova on last Friday.

Mr. Miller, according to the contract provided by the fraternity, shall have his choice of the twenty dollars in cash or a complete night's attire at the Junior Prom, which includes tux, rental of car, money for corsages and spending money. The chance was sold by Pat McGlaughlin, '39.

ANNUAL JUNIOR WEEK WILL OPEN ON MONDAY

Activities Commence Officially With Holy Sacrifice of Mass; Breakfast, Flag-Raising Ceremony Follow Immediately

JUNIOR PROM MAESTRO

JAN GARBER,
"Idol of the Airlanes," who will bring his nationally famous orchestra here May 8 for the annual Junior Promenade, to be held in the college gymnasium.

GENERAL PUBLIC TO VIEW OPEN HOUSE

Experiments Will Feature Two Expositions From 2 To 9 P. M.

The second annual Open House will be held at Villanova next Monday and Tuesday, May 4 and 5. The public is invited to attend the many interesting lectures and spectacular demonstrations, all of which will be held in Mendel Hall. All reports indicate that this years Open House will be more interesting and furnish more thrills than the previous one.

When interviewed the general chairman of the Open House Committee promised that the Open House this year would be far better than last year's because the students are taking a whole-hearted interest in the program. The professors and the other members of the faculty have been spending a

Continued on Page Eight

Commerce Dean, Moderator, Attend Peace Conference

Frs. Bartley, Lunney Represent School in Washington During Holidays

During the Easter holidays, Rev. Joseph Bartley, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Commerce and Finance, and Rev. William Lunney, O. S. A., Moderate of the International Relations Society, represented Villanova College at the regular annual Peace Conference held at Washington, D. C., by the Catholic Association for International Peace.

Fr. Bartley presided as chairman at one of the morning conferences at which time various speeches and a discussion from the floor comprised the program.

In addition to the aforementioned priests in attendance at the conference were three students of Villanova College, residents of Washington. They were: Joseph and Vincent McHugh, and Gibbons Koib. All three are members of the class of 1939.

OPEN HOUSE SET

Laboratories, Classrooms, Offices Will Be Inspected

Junior Week Committees are eagerly awaiting the opening of their Spring program at Villanova College on Monday, May 4. Enthusiasm about the campus has reached its highest point with the assurance of the most colorful Junior Week in the history of the college.

The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, in the college chapel at 9:00, will open the Junior activities. Following a breakfast in the dining hall the Junior Class will assemble in front of Mendel Hall for the flag-raising ceremonies. This spectacle in which the Junior Class presents the American flag to a member of the faculty is the formal opening of Junior Week.

Monday, Mothers' Day, has been dedicated by the Junior Class to the mothers of all students who have attended Villanova College, as well as to the mothers of the present student body. On this day Villanova will be host to the mothers and will offer a special program and luncheon for her guests.

Monday and Tuesday are Open-House days. The laboratories, class rooms and offices will be open for the inspection of the public. Interesting experiments have been prepared by the students and every available means have been taken to provide a successful program. The VILLANOVAN office, along with the offices of the other organiza-

Continued on Page Three

GUILD CARD PARTY DRAWS HUGE CROWD

Third Annual Social Features Glee Club and Prominent Orchestra

Over twelve hundred people went home last Tuesday night from the Villanova gymnasium after having a very enjoyable evening which marked the success of the third annual card party and dance of the Augustinion Seminary Guild.

The entire main floor of the gymnasium was covered with tables at which the guests could play any game of cards they wished. At the end of a specified time limit, the play ceased and prizes were awarded to the winners at each table. In the billiard room the game of radio attracted many. Along the side of the floor there were several chance wheels which provided a great deal of excitement.

One of the main attractions of the evening was the drawing of the six main prizes. The Philco radio was won by Mrs. J. J. Leonard, Drexel Hill; the electric clock by Mary L. Carney, of Hoosick Falls, N. Y.; the lamp by Miss K. De Ginda, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and the cash prizes of twenty, ten, and

Continued on Page Four

STUDENT'S FATHER DIES

On behalf of the student body the VILLANOVAN extends its condolences to Thomas Cook, student in the School of Arts and Philosophy, on the recent death of his father.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

J. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
CHARLES E. STAHLECKER, '37.....College Editor
NORTON C. PADEN, '37.....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM R. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37...Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassaluzzo, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38.....Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37.....Exchange Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John W. Pillion, '38
James B. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Goiden, '39
James Jofani, '39 — Paul Juergens, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Rene Caillet, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — James Meller, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simons, '38 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Basil Dobrowolski, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — Walter L. Beatty, '39
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Norris Campbell, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39 — Anthony Differ, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Linguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers

Peter J. McManus — Henry C. Guckenberger

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - APRIL 28, 1936

UNJUST WARFARE

ONE wonders how much longer the disgraceful Italo-Ethiopian conflict is going to be permitted to continue. Catholic Italy has shocked the entire civilized world by her insistent refusal to listen to the voice of reason, Church and morality. Only a few weeks ago French Catholic missions in Ethiopa were cruelly and watonly destroyed by Italian bombs. Gas has been employed against the helpless natives. And, cleverly, for the Ethiopian natives wear no shoes, a sort of Greek fire has been revived.

There is little doubt but that the war, on the part of Italy, is unjust. Pronouncements of the Roman See have given us principles to judge this conflict, and the judgment is almost entirely in favor of the Ethiopians.

There are many who argue that the Ethiopians are savage people, and therefore Italy must employ savage means. If a man spits in the face of another man, it is no excuse for the second man to repeat the act.

And there are many who argue that Italy must expand. Yes, Italy must expand, but let it be done legitimately. Let Italy petition the League of Nations, or let Italy consult the Papacy. The Ethiopian move is a direct steal that violates all Christian principles: ethical and moral.

Holy Father St. Augustine has written: "A passion for inflicting harm, the cruel thirst for vengeance. . . the lust of power, all these are rightly condemed in war."

Do these qualities not reside in the person of Signor Mussolini, leader of the Italian War Machine?

The Italian War would appear to be an unjust, aggressive war. One wonders what has happened to the consciences of the Catholics who live in Italy—a country that is 90 per cent Roman Catholic. Their cynical disregard of the moral principles of Holy Mother Church as developed by St. Augustine and St. Thomas Aquinas does not speak well for their adherence to the persuasion of the Roman Pontiff.

WHAT OF RUSSIA?

MUCH alarm is evidenced by the rest of the world at the atheistic leaning which has seized the Russian government. Continuing on its implacable plan to abolish religion in the Soviet Union the Communistic regime has all but exterminated christianity in his age-old country.

But although religion is dying it cannot be said to be dead. On Easter Sunday of the 454 Orthodox churches in Russia, 28 were open, and all were well attended. Neverless the drop in attendance was very pronounced, the crowds being smaller than in the corresponding period in 1935.

In the short space of one year, nine churches have been pulled down by the government. Not more than 40 Catholic churches are to be found in all Russia.

The cathedral in Moscow has been given to a group favorable to the government. Probably the same is true of many of the other Orthodox churches which have been saved from destruction.

It seems undeniable that religion is as strong among the other people as it was before the government began to attack religion. It may be even stronger, for persecution invariably makes converts of many who have neglected religion and strengthens religion in the hearts of the majority who have always cherished it.

Nevertheless in the atheistic schools all the children of Russia are being inculcated with pagan ideals. This perhaps is the most ominous sign of all.

We perhaps may remember the recent words of one who addressed the student body here, and put into practice his Words: "Saviour of the World, save Russia."

THE HESITANT LEAGUE

WHILE Mussolini continues unhampered the merciless slaughter of thousands of Ethiopians, in order to rob them of their natural and moral rights to the undisturbed pursuance of their livelihood, the League of Nations attempts to quiet Selassie's cries for justice by threatening Italy with the displeasure of the League and the rigid enforcement of certain rather ominous sanctions which it has neither the courage nor honesty to inaugurate. The members of the League in refusing to participate in the restriction of Italian depredations are not only making a mockery of the principles of their concordat, but likewise tacitly endorsing the rape of Ethiopia. For Mussolini's warfare is little less than this.

The League of Nations was an excellent instrument, honourably conceived for the furtherance of international amity, but in the hands of the fanatically nationalistic European statesmen, it has degenerated into a round table conference in which more bargains are sealed under the table than sincerity is spoken across it. The ratification of treaties and countertreaties has so joined and antagonized the several members that no-one, with the exception of Britain, is willing to take a definite stand in the matter now before them.

The pusillanimity of the League in failing to take a definite stand on the Italo-Ethiopian question has all but completely disrupted its future utility as an instrument for the preservation of peace. Which, feeble as it is, seems to be the only organization, that offers the remotest possibility of keeping the nations of Europe from flying at one and others throat.

A SATIRIST PASSES

FINLEY PETER DUNNE is dead. The man who made millions laugh with his lovable and philosophical "Mr. Dooley" will write no more.

The nation-wide audience of "Mr. Dooley" was garnered during the Spanish-American War. The conditions at home called for the skillful expression of the masterful touch of the satirist. On the whole his writings were real humor, substantially good natured.

It is the loss of such men who have made thousands joyful that makes this world just a little harder to live in.

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

HELLO readers:

Ah, yes, a new face is at the top of this famous column, and we suppose that many of you are already apprehensive as to how it will turn out this coming year. Let not your worst fears be rounded for your new gpest shall do his best to follow exactly the excellent style of his predecessor, the present Editor Ben Maloney. To try to improve upon his literary fashion would be folly and the best we can do is to try to fill his shoes successfully.

• • •

Now and then, in order to keep our readers awake, we shall insert in this pillar certain interesting anecdotes of unusual campus happenings. However, let there be an understanding that all things appearing here will be meant in a spirit of good will, and it is hoped that they will be accepted in the same light.

Most things that would be embarrassing to any student will be promptly forgotten and will not find their way into the lines of this space. However, such interesting things as the utter demolition of a chandelier in the home of a friend or the complete ruination of one's Sunday suit by a spill in the mud cannot be forgiven and will often find their way here.

• • •

Big Emil Mathias, jovial, ever industrious member of the Junior mechanical engineers is in a quandry; the tall engineer paused in his duties long enough to tell us that he was the victim of spring fever and had no time to enjoy the malady. This is an unfortunate circumstance indeed, and we sympathize with you.

• • •

Harry Stuhldreher has left us. Gone to Wisconsin to take over his new coaching duties, our former coach has left a vacancy that will be hard to fill. His dynamic personality and his fiery, Notre-Dame born spirit will be sorely missed on our campus. Honored by student and respected by the faculty "Stuhly" brought Villanova's football squads to the foremost ranks of the nation. During his stay with us, his undying loyalty to Villanova, so well expressed by his spirited pep talks, was a feature of the campus. A daily Communicant and an excellent example of manhood such as Harry Stuhldreher will be a success wherever he goes. Villanova hates to see you go and your absence will be sorely felt, but our best wishes go with you to the West.

On Wisconsin.

• • •

Those of you who have read this far need not read this paragraph. It is dedicated towards those who never bother reading this far into any article or feature of the VILLANOVAN no matter what the subject may be. These same students are the first to criticise the paper, and the last to offer any kind of physical or moral support. It is they who fail to realize that the eight page newspaper published here is THEIR paper and that the editors and staff writers, not to mention photographers, copy writers and the like are all THEIR companions. The VILLANOVAN welcomes constructive criticism, if it is made to those who have the power to rectify mistakes or consider suggestions. Remember that the VILLANOVAN is your paper and your support is needed for its continued success.

• • •

Several weeks ago the intramural baseball season was to open with a Sunday morning game between Fedigan and Austin. The weather, according to the contestants, was far too cold to venture out into the morning air. Hence, here was no game and the various contestants settled down in their warm rooms to consider the adventures of Popeye and Joe Palooka. Suddenly the scream of a fire siren rent the still air, and a clanging fire engine roared past Fedigan Hall and turned down the Hillidale road.

Soon the hall was quickly emptied and everyone was soon speeding in the wake of the engines.

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti

MAY I, in this, the first paragraph of my first column, pay tribute to my predecessor, Carmen Giordano. With his graduation, the VILLANOVAN loses a fine writer and a swell friend. Here's hoping I can follow the splendid example set by him, and am able to please you in the future as he has done in the past. Here goes.

• • •

One College paper has made the following suggestions for theme songs:

"A Little Bit Independent,"—for the Philippine Republic.

"The Broken Record,"—for Joe Louis.

"I'm Living in a Great Big Way,"—for Kate Smith.

"Chasing Shadows,"—for the Italian soldiers on the Ethiopian front.

• • •

And the following drama for examinations:

"I Wish I Were Aladdin."
During the exam—
"Where Am I?"
After the exam—
"Out in the Cold Again."

• • •

I wish I were a kangaroo,
Despite his pouch and stances,
Then I'd have room for all the stuff
My girl brings to the dances.

• • •

These are some excuses offered by Brooklyn College students for failing examinations:

Chem. students: "The elements were against us."

Pre-med. students: "I hate the sight of blood."

Zoology students: "Some students visit the Zoo for research purposes; but I thought visiting the profs was just as good."

Art student: "My model was restless."

Economic student: "I couldn't budget my time."

• • •

Senior: "I saw you going by the Prefect of Discipline's office yesterday."
Junior: "Going by?"
Senior: "Yes."
Junior: "Then it wasn't me."

• • •

Now that spring is approaching we give fair warning with advice of "The De Paulia:"

"Love is like an onion
You taste it with delight,
But in a while you wonder
Whatever made you bite!"

• • •

When asked the other day by an English prof, what the word matrimony meant, one of those supersmart students replied that he heard it wasn't a word but a sentence.

• • •

Weekly definitions taken from one of the college papers of the Middle West:

A door knob is a thing a revolving door goes around without.

Cream is something which dry cereal doesn't taste so good without it, unless you use but you haven't any.

• • •

Here's comforting news for those in the back rows of any classroom:

A New York professor asserts that the student who relaxes and rests during the lectures retains the greatest amount of information. That makes me an encyclopedia.

• • •

A freshman out at the University of California filled out the "Church preference" on his registration blank as "Red Brick."

• • •

During the World War the Germans named their ships after jokes—so the English wouldn't see them.

• • •

At Purdue University, the Junior Prom is strictly a junior-senior affair. Strict rules are enforced in the issuance of permits to purchase tickets, a photograph is taken, and then attached to the ticket.

• • •

According to the Montana Kaimin left-handed ping-pong has been instituted at the University of Minnesota to cure students who stammer.

As We See It . . . . . The Theatre

By HARRY PARKIN

PeriodicallY we are told, and this, usually about the time the industry releases a picture worthy of attention, that the motion picture is gradually supplanting the stage in the affections of the public. This seems to be evidenced by the general air of improvement that has come upon the industry with the development of sound pictures.

The performers, being no longer required to pantomime their passions with the ugsightly grimaces and postures of the past may now express their counterfeited madness through the medium of words ,and what is more important, supplement their speeches with the gestures of natural characterization. Despite, however, the engineering improvement, and its consequent effect upon expression, there seems little likelihood of such a transposition so long as the motion picture continues its emotional, rather than the intellectual appeal.

The topics they concern themselves with are, for the most part, of so trifling a nature that they are forgotten as soon as we leave the place of their exhibition. In witnessing them one rarely feels the whole outpouring of his nature, where mind and matter weep as one.

But the play, on the contrary, tends to refine and equalize the feelings of everyone by giving them ideas and topics for conversation that are common to all men. Where the former is contented with our mere presence ,the latter demands not only attention, but a certain mental agility in interpreting the author's message from the thoughts and actions of his characters. It stimulates us to self consideration by showing us what we do, what we say, and what we think. Our faults and virtues are denied the protecting mask of self-indulgence and egotism. The stage is a perfect likeness of ourselves embellished and amplified by the penetration of the writer, and made recognizable by the words of the players.

Personally, we are of the opinion, that the majority of the motion pictures are not worth the time that attendance requires of us. Primarily, this feeling may be ascribed to the weakness, and general lack of interest in the plots of their scenarios, and the consequent attempt to supplement the deficiency by the elaboration of the inconsequential details of the story, such as the setting, the scenery, and the mechanized features of the story. Forgetting, no doubt, that even the solemn grandeur of wealth and position can become excessively monotonous. In lieu of improvement in this request, for there are innumerable stories yet untouched, there is the disposition to stress the character and abilities of the person playing the title role.

This exploitation of names, has caused the persons bearing them, to cultivate a type of acting that will identify them in the public mind. So that the public becomes familiar with the mannerisms or affectations peculiar to each: The result of such individualizing tendencies is, obviously, disastrous to any role they attempt to play. Instead of being the "motley representatives of human nature," clothed in the rainment of ither men's lives, and gesturing their words with borrowed passion, we find them lightly feigning the laughter and tears of the directors script, lest they submerge their own character in the one they are portraying. So that the eccentricities of the featured player are inseparable from those of his parts. Not for a moment is the audience permitted to see their favorites in any role but their own.

They who are nothing in themselves, are never "beside themselves." The ego is more important than the role. It is natural, therefore, that the continuation of such a policy, necessarily limits the possibility of very many really artistic productions — true counterfeits of nature—ever coming from Hollywood. Although this judgment is more general than specific or absolute, it is worth noticing that it seems less applicable in those instances where actors taken from the stage are used in pictures.

Pass In Review

By R. L. G. DEVERALL

RELIGION AND THE MODERN STATE, by Christopher Dawson. Sheed and Ward, New York. $2.00.

LIVING here in the beautiful seclusion of Villanova, a treasure house of natural beauty, it is difficult to realize that our civilization faces a crisis graver even than the crisis of the 8th century, when the Saracens threatened to reduce Europe to their vicious sterainty. In this time of crisis man is prone to foresake the usual machinery of democratic government for a new expedient: Dictatorship. We all remember what happened to Rome after Diocletian and Valerius dealt with the crisis of the 3rd century, and it is no wonder that Mr. Dawson, the greatest lay champion of Catholocism today, examines this new move with grave apprehension.

Capitalist society has lost most of its hitherto accepted prestige. The war strained the economic system of the Capitalist State, and it snapped under the burden. People lost faith in the orthodox economic system, and they turned to new ideas: Bolshevism, Communism and Fascism.

This problem is not a problem for Europe alone. No! it is something we must think about here in the United States.

"Our own institutions," writes Mr. Dawson, "are at stake, and it is possible that we may eventually find ourselves faced with the same crisis that have led to the rise of dictatorship and political absolutism in Central and Eastern Europe."

The New Deal is compared with Hitler's Reich and Mussolini's Empire; Dawson indicates that the rule of Roosevelt has been one of constitutional dictatorship—lacking the castor oil and emotional insanity of Germany and Italy. Should this rule continue, the time is near when freedom of speech shall pass; the time is at hand for a governmental regimentation of capitalists and proletarians.

The chief weakness of the American system is the two-party system. Individual personality is sacrificed to machine politics and megatherian bureaucracy. But man is a rational, political animal. He resents regimentation of any kind, be it spiritual or physical. Fascism exalts the personality and because of this the danger of an American Fascistic movement is real.

The place of religion in the new absolutist State is one that does not augur well for the future. Hitler and Stalin have declared open, unconditional war on Holy Mother Church. Mussolini has often stated that religion is part of the State; he does not recognize the superiority of Church over State—an issue long ago decided by Pope Boniface VIII in the famous bull: Unam Sanctum. And this, of course, is an awful heresy.

The State exists for man; and man exists, not for the State, but for God. - As St. Thomas tells us, "Man's last end is the uncreated good, namely God." (Summa Theologica, ii, i q. 3.) Any social system that destroys, or seeks to destroy, this end, is immoral and an anathema to Catholics.

The Capitalist State is doomed, for "it fails to satisfy the deepest need of the human spirit." We either must seek out Communism, which is merely a more perfect form of capitalism (SIC), or we must seek out a catholic Christian economic order that guarantees to man the full development of his soul, mind and body. That is a problem for the present generation: Catholicism of Communism. Capitalism is definitely "out of the race."

The great issue of the day is not one between rival economic systems. Rather is it a conflict between spiritual forces. "It is the choice between the merchandized order of the Absolutist State . . . and a return to spiritual order based on a re-assertion of the Christian elements in Western Culture."

We earnestly entreat all Villanova men to read this monumental historical enquiry. It is a short book, but it has in it the power to awaken the intellect and the imagination.

FEATURED VOCALIST

LEE BENNETT,
who is widely popular for his novel renditions of the nation's foremost songhits. Lee's everpleasing style will be heard May 8 at the Junior Promenade, when he will make an appearance here with Jan Garber's Orchestra.

Junior Week To Open on Monday

Continued From Page One

tions will also welcome the Open-House visitors.

Marking the mid-way in the series of Junior Week socials will be the annual Blazer Ball in the college gymnasium. The ball is given annually to celebrate the inception of the class blazers. The blue and white Blazers, together with the unique Spring design of the feminine attire, will blend with the decorated gymnasium presenting a color scheme long to be remembered.

The Junior Promenade on Friday will be the most outstanding affair of the week. Jan Garber, the Idol of the Airlanes and his orchestra, aided by a group of popular vocalists will provide musical entertainment for the glamorous affair. A record crowd is predicted by John F. Chapple and Aloysius Fitzpatrick, co-chairmen of the Prom who are encouraged by the cooperation being given them by Junior Class members.

Bringing that eventful week to a grand climax on Saturday evening will be the annual Junior Dinner-Dance at the Adelphia Hotel. Music will be furnished by the Seville Club Orchestra, popular local band. This social will be the last affair to be attended by the Junior Class as a body until the next scholastic year. The Dinner-Dance Committee, under Chairman John McLaughlin, made provisions for a socially successful evening, and promises a memorable occasion for all class members.

Raymond A. Murphy, Chairman of the Blazer Committee, has announced that the Junior Blazers will be available before the beginning of Junior Week on Monday. Approximately 100 Juniors have expressed intentions for securing the traditional blue and white Blazers. Two types of Blazer have been offered by Simpson and Company, each type modernly designed in the latest sports style.

Most popular among the Juniors is the white Blazer which is trimmed with a deep blue binding, fitted with blue buttons on front and sleeves, and the customary blue and white Villanova seal. The other type is similarly designed, having white trimmings on a blue background. It is these blazers that add to the gayness of the colorful Junior Week, lauding the college colors with their fastidious designs. The Blazers will be worn during Junior Week and at the Blazer Ball. It is the desire of every student who enters Villanova to secure one of these Blue and White Blazers as a mark of his scholastic achievements.

It has also been announced that the Junior Assessments are due before May 1. Compliance with this request is asked by Junior Class officials, who remind the class members that eligibility for attendance at the Dinner-Dance is dependent on the payment of this fee.

COUNCIL TO MEET

On Friday, May 1, Very Rev. Edward C. Stanford, O. S. A., will attend the regular meeting of the American Council of Education in Washington, D. C.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

FOF the second successive year the running of America's greatest turf classic, the Kentucky Derby, will be described exclusively over a nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

This year the historic race will take place on Saturday, May 2, and the eye-witness account of the event will be sponsored by the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation, makers of Kool and Wings cigarettes, and Sir Walter Raleigh smoking tobacco. CBS engineers will install an elaborate multiple microphone system at Churchill Downs in order to give listeners every colorful feature of the race itself and the many interesting sidelights attending it. Four microphones, manned by announcers and turf experts and placed at strategic points, will be used in painting a 45-minute word picture for the radio audience. The crew of CBS announcers and assisting racing experts will be announced later.

• • •

VACATIONS ON AND OFF

"The March of Time," cast on the brink of All Fools' Day sighed contentedly and ended the season's series after 150 exhausting performances—five a week for thirty weeks —since August 26, 1935. Anticipating vacations, exuberant members of the cast merrily discarded their scripts at the close of the final program and made off in various pleasure-bent directions with a heigh and a ho and a hey nonny o. Westbrook van Voorhis, narrator, and Jack Smart, actor, sped by plane next morning to Nassau. Others vanished in similar fashion. Next day, like a bolt from the blue, came the news there was a new sponsor and the series would continue without interruption. One by one the cast was routed out of hiding, out of bed, out of rolling fields bright with the green of a new spring. And out of the clear sky over the Atlantic "March of Time" directors were watching for a returning plane to appear.

PHIL REGAN is back on CBS as a star of Ken Murray's new series. Was born in Brooklyn in 1909. Sang in the choir at St. Patrick's Church. Achieved childhood ambition to become a policeman. Was a member of the New York City detective force for a year and a half. Broke into show business via radio after singing impromptu at a party. Got his first radio opportunity through Abe Lyman. Won a contract with Burns and Allen. Scored with movie scouts who signed him to a two-year contract. Latest flicker effort, "Smiling Irish Eyes," describes him. Encourages criticism and has fan clubs all over the globe. Is a staunch admirer of New York's former Mayor, James J. Walker. Signed his new radio contract on Friday the 13th Says any day a contract comes along to sign is a lucky day. Admits he is extremely nervous before each broadcast. Has two dogs, presented to him by George Brent and Bill Cagney. East anything he pleases and likes most sports. Is unmarried, but admits he'd like to be.

• • •

According to word from Frankfort, Kentucky, Hal Kemp is no longer a Kentucky Colonel. But that won't prevent Phil Baker from calling Hal "Cunnel' Kemp during their "Great American Tourist" program. Baker claims that he really means "Kernel" Kemp, because they're all "Nuts" anyhow.

Freddie Rich, dean of CBS maestros, and his popular orchestra have been signed for the new series of "Your Hit Parade" programs to be presented over the nation-wide Columbia network each Saturday, from 10:00 to 11:00 P. M., E. D. S. T., beginning May 2.

GERALD PISERCHIA CHOSEN PRESIDENT

L. K. D. Fraternity Elects Prominent Junior To Post

Political furore ran high in the thrilling Presidential Contest conducted by the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity on Friday, April 24 as Gerald Pischercia defeated Mario Troncelliti by one vote. Both candidates were tied until the last three ballots were counted, whereby Pischercia took two votes and the Presidency. Previously at the Thursday afternoon meeting, Pischercia had defeated Troncelliti in an equally close contest, but due to obvious discrepancies and in order to be fair to all sides, the voting was postponed until Friday.

In the minor campaign of the day, Louis Santa Maria, John Donovan and Joseph Tanzola were candidates for the office of Sergeant-at-arms. Santa Maria was elected for the post of keeping the future meetings in order. Heavy voting was experienced throughout in both contests, no member of the fraternity being able to recall any as close in past years. At prior meetings Joseph Toland, James Keegan, Rene Caillet, Pio Goggi were elected to the offices of Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and Student Council representative, respectively.

The traditional Lambda Kappa Delta Dinner-Dance that climaxes the season's affairs for the fraternity, took place last Saturday night at the distinctive Hotel Sylvania. In the absence of Rev. Joseph Dougherty, O. S. A., Dean of the Science School, who was in Binghamton, N. Y., Rev. Francis X. Coan, O. S. A., presented fraternity pins to ten graduates.

Charles Miller, Frank Schaffer, Albert Welsh, William Keffer, Robert Immordino, William Christinan, Joseph Bigley, Anthony Zanni, Peter Faso, Robert Fitzgerald, who were members of the fraternity throughout their entire four years at Villanova. Fr. Coan, in his short and very enjoyable speech,expressed the necessity of "dead wood" being kept out of the fraternity as it was reorganized for its distinctiveness.

TECHNOLOGY GROUP VISITS LAFAYETTE

Easton College Scene of Conference; Malcolm Delivers Paper

Villanova's undergraduate chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers made its outstanding trip of the year on Monday April 20, to Lafayette College in Easton to attend the Fourth Annual Eastern Student Conference.

Under the supervision of Professor J. Stanley Morehouse, chapter moderator, the chapter left Villanova early Monday in order to register at Lafayette on that morning. Lasting two days, the conference accomplished its main purpose, in bringing together comparatively near-by colleges for general discussions, inspection tours, and social purposes.

The eleven members of Villanova's chapter who attended the conference visited the Ingersoll-Rand Company, Phillipsburg, N. J., on Monday morning. The other inspection tour they made was to the Bethlehem Steel Company on Tuesday afternoon. In both plants, the members were privileged to witness special processes and exhibits displayed by the plants especially for the students. In the former plant, the A. S. M. E. members witnessed the operation of testing pumps and the construction of pumps. In the main building of the Ingersoll-Rand plant, a special demonstration on the testing of a Diesel engine and the operation of pneumatic drills was given. On the Tuesday afternoon tour, the chapter saw the very interesting process of tapping the blast furnace and the open hearth furnace. Besides viewing these processes in practice, the eleven students also saw the pouring of ingot molds and the rolling process.

On both Monday and Tuesday, technical sessions were held in Lafayette College's Pardee Hall auditorium. A total of fourteen papers were presented by the students of th attending colleges and universities. First prize for the best paper was awarded to Marshall H. Dean of Princeton University for his paper entitled "The Heat Pump." Second prize was awarded to C. Gilbert Blatchley, of Drex-

Continued on Page Four

CERTIFICATES FOR MERIT WILL BE DISTRIBUTED SOON

Honors for Extra Curricular Activities Depend Upon Scholastic Standing

MODERATORS SCAN LISTS

Faculty Moderators are at present determining the list of students who will receive the College "Merit Award" of 1935-36. This award is extended to students enjoying good scholastic standing and who have distinguished themselves in extra-curricula activities during the present school term.

This honor is available to all classes and is awarded on basis of participation in any activities outside of direct class work. These activities are inclusive of sports; varsity, freshman, and intra-mural; fraternities, publications, and musical organizations. Over forty-five possible activities are considered in the issuing of these merit awards and each receives full recognition.

The final acknowledgement of these awards is contracted by Very Reverend Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., the class moderator of the individual, the chairman of the student council, and the president of the senior class. The Faculty Moderators who compile the list of individuals are Rev. B. M. Albers, Rev. Charles Brown, Rev. Joseph Dougherty, Rev. Daniel Falvey, Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, Rev. Francis Ludwig, Rev. William Tunney, Rev. Charles Melchior, Rev. Edward McKee, Rev. John Vrana, and the professors Bueche, Anthony Frayne, Joseph Houseman, Stanley Morehouse, McCormick and Martin Gill.

The number of awards conferred last year were divided in the different schools, thus: In the Arts School 35 received the awards, in the School of Engineers 40, in the School of Science, 36, in the School of Commerce and Finance, 35. Eighty-four students received one award, thirty-three, two awards; twenty, three awards; seven, four awards and two, five awards. Those receiving five awards were Walter Coyle, class of '35 and George Malhame, class of '35.

SUMMER SCHOOL ROSTER RELEASED

Classes Will Be Held at College and Hallahan High

Dates for registration and opening of the Villanova College Summer School have recently been announced by Rev. Joseph C. Bartley. O. S. A., dean of the summer sessions.

Summer School sessions will be held here on the campus, at Hallahan Girls' Catholic High School at 19th and Wood Sts., in Philadelphia, and in the various religious houses of orders registered with the college.

Thursday, June 25, has been set for the day of registration at Hallahan Catholic High School, while Friday and Saturday, June 26 and 27, is the time arranged for students to register at Villanova. Classes begin at both places after the celebration of Mass in the college chapel on Monday, June 29. These classes will continue for five days a week over a period of six weeks at Villanova, and for six days a week for five weeks at Hallahan.

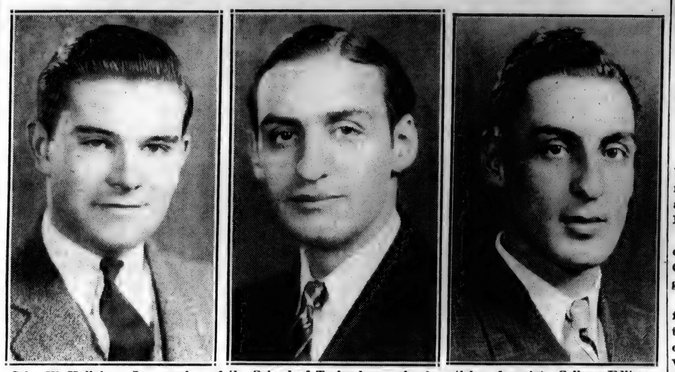
Examinations for students in the Hallahan Extension School will be held July 31 and August 1, while those at Villanova will be held August 6th, 7th, 8th.

Members of religious communities will be housed in Fedigan, Alumni and Austin halls. Women students will be able to find room and board in nearby homes, while men will room in Mendel Hall.

Extensive courses in Science, Philosophy, Business and Education will be given to undergraduates, while graduate courses are available in all of these departments for those desirous of obtaining advanced degrees.

Information may be obtained by writing to the Bursar, Villanova College.

COMPLETE FOUR YEARS OF SERVICE ON VILLANOVAN STAFF



John W. Hallahan, Jr., member of the School of Technology, who is retiring Associate College Editor; Carmen Giordano, School of Arts and Philosophy, retiring Exchange Editor, and Anthony R. Catrambone, also of the School of Arts and Philosophy, retiring Sports Editor. All three are seniors and have served faithfully for four years in the publication of the VILLANOVAN.

LAURENCE SHEVLAND ATTENDS GATHERING

Delivers Paper on Concrete Columns; Narrowly Misses Prize Award

On Monday, April 20, the Student Branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers attended the Second Annual Convention of the Philadelphia Section of the A. S. C. E. The Convention, held at Pennsylvania Military College was begun at 9:30 A. M. with the registration of the students.

The meeting was called to order at 10:15 by Edward Fay, president of the P. M. C. chapter. After welcoming addresses, delivered by Colonel Frank K. Hyatt, president of P. M. C., and Major Allen P. Richmond, of the senior chapter, technical papers were presented by students of the attending colleges. To heighten interest in these discussions, a first prize was offered for the best received paper. R. A. Haber, University of Delaware, was awarded first prize, a close selection over Laurence F. Shevland, whose paper, "New Developments in Concrete Columns," made a great impression on the audience.

Among the attending colleges and universities were the following: Bucknell, Delaware, Drexel, Lafayette, Pennsylvania State, P. M. C., University of Pennsylvania, Swarthmore, and Villanova.

Communism Talk Given By Priest

Continued From Page One

they were able to wage a successful revolution, thus setting aside the new Republican government and setting up in its place the Communistic regime.

"The tenets of this government were that all the people were now absolutely equal and that no one could own any private property. College presidents became janitors and janitors became college presidents. The whole order of the land was overturned. One of the results," continued Fr. Koncius, "was that people starved for the want of food. Exchange of necessary living commodities was forbidden by the government and the people were forced to barter secretly for the essentials of life because the government was unable to provide for them. Finally in 1921 the government modified the program, allowing the people to own up to $500 in property, and to exchange goods.

"Propaganda may lead us to believe that today Russia is now enjoying a time of prosperity. In consideration with the very wretched days during the post war period, this may be true. But in comparison with other countries, Russia is very, very far from prosperity."

Turning to the religious side of the country, Fr. Koncius told how the government almost immediately after its accession to power separated the Schismatic Church from State, and confiscated property. Although 100 millions of people belong to this church, it collapsed immediately. In place of it, new Soviet churches were established.

"The Roman Catholic Church in Russia which boasted of only two million members gave the government more trouble than all the other religions combined. When their churches were taken away, the people held their meetings secretly," Fr. Koncius went on to say. "Then the government took away their chalices under the guise of using them to buy food for the poor, but in reality they used them for propaganda purposes. The Holy Father even offered to pay in gold for these chalices, but the government never accepted the offer. In 1923 the clergymen were put in prison and not a few were executed. The only reason offered was that they were not in agreement with the government.

"Today it is estimated that about twenty priests minister to the spiritual needs of the Roman Catholics. It is hoped that changes may come, but for the present we can only follow the example of our Holy Father, by praying frequently for the salvation of Russia," concluded Fr. Koncius.

Guild Card Party Draws Huge Crowd

Continued From Page One

five dollars by B. Dessol of Pittston, Pa.; M. Aldworth, of Wilmington, Del.; and Mary McEldren, of Chestnut Hill. The huge cake which was raffled off was won by Miss Mary Carson, who graciously gave it to the seminary.

At ten o'clock when the playing was stopped, the floor was cleared for dancing to the engaging tunes of the Talley-Phillips orchestra. At ten-thirty the Villanova Glee Club, whose members were ushers for the occasion, came forth and rendered several selections, including a tenor solo by John Chapple. This event was not fully appreciated since the acoustics were quite harmful to the singing.

Much credit is due to the numerous groups who co-ordinated so successfully to make the party the huge success it was. Many Guild members, students and priests gave unsparingly of their time to assist in this noble cause. Thanks is also due to those who donated prizes and especially to the nuns who gave some exquisite pieces of handiwork.

Retiring Staff Attends Dinner

Continued From Page One

coming editors. He thanked the staff members for the co-operation he received from them. Mr. DiJoseph was presented with a combination cigarette case and lighter by Mr. Maloney, on behalf of the entire staff.

In addition to Mr. DiJoseph, other members receiving keys included Anthony Catrambone, John Hallahan and Carman Giordano.

John W. Hallahan, chairman of the dance, presided as toastmaster for the evening.

EDUCATORS CONVENE

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, and Rev. Joseph Bartley, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Commerce and Finance, were in attendance at a meeting of the Catholic Educational Association of Pennsylvania held at Scranton on last Friday.

Technology Group Visits Lafayette

Continued From Page Three

el, for his paper on "The Slag-Tap Furnace.' A. T. Curran, Lehigh University, was awarded third prize, and Paul R. Trumpler, of Lafayette, was given honorable mention. Joseph Malcolm represented Villanova in presentation of papers and delivered a well-received paper on the "Case Hardening of Low Carbon Steels."

Many notable speakers addressed the Conference, including Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College, who suggested that a graduate with a B. S. degree should spend six months in Europe for a completion of his cultural training; Dr. Francis C. Frary, director of research, Aluminum Company of America, who included in his talk a sketch of the difficulties encountered by Hall in his original aluminum process, and how modern research is carried on; Professor F. V. Larkin of Lehigh University was a third speaker; and, finally, Mr. Alfred Iddles.

A total of 210 students, representing 18 colleges and universities, attended the conference. The colleges and universities represented at the conference were: Brooklyn Polytechnic Inst., Cooper Union, Drexel Inst., Lafayette, Lehigh, Newark Engineering Col., C. C. N. Y. New York University and Evening Division, Pennsylvania, Pratt Inst., Princeton, Rutgers, Stevens Inst. of Tech. Swarthmore and Villanova.

Ship
Home by

and save

Loose Change

Railway Express can handle laundry packages for you very easily and economically. Simply notify the folks that you are shipping your laundry by Railway Express and ask them to return it the same way. If you wish, you can ship "collect." It saves time and detail, and loose change.

Railway Express is fast and dependable and can be relied upon to get your laundry back as fresh and in as good condition as when it left home. So think the idea over and telephone Railway Express. Our motor truck will pick up the package at your door at no extra charge.

For service or information telephone

Bryn Mawr 2505

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

SUPREME COURT IS TOPIC OF DEBATE

Undefeated Frosh Forensic Group Meets Georgian Court at Lakewood

Last Thursday the Freshman debating team, undefeated to date, met the Georgian Court team in a debate held at that college, in Lakewood, New Jersey.

The question concerned the much discussed power of the Supreme Court in passing upon acts of Congress.

Urging that this right be taken from the Court, the affirmative team of Georgian Court, composed of the Misses Julia Carr, Margaret Vorbach and Margaret Fleming, was very effective, showing evidence of extensive research and preparation.

Miss Julia Carr, in the rebuttal, was so efficient that members of the negative team almost suspected her of having had a review of their speeches.

The negative team, unholding the present Court set-up, was composed of Pershing Calabro, Fred Waters and Hugh Ferguson.

The debate was delivered before the entire assembled student body. There was no decision.

After the affair was over, the Villanova team was conducted around the campus. They were shown the beautiful sunken gardens, the costly fountains, the old Gould Mansion, with its golden staircase, its gold piano and famous paintings.

In the evening the team was entertained with a very interesting dinner. The girls sang several Villanova songs, along with a few cheers.

Before leaving, the students thanked the Sisters and the girls for the delightful time they had had, and extended an invitation for a return debate sometime in the near future.

Sportorial

By Nort Paden Sports Editor

IN my first column as Sports Editor, I want to pay special tribute to the retiring editor, Anthony R. Catrambone. A good fellow and a swell boss, he will be missed by the members of this staff. Many thanks "Tony" for all the help given me this year and lots of luck. Although Ronald was not a slave driver, he worked miracles with the material he had on hand and his ultimate aim was to surpass the preceding issue.

—V—

It seems that the main topic of conversation on the campus now is Harry Stuhldreher's transfer to the University of Wisconsin. The diminutive coach of the Wildcat grid squad has done a great job during his stay at Villanova and we are sorry to see him go. Though small in stature Coach Stuhldreher assumes gigantic proportions in ambition and in determination. On behalf of the Sports Staff and myself, I offer congratulations and wish him the best of luck in his new position.

—V—

The cinder path girdling the football field at the stadium is getting its face lifted. Under the capable instruction of George Barr, a crew of workers, among them the familiar faces of the varsity basketball team, are sifting the cinders and removing the bric-a-brac that has adorned the track for so long. The new path of the speedsters will be a welcome change from the cobblestoned highway that for so long has been the "boogy" of the fleet footed members of the team.

—V—

The smiling visage of Charlie Hurlburt, former football luminary and center fielder for the 'Cats has been noted at many of the baseball practices lately. After completing a course in physical instruction at West Chester Teachers, his appearance on the home grounds causes comment. Can it be that Charlie is about to hit the Alma Mater for a job.

—V—

According to official reports emanating from the athletic offices Villanova is to have a soccer team. The booters will be under the capable coaching of Ray Gadsby. Ray, who by his untiring efforts created a formidable boxing squad out of nothing this year, will find his work cut out for him. Gadsby has had ample experience in this field as he was associated with the German Americans, who won the American League soccer championship, and he was trainer of the U. S. International Soccer Team. Spring practice for this sport started yesterday.

—V—

The boys who chase the elusive horsehide down behind the stadium are proverbial iron men. This fact of their ruggedness can easily be discerned by the number of bats that are broken daily in practice. While your columnist watched Doc's boys cavort last Thursday the splitting of the timbers drowned out the perpetual chatter that is the badge of a team on their toes. At least four were hopelessly ruined during a short space of time.

—V—

"Jumbo Jim" Elliott, former Villanova middle distance man and track captain has taken over the job of building a representative track team. Jim is determined to make a team that will add a little more to the reputation that Villanova already has in the field of sports. Every afternoon Jim may be found handing out constructive advice down at the stadium.

—V—

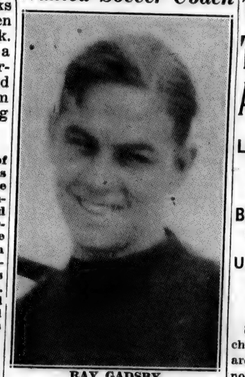
This week will find the inauguration of soft ball on our campus. The first game will be played tonight and dorm teams will compete in a twilight league. The games will be played every evening, weather permitting, immediately after chapel. This sport is an annual favorite at Villanova and competition runs high.

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, April 28, 1936 Page Five

TOSSERS TAKE FIFTH IN ROW

Named Soccer Coach



RAY GADSBY

GADSBY APPOINTED SOCCER COACH HERE

Former Member of U. S. Olympic Boxing Team Also Selected Football Trainer

Ray Gadsby, who coached the boxing team of Villanova to a very successful season, has been selected as the coach of the soccer team. This announcement was made recently by the authorities of the college.

In 1928, Ray was a member of the U. S. Olympic Boxing Team, and later fulfilled the position of assistant trainer of the German Americans, an outstanding soccer team and the American League Soccer Champions. During the Spring of 1934, Ray was selected as the trainer of the U. S. International Soccer team which competed in the World Champion tilts held in Rome, Italy. The team achieved the finest record of any team representing this country on foreign soil.

Spring practice is to start Monday, April 27, in order that the new coach may organize a team and develop the material on hand. Ray shall also be the trainer of the football team next Fall.

Although practice will begin this Spring there will be no soccer matches until the Fall. Ray will spend the remaining few weeks solely on organization and development. Even in the Fall, however, there will be no intercollegiate meets.

Soccer matches at Villanova next Fall will be strictly intramural. Two teams will be organized from the candidates and a series of games will be played. At the close of next season, there will be games scheduled with other colleges for the 1937 season. The calibre of teams to be scheduled will be entirely dependent upon the showing made by the two teams which are to be organized here. Incidently, these two teams will be called after the colors of the school. One will

Continued on Page Seven

SPORTS STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Sports Staff, Wednesday, May 30, in room 119 Mendel Hall at 1 P. M. All members are urged to be present as matters of great importance to the staff men will be discussed.

If any one wishes to join the sports staff at this time they are requested to be present at this meeting.

'CAT NINE HUMBLES THREE TOUGH TEAMS AFTER LONG LAYOFF

Late Inning Splurges Decide Providence and St. John's Games

BILL McLOUGHLIN STARTS CAREER IN FLASHY STYLE

Ursinus Draws First Blood And Keep Cats on Toes; 'Cats Win in Late Innings

Showing the fight that makes championship teams the clubs they are, the 1936 edition of the Villanova baseball aggregation resumed its diamond warfare on Wednesday, April 15, after a two-week layoff, by defeating Ursinus, 11-6; Providence 11-4, and St. John's, 10-9, within the short space of four days.

The latter two games were won by late inning splurges by Mahan, O'Meara and Co. Things looked gloomy for the Wildcats but their stickmen came through in the right time to keep their slate clean.

Ursinus welcomed the Felines to Collegeville with a wonderful reception, but the hosts were disappointed when their opponents left with an easy victory under their arms. Tom Collins was the winning pitcher.

The game was a slugfest as 22 hits were marked up against the pitchers. Pancoast and Trumbore contributed triples, while Twordzydlo furnished a double in the Bear attack. Leo Schoppmeyer's brace of two baggers were the only extra-base hits garnered by the Main Liners.

Ursinus was the first to draw blood when they scored two runs in the opening inning on Wildonge's single, but the "tom-tom" settled down and kept a close check on

Continued on Page Seven

VILLANOVA FOURTH IN BOWLING MATCH

Rogers, Olivar and Troncelliti Represent Wildcats In Intercollegiates

Villanova's first endeavor in the field of intercollegiate bowling last Friday and Saturday was crowned with success. As it was the first time a Villanova bowling team had ever competed with other college teams, their fourth place is as good in our eyes as top honors.

The team was composed of Jordan Olivar, Florindo Troncelliti, and Frank Rogers. It will be remembered that these were the boys who gained first places in the intramural tournament that was run off not so long ago. Rogers put himself in the limelight by winning first place after defeating both Olivar and Troncelliti.

The teams who were represented at this meet are those of well known institutions. Among them were Syracuse, University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, Drexel, Cornell, Lafayette and of course, Villanova.

The tournament was carried on as are many other intercollegiate tournaments. Slips were drawn to determine the opponents that were to be met. As chance would have

Continued on Page Six

Gets Badger Post

HARRY STUHLDREHER

'CAT GRID COACH GOES TO BADGERS

Stuhldreher, Coach of Wildcat Teams for 10 Years, Signs With U. of Wisconsin

By JACK GERAGHTY

Harry "the Horseman" Stuhldreher will leave Villanova on Saturday to return to the scene of his great triumph, the University of Wisconsin, where he will assume the dual position of Athletic Director and head coach of football.

For 11 years Coach Stuhldreher has been at Villanova. In that time he has made a record of 65 victories, 25 defeats, and nine no-decision games.

It is with a great feeling of loss that Villanova bids goodbye to Mr. Stuhldreher, a first-class coach and a gentleman.

Wisconsin first felt the sting of Stuhle's voice when on a November afternoon in 1924, he led his pack of Horsemen and his train of Mules to a 25-3 decision over the Badgers.

That was the season of the almost legendary Four Horsemen of Notre Dame who traversed the country spreading disaster and pestilence on allen gridirons, and the lashing of Stuhle's bark brought foreboding and dread to opponents and student-bodies alike.

Wisconsin did not forget the dynamic personality of the pony quarterback, and a decade later, made overtures to the Villanova coach. At the first opportunity the Powers-That-Be at the Badger lair called to Stuhle, and he, after having brought Villanova to national fame, will leave the theatre of his success and go out to overthrow the jinx of Wisconsin, the "graveyard of coaches."

Villanova was his first coaching post after leaving Notre Dame fresh from a university where All-American honors had been heaped on him, and the fame of the terrible Four Horsemen had been

Continued on Page Six

SOFTBALL STARTS TONIGHT

This evening the Intra-Mural softball league will swing into action when the dormitory teams line up on the field in back of Mendel Hall. The complete schedule has not been arranged as yet, but will be published next week. The great enthusiasm shown by the students participating in this feature of the intra-mural sports program is sure to make the contest keenly contested.

HOME RUN FESTIVAL STAGED BY CATS TO BEAT LEHIGH, 19-5

Collins Pitches Second Win As Stoviak Cracks Two Homers

O'MEARA, ESCOTT GARBARK AND MAHAN GET ONE EACH

Collect Nineteen Hits And Score in Every Inning But Last

One more victory was scored by the Wildcat nine as they defeated the Brown and White of Lehigh last Saturday, 19-5, at Bethlehem. The win, number five for the Villanovans, was marked by the heavy gunning of the left-handed batters of the Feline line-up.

Lehigh's short right field wall was a tempting target, and our lads took full advantage of it by dropping six homers over the barrier. Ray Stoviak led with two, and Artie Mahan, "Quack" Escott, and Mike O'Meara each had one apiece, while Mike Garbark poled one over from the right hand side of the platter.

Action was started in the initial inning when Walt Sheftic was given a free ticket to first. He scored on Stoviak's four-bagger and the scoring was over for the frame. Volkmuth singled to begin Lehigh's half, but was left stranded on third as Pennauchi fanned with the bases loaded as a result of two walks. The second inning saw two more tallies by the Wildcats as Mike O'Meara dropped one of Connors's pitches over the right field wall with Mike Garbark on base. Meyers drove in Bard for the Brown and White's counter.

Two more runs in the third and one in the fourth increased the Feline total to seven, while the home boys got to Collins for four hits and two runs. A hit batter, a walk

Continued on Page Six

CATS BREAK EVEN IN FOUR MATCHES

Golf Team Defeats Haverford And Temple; Drop Matches To Osteopathy, Llanerch 'B'

In four matches in two weeks, Villanova's golfers won two, beating Haverford and Temple, and losing to Osteopathy and Llanerch "B" Country Club.

On Sunday, April 26, Villanova lost to the second team of the Llanerch Country Club, in a match, 21-9, at the Llanerch Country Club.

Btock Stockton, played No. 1, and Dave Cragg, his partner, were the main point gatherers for Villanova, getting six points for the team. Stockton, off form, shot a 90, sufficient to defeat his opponent, and Craig shot an 82, to win low score for Villanova for the day. Villanova won best ball in the foursome.

Gene Barr and Ed Tyrell, playing in the second foursome, lost their matches, shooting 94 and 91 against their opponents' 80 and 85. Johnny McManus and John Pagano lost to Arbuckel and Huber, and Jimmy Downs and Ed Dubino took best ball in their foursome, Dubino winning his match from Dalton. Johnny Chappell and Ray Murphy won a point in best ball from Llan-

Continued on Page Six

Alumni Hall Wins Intra-Mural Track Meet

Freshmen Annex Crown By Overwhelming Score

Tallies 84 Points to Tighten Hold on Top Berth of Intra-Mural League By Victory

HORN AND HIGGINS TRIPLE WINNERS

Alumni Hall added further prestige to its already imposing array of intra-mural victories by capturing first place in the track meet held in Goodreau Stadium last week. The victory was easily earned by a total of 84 points while their closest competitors, Austin Hall, compiled a total of 39 points.

The Mendel Day Hops, who presented such a strong basketball aggregation, were far behind the top-notchers with a score of 36 tallies. The meet, which was held last Tuesday and Wednesday, provided many thrills for the fans as dark horses smashed through to victory.

Joe Horn, of Alumni, was individual high scorer with a total of 282 points. He and Charlie Higgins were the only triple winners of the meet.

Ben Maloney, representing Austin Hall in the mile and half mile events, was the lone double winner. Maloney came home ahead of the field in these two events for the third successive year.

The field events were run off first and Tom Whelan gave a mighty heave to edge out Joe McCabe in the shot put with a throw of 41 feet 1-2 inch. Third place went to Kelley of the Mendell Day Hops with Zibilli just managing to take fourth place from Quinn of Alumni by one inch. Joe Horn captured his initial first place by garnering top place in the broad jump. His leap was measured at 20 feet 6 inches, while second place honors went to Joe Soviero. Charlie Higgins came in third while the other two places went to Dan Murphy and Jimmy Lyons.

Joe McCabe put Austin Hall in the lead when he hurled the discus 92 feet 6 inches to be awarded first honors in the event. John Kelly took second place from Joe Horn by a slight margin. Courten a Mendel Day Hop was fourth and "Pop" Shealey of Austin took fifth place.

In the pole vault, a triple tie for first place resulted. Higgins, Horn and Soviero were the only contestants who could clear the bar at 8 feet six inches and as they were all from Alumni they decided not to jump off the tie. Fourth and fifth place went to the Mendel Day Hops.

Charlie Higgins proved his superiority in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 5 inches. Close behind was Joe Horn. Third place went to LaBrasca with Joe Carroll and O'Connell fourth and fifth respectively.

Dan Murphy hurled the javelin 149 feet 1 inch to take first honors in this event. Barret was second and close behind him was Joe McCabe. Kelly took fourth and Horn added another point to his collection by taking fifth place.

The first event on Wednesday was the 100-yard dash. There were so many contestants that heats had to be run. Those who qualified for the final were LaBrasca, Biester, Higgins, Horn ,and Soviero, finishing in that order. LaBrasca's time was 10 and 4-10 seconds.

Running easily all the way Ben Maloney let Tom Delate set the pace for three laps in the mile race, then he passed Delate on the back stretch and drew away to cross the finish line the winner. Ward Scanlon came in third with Matthis finishing fourth. Then after a lapse of time Jimmy Callagher finally plodded across the finish line to receive one point for fifth place.

In the 440 Lafferty came in first. Shealy, O'Connell, Carlton, and Looram finished in that order respectively. The time was 61 and 3 tenths seconds.

Heats also had to be held in the 120 yard low hurdle race, however, no final was held, but rather, the places were awarded on time. Higgins took this event in 17 and one tenth seconds. Horn finished second and LaBrasca third. Soviero just managed to beat out Carbine for fourth place.

The next event was meant to be the 160 yard high hurdle race but due to several injuries sustained by the contestants in last year's meet it was decided to run low

Continued on Page Seven

TRACKMEN FAIL TO ENTER PENN RELAYS

Maloney and Monahan Withdraw From Meet; Injuries Hamper Training

For the first time in several years, Villanova failed to have at least one entry in the Penn Relay Carnival, which was held last Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25. A mix-up in the coaching situation and the inability of the men to get into the necessary tip-top condition were the reasons for the absence of Villanova reperesentatives from the meet.

In former years, Villanova mile-relay teams have been rather successful in the Penn Relays, winning the college mile relay title in the '34 meet. It was planned to enter a team this year, but the lack of a coach prevented the formation of such a team.

Ben Maloney and Fritz Monahan both had intended to file entries in special events, the steeplechase and 100-meter dash respectively. During the Easter holidays, however, Fritz was under a doctor's care with an infection, and this hampered his training to such an extent that he decided not to enter the Relays. Mcloney also was unable to get himself into the perfect shape required for the grueling 3000 meter steeplechase, because of an old injury.

Since Easter, the coaching situation has been alleviated, "Jumbo" Elliott, last year's captain, and one of the best quarter-milers in Villanova's track history, took over the position of coaching the Wildcat trackmen.

During these past two weeks, he has been driving the boys hard, getting them ready for the opening meet of the season, with West Chester Teachers tomorrow. West Chester will present a strong team built around the veterans of their last year's squad, which had a victory over Villanova to its credit. The Teachers lost Al Knabb, Penn Relays steeplechase winner and Middle Atlantic A. A. U. champion, by graduation. He has a very worthy successor in little Ottwell, ex-Norristown High star. This diminutive distance man has been doing very well thus far over the 2-mile route.

The 'Cats have been weakened considerably by the graduation of the stars of last year. The loss of Elliott, now coaching, and Carl Hickey is especially keenly felt.

Villanova's hopes are pinned principally on the few remaining veterans. Fritz Monohan is counted to take the 100 and 220. Captain George Wrona, Bill Lafferty and Frank Shealey should gain points in the quarter mile. Ben Maloney is the experienced miler and 2-miler expected to pace the Blue and White harriers.

In the field events Korschinski in the javelin toss, Bill Sweeney in the discus throw, and Tom Cook in the high and broad jumps are Villanova's leading contenders.

NAVY NETMEN WIN

Navy tennis squad defeated Swarthmore, 8-1, in a match played at Annapolis Saturday. White and Turner, of the Garnet scored the lone victory.

Villanova Swamps Lehigh Nine, 19-5

Continued From Page Five

and three successive hits brought five markers for the Main Liners, when Sheftic singled O'Meara home after that gent had stolen second and gone to third on a force play at the keystone sack, and Escott looped one over the top for home run number four, scoring Collins and Sheftic ahead of himself. "Philbert" Mahan's circuit clout was the final tally for the inning. Lehigh was blanked until the seventh when two successive singles and two infield outs sent Pennauchi across the plate.

Following their five run spree in the fifth, the winners added seven more by means of four in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Two hits in each inning, coupled with a brace of walks, accomplished this, as Ray Stoviak hit his second round-tripper for the day. The 'Cats were blanked in the ninth, and Lehigh started a rally which fell just 14 runs short of tying up the game.

During this contest, "Needle" Collins gave 12 hits, but kept them well scattered and at no time was he in danger of losing his lead, although there were men on the bags in every inning but the eighth.

Garbark and O'Meara led the Villanovans on the offense with three hits out of four appearances at the plate. Stoviak and Mahan racked up three for six to fatten their batting averages. For Lehigh, Volkmuth, Pennauchi and Milbank each got two bingles.

VILLANOVA	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 2b	5	2	2	3	1
Escott, cf	5	1	1	2	0
Mahan, 1b	6	3	3	5	0
Stoviak, lf	6	2	3	2	0
Schoppmeyer, ss	3	0	0	0	1
Garbark, c	4	4	3	10	1
O'Meara, rf	4	3	3	0	0
Stopper, rf	1	0	0	0	0
McKenna, 3b	2	1	1	4	3
Colins, p	5	3	2	1	0
Totals	45	19	18	27	7

LEHIGH	ab	r	h	o	a
V'muth, 2b	4	1	2	7	2
Meyers, rf	2	0	1	0	0
Scott, rf	2	0	0	1	0
Oiler, 3b	5	0	0	1	4
L'e'rd, cf	5	1	1	1	0
M'Kaig, cc	4	0	1	1	7
P'n'chi, ss	4	1	2	2	1
B'lank, 1b	4	0	2	10	0
Bard, c	4	1	2	4	2
Connors, p	1	0	0	0	0
Cooney, p	1	0	0	0	0
*Bayer	1	0	0	0	0
†Kornet	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	38	5	11	27	14

*—Batted for Connors in 5th.
†—Batted for Cooney in 9th.

Villanova	2	2	2	1	5	4	1	2	0	—19
Lehigh	0	1	1	0	0	1	0	1	—	5

'Cats Break Even In Four Matches

Continued From Page Five

erch, and Johnny Bruno, playing alone, lost his match, 3 and 2, with a score of 91.

Lose to Osteopathy

Last Tuesday, Villanova met Osteopathy at home on the Main Line Open Course, and lost 6½ to 2½, Bob Stockton and Dave Cragg both winning points for Villanova, and Jimmy Dwyer and Gene Barr splitting best ball with Osteopathy. Ed Tyrell and Johnny Pagano lost their match, and best ball.

On Friday, April 17, the golfers met and decisively defeated Temple University, 5-1, at the Main Line Open.

Overcoming handicaps of wind and occasional showers of rain, the team won from Villanova's traditional rivals. Bob Stockton and Dave Cragg won their matches and best ball from the Templars, getting three points for Villanova. Jim Dwyer won his match, both he and Gene Barr took best ball for Villanova. Gene Barr, playing No. 4, lost his match to Temple, 3 and 2.

Villanova's Junior Varsity opened the home season by defeating Haverford's Jayvees by a score of 6-3, two weeks ago, at the Main Line Open.

Bob Stockton and Jim Dwyer came through for Villanova by winning three points in their foursome, each taking his match, and the two splitting best ball. In the second foursome, Ed Tyrell and Johnny McManus took best ball, and Tyrell won his match. In the third foursome, John Pagano won his match, but he and Jack Chappell lost best ball.

Following their Southern trip, the golf team has improved greatly by the addition of several freshmen, notably Bob Stockton and Jim Dwyer. Three other Freshmen who are giving the varsity trouble are Ed Tyrell, Johnny Pagano and Ed Dubino. Dubino played his first match for Villanova Sunday, and won best ball.

In their first year on the varsity, Stockton has first position clinched, and Jim Dwyer is pushing Dave Cragg hard for second place.

Villanova Fourth In Bowling Match

Continued From Page Five

it, the first opponent drawn by the Wildcat team was that of our age old rivals Temple. Whether it was due to nervousness or stage fright, the 'Cat team faired badly in this encounter and lost to Temple. This immediately dropped them to seventh place.

Their next encounter was with Drexel and the Villanova bowlers regained their eye and tumbled the Drexel boys to defeat. Against Penn, the Villanova team did not come out so badly although it was not as good as could be expected.

Thus did Villanova gain their fourth place. Another meet is planned with Temple so that the Villanova defeat can be rectified in some manner. As this tournament was so successful, Villanova will have an entry next time the intercollegiate bowlers get together. Penn State, which won the title last year, was not present this year to defend its title and the honor went to Syracuse University.

'Cat Grid Coach Goes to Badgers

Continued From Page Five

featured on the front pages of newspapers throughout America. He plunged into his new-found post with feverish zeal, and the results are self evident. He has painstakingly guided Villanova from a mediocre football squad to a cracker-jack gridiron machine with the snap and precision of West Pointers on parade.

Career Shines Brightly

The high spots of his career as coach shine brightest in the traditional series with Temple University, and in particular, with the arch-enemy of his system, Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner, who, in endeavoring to prove the superiority of the Warner over the Notre Dame system, twice tasted the gall of defeat, sweetened but a trifle with one victory.

Last year's schedule will be among the memories of future Villanova alumni, as the team smashed their way through five hard games with their goal line uncrossed, only to come a cropper at the hands of Gus Dorais' Titians of Detroit, who both scored on and defeated the hitherto unconquerable Wildcats. Next week, the Cats had their revenge when, meeting Detroit on home territory, they defeated Dorais' cohorts and went on to Penn State, only to have the Nittany Lions take their measure in a most disheartening manner. A week's rest, and Temple.

The 1935 Temple game will go down in history as an example of unadulterated "guts" on the part of Villanova. Playing in a snow-storm, with a gale sweeping down the playing field, Villanova's tearing Wildcats found their early season form to sweep ferociously to a 21-14 victory over the Owls, and as the whistle blew, the Stuhliemen were within ten yards of the alien goal, four downs and goal to go.

Villanova's Athletic Board have a task before them to find a man to take the place of Stuhle.

Behind The Bat

By GENE LOORAM

With the advent of real Spring weather, the varsity schedule has really gotten under way . . . at the time of the writing of this column the 'Cats' record stands at four wins and no losses . . . that speaks for itself . . . outstanding factors in the Wildcats' successes have been the long distance slugging of Art Mahan, Sheftic's fielding, and the capable backstopping of Mike Garbark . . . Harry McNally also subbed successfully for Mike against St. Johns. . . .

Pitching has stood above reproach with Vaughn, McLaughlin, Collins and McGovern turning in wins . . . Providence came to Villanova with a reputedly good team but Villanova proceeded to roll up eleven runs and walk away with the game. . . .

The Kittens opened their season with a walk-away victory over the Naval Hospital . . . Final result 19-2 . . . this game provided a little insight into the ability of the Frosh but not much for all the 'Cats had to do was to hit the ball in order to get on base and then they sometimes didn't have to do that, to look at the number of passes issued by the Navy team. . . .

All the Frosh played and the Frosh who didn't hit safely was a rarity . . . the Frosh short-stop, Len Merullo, has accepted an offer to play in a newly-formed amateur league that is being gotten up in the different counties of Nova Scotia . . . Len has done quite a bit of bragging about his ability to speak French so this opportunity will provide him with plenty of practice. . . .

Up in Brooklyn, Ben Geraghty is starting to hit his stride and is now fielding flawlessly as well as hitting well above .300 . . . Ben and Lonnie Frey are now getting accustomed to playing together and Brooklyn will undoubtedly cause anxious moments for some of those teams who figure to have the pennant clinched. . . .

On April 11, the Frosh will travel to Penn State and their adherents will be able to get some reliable information on their real ability . . . Speaking of the Kittens' schedule brings up the fact that they play a return game with the Naval Hospital . . . The Frosh should concentrate and try to set a new record for baseball scoring. . . .

Frank "Cowboy" Crawley thought of hanging up his mitt after getting four for four in the opening game . . . According to Cowboy that's his first attainment of that perfect day . . . Speaking of mitts, Bob Bond's is large enough to be used for a fishing net . . . At Bob's special request we won't embarrass him in this column. . . .

A Pittsburgh Pirates' scout has been observed in the stands watching the 'Cats go through their paces . . . Brooklyn seems to be one step ahead of the others at all times for Leo Schoppmeyer will don a Brooklyn uniform shortly after his graduation. . . .

There will be quite a squabble amongst the big leag clubs when Art Mahan comes to graduate for there are several teams on the lookout for him now . . . Joe Desmond, who resembles a Yankee in his black and gray combination, is performing under the guiding eye of Connie Mack. . . . This will keep Joe close to home for he lives in Chester. . . .

One of Villanova's future opponents, Long Island University, is storing up an impressive amount of victories . . . Their string has already reached eight . . . This column has already expressed its opinion on the outcome of this approaching game. . . .

Intramural baseball is well under way but the Day Hops have yet to put in an appearance so the eventual winner cannot be chosen as yet . . . So far Mendel has been playing in hard luck and has dropped two encounters. . . .

To bring this column to a close this columnist wishes, on behalf of the baseball players of the school, to extend to Harry Stuhldreher the best of luck with his new post.

GERAGHTY STEALS SHOW AT PHILLIES BALL PARK

Villanova Boy Shows Big Leaguers Ins and Outs of Base Stealing Before Record Crowd

Ben Geraghty has been going great guns with the Brooklyn Dodgers since he joined them in their winter camp early this spring. Fresh from a College campus, without any minor league experience, Ben's entrance into the big time baseball circuit reads like an Alger story. After watching Ben go through his paces at the training camp, Casey Stengle liked the boy so much that he immediately placed him on second.

Last week, Geraghty and his teammates came to Philadelphia to wrestle around with the Phillies. Ben stole the show by stealing bases. After making a hit he stole second and third and then was driven home scoring the only Brooklyn tally. From now on Philadelphia fans will be 100 per cent for Geraghty.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE DUE TO END MAY 2

Practice Continued Under Bob Reagan, Line Coach; Sala Out Due to Injury

Since the rather abrupt news of former headcoach Harry Stuhldreher's leaving Villanova, Spring practice has been continued under Bob Reagan, who has served under Stuhldreher as line coach for the past seven years here.

Because of Stuhldreher's sudden departure all the plans for Spring practice seem to be very indefinite. It has not been settled as to when practice will stop although it will probably be this coming Saturday, May 2. The return practice scrimmage with Columbia University, originally scheduled for Saturday, is now improbable.

The team was late in starting Spring practice this year because of the weather and with only one week's practice, scrimmaged the Middies at Annapolis The Navy had the better end of the day, but the Wildcats came back the following week when they traveled up to New York and came out on the long end of a practice game with Columbia.

A few injuries were received during the Spring session. Captain Tony Sala, stellar end, Jerry Sherlock, sophomore halfback, Ed Sydnor and Val Rizzo, both sophomore linemen, and John Yauch, freshman halfback, have been on the sidelines because of injuries. A few other injures occured, but none will keep the boys from playing in the Fall.

A squad of about 50 players will return the beginning of September to complete preparations for the ten game schedule next Fall. Only six seniors will be among those on the team. The rest of the squad will consist of sophomores and juniors.

The Spring practice has been good thus far, according to Mr. Reagan, and a good season is expected of the boys next Fall.

Alumni Hall Wins Intra-Mural Meet

Continued From Page Six

hurdles instead. Horn won this race with Higgins taking second. Carbine beat out Jimmy Lyons for third, and last place went to Knaphle.

With a fine burst of speed O'Connell won the 220 yard dash. Soviero stove off a brilliant finish by Fred Melian to take second place. Higgins and Fitzgerald finished third and fourth respectively.

The last event of the carnival was the half mile race. Following the same procedure that he used in the mile Maloney again let Delate set the pace until the back stretch of the last lap, when he called forth a burst of speed and sprinted to the tape the winner. Biester was not far behind and he finished third. Carbine out-sprinted LaBrasca to take fourth. The time was 2 minutes and 20 seconds.

Alumni's 84 points was more than enough to win the meet. Austin Hall had a total of 39 points, 3 more than the Mendel Day Hops. Fourth place went to the C. & F. school with 22 points. Tom Delate's two second places were the only points garnered by the Mendel Residents, but they were enough to edge out Fedigan Hall for fifth place.

By winning this track and field meet Alumni now holds undisputed possession of first place in the Intra-Mural standings.

VILLANOVA	ab.	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 2b	4	0	0	4	3
Escott, cf	3	3	2	2	0
Mahan, 1b	2	2	1	10	1
Garbark, c	2	1	0	1	0
Stoviak, lf	2	1	1	0	0
Schoppmeyer, ss	4	1	1	1	4
O'Meara, rf	4	2	3	1	0
McKenna, 3b	4	0	1	1	3
McLoughlin, p	1	0	0	1	3
Totals	24	11	9	21	16

PROVIDENCE	ab.	r	h	o	a
Landry, lf	4	0	1	3	0
Bil'en, ss	4	0	0	1	0
Co'an, 1b	4	1	3	6	0
Moga, 3b	2	2	2	1	3
Hazel, rf	4	0	2	1	0
Bel-u, 2b	3	0	2	1	0
Leng'l, c	2	0	0	4	0
Gallagher, cf	3	0	0	1	0
Ha'ond, p	2	0	2	0	1
Ryan, p	1	0	0	0	2
Totals	29	4	12	18	7

Score by innings:

Providence	0	0	0	3	1	0	1	—	4
Villanova	1	1	2	0	0	7	x	—11

'Cat Nine Humbles Three Tough Teams

Continued From Page Five

the would-be hitters for the remaining six cantos.

Villanova came back in the second by scoring three runs which gave them the lead they never relinquished. The Bears threatened in the fourth by scoring two more runs, but their efforts went for naught as Captain Art Mahan and his mates piled up runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to cinch the fray.

Bill McLoughlin defeated the weather and the Providence baseball representatives in his first varsity start in a manner that stamps him as a veteran in his Sophomore year. Although the burly lefthander was touched for twelve hits, his effectiveness in the tight spots made him the master throughout.

Providence had men on the basepaths in every inning, but "Willie" mowed them down a la Grove. The game was not a run-away as the score possibly indicates. Instead it was a hotly contested affair with Villanova barely holding a lead of 4-3 up to the fifth stanza.

The Wildcats came to bat in their half of the sixth and promptly proceeded to score seven runs before the uprising was quelled and the Friar hurler, Tom Hammond, chased. Ryan succeeded him and he did a very nice piece of heaving, but the odds were too great against him.

Mike O'Meara found the deliveries of the opposing pitchers to his liking for he connected for three hits—a triple, a double, and a single. Ralph Coleman, husky first-sacker, slashed out three safeties in the Rhode Islanders' cause.

On the field Walt Sheftic, Schoppmeyer and Walt McKenna gleamed for the Felines, while Lengyel and Moge upheld the opponents' main stand. The former kept his mates awake by his constant chatter behind the plate.

The St. John's Indians came to Villanova with a wonderful reputation, and they had high hopes of adding the Wildcats to their list of victims, but a five run splurge in the eighth put an end to their dreams. Up to that time the boys from Brooklyn were leading, 9-5.

The game was loosely played as the five errors, eight of which were committed by Villanova, would indicate. However, we can contribute these miscues to the weather. Both pitchers had difficulty in finding the plate and only the effective relief hurling of husky Joe McGovern saved the day for the Wildcats. The Indians threatened in two men on base, but Joe retired their half of the ninth by placing them single-handed to end the game.

The winners put on a batting exhibition and bested their opponents 14-10 in that department. Captain Mahan got four for five, while O'Meara, Sheftic, McKenna and Harry McNally hit safely twice. For St. John's Polzer, Dixson and Zenir hit hard with the latter connecting for a long triple.

ST. JOHN'S	ab.	r	h	o	a
Tallon, cf	3	2	1	2	0
Carey, 2b	4	2	1	5	2
Zenir, 1b	4	1	2	8	1
Dixson, rf	4	1	2	0	0
Polzer, ss	5	1	2	2	0
Leary, lf	4	1	1	1	0
Darrigan, 3b	5	0	1	1	1
Joyce, c	4	0	0	4	0
McGuire, p	4	1	1	1	2
x-Salerno	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	39	9	11	24	12

VILLANOVA	ab.	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 2b	5	1	2	0	1
Escott, cf	4	3	2	4	3
Mahan, 1b	5	1	4	9	0
Stoviak, lf	5	0	1	1	0
Schoppmeyer, ss	5	1	0	1	4
O'Meara, rf	4	1	2	1	0
McKenna, 3b	4	0	2	0	2
McNally, c	4	1	2	11	2
Vaughn, p	1	0	0	0	0
McGovern, p	2	0	0	0	0
Totals	36	10	14	27	11

x Batted for McGuire in 9th.

St. Johns	2	0	0	0	5	2	0	0	—	9
Villanova	0	1	2	0	2	0	0	5	x	—10

VILLANOVA	ab.	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 2b	5	1	2	0	1
Escott, cf	4	0	1	2	0
Mahan, 1b	4	1	2	6	0
Garbark, c	4	1	1	10	1
Stoviak, lf	4	1	2	1	0
Schoppmeyer, ss	4	2	1	2	3
Stopper, rf	2	2	1	1	0
McKenna, 3b	4	1	0	0	0
Collins, p	3	2	2	0	1
Totals	36	11	13	21	6

URSINUS	ab.	r	h	o	a
Pancoast, lf	3	1	2	1	0
Cubberly, ss	3	2	1	2	3
Backs, rf	4	1	0	1	0
Wildon'r, cf	4	0	2	2	1
Calvert, 1b	4	0	0	4	0
Gensler, 2b	2	1	1	1	4
Twords'e, 3b	4	0	3	6	1
Edwards, c	4	0	0	5	2
Trumb'e, p	3	1	1	0	3
Zoll, p	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	6	9	21	14

Villanova	0	3	2	2	3	0	1	—11
Ursinus	2	0	0	2	1	1	0	—	6

Here and There

By WILLIAM BOWKER.

With Coach Stuhldreher's deciding to pack up his bags and leave the Wildcat lair for the home of the Badger, old Dame Rumor is getting busy and naming numerous other men as his successor . . . Among them are Slip Madigan, of St. Mary's College, Rip Miller, of the Navy, Hunk Anderson, of North Carolina State, Red Grange, Dick Hanley, formerly of Northwestern, and Gus Dorais, mentor of Detroit's Titans . . . This column reserves opinion and will not commit itself until after the new coach is signed.

Things down at the C & F School are moving well, these days, considering the advent of Spring fever weather. The boys down there are rapidly approaching the engineers for eccentricity. They have shelved the sport of throwing the board eraser behind the radiator and have taken up the brain exercising sport of Boom, the object of which is to pass the time away during some of the sleep-producing lectures . . . Ask Junior O'Connor, Jim Lyons, John Housman, Vince La Brasca, or Lou Biester about either form of entertainment.

Most of us seem to have forgotten all about the quarter-mile track that is in the stadium. Last week's intramural track and field meet brings to mind the fact that this sport is receiving little or no attention on the Main Line. However, unknown to many, the Wildcat runners, under the leadership of Captain George "Roosh" Wrona, are practicing daily and a successful season is expected.

Results of the intramural doings on the cinder path brought forth some surprising talent among the students.

Tonight the softball season starts with games on Mendel and Austin fields. The sun has fallen again for the Daylight-Saving joke, and the boys can pour out of chapel on to the field of battle. Many types of strategy are tried in these contests when darkness approaches. Quite a few men are prone to look upon softball as a sissie's game. Let them catch a hard drive on the tip of the fingers and they will find out how "soft" the game is.

After leaving the VILLANOVAN dinner-dance Tuesday evening, yours truly dropped in on the card party and dance down at the gym. Representatives of all sports were in attendance, either as guests or as aids in the cause of charity. Among the lads who play baseball were "Philbert" Mahan, "Needle" Collins, "Quack" Escott, and Bobby Bond, the lady-killer. Mgr. Frank Moriarity also was there to trip the light fantastic. Don Brennan was shouting the possibilities of taking home a dollar bill for the small sum of a dime, such feat being accomplished by guessing at what number the wheel would stop. . . Other athletes, too numerous to mention, were present. So well did some of the boys enter into the spirit of the occasion that they were still wearing tuxedoes when they went to the breakfast table . . .Oh well, it was all for charity.

Turning back to outdoor sports, we find the hardball season between the dorms and the dayhops in full swing. Jim "Cheerleader Charlie" Carroll, says that in Johnny Costello, Mendel has one of the outstanding hurlers in the interhall loop. While the Teaneck star has yet to win a game (at the present writing) he has had a lack of support that would discourage many a pitcher. Incidentally, this column hereby claims that Jake Simons, the Chandelier King, is the noisiest man in the intramurals. Maybe he eats Wheaties.

Continuing with our nominations for outstanding people, we state that Walt McKenna and Buzz Hart are two of the laziest walking lads on the campus. They just pick up their feet and let them fall where they will. . .Which reminds us of baseball and the fact that Ben Geraghty is going great guns since his entrance to the Brooklyn lineup. Saturday and Sunday the Stengeleers came to Baker Bowl and entertained the Philadelphians with some of their tricks.

Of all the sports talked of and indulged in at Villanova, the one we have heard least about is handball.

Gadsby Appointed Soccer Coach Here

Continued From Page Five

be named the "Blues"; while the other will be called the "Whites".

Ray Gadsby has asked that every man interested in soccer report to him at the earliest possible date. Experienced men will be preferred; but this will not be a necessary qualification. Every candidate will be given equal consideration and attention.

It is felt that, with the cooperation of the student body, Ray will develop an outstanding team.

"GOIN' TO TOWN?"

Do it in a great big way. First send for our brand new aerial map of the City of New York. It's FREE. Plan your week-end ahead. Know what you're going to see. Then see it with the Empire as your headquarters.

RATES ARE FROM $2.50 FOR TWO (GARAGE 50c)

HOTEL EMPIRE
Broadway at 63rd St.
NEW YORK CITY
EDWARD B. BELL, Manager

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED - 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed - 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop" SHEALEY
235 AUSTIN HALL
(Campus Agent)

CERTIFIED
MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

GREETINGS BY TELEPHONE on Somebody's Birthday ARE TACTFUL.. TIMELY.. and Uplifting in Cost!
Bargain rates are in effect on both Station to Station and Person to Person calls every night after SEVEN and ANY TIME on Sunday.
SAVE AFTER SEVEN

All Nominations Hotly Contested

Continued From Page One

Charles Stahlecker, Joseph Duffy, Louis Santa Maria, and Charles Dugan.

Those contesting for the treasurer-ship: Pat Vassaluzzo, Edward Fister, Thomas Flaherty and Frank Sweeney.

Participants for the student council are: Larry Stead, John Chapple, Victor Ashe, Phil Murray, Arnold Lanza, E. Donavan, A. Fitzpatrick, G. Collins J. Grace and E. Kelly.

Aspirants for the presidency of the Class of '37 include: Jordan Olivari, John Simons, John Stahmann, and Joseph Weber.

The candidates for the vice president post: James Keegan, D. J. O'Connor, and J. McKenna. Fighting for the secretary position are: J. Rhoads, J. Guckenberger, and William Bowker. For treasurer: W. Durkin, J. Feehan and F. Fortunato. For the Student Council position: T. Kennedy, J. Lyons, T. Greco, E. Troncelliti, J. Courten, N. Ford, J. Beitenmiller, E. Murphy, W. Burke, E. Sholvin and G. Bagot.

Running for president of the coming Sophomore Class are: R. Walsh G. Kolb, L. Bicher, J. Costello, J. Dwyer, E. Conneen, and T. O'Brien.

Nominees for vice president: R. Howe B. McHenry, A. Vigliante, F. Carroll, and F. Castle. For secretary: J. O'Brien, T. O'Brien, J. Lindsley, J. Dimon, P. Calabro. For treasurer: T. Carbine, J. Kutz, W. Smith, R. Mackin, T. Furey, and E. Matthews. Representative to Student Council: D. Mackowski, R. Calliet, J. Tofani, H. Murphy, J. Higgins, J. Carroll, R. Bond and J. Quigley.

ACADEMY MEETS

Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., and Prof. Leo Schaeffer were delegates from Villanova College at the 40th annual meeting of the American Academy of Social and Political Science held at the Bellevue-Stratford on last Friday and Saturday.

General Public To View Open House

Continued From Page One

great deal of time planning their exhibits and demonstrations.

In an interview, Fr. Coan, acting chairman of the School of Science said, "Judging from the plans so carefully laid during the past several months we have every reason to expect that this year's Open House in the School of Science will excel by far our initial effort of a year ago which brought such lavish praise from the visiting public.

"As was the case last year the various exhibits will indicate the type of work done by the student throughout the school year. The students will be in complete charge of all the laboratories and will be prepared to give a detailed explanation of the several exhibits under their charge."

Prof. Bueche, acting chairman for the School of Technology, said of this year's Open House, "At the present time the School of Technology is busily engaged in the preparation of exhibits and displays for the second annual Open House.

"All the departments are cooperating and many new and novel displays will be shown to the public for the first time. The students in the School of Technology will have charge of all arrangements, and while the engineering societies are directly responsible to the heads of their respective departments for their displays, all students in engineering will take an active part.

"The division of engineering expects this year's Open House to exceed both in interest and in novelty of exhibits those of last year."

Some of the other fascinating demonstrations will include chemilluminescence or cold light, transmission of music on a light beam, mechanical eye, preparation of dye and drugs, synthetic perfume making, the chemical nursery, human embryos, testing of drivers' reflexes, industrial home air conditions and strength tests on steel and concrete. These are but a few of the many other demonstrations which cover all the fields of Engineering, Natural Science and Economics.

Honor Roll Lists Are Released

Continued From Page One

John; Schettino, Peter; Parkin, Harry.

Commerce & Finance School

Freshman—Klein A, Norman; Bishop, George; McHenry, Bernard; O'Brien; Toffani, James.

Sophomores — Connolly, Robert; Olivari, Jordan; Volpe, Oliver.

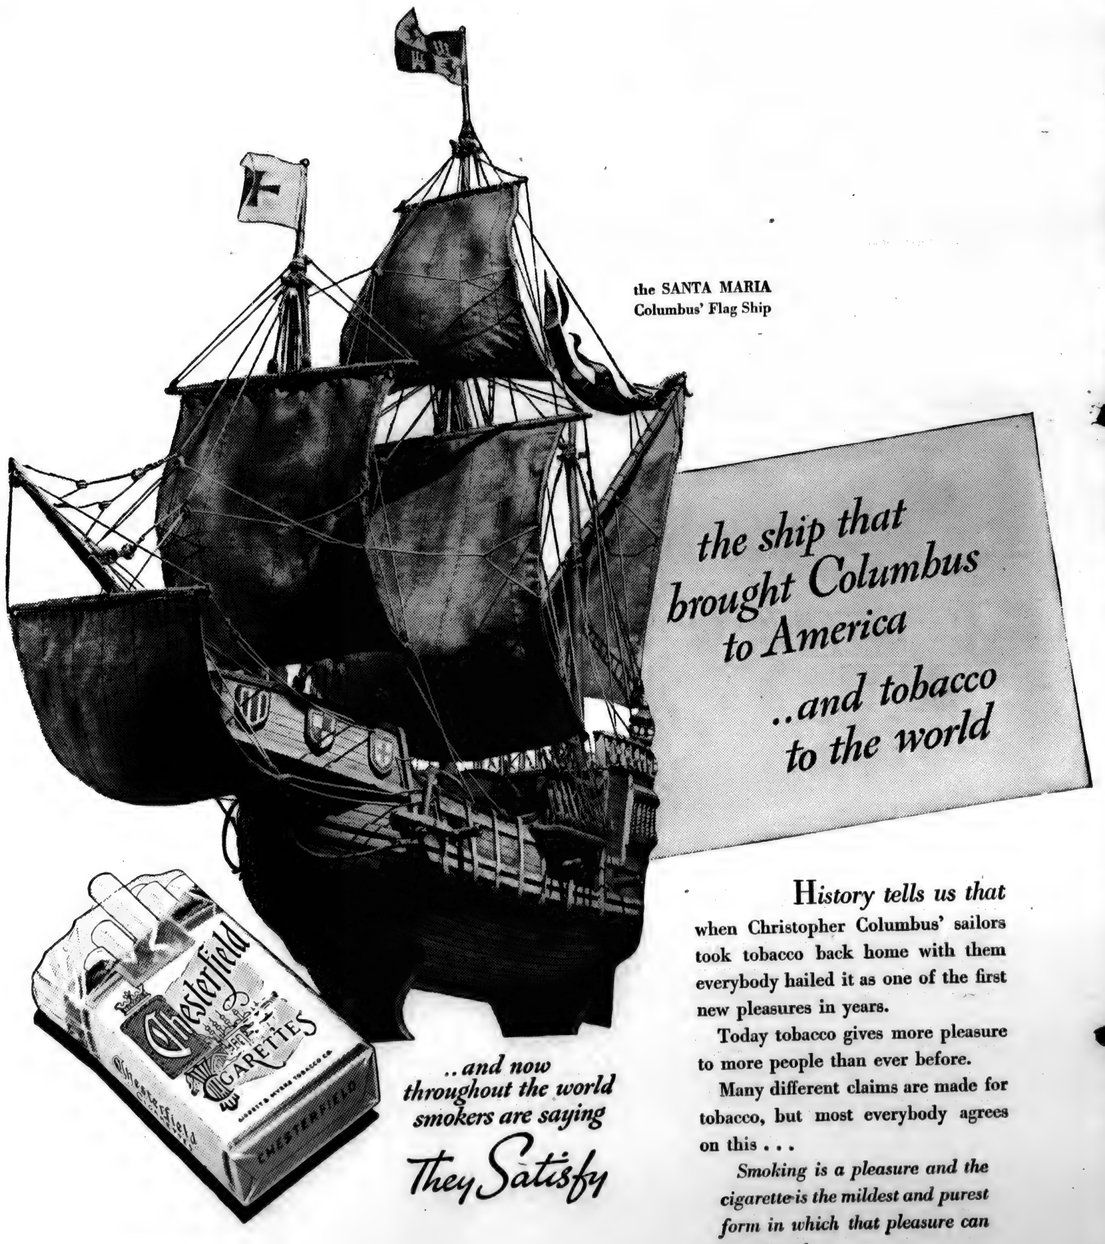
Junior—Mink, William; Murray, Philip.

Seniors—Wrona, George; Henry, John.

Dr. Evans Funeral Held in Ardmore

Continued From Page One

Carl Humphries of the School of Technology who represented the faculty, James Downs, representative of the Student Council and William Keffer and Joseph Foran who represented the student body.



the SANTA MARIA
Columbus' Flag Ship

the ship that brought Columbus to America ..and tobacco to the world

..and now throughout the world smokers are saying

They Satisfy

History tells us that when Christopher Columbus' sailors took tobacco back home with them everybody hailed it as one of the first new pleasures in years.

Today tobacco gives more pleasure to more people than ever before.

Many different claims are made for tobacco, but most everybody agrees on this . . .

Smoking is a pleasure and the cigarette is the mildest and purest form in which that pleasure can be enjoyed.

© 1936, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 24 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Solemn Rites Observed as Junior Week Opens

Political Fervor at Peak As Undergraduates Ballot

Freshman, Sophomore Classes Chose Officers for Coming Year; Simons Leads Future Junior Group

WALSH ELECTED

Popular Arts School Member Receives Soph Presidency

Smooth, perfect-functioning political machines were evidenced in hotly contested elections of the present Sophomore and Freshmen classes held last Wednesday and Thursday afternoon, under the direction of the Student Council.

In the more important battle John L. Simons, of the School of Technology, eked out a spectacular victory over Jordan Olivari, a member of the School of Commerce and Finance, for the much coveted presidency of the coming Junior Class. Mr. Simons is a resident of Philadelphia, Pa.

Richard J. Walsh, of the School of Arts and Philosophy, swept to a landslide victory over Gibbons Kolb, of the Business School, to ascend to the president's office of the Class of 1939. Mr. Walsh resides in Tyrone, Pa..

Other Sophomore elections resulted in John H. McKenna, of the Arts School, being elected vice president. Chosen for the posts of secretary and treasurer were Henry C. Guckenberger and William T. Durkin, respectively. The former is a student in the Business School, while the latter is a member of the Technology School. Representatives to the Student Council include Edward Troncelliti Edward J. Shovlin and Gilbert L. Bagot. The first named is from the Technology School, and the last two are students in the Arts School.

The most closely contested fight in the Freshmen elections resulted in James A. O'Brien, of the Business School, securing the secretaryship of the Class. Mr. O'Brien

Continued on Page Four

BELLE AIR STAFF WILL BE FETED

Yearbook Members Will Be Guests at Formal Dinner May 11

The first formal dinner ever to be staged by the Belle Air staff of Villanova College, will be held in the Whitehall Hotel, Haverford, on Monday, May 11.

The dinner will be held in one of the most picturesque spots along the Main Line. The Hotel itself is modeled after the king's palace in Italy with interior decorations presenting a serene and colorful background for visitors. The cuisine of the Whitehall Hotel has been an important factor in making this a popular spot.

There will be a meeting of the entire staff in the Belle Air office at 1:00 P. M. on Wednesday, May 6. It is important that all the members who have aided in the production of this edition of the college year book be present at this meeting. Reservations for this formal dinner have to be made this coming week so it is necessary that the entire staff attend the meeting and submit the information needed to make the dinner a success.

Robert McGrory, editor-in-chief of the Belle Air, wishes to make it clear that all students desiring their name inscribed on their year book, must have their money and card

Continued on Page Four

COLLEGE FACILITIES INTEREST PUBLIC IN ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE

Demonstrations Continue Today as Record Attendance Is Expected

EXHIBITS ATTRACT MANY

Opening Villanova's doors once again to the public, the students of the college exhibited and demonstrated in their various laboratories the work done by them during the current year as Open House Program was inaugurated for the second annual time.

In conjunction with the initial opening of Junior Week, and Mother's Day, the college campus presented itself in many colorful aspects.

Commencing at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, the students swung into action in their respective laboratories, as the public filed into Mendel Hall.

Keen interest was shown by the onlookers, as the experiments were performed and explained. Although all the laboratories presented themselves in remarkable fashion, it was noted that the Embryology and Biological Laboratories seemed to attract most attention.

The display of the Human Embryo in its various stages in the Embryology Laboratory seemed to be a feature attraction. Another attraction in the Biology Laboratory was the Sensitive Plant.

In addition to the interesting experiments performed in the Science Departments, the Engineers were not to be out-done. The Reaction Test held many in awe, both in its results and in its performance. In this experiment the onlookers are able to test with great accuracy the time that it takes for them to lift their foot from the accelerator of a car to the break upon the changing of the traffic light.

Although a notable attendance had yesterday, a larger one is expected today, due to weather conditions.

Because of Saint Patrick's many wonderful engineering feats in Ireland, several students of the university decided in 1903, that he was undoubtedly the patron saint of engineers, and as such deserving of a great celebration. The entire engineering campus took up the

Continued on Page Three

Stuhldreher Tendered Testimonial As Farewell Gesture by Friends

Harry A. Stuhldreher, head coach at Villanova College for the past 11 years, was presented with a plaque by members of the alumni at a farewell banquet given in his honor at the Bellevue Stratford hotel last Wednesday.

At the testimonial dinner, Martin L. Gill, toastmaster, presented the silver plaque to Stuhldreher in recognition of his long and loyal service as football coach.

On receiving the plaque, Stuhldreher expressed his gratitude and appreciation for the warm concern shown him. 'I'll be closer to Villanova in years to come than you may want. Any success I may reap will be partly yours, for you have helped me mold it," the departing mentor declared.

Among those who wished Stuhldreher success at his coaching job at the University of Wisconsin were: Rev. Father Charles J. Melchior, director of athletics at Villanova College; Dr. Bernard P. Widman, James P. Leaming, John Freney, and Joseph A. Freney, president of the Philadelphia Alumni Club.

Captain Eddie Michaels and Captain-elect Tony Sala were convinced, through their contacts with Harry Stuhldreher, that he would

Continued on Page Three

STUDENTS EAGERLY AWAIT PROMENADE AS CLIMAX

JUNIOR PROMENADE ORCHESTRA AND LEADER

Jan Garber and his talented group of musicians and vocalists, who will entertain those dance lovers attending the annual Junior Promenade to be held at the Villanova College gymnasium on Friday night, May 8.

Hokum King Is Now Idol Of Airlanes

He gave up his title of "Originator of Hokum" and inherited the soubriquet of "The Idol of the Airlanes."

You were right both times. It's Jan Garber, who comes to Villanova for the Junior Prom this Friday night, bringing with him his great array of song stylists including the charming Judy Randall, Lee Bennett, Lew Palmer, Fritz Heilbron, and Rudy Rudisill.

Making his debut in professional music circles shortly after the war, Garber specialized in a humoresque, entertaining orchestra rather than a tuneful dance dispensing organization.

Garber Revised Style

A short time ago Garber revolutionized his style. Immediately his popularity rose and Jan was more pleasing than ever. As evidence of his tremendous popularity it is only necessary to point out the constant clamor for return engagements wherever the band has performed.

The famous Trianon Ballroom in Chicago has featured Jan Garber and his orchestra for two seasons and would like to keep him. The "Idol of the Airlanes" has also rendered his music at the Cocoanut Grove resort in Los Angeles.

The Catalina Island Casino found the diminutive clowning, baton waver featured for two seasons because of his overwhelming popu-

Continued on Page Four

BLAZER BALL WILL OPEN SOCIAL WEEK

Dinner Dance on Saturday Culminates Outstanding Period

Amid a colorful background, the traditional blazers ball will usher in the initial social event of the traditional blazer ball will usher in the college gymnasium tomorrow night.

Culminating the glamorous social events of the week will be the annual Junior Dinner Dance to be held Saturday night at the Hotel Adelphi in Philadelphia at 6.30.

The college blazer, emblematic of the Junior Year at Villanova, will be officially worn for the first time by the third year men. As in the previous years, the Juniors have had a choice of either a blue or white blazer, with the seal of the college forming a contrast with the blazer.

To make the affair more colorful, the gymnasium will be gaily decorated in the colors of the school. Dance music will be furnished by our own orchestra, the Villanovans, under the leadership of Charles Stottler. In such a setting the dance will be a gala one that will long be remembered.

Raymond A. Murphy stated that contrary to all campus rumors that according to tradition the seniors are invited to attend the Blazer Ball free of charge.

The social events of Junior Week

Continued on Page Four

JUNIOR WEEK CALENDAR

Today

2:00 P. M. Open House, featuring laboratory experiments.

3:00 P. M. Varsity Baseball game—Villanova vs. Lehigh.

Wednesday

3:00 P. M. Varsity baseball game—Villanova vs. Temple.

9:00 P. M. Blazer Ball in gymnasium.

Thursday

3:00 P. M. Baseball game—Junior Class vs. Senior Class.

Friday

10:00 P. M. Junior Promenade in gymnasium.

Saturday

8:00 P. M. Junior Class dinner dance — Hotel Adelphia, Philadelphia.

COLOR AND GLAMOUR MARK CEREMONIES HELD YESTERDAY

Planting of Class Tree, Ivy Feature Morning Exercises

MOTHERS' DAY SUCCESS

By THOMAS F. KENNEDY.

Amid solemn religious rites, tradition class functions, and official reception of Mothers, the colorful Annual Junior Week activities were initiated yesterday.

Bringing the outstanding week to a successful climax will be the eagerly awaited Junior Promenade, featuring Jan Garber with his host of talented colleagues in the college gymnasium, playing from 10 P. M. until 2 A. M.

Color and glamour will predominate at this annual student function and campus spirit has risen to an unprecedented height in its anticipation.

Solemn High Mass in the college chapel, attended by the Junior Class in a body was the official induction of this week's ceremonies. This was followed by a breakfast in the college dining hall.

After breakfast the members of the Junior Class adorned in their new blazers formed a traditional background of the colors of Villanova, when they assembled before the flagpole in front of Mendel Hall. The ceremony was conducted by William B. Cleary, class president. Rev. Bernard A. M. Albers, O. S. A., vice president of the college spoke on the value of patriotism and democracy.

Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O. S.

Continued on Page Four

EUGENE BARR HEADS CAMPUS SOCIETY

Sanborn Is Vice President; Strong, Secretary, in Phi Kappa Pi Elections

At the closing meeting of the year, Villanova's only engineering fraternity, Phi Kappa Pi, held its annual elections in th amphitheatre of Mendel Hall on Friday at one o'clock.

To serve as president for the scholastic year of 1936-1937 is Eugene A. Barr, a junior chemical engineer, who is Associate Editor of the VILLANOVA ENGINEER and also a member of the varsity golf team. To serve as vice-president of the fraternity is Joseph B. Sanborn, a sophomore chemical engineer and Copy-Editor of the ENGINEER. Joseph C. Shea, '37, who fulfills the duties of Business Manager of the Engineering School publication, was elected to represent the fraternity in the Student Council. Mr. Shea's term of office is for one year. Robert Strong, 38, an active member of the A. I. E. E. Student Chapter, was elected to serve as secretary. Another sophomore chemical engineer was elected to hold an official position in the Fraternity. He is Edward L. Murphy, one of the outstanding members of the Mendel Day-Hop aggregation. Mr. Murphy will hold the office of Treasurer for the coming

Continued on Page Three

All Nominations Hotly Contested

Continued From Page One

Charles Stahlecker, Joseph Duffy, Louis Santa Maria, and Charles Dugan.

Those contesting for the treasurer-ship: Pat Vassaluzzo, Edward Fistar, Thomas Flaherty and Frank Sweeney.

Participants for the student council are: Larry Stead, John Chapple, Victor Ashe, Phil Murray, Arnold Lanza, E. Donavan, A. Fitzpatrick, G. Collins J. Grace and E. Kelly.

Aspirants for the presidency of the Class of '37 include: Jordan Olivari, John Simons, John Stahmann, and Joseph Weber.

The candidates for the vice president post: James Keegan, D. J. O'Connor, and J. McKenna. Fighting for the secretary position are: J. Rhoads, J. Guckenberger, and William Bowker. For treasurer: W. Durkin, J. Feehan and F. Fortunato. For the Student Council position: T. Kennedy, J. Lyons, T. Greco, E. Troncelliti, J. Courten, N. Ford, J. Beitenmiller, E. Murphy, W. Burke, E. Sholvin and G. Bagot.

Running for president of the coming Sophomore Class are: R. Walsh G. Kolb, L. Bicher, J. Costello, J. Dwyer, E. Conneen, and T. O'Brien.

Nominees for vice president: R. Howe B. McHenry, A. Vigilante, F. Carroll, and F. Castle. For secretary: J. O'Brien, T. O'Brien, J. Lindsey, J. Dimon, P. Calabro. For treasurer: T. Carbine, J. Kutz, W. Smith, R. Mackin, T. Furey, and E. Matthews. Representative to Student Council: D. Mackowski, R. Calliet, J. Tofani, H. Murphy, J. Higgins, J. Carroll, R. Bond and J. Quigley.

ACADEMY MEETS

Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., and Prof. Leo Schaeffer were delegates from Villanova College at the 10th annual meeting of the American Academy of Social and Political Science held at the Bellevue-Stratford on last Friday and Saturday.

General Public To View Open House

Continued From Page One

great deal of time planning their exhibits and demonstrations.

In an interview, Fr. Coan, acting chairman of the School of Science said, "Judging from the plans so carefully laid during the past several months we have every reason to expect that this year's Open House in the School of Science will excel by far our initial effort of a year ago which brought such lavish praise from the visiting public.

"As was the case last year the various exhibits will indicate the type of work done by the student throughout the school year. The students will be in complete charge of all the laboratories and will be prepared to give a detailed explanation of the several exhibits under their charge."

Prof. Bueche, acting chairman for the School of Technology, said of this year's Open House, "At the present time the School of Technology is busily engaged in the preparation of exhibits and displays for the second annual Open House.

"All the departments are cooperating and many new and novel displays will be shown to the public for the first time. The students in the School of Technology will have charge of all arrangements, and while the engineering societies are directly responsible to the heads of their respective departments for their displays, all students in engineering will take an active part.

"The division of engineering expects this year's Open House to exceed both in interest and in novelty of exhibits those of last year."

Some of the other fascinating demonstrations will include chemiluminescence or cold light, transmission of music on a light beam, mechanical eye, preparation of dye and drugs, synthetic perfume making, the chemical nursery, human embryos, testing of drivers' reflexes, industrial home air conditions and strength tests on steel and concrete. These are but a few of the many other demonstrations which cover all the fields of Engineering, Natural Science and Economics.

Honor Roll Lists Are Released

Continued From Page One

John: Schettino, Peter; Parkin, Harry.

Commerce & Finance School

Freshman—Klein A. Norman; Bishop, George; McHenry, Bernard; O'Brien; Toffani, James.

Sophomores — Connolly, Robert; Olivari, Jordan; Volpe, Oliver.

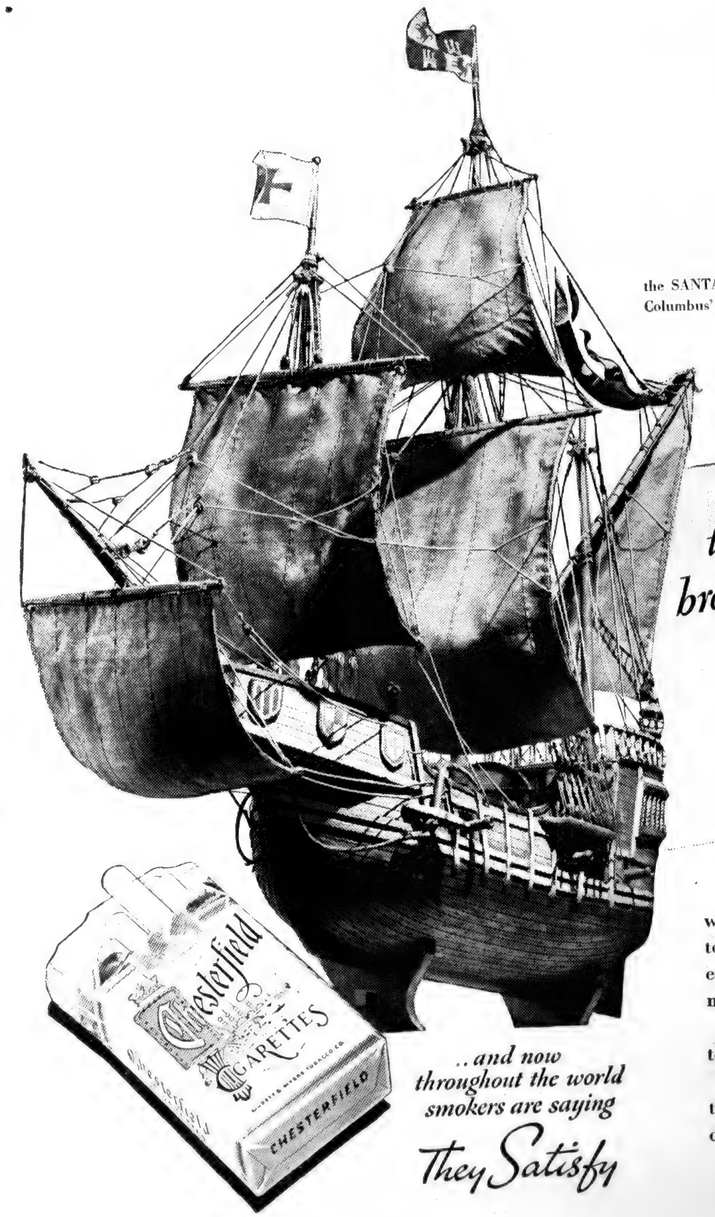
Junior—Mink, William; Murray, Philip.

Seniors—Wrona, George; Henry, John.

Dr. Evans Funeral Held in Ardmore

Continued From Page One

Carl Humphries of the School of Technology who represented the faculty, James Downs, representative of the Student Council and William Keffer and Joseph Foran who represented the student body.



the SANTA MARIA
Columbus' Flag Ship

the ship that brought Columbus to America

..and tobacco to the world

..and now throughout the world smokers are saying

They Satisfy

History tells us that when Christopher Columbus' sailors took tobacco back home with them everybody hailed it as one of the first new pleasures in years.

Today tobacco gives more pleasure to more people than ever before.

Many different claims are made for tobacco, but most everybody agrees on this . . .

Smoking is a pleasure and the cigarette is the mildest and purest form in which that pleasure can be enjoyed.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 24 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Solemn Rites Observed as Junior Week Opens

Political Fervor at Peak As Undergraduates Ballot

Freshman, Sophomore Classes Chose Officers for Coming Year; Simons Leads Future Junior Group

WALSH ELECTED

Popular Arts School Member Receives Soph Presidency

Smooth, perfect-functioning political machines were evidenced in hotly contested elections of the present Sophomore and Freshmen classes held last Wednesday and Thursday afternoon, under the direction of the Student Council.

In the more important battle John L. Simons, of the School of Technology, eked out a spectacular victory over Jordan Olivari, a member of the School of Commerce and Finance, for the much coveted presidency of the coming Junior Class. Mr. Simons is a resident of Philadelphia, Pa.

Richard J. Walsh, of the School of Arts and Philosophy, swept to a landslide victory over Gibbons Kolb, of the Business School, to ascend to the president's office of the Class of 1939. Mr. Walsh resides in Tyrone, Pa.

Other Sophomore elections resulted in John H. McKenna, of the Arts School, being elected vice president. Chosen for the posts of secretary and treasurer were Henry C. Guckenberger and William T. Durkin, respectively. The former is a student in the Business School, while the latter is a member of the Technology School. Representatives to the Student Council include Edward Troncelliti Edward J. Shovlin and Gilbert L. Bagot. The first named is from the Technology School, and the last two are students in the Arts School.

The most closely contested fight in the Freshmen elections resulted in James A. O'Brien, of the Business School, securing the secretaryship of the Class. Mr. O'Brien

Continued on Page Four

BELLE AIR STAFF WILL BE FETED

Yearbook Members Will Be Guests at Formal Dinner May 11

The first formal dinner ever to be staged by the Belle Air staff of Villanova College, will be held in the Whitehall Hotel, Haverford, on Monday, May 11.

The dinner will be held in one of the most picturesque spots along the Main Line. The Hotel itself is modeled after the king's palace in Italy with interior decorations presenting a serene and colorful background for visitors. The cuisine of the Whitehall Hotel has been an important factor in making this a popular spot.

There will be a meeting of the entire staff in the Belle Air office at 1:00 P. M. on Wednesday, May 6. It is important that all the members who have aided in the production of this edition of the college year book be present at this meeting. Reservations for this formal dinner have to be made this coming week so it is necessary that the entire staff attend the meeting and submit the information needed to make the dinner a success.

Robert McGrory, editor-in-chief of the Belle Air, wishes to make it clear that all students desiring their name inscribed on their year book, must have their money and card

Continued on Page Four

COLLEGE FACILITIES INTEREST PUBLIC IN ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE

Demonstrations Continue Today as Record Attendance Is Expected

EXHIBITS ATTRACT MANY

Opening Villanova's doors once again to the public, the students of the college exhibited and demonstrated in their various laboratories the work done by them during the current year as Open House Program was inaugurated for the second annual time.

In conjunction with the initial opening of Junior Week, and Mother's Day, the college campus presented itself in many colorful aspects.

Commencing at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, the students swung into action in their respective laboratories, as the public filed into Mendel Hall.

Keen interest was shown by the onlookers, as the experiments were performed and explained. Although all the laboratories presented themselves in remarkable fashion, it was noted that the Embryology and Biological Laboratories seemed to attract most attention.

The display of the Human Embryo in its various stages in the Embryology Laboratory seemed to be a feature attraction. Another attraction in the Biology Laboratory was the Sensitive Plant.

In addition to the interesting experiments performed in the Science Departments, the Engineers were not to be out-done. The Reaction Test held many in awe, both in its results and in its performance. In this experiment the onlookers are able to test with great accuracy the time that it takes for them to lift their foot from the accelerator of a car to the break upon the changing of the traffic light.

Although a notable attendance had yesterday, a larger one is expected today, due to weather conditions.

Because of Saint Patrick's many wonderful engineering feats in Ireland, several students of the university decided in 1903, that he was undoubtedly the patron saint of engineers, and as such deserving of a great celebration. The entire engineering campus took up the

Continued on Page Three

Hokum King Is Now Idol Of Airlanes

He gave up his title of "Originator of Hokum" and inherited the soubriquet of "The Idol of the Airlanes."

You were right both times. It's Jan Garber, who comes to Villanova for the Junior Prom this Friday night, bringing with him his great array of song stylists including the charming Judy Randall, Lee Bennett, Lew Palmer, Fritz Heilbron, and Rudy Rudisill.

Making his debut in professional music circles shortly after the war, Garber specialized in a humoresque, entertaining orchestra rather than a tuneful dance dispensing organization.

Garber Revised Style

A short time ago Garber revolutionized his style. Immediately his popularity rose and Jan was more pleasing than ever. As evidence of his tremendous popularity it is only necessary to point out the constant clamor for return engagements wherever the band has performed.

The famous Trianon Ballroom in Chicago has featured Jan Garber and his orchestra for two seasons and would like to keep him. The "Idol of the Airlanes" has also rendered his music at the Cocoanut Grove resort in Los Angeles.

The Catalina Island Casino found the diminutive clowning, baton waver featured for two seasons because of his overwhelming popu-

Continued on Page Four

BLAZER BALL WILL OPEN SOCIAL WEEK

Dinner Dance on Saturday Culminates Outstanding Period

Amid a colorful background, the traditional blazerz ball will usher in the initial social event of the traditional blazer ball will usher in the college gymnasium tomorrow night.

Culminating the glamorous social events of the week will be the annual Junior Dinner Dance to be held Saturday night at the Hotel Adelphi in Philadelphia at 6.30.

The college blazer, emblematic of the Junior Year at Villanova, will be officially worn for the first time by the third year men. As in the previous years, the Juniors have had a choice of either a blue or white blazer, with the seal of the college forming a contrast with the blazer.

To make the affair more colorful, the gymnasium will be gaily decorated in the colors of the school. Dance music will be furnished by our own orchestra, the Villanovans, under the leadership of Charles Stottler. In such a setting the dance will be a gala one that will long be remembered.

Raymond A. Murphy stated that contrary to all campus rumors that according to tradition the seniors are invited to attend the Blazer Ball free of charge.

The social events of Junior Week

Continued on Page Four

STUDENTS EAGERLY AWAIT PROMENADE AS CLIMAX

JUNIOR PROMENADE ORCHESTRA AND LEADER

Jan Garber and his talented group of musicians and vocalists, who will entertain those dance lovers attending the annual Junior Promenade to be held at the Villanova College gymnasium on Friday night, May 8.

COLOR AND GLAMOUR MARK CEREMONIES HELD YESTERDAY

Planting of Class Tree, Ivy Feature Morning Exercises

MOTHERS' DAY SUCCESS

BY THOMAS F. KENNEDY.

Amid solemn religious rites, tradition class functions, and official reception of Mothers, the colorful Annual Junior Week activities were initiated yesterday.

Bringing the outstanding week to a successful climax will be the eagerly awaited Junior Promenade, featuring Jan Garber with his host of talented colleagues in the college gymnasium, playing from 10 P. M. until 2 A. M.

Color and glamour will predominate at this annual student function and campus spirit has risen to an unprecedented height in its anticipation.

Solemn High Mass in the college chapel, attended by the Junior Class in a body was the official induction of this week's ceremonies. This was followed by a breakfast in the college dining hall.

After breakfast the members of the Junior Class adorned in their new blazers formed a traditional background of the colors of Villanova, when they assembled before the flagpole in front of Mendel Hall. The ceremony was conducted by William B. Cleary, class president, Rev. Bernard A. M. Albers, O. S. A., vice president of the college spoke on the value of patriotism and democracy.

Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O. S.

Continued on Page Four

EUGENE BARR HEADS CAMPUS SOCIETY

Sanborn Is Vice President; Strong, Secretary, in Phi Kappa Pi Elections

At the closing meeting of the year, Villanova's only engineering fraternity, Phi Kappa Pi, held its annual elections in th amphitheatre of Mendel Hall on Friday at one o'clock.

To serve as president for the scholastic year of 1936-1937 is Eugene A. Barr, a junior chemical engineer, who is Associate Editor of the VILLANOVA ENGINEER and also a member of the varsity golf team. To serve as vice-president of the fraternity is Joseph B. Sanborn, a sophomore chemical engineer and Copy-Editor of the ENGINEER. Joseph C. Shea, '37, who fulfills the duties of Business Manager of the Engineering School publication, was elected to represent the fraternity in the Student Council. Mr. Shea's term of office is for one year. Robert Strong, 38, an active member of the A. I. E. E. Student Chapter, was elected to serve as secretary. Another sophomore chemical engineer was elected to hold an official position in the Fraternity. He is Edward L. Murphy, one of the outstanding members of the Mendel Day-Hop aggregation. Mr. Murphy will hold the office of Treasurer for the coming

Continued on Page Three

Stuhldreher Tendered Testimonial As Farewell Gesture by Friends

Harry A. Stuhldreher, head coach at Villanova College for the past 11 years, was presented with a plaque by members of the alumni at a farewell banquet given in his honor at the Bellevue Stratford hotel last Wednesday.

At the testimonial dinner, Martin L. Gill, toastmaster, presented the silver plaque to Stuhldreher in recognition of his long and loyal service as football coach.

On receiving the plaque, Stuhldreher expressed his gratitude and appreciation for the warm concern shown him. 'I'll be closer to Villanova in years to come than you may want. Any success I may reap will be partly yours, for you have helped me mold it," the departing mentor declared.

Among those who wished Stuhldreher success at his coaching job at the University of Wisconsin were: Rev. Father Charles J. Melchior, director of athletics at Villanova College; Dr. Bernard P. Widman, James P. Leaming, John Feeney, and Joseph A. Freney, president of the Philadelphia Alumni Club.

Captain Eddie Michaels and Captain-elect Tony Sala were convinced, through their contacts with Harry Stuhldreher, that he would

Continued on Page Three

JUNIOR WEEK CALENDAR

Today

2:00 P. M. Open House, featuring laboratory experiments.

3:00 P. M. Varsity Baseball game—Villanova vs. Lehigh.

Wednesday

3:00 P. M. Varsity baseball game—Villanova vs. Temple.

9:00 P. M. Blazer Ball in gymnasium.

Thursday

3:00 P. M. Baseball game—Junior Class vs. Senior Class.

Friday

10:00 P. M. Junior Promenade in gymnasium.

Saturday

8:00 P. M. Junior Class dinner dance — Hotel Adelphia, Philadelphia.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

J. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
CHARLES E. STAHLECKER, '37.....College Editor
NORTON C. FADEN, '37.....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassaluzzo, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38.....Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37.....Exchange Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — John W. Pillion, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Leo Golden, '39
James Tofeni, '39 — Paul Juergens, '39
Daniel Smith, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Rene Caillet, '39 — John Dimon, '39
Eugene Looram, '39 — James Meiler, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39 — Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simons, '38 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Basil Dobrowolski, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Arthur A. Carleton, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — Walter L. Bainty, '39
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39 — Anthony Differ, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff

Paschal Linguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers

Peter J. McManus — Henry C. Guckenberger

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - MAY 5, 1936

TO THE CLASS OF 1937

IT is with the greatest of pleasure that the editorial board of the VILLANOVAN proudly dedicates this issue of the school publication to the members of the class of 1937 in honor of the current celebration of Junior Week. For Junior Week, next to graduation, is the most longed-for event of the four years of college life for the average student. Of course there are some who look upon this occasion as just another week closer to the end of the school year, but to nearly all this seven day period set aside exclusively for the activities of the third year men is a significant one. It takes its place alongside of the very few never to be forgotten episodes in our lives and its indelible print is ever luminous, never clouded. If there are any of you readers who have not yet put your shoulder to the wheel in the endeavor to make this gala week a success, you can atone for your disinterest by wholeheartedly backing the functions of the current week. And should there by any chance be any among you who are inclined to look upon Junior Week and its activities with cynical smiles and sneers let us express our profound sorrow over your miserable plight.

MAY DAY

ANOTHER May Day has come and gone, and many cut faces, broken legs and cracked skulls are testate to the fact. Our modern May Day was born of the struggle of American labor for an eight-hour day. Its early history is one of strife, carnage and repressive military measures.

In most of the non-Catholic colleges throughout the land, May Day was a time for strikes, anti-war demonstrations, anti-fascism demonstrations and the like. The young non-Catholic student, drifting amid the whirl-pools and eddies of Communism, Fascism, Nazism and Socialism, wants to die for a cause but just can't seem to find a cause really worth fighting for.

Let these young people consider May Day as the Catholic Church sees it: the anniversary of the apostles, Saints Philip and James. St. Philip was stoned to death because he believed in Chirst the King. St. James was dealt with in like manner.

Aye!! if May Day had less of red-strike organization in it and more positive action dedicated to the cause of Christ, we would not only be more sensible, but we would save our souls in the bargain.

It is to be hoped that Catholic Colleges take the lead, in future years, in holding May Day demonstrations: a day when the Catholic college youth of the land dedicate their souls and their bodies to the service of their Divine King.

THE POWER OF SUPREME COURT

THE recent decision of the Supreme Court which embodied the statement "that there is no warrant for the view that the judicial power of a competent court can be circumscribed by any legislative arrangement designed to give effect to administrative action going beyond the limits of constitutional authority," has been interpreted as the first formal expression of the Court concerning the much disputed power of Congress to hinder a Federal court from passing on the validity of any legislative action involving the rights of liberty and property as set forth in the Constitution. Regarded in this light the decision signifies that there is no appeal from the decisions of the Supreme Court, except through the amendment of the Constitution according to the rules included therein.

The authority of the Court in pronouncing upon the power of Congress to limit or regulate its activities cannot be considered without some attention being given to the Constitution, which concludes the outline of the Courts appellate jurisdiction by the statement "with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make." This constitutes the basis upon which the argument is advanced that Congress has the right to append to any legislation, that it may so desire, a restriction to the appellate powers of the Court.

Since the Supreme Court rendered its adverse decision on the NRA, there has been considerable discussion in legal circles concerning the power of Congress to supersede the decisions of the Court. But the recent declaration of the Court is the first formal intimation that either group has given any attention to the matter. And from the nature of its statement it appears as though the Court is determined to maintain its traditional position as the final appeal in legislative jurisdiction.

The fact, that the country does not continue from year to year without any change in its social and economic problems, and that occasions to arise when intelligent and forthright action is more necessary than idle disputations upon the letter of the law, makes it essential that the limits, actual or traditional, to the powers of the Supreme Court be definitely outlined. For between a weak and indecisive Congress, that dreads any legislation that may even remotely be labelled as Communistic, and a Supreme Court that is more adept at measuring the Constitutional limits of social legislation, rather than the suffering it is designed to relieve, the country is compelled to abide by institutions that should have been extinct 25 years ago.

EQUALITY

RECENT surveys among the leading colleges in the United States unearthed the fact that nine out of every ten Deans in those institutions when confronted with the problem of having a dumb student on their hands for four years, graduate him anyway.

At least some 81 Deans of our American colleges confessed doing just that when they were asked, "What do you do with dumb students?"

The above should be proof enough that these good old United States are getting along and rapidly, too, at that. For we can remember when all that could be said about this country of ours was that all men are born equal. Now it seems they are graduated that way!

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti

IT'S A FUNNY WORLD. If a man gets money, he is a grafter. If he spends it he is a playboy. If he doesn't get it, he is a ne'er-do-well. If he tries to get it, he is a capitalist. If he doesn't try to get it, he lacks ambition. If he gets it without working, he is a parasite. And if he accumulates it after a lifetime of hard work, he is a sucker. You can't win!"

* * *

Birds and Bees
Buzz through the air
But all Degrees
Get in our hair.

* * *

The following is taken from the Junior Collegian:

"It is Not Easy—to apologize to begin over to be unselfish to admit error to be charitable to keep trying to think then act
to be considerate to forgive and forget to should deserved blame
"But It Always Pays!"

* * *

A kindly father visiting his son at the university, took advantage of his stay to coax the lad downtown to have his picture taken. The photographer, however seeking to please, suggested the bright son stand with his right hand placed on his father's shoulder. . ."Heck," said the old gentleman, "it would be a lot more appropriate if he stood with this hand in my pocket."

* * *

"It's no small wonder that colleges have so much knowledge," murmurs a freshman. "The frosh always bring some in and the seniors never take any away."

* * *

A reported at Indian State Teachers College stopped several students and asked them for the definition of a "goblet." One said it was about the size of a dwarf, only uglier. . .Another guessed it was a four-lined stanza in poetry . . . a third thought it was a species of turkey . . . But the fourth answer was the prize-winning one . . . It was—"A goblet is a sailor's little boy."

* * *

Definition . . . Professors are those people who forever go to college but never graduate.

* * *

Little Mary was in Ethiopia. The Italian bombs were bursting all around her, but she just laughed. Finally she caught one in her hand but she wasn't afrad. She knew Italian Balm wouldn't hurt her.

* * *

Frosh—"Who was that on the telephone, Bill?"

Soph—"It wasn't anybody, Tom, just a girl saying, 'It's a long distance from Minneapolis.' And I said, 'Yes ma'm, it sure is.'"

* * *

Prof—"Now take this sentence. 'The pupil loves his teacher.' What is that."

Frosh—"Sarcasm."

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

FOR the scene of its annual dinner dance the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity, premed intelligentia, chose the popular Hotel Sylvania in Philadelphia. Before the evening had hardly begun the thirty-five attending couples were well convinced that their choice of places had not been in vain, as the facilities and cuisine of the hotel were far above even the fondest expectations. Possibly the five-piece orchestra could have been better, but Lombardo or Noble quality can hardly be expected for fifteen dollars.

* * *

Mario Troncelitti, the Bryn Mawr playboy, took the spotlight when he produced a pair of dice made of sugar and proceeded to deprive his cohorts of their desserts by clever handling of the home-made cubes. Everything went well until some base villain taught a pretty lass the intricacies of the game, whereupon she challenged the mighty junior and calmly proceeded to take from him all his winnings.

* * *

Congratulations are in order for the Junior Class. So far their Junior activities have been a splendid success, and the ardent manner in which they have prepared for Junior Week predicts the best ever. Open House, one of the principal features of the week is turning out to be a marvelous success. The Junior Class has well upheld its duty to show the outside world what a truly great Scientific and Technological school Villanova really is. Good luck and congratulations!

* * *

Austin Hall athletic circles are again agog over a new proposition put up to them upon the opening of their latest recreation room. This room is equipped with ping-pong racquets and balls presented by a generous philanthropist, two tables forming a ping-pong court, and a stray electric bulb. "Cholly" Bruno and Al Mayell, perpetrators of the new enterprise, are in charge and it is heard that the latter is practicing to overcome a defeat met at the hands of a young lady living on Hilldale road. However, the Austinites are fast rounding into shape and will soon set forth a challenge to teams from other campus halls. The winners will play the champions of Rosemont and Immaculata for the district championship. Ask Cholly for details.

Someone about the campus spread the news that A School for Scandal was over at Rosemont College. Result: A score of fellows dashed over to get in on the scandal (from the outside, please) only to find it was just a play.

* * *

The old game of you ask me and I'll ask you has started up again, we see. The fair ones at Immaculata College and Mount St. Joseph's having recently invited some of the local talent to attend their proms held last Friday evidently figure they are sure to grace the ballroom at Villanova this Friday. What a surprise lies in store for some of them!

CAMPUS CELEBS -- By Guarini

Pass In Review

By R. L. G. DEVERALL

HOOVER ADMINISTRATION; by Myers and Newton. Scribner's Sons, New York, $3.50.

WITH the coming elections hard upon us, a work such as this is most pertinent. Myers and Newton state that it is their aim "to present actual facts in a plain, direct manner."

Almost four years have passed since Herbert Hoover left the White House, and it is now easier to judge the man and his policies. When Roosevelt was swept into office, the country surged with a hatred for Hoover that was without precedent. Today we realize that hasty judgment and biassed outlook were the most unfair and un-American things we ever did to Herbert Hoover.

Most of the book is burdened with a discussion of the depression. A deep sympathy for Hoover is inspired in us as we realize and appreciate the terrible crisis that descended upon the new President. Inducted into office in what was then termed "The Hoover Boom," the drastic curtailment of economic activity inaugurated in 1929, was, in truth, a situation beyond the montrol of any man or men. Those who criticize President Hoover are those who least understand the gravity of that catastrophe. Mr. Hoover did what he saw to be the right thing; to heap scorn, calumny and opprobrium upon his name and character was one of the disgraces of the early-Rooseveltian Administration.

President Hoover and his last Congress would excite pity in even the most violent of partisan-politician hearts. Practically every measure of Hoover's was killed or blocked by a hostile group of Democrats. The Democratic House went out of its way time and time again to impede progress.

It is stated that: "The forces of depression were definitely checked and the road to full recovery was freed from obstacles during the Hoover Administration." Yet, in the chapter preceding this statement, we read a letter written in secret by Hoover to Roosevelt in which he frankly admitted his inability to cope with the economic crisis. He predicted the banking crisis and advised Roosevelt to act at once, for a general collapse was imminent. Hoover initiated many wise moves, but it is factitious to aver that he solved the depression. It seems to the reviewer that had the writers of this book been more intellectually honest, they would have advanced their cause to a greater pitch than they do using prejudiced and myopic interpretation.

The authors gloss over the Presidential perversion of the Wickersham Report on Prohibition. In this case, Hoover was guilty of positive, autocratic action. That he did not reorganize and reform the corrupt Postal administration is another blot on an otherwise generally good record.

Perhaps the historian of future years, as he seeks to interpret Mr. Hoover and his administration, is going to note that his chief characteristic was an inability to attune himself with the movements of the day. Unlike Louis Napoleon, the first of the modern high-pressure politicians, Mr. Hoover's public statements were unfortunate and usually were misunderstood by the general public.

A great engineer, Mr. Hoover amply demonstrated that engineers do not understand the mechanism of the State. He had the mind of a technical business man: we deny his claim to statesmanship. The broad view of democratic society envisioned by St. Thomas Aquinas and Thomas Jefferson was foreign to his personality. Therefore, we say, that Mr. Hoover was neither great nor was he a downright rascal: he was pathetic!

As We See It . . . . . Reflections

By HARRY PARKIN

We feel that some explanation and that in the nature of an apology is due the reader for the incogroousness between last weeks article and its title. Designed to compare the merits, and the factors influencing their expression, of motion picture performers with those of play actors, the piece was labeled "The Theatre." But the limitations of space permitted the publication of only half the article—that dealing with the cinema. We mention this in order that those who noted the disparity and did not bring it to our attention, as some few others did, will know that we were not unaware of it.

* * *

To a Lover's Request

I heard you ask Ben
To fill up his pen
And write you an ode for your love;
But knowing the fair
I am sure he'll declare
That verses their hearts seldom move.

II

For the maid who declines
All your fervid designs
Will laugh at your stanza's complaint;
Not feeling your fire
She has no desire
To yield to your want of restraint.

III

By the rules of romance
You must war'ly advance
And be slow in declaring your passion;
For the "fems" quickly tire
Of the ones who admire
In an ardent and obvious fashion.

IV

The whimsical Miss
Who flies from your kiss
With modesty's blushing reserve,
Will languish and sigh
If her charms you deny
The attention she thinks they deserve.

V

As a sex they're disposed
To disturb your repose
If they think it depends on their favours;
Dissemble your pain
And their arts all distain
And they'll seek to o'er come your disfavour.
So merely forbear
Your affection to swear
And seem inattentive awhile;
Then soon she will strive
All your love to revive
And forget to practice her wiles.

* * *

The man you cannot think well of deny the harbor of your thoughts, lest in think evil your mind become tolerant toward it. Mental fault finding, unless it be with ourselves, and ultimately, all they represent in society and eternity. Cultivate the individual you esteem the least ,and you will soon find him to possess many commendatory qualities.

Farewell Banquet To Stuhldreher

Continued From Page One

continue his career successfully at the University of Wisconsin.

As yet no football coach has been selected to fill the vacancy left by Stuhldreher. Father Melchior, when questioned as to the selection of a coach declared, "We do not wish to act hastily. I believe we will come to a decision within ten days or two weeks."

Bob Reagan, the Wildcat's line coach for seven seasons was highly ovated at the banquet. He has a contract with Villanova which does not expire until February, 1937. It is not known whether he will return in the fall, to resume his coaching duties.

The rumor that Reagan will assist Stuhldreher at Wisconsin is unbased on fact. Stuhldreher, however, expressed his wish to have his assistant with him but would not care to hinder his further success. The department coach refused to discuss further plans until he reached Madison, Wisconsin.

Eugene Barr Heads Campus Society

Continued From Page One

scholastic year. Emil A. Mathias, '38, a member of the A. S. M. E., was elected sergeant-at-arms.

The officers-elect for the coming year will officially begin their term as officers at the next meeting of the society. Mr. Barr has announced that this will be on Monday, May 11, at 11:35 A. M., in the amphitheatre. In announcing the first meeting, Mr. Barr stated that it is necessary that every member be present as plans for the scholastic year of 1936 and 1937 will be discussed.

ESTABLISH AWARD TO FURTHER IDEALS

To Give $2,500 Prize for Best Manuscript on Phases Of American Life

A Memorial Award to further the ideals of public knowledge and public service for which the late Theodore Roosevelt was an aggressive champion has been established and fittingly called the Theodore Memorial Award.

The award will be given annually and consists of a prize of $2,500, in addition to book royalties. The contest is open to both graduates and undergraduates.

A committee of judges headed by Dr. Harold Willis Dodds, president of Princeton University, and composed of such other nationally famous men as Dr. Harold Glenn Moulton, president of Brookings Institute of Washington; Dr. Henry Seidel Canby, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature; and Professor Roscoe Pound, dean of Harvard University Law School and others, are in charge of the award.

The details of the manuscript submission are as follows: The manuscript, typewritten, must be not less than 65,000 words and not more than 120,000 words. It must be on any subject having to do with the major aspects, international as well as national, of America and American life taken from a political social or economic point of view.

2. Manuscripts must be accompanied by the author's real name and adress and addressed to the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Award Committee, Garden City, Long Island, New York, not later than January 6, 1937.

3. Announcement of the judges' decision will be made not later than March 30, 1937 and the prize winning manuscript will be published by Doubleday, Doran & Co. in book form.

Further Information may be obtained by calling at the Villanovan office.

Faculty Members In Attendance At Conferences

Fr. Albers Attends Meeting In Phila.; Fr. Crawford at Washington

Rev. Bernard Albers, O. S. A., vice president of Villanova College attended the National Convention of Deans of Men, held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia, last Friday and Saturday.

A number of methods by which the education of young men can be furthered was discussed at the meeting both days.

Another member of the Augustinian Order, Rev. John H. Crawford, O S. A., attended the meeting of the American Physical Society in Washington, D. C. Friday.

At the assembly Carnegie scientists told the physicists that a one million two hundred thousand volt "gun" measured the power that holds the earth together.

Another interesting feature of this conference was the disclosure that the "Sixth Sense" has been traced to the skin.

College Facilities Interest Public

Continued From Page One

idea with enthusiasm. The work of putting over this first Engineer's Day on March 17, 1903, was well done, and as a result, the day was a complete success.

The idea spread and became popular throughout the colleges of the country. An intercollegiate association was formed to spread the popularity throughout the country. The idea became so popular that it was extended to the other departments in colleges, and is now celebrated throughout the country as Open House.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

WHEN scripts are handed out at the Jack Benny rehearsals in the NBC studios Sunday mornings, Sclepperman's lines are not written in dialect but in ordinary language. Jack leaves it up to his stooge to work out his own word twits. As Schlepp never murders a sentence in exactly the same way twice, Benny doesn't know what to expect after he hears the introductory, "Hello-Stranzer."

* * *

Jan Garber, the Idol of the Airlanes, will be down in the gym Friday night feeding the lucky ones with his distinctive style and melodious tunes. Jan has made quite a hit in the past two years, being the recipient of a great deal of applause on appearances and in general receiving the approval of the ardent lovers of jazz syncopations from all over the country. This time the Villanova boys will have a chance to dance, which will be quite a treat to them after the Senior Ball, when the Casa Loma boys had them running all over the dance floor. This isn't a slam at you, Noble!

* * *

"March of Time" character impersonators make strange bedfellows of many of the world's great. Ted di Corsia imitates Herbert Hoover and Benito Mussolini; Guy Repp gets the call for Flandin and Litvinoff; Dwight Weist impersonates Hitler and Governor Landon; while Ed Jerome simulates the voices of Haile Selassie and Joseph Stalin.

* * *

By popular request of members of the VILLANOVAN staff and in particular Mr. Maloney, there will be no starline this week.

* * *

Ten CBS Broadcasts to be Made From the Queen Mary on Maiden Voyage

Ten broadcasts from the Queen Mary during her maiden voyage from Southampton, England, to New York will be carried over the Columbia network from May 27 to June 1 inclusive. Every possible phase of the trip will be covered by Don Ball, CBS announcer, under the supervision of Cesar Saerchinger, foreign director of the Columbia Broadcasting System. The technical aspects of the programs are to be managed by engineers of the British Broadcasting Corporation. On Wednesday, May 27, from 9.15 to 9.45 A. M., E. D. S. T., Ball will describe the Queen Mary's departure from Southampton. From 10.15 to 10.35 A. M., the ship's entrance into the English Channel will be celebrated, while first-night activities on board are to be pictured from 7.00 to 7.15 P. M. May 28 will see only one broadcast from the ship, that from 7.00 to 7.15 P. M., but on May 29 there will be three programs. The first is scheduled as a microphone tour of the ship from 3.15 to 4.00 P. M. Other programs will be presented from 7.00 to 7.15 P. M., and from 7.45 to 8.00 P. M., at which times it is likely that a concert and other evening activities will be heard. From 7.00 to 7.15 P. M., on May 30, and at the same time on May 31, Ball will go on the air again, reporting progress in the ship's race against time, introducing prominent people aboard and recreating the colorful life of the great floating hotel.

* * *

Busman's Holiday

Johnny Davis of Waring's Pennsylvanians limbers up his hot trumpet once or twice a week by sitting in with obscure Harlem swing bands. In the early hours of the morning Johnny appears nightly at the leaders' clubs. They give him a chair and he goes to it. "It's fine for relaxation," says Davis.

* * *

Magic Carpet

When Horace Heidt entered radio he was no less a victim of mike fright than any other neophyte. A friendly radio executive who noticed that the orchestra leader was perfectly at ease during a parlor conversation asked why he could not perform with equal equanimity on the air. "When I'm on a parlor rug," Heidt replied, "I feel at ease." To this day such a rug is part of Horace's "must" studio equipment.

* * *

Shortest Short

Shortest show Benny Fields ever played in, he recalls, was the one in which he appeared with his wife, Blossom Seeley, in Dennison, Texas. They sang just one line of their song, "We Love to Call You Sweet Mamma," when a rope broke and the curtain crashed before them. Painfully it rolled up again and the pair resumed. They got through the second line before it fell again. After this had happened three times the manager said, "That'll do for this show, Benny. Tonight we'll leave it down and you can sing in the aisles." When the aisle act was over Fields ducked in anticipation of the worst as the audience rose in a body. But the result was a shower of flowers, a college cheer and a general ovation. A prominent member of that audience was former Senator Robert LaFollette.

GLOBE TROTTING

By FRED WATERS

EDITOR'S NOTE: In continuing our present series of articles on the nation's capital, Washington, D. C., our next article will deal with another interesting sidelight of that famous spot. It will be appropriately entitled: Frisking the Justices.

HERE are very strict regulations against street-venders here. On the streets immediately surrounding the Capitol, the White House, and many others, peddlers are prohibited altogether.

But on the Madison Avenue side of the White House, at the New York Avenue juncture, there is an Italian peanut-vender, with his little stand, who sells peanuts there from early morning to late at night.

Several years ago, when he first appeared on that corner, the police immediately clamped down. The would-be peanut-vender was on the verge of being jailed, when a short, terse note was received from the White House, saying in effect "Hands Off." From that day since, in defiance of district ordinances, "Tony" has been selling his peanuts on this corner.

The above, coupled with other incidents, has gradually let "Tony's" real identity leak out. Although unconfirmed of course, to most Washingtonians it is an accepted fact that "Tony" is a member of the United States Secret Police. "Secret," excepting to natives of Washington.

Many think that Tony's presence there is now useless, since he has been unmasked. But it must be remembered that out-of-towners do not realize his true identity. And as to D. C. residents and others who do know who he is, it probably does not make much difference. For instance, several of the larger Philadelphia banks have plain-clothesmen on the pavements nearby. Now these men are easily seen. But the banks probably think that their added protection justifies keeping them there, even if their purpose is known.

If you ever visit Washington, be sure to see the White House "Peanut Vender." Try to engage him in conversation. (If you do, you will be more successful than we were!)

* * *

Million Dollar Cellar

Out in the suburbs of Washington, near Catholic U., miles upon miles of extensive country-side have been bought up by different Catholic interests — Georgetown U., Catholic Cemetery, the Augustinian College, the Franciscan Monastery, and countless other large institutions are to be found here. But one of the most interesting of them all is a cellar located on the Catholic U. grounds.

This cellar has been fourteen years in the building. To date it has cost well over a million dollars. This cellar is the foundation of the new National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. When completed, it will far surpass any other church edifice in America. Its height for instance, 333 feet, will be three-quarters as high as the Washington Monument. It is estimated that its completion will require another fifty years. If the finished building measures up to its magnificent basement, the Shrine will be the show-place of Washington.

COLOR AND GLAMOUR MARK CEREMONIES HELD YESTERDAY

Continued From Page One

A., Dean of the Science School, presided at the planting of the class tree; while Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., Dean of the Arts School, spoke at the planting of the class ivy.

The afternoon of the first day of the historical week was devoted to the mothers of the students. Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College ,welcomed the mothers and expressed the hope that the day had brought them closer in contact with Villanova. The Glee Club and the Villanovan combined their efforts in a melodic endeavor which proved very popular. The motion picture entitled "Life at Villanova," was shown to the guests as the concluding part of the program staged in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium. A short tour of the campus and an inspection of the college library was also afforded our visitors. Mother's Day was concluded with a luncheon in the dining hall. Mrs. Fitzpatrick spoke on behalf of the Mothers and expressed the desire for this day to be made part of Junior Week every year.

Today, the college will conduct Open House from 2:00 to 9 P. M. Various laboratories will donate demonstrations and explan modern trends of thought on the scientific world of today. The various schools on the campus will combine their efforts in producing for the visitors important features and noteworthy demonstrations in their particular phase of college education. Many students have been selected to aid in these demonstrations along with their professors.

To conclude the activities for the day, the varsity baseball team will meet Lehigh University on the varsity field at three o'clock.

Tomorrow the baseball team will play our traditional rivals, Temple University, on the varsity field at three o'clock. This contest should be packed with plenty of fire-works as the 'Cats had to come from behind to defeat them a week ago. In the evening the Blazer Ball will be staged in the gymnasium. Dancing will commence at nine o'clock and continue until one o'clock. The Villanovans will feature the melodic background for this traditional affair.

Friday evening the Junior Promenade, featuring Jan Garber and his orchestra, will be held in the gymnasium from ten o'clock until two. From all indications this affair will be featured with fine musical entertainment and glamorous decorations.

Bringing the eventful week to a grand climax on Saturday evening will be the annual Junior Dinner-Dance at the Hotel Adelphia. Music will be rendered by the Seville Club Orchestra ,popular local band.

Felicitations are in order to all those who have contributed in any way to the success of the various events held during this week.

DEAN ANNOUNCES ESSAY CONTEST

Gold Medal Will Be Awarded At Commencement For Winning Paper

The Mercier - Newman Medal founded by Dr. C. M. Magee, for the study of Catholic Authors, will be awarded to a student of Villanova College at commencement exercises on June 4th.

All students may participate in this contest. Their submitted essay must not exceed a thousand words. The finished article must be typed on one side of the paper. Originality of the topic and neatness of manuscript will be important factors in the contest. The best essay on the appraisal, criticism, and appreciation of any Catholic Author or Catholic Literary work will merit the author a gold medal symbolic of the award.

The contest will be judged by the faculty members of Villanova College. The contestants must have their articles in the office of the Dean of the Arts School, Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., before May twentieth. The name of the entrant must not be on the paper itself. The name of the author selected to write upon must be placed in a sealed envelope which will accompany the manuscript.

THEY WILL DIRECT CLASS AFFAIRS

Staff Photos—Guarini

John L. Simons, sophomore in the School of Technology, who was chosen by the members of his class to fill the post of president next year, and Richard J. Walsh, freshman Arts School student, who was selected as president of the future sophomores in the elections held last week.

Political Fervor at Peak As Voting Is Conducted By Student Council

Continued From Page One

just managed to defeat John Dimon, a member of the Arts School.

In the battle for vice president, Robert G. Howe, of the School of Science, won rather handily from Bernard McHenry, and Arthur Vigilante, both students in the Commerce School. James E. Kutz, of the Pre-Medical School, and Leo H. Bicher, of the Engineering School, were selected as treasurer and Student Council representative, respectively.

As can be seen from the above tabulation, the School of Commerce and Finance just managed to secure one office in each of the elections. This was attributable to a coalition of the other schools on the Campus to overthrow the voting power held by the Business School.

The initial meeting of the Freshmen class will be held tomorrow afternoon, at 1 o'clock, in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre. The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the newly elected officers with other members of the class.

Pasquale Guarini Named Recipient Of Digest Award

Photography Editor of VILLANOVAN Wins Coveted Prize of Student Paper

Pasquale Guarini, a junior in the School of Science and photography editor of the VILLANOVAN, was named recently as the recipient of the weekly prize offered by the Collegiate Digest for th best picture of the week.

The winning picture submitted by Mr. Guarini depicted an enhancing aspect of beautiful Fairmount Park clothed under a heavy blanket of snow.

In his three years at Villanova Mr. Guarini has earned an enviable reputation for his outstanding work in the fields of photography and cartooning. He has been responsible for the novelty arrangement of the Campus Celebs Column in the VILLANOVAN and many posters on the campus owe their origin to him.

Much of the photo and cartoon work in the various college publications is the result of his handicraft.

Belle Air Staff Will Be Feted

Continued From Page One

handed into the Belle Air office not later than tomorrow at noontime.

In the past few years the student body has been promised their copy of the Annual at a certain date and then because of some condition, had to be disappointed until a later date. This year the book will be out on time and ready for distribution from the bookroom in Mendel Hall on Monday, May 18. Felicitations are in order to r those who have in any way contributed to the successful completion of the Belle Air. From all reports this year's edition will surpass those of the past.

Many new features along with outstanding improvements in modern photography and general makeup will play a predominant part in the year book for this year.

There is no doubt that this year's edition of the Belle Air will go down in history as one of the most unique and colorful year books ever issued by Villanova College.

Nomination Of Officers Is Made By Jersey Group

Campus Organization Makes Preliminary Draft for Next Year's Leaders

On Thursday evening, April 30, the North Jersey Club of Villanova College held a meeting in order to nominate candidates for the coming year.

The following nominations were made: president, John Cronin, and Arthur Carleton; vice president, Ignatio La Rosa, Thomas O'Brien and James Quinn; secretary, John Manahan, Leo Bicher and Edward Tirrell; treasurer, Robert Tanzola, William Smith, and Joseph Higgins; Sergeant-at-arms, William Dobrolowski and Louis Dubino.

Elections for the respective officers will be held on Thursday, May 14. Much interest is being aroused in the coming elections.

The Easter dance report was presented at the meeting, and the affair proved to be very successful.

Edward Carlin, president of the organization, expressed the desire that all the members be present at the meeting on the fourteenth of May.

Blazer Ball Will Open Social Week

Continued From Page One

and for the year will come to a conclusion with the Dinner Dance. The music will be furnished by the Seville Club Orchestra, one of the most popular orchestras in this locality. The dinner will begin at 6.30 and after that the dancing will continue until midnight. All the arrangements have been completed and the members of the committee have promised that the event will be very enjoyable.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT ACTIVE

During the past week-end, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., President of Villanova College, was in Washington, D. C., where he attended meetings of the American Council On Education, Friday, May 1, and the Executive Committee of the National Conference of Church Related Colleges, Saturday, May 2.

BRUNO IS ELECTED CAMPUS CLUB HEAD

Spanish Society Also Inducts Corkill, Jiminez And Connelly

Charles S. Bruno, Junior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, was elected to succeed Bernard de la Rosa as president of the Spanish Club, in its recent meeting last Friday afternoon.

William Corkill, sophomore Artsman, succeeded George Fox, popular football star, to the office of vice president. Nicholas Jiminez was elected secretary while Leonard Connelly became treasurer. Both of these men are students in the School of Science.

At this meeting Rev. Lorenzo F. Lozano, O. S. A., moderator of the Spanish Club, thanked the retiring officers for their co-operation during the past year and expressed the hope that his new officers would do their best to make their club one of the foremost on the Villanova campus.

These officers will be formally inducted at the next meeting of the organizaztion when a paper on some subject of common interest will be presented in Spanish. All meetings of the Spanish Club are formally conducted in the Spanish tongue.

Hokum King Is Now Idol of Airlanes

Continued From Page One

larity. While at the Catalina Island resort, Garber reached his radio audience through CBS.

Music Lovers would have lost a talented entertainer were it not for a climaxing event in Garber's life. Garber in his youth had always pined for a major league baseball career and advanced to a successful start when his 'break' came.

One afternoon when Jan was engulfed in his sporting desire, his nose was broken. Immediately his baseball career was forgotten. He concentrated his attentions on giving the world some of its finest musical entertainment by the way of his interpretations of soft lilting dance rhythm.

Judy Randall Is Featured

Lovely Judy Randall, who deliberately turned her back on a career on the screen to join Jan Garber's Orchestra, will be one of the featured vocalists at the Junior Promenade. Along with Miss Randall Jan Garber also presents Lee Bennett, who has the knack of keeping his deep vibrant voice unusually smooth and mellow. Other individualists who vocalize with Jan Garber's Orchestra are Fritz Heilbron, Rudy Rudisill, and Lew Palmer.

Dance lovers at the Prom on Friday evening will be especially pleased with the sweet, melodious tunes of "The Idol of the Airlanes" Orchestra. The novelty arrangements handled by the vocalists will contribute to Garber's popularity. Jan Garber will undoubtedly inject some of his humorous escapades into the evening's entertainment, affording no end of amusement for his listeners.

FIRST YEAR DEBATE TEAM UNDEFEATED

St. Joseph's and Lafayette Are Engaged During Past Week

The undefeated Freshman Debating Team met St. Joseph's recently in a hotly contested discussion, centered about the powers of the Supreme Court. The debate was held in the Mendel Amphitheatre.

The St. Joseph's team, composed of Messrs. Kane, Ansel and Krull, upheld the affirmative of the question: Resolved, that Congress should have the power to over-ride all decisions of the Supreme Court declaring laws unconstitutional.

The Villanova negative team consisted of Pershing Calabro, Fred Waters and Hugh Ferguson.

Although there was no decision, Mr. Houseman, class of '33, the Villanova team, was very well satisfied with the efforts of his young proteges.

Last Friday the affirmative team of the first year forensic group, and Quigly traveled to Easton, Pa., to meet the Freshman debaters of Lafayette, the question being the same as in the St. Joseph's debate. This was another no-decision contest, the third so far this year. In all other meets where decisions were rendered, the home team has been given the nod.

The next debate on the Freshman schedule is scheduled with Princeton. It will be held at Princeton.

Ship LAUNDRY Home by RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY and save Loose Change

Railway Express can handle laundry packages for you very easily and economically. Simply notify the folks that you are shipping your laundry by Railway Express and ask them to return it the same way. If you wish, you can ship "collect." It saves time and detail, and loose change.

Railway Express is fast and dependable and can be relied upon to get your laundry back as fresh and in as good condition as when it left home. So think the idea over and telephone Railway Express. Our motor truck will pick up the package at your door at no extra charge.

For service or information telephone

Bryn Mawr 2505

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Sportorial

By Nort Paden Sports Editor

The warm weather has finally hit Villanova and a serious epidemic of Spring Fever has raged over the campus for the past week. Among those so affected by this insidious disease, is your columnist so do not judge too rashly if the pillar does not come up to your expectations.

—V—

Mendel field these days takes on the appearance of a three ring circus. It serves not only as a field of combat for the baseball tournament among the dorms but also as a breeding place for embryo golfers and track men. The new addition of soccer goals also proclaims it for the home grounds of this sport.

—V—

'Tis a pity that the Main Liners winning streak should have been broken during their last journey of exploration for new fields to conquer but the Colgate team had their fingers crossed and the jinx worked. The hoodoo came in the third inning when the well oiled Villanova combination cracked a bit. The Colgate team taking advantage of this opportunity jumped in the breach and drove seven runs across the rubber before the Wildcats could get organized again. It was just a bad break and we'll let it go at that.

—V—

Alex Belli was seen talking to Ira Thomas, scout for the Athletics, at the Temple game the other day but from all appearances Alex will not join the A's for a while yet. It is rumored that Father McKee will not release him from his contract to finish the season with the Austin Hall team.

—V—

The remarkable feat of spiking one-self while participating in a track meet was performed by one Dan Murphy, Senior Arts man, the other day in the West Chester meet. While driving through the air in an attempt to better the broad jump mark, Dan unconsciously, placed his hand under him so that upon alighting in the pit he was surprised, not to say chagrined, to find his spikes puncturing the fleshy part of his thumb.

—V—

Austin Hall took in on the chin twice Sunday, in the morning tussle, Fedigan proved themselves the better men, while Mendel residnts overcame an almost impossible lead to take the McKeemen in the second fray. With the Austinites leading by seven runs i nthe last inning ,the Frosh lowered the lead to four runs. With two out in this final session, and the bases loaded one of the Mendelers whanged one out of the park to clinch the game. Note: Father McKee refuses to Comment.

—V—

The Villanova baseballers are still talking of the treatment they received at Colgate. Talk all you want of Southern Hospitality, Colgate still tops them all. When the visiting 'Cats arrived at this institution, their suits were unpacked and their spikes were cleaned. These little courtesies found favor with the home lads and every one is wondering when Villanova will adopt such tactics.

—V—

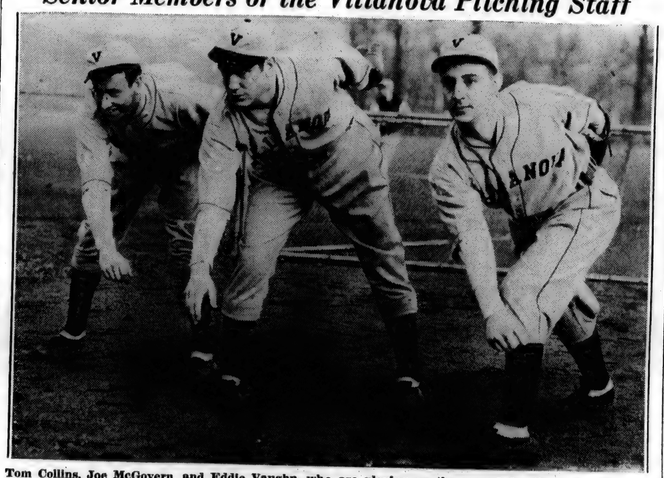
It is with regret that we learn of the passing of Tommy Curtin, captain of the Yale baseball team. One of the gamest athletes at Old Eli, Curtin was unable to see active service with his team due to Leucopenia. This disease is a lack of red corpuscles in the blood and twenty-one blood transfusions were of no avail. Tommy also distinguished himself on the football team and was instrumental in the defeat of their traditional enemy, Harvard, in the past year. The loss of such a sterling athlete to intercollegiate circles is to be lamented.

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, May 5, 1936 Page Five

JACOBSMEN BOW TO COLGATE

Senior Members of the Villanova Pitching Staff



Tom Collins, Joe McGovern, and Eddie Vaughn, who are playing on the mound for the last season at Villanova. These three boys are largely responsible for the eight-game winning streak that was snapped at the hands of the Colgate nine last week.

Sports Scribe Builds Air Castles; Miller, Dorais, Should Tutor Gridmen

With the departure of Harry Stuhldreher for new fields, and, we hope, new conquests, a capable successor to Stuhlie is being sought. There has been frequent mention of obtaining Hunk Anderson, Slip Madigan, Red Grange or Heinie Miller of St. Joe's.

One of the best suggestions that this correspondent has heard would entail a little extra expenditure but would pay in the long run. The suggestion is just this: to get a really great team for Villanova and to attract nationwide attention for the Wildcats, Villanova's athletic board should endeavor to engage both Gus Dorais and Rip Miller. They are both Notre Dame graduates and employ the same style of play.

At the present time Dorais handles the reins at Detroit, while Rip Miller is line coach at Navy. They have both attained national recognition for their fine work and have put out fine players during their years of coaching. Dorais was a backfield coach at Notre Dame when the Four Horsemen were running wild.

With Gus Dorais as head coach, supervising the back-field men, and Rip Miller as line-coach, Villanova would undoubtedly have one of the

Continued on Page Six

VILLANOVA LOSES; RED RAIDERS SNAP 'CATS 6-GAME RUN

Home Runs by Schoppmeyer And Stoviak Feature 16-9 Win Over Owls

JOE McGOVERN SETS DOWN CORNELL WITH 6 BINGLES

Revamped Infield Plays Good Ball During Trip; Sheftic Fielding Star

After taking the first six games of the season in very convincing fashion, Villanova's heavy-hitting nine went down to defeat at the hand of the Colgate University tossers by the score of 10-4. The 'Cats left the campus last Wednesday sporting a six-game winning streak and the grand batting average of .362.

But the lefthanded slants of Bob Wright, Colgate's ace southpaw, were a little too much for the Wildcats. Ten hits were gathered off his delivery, but he was poison with men on the bases, fanning 11.

The Blue-and-White lost no time getting back into the winning column, registering decisive victories over Cornell and Penn State on Friday and Saturday.

Two homers each by Ray Stoviak and Leo Schoppmeyer featured Villanova's 16-9 conquest of the Temple Owls last Tuesday. This game, a slugfest from start to finish, was decided in the sixth inning when Ray and Leo connected for successive home runs to give the 'Cats a lead they never relinquished. Eddy Vaughn pitched this game for Villanova and, although

Continued on Page Six

GOLFERS CONTINUE STREAK, PLAYING P.M.C. AND TRENTON

Stockton and Dwyer Win Both Matches; Tyrell Victor Over Cadets

P.M.C. ASKS RETURN MATCH

Pedagogues Split Match

Trenton Teachers College played host to the 'Cat golfers last Friday, May 1, and showed true New Jersey courtesy by engaging in a no-decision match, with the final score, 3-3, in a match played in Trenton.

Stockton and Dwyer continued their unique partnership at the initial foursome by winning their matches as usual. Stockton shot a 79 to win, 3 and 4, and Dwyer equalled the number one score by shooting 79 to win, 6 and 5.

Ed Tryell and Johnny McManus played in the losing foursome, the Teachers winning match points to tie the match. Tyrell lost his match on the 17th green, giving him a score of four wins to two defeats. Johnny McManus put up a stiff fight, shooting an 88, but dropped his match. The foursome lost best ball. Tyrell, through some mishap, was paired against th captain of the Teachers, and usual number one man of the team.

Cadets Ask Return

Although not formally scheduld, the Cadets from P. M. C. were so favorably impressed by the Villanova links squad that they asked the courtesy of a return match, to be played on Wednesday, May 6. As the golf team is already scheduled for a match with West Chester on that date, it is doubtful whether the match will come through, but Manager Jack Geraghty is making every effort to complete a satisfactory arrangement for all three teams.

Today the golfers will meet Osteopathy, who had defeated them last April, 7½ to 1½, and will endeavor to avenge the defeat. Tomorrow, the disputed match will

Continued on Page Six

HIGH SCHOOL STARS COMPETE SATURDAY

Ninth Annual Interscholastic Meet to Be Held Here May 9

High school and elementary school athletes from 46 institutions will have an opportunity to settle all disputes as to the relative merit of their track and field stars Saturday, May 9, at the Villanova stadium. The ninth annual interscholastic track and field meet will give the budding Cunninghams and Venzkes a chance to make good on their boasts.

West Catholic was the victor last year in the races with the highest score among the high schools in class B. This year they have a good chance of duplicating that victory. St. Benedict's is perhaps the nearest contender for first honors.

The following list of events will be run off for the entrants: 100-yard dash, 880-yard run, 120-yard high hurdles, running high jump, javeline throw, 220-yard dash, one-mile run, 12 pound shot put, 880-yard grammar and parochial relay, 880-yard junior high school relay, police vault, 160-yard low hurdles.

Continued on Page Seven

TENNIS MEN SPLIT IN TWO CONTESTS

Dwyer and Thorne Continue Their Unbeaten Stride In Doubles

After defeating the tennis representatives of Ursinus 4-3 last Wednesday, the Villanova racquet leaders were surprised on Saturday by an exceptionally strong and well-balanced West Chester State Teachers' team. When the last match had been finished, the teachers were out in front 6-3.

In the Ursinus fray, Joe McCabe, Jim Cousart and Jim Dwyer came through with victories in the singles, while the latter collaborated with Bill Thorne to win the doubles in the deciding match that spelled victory for the Wildcats.

Davison and Smith looked their best for the Bears, but they had considerable difficulty in repelling the Feline advances of Thorne and Cook respectively. Smith and Zudy won the only other Ursinus victory when they defeated Jim Allen and Ernie Zaloom 8-6 6-0, in the doubles.

Dwyer, who prior to the West Chester match was undefeated in singles competition, was mastered by Ralph Bentz, the teacher ace,

Continued on Page Six

Intra-Mural Soft Ball Begun; Three Contests Played

Austin Hall Downs Fedigan; Alumni Swamps Mendel Residents, 37-2

The Intra-mural soft ball baseball season started last week with the game between Austin and Fedigan Halls. Bill Dinges pitched the boys from Austin to their initial victory. The final score was 10-6. Austin scored the winning four runs in their last two times at bat, while Dinges shut out the Hotel Fedigan nine.

Alumni swamped the Mendel Residents for their first victory in soft ball. The final score was 37-2. The game was all Alumni from start to finish, and it became a contest only insofar as trying to guess just how high the score would be at the end of the seven innings.

A pitchers' duel issued when Alumni took the field against Fedigan. In a hot and closely contested game both teams hit freely and helped by a multitude of errors kept the ball game going until it was finally called because of darkness. Both teams had to be satisfied with a tie at 27 all.

Austin forfeited their game to Mendel Hall.

All games are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons for the residents. The Dayhops are scheduled to play their games on Tuesdays during the lunch hour. The first game for the Dayhops, originally scheduled for last Tuesday, was postponed.

Varsity Harriers Fare Poorly in Two Starts

Lose to West Chester Last Wednesday Afternoon, 99½ - 22½; Finish Fifth in Invitation Meet

TOM COOK EASILY WINS BROAD JUMP

Twice last week Villanova's track team traveled to West Chester. On Wednesday, they engaged in a dual meet with West Chester State Teachers' College and received the short end of a 99½ to 22½ score.

Saturday afternoon found the cindermen back at the scene of their disastorous defeat to engage in a six-sided invitation track and field meet. Their opponents were West Chester, La Salle, Swarthmore, Albright and Moravian.

Scoring in every event, West Chester piled up a decisive total and won the meet with 58 points. Villanova was fifth in the final ranking with 18½ points.

In the meet on Wednesday afternoon, Villanova was able to capture only one first place out of a possible 14. Tom Cook, Junior Artsman, performed their outstanding feat in the running broad-jump when he leaped 22 feet 10 inches. "Jumbo" Elliot, Villanova's coach, considers this distance to be worthy of notice. Cook also took a third in the high-jump.

"Fritz" Monahan, our most promising sprinter, was Villanova's high scorer in this meet with nine points. He was second to Kohn, of West Chester, in the 100 yard dash, which was won in 10.2 seconds. Fritz tried mightily to break into the winners' column in the 220 and the 440, but he met his nemesis in West Chester's star, Davis, who won both of these events.

Any doubt as to West Chester's well distributed strength was dispelled when they captured the first three places in the pole-vault, the 220, and the half-mile.

Jerry Sherlock gave everything he had in the 440, and he was rewarded with one point for third place.

Places taken by Villanova men in the other events were: Maloney, second in the mile and third in the two mile; Nye, third in the shot-put; Korchinsky, third in the javelin, and Sweeney, third in the discus.

Although the varsity did not quite live up to the expectations of their coach, the freshmen eased his pain somewhat by displaying form that promises great things in the future.

In Saturday's invitation meet Tom Cook collected Villanova's only first place when he leaped 22 feet 9 inches in the broad-jump. Cook also tied Forsythe of Swarthmore for third place in the high-jump.

Each team was allowed to have only one entry in each event. There were no double winners, but, of the 13 men entered under West Chester's colors, nine romped home with victories.

Fritz Monahan tried to bring home the laurel wreath, after having it thrice denied him on Wednesday, but had to be content with a third place in the 100 yard dash.

Jerry Sherlock, Villanova's dark horse, strove to trot home with the bacon in the 440 but two men crossed the finish line before him, and he had to satisfy himself by finishing in show position.

Fourth place went to Jerry Sherlock in the 220 yard dash, which won in 23 and 3 tenths seconds.

In the discus throw Sweeney came through with a third place, thus adding to Villanova's point total.

From the results of these two meets it might be concluded that Villanova's track team is not much of a world beater, but those few students who have supported the team with their presence at these meets can see that a good team can be developed before the season draws to a close.

West Chester State Teachers College vs. Villanova

100-yard dash—Won by Cohen, West Chester Teachers; second, Monahan, Villanova; third, King, West Chester Teachers. Time, 10.2 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by McNab, West Chester Teachers; second, Lott, West Chester Teachers; third, Stroup, West Chester Teachers. Time, 16.9 seconds.

One-mile run—Won by Otwell, West Chester Teachers; second, Maloney, Villanova; third, Bentley, West Chester Teachers. Time, 4 minutes 59.2 seconds.

440-yard dash—Won by Davis, West Chester Teachers; second, Monahan, Villanova; third, Sherlock, Villanova. Time, 52.8 seconds.

Discus — Won by Manifold, West Chester Teachers; second, Robinson, West Chester Teachers; third, Sweeney, Villanova. Distance, 114 feet 11 inches.

Pole vault—Tie for first between Mc-

Continued on Page Seven

Golfers Continue Winning Streak

Continued From Page Five

take place, either with P. M. C. or with West Chester.

Continuing their unbeaten streak, the Villanova golf team competed in two matches during the past week, defeating the Cadets from Chester and travelling to New Jersey's capitol to even a match with Trenton State Teachers College.

Pennsylvania Military Academy fell before the flailing clubs of the 'Cat golfers by a 4½ to 1½ score, and Trenton evened the match by scoring three points to tie the match, 3-3.

Bob Stockton, sensational freshman from Atlantic Highlands, N. J., who has been undefeated since Villanova met Richmond, and Jim Dwyer, another first year man, right on his heels with six victories, were the chief point gatherers for the Blue and White.

Dwyer outstepped Stockton against Trenton State Teachers by shooting a stellar 76, to win his match with ease, while Stockton won his match, 3 and 2, shooting a sweet 79.

Against Pennsylvania Military Academy, Stockton defeated Mal Stevens, Cadet footballer, 7 and 6, and Dwyer topped his opponent, 3 and 2.

Cadets Retreat

In a match played last Wednesday, April 29, the golfers defeated P. M. C., 4½ to 1½ at the Main Line Open Course, Villanova's home club. Bob Stockton and Jim Dwyer, playing one and two for Villanova, took their matches and won best ball for the foursome, giving Villanova four points toward match score, and Gene Barr and Ed Tyrell contributed a point and a half to the final score, the number three and four men splitting best ball with the Cadets.

Gene Barr, junior Engineer and veteran golfer, crashed through with a decisive win over Frank Malicis, all-around athlete of the Chester school, who starred for the Cadets last year in football and basketball, defeating Malicis, 4 and 3, by shooting a sparkling 84. Ed Tyrell lost his match on the sixteenth green, when his opponent shot a par 4 to down the Cat golfer, 2 and 2.

MAHAN PROVES MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Leads Team in Hitting And Number of Runs Driven In

Arthur Mahan, first baseman and captain of this year's Varsity nine, has proved himself to be a better man with the stick so far than any other of his teammates although a few of them are pressing him quite hard. Mahan's average for the nine games already played is .527.

The other men who come closest to Mahan's total are Harry McNally and Mike O'Meara. McNally, who is relief catcher, has an average of an even .500 and Mike O'Meara, right fielder for the Cat nine is next with .432.

In three games of the nine already played, double plays occured. Leo Schoppmeyer, flashy short stop was in every one, either in an assist or with an out. Mahan was the leading attraction in two of the plays and caught the boys on first in his usual big league style.

Although proving himself perfectly capable in the short stop po-

Continued on Page Seven

In the Limelight

By TOM KENNEDY

With the kind permission of the sports editor I have been afforded the pleasure of writing a short history of one of Boston's own. If one were to attend a baseball game on the varsity field he would notice a tall and lean character carrying out the managerial duties of the club. This figure reflects to one of the foremost in the game, Connie Mack. However, we present none other than our own Frank Moriarty.

Frank first saw the light in Allston, Massachusetts, on January 31, 1913. After enjoying four years of life in this section of the Bay State, the family migrated to Hopkinton, Mass.

The early schooling of the lad was taken care of in the grammar school of Hopkinton. When the time came for his High School education, St. Mary's High school, of Milford was selected. "Frankie" established a name for himself in the dramatic world while enlisted in this school. He played the leading roles in all the school plays and still claims this as an important feature for his success in capturing the hearts of many sweet lassies. He joined the school hockey team and aided the colors of St. Mary's to be noticed in that popular sport around the New England States.

After graduating from St. Mary's High School, he turned to further education and commenced his college career in St. Anselm's, located high in the hills of old New Hampshire. Frank continued his hockey adventures in this institution and was a member of the Champion College team of the state of New Hampshire.

In the fall of 1933, Villanova was graced by the tall senator from Hopkinton. He entered the School of Arts and Philosophy and soon took an interest in his college baseball team. Not being too strong with the bat, Frank decided the best way to maintain a keen interest in the sport closest to his heart, was to become manager. He has worked for the past two seasons as an assistant and this year has taken over the head position.

When he receives his diploma in June, Frank expects to impart the knowledge gathered in the class room to students in dear old Hopkinton. The teaching profession will no doubt receive Frank with open arms, as his diplomatic qualities and serene style of conversation are factors of recognition.

The baseball team has christened him "Connie" after the famous "Philadelphia Connie." The title is very appropriate and many times he has been known to follow the "Great" in his tactics. Best of luck in your adventure into the teacher profession Frank. Remember never in the middle of a class ask the student "How are getting back?" as you might have to expound this theory.

Tennis Men Split In Two Contests

Continued From Page Five

in straight sets 9-7; 6-1. The latter is said to be a seeded played in the Eastern Pennsylvania district.

However the Trenton lad and Thorne reversed the order in the doubles to keep their slate clean, when they defeated Bentz and Reynolds in two hard-fought sets 13-11; 6-2.

Thorne and Zaloom grabbed the other two Villanova victories. Frank Groff showed class in defeating Joe McCabe 6-4, 6-2 and he came back later with Anderson, another singles winner, to defeat McCabe and Cousart in an extended doubles match 6-3; 7-9; 6-1.

URSINUS MATCHES

Singles

Davison, Ursinus, defeated Thorne, Villanova, 9-7; 4-6; 11-9.

Dwyer, Villanova, defeated Wooster, Ursinus, 6-4; 6-3.

Smith, Ursinus, defeated Cooke, Villanova, 8-6; 4-6; 7-5.

Cousart, Villanova, defeated Garrat, Ursinus, 6-4; 6-4.

McCabe, Villanova, defeated Quay, Ursinus, 3-6; 11-9; 6-4.

Doubles

Dwyer and Thorne, Villanova, defeated Davison and Wooster, 6-2; 6-1.

Smith and Zudy, Ursinus, defeated Allen and Zaloom, Villanova, 8-6; 6-0.

WEST CHESTER STATE TEACHERS MATCEHS

Singles

Thorne, Villanova, defeated Reynolds, West Chester, 6-1; 1-6; 6-2.

Bentz, West hester, defeated Dwyer, Villanova, 9-7; 6-1.

Anderson, West Chester, defeated Cousart, Villanova, 6-2; 0-6; 6-1.

Groff, West Chester, defeated McCabe, Villanova, 6-4; 6-2.

Zaloom, Villanova, defeated McFarland, West Chester, 6-4; 5-7; 6-4.

Leachey, West Chester, defeated Feron, Villanova, 6-0; 7-5.

Doubles

Thorne and Dwyer, Villanova, defeated Reynolds and Bentz, West Chester, 13-11; 6-1.

Anderson and Groff, West Chester, defeated Cousart and McCabe, Villanova, 6-3; 7-9; 6-1.

Leachey and Towner, West Chester, defeated Zaloom and Feron, Villanova, 6-1; 6-3.

Colgate Humbles Villanova Nine

Continued From Page Five

hit hard, he managed to go the route.

The 10-4 setback at the hands of Colgate was a tough ball game for Bill McLaughlin to lose. Except for the third inning Bill twirled winning baseball. But in the third he weakened a bit, and this coupled with errors by his mates gave the Red Raiders 7 runs and victory.

Friday's game was an example of a wide-awake team taking advantage of the breaks and turning them into a win. The 'Cats bunched their hits in one inning, the third, and three Cornell errors paved the way for all 6 Villanova runs. With this big lead to work on Joe McGovern, veteran righthander, pitched steady ball, shutting out the Big Red until the final frame.

The Wildcats wound up their swing through upper New York and Pennsylvania by administering a sound drubbing to the Penn State nine, 11-5. Once again the sixth was the big inning for the 'Cats. Going into the sixth, the score was tied at 5 all. Singles by Shoppmeyer, Collins, and Garbark and a double by O'Meara were the highlights of the winning rally. Mike O'Meara and Leo Shoppmeyer led the 11-hit attack with three bingles apiece.

Considering the fact that every team the 'Cats met put their ace lefthander on the mound facing Villanova's array of left-handed sluggers, the boys did very well. Leo Schoppmeyer came out of his slump to hit at a .400 clip and was very instrumental in the three victories.

The revamped infield stood up well under fire and was a decided improvement. Walt Sheftic was very much at home in the new position at third base and stopped everything with the aplomb of a veteran.

Villanova now has a record of 8 victories in 9 starts, a record that rates with the best in the East. In addition the team has the highest team batting average in this section with a mark just above .340.

VILLANOVA

	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 3b	5	1	2	1	0
Escott, cf	4	3	1	4	0
Mahan, 1b	5	1	1	6	0
Garbark, c	6	3	3	6	1
Stoviak, lf	6	3	4	2	0
Schoppmeyer, 2b	6	3	3	3	4
O'Meara, rf	6	0	1	0	0
W. McKenna, ss	4	1	3	4	3
Vaughn, p	5	1	1	0	2
Higgins, 2b	1	0	0	0	2
Totals	48	16	19	27	9

TEMPLE

	ab	r	h	o	a
Mullan(3b	6	0	1	0	2
J. McKenna, ss	6	2	1	1	1
Rubinsky, cf	4	2	1	3	0
Docherty, rf	4	3	2	1	0
Adams, 2b	3	0	1	3	1
Geuther, lf	5	0	1	4	0
Mol'la, 1b	5	0	1	0	0
Damillo, c	5	1	1	8	2
Berry, p	1	0	0	0	1
Patte, p	3	0	0	0	0
Ewart, p	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	41	9	10	27	7

Villanova	1	1	1	3	0	4	0	1	5	–16
Temple	3	0	1	3	0	0	2	1	0	–9

Errors—Mullan, Rubinsky, Docherty. 2; Adams, 2; Sheftic, 2; Escott, Garbark, Stoviak, Schoppmeyer.

VILLANOVA

	r	h	o	a	e
Sheftic, 3b	2	1	2	2	3
Escott, cf	1	1	0	0	0
Mahan, 1b	1	2	11	0	0
Garbark, c	0	1	5	2	0
Stoviak, lf	1	0	0	0	0
Schoppmeyer, 2b	1	1	5	3	0
O'Meara, rf	0	0	1	1	0
McKenna, ss	0	0	2	1	0
McGovern, p	0	0	1	2	0
Totals	6	9	27	11	0

CORNELL

	r	h	o	a	e
Rosenheck, 2b	0	0	2	5	0
B'hout, rf	0	0	2	0	0
Batten, lf	2	2	1	0	0
Downer, cf	0	2	2	0	0
K'mer, 3b	0	0	1	0	0
F'ester, 1b	1	1	11	0	1
M'Namara, ss	0	0	5	6	0
a—Dugan	0	0	0	0	0
Lozier, p	0	0	0	3	2
Smith, c	0	1	3	1	0
Totals	1	6	27	15	3

a—Batted for McNamara in 9th.

Villanova	0	0	6	0	0	0	0	0	0	–6
Cornell	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	–1

VILLANOVA

	r	h	o	a	e
Sheftic, 3b	1	0	3	1	0
Escott, cf	2	1	1	0	0
Mahan, 1b	1	0	7	1	0
Garbark, c	2	1	5	1	0
Stoviak, lf	1	1	4	0	0
Schoppmeyer, 2b	1	3	2	0	0
O'Meara, rf	1	3	2	0	0
McKenna, ss	1	1	1	3	1
Vaughn, p	0	0	1	0	0
Collins, p	1	1	0	2	0
Totals	11	11	x26	8	1

PENN STATE

	r	h	o	a	e
Miehoff, lf	1	1	1	0	0
Wear, ss, 2b	2	2	3	4	1
Bielicki, rf	0	0	1	0	0
Miller, cf	1	1	6	0	1
Kornick, c	0	1	4	2	0
Vonarx, 1b	1	1	8	1	0
Fisher, 2b	0	1	3	2	0
O'Hora, ss	0	0	1	2	0
Peterson, 3b	1	0	0	2	0
Waters, 3b	0	0	0	0	2
Simoncelli, p	1	0	0	0	0
xx—Smith	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	5	10	27	11	4

x—Bielicki buted third strike foul.

xx—Batted for Peterson in 3 inning.

Villanova	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	1	–11
Penn State	0	4	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	–5

Scribe Picks Men To Coach Gridmen

Continued From Page Five

finest combination of coaches in the country.

To obtain their services it would be necessary to pay out a little more salary than was paid to their predecessors, but this would show results in the end. More interest would be centered on the 'Cats and greater crowds would be attracted to the Main Line Stadium, which could stand a little enlarging.

It is not the purpose of this writer to cast aspersions on anyone, but just why does Villanova play to crowds ranging between five and ten thousand people? Temple, in its short career on the gridiron, nine years to be exact, has one of the finest drawing teams in the East. This is due to the Publicity they receive and the play that is made of the fact that Pop Warner is at the helm.

If Villanova can beat Temple in athletic competition, why don't they beat them at drawing crowds? They can if the proper steps are taken.

Someone once said, I don't recall whom, that a journey of a thousand miles begins with but a single step. In Villanova's case, their journey to the top may be started by the single and expedient step of engaging both Gus Morais and Rip Miller.

When Villanova starts to draw crowds, ranging between twenty and thirty thousand, no one will bother to recall the initial expense that was needed to start them off. Villanova will be setting no precedent. Anyone can so testify who has witnessed the rise of Manhattan under the guidance of Chick Meehan, who has introduced color and drawing power to that small institution.

SOFTBALL TOMORROW

Tomorrow, May 6, two more games in the intra-mural softball tournament will take place. Austin Hall will meet the Mendel Freshmen in the first encounter. The second game will be given over to a conflict between Fedigan Hall and Alumni Hall.

SPORTS STAFF TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the VILLANOVAN Sports Staff today Mendel Hall, at 1:00 P. M. All members are required to be at this meeting. All students desirous of joining the Sports Staff are invited to attend this meeting.

Continued on Page Seven

Behind The Bat

By GENE LOORAM

Eight out of nine is the season's record to date . . . Colgate took advantage of one bad inning by our boys . . . Captain "Philbert" Mahan has hit in every game so far . . . Walt Sheftic has switched to third base while Leo Schoppmeyer shifted to the Keystone sack. Ambling Walt McKenna moved over to short stop . . .

The team has scored 25 runs and has connected for a total of 114 hits in nine games . . . Which means an average of ten runs and 12 hits per game . . . A very commendable record . . .

"Needlenose" Collins, slugging twirler, who relieved Eddie Vaughn in the fourth inning of the Penn State tussle, is limping around on a sprained foot, the result of landing on a base after leaping for a high throw by a teammate . . . "Handlebar Hank" McKenna, the fast-moving short-stop, spilled a glass of water in the hotel up in Williamsport . . . Mike Garbank sparkled behind the plate during the trip, once nabbing a would-be base stealer by a long throw from far behind the plate to second base . . . Joe McGovern's crooning and Mike O'Meara's wise cracks kept the boys in good humor . . . Ray Stoviak's sartorial splendor dazzled the Penn State co-eds . . . Andy Stopper tried to demolish the Cornell fence with his head during batting practice . . . Johnny Higgins capably filled in for "Battling Leo" Schoppmeyer when the latter lost his characteristic calmness and was banished from the Colgate fray . . . Manager Frank Moriarity received his daily letter from the young lady during the trip . . .

The boys had better prime themselves for the Fordham Flashes next Saturday . . . N. Y. U. was defeated by the Rams 21-2 . . . Getting back to the trip, Frank Escott was—unusually quiet during the journey . . . The boys now await Lehigh and Temple, who will be met in back of the Stadium today and tomorrow, respectively . . .

A game with Long Island University on Friday and the above-mentioned tussle with Fordham on Saturday will spoil the lads chances of taking in the Junior Prom . . . Tough luck boys! . . .

There are only four more games after the next Friday and Saturday contests, which means that O'Meara, Mahan, McGovern, Collins, Higgins, and Vaughn will all leave the Wildcat lair for parts unknown . . . The pitching staff will be hit hardest . . . Three of the fourth year men are hurlers . . . Coach Jacobs has able moundsmen in "Wild Willie" McLaughlin, "Killer" Kane, and Joe Alessandroni, who will be left next year. All will be Juniors so Jacobs will have a stellar hurling combination for two more seasons . . . Then there are the Freshmen, of whom not much is heard, but of whom much is expected . . . With the return of the varsity, to home grounds, the yearlings will in all probability move back to Mendel field . . . Incidentally, the latter is now a soccer field, in addition to being a hardball and softball playing area . . . Coach Cowboy Crowley's Mendel Hall Skytoppers have now won two straight and are determined to snare the diamond crown . . . Fedigan has yet to be defeated in intramural ball . . .

Here comes the weekly remark about the doings of Benny Geraghty, the North Jersey ex-Wildcat now starring with Cose Stengel's dizzy Dodgers . . . Last Friday he was hitting .356, and leading the Brooklynites in that department . . . In an interview on Kirby Cushing's radio broadcast the last time the Dodgers were in town he stated that the reason the club was so eccentric was that they were crazy to get in the first division. At present they are resting in the cellar, in spite of Benny's hitting and fielding.

Looking over the future opponents of the Wildcat tossers, we find that fordham is by far the most formidable, with Long Island U., St. John's and Providence following the Rams in power. Temple, the traditional rival, is never to be counted out as a foe to be feared, but the class shown by the Felines in the previous encounter with the Owls leads us to predict a victory for the Main Liners tomorrow.

(Next to Seville Theatre)
Meet Your Friends at
The Bryn Mawr Confectionery
Tasty Sandwiches
Reasonably Priced
Lunches-Dinners-Platters
Music Free Dancing

LEHIGH BEATS GARNET

Hard Hitting Engineer Nine Drops Swarthmore, 18-14; Play 'Cats Soon

Swarthmore College lost to a hard-hitting Lehigh nine last Saturday, 18 to 14. Lehigh, who will be Villanova's opponent in the near future proved to be weak in their pitching staff until Frank Lucard, husky sophomore hurler, came to the hill in the eighth inning to check the advance of the Garnet baseballers.

Temple University will also be met in the near future and will present a strong club to the Home boys to try and avenge their last defeat.

High School Stars Compete Saturday

Continued From Page Five

440-yard dash, running broad jump, discus throw, on mile relay, Class A; Class B; Class C.

Jumbo Jim Elliot, sensational track man of last year's cinder-pathmen at Villanova College, and present Varsity track coach, will have charge of the interscholastics from all over the East and is making preparations for one of the largest field days in the past nine years.

"From present indications we will have nearly a thousand entries from among the forty-six schools sending athletes," Elliot said. "Our applications are coming in fast, and we will have to work fast in order to complete our arrangements. There still is time to send in entries, as we will hold them open until a few days before the event.

Mahan Proves Most Valuable Player

Continued From Page Six

sition as shown by the above statistics, Schoppmeyer has had at least one error in every game but four. In the game with St. John's Leo muffed his try four times. Sheftic, who plays next to Schoppmeyer in the second baseman's position has errors in three games chalked up against him while numerous other men have muffed at least one.

Stoviac, Mahan, Garbark, and O'Meara are the boys at the top of the base stealing column. Each of these players has stolen two bases during intercollegiate games.

Arty Mahan again leads the list for batting in the most runs. His total to date in games is ten runs driven across the rubber ahead of him.

With this combination of leading the batting averages, having no errors, and assisting in double plays, Mahan can not be deprived of the title of the most valuable player to the Villanova baseball team, to date.

Soccer Candidates Wanted

Coach Ray Gadsby has sent out a call for the those wishing to join the newly organized soccer team to report to him as soon as possible. Practice is scheduled for every afternoon at Mendel field. As this is a new sport, at Villanova every one has an equal chance to demonstrate his ability and prove his right to a position on the team.

Varsity Harriers Drop Two Meets

Continued From Page Six

Nab and Krupnick, both of West Chester Teachers; tie for third between Connon, West Chester Teachers, and Higgins, Villanova. Height, 11 feet.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by McNab, West Chester Teachers; second, Buck, Villanova; third, Lott, West Chester Teachers. Time, 27.1 seconds.

880-yard run—Won by German, West Chester Teachers; second, Beda, West Chester Teachers; third, Hoopes, West Chester Teachers. Time, 2 minutes 8.2 seconds.

Shotput—Won by Robinson, West Chester Teachers; second, Manifold, West Chester Teachers; third, Nye, Villanova. Distance, 42 feet.

Two-mile run—Won by Otwell, West Chester Teachers; second, Bentley, West Chester Teachers; third, Maloney, Villanova. Time, 10 minutes 48 seconds.

High jump—Tie for first between Donnon and Manifold, both of West Chester Teachers; tie for third between Cook and Higgins, both of Villanova. Height, 5 feet 10 inches.

Broad jump—Won by Cooke, Villanova; second, Bertolini, West Chester Teachers; third, King, West Chester Teachers. Distance, 22 ft. 8¾ inch.

220-yard dash—Won by Davis, West Chester Teachers; second, Monahan, Villanova; third, McNab, West Chester Teachers. Time, 22.9 seconds.

Javelin—Won by McGuiness, West Chester Teachers; second, Steckbeck, West Chester Teachers; third, Korchinski, Villanova. Distance, 117 feet 5 inches.

VARSITY SUMMARIES

One mile run—Won by Smith, Swarthmore; second, Beda, West Chester Teachers; third, Stuffin, Albright. Time, 4.38.8 (only three places).

100-yard dash—Won by Cohen, West Chester Teachers; second, Pearson, Swarthmore; third, Monahan, Villanova; fourth, McCormick. Time, 10.1 (only four places.)

440-yard dash—Won by Davis, West Chester Teachers; second, Kirchlager, Swarthmore; third, Shirley, Villanova; Albright. Time, 52.7.

Pole vault—Won by Conard, West Chester Teachers; tie for second between Zuke, Albright, and Viehmover, Swarthmore. Height, 11 feet, only three places.

Javelin — Won by McGuiness, West Chester Teachers; second, Hauck, La Salle; third, Taylor, Swarthmore; fourth, Zelonis, Albright. Distance, 179 feet 10 inches (only four places).

Two-mile run — Won by Otwell, West Chester Teachers; second, Henley, Swarthmore; third, J. Hanson, Moravian. Time, 10.30 (only three places).

880-yard dash—Won by German, West Chester Teachers; second, Moore, Albright; third, Spencer, Swarthmore; fourth, Moses, Moravian. Time, 2.08.7 (only four places).

Shotput—Won by Robinson, West Chester Teachers; second, Parris, La Salle; third, Bower, Albright. Distance, 41 feet 7 inches (only three places).

220-yard dash—Won by McNab, West Chester Teachers; second, Kirschlager, Swarthmore; third, Brown, Moravian; fourth, Sherlock, Villanova; fifth Bostwick, Albright. Time, 23.3.

High jump — Won by Donnon, West Chester Teachers; second, Niessen, La Salle; third, tie between Forsythe, Swarthmore, and Cook, Villanova; fifth, Jones, Albright. Height, 5 ft. 8 inches.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Pearson, Swarthmore; second, Kadlubosky, La Salle; third, Stroup, West Chester Teachers; fourth, O'Day, Albright. Time, 25.4 (only four places).

Discus — Won by Botto, La Salle; second, Manifold, West Chester Teachers; third, Sweeney, Villanova; fourth, McClintock, Albright. Distance, 118 ft. 2 inches (only four places).

Broad jump—Won by Cook, Villanova; second, Troisi, Albright; third, Mallowell, Swarthmore; fourth, Forward, West Chester Teachers; fifth, Niessen, La Salle. Distance, 22 ft. 9 inches.

Points — West Chester Teachers, 58; second, Swarthmore, 41; third, Albright, 28½; fourth, La Salle, 22; fifth, Villanova, 18½; Moravian, 10.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at 57th and Market Sts.

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE VILLANOVAN
Send for Rate Cards or Call
WM. CLEARY Bus. Mgr.
Bryn Mawr 1956
VILLANOVA COLLEGE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Here and There

By WILLIAM BOWKER.

FAME is a funny thing. When a player is coming up into the ranks of stars the whole world is behind him, and when he reaches the pinnacle of stardom the masses rush to shake his hand and collect his autograph. But the moment he is on his way out he is quickly forgotten. We have in mind Babe Ruth, the idol of American youth, and one of the most famous brilliants of all time. Greatest and most colorful of the home-run hitters, and builder of the Yankee Stadium, the Sultan of Swat is now seldom mentioned in the news. He is truly "The Forgotten Man." He might as well have passed on to another world. Such is fame!

Turning to a different subject we find that eighteen or twenty nuts got together and the first encounter between the Class of '38 and Class of '39, School of Engineering, was started. Loud is the noise and weird the playing when these lads gte together. Outstanding in the game was the theft of home by Stanley Narkin, '38, who had confidently predicted the accomplishment of this feat shortly before doing so. Umpires Ed Carlin and Walter Korchinski had some exciting moments when their decisions did not agree with those of the participants.

Perhaps you lads did not notice anything in the Mendel triangle about a week ago, but eight or ten boys were assiduously engaged in the pastime of shooting marbles. No Frosh were present, the players being Juniors and Sophs, with "Powerhouse" Kelly, Jack Hosey, and Charlie Bruno representing the third-year students (?), and Charlie Cooke, "Stonewall" Bowen, and "Dutch" Stahmann, among others, holding up the honor of the Sophs. More arguing took place in this affair than in an engineers' ball game, long considered at Villanova as the ne plus ultra of argument generating contests.

Junior Week is upon us and the Science and Engineering Schools have their big days during Open House, when they are seen in all their glory. Myriad orders are performed for the spellbound visitors by the inmates of those institutions while the members of the other schools of the campus look on in feigned envy.

These engineers are always good for a story. This one, not so new, concerns the construction of a dart board from a drawing board and the playing of darts in the drawing room. The ambitious engineers had arranged a tournament, but alas, the authorities nipped this noble plan in the bud.

We have been reading this paper and we found out in last week's issue that Ray Gadsby has assumed the duties of soccer coach. Much talk has been circulating about a soccer team and now it is a reality. Success, Ray, in your new endeavor.

It looks as though the tennis ensome practice on the outdoor thusiasts were at last to get in courts. The weather, long unsuitable for the racquet game, has suddenly had a change of heart and is favoring us with some sunshine.

Last Tuesday night the intramural softball tourney started with Fedigan and Alumni prying open the lid. Soon after chapel was over the lads were hard at it and when darkness fell they were still trying to find out which team was the better. At the calling of the game by Umpires Al Ryan and Lou Dubino the two foes were tied at 27 all. Looks more like a basketball score.

Intramural golf brings to mind the fact that the varsity golf team is meeting opponents right and left, and, while not undefeated, is showing a fine spirit in the fact of the lack of support given it by the student body.

Cal Tinney, in his bits of whimsey in the Philadelphia Record says that the only difference between him and a fellow who went to college was that the college lad had athlete's foot.

To those who scoff at yours' Truly for keeping his watch on standard time we wish to volunteer the information that a member of the faculty also sees fit not to change his chronometer to daylight time. In addition, there are some members of the student body who choose to go by good old E. S. T.

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop" SHEALEY
235 AUSTIN HALL
(Campus Agent)

JEANNETT'S
BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP
Floral Ideas For All Occasions
Specializing in Corsages
Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association
823 Lancaster Ave.
Bryn Mawr 570

Make Mother's Day Your Day, Too—
TELEPHONE HOME
Hearing your voice means so much to her—as much as your hearing hers!
SUNDAY, MAY 10
SUNDAY, MAY 10
At the NIGHT RATES which start at SEVEN P. M. you can make a Station-to-Station Call to any point 100 miles away for 35 cents.
SAVE AFTER SEVEN
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN DRESS REHEARSAL

750,000 College, High School Pupils In Anti-War Movement

NEW YORK—(ACP).—Five hundred thousand college and high-school students left their classrooms last Wednesday to participate in the third annual anti-war demonstration. The demonstration was a "dress-rehearsal," American Student Union officials said, for the course to be followed in the event America ever declares another war.

Although no accurate figures were obtainable, with the number demonstrating estimated as high as 750,000 by some observers, attendance was obviously greatly in excess of the 350,000 predicted a few weeks ago by Joseph Lash, national escretary of the Student Union. The first strike, in 1934, brought out only 25,000 students. Last year it jumped to 175,000.

For the most part the 1936 demonstrations were orderly, with little interference from opposition groups. Three storm centers developed: The University of Kansas, Lawrence College, Appleton, Wisconsin, and Temple University at Philadelphia.

Pedal Transfer Latest Scheme Among Students

Cribbers Have Perfected Novel Way of Passing Notes to Pals

Columbus, Ohia — (ACP)—The hand that never rocked a cradle may nevertheless be an old hand at a crib.

Not to be outdone i nthe mad rac eof American undergraduates to organize, Ohio State students have formed the University Society for the Promulgation of Cribbing (unrecognized, so far, by the Dean's Committee on Student Affairs) and their researches have brought to light many esoteric and devious ways of confounding the unwary proctor.

The "pedal transfer" is recommended in cases where a pal needs aid. A note is prepared, and one foot is placed upon one's knee. The note isthen slipped into the shoe and the whole device, leg, foot, shoe and note ,placed close to the drowning man, who drops a pencil nearby and extracts the life saver.

University Authorities Prevent Students From Engaging In Strike

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Despite strong sentiment on the part of students at George Washington University and American University here for participation in the nation-wide strike for peace held on April 22, the authorities at both institutions put the lid on the idea.

At both institutions the taboo on the peace strike followed repressive measures previously taken against the campus liberals. At American University Chancellor Grey had at an earlier date issued an edict prohibiting sale of The Student Advocate, publication of The Student Union peace-promoting journal to students while on the campus. At about the same time, the University's official student publication came out against the formation of a campus peace group, in an editorial whose gist was that there was no need for a peace group at American University because the student body was 100 per cent for peace anyway.

George Washington University's President Marvin concurrently ordered abolition of the student Left Party paper. This publication, put out by the liberals and radicals in the University (who iln the last tri-party campus election did no campaigning and yet rolled up a larger vote than the Right Party, although trailing the Center Party) was planning an editorial fight in favor of participation in the peace strike.

Student pinks at American University hint that behind Chancellor Grey's stand against the strike and the formation of a peace group (they are sure that the campus paper's editorial against the peace group was run at his order) is his fear that such activities will affect future endowments to the school from wealthy patrons.

Probably as good a reason as any more immediate one for these measures of censorship is the long time one, the fact that excessive conservatism on the campuses of Washington has always been chronic. There is something about being in the shadow of the Capitol, within the reach of broadsides from super patriots like Rep. Blanton and Rep. Jenckes, that keeps local deans and prexies in a state of constant agitation for fear that liberal student opinion will make itself heard above a whisper.

RADIUM SUPPLY BURNED AS TEST TUBE EXPLODES

Two Princeton Professors Burned In Disaster; Cause Unknown.

PRINCETON, N. J.—(ACP)—Two Princeton professors were burned, and $4,000 worth of radium was scattered in minute particles throughout a laboratory here when a test tube mysteriously exploded.

Determined efforts to recover the invisible particles from the walls and floors and ceiling of the laboratory are being made, and the two experimenters, members of the Princeton physics department, will undergo extensive tests in order to determine the possibility of their having contracted the incurable radium poisoning.

Reason for the explosion of the radium, which was mixed with five grams of beryllium, is unknown.

What's going on here

...what's happening in these 40 houses

—the curing and ageing of leaf tobacco, that's what's going on.

Thousands of hogsheads of mild ripe tobacco are under these roofs... just lying here ageing and sweetening and mellowing for Chesterfield cigarettes.

Like Rip Van Winkle, they sleep—the tobaccos getting mellower and milder for the cigarette that Satisfies.

. . a 1000 pound hogshead of leaf tobacco

Two Radio Entertainments a Week
WEDNESDAY, 9 P. M. (E. D. T.)
LILY PONS
with Kostelanetz Concert Orchestra and Chorus
FRIDAY, 10 P. M. (E. D. T.)
KOSTELANETZ 45 PIECE DANCE ORCHESTRA
with Kay Thompson and Ray Heatherton and the Rhythm Singers
COLUMBIA NETWORK

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 25 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 12, 1936 Price: Five Cents

THOMAS KENNEDY NAMED TO EDIT 1937 BELLE AIR

Honor Student of Business School Assumes Coveted Distinction

BUSINESS MANAGER'S POST GOES TO THOS. FLAHERTY

Entire Staff Feted at Dinner Last Evening at Whitehall Hotel

The first formal dinner ever to be conducted by the Belle Air staff of Villanova College, was held last evening in the Whitehall Hotel, Haverford, Pa.

The dinner was served in the picturesque Banquet Room to the members of the staff and their guests. The decorations blended perfectly with the serene and delightful atmosphere. The entire affair was well recorded with a fine spirit over the initial appearance of the new Belle Air.

The toastmaster for the evening was James Downs, a senior member of the Commerce and Finance School, who conducted the program very efficiently.

Robert McGrory, editor-in-chief of the 1936 edition of the Villanova Annual, presented the first copy of this years' Belle Air to Rev. B. M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of Villanova College. This years' edition of the Belle Air was dedicated to Fr. Albers. The editor-in-chief then presented to all the members present a copy of this years' edition of the year book, with his name inscribed upon the cover.

Fr. Albers, then delivered an address on the effort spent in the production of the year book and the co-operation needed to produce a successful copy. He also expressed his gratitude for the honor bestowed upon him.

Following Fr. Alber's address, the induction of new officers for

Continued on Page Four

PHILA. SCHOOL TO ENGAGE FRESHMEN

Philip Morris Institute Plays Host to Forensic Group Tomorrow

The Philip Morris School of Philadelphia will be host to the freshman debating team of Villanova College tomorrow at the Poor Richard's Club when the two teams will debate on the Supreme Court question.

Supporting the negative side of the question: Resolved, that Congress should have power to override by a two-thirds majority vote, all decisions of the Supreme Court declaring any act of Congress unconstitutional, the Villanova team is expectant of a successful debate.

Villanova's Freshman honors will be defended by a team composed of Pershing Calabro, Frederick Waters, and Hugh Ferguson.

On last Thursday the Freshmen engaged in their eleventh debate of the season when they traveled to Princeton University.

In a debate which was filled with interesting competition the Villanova team, comprised of Thomas Delate, John Dimon and Joseph Quigley, made an excellent showing Joseph T. Houseman, coach of the team, was very pleased with the exhibition made by his first year forsenic group. The Princeton

Continued on Page Four

SOCIETY MEETS

There will be an important meeting of the International Relations Society today at one fifteen o'clock in the Mendel Hall amphitheater. It is urgent that all members of the society attend this gathering.

TO EDIT BELLE AIR

THOMAS F. KENNEDY, who has been chosen by Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O. S. A., Moderator of the Belle Air, to act in the capacity of Editor-in-Chief of the annual for the year 1936-37. Mr. Kennedy is a member of the Junior Class in the Commerce and Finance School.

LIVELY ELECTION LOOMS AS JUNIOR CLASS BALLOTS

Cleary, McDevitt, Parkin, Kunz and Differ Seek Coveted Presidency

ALL CONTESTS ARE CLOSE

The Student Council has announced that the elections of officers for the Senior Class of next year will be held in the rear of the dining hall today, from 12 o'clock to 1 P. M.

A number of candidates are seeking re-election to the offices they held during the past year but the number of candidates especially for the office of Student Council, will make the contest for each office close. The Engineers have the most candidates in the field with ten, while the School of Commerce and Finance has seven and the School of Science six. The School of Arts and Philosophy has four nominees.

Those seeking the much desired office of president are: William Cleary, president of the Junior Class and a member of the Business School; Edward McDevitt, also from the School of Commerce and Finance; Harry Parkin, of the School of Science; Gerald Kunz, of the School of Technology; and Anthony Differ, of the School of Arts and Philosophy.

Among the nominees for vice president are: Mario Troncelliti, of the School of Science; Arthur Carleton and Mario Menocal, of the

Continued on Page Four

CASEY HEADS A. I. E. E.

Fister, Foote and Constantine Elected to Other Offices

The A. I. E. E. branch of Villanova College elected their officers for the coming year last week during their weekly meeting Edward J. Casey, '37, Editor of the Villanova Engineer, was elected president. Assisting him in the capacity of vice-president will be Edward J. Fister, '37. Other officers elected were: Constantine B. Constantine, '37, treasurer, and Richard Foote, '37 as secretary. Professor Harry S. Buecbe was renominated as Branch Moderator. This organization has always taken an active part in Engineering problems around the campus and has also established the name of the Villanova chapter well in the ranks of Engineering circles.

ORATORY CONTEST BEGINS AT 1 P. M. IN MENDEL HALL

Preliminaries for Gold Medal To Be Held in Amphitheatre

ALL PUBLIC SPEAKING STUDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE

Trials Continue Tomorrow And Next Tuesday And Wednesday

Trials for the annual public speaking contest will be held today, tomorrow and next Tuesday and Wednesday in the Mendel Amphitheatre from 1:00 to 1:30 P. M.

The contest is open to all students enrolled for public speaking, and a medal awarded to the winner at graduation. The contest is under the personal direction of Mr. Anthony Frayne, instructor of oral English.

Trial speeches are to be limited to three minutes with the Commerce and Finance sophomores and juniors competing today. Freshman and Sophomore Arts students competing next Tuesday. The Junior and Senior Arts students will conclude the preliminary trials on Wednesday, May 20.

An oratorical style is required for all speeches. All entries must be submitted in advance to Mr. Frayne stating the speakers name, his class and school, and the title of his speech. Two winners will be selected each day for entry in the semi-finals and from the eight semi-finalists four will be selected for the final trials.

The semi-final speeches will be limited to five minutes while the finals will extend to ten minutes. Further details on the semi-finals will be furnished later.

The contest was won last year by Martinez Alvarez, present senior in the School of Arts. The medal is awarded annually for the

Continued on Page Four

SPEAKS AT BREAKFAST

Fr. Albers Delivers Talk for Holy Name Club in Milltown, N. J.

Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, attended a Communion breakfast of the Holy Name Society of Our Lody of Lourdes Church in Milltown, N. J., last Sunday.

Fr. Albers, as one of the speakers at the breakfast, delivered a talk on the part a member of the Holy Name Society should play in Catholic action.

Thomas J. McCarthy, of the class of '28, and now a District Supervisor of the New York Telephone Co. of New York, also delivered a talk at the breakfast.

Julius Becza, a member of the graduating class of 1930, acted as chairman of the committee.

Mendel Medalist Has Collected Plants as a Hobby for 14 Years

"A man will sometimes be long remembered after his death for his hobby, rather than for the endeavor in which he made his life's work," so stated Rev. Julius Nieuwland, C. S. C., recipient of the 1936 Mendal Award, annual given to an outstanding Catholic scientist by Villanova College.

Fr. Nieuwland collects plants for exercise and after 14 years can almost name by heart the flora of any section of the country. "Even though I believe," continued this genial scientist, "that every inside worker needs some outdoor exercise I could never see any particular fun in driving a little white "pill across a cow pasture." That is Fr. Nieuwland's reaction to the golf craze of America.

During the Summer months, Fr. Nieuwland is lured to sunlit beaches the beautiful flora of South Jersey in general, and Sea Isle City in particular. "Here can be found botanical specimens not seen above North Carolina and perhaps even Florida," continued the Notre Dame professor, "but my particular nemesis in South Jersey is not trying to analyze rare specimens but to keep my directions straight on the crooked roads.

"I often get lost while out on my field trips and once in the Wisconsin woods, I shouted for 15 minutes endeavoring to attract attention; finally I gave it up in disgust and by pure luck inadvertently found my car."

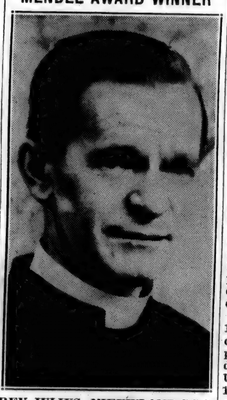
Thus concluded the brilliant Mid-

Continued on Page Three

NOTRE DAME UNIVERSITY SCIENTIST IS RECIPIENT OF MENDEL MEDAL

Rev. Julius Arthur Nieuwland, C. S. C., Will Be Presented With Award Tonight At Faculty Dinner

MENDEL AWARD WINNER



REV. JULIUS NIEUWLAND, C.S.C. prominent scientist from Notre Dame University, who has been chosen the 1936 recipient of the Gregor Mendel Award. This award is given to the outstanding Catholic scientist of the current year. Fr. Nieuwland is the seventh person to be honored with this award by the college.

EIGHTH HONORED

Gained Fame By His Discovery of Synthetic Rubber

Rev. Julius Arthur Nieuwland, C. S. C., scientist of Notre Dame University, will be formally presented with the Mendel Medal, annual award of Villanova College to an outstanding Catholic for advancement in science, at a faculty dinner this evening in the Monastery Refectory.

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., LL. D., president of the college, who announced the recipient of the award, will make the presentation. Fr. Niewland gained national fame as a result of his discovering synthetic rubber.

Born of Belgian parentage in 1878, Fr. Nieuwland came to this country early in his youth, and his parents settled in South Bend, Indiana. He attended Notre Dame University and was graduated in 1899, receiving the Doctor of Philosophy degree. In 1903, he was ordained a priest.

Fr. Nieuwland first attracted the attention of national industries as the discoverer of a compound, which was developed by the United States Government into a gas known as "Lewist," during the World War. Then followed national recognition with the aforementioned discovery of synthetic rubber.

He is at present working with the DuPont Company on a composition which will ultimately enable the United States to be independent of foreign countries.

Fr. Nieuwland has been the recipient of many other awards. In 1933, he received the Morehead Medal, which was awarded by the

Continued on Page Four

L. K. D. Fraternity Will Hold Final Meeting Thursday

At the last meeting of the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity, it was announced that Thursday's meeting of the group, will be the last of the school year. At this time, a final roll call of the fraternity will be made and the names of the new officers will be inscribed on the rolls of the minutes book.

Gerald Piserchia, newly elected president, requested that all debts to the fraternity be settled so a complete financial report can be presented to the vice president at the end of the week. It was also requested that final pin orders be given to William Keffer, chairman of the pin committee, of the fraternity. No further orders will be accepted after this time.

Joseph Tanzola, chairman of the examinations committee, made a request that all examinations in possession of the fraternity members be turned in to him so that a complete list may be made to be kept on the fraternity files in the college library.

DEBATING CHAPTER TO DISCUSS PLANS

Will Meet Tomorrow to Consider Officers, Activities For Coming Year

Tomorrow, May 13, at 2 P. M. in room 214, Mendel Hall, Beta Gamma Fraternity will hold a special meeting for the purpose of discussing plans for dramatics and debate for the years 1936 and 1937, election of officers, and consideration of applications of new members.

Plans for the arrangement of a final meeting of the year for the installation of new officers and the induction of new members will also be discussed.

Present members will bring to this meeting all debate materials on hand.

Candidates for membership must submit a record of their name, class, school, and previous debating or dramatic experience to any of the following: John Hallahan, John Simons, engineers; Joseph Carroll, Victor Ashe, Anthony Differ, William Corkhill, Artsmen; John Chapple, Edward McDevitt, Commerce and Finance.

At the last meeting plans were discussed for the annual dinner dance held at the end of each year, but as yet no specific arrangements have been made

STAFF WILL MEET

There will be an important meeting of the entire VILLANOVAN staff today at one o'clock. It is necessary that all members of both the Sports and College staff attend this meeting.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

J. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
CHARLES E. STAHLECKER, '37.....Colege Editor
NORTON C. PADEN, '37.....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassaluzzo, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38.....Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37.....Exchange Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37	John W. Pillion, '38
James B. Lyons, Jr., '38	Joseph Sanborn, '38
Louis Santamaria, '37	Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38	Leo Golden, '39
James Tofani, '39	Paul Juergens, '39
Daniel Smith, '39	Martin Kassell, '39
Robert Howe, '39	James Kutz, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39	John Dimon, '39
Eugene Looram, '39	James Meiler, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39	Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simons, '38	Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Basil Dobrowolski, '37	George Fanning, '37
Arthur M. Carleton, '37	John Mullin, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37	Walter L. Balaity, '39
Charles A. Skowron, '39	Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39	Anthony Ditter, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff
Paschal Linguiti, '37 John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers
Peter J. McManus Henry C. Guckenberger

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. Mahon, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.
Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Post-office, December 27, 1928.

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - MAY 12, 1936

RERUM NOVARUM

FORTY-FIVE years ago this Friday, a great man, Pope Leo XIII. gave his immortal encyclical RERUM NOVARUM, to the world. Leo XIII. outlined in this encyclical a new social order. He envisioned a Christendom made up of the good things to be found in both medieval and modern civilization. He invited all Catholics, clergy and laity, to join in this vast task. But, alas! few heard the voice of the venerable Roman Pontiff. It required the violence of Russia's OCTOBER REVOLUTION to mobilize Catholic action; required the world-wide depression to secure action of any sort. In 1931, forty years after RERUM NOVARUM, Pope Pius XI. was moved to address again the world and remind Catholics of their sacred duty to co-operate with their Holy Mother, the Church, and "restore all things in Christ."

It is time that we pointed out that the Catholic Church is the only authority capable of dealing adequately with the social problem. "Ubi Petrus, ibi Ecclesia." Yet Catholic Christianity today is sadly lacking in that devotion to the Papacy so characteristic of the Middle Ages. Even Catholics dare to question the authority of the Church.

During this week, many celebrations are in progress: celebrations in honor of Pope Leo and RERUM NOVARUM. But such celebrations are meaningless unless those taking part are possessed of an unswerving loyalty and devotion to the Holy See—a devotion that stops not at even death. As Pope Leo XIII. said himself, we must give the Holy Father "perfect submission" if we want to be good Catholics.

May the Fifteenth is not a day of commemoration; it is a day of solemn dedication. Let us reawaken that old Catholic spirit of devotion to our Holy Father at Rome. Then, and then only, can Catholics expect to combat the Soviet menace and successfully hasten "the triumph of truth and justice . . . of tranquillity and of peace." If all Catholics served their Pope as well as they serve their King, RERUM NOVARUM would have revolutionized the world and probably would have prevented that horrible, fratricidal conflict euphemistically called "a war to make the world safe for democracy."

RELIEF CRITICISM

THE report signed by the Republican but not the Democratic members of the joint legislative committee that is considering the relief needs in Pennsylvania, has created the impression that Governor Earle, through his State Relief Director, Karl de Schweinitz, is indifferent to the abuses that attend the distribution of State aid to the needy. It is being stressed that many relief recipients are not only driving automobiles but also refusing work that does not meet with their approval.

This report as an official acknowledgment that the government is suddenly cognizant of the existence of abuses, that have been familiar to the layman, almost since the inauguration of the system, can naturally be interpreted in the light of a political gesture, but one withal that should not be disregarded. As county relief administrators have been chosen from Republican as well as Democratic ranks, the conclusion suggests itself that prior to this year neither party was inclined to consider the financial costs of mal-administration on the tax payer. But larger issues are now at stake, the only ones that politicians seem to be interested in, and any opportunity that presents itself for one party to decry the administrative activities of the other will not be overlooked as a potential "vote puller."

Since, however, the legislature has seen fit to acknowledge the existence of such evils, the voter, if moved by nothing else but the consideration of his pocketbook, should demand that some effort be made for their correction. Direct relief has passed the transitory or merely emergency measure stage, and bids fair of becoming a permanent part of the tax-payers burden, so that there is little reason why it should not be as efficiently administered as possible.

IT NEVER COMES

BY the end of the next fiscal year the national debt will reach an all-time high of $37,000,000,000. The deficit of the nation for this year will be $2,500,000,000.

The estimates are those of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and he ought to know. He gave them last week before a senate committee considering the new tax bill.

They're not essentially different from other estimates from high New Deal sources for the last three years.

Each year the story is about the same. "There'll be a big deficit this year—next year we'll taper down." And when "next year" comes, the story is repeated. Like "tomorrow," next year, from the standpoint of New Deal financing, never comes.

'CRYING EVIL'

CHIEF Justice Hughes tells the American Law Institute that delay in litigation is a "crying evil." To remedy it he calls for more Federal Judges.

It is doubtful that that is the sole remedy. Chief Justice Hughes, for instance, would probably be the last person in the world to agree that more Justices should be put on the Supreme Court.

And yet the Supreme Court delays weeks and months in handing down decisions that affect the whole country.

The Guffey Coal Act, for instance, was argued before the Court on March 12, and the decision has not yet been handed down.

NRA, created in June, 1933, was declared void by the Court on May 27, 1935. AAA experienced a similar delay.

Justices Hughes says it is "a crying evil when the interval between joinder of issue and trial approximates two years for civil jury cases."

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

MINGLING sighs of physical relief and mental regret mark the passing of the most successful Junior Week in the history of Villanova College. The weather was fine, the affairs well regulated and enjoyed, the girls were ah- superb, to say the least, while the music of Jan Garber, the Seville Club Orchestra, and the Villanovans surpassed even the fondest expectations. Taken all in all everything was just as it should have been and it is certain that a "good time was had by all."

* * *

The spirit of '29 returned again to haunt Villanova campus with its spirit of indolence and carefree happiness. At no other time during the year does true "Rah-Rah" of college life as seen in the movies come to light on our campus. Automobiles everywhere, students lolling about the campus planning for the many social events of the season, and, yes, even a few beautiful girls have been seen here this week. It is unfortunate for us that such a spirit cannot prevail over the entire school year. However, it is also unfortunate that bread and butter, so necessary for sustaining life, cannot be had without application. Why, oh why did Adam ever take a bite of that apple?

* * *

Irv Uram, popular science man, has recently left his job as trumpeter with the Top Hatters to make the arrangements for Jim Esterman and his band. Irv has often played with the Villanovans and those who have heard him know why he has been recognized as one of the best trumpeters in Philadelphia.

* * *

Do you know: that one of the Freshmen residents of Mendel Hall was recently awakened to find that he had acquired a large and slimy frog for a bed mate. What he then did is now well known to almost all the campus.

Joe O'Loughlin and the rest of the Artsmen had nothing to do at Open House except look wise. The aforementioned gentleman was seen to accompany four different women through the various labs—much to the envy of the slaving Pre-Meds and Engineers.

There must be a reason for the heavy exodus of the entire junior class over to Norristown last week.

* * *

Buddy Bonds, youthful organist heard regularly over the ether waves from one of Philadelphia's more prominent radio stations dedicated his entire half hour program on last Saturday to the Junior class of Villanova College.

Included in his program were the popular, "Alma Mater," "Belle Air Waltz," and "March of the Wildcats."

* * *

Ben Maloney, our genial editor-in-chief, is in a bad fix. His holding office in the National Students Peace Federation necessitates his attendance at a conference at New York on Saturday. That is all well and good on the surface but underneath things are not so smooth. For as fate would have it, "Big Ben" is scheduled to appear at Rosemont on Saturday to make the tea dance a success. It is our opinion that the staff's internationalist will have quite some time keeping peace in his own affairs let alone those of the world at large.

* * *

And in parting here's one for the Fediganites: What member of the senior class of the Business School now goes by the moniker, of, "Buster"?

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti

A CHEMIST (a man) has at last been able to analyze women, and here are the results: Symbol, WO, member of the human family. Occurrence—can be found wherever man exists. Physical properties—all color and sizes. Always appears in disguised conditions—surface of face seldom unprotected by coating of paint or film of powder. Boils at nothing and may freeze at any moment. Melts when properly heated. Very bitter if not used correctly.

We are reminded that absence makes the mark grow rounder.

From the Trinity Times we get the following bit of humor:

"You in the back of the room, what was the date of the signing of Magna Charta?"

"I dunno."

"You don't, eh? I assigned this stuff last Friday. What were you doing last night?"

"I was drinking beer with some friends."

"You were! What audacity to stand there and tell me a thing like that! How do you expect to pass this course?"

"Wal, I don't, mister. You see, I just come in here to fix the radiator. I'm the janitor.

I knew she was going to be a blind date, but I didn't know she was going to be deaf and dumb, too.

A hobo strolling along the street one day came upon a young man. "Give me a dime for a cup of coffee?" he asked. The young man replied, "But coffee only costs a nickel."

Whereupon the hobo answered, "I know, but I've got a date."

Dear Mr. Palmolive:
I bought a tube of your shaving cream. It says no mug required. What shall I shave,?
Oscar Zilch.

To the debbie it's the stagline.
To the comic it's the gagline.
To the barber it's the hairline.
To the prof it's the outline.
To the modiste it's the hemline.
To the commuter it's the busline.
But to the co-eds it's the same old line.

Professor Herbert Bolton, of California's history department, believes he has solved the problem of keeping his students from cutting classes. He offers a daily prize for the best limerick summarizing his preceding lecture.

CAMPUS CELEBS -- By Guarini

As We See It . . . . . Reflections

By HARRY PARKIN

LATE the other evening, while attempting to find enough appetite to finish a particularly unpalatable hamburg sandwich, in a small eating establishment, that custom rather than anything else has dignified with the name of restaurant, a negro entered the place, and sat upon a stool some three or four feet removed from our own. The Greek behind the counter, after ignoring him for some time, finally deigned to ask him for his order, and upon receiving it told him what the price would be, which was a sum out of all proportion was any criterion ETAOI portion to the value of everything contained in the ice box, if our own portion was any criterion of the rest. As the Negro showed no disposition to have the order either served or countermanded, the waiter ran to serve the wishes of his other patrons. After sitting in silence for a minute or so, the Negro arose, and with his head and shoulders bowed walked silently from the shop . . . Insulted because nature had not made him white . . . Humiliated before a store full of staring people . . . petty, stupid, contemptible little people, whose excited whispers filled the room with approbation for the callousness of the Greek, who had defended their ridiculous little pride and fostered their ignorant little prejudices. They couldn't swill their beer and feast upon abominable sandwiches in the company of a Negro . . . for even the patrons of a fifth-rate hash house have their standards of social decorum. Their self-esteem—born of intolerance and nursed on viciousness—could not tolerate a Negro while at table. Cruel little people, they saw a man crucified upon the cross of his birth mark and revelled in it. Whispers turned to open commendation, and as coarseness reasserted itself, commendation gave way to mockery and jibes upon the discomfiture of the man who had suffered. Sarcasm soon gave place to self-pity—self pity, that they should be so presumed upon. What were the feelings of a mere Negro, in comparison to the slight that had been put upon their little egotisms.

And the Negro—does he reason the less, does he feel the less, is the insult the less because nature ha daubed him with a hue that varies with ours? Certainly the pigment is as rich and pure—the stamp of nature is as firmly pressed—and the inherent make-up is that of men. Or has nature marked him out for our contumely? Do we educate him, invite his participation in civic life, teach him the doctrines of Christianity, that he may be the more conscious of our insults? Freed from the unnatural and unmoral bonds of physical slavery, is he to be subject to one of the mind and spirit—the more detestable because there is no escape. Paganism never made him bear such evils; but we, Christians—the name is almost profaned by the mention in such company—daily violate the fundamental precept of our religious profession in the treatment we accord a fellow-man.

Men don't become animals—they become lower than animals—a species created by themselves, from the distorted and perverted use of their intellects for the furtherance of their evil and factitious standards of personal importance. Only a mind applied to every detail of its pursuit, and studied in the perfection of elaboration can attain the depths of evil that are possible to men. Their minds instead of exalting their spirits above the lumbering, faulty, terrestrial chained organism that is the body, are concerned with its gratification. Men will never find happiness, either physical or spiritual until they learn that the body is merely the vehicle of the soul, and that nothing which does not damage the soul can have a consequent effect upon the body.

* * *

Open House

Rosemont held an Open House, for all the world to see,
The scientific learning of the modern young la'dy.
The boys for miles and miles
about, all went there to admire,
Saw each exhibit ten times o'er,
and never seemed to tire;
But as no marvel holds us long,
when thoroughly explained,
Our reason asks a question that can hardly be restrained:
And that is, which they went to see, and which intrigued them more,
The interesting exhibits, or the fair exhibitors.

Fr. Nieuwland Collects Plants

Continued From Page One

Western research scientist as he contntdly puffed on his pipe and gazed out upon the sunlit green and perhaps analyzed in his own inimitable way all the botanical specimens in view.

An interested spectator of this terview, Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., Villanova's botanist, remarked as a tinge of red showed on Fr. Nieuwland's face, that the Mendal medalist can name any plant from a car moving 30 to 40 miles an hour.

Pass In Review

By R. L. G. DEVERALL

THE BATTLEGROUND: SYRIA AND PALESTINE; by Hilaire Belloc. Lippincott, Philadelphia, 1936. $4.00.

* * *

THE previous publications of Hilaire Belloc are so well-know that one has but to say that this work is up to his usual high standard; more need not be said.

Syria and Palestine have been for centuries a battleground between Eastern and Western civilization, between the religion of Islam and that of Christ. Romance abounds in the history of these two great geographical areas: Christ, the Crusades, Mahomet, and finally the World War.

Students of history and ecology ought to find this book intensely interesting. Maps and photographs supplement a work of scholarship and erudition. The publisher is to be complimented for good craftsmanship.

* * *

A SAINT OF TO-DAY; by Joseph J. Daley, S. J. Devin-Adair Co., New York.

Works dealing with St. Therese, the Little Flower of Jesus, are legion; nevertheless this contribution to the literature, as the preface writer states, "is an exceptionally notable contribution." It is both sympathetic and scholarly.

In the early part of the nineteenth century, a French man and a French woman thought of entering the religious life. But, for some reason, both were rejected. Later on, they met, they married, and their family grew. God sent nine children to bless their union, four of whom He called back almost at once. Although he denied the parents the religious life, He ordained that Therese Martain, one of the girls, would be a saint—a saint of the modern world.

"She made a saint of herself, pointing out the way for us too, by seizing and profiting by the small and apparently unimportant occasions that arise in the ordinary round of daily life," says the author. From the time that she arose in the morning until eventide came, her every action was dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Like the man who trod the brown hills of Umbria, the Little Flower sang the most exquisite poetry. Ravished by an all-consuming love for the God Who is Truth, Goodness and Beauty, she often exclaimed:

"I am here
"In clustered mass, a ripened grape
"That soon for Thee must disappear."

Read this delightful volume if you would develop a love for St. Therese, the Little Flower of Jesus.

* * *

NEW GOVERNMENTS IN EUROPE; by Dean, Diffie, Graham and Wertheimer. Nelson and Sons, New York. $2.00.

Here we have a grand synthesis explaining, in detail, the genesis and mechanism of Fascism, Socialism (Nazi) and Communism (the Marxist-Russian and other brands).

A good history of the Fascist movement indicates that this system of political thought is fundamentally antithetical to historic Catholicism. Springing as it does from the perverted theories of Karl Marx and the anti-social syndicalism of Georges Sorel, it has assumed under the able leadership of Mussolini the role of democracy's greatest enemy. One cannot read this chapter without developing an appreciation of Mussolini's greatness; but greatness is not necessarily goodness!

The rise of extreme German nationalism, of anti-Semitism and of the Hitler dictatorship is a romantic, though sordid, tale. The insane anti-Jewish program went to such absurd lengths that the angelic incidental music written by Felix Mendelssohn for Shakespeare's A MIDSUMMER'S NIGHT DREAM was ordered forbidden: Moses, grandfather of Felix, had been of Jewish extraction.

A chapter dealing with the Baltic States indicates that the Dictator is now in vogue all over Europe. The Soviet State is discussed intelligently and dispassionately. The famed "dictatorship of the proletariat" is in reality a dictatorship of a small clique of radical intellectuals. Proletarians roving about the Bronx probably have a much better time of it than those poor kulaks back in the old country who are being "liquidated" by the Soviet Commisars.

Concluding, a chapter describes the advent of popular republicanism in Spain. After the revolution, a wave of anti-clericalism swept over the country. The people connected the Church with the oppressive capitalist system—a false inference. And, as Catholic laymen in Spain were almost totally inactive, the Church crumbled before the onslaught. Today, happily, Catholicism is rousing its forces. The Church is active and powerful. Her children, lay and clerical, have come to Her defense. The Church of God thrives on persecution, it would seem.

We recommend this book to all Villanova men. If you live in the world, for the love of Heaven know something about it. Our world does not begin at Wayne and end at Bryn Mawr. Catholic means universal in more than one sense. Know as much about Fascism as you do about the New Deal.

The Villanovan Seven Years Ago

NEW MENDEL MEDAL GIVEN DR. KOLMER

COINCIDENT with the dedication of Mendel Hall, which is the home of the Science School of Villanova College, the Institution honored Dr. John A. Kolmer, director of labratories of the Graduate School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania in conferring upon him the Mendel Medal.

Presentation of the medal took place immediately after the new building had been blessed by Cardinal Dougherty, Rev. J. H. Griffin, O. S. A., president of the college, presented the medal in behalf of the members of the faculty.

The automobile bearing Cardinal Dougherty, Dr. Kolmer, the president of the college and others, was met at the entrance to the college on Lancaster Pike by the Villanova College band. The band then proceeded ahead of the car to the college. Students formed a lane through which the distinguished party passed.

Cardinal Dougherty presided at the dedicatory services. After the new building had been blessed by the Cardinal the exercises incident with the presentation of the medal to Dr. Kolmer were held.

Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O. S. A., dean of the School of Science, took part in these exercises and then escorted the party on a tour of inspection of the new building. Rev. Ruellen P. Fink, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, was master of the students and the band.

The award of the Mendel Medal is the inauguration by Villanova of an annual presentation to prominent Catholics who have achieved distinction in the field of Science. The Mendel Medal was named as a tribute to Gregor Mendel, Augustinian monk, who carried out in his monastey garden the experiments which are today the foundation of the theory of heredity known as the Mendelian Law of heredity.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

MANY radio stars are "doubling in brass" these days, currently appearing on "hit" programs before the microphone and behind the footlights of many Broadway shows.

The list is quite imposing and includes: Bob Hope, comedian on Frank Parker's "Atlantic Family" program, who is one of four "Ziegfeld Follies" stars heard over the CBS network. The others are Fanny Brice, co-starred with Benny Fields on the "Ziegfeld Follies of the Air;" Eve Arden, comedienne on the "Laugh with Ken Murray" show, and Gertrude Niesen, who is starred in her own CBS sustaining program.

Walter Woolf King, star of "May Wine," is singing star and acts as master of ceremonies for "The Flying Red Horse Tavern" broadcasts.

Billy Halop, one of the gamins in the play, "Dead End," is known to his audience as "Bobby Benson."

Arlene Francis, mistress of ceremonies for Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm" programs, is starred on Broadway in "One Good Year."

Neil O'Malley, of "Bury the Dead" stage cast, portrays several characters on the "Bobby Benson" programs.

Eddie Marr, appearing on stage in "Moon over Mulberry Street," plays the air role of the office boy in "Five Star Jones."

Everett Sloan, of "The Goldbergs", and "Buck Rogers," and Allen Jocelyn, of "Five Star Jones" both appear in "Boy Meets Girl," the Main Stem's comedy.

Paul Sabin, the youthful orchestra leader, has just returned from California and wants to go on record as saying that there is no doubt about it but that songs are god-will ambassadors. Proof? Well, while in California Sabin heard many natives singing "Moon Over Miami." (Yeah, but Florida's Chamber of Commerce still hasn't adopted "California, Here I Come," as its theme song).

A teacher in a Southern school has written notes to the parents of all her students requesting them not to let their children listen to the radio after 8:00 P. M. The teacher claimed that the radio programs interfered with the home work assignments she gave the pupils. "Well," observes Ray Sinatra, "I guess this is an answer to those who claim that radio is an educational factor."

Prior to this year, Mary Small, NBC's juvenile songstress, never saw a circus in her life. This spring, it looked as though Mary would miss out again due to a vaudeville engagement in Chicago. However, she returned to New York in time to see the "Biggest Show On Earth" five times—once for each ring.

Dear Pio: Prominent politician opposes preliminary straw vote on presidential campaign. Fears it'll give him Hay fever . . . Man invents electrical device for killing mosquitoes. What's it called—the kiloswatter? . . . Radical condemns society's habit of riding to the hounds. Says most people go to the dogs on foot . . . Then there was the serious predicament of the office boy on the opening day of the baseball season: His grandmother really was sick. . . . Meet the world's meanest gangster. He takes his victims for a ride over cobblestone streets. . . . At the present rate of exchange a Russian Grand Duke automatically becomes an American doorman. . . . Fishing season opens. From the looks of things if the streams get any more crowded the trout will be climbing out on the bank to let the angler pass. . . . "Town Hall Tonight's" pet heckler, Portland, says: "They used to define college bred as a four-year loaf. Today it means too much crust and not enough dough."—FRED ALLEN.

Phil Baker bought an elaborate radio set and the first time he turned the dial it failed to work. A mechanic from the store in New York came running to the Baker home in the suburbs. Phil stalked about muttering as the expert benf over the cabinet. An announcer's voice suddenly boomed through the room. Phil looked up in amazement. The expert gave him a long look. "It works better," he said, "when you turn on the switch."

Beatrice Lillie, who used to do all her broadcasting from a high chair, now prefers to stand while she is on the air. But she still likes to have a chair around during rehearsals and kneels on it while going over songs. She is the delight of orchestra leaders because of her patience but their despair because she never sings a song twice the same way. Favorite gestures while rehearsing lines: smoothing her boyish bob with a sweep of the hand, placing the tip of her index finger against her chin while pondering a speech.

GLOBE TROTTING

By FRED WATERS

IN SOVIET RUSSIA women engage in all types of labor on a par with men. Women ditch - diggers, policewomen, street-cleaners and the like are common in that topsy-turvey country.

There is a large city of nearly a million inhabitants here in the United States where the citizens can never vote! These people can not vote for a President, or a Constitutional amendment, or even for their own city government! That city is Washington, D. C., our national capital.

In Mexico students have exactly one month vacation every year. This vacation occurs in winter.

Atheistic teaching forms an important part of the Socialistic schooling being given to Mexican students. A good example of the methods used, especially in the primary grades, is illustrated in the following: :Children are asked to pray over a piece of ground, and ask God to grow there a stalk of corn. No seeding or anything else is done to that piece of ground, it is simply prayed over. When nothing happens, the child is told to plant a seed, and cultivate the soil. When a sprout appears, the youngster is then informed that "he is more powerful than God," "that if there were a God, he surely could grow a simple little corn sprout." "What is the use of believing in, or praying to a God who never answers one's prayers, a God who is of absolutely no use to anyone," "a man succeeds in accomplishing something, not by praying, but by action." Such are the falacious, the insidious, teachings being instilled into helpless Mexican school-children.

Since a red-soviet flag was found atop the flag pole in front of the Supreme Court Building in Washington, one day last week, many rumours are being bruited about. One has it that this particular incident was only one in a series of similar red-flag raisings on prominent public edifices all over the capital city. These others have been very efficiently hushed-up. The publicity to be afforded by such was evidently very much undesired. No effort was made, however, to quelch the news of this recent affront to the Supreme Court, pictures of which (red flag unfurling) made the front pages of practically every news-sheet in the country.

Now the New Dealers are not exactly on the best of terms with the Court. High Washington officialdom, chiefly Democratic, which had it in its power to do so, did not raise a finger against the publication of this latest happening.

All of this raises many interesting speculations. Republicans are trying their utmost to make capital out of it.

Examples of the extreme privation which Italians were forced to under-go in Italy during the Ethiopian set-to, is strikingly illustrated by the prices of various foods. Coffee for instance, sold at $1.40 per pound! Family food budgets had to be cut to the bone.

In this connection may we friendly suggest that the enforced diet was not without its benefits. The total tonnage of Italian humanity (especially the matured portion) was probably very measurably reduced!

SENIORS TO HOLD ELIMINATION TEST FOR VALEDICTORY

Two Members Chosen From Each School to Vie For First Honors

FINALS WILL BE FRIDAY

Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of Villanova College, has announced names of the Seniors who will qualify for class valedictorian in a contest to be held on Friday, May 15.

The following Senior classmen have been selected by the dean of their respective schools to vie for the honor of valedictorian: William C. Vaughn, president of the Senior class, and Charles F. Kain, representing the School of Engineering; Joseph Bigley and Robert Immordino, Science School; Rafael Martinez-Alvarez and Carmen Giordano, School of Arts and Philosophy.

Representatives from the School of Commerce and Finance will be selected today in a pre-elimination contest to be held in the Commerce auditorium. The judges for this contest have not as yet been selected.

The final competition on Friday noon will consist in the delivery of original speeches on two proposed topics. The subjects to be discoursed are two civic problems of the day: "Is the United States tending toward Socialism" and "Should the Constitution of the United States be changed?"

The original compositions will be judged according to material, delivery, and poise. Five minutes is the approximate time customarily given for the contest address.

SUCCESSFUL WEEK HELD BY JUNIORS

Social Activities Prove Outstanding as Annual Junior Week Closes

Villanova's traditional and colorful Junior Week was formally concluded Saturday evening, when the members of the class of '37 held their dinner dance in the Adelphia Hotel in Philadelphia.

The entire week was one of delightful and entertaining festivities for the members of the class. The social program was inducted with the Blazer Ball on Wednesday evening. Friday found the Junior Promenade featuring Jan Garber delightfully conducted. Climaxing the eventful week was the annual Junior Dinner Dance.

The Blazer Ball was considered the most successful of all the Blazer Balls given in the past by the Junior Classes of Villanova College. This affair was a complete success both financial and socially.

The Junior Promenade was one of color and much glamor. The smooth, rhythmic tunes of Jan Garber supported by a fine array of musical talent blended in giving the entire audience an unusual evening of enjoyment.

Concluding the week of activities insofar as the social end of the traditional Junior Week was concerned, the entire class dined and danced Saturday evening climaxing the last social affair for this year. Beginning at 8 P. M. and extending until midnight, the affair progressed rapidly and proved to be very enjoyable to all.

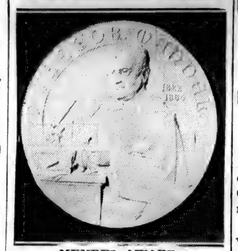
Fellcitations are in order to all the members of the Junior Class and anyone who blended their talent and ability in producing one of the finest Junior Weeks in the history of Villanova College. The entire student body recorded the array of talent featured for the various social affairs with great attendance and interest.

EXPENSIVE PASTIME

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(ACP)—Ohio State students spend an average of $1500 a month on pin-ball games, according to a survey made by the Ohio State Lantern.

Sixteen machines were found in the immediate environs of the university, located in ten different places of business. Average weekly "take," Lantern reporters learned, is $25.

TO BE AWARDED TONIGHT



MENDEL AWARD
Above is pictured the Gregor Mendel Medal, which is presented each year by the authorities of Villanova College to the outstanding Catholic Scientist of the year. The Mendel Award will be presented tonight at a faculty dinner to Rev. Julius Nieuwland, C. S. C., of Notre Dame University.

Mendel Medal To Be Awarded

Continued From Page One

International Acetylene Association for outstanding work in acetylene. Two years later he was presented with the Nichols Medal, which is the highest honor conferred by the American Chemical Society. Fr. Niewland is head of the British and American Chemical Societies.

The Mendel Medal was inaugurated in 1928 by Villanova College in honor of Gregor Mendel, Augustinian monk. Fr. Mendel, experimenting in his monastery garden, evolved his celebrated laws of heredity, which were destined to shake the very foundation of established biological methods. The Mendel Award is awarded annually to a Catholic, who has signally advanced the cause of Science.

Seven other prominent Catholics have been singularly honored by the college with the Mendel Medal, since the award was instituted.

Dr. John A. Kolmer, world-famous blood specialist, professor of medicine at Temple University, was the first recipient of this honorary award, in 1929. Receiving the Mendel Medal in 1930 was Dr. Albert F. Zahm, pioneer in aeronautics, and director of aeronautical research in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Karl F. Herzfeld, professor of research physics at John Hopkins University, had the honor conferred on him in 1931, while Dr. Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation of America, was selected in 1932 to receive the medal.

Dr. Hugh Scott Taylor, chairman of the Chemistry Department of Princeton University, was awarded the Mendel Medal in 1933. Abbe Georges Le Maitre, eminent Belgian priest-scientist, was bestowed with the medal in 1934, and Francis Owen Rice, John Hopkins University scientist, was the recipient last year.

Lively Election Looms for Juniors

Continued From Page One

School of Technology; and Albert Mayell, of the Arts School.

Candidates for secretary are: Charles Stahlecker, of the School of Arts; Joseph Duffy, of the School of Technology; Louis Santamaria and Charles Dugan, both of the School of Science.

For the office of treasurer are: Pat Vassalluzzo, of the School of Science; Thomas Flaherty, of the School of Commerce and Finance; Ed Fister and Frank Sweeney, of the School of Technology.

Participants for the office of Student Council, of which two will be elected are: Lawrence Stead, of the School of Science; Victor Ashe, of the School of Arts; John Chapple, Phillip Murray, Edward Donovan, and Edward Kelly, all of the School of Commerce and Finance; Arnold Lanza, George Collins, John Grace, and Al Fitzpatrick, all from the School of Technology.

The members of the Student Council will hold their elections of officers tonight in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre. The elections are scheduled to begin at 5.30 sharp. All councilmen are requested to be on hand at that time.

OVER 2000 ATTEND OPEN HOUSE HERE

Mechanical Eye Records Above Number as Second Annual Exhibit Closes

Tuesday evening May 5th marked the close of the Second Annual Open House conducted at Villanova College.

More than two thousand people were recorded to have entered the exhibit. These people were counted by a mechanical eye. As each person broke the beam of light shining across the entrance the electric eye recorded the break.

All the departments in the school had very attractive exhibits. One of the outstanding experiments was conducted in the engineering department.

The testing of drivers' reflexes in the engineering experiment in the basement showed that most of the people who took the test were about average. The purpose of the test was to measure the length of time required for the driver to remove his foot from the accelerator to the brake pedal after the change of the light. The average time required was estimated to be about three quarters of a second.

Another practical experiment was the showing of the cost of operation of electric apparatus of various types for an hour. This test showed that the cost is relatively little to use an electric iron, radio, toaster and large electric bulb at the one time.

The scientific demonstrations were the center of special interest. Most people seemed interested in the anatomy and biological exhibits. The students dissected many frogs and smaller animals and explained the structures, reflexes, and functions of the bodies. A number of cats were also dissected.

The Physics students contributed many interesting experiments, among which were the well-known Magdeberg hemispheres which demonstrates the defects of the eye lenses. Another experiment showed how the length of sound is measured. Another showed how the sound waves in an organ are produced.

In the Basteriology laboratory the various causes of prevalent diseases were shown under the microscope and explained by the students.

The Artsmen also contributed to the Open House by offering a literary museum on the third floor. Here they had many rare specimens of books and manuscripts dating back many years. On walls were many broadsides containing illustrations and popular poems.

Mendel Bulletin Features Varied Science Articles

Material for Publication Is Confined to Undergraduate Topics

Final preparations for the publication of the annual Mendel Science Bulletin are being rapidly completed and it is expected to make its appearance on the campus at the end of this month. Editor-in-chief Frank Bellarmino is assembling one of the largest publications of this sort yet to appear.

This year's edition will comprise approximately eighteen feature articles and the topic material is to be confined strictly to undergraduate sciences. In previous years the subjects sometimes included medical and graduate topics. Also, this year the bulletin will include a large number of papers written by underclassmen instead of depending mostly on senior writers.

Definite dates and the titles of the enclosed articles are still pending and will not be disclosed until next week's issue. There is also a rumor circulating the college that this annual feature may be increased in the future years and will appear as a quarterly publication. This rumor is expected to be either verified or repudiated in the near future.

CHAPTER MEETS

There will be a special meeting of the Beta Gamma Debating Chapter tomorrow in Room 214 Mendel Hall at 2.30 P. M.

APPOINTED BUSINESS MGR.

THOMAS J. FLAHERTY, JR., a Junior in the School of Commerce and Finance, who has been selected as Business Manager of the Belle Air for the coming year. Mr. Flaherty has been actively connected with many other campus functions besides the class annual, only recently holding an important position on one of the Junior Week committees.

Phila. School to Engage Freshmen

Continued From Page One

team consisted of A. Grossman, A. Bolty, and S. Goodman.

The affair was held before an appreciative audience in Whig Hall on the Princeton campus. No decision was rendered in the debate in which the Villanova team defended the affirmative side of the Collegiate debating question on the Supreme Court topic.

The Freshman Debaters are as yet undefeated and the members of the club feel sure to defend their laurels in tomorrow's meet.

Oratory Contest Begins at 1 P. M.

Continued From Page One

purpose of stimulating student interest in the art of public speaking. Contests of this nature have always proved outstandingly successful, and it is the desire of the faculty that this year's contest will prove no exception. Applications should be entered as soon as possible with Mr. Frayne.

P. K. P. FRATERNITY DISCUSSES PLANS

First Meeting Under New Officers Held Yesterday Morning

Phi Kappa Pi held its first meeting under the recently elected officers yesterday at 11.40 A. M. in the amphitheatre of Mendel Hall.

Eugene A. Barr, '37 president of the fraternity, opened the meeting with a prayer. Immediately following the invocation, Mr. Barr called upon Edward Casey, retiring treasurer, who officially turned over the duties of treasurer to Edward Murphy, '38. This was followed by an introduction of the officers for 1936-37.

A very active meeting was held many suggestions were made by the many attending members for the already planned events of the next scholastic year. Most interest was centered in the annual Owl Hop. This dance is customarily held before Thanksgiving Day, inaugurating the social season. Mr. Barr then outlined an extensive sports program to be carried out by interclass teams. It was announced definitely that the winning class team would be awarded a prize.

A committee for the annual Owl Hop will be selected and announced at the next meeting of the frat on Monday, May 18.

Thomas Kennedy To Edit Annual

Continued From Page One

the coming year was made public by Robert McGrory. The new officers for the 1937 edition of the Belle Air are: Thomas F. Kennedy, Jr., editor-in-chief, and Thomas Flaherty, business manager. Both these men are members of the Commerce and Finance School and the class of '37.

To conclude the program for the evening Edward Riley, a senior in the Arts School, presented to Robert McGrory, agenuine cowhide match set of English luggage consisting of a Gladstone bag and an overnight bag. Mr. McGrory then expressed his thanks to all the members for their beautiful gifts and their co-operation during the year. He also thanked Rev. Donald Favley O. S. A., and Vev. Vrana, for their guiding influence and as-O. S. A. for their guiding influence and assistance in the production of th 1936 edition of the Belle Air.

Ship Home by LAUNDRY RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY and save Loose Change

Railway Express can handle laundry packages for you very easily and economically. Simply notify the folks that you are shipping your laundry by Railway Express and ask them to return it the same way. If you wish, you can ship "collect." It saves time and detail, and loose change.

Railway Express is fast and dependable and can be relied upon to get your laundry back as fresh and in as good condition as when it left home. So think the idea over and telephone Railway Express. Our motor truck will pick up the package at your door at no extra charge.

For service or information telephone

Bryn Mawr 2505

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Sportorial

By Nort Paden Sports Editor

WITH the ending of Junior Week and the return of near normalcy to the campus, your scribe again endeavors to put his thoughts on paper in this pillar. Of course, a week of relaxation and recuperation would be of benefit but as this is impossible there goes.....

—V—

Bob Reagan, Villanova's line coach has gone West, not figuratively but literally. The urge to join his old boss was too great and when Harry Stuhldreher called him from way out thar in Wisconsin, Bob was away in a cloud of dust in Stuhlies' green Packard. .Villanova is certainly sorry to see those two go. They are a great combination and will make those mid-west coaches wake up and look to their laurels. Best of luck boys.

—V—

Before the tongues get wagging about the Fordham baseball game last Saturday, and before the Monday morning home run kings blame Mike O'Meare for the loss, a little information might not be amiss. Mike did lose that fly ball in the sun and the ball did go over his head for a triple that drove in the winning runs but...the Fordham diamond is surrounded by tall apartment houses and other tall buildings and a batted ball is the toughest thing to see. Even a grounder fools the players so be fair in your judgment.

—V—

Fedigan is still leading the hardball league won three games. To date a goose egg is chalked up for them in the loss column. That's a pretty fair record in anybody's league. Let's take a slant at their endeavors in the other field, softball. To all appearances the Fedigan boys need a little instruction in this sport . They have had no wins in three starts so their record is still .500.

—V—

Last Saturday, Villanova played host to as fine a group of trackmen that have been seen in these parts in many a day. The annual Inter-scholastic meet was run off in the stadium in which high schools and grammar schools took part. .John Smith, of Ridley Park High School was the shinning light of the engagement. Not content with bettering the State shot put record with a toss of 53' 3¾" he also broke the meet record in the discus with a heave of 128 feet. As this was not a State meet, his shot put mark will not be recognized. Smith is expected to enter Villanova with the incoming Frosh in the fall.

—V—

Orchids to "Doc" Jacobs and to his very fine ball club for their record to date. Eleven wins and two losses in a pretty hard mark to shoot at, not only in Inter-collegiate circles. Why not have the team move to Shibe Park for the summer and give the A's a real test. It would be profitable I dare say.

—V—

Why is it that footfball coaches get the wanderlust? Nick Kotys, star halfback of last years eleven and later backfield coach of the Wildcats has accepted a bid to coach Shickshinny High School up in the northern part of the State. There are not many more coaches left to leave but if they do we will have to send the squad away one at a time to break the monotony around here.

—V—

Ray Gasby's first soccer scrimmage was a real success and we can easily see that we will have to be tutored in the terminology of the game if an accurate discription of the games is to be forthcoming. Ray got a good chance to see just what every one had on the ball though many who should have not reported yet for the sport. With all the extensive preparation that has been made to accomodate this sport, even to marking off a battle ground, it seems that a little more interest should be shown.

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, May 12, 1936 Page Five

FORDHAM TROUNCES 'CATS 4-3

FEDIGAN UNBEATEN IN THREE STARTS; DEFEATS ALUMNI

Durkin's Home Run in First Inning Features Victory Over Steamrollers

McKEEMEN BOW TWICE IN ONE DAY TO 'MURAL FOES

Fedigan in Undisputed Possession of First Place; Alumni in Cellar

Fedigan's smooth-working nine kept its undefeated record clean and retained undisputed possession of first place in the intramural baseball league by defeating Alumni last Sunday morning, 5-4. Bill Sweeney, on the mound for the victors, was in rare form, allowing but two hits, both singles. Had it not been for his wild spells, and errors on the part of his mates, Bill would have hurled the first shutout of the intramural season.

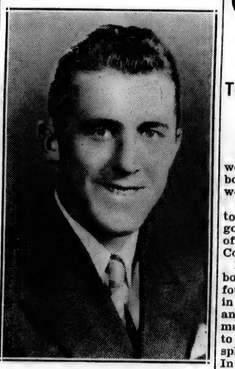
Fedigan lost no time in getting the lead on its frashman rivals. Bill Durkin, diminutive second baseman and lead-off man, found the offerings of Joe Soviero, Alumni twirler, to his liking and drove the ball into the parking triangle in deep right field for a home run.

Fired by his example, Fedigan went on to score three more runs before the side was retired. Scanlan and Rhoads were safe on errors, and Scanlan scored when Simons' high fly fell safe in short left field. Guckenberger's infield out advanced the runners to second and third. Carlin fanned, but both runners scored when George Murphy threw wild trying to catch Rhoads off third base.

Alumni countered with two runs in the second half of the inning. Pantaleo and Zogby walked, and Murphy singled, scoring Pantaleo. Vincent McHugh was safe when

Continued on Page Seven

Accepts New Post



NICK KOTYS

KOTYS NAMED FOOTBALL COACH AT SHICKSHINNY

Duties Include Coaching Baseball And Teaching Social Studies; Has Good Material

Nick Kotys, stellar halfback of last year's Wildcat eleven, has been appointed head football and basketball coach at Shickshinny High School. Kotys will also assume the duties as teacher of social studies, in addition to his coaching.

Shickshinny High, although a small school, has in the past few years, had some excellent teams, and Kotys will not suffer for a lack of good material. The position was available due to the former coach's being selected to govern the destinies of the Wilkesbarre High football squad. This shows that there are possibilities for future advancement for the Feline flash.

Kotys will assume his new duties in August of this year and will employ the Notre Dame system, which he learned under the able tutelage of Harry Stuhldreher at Villanova.

AUSTIN AND MENDEL WIN TWILIGHT BALL

Alumni Trampled; Count 20-8, In Wild Contest; Totin Conquers Gigolos

Only two softball games were played last week, due to festivities of Junior Week. Austin triumphed over Fedigan, 8-5, while Mendel was trouncing Alumni, 20-8.

Five runs in the first inning were enough to clinch the victory for the McKeemen in a game which was delayed in starting due to the lack of Austinites on the field. After a short consultation, Fedigan allowed the winner to play with a position open. Mike Totin led off for the Librarians and started a rally that netted the margin of victory.

Three hits by the victors and numerous errors by the Gigolo infield composed of Stahmann, O'Laughlin, Quinn and Laun accounted for the tallies. An inability to catch pop flies was the largest contributing factor in the scoring in this canto. The lads from the West end of the campus were able to garner only one run this frame when Rhodes scored on Quinn's single.

In the second inning, Jack

Continued on Page Six

SOCCER SCRIMMAGE IMPRESSES GADSBY

Coach Pleased With Spirit Shown by Participants In 1st Soccer Scrimmage

Villanova had its first glimpse of soccer last Thursday when the coach, Ray Gadsby, conducted an informal scrimmage between sides composed of the candidates for the team and some of the men who work behind the dining room counter. Action was quite fast, considering the lack of training and co-ordination which naturally resulted from the short time the boys have had to get into condition.

No score was kept as the tussle was held merely to allow Gadsby to get a line on the material which the college has to offer.

After the scrimmage was called due to darkness, Coach Gadsby expressed himself as impressed with the spirit of the participants and game them a short discussion on their play. He stated that with the proper spirit and co-operation among the members of the squad, a strong team could be moulded.

Regular practice will be held after chapel on as many nights a week as the field is available, and all who are interested and who have had any experience in this

Continued on Page Seven

'CAT GOLFERS DROP 2 MEETS IN WEEK

Temple and Osteopathy Take Linksmen's Measure On Same Course

Playing two return matches last week, Villanova's golfers dropped both, to show a total loss for the week.

Temple was the first opponent to take the measure of the 'Cat golfers, defeating them by the score of 5½ to ½, at the Manufacturer's Country Club on Monday, May 4.

Bob Stockton and Jim Dwyer both lost their matches in the first foursome, also losing best ball, and in the second foursome Ed Tirell and Johnny Jarosik lost their matches, but garnered a half point to prevent a complete shutout by splitting best ball with the Owls. In the first match with Temple, the 'Cats won, 5-1, but suffered a complete reversal of form in the second meeting.

Osteopathy, after winning the match with a six man team 7½ to 1½ on April 21, again took over the 'Cats by the decisive score of 5½ to ½ on the following day, Tuesday, May 5 at Manufacturer's.

Stockton won the only point for Villanova by halving his match with Hilliard of Osteopathy. Two down on the 16th green, he chipped

Continued on Page Six

VARSITY HARRIERS MEET F. & M. TODAY

Full Squad Journeys to Lancaster to Compete In Dual Meet

Villanova's varsity track team will travel up to Lancaster today to meet the harriers from Franklin and Marshall on the latter's track.

A squad of about 20 men will represent the Wildcats. A few new candidates have reported since the dual meet with West Chester State Teachers, and the team is considerably strengthened. All the runners have been cutting down on their time and Coach Elliott said the team is greatly improved.

Captain George Wrona, Fritz Monahan, Lew Beister and Jerry Sherlock will run in the dashes and the quarter mile. Vince La Brasca and "Pop" Shealey are the main hopes in the half-mile while Ben Maloney and Bill Lafferty will run the mile and two mile grinds.

Tom Cook, who set a track record of 22 feet 9 3-4 inches in the broad jump at West Chester, together with Dan Murphy, who has recovered from his spiked hand, will participate in the broad jump. Cook will also high jump with George Shelley. Art Raimo, of football fame, and Jimmie Lyons will run the hurdles.

In the weights, Elliott pins his hopes on Nye, Rogers and Korchinski, all members of last year's varsity football team. Nye placed third in the meet with West Chester with a heave of over 39 feet in the shotput. Korchinski placed in the javelin.

Franklin and Marshall presents a strong team. They placed second to the strong outfit from Haverford College in a triangular meet on the Main Liners' track, and took top honors in an invitation meet last Saturday.

No other dual meets have been definitely scheduled except Temple, although it is probable that there will be a few more before the season closes.

VARSITY NINE WINS THREE, LOSES ONE; RAMS STOP STREAK

Brilliant Hurling by Barris Saves Day for Fordham In Pitcher's Battle

EDDY VAUGHN IMPRESSIVE THOUGH VILLANOVA LOSES

Decisive Wins Over Lehigh, Temple and L. I. U. Offset Second Defeat

Mixing a variety of timely base hits with some smart fielding, the Villanova diamond array ably conquered three of its four opponents last week. Their two-day homestand was a complete success as they walloped Lehigh, 9-8, on Tuesday, and Temple 8-2 on Wednesday.

The Wildcats stretched their winnings to six straight when they defeated Long Island University 5-3 on Friday in the metropolic; however, Fordham stopped the procession when they eeked out a 4-3 win over the Felines on Saturday at Fordham Field.

Playing before a capacity open house crowd in the Lehigh game, the Jacobsmen made themselves known by scoring three runs in the first inning before the guests could even find seats.

Walt Sheftic, the lead-off man, was walked and he moved to third on Frannie Escott's single. Mike Garbark also drew a pass. With the bases ful, Ray Stoviak promptly doubled and Sheftic and Escott crossed the plate. Garbark scored a minute later on Leo Schoppmeyer's sacrifice.

Villanova Holds Lead

From this point on the Villanova held a lead a lead which they never relinquished. The Engineers, still "goo-goo" after their 19-5 shelack-

Continued on Page Six

TWO RETURN GAMES SLATED FOR 'CATS

St. John's, Providence Scheduled for Return Tilts on Their Home Grounds This Week

Swinging into the final stages of a most successful season with the enviable record of 10 wins and only one defeat, Villanova's varsity baseball team will visit St. John's at Brooklyn on Wednesday afternoon, and then journey to Rhode Island to meet Providence College on the following day.

Both of these teams have been met before this year. St. John's was nosed out by a 10-9 score here at Villanova on April 16. On the next day Providence visited us and received an 11-4 setback.

Each of these teams are thirsting for revenge, consequently the Wildcats will have to be on their toes in order to repeat their victories

It was the St. John's team that forced Ed Vaughn to retire from the pitching mound for the first time since he began to pitch Intercollegiate baseball.

Zenir, Dixson, and Polzer, who bat third, fourth, and fifth, respectively for St. John's are all reliable hitters. This trio connected

Continued on Page Six

Annual Interscholastics Marked By Upsets

Upper Darby, Altoona And St. Benedicts Cop Honors

Pat Pedrick, Church Farm Ace, Scores Two Firsts and Three Seconds to Tally 22 Points and Lead Day's Scorers

MOUNTAINEERS WIN OVER BURRS

Teams representing Upper Darby High School, Altoona High, and St. Benedict's Prep carried off the honors in classes A, B, and C respectively in the ninth annual Villanova College intercholastic track and field meet, held in the stadium last Saturday.

Upper Darby and St. Benedicts were successful at defending their titles while the Altoona Mountaineers dethroned the West Catholic Burrs. Both the Burrs and the Mountaineers took four firsts but the ability to tally in the runner-up positions gave Altoona the championship with 40 1-7 points while West Catholic came through with 35—31-35.

In the same division, North Catholics' Falcons and Camden High fought a close battle for third honors with the Falcons coming out on top by the very narrow margin of ½ of a point 24 9-14 to 24 1-7.

This division was productive of most of the best times. The best mile time was turned in by Ammerman of Altoona who ran the four laps in the sparkling time of four minutes and thirty-two seconds. Gerow, of duPont, turned in the best half-mile time for the day when he negotiated the distance in two minutes and four and a half seconds.

In the Class A division, Roy Wolfgang's charges retained the title that they won last year. Their closest rival, Lansdowne, was eleven points behind the pacemakers. Although Ridley Park had to be satisfied with third place in this class, their field star, John Smith accounted for the only shattered records for the day.

The curly-headed youth from R. P. put the shot 53 feet 3¼ inches and heaved the discus 128 feet. His shot-put heave bettered the accepted State record of 52 feet 8 inches, but will not be recognized as a State record for it was not established in a State meet.

The class C field was once more dominated by the St. Benedict speedsters. Taking five first places, the Saints rolled up 46½ points. Their nearest competitor, Brown Prep, was 20½ counters behind at the end of the meet. St. Benedicts has competed for three successive years and has carried off first honors as many times. Displaying extraordinary balance St. Benedicts was off to an early lead in the very first event and were never threatened.

Pat Pederick, of the Church Farm team, placed his team in third position when he rolled up 22 points unassisted to add to the other 3½ tallied by his teammates.

Pat won the 440 and the discus, and placed second in shot put, javelin and 220. This individual performance was the outstanding feat of the day.

After the upper classmen had their chance, the junior high school athletes competed in a half-mile relay which saw the quartet from Upper Darby triumph over the team representing West Catholic.

Going still further down the age line, the Parochial school runners were given an opportunity to show their ability and the Most Blessed Sacrament team edged out the four from St. Barnabas. Their time was comparatively fast for such small fellows.

ELIZABETH NETMEN PLAY HERE TODAY

Albright and P. M. C. Postpone matches; Courts Nearly In Shape

Idle since the West Chester defeat the Villanova netmen journeyed to Reading last Saturday for a match with Albright. They were doomed to disappointment, though, as the matches were postponed until a later date, the P. M. C. match which was scheduled for last Wednesday was also postponed. Wet courts prevented the playing.

The Elizabeth College tennis men arrived on the campus last night and will meet the 'Cat Varsity this afternoon. The courts have been steadily improving under the combined action of the good weather and the manual labor of John Mullins, and are expected to be in very fine playing condition for this match.

A few new candidates have reported their willingness to compete in this sport to Manager Frank Grewer. Among them was Tom Cook, stellar track star, who has performed brilliantly in the broad and high jumps all season. It is hoped that his playing will aid the netmen immeasurely.

J. Benedict Maloney another track star who competes in the longer distance runs will also report for this sport in the near future. Maloney was runner up to Jim Dwyer in the intra-murals last year and is expected to come through in the same manner this year.

To date the tennis team has an average of .500 having split two matches. After defeating the Ursinus Bears, the squad dropped a tough one to a strong team from West Chester Teachers College.

Austin and Mendel Win Twilight Ball

Continued From Page Five

Rhodes, Fedigan twirler, held the Austinites to one run, in spite of some weird fielding by the infield, who found ground balls hard to handle. Mike Totin, Austin tosser, maintained his control of the situation by shutting out the losers in this and the third frames.

Two more runs were added to the winner's score in the fourth as a brace of hits and an outfield error allowed Conti and Fraccia to tally. Fedigan rallied strongly in the latter half of this inning as eight men faced Totin and five runs were counted before Guckenberger's long fly ended the action. Hits by Rhodes, Scanlan, Laun and Quinn featured the attack. In the final innings, both teams failed to dent the plate.

Umpires Johnny Krutulis and Mike Garbark had some exciting moments when Austin's lack of a catcher caused some large arguments concerning the action of the backstop supplied by Fedigan.

Mendal's victory was never in doubt as the Skytoppers scored four runs in the first inning, and from that time on they were never headed. Alumni did not tally until the fourth inning when one marker was put up on the slate. Five more in the fifth and two in the sixth completed the old Hall lads' action for the evening.

The Penthouse boys, however, continued their slugging ways by increasing the lead every time they came to bat. Harold Hart, lanky center fielder for the victors, was instrumental in the conquest with two doubles and a single in four times at bat. Errors by the losers also contributed largely to their defeat, as the Penthouse boys tallied in every frame.

Starting tonight, softball will be played on three evenings a week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday being the nights of action. As yet, no games have been played by the Day-Hops, who have not put in appearance at the scheduled times.

Two Return Games Slated for 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

for two hits apiece in their field day against Vaughn.

The Providence team has four good batsmen in Coleman, Moge, Hazel, and Belau. Coleman especially proved his worth against us when he collected three hits from Bill McLoughlin.

There is no doubt that St. John's and Providence will experience considerable difficulty if they should try to snatch victory from the Wildcats because with several members of the team under the eyes of Big League scouts the tickmen will not be trifled with.

In the Limelight

By JOHN L. SIMONS

In the town of Plantsville, Connecticut, near Hartford, the State capital, on the ninth day of May in the year 1913 Jim McNerney, Villanova's 1936 golf captain, came into this world.

However, it was not until Jim was 16 year old that he took up golf, the sport that has made him a prominent figure on the Villanova campus. At the time he embarked on his career as a golfer, Jim was a student in Lewis High School in his home town.

Mac took to the game like a duck takes to water and rapidly mastered the intricacies of the links game. By the time his senior year rolled around, his proficiency as a shotmaker earned for him the captaincy of the high school golf team.

During his high school days, Jim did not confine his athletic activities to golf. He carried the colors of Lewis High on the basketball floor and baseball diamond and ran on the track team in addition to preforming on the links.

Upon graduation from Lewis High, Jim entered Roxbury Prep School in Cheshire, Connecticut. Unfortunately, Jim was unable to play on the golf team there due to outside circumstances.

The fall of 1932 saw Jim entering Villanova as a freshman in the School of Commerce and Finance. It was not until the spring of his first year that Mac made himself known in athletic circles of Villanova.

He had very little difficulty making the varsity golf team, winning the number three position. Through the whole season he showed himself worthy of the selection by emerging victorious in a majority of his matches.

His excellent showing in his first year as a varsity performer merited for him an advancement, and the following spring he alternated at the number one post with Jumbo Jim Elliott.

This, his sophomore year, was the most eventful in Jim's Villanova career. This was the season he scored, that which is desired by all golfers, the hole-in-one. It was in a match against Osteopathy on the home course, St. David's Country Club (now known as the Main Line Open), that Mac shot his "ace."

Playing in the number two spot, Jim encountered stiff competition from his opponent, and the match was all square going out the eighth green. Then Mac stepped up to the ninth tee, sighted the hole flag 190 yards away, and precede to sink his tee shot for the much coveted hole-in-one. That one stroke just took the starch out of his foe, and Jim went on to win hands down.

Last year Jim again alternated with Elliott, then captain, as the No. 1 man. It, too was a successful season for Jim. During this, his Junior year Jim was the most consistent winner on the Wildcat squad. He was the only Wildcat man to come through with a victory in the meet with the strong William and Mary links team.

The highlight of his playing was the exhibition of master shotmaking he displayed against the 'Cats' arch rival, the Temple Owls. Playing the Manufacturer's Country Club, one of the trickest layouts in the Philadelphia area, Jim spun a 74, which score gained him the one-sided victory of 5 to 4.

In view of his excellent play last year and his evident popularity, it was no surprise when he was announced as the leader of Villanova's 1936 edition of divot diggers.

Jim was looking forward to leading his mates to a very successful season, when Fate in the form of an appendicitis operation intervened. It was unfortunate both for Jim and for Villanova. Jim lost his last chance to represent the Wildcats on the links, and Villanova lost a very able golfer. Jim's loss at the No. 1 position has been keenly felt by the varsity linksmen during the present campaign.

During the interview your reporter asked Jim what was the toughest course he has played while representing Villanova. Without hesitation he replied that the historic East Course of the Merion Cricket Club. Scene of the National Open in 1934, was the most difficult course covered by the Main Liners. "Beyond doubt," he said, "the East Course at the Merion Cricket Club, where we met Haverford last year, is the toughest course I've played while a member of the Villanova team."

Varsity Nine Wins Three, Loses One

in gat the hands of the Wildcats two weeks ago, did not come out of their coma until they scored their first two runs in the fourth. However, they gave the homesters considerable difficulty all through the game, and almost succeeded in tying the score in the ninth when they scored three runs before Joe McGovern quelled the onrush.

Len Pennauchi excelled for the losing clan. He connected for three hits, two of which were doubles. Sam McKenna and Mike O'Meara starred for the winners with two hits apiece.

Temple vs. Villanova. This affair was the 19th carded between the two rival institutions. Temple still leads in series play, 10-9. Bill McLaughlin was Coach Doc Jacobs' last-minute choice and, indeed, he was a good one for the burly left-hander held the Owls in check throughout, even though they had him in hot water when they filled te bags on four different occasions.

The Templars pecked away at McLaughlin for a 2-0 lead in the very first two innings; but Villanova came back in the second to score three runs and assume the proverbial lead.

Behind the effective relief hurling of Tom Collins, the Wildcats won their third game of the week defeating the highly-touted L. I. U. team, after a ten-inning struggle.

Joe McGovern started on the mound for the eventual victors, and the Wildcats gave him a 3-0 lead, but he wilted in the third and three runs came in and the score was tied at 3-all.

In the tenth, Sheftic doubled and took third on a wild pitch by Bruger. He scored on Garbark's single. However, to make the lead secure, Schoppmeyer singled Garbark across with the second and last tally of the game.

In the Fordham fray, Johnny Barris, star Ram Hurler, turned the tables on the Wildcats with his air-tight pitching. Fordham gained sweet revenge because the Felines had shuttered them two years in succession; the Rams still lead Villanova in a long series run, 6-5.

Although Barris issued nine passes, he never was in real trouble until his opponents threatened in a desperate ninth inning rally when they scored two runs. After Barris walked Garbark and Mahan, Stoviak doubled them both in, but the star hurler tightened up and struck out Schoppmeyer to end the rally and the game.

It was Fordham's ninth in eleven starts and it also marked the second defeat in 14 tries. Ed Vaughn, senior right-hander, met with his first set-back of the current season. He failed in his attempt to repeat his brilliant 5-2 victory over the Rams last year.

'Cat Golfers Drop 2 Meets in Week

Continued From Page Five

into the cup from the edge of the green to take the 17th, and shot a bird on the 18th to halve the match. Dwyer, falling down all over the course, was shellacked by Ulirich, who shot to tie up James, 6 and 5.

Ed Tirell and Johnny McManus both lost their matches, and best ball, as the Osteopaths won all points in the second foursome.

Villanova will close its golf season this week, playing Trenton Teacher's at home yesterday, University of Pennsylvania on Wednesday, and West Chester on Thursday.

Can Still Sock 'Em

VILLANOVA

	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 3b	4	1	0	1	3
Escott, cf	3	1	1	1	0
Mahan, 1b	5	0	0	13	0
Garbark, c	3	3	1	7	1
Stoviak, lf	3	3	1	7	1
Schoppmeyer, 2b	4	1	2	2	4
O'Meara, rf	5	1	2	3	0
McKenna, as	4	0	2	0	3
McGovern, p	5	0	2	0	3
Totals	36	9	11	27	14

LEHIGH

	ab	r	h	o	a
Oller, 3b	5	1	1	1	4
Milbank, 1b	4	2	1	10	0
Volkmuth, 2b	4	1	1	3	2
Lucard, cf	5	2	2	2	0
P'auch, lf	5	2	3	2	0
Kornet, rf	3	0	0	0	0
McKaig, as	4	0	0	1	2
Bard, c	4	0	0	4	1
J. Cooney, p	4	0	0	1	2
a-D. Scott, rf	2	0	1	0	0
Connors, p	0	0	0	0	0
b-Bayer	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	41	8	9	24	11

a-Batted for Kornet in 8th.
b-Batted for Connors in 9th.
Score by innings:

Lehigh	0	0	0	2	2	0	0	1	3	—8
Villanova	3	0	2	0	2	0	1	1	x	—9

VILLANOVA

	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 3b	5	2	2	0	1
Escott, cf	4	1	2	1	0
Mahan, 1b	4	1	2	13	1
Garbark, c	3	1	1	5	2
Stoviak, lf	4	1	2	0	0
Schoppmeyer, 2b	5	0	1	3	3
O'Meara, rf	5	1	0	0	0
W. McKenna, as	3	0	0	2	5
McLaughlin, p	4	1	1	0	5
Totals	37	8	11	27	22

TEMPLE

	ab	r	h	o	a
Geuther, lf	3	1	0	0	0
D'Amillio, c	4	0	0	5	0
Rubinsky, 1b	4	0	1	8	2
Docherty, rf	5	0	2	2	0
Berry, cf	5	0	3	1	0
Mullan, 3b	3	1	1	2	1
Adams, 2b	5	0	2	0	3
J. McKenna, as	4	0	0	5	1
Ewart, p	3	0	0	0	0
Patty, p	0	0	0	1	1
Totals	36	2	9	24	8

Villanova ..... 0 3 0 0 2 3 0 0 x—8
Temple ..... 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2

VILLANOVA

	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 3b	5	2	3	0	3
Escott, cf	5	0	0	2	0
Mahan, 1b	5	0	2	14	0
Garbark, c	4	2	2	7	0
Stoviak, lf	4	0	2	2	0
Schoppmeyer, 2b	5	0	1	3	3
O'Meara, rf	5	0	0	1	0
McKenna, as	4	1	1	1	4
McGovern, p	1	0	1	0	1
Collins, p	3	0	0	0	3
Totals	41	5	12	30	14

L. I. U.

	ab	r	h	o	a
Grant, lf	4	1	1	1	0
Caruso, 2b	4	0	0	0	7
Norton, rf	5	0	2	2	0
F'iman, 1b	5	0	2	12	0
Fonte, 3b	4	0	0	2	3
Bender, as	5	0	0	2	0
Rocklein, cf	5	0	1	2	1
Lowe, c	4	1	1	8	0
Burger, p	3	1	0	1	1
Totals	39	3	7	30	12

Villanova ..... 2 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—3
L. I. U. ..... 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

Behind The Bat

By GENE LOORAM

WITH ten wins and one loss the varsity baseball team is stepping along at a fast gait . . . However, at the time that this column is being written the results of the L. I. U. and Fordham games are unknown . . .

The 'Cats established some sort of a record when they permitted the Temple Owls to load the bags in four successive innings and then prevented them from scoring . . . This was accomplished through fine twirling by Bill McLaughlin and capable fielding by the four infielders . . .

With the shifting around of the infield "Doc" Jacobs seems to have hit upon the best possible combination . . . Walt Sheftic is performing well at the hot corner, but he still hits in the same direction . . . Walt has yet to hit a ball in the territory between first and second . . . He confines all his blows to left field.

Wednesdays and Saturdays Walt does a little crooning and fiddling at, shall we say, a dancing pavilion . . . On the New York trip Walt should be able to drop in and give Guy and Carmen a few lessons.

Villanova got quite a scare when Lehigh rebelled and threatened to knot the score in the ninth, but they suddenly ran out of base hits . . . Art Mahan was robbed of several sure hits in this game and the Engineers certainly seemed to have him jinxed . . .

Temple seemed to be composed of Tiny Tims but they packed a lot of hidden power . . . Rubinsky took over the initial sack for this game and the Owls can certainly brag about his playing . . . The Templars were old enough but they didn't have the Wildcats' smoothness to carry them through . . . To quote a ball player, "Mike Garbark certainly has a future ahead of him" . . . This scribe agrees with that opinion for Mike couples fine hitting, a powerful whip, and heady playing to stand high above all the receivers that opposing teams have sported . . . Mike's brother was in town last week with the Cleveland Indians . . . Catching ability seems to run in the Garbark family. . . .

May 30 the Frosh will travel to Penn State to play the Nittany Cubs . . . Coach Cox predicts a victory for his charges but it should be close . . . The Frosh have only one complaint and that is that they aren't getting enough work, but very few college freshmen teams play strenuous schedules . . . However, a regular game with the varsity should expose whatever faults the Frosh have.

Doc Jacobs gave the varsity a day of rest last Thursday, but Art Mahan showed up to practice with the Frosh . . . Art, as everyone knows, is entitled to any day of rest that is given him, but I guess that's why he is as good as he is . . . Real interest in the sport . . .

Now for the weekly squib about Ben Geraghty . . . Ben has been on the disabled list for about a week and a half with a swollen thumb . . . His batting average still stands at .356 but his fielding average is unavailable . . . However it certainly is high for Ben rarely lets one get by him . . . Junior Frey is subbing at short while Jordan is covering the keystone sack . . . Ben will be back in the line-up shortly, however, according to all newspaper reports.

Intramural baseball is still being played but the results seem to be a deep, dark secret . . . The boys are still slugging away at softball . . . One of these day's we'll have a pitcher's battle (?????) If that happened, the ump would probably drop dead of heart failure . . . I really don't wish to cast any aspersions for some fine soft-ball games are played even though they may end up in 27-27 ties . . .

Next week this column will present the adventures encountered by the 'Cats when they ventured into the wilds of New York to hunt for Ram and Blackbird meat . . . So long.

SOCCER CANDIDATES WANTED

Coach Ray Gadsby again expressed the hope that more fellows would report for soccer practice. This sport though new at Villanova has already aroused enthusiasm. Practice is carried on every afternoon in the back of Mendel Hall.

Fedigan Unbeaten In Three Straight

Continued From Page Five

Quinn dropped his fly, but Zogby was nipped at the plate. Murphy came in on a wild pitch.

From this point the game settled down to a pitching duel between Sweeney and Soviero. There was no further scoring until the third. In Fedigan's half Simons led the inning off by reaching second on a two base wild throw by Pantaleo. He went to third on a passed ball and was stranded there while the next two batters fanned. With two out, Jake took matters into his own hands and pulled off a clean steal of home, chalking up what proved to be the winning run.

A last-inning rally almost saved the day for Alumni. Carl Pantaleo, a thorn in the side of Fedigan all through the game, started with a single and made the circuit of the bases with the help of a passed ball and a wild pitch. But the rally failed when Joe McHugh oversild second base after stealing, and was tagged out.

Bill Durkin led the victors' attacks with a home run, single, and base on balls in three trips to the plate. Pantaleo with a hit and a walk was high man for the Steamrollers.

The victory was the third in a row for Fedigan's Gigolos, who have yet to taste defeat. Father Vranal's boys had run their streak to two by beating Austin Sunday a week ago in a free-hitting ball game, 9-6.

Heavy hitting by Al Laun played a very prominent part in this conquest. Coming up in the third inning with the bases loaded, Al drove a triple to deep center field, scoring three runs. Jack Rhoads and Jake Simons helped out the Fedigan cause with two hits apiece. Bill Sweeney was the winning hurler, although Ted Goumy was used in a relief role.

In the other game played on May 3, Mendel defeated Austin in a weird contest, 14-13. At one stage of the game the Austinites held a 13-2 lead. But the McKeemen grew a trifle overconfident and figured the game was in the well-known bag. But such was not the case. Before Austin realized what was going on, the Skytoppers had pushed across 11 runs to tie the score.

Once the score was tied, there was no holding the Mendelites. They set Austin down in 1-2-3 order in the ninth and scored the deciding tally in their own half of the inning.

In the games so far Fedigan has shown itself to be the class of the league. The excellent pitching of Goumy and Sweeney, who have allowed an average of five hits per game, has been an important factor in the Gigolos' success. The power attack, good for nine runs each game, features the heavy hitting of Laun, Rhoads, Durkin and Guckenberger. This combination of pitching and hitting has put Fedigan out in front by a wide margin.

FEDIGAN

	ab	r	h	o	a	e
Durkin, 2b	2	1	2	2	4	1
Scanlan, cf	3	1	0	0	0	0
Rhoads, ss	3	1	0	0	3	0
Simons, c	3	2	1	8	1	1
Guckenberger, lf	3	0	1	0	0	0
Carlin, 3b	3	0	0	0	3	0
Cooke, 1b	2	0	0	5	0	0
Quinn, rf	2	0	0	0	0	2
Sweeney, p	2	0	1	0	1	0
Totals	23	5	5	15	9	5

ALUMNI

	ab	r	h	o	a	e
Pantaleo, ss	2	2	1	1	7	2
Zogby, lf	3	0	0	1	0	0
Murphy, c	3	1	0	6	0	1
V. McHugh, 1b	3	0	0	5	0	0
J. McHugh, 3b	2	1	1	0	1	0
DaRosa, 2b	2	0	0	2	1	0
Soviero, p	2	0	0	1	2	0
Mozzi, cf	1	0	0	0	0	0
MacGregor, rf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Daniello, lf	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	24	4	2	15	10	3

Fedigan ..... 4 0 1 0 0—5
Alumni ..... 2 0 0 1 1—4

CERTIFIED MILK CREAM
Supplied by
ARDMORE HOME DAIRIES
2744 E. COUNTY LANE
Ardmore 18

Here and There

By WILLIAM BOWKER.

Soccer is the latest sport, and if the number of lads practicing daily is any criterion, Ray Gadsby should have a successful campaign in his first season. Among others, Will Rogers, the stellar tackle, Frankie "Doc" Menapace, Joe Peru, and Abe Collins, were seen booting the ball about.

Open House was held last week (as you all know) and among the exhibitors were "Baldy" Thompson and Johnny Krutulis. Tommy was explaining the intricacies involved in the finding of Alpha ray tracks, while Krutulis contented himself with passing out reading matter published by the student body. . . . Mike Hanna did the reflex action test in .32 seconds, the fastest we heard of for the first day. It just goes to show what training will do.

It won't be long now, until Joe Louis, the Sepia Slugger, and Max Schmeling, the German counterpart of Jack Dempsey, will mix it up in New York. Experts and sport writers are inclined to favor the "Brown Bomber," although most of them concede that the Teuton will give him the hardest battle he has yet seen. It will be remembered that the dark lad is largly responsible for the revival of interest in the heavyweight ring game. This tussle with the foreigner should produce a million-dollar gate.

We heard that Joe Toland was seen playing hop-scotch on Hilldale Road a couple of Sundays ago.

Mt. Carmel High School girls' basketball team has some tongue-twisting names. Among them are such as these: the Misses Belcoski, Vershinski, Matulevich, Laurinaitis, and Trefsgar. However, we still have Walter Szewczyk at Villanova.

Junior Week activities have more or less disrupted the intramural schedule, especially with regards to softball. At least two games were cancelled due to the goings-on. Incidentally, the Mendel Penthouse representatives are sweeping all opposition before them in hard-ball after a shaky start.

Basil Dobrowolski says that yours truly did not present the true facts of the marble game mentioned in last week's periodical. He states that he, Art Carleton, Fred Weindel, Joe Horn and Charlie Higgins were the instigators of that noble affair and they furnished the other lads with the implements of war.

Strategy seldom seen on the field of sports was pulled by the Artsmen and Engineers, who joined forces to defeat the much feared C&F-Pre-Med coalition in the recent Sophomore elections. Some of the boys around here are bemoaning the lack of a rifle club. The object of such an organization is not to kill off all its members, but to teach them in the art of handling firearms and to aid the members generally. Bill Martz and George "Smallbore" Oesterle are two lads very much interested in seeing the formation of a gunner's club. "Peanuts" McAndrew should, according to his stories, be an enthusiastic participant in the activities of the firearm fanatics.

Thinking of athletes prompts us to speak of the co-ordination of mind and muscle necessary in circus life. The exxample in mind is the feat of Mlle. Gillette, of Ringling Bros. This young lady leaps from a platform seventy-five feet in the air to a trapeze which breaks as she hits it with her hands. She then continues her downward journey until she is halted by wires attached to her ankles. The point at which the co-ordination comes in handy is just as the wires are about to check her fall. She tenses to meet the snap of the wires, then relaxes quickly so as not to break her back. It's simple if you know how to do it.

Last Thursday's scheduled game between the Juniors and Seniors was called off because of the "Open House" at Rosemont, and Tom Ryan all set to pitch the Seniors to a scintillating triumph with his "moist one" as his main weapon.

For those lads who can't think of anything to do this week, there is an interesting snake exhibit in the Grand Central Palace. Here's a chance to see some real snakes in the grass.

What happened to the intramural golf tourney? No one seems to know anything about it. It was scheduled for Wednesday, April 29th. And another thing. The day-hops who so energetically took part in intramural basketball, have yet to put in appearance at any of the hard- or soft-ball contests. What's the matter, boys?

MAROON TRACKMEN TOPS

Clinching their seventh straight victory, the undefeated Lower Merion track team garnered 81 points at Easton last Saturday to repeat as Champions of Class A. This happened at the 12th Annual Interscholastic track and field meet held at Lafayette.

Soccer Scrimmage Impresses Gadsby

Continued From Page Five

sport will be welcome. Starting this week, practice will consider the fundamentals of the game. Next fall the finer points of the game will be discussed and Gadsby has several informal contests in mind for the next year. No regular schedule is contemplated until the following year.

Coach Gadsby also announced to the candidates that Henry Corson, former Villanova student and present member of the Penn A. C. soccer squad, will assist in the shaping of a representative soccer team.

Difficulties in the way of the making of a team are the number of engineers and science men reporting. The large number of afternoon labs will conflict with practice sessions. Among the boys participating in last Thursday's tussle were Frank Menapace, the Melian brothers, "Doc" Daniello, Johnny Krutulis, and "Goalie" Kuber.

FRESHMAN INFIELD

During the past week much attention has been focused on the yearling infield. The classy combination of Bobby Bond at first, Francis (Cowboy) Crowley at second, and Lenny Merullo at shortstop, has brought to the attention of baseball fans something to look forward to for next year. These lads all hail from New England and have played together for several seasons.

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florists
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

FOR EXPERT, CONVENIENT
Tonsorial Necessities
EVERYONE PATRONIZE
The CAMPUS Barber Shop
(New Staff)
Haircut - 35c

DORMITORY TAILORING
SUITS PRESSED - 35¢
French Dry Cleaned and Pressed - 60¢
REPAIRING - ALTERING
RELINING & REMODELING
FRANK "Pop" SHEALEY
235 AUSTIN HALL
(Campus Agent)

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats $24.75
See
ED MICHAELS
Room 128, Austin Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL WITH FINAL EXAMS!
TELL THE FOLKS AT HOME BY TELEPHONE THAT ALL GOES WELL WITH YOUR EXAMS!
At the low Night Rates on many Station-to-Station Calls (in effect after 7 P. M.) you can call
100 miles for . . . 35c
200 miles for . . . 60c
300 miles for . . . 80c
3-minute connections
SAVE AFTER SEVEN
THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

LIBERTY LEAGUE IS NOW NATIONWIDE

Total Membership Estimated At 10,000; 300 Colleges Are Enrolled

NEW YORK—(ACP)—A student membership totalling 10,000, in 300 colleges and universities located in every State in the Union is now claimed by the American Liberty League, according to figures just released.

Said President Jowett Shouse, president of the League, in a report to the Executive Committee:

"There could be no more valuable work for the League than to attempt to instill in the minds of college men and women the sound reasons for the maintenance of constitutional government in America. Heretofore it has been considered the smart thing for young people in college to ally themselves with some radical group. Now the scene is changing and the liberal and progressive forces find themselves challenged by the serious turn of affairs that threatens the Constitution and basic American institutions."

Athletic Subsidation Causes Stir Among Leading Colleges In Country

Football fans no longer blink with surprise at hints that perhaps the eleven iron men who carry the mail for dear old Siwash aren't playing the game only because they love it. Few are the followers who fail to realize that if Coach "Iron John" McGonigle were to sit around and wait for material, instead of going out and buying it, his team would be in the cellar and the alumni would be in his hair.

Increasingly important to the fan—who doesn't realize it, and doesn't care if he did—have been late developments in this problem of subsidization. The past decade, and particularly the past two years, have seen many high-powered minds earnestly bent to the solution of an evil believed by some to threaten the standing of the game, and panaceas without number have been proposed.

It remained for the 1935 season to furnish the pay-off decision of the important Southeastern Conference (Alabama, Auburn, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Louisiana State, Mississippi State, Mississippi, Tennessee, Tulane, University of the South, and Vanderbilt) to take subsidization out of the dark-room, admit openly that members were buying players, go out into the high and prep-school markets prepared to lay cash on the line for the best material available.

Conference representatives didn't state it that plainly when they met in the middle of last December, but that's what they meant when they voted to pass a resolution stating the Southeastern Conference would "recognize athletic ability in giving aid to students."

Outright support of athletes is no new idea. Forthright undergraduates have suggested it many a time. Such a suggestion raised a tempest at Princeton a few years ago, and last fall the University of Louisville Cardinal boldly asked, why not go out and buy a good football team, since the one we have isn't any good?

Main question now is: What did the Southern Conference start on December 13, 1935? Will other conferences and other schools follow suit? Will college football become a rival of the pro game, in which case it might logically be expected to merge with it?

The immediate repercussions were hard to guage. No other conferences followed Southeastern's lead, although it was admitted that every conference in the country would be affected, however little. Southern Conference delegates, meeting December 14, "postponed" action on the proposal, as did the Southwestern Conference.

BUDDING VERSIFIER OBJECTS TO STRIKE

University of Calif. Students Pens His Appeal

A budding versifier out at the University of California at Berkeley, objected this way to the peace strike:

Down wit de students
Down wit de class
Down wit de trees
Down wit de grass
Down wit de countries
Down wit de flags
Down wit de army
Down wit bum gags
Down wit de women
Down wit de men
Down wit de rooster
Down wit de hen
Down wit de spring
Down wit de fall
Whatever it is, I'm against it, so
Down wit it all.

EDUCATORS' QUOTES AROUSE INTEREST

Criticism Made of Present Systems in Our Institutions of Learning

The cost of education should be higher, says Dr. William P. Few, president of Duke University, otherwise we build "a race of half-educated and sometimes half-respectable panhandlers, and at the worst ordinary vagabonds and even criminals."

"It indicates that our student body is extremely broad - minded and does not believe in the effectiveness of mob demonstration." Maj. W. R. Graham, Montana State R. O. T. C. head, explains why R. O. T. C. attendance rose 40 per cent above normal on April 22.

"College today is something like a chain drug store which in spite of the many incursions into other merchandising fields continues to sell a few drugs." Albert Britt, president of Knox College, Illinois, drops a word of criticism.

Ceylon is famous for Spices
Brazil is famous for Coffee

... but Turkey is famous for Tobacco ... the aromatic Turkish tobacco that adds fragrance and flavor to Chesterfield Cigarettes.

It's the right quantity of this Turkish tobacco blended and cross-blended with the best home-grown tobaccos raised in this country that give Chesterfields their mildness and better taste — another reason why Chesterfields Satisfy.

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 8—No. 26 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 19, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Two Honorary Degrees To Be Awarded June 4th

DEGREES OF MERIT AWARDED FRIDAY TO 186 STUDENTS

Awards for Extra Curricular Work Number Three Hundred and Twenty-one

LOWER CLASSMEN GET MAJORITY OF HONORS

Thomas F. Kennedy., Jr., And James Lyons Receive Six Awards Each

Three hundred and twenty-one degrees of merit were awarded to 186 Villanova College students at a meeting of the entire student body last Friday in the Commerce and Finance auditorium.

Two students, Thomas Kennedy and James Lyons, distinguished themselves by earning six awards each.

The following received five awards each: Charles Miller, Robert McGrory, John L. Simons and William C. Vaughn.

Students receiving four awards each are Joseph Alessandroni, Charles Betz, Joseph Bigley, Rene Caillet, William Cleary, John DiJoseph James Downs, Pio Goggi, Edward Kelly, J. Benedict Maloney and Joseph Toland.

The "Merit Award" of Villanova College is bestowed annually on students who have worthily participated in extra-curricula activity and likewise enjoy good scholastic standing. It should be noted that some students, prominent in extra-curricula activities, have not qualified for the "Merit Award." This is due to their academic deficiencies, poor chapel record or disciplinary difficulties.

The Rev. Dr. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, presented the awards, and Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president and prefect of dis-

Continued on Page Two

VILLANOVAN AGAIN IS ALL AMERICAN

Campus Weekly Ranks Among First Twenty in Its Class In Country

For the second consecutive year The VILLANOVAN has been judged an ALL-AMERICAN collegiate newspaper, the highest award a college journal can receive, by the Associated Collegiate Press of the National Scholastic Press Association.

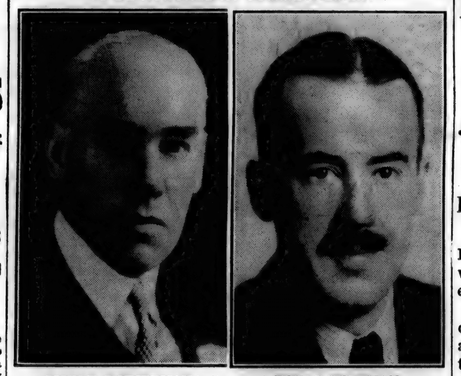
The VILLANOVAN was one of twenty out of 125 weekly college papers to win this distinctive honor. Over 300 college and university newspapers were entered in this, the largest intercollegiate critical service yet sponsored. There were four universities which won th All-American distinction along with four in the semi-weekly class.

This award, which rates the VILLANOVAN as Superior in comparison with others in the weekly class, speaks highly of the ability and skill of John C. DiJoseph, recently retired editor, who had a comparatively inexperienced staff with which to work.

Placing full confidence in the aptitude of his junior staff of writers and assistants, before much of the year had passed he boasted of a well-rounded and capable group of associates. Among them were Anthony Catrambone, sports editor, whose department received almost a perfect score; Benedict Maloney, prsent editor-in-chief; Harry Par-

Continued on Page Six

TO BE HONORED AT COMMENCEMENT



JOHN F. ZIMMERMAN ROSS J. HOFFMAN

prominent Philadelphia mechanical engineer and business man and outstanding educator and author of Medieval historical articles, respectively, who will be singularly honored at the Villanova College Commencement exercises on June 4. Mr. Zimmerman will receive a Doctor Laws degree, while Mr. Hoffman will be granted the Doctorate of Literature.

MENOCAL TO LEAD STUDENT COUNCIL

Differ Named Vice Chairman; Stead Succeeds To Secretaryship

Mario Menocal, a student in the School of Technology, was voted to the Chairmanship of the Student Council for 1936-1937.

The office of vice chairman went to Anthony Differ, a member of the School of Arts and Philosophy, and Lawrence Stead, of the School of Science, was elected to the position of secretary.

Mr. Menocal has been a student councillor for three years. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, engineering fraternity of the college, and holds the secretaryship of the American Society of Civil Engineering. Mr. Menocal was also a member of the Junior Week Committee.

Mr. Differ was the winner of the Gold Medal for Latin at the commencement exercises last June. In addition, he is president of Beta Gamma debating society, and a member of Epsilon Phi Theta, fraternity of the Arts School. Mr. Differ has also been a member of Student Council for three years.

The secretary-elect, Mr. Stead, was treasurer of the junior class during the past year. He is also athletically inclined, as is evidenced by his being elected captain of next year's lightweight football team, In

Continued on Page Three

PRESIDENT WILL SPEAK

Fr. Stanford to Address Students At Commencement Exercises

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College, will be the Commencement speaker at three schools during the second week of June. Fd. Stanford will leave soon for Terre Haute, Indiana where he will give an address to the graduating class of St. Mary of the Woods College on June 9.

Returning to the East, Fr. Stanford will speak at Archmere Preparatory school in Wilmington, Delaware on the 11 and the following day he will be present as the principle speaker at the graduation services to be held at St. John's Preparatory school in Danvers, Mass.

STUDENTS VIE IN ORATORY CONTEST

Trials Begin Today; Finals To Be Held Later This Week

Preliminaries for the Gold Medal Award in Public Speaking will be conducted in the Amphitheatre of Mendel Hall from 1.30 to 4.30 P. M. today and tomorrow. These are the final days on which the preliminary trials might be presented.

Trial speeches, limited to three minutes, are to be presented by the freshman and sophomore Arts students today and by the junior and senior Arts students tomorrow, thus concluding the preliminary procedure. The semi-final speeches will be limited to five minutes; the final presentations, to ten minutes. Judges for the semi-final and final speeches will be Mr. Martin Gill, instructor of English; Dr. Leo Brown, associate professor of education; Dr. Gilbert Macbeth, associate professor of English, and Mr. Anthony Frayne, instructor of English.

The contest, under the supervision of Mr. Anthony J. Frayne, instructor in public speaking, is open to all students enrolled in a public speaking course. The gold medal which is the reward to the victor of the competitive speeches is presented at the commencement exercises. Students, whether competing or not, are urged to lend their support for a successful contest by attending the various performances.

Oratorical style and precision is required of all speeches. Individ-

Continued on Page Three

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

Group Convenes Tonight to Welcome New Members

There will be an important meeting of the Student Council chapter this evening at 5:30 o'clock in the Mendel Hall amphitheater, it was announced yesterday by James Downs, retiring chairman. Both the old and new members are urged to attend this meeting tonight.

The purpose of this gathering will be to welcome the newly appointed officers and members of the student government board to their respective positions and likewise to pay tribute to the retiring members of the group.

Noted Engineer, Educator To Get Doctorates At Commencement Exercises

John E. Zimmerman Will Receive Degree of Doctor of Laws; Ross J. Hoffman, Doctor of Literature

PROVINCIAL TO PRESIDE AT SERVICE

Two honorary degress, Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Literature, along with approximately 140 Bachelor degrees, will be conferred at the ninety-third annual commencement exercises to be held at Villanova College on June 4.

John Edward Zimmerman, prominent Philadelphia mechanical engineer and business man, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. The honorary degree of Doctor of Literature will be conferred upon Ross John Hoffman, educator and author of Modern and Medieval Historical articles.

The Baccalaureate address at the Solemn High Mass in the Saint Thomas of Villanova Chapel will be delivered by the Rev. Andrew J. Plunkett, Ph. D., as part of the extensive commencement program.

The principal speech of the graduating ceremonies will be given by Mr. Hoffman, who, besides his other abilities, is a distinguished orator. Very Rev. Mortimer A. Sullivan, O. S. A., S. T. L., LL. D., Provincial of the Order of St. Augustine, will be the presiding officer at the commencement.

Robert G. McGrory, School of Commerce and Finance, has been chosen by the judges in a recent contest to be class valedictorian at the commencement exercises.

Mr. Zimmerman, who will receive the honorary degree, was born in Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, on January 31. 1874. He studied at the University of Buenos Aires and later came to the United States and continued his education at the

Continued on Page Six

CLASS VALEDICTORIAN

ROBERT G. McGRORY

Robert G. McGrory Will Deliver '36 Valedictory Talk

Honor Student Chosen Unanimously by Judges From Strong Field of Entries

Robert G. McGrory, of the School of Commerce and Finance, was unanimously chosen by the judges ofthe valedictory contest to give the valedictory address at the commencement exercises June 4.

Mr. McGrory was president of the class in his Junior year and he is the editor of the Belle Air.

The contest was held last Friday in the C. & F. auditorium at 1 P. M. Each school was represented by two members. Charles Kain and William Vaughn represented the Engineering School. Carmen Giordano and Rafael Martinez-Alvarez were present for the School of Arts, while Joseph Bigley and Robert Immordino were the nominees from the School of Science. Peter Kern was the other representative from the School of Commerce and Finance.

The judges who selected the winner were Fr. Gleason, O. S. A., Fr. Thomas Gilligan, O. S. A., and Fr. B. M. Albers, O. S. A.

DEAN'S MOTHER DIES

The VILLANOVAN in behalf of the student body extends its condolences to Dean Carl T. Humphrey of the School of Technology upon the recent demise of his mother, of East Weymouth, Mass.

MENDEL BULLETIN WILL APPEAR SOON

Many Outstanding Articles Will Feature Release of Annual Journal

Final arrangements have been made for the distribution of the eighth annual issue of the Mendel Bulletin sometime before the end of this month.

Editor-in-chief Frank Bellarmino has assembled one of the largest publications of this type yet to appear on the campus with the aid of Harry Kornfeld, Business Manager, and Joseph Bigley, Managing Editor.

This issue will be comprised of between 16 and 18 features and articles, the material being confined strictly to undergraduate sciences. The policy of the editors of this year's issue has been to publish a book that will be representative of the entire School of Science and from students engaged in postgraduate work and those attending the extension school.

The articles that will appear in the Mendel Bulletin have been carefully elected both for the subject mattr contained and the manner in which the author has presented it. An effort has been made by the editors not to invade the fields of any particular profession, but to publish topics of general scientific interest. Scientific terminology has been excluded and sacrificed as much as possible for the sake of

Continued on Page Five

Engineers Battle Kunz To Senior Class Presidency

Technology Groups Win Three Major Offices

Charles Stahlecker, Artsman, Only Former Officer to Retain Class Confidence, Is Re-Elected on Different Ticket

FISTER AND CARLETON GET POSTS

Gerald Kunz, a student in the Engineering School, was elected president of the class of '37 for the next scholastic year at the class elections held last Tuesday.

Assisting in the other offices will be Arthur Carleton, who has been elected to the vice presidency, while Charles Stahlecker and Edward Fister were inducted as secretary and treasurer respectively.

The election was perhaps one of the greatest and most closely contested in the history of the class. Each school had several candidates for the various offices and all were trying to outdo the other in quest of political supremacy. This distinction goes to the Engineering School, as they were able to place three men in the major offices and one in the minor offices.

Gerald Kunz, the newly elected president of the class of '37, has been an active member of the class and the Engineering School. He has figured prominently in several campus organizations, which include Phi Kappa Pi, the Engineering fraternity and various class activities. He has also headed the Open House Committee during the annual Junior Week. Various dance committees and school functions of the Engineering department found him as a member.

Arthur Carleton will assist his fellow classmate in the capacity of vice president. His outstanding work in the Engineering School has merited his newly appointed office. For the past year he has been taking care of the duties of treasurer of the A. S. C. E. Mr. Carleton has also been an active member of the class of '37 in respect to class functions and athletic teams.

The office of class secretary finds one of the most outstanding men in the present junior class elected to this office. Charles Stahlecker, a member of the Arts School, has been named to this post and is the only member of the class to be re-elected. His fine and noble work has been an outstanding performance since his freshman year at Villanova. Besides being a class officer, Mr. Stahlecker was Copy Editor of the VILLANOVAN, but recently was selected as College Editor on the weekly.

Edward Fister, a member of the Engineering School, was elected to the other major class office, namely

Continued on Page Three

ARTHUR VIGILANTE CHAIRMAN OF V. C.

Orientation Committee Chosen By Moderator of Freshman Class

Arthur A. Vigilante, School of Commerce and Finance and captain of this year's undefeated Frosh basketball team, has been appointed chairman of the vigilance committee to represent next year's Sophomore class.

The other members of the committee who were appointed by the Freshman class officers are: School of Science, Matthew E. Kuber, Carl Pantaleo, John J. Curran and Lawrence Knaphle; Engineering School, Joseph Quinn, Thomas Furey, James J. Carroll, Hugh Ferguson, Harold Murphy and Francis Hanlon; Commerce and Finance, James Tofani, Harry Matsinger, Donald Mackowski, Peter Mackin, Gibbons Kolb, James Dwyer and Stanley Bobrowski; School of Arts and Philosophy, Thomas Carbine, Harold Hart, Albert Hall, Paul Juergens, Robert Bond and James Quigley.

The primary purpose of the vigilance committee is to welcome the incoming Freshmen and to instill in them a feeling of brotherly cooperation in all collegiate activities and to instruct them in the regulations and rules obligatory to incoming students.

THEY WILL GUIDE ACTIONS OF SENIOR CLASS

Gerald Kunz, popular member of the Junior Engineering class, who was recently elected to fill the post of the presidency of the senior class of 1937; Arthur Carleton, also a member of the Engineering School, who will act in the capacity of vice-president; Charles Stahlecker, Junior Arts School student, who was reelected to the secretaryship, and Edward Fister, who will occupy the post of treasurer for the senior class.

"MAKE YOUR WORK A HOBBY"--NIEUWLAND

Mendel Medal Recipient Gives Above Advice in Address To Students

"Make your work a hobby or plain fun, apply a little brainwork and your success will be achieved," said Rev. Julius Nieuwland, C. S. C., the recent recipient of the Mendel Award, in his address on Synthetic Rubber, to a Science Seminar last Thursday.

According to Fr. Nieuwland the mother of invention is not necessity but laziness, as illustrated by the following example: One janitor may sweep a room in so many strokes of the broom. Another with a little more use of his brains will do the same amount of work in less time. But the third who sits in a chair and smokes his pipe because he is too lazy to do his work will invent some gadget whereby he presses a button and has his work done for him.

In such a fashion research is done, not neding a great deal of grey matter encased in a hard bony structure known as the skull, but use of the small amount of brains one has.

Duprene, one of the best synthetic rubbers known to man, was discovered by Fr. Nieuwland. This was a result of intensive work done by him on acetylene and its compounds.

It was explained that the structure of a compound determines its useful physical properties. Coupling with this fact the fact that acetylene, which has an important part in the manufacture of synthetic rubber, polymerizes when it has no other substance with which to react, and forms structural compounds of its own, Fr. Nieuwland was able by displacement by a chlorine atom of an element in one crude form of synthetic rubber to form a new sugstance known as chloroprene. This is the substance used in the manufacture of duprene.

Germany during the war was badly in need of rubber, as important in warfare as chemical gas. Her scientists compounded a synthetic rubber known as German rubber. It is of poor quality and by no means as efficient as natural rubber. A specimen of this type of material was exhibited by Fr. Nieuwland.

Many other samples of synthetic rubber were passed about among the audience to illustrate the properties of duprene.

Two small rubber balls were bounced on the floor to compare the difference in elasticity between them. One ball bounced higher than the other and was easily seen to be much more lustic and like natural rubber than the other. This ball was made of duprene.

Fr. Nieuwland held up a piece of steel which had been coated with a form of varnish. It was explained that this specimen had been treated with strong sulphuric acid and bromine water. After being washed with water the substance exhibited no traces of having been

Continued on Page Three

TARDY MEMBERS TO BE TAXED BY L K D

Drastic Step Voted in Final Meeting of Science Fraternity

General plans for the next scholastic term were formulated by the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity at its final meeting of the school year, held last Thursday.

Gerald Piserschia, newly elected president of the organization, presided at the meeting, and due to the absence of numerous members taking an examination, conducted the various reports.

Final arrangements for the order of fraternity pins and keys, and the settlement of back dues were completed.

Suggestions were then advanced to institute some form of tax, or action taken on members who consistently are absent from fraternity meeting. Discussion favored the subject, which will be instituted next term after provisions for such action have been decided upon.

Further discussion centered upon the evoking of more interest in the organization by including activities of various sorts into the fraternity's routine.

Various suggestions were offered: such as frequent visits by the entire body to various scientific laboratories, medical schools, and other scientific institutions.

All plans under discussion were classified as pending and will be definitely settled shortly after the fraternity convenes next fall.

LAST ISSUE OF YEAR

The release of today's issue of the VILLANOVAN marks the close of another year of publication for that particular organ of the college. The college weekly will not appear again unti the first week of October.

Merit Award Winners and Activities

Degrees of Merit Awarded Friday

Continued From Page One

cipline acted as master of ceremonies.

Father Stanford gave special praise to those assisting in the publications, particularly the Belle Air and the VILLANOVAN, which received its second All-American honor rating. He pointed out that these activities required more time and effort on the part of the students and so they deserve special note. He stated also that this year the day students took a more active part than ever before which he hopes will continue in the future.

The merit awards were as follows:

American Institute of Electrical Engineering—Joseph Doherty, James McBrearty. American Society of Civil Engineers—William Monroe, Laurence Shevland.

Band—Charles Betz, Leo Bicher, John W. Burke, Rene Caillief, Francis Carr, James Downs, William Gebele, Pio coroll, Cyril Daly, Reuben Dierwecher, Goggi, John Haines, Thomas Kennedy, Gerald Kunz, Claude La Dow, Joseph Mele, Theodore Osbahr, John Parker, Bert Passante, John Ritter, Raymond A. Sheik, Charles Stotler.

Baseball — Thomas Kennedy, Paul Kane, Arthur L. Mahan, Francis Moriarity, Michael O'Meara, Walter McKenna.

Basketball (Varsity)—Donald Brennan, Pascal Macquette, Walter McKenna, Michael O'Meara. Freshman basketball — Matthew Kuber, Arthur Vigilante.

Belle Air (Year Book) — Frank Bellarmino, Charles Betz, Joseph Bigley, Thomas Flaherty, John Henry, Robert Harry Kornfield, Robert McGrory, Immordino, Thomas F. Kennedy, Dom Mauro, Fiordino Troncelitti.

Boxing Awards

Boxing—Stanley Bobrowski, Thomas F. Kennedy, James Lyons, Carl Pantaleo.

Catholic Press Apostolate — Joseph Arthur, Joseph Toland.

Cheer leaders—James Carroll, James Meiler, J. Walter Stahmann, Joseph Toland.

Day Students Club—Joseph Alessandroni, James Lyons.

Debating Society (varsity) — Victor Ashe, Joseph Carroll, William Corkill, Anthony Differ, Edward McDevitt, John Simons.

Debating Society (freshman) — Pershing Calabro, Thomas Delate, John Dimon, James Quagley, Fredric Watera.

Football (varsity)—Edward Donovan, Frank Nye, Jordan Olivari.

Football (150-pound team — Joseph Alessandroni, Louis Biester, Arthur Carleton, William Corkill James Cousart, Joseph Federowicz, John B. Geraghty, Charles Kain, James Lyons, James McAndrew Mario Menocal, Martin Moscow, Daniel Murphy, Philip Murray, Daniel O'Connor, Charles Stead.

O'Connor, Frank Rogers, Lawrence Glee Chaquire, Raymond Beaucaire, Charles Betz, Francis Cadran, Frank Cullina, Anthony Cirrito, Joseph Feehan, Leo Golden, Joseph Higgins, Emil G Mathias, Donald Mackowski; Peter Macken, Alfredo Melian, Harold Murphy, Edward Murphy, James McEvily, James Quigley, Daniel Smith, Louis Scatamaria, John L. Simons, Nicholas Trecia, Joseph Weber, Paul Williams.

Four Golfers Honored

Golf—Eugene Barr, David Gragg, Joseph Duffy, John B. Geraghty.

Holy Name Society—John C. DiJoseph, Edward Kelly, Charles Miller, William C. Vaughn.

International Relations Club — Edward Kelly, Raphael Martinez-Alvarez.

Intramural Athletic Committee—Joseph Alessandroni, Charles Cooke, James Lyons, William Smith, Arthur Vigilante, Andrew Conte, Alfred Fracchia, Benedict Maloney, Albert Mayell, Robert McGrory, Thomas O'Brien, Michael Totin, Williac C. Vaughn, Joseph Zibelli.

Intramural Athletic (day students)—Jerry Agnes, Eugene Barr, Joseph Beittenmiller, William Burns, Edward Corliss, Joseph Duffy, Edward Murphy,Daniel Murphy, Daniel O'Connor, Frank Rodgers, Joseph C. Rosbert, Joseph Shea, Miller Sullivan, William Thorn, Joseph Alessandroni, Vincent LaBasca, James Lyons, Harry Matsinger, Charles O'Connor, George and Gerard Schelle.

Intramural Athletics (residents)—Stanley Bobrowski, John Costello, Thomas Delate, John Dimon, Harold Murphy, Carl Pantaleo, Thomas Schaedler, Arthur Vigilante, Salvatore Migliorino, Albert Bagin, Arthur Carleton, Charles Cooke, William Durkin, Norbert Ford, Albert Laun, John B. Rhoads, J. Walter Stahmann.

Junior Class—William Cleary, Thomas Kennedy, Gerald Kunz, John McLaughlin, William Nik, Charles Stahlecker, Laurence Stead, Mario Troncelitti.

Lambda Kappa—Joseph Bigley, Rene Caillief, Pio Goggi, Martin Kassell, William Keffer, Walter Krupa, Gerald Kutz, Thomas Maye, Charles Miller, John McLaughlin, Frank Schaeffer, Joseph Toland, Edward Troncelitti and Mario Troncelitti, Albert Welsh.

Mendel Bulletin

Mendel Bulletin — Frank Bellarmino, Joseph Bigley, Gaetano Brindisi, David W. Cragg, Franklin Husik, Robert Immordino, William Keffer, Harry Kornfield, Dom J. Mauro, Carl Mayer, Isidore Mikowski, Charles Miller, Frank Schaeffer, Albert Welsh.

Sanctuary Society—Joseph Arthur, Charles Betz, William Cleary, James J. Downs, Richard Foote, Pio Goggi, William Keffer Edward Kelley, Gerald Kunz, Albert Laun, James McBrearty, Robert McGrory, John B. Rhoads, James Schell, John L. Simons, William C. Vaughn, Benedict Maloney.

Senior Class—Joseph Bigley, Paul Brindisi, David W. Cragg, John C. Di Joseph, James Downs, John Henry, Joseph Hoover, Arthur Mahan, Dom J. Mauro, Louis Marcotte, Robert McGrory Charles Miller, Arthur Noble, Harry Podall, Laurence Shevland, Florindo Troncelitti, William C. Vaughn.

Sophomore Class — William Durkin, Jordan Olivari, Joseph Weber.

Spanish Club—Barnard La Rosa.

Student Council — William Cleary John C. Di Joseph, James Downs, Joseph Foran, Charles Cain, Charles Miller, Robert McGrory, Jordan Olivari, John L. Simons, William Vaughn.

Swimming—Wilmer Booth, Thomas Thomas J. Carbine, James Cousart, Toby Greco, William Leahy.

Tennis—James Cousart, Francis Feron, Norbert Ford, Francis Rodgers, Ernest Zaloom.

College Orchestra Mentioned

The Villanovans (dance orchestra)—Gatino Brandisi, Rene Caillief, Claude LaDow, Charles Stotler.

Track team—Louis Biester, Vincent La Brasca, James Lyons, Benedict Maloney, Frank Nye, George Schelle, Wrona.

The Villanovan (weekly newspaper)—William Bowker, John Bruno, Rene Caillief Thomas J. Carbine, Arthur Carleton, Anthony Catrambone, William Cleary, Anthony Differ, John Di Joseph, John Dimon, John B. Geraghty, Pio Goggi, Carmen Giordano, Leo Golden, Pasquale Guarini, Robert Howe, Paul Juergens, Martin Kassell, Edward Kelly, Thomas Kennedy, James Lyons, Benedict Maloney, James Meiler, Norton Peden, Harry Lutz, Pascale Lingotti, Eugene Loor, Parkin Joseph Sanborn, Louis Santamaria, John L. Simon, Daniel Smith, Frederic Waters.

Tennis Team—Pasquale Vassalluzzo, Charles Stahlecker, James Tofani, Joe Villanova Enginmen meeting—Eugene Barr, Edward Casey, Joseph Duffy, Joseph Hoovem, Charles Kain, Louis Marcotte, Emil G. Mathias, Mario J. Menocal, John Parker, Joseph Sanborn, John Schlotterbach, Joseph Shea, Laurence Shevland.

Seniors!

Keep in Touch With Villanova

By Subscribing to the VILLANOVAN Next Fall

$2.00 PER YEAR

FR. NIEUWLAND IS PRESENTED MEDAL AT YEARLY DINNER

College Award Is Granted Scientist by Rev. E. V. Stanford, O. S. A.

SUCCESS IN RESEARCHES WAS MERIT FOR CLERIC

Many Notables Present As Eighth Recipient of Honor Is Feted

Rev. Julius Arthur Nieuwland, C. S. C., prominent scientist, was officially awarded the Mendel Medal last Tuesday evening at a faculty dinner in the Monastery Refectory.

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., LL. D., president of the college, presented Fr. Nieuwland with the honorary medal, which is bestowed annually on a Catholic who has distinguished himself in the promotion of science.

Very Rev. Mortimer A. Sullivan, O. S. A., S. T. L., LL. D., Provincial of the Augustinian Order of America, was among the high administration officers in attendance. Fr. Sullivan opened and closed the program with Grace.

Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, made the presentation. In his presentation speech Fr. Stanford emphasized the fact there is no conflict between religion and science. The very existence of such a medal as the Mendel Medal of a Catholic college, let alone the famous priest-scientist whom it honors, proves this fact.

"The clerical state of the scientist whom we honor this evening," continued the reverend president, "is sufficient evidence of his religious convictions. The testimony of the scientific world as to his achievements in the field of organic chemistry is strikingly manifested by the honora which he has already received. He is recipient of the Morehead Medal of the International Acetylene Association, the recipient of the American Institute Medal and the recipient of the Nichols Medal of the American Chemical Society."

"Necessity is the mother of invention," declared the famed priest-scientist. "Lazy men, in an endeavor to escape manual labor, will continually devise new machines." Thus, in a brief, concise manner, Fr. Nieuwland presented the underlying causes of continuous inventions.

Upon receiving the award, Fr. Nieuwland said that he prized this medal more than any other he has received in his career. He went on to say that the Mendel Medal is the basis of true affection.

Fr. Nieuwland returned to Villanova last Monday and departed on Thursday of the same week. Fr. Nieuwland stated that he enjoyed his stay at Villanova very much, and was interested in the various botanical specimens which he noticed in and about the campus.

Among those present at the presentation were: Very Rev. Vincent F. Burns, rector of St. Charles Seminary in Overbrook; Very Rev. Francis J. Furey, president of Immaculata College; Mr. T. Bayard Beauty, principal of Radnor High School; Dean Paul H. Musser, of University of Pennsylvania; Mr. William A. Mooney, president of Bryn Mawr Trust Company; Rev. Leo Burns, rector of Roman Catholic.

Brother James F. S. C., rector of West Catholic High; Rev. William A. Stahl, O. S. F. S., rector of Northeast Catholic High School; Rev. Herbert Frazier O. Praem, of Southeast Catholic; Rev. M. J. McKeough, O. Praem., headmaster of Archmere Academy; Dr. John Kolmer, medalist of 1929; Dr. Owen Rice, last year's medalist; and Rev. Joseph F. X. Harrison, S. J., of Saint Joseph's College.

Students Vie In Oratory Contest

Continued From Page One

uals desiring to participate in the contest are requested to submit an entry sheet in advance to Mr. Frayne. On the entry blank, the director of the contest desires knowledge of the speaker's name, his class and school and the title of his presentation.

Each day, two winners will be chosen for entry in the semi-finals of the contest; from the eight semi-finalists, four will be selected to compete in the final trials.

HEADS STUDENT COUNCIL

MARIO MENOCAL,
who will head the campus governing body, the Student Council, for the coming school year. Menocal is a junior in the School of Engineering.

Menocal to Lead Student Council

Continued From Page One

addition, he is a member of L. K. D., Science School fraternity.

All of the above officers-elect are members of the Class of 1937.

The retiring officers of the Student Council include: James Downs, chairman; Charles Kain, vice chairman, and Robert McGunnigle, secretary.

Technology Group Dominates Ballots

Continued From Page One

treasurer. His election to this position placed the name of the Engineering School as one of the most pronounced on the campus.

The other class office to be filled was that of Student Council, of which two members were selected. Laurence Stead, formerly class treasurer, was selected as one of the members. He is a member of the Science School and is also captain-elect of the 150-pound football team for the coming season.

The next officer for the student council was not selected until a second vote had been taken because of a tie at the first balloting. The tie was between two members of the Engineering School, Aloysius Fitzpatrick and George Collins. Last Thursday a second vote was taken and Mr. Fitzpatrick was named to the post. He has been an active member of the class and has just recently officiated in the capacity of co-chairman of the Junior Promenade. Many campus organizations have found him an active member, outstanding of which are: the Day-Hop Club, the Intra-Mural Committee, Phi Kappa Pi and A. S. C. E.

CAMPUS SOCIETIES HOLD ELECTIONS

Wilkes-Barre, N. Jersey Clubs Ballot; Holy Name Inducts Officers

During the past week elections were held by three active organizations on the campus. The Wilkesbarre Club, North Jersey Club and Holy Name Society held very close contests.

In the Wilkesbarre Club William Cleary won a close victory over Edmund Virusky for the presidency. John Noll was re-elected vice president. Joseph Weber was chosen secretary and Charles Betz was re-elected treasurer.

On Tuesday evening the Holy Name Society elected Pio Goggi to fill the position of president vacated by William Vaughn. Martin Conroy won the vice presidency. James Quigley and Francis Cadran were chosen as secretary and treasurer respectively.

The North Jersey Club selected John Cronin to succeed Edward Carlin as president of the organization. James Quinn won the vice presidency. The secretaryship will be filled by Francis Moynihan. Joseph Higgins and Louis Dubino were chosen treasurer and sergeant-at-arms, respectively.

The current year was brought to to a close with these elections and the members of the respective clubs discussed plans for next year.

COLLEGE RECEIVES FAVORABLE LETTERS

Many favorable comments by word and by letter have been received by the administration of Villanova College concerning Mother's Day, it was announced yesterday by Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college.

Dear Father and Friends:

To quote in part one of the letters addressed to the faculty of the college and the committee on Mother's Day:

Mother's Day at Villanova leaves so many happy memories! The program in the auditorium was very enjoyable and the tour of the campus besides being most interesting and instructive afforded us much pleasure by enabling us to meet in person our son's teachers, friends and classmates. And then to enjoy a very delicious luncheon.

The campus with its beautiful buildings, grounds, trees, and shrubs as well as the surrounding country are well worth traveling many miles to see.

I am most grateful to you for a very happy Mother's Day. May od shower his very choicest blessings on Villanova.

Very sincerely,

TO LEAD DEBATERS

ANTHONY L. DIFFER,
prominent member of the Junior Class in the School of Arts and Philosophy, who was recently elected president of Beta Gamma, the campus debating society.

"Make Your Work A Hobby" - Nieuwland

Continued From Page Two

affected by either of the two powerful agents.

This substance is used to coat vats and other containers which are affected by substances used in the manufacturing of various commercial products.

Chloroprene shows the same X-ray picture as does natural rubber, showing that it is practically the same as natural rubber. It is, however, better than the natural product for impregnation or the making of rubberized products.

In its action on silk products microscopic examination shows that it does not, as does natural rubber, fill the spaces betwen the threads, but itself goes into the threads making the garment more strong.

Dupreme is resistant to acids, oils, and electricity. A piece of natural rubber used to coat a high tension wire was exhibited beside a piece of duprene which had been exposed to the same conditions. The natural rubber had been disintegrated, while the duprene was still pliable and capable of use.

A rubber ball which had been kept in kerosene for four years was shown. It had not been affected in any manner by the oil.

Fr. Nieuwland then used a portion of his personal attire to show the power of Duprene. He drew attention to his shoes. It was explained that the rubber heels on the shoes were made of the synthetic rubber product, and that those heels had worn out two pairs of shoes, and were wearing out the third pair of shoes without themselves showing much evidence of being worn away.

Throughout his talk Fr. Nieuwland stressed the fact that research can not be carried out unless one thinks and makes use of his little amount of brains, for "you can't get an apron full of apples by sleeping under an oak tree."

McKeon Will Attend Publicity Convention; His Plan Hailed Success

Raymond J. McKeon, publicity director of the college, will be a speaker at the national meeting of the American College Publicity Association in Boston on June 26.

The association will hold a two-day meeting at Boston University. The morning of June 26 will be devoted entirely to sports and Mr. McKeon's topic will be "Wider Development of Intercollegiate Athletic Programs."

Although Villanova is not a member of the association, the invitation to speak at their meeting came as an aftermath of a plan evolved by Mr. McKeon last winter. The plan met with such favorable action that the publicity director was besieged with invitations from various sections of the country to speak at regional meetings.

Colleges and universities from every locality pronounced it the most logical plan advanced to date. Several of the larger universities, particularly those in the Big Ten Conference, regretted that previous commitments prevented them from joining in the movement. They indicated, however, that they would like to discuss it again with the view to becoming a part of it in 1937.

A great number of the colleges suggested that a meeting be called to discuss the proposition. The University of Michigan's representative wrote in part: "I favor your plan and would like to join it. Our problems, I think, are broader and a general discussion should be had before any commitments are made. It might not be a bad idea to have a two-day discussion at some centrally located city—like Chicago—to see what we can work out. I think you will find the larger universities slow in jumping on the band wagon without 'hashing' the matter over in person rather than by mail."

Lack of personal contact with the various colleges and universities has prevented a wider acceptance of the plan, but the meeting next month in Boston will bring representatives from nearly every college in the country.

It was deemed advisable because of the impending national meeting to withhold any further discussion on the matter and to dispense with the proposed sectional meetings as the national meeting will serve the purpose much better.

Provisional chairmen had been appointed last winter in the East, the South, the South Central, the Middle West, the West and the Pacific Coast region.

Murray Kramer, of Boston University, in his invitation to Mr. McKeon, said in part: "This idea of yours has certainly created much comment among the members of our organization. A countless number think that it is a grand idea which will be beneficial to all."

Let Your Baggage Go Home by the LAUNDRY ROUTE

Arrange to ship it off this June by your old friend Railway Express and when Commencement Day dawns, be fancy free to board the train for home. Anything — trunks, bags, books, golf clubs, cups, even your diploma—Railway Express will pick them all up on your phone call, forward them at passenger train speed, deliver them safe and sound at your home. And it's economical. Railway Express rates are low, and you pay nothing at all for pick-up and delivery service. There are no draymen's demands, no tips, no standing in line, and sureness is made doubly sure by Railway Express's double receipts, with $50.00 liability included on every piece you ship. Besides, you have the choice of forwarding your things either prepaid or collect, and they'll be home as soon as you are. No other way of shipping gives you this kind of service, as you probably know, and to get it you have only to phone the nearest Railway Express office.

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

J. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37.....Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37.....Managing Editor
CHARLES E. STAHLECKER, '37.....Colege Editor
MORTON C. PADEN, '37.....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37.....Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37.....Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37.....Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37....Art and Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassalluzzo, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38.....Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37.....Exchange Editor

Staff Writers

John R. Geraghty, Jr., '37	John W. Pillion, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38	Joseph Sanborn, '38
Louis Santamaria, '37	Leonard Flinkman, '39
William Bowker, '38	Leo Godden, '39
James Tofani '39	Paul Juergens, '39
Daniel Smith, '39	Martin Kassell, '39
Robert Howe, '39	James Kutz, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39	John Dimon, '39
Eugene Looram, '39	James Meller, '39
Eugene DiCavalcanti, '39	Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simons, '38	Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Basil Dobrowolski, '37	George Fanning, '37
Arthur M. Carleton, '37	John Mullin, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37	Walter L. Bainity, '39
Charles A. Skowron, '39	Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39	Anthony Ditter, '37

Assistant to the Art Staff
Paschal Linguiti, '37 John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers
Peter J. McManus Henry C. Guckenberger

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second-class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928

1935 Member 1936
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributor of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - MAY 19, 1936

GO YE FORTH!

ANOTHER Commencement Day is almost here. Friendships that have endured for four years must now cease, or at least lose the vital bond of personal associations. Professors who were once regarded as tyrants or Simon Legrees are now, as we look back upon them, quite human. In fact, we suddenly realize that they always strove to do what was best for us.

Four years of exposure to the college environment should make a cultured gentleman out of crude high school material. If some emerge unchanged, we known that the college has not failed to do its duty. We think of Villanova as our Alma Mater, and mother she has been. Since 1842, the tireless Augustinian Fathers have given cheerfully of their time and effort to make Villanova a Catholic college for Cathollic gentelmen: that is what it is. Thankfully do we appreciate the spirit of these holy men, for their sacrifices have been our advantages.

Perhaps there are some who are happy to leave Villanova: we pity them. Most of the graduates enjoy for the last time a chat with their kindly father-confessor; they visit the chapel but once more; the pounding of a priest's fist 'pon the door will henceforth be music sweet to their ears, for soon it is but a memory.

Commencement Day is a time both of sorrow and of joy. Joyous because formal study has ended; sorrowful because a way of living has ended. Now must the student sally forth to battle with a world that is harsh, cruel and relentless; there will be many a tear shed as the graduates realize this change in their lives.

Go forth, O Men of Villanova! Those whom you leave behind watch your career with fatherly interest. No matter where you go, always remember that Villanova is your home. And when you return some day, many years hence, bring to Villanova this message: "I have run the race; I have fought the fight; I have kept the Faith." Your Faith is a jewel; guard it.

As you leave, the spires of the old Church softly whisper: Dominus Vobiscum. We join with them!

RESETTLED IN WASHINGTON

THERE is little authentic information available on important details of the Resettlement Administration under the direction of Professor Rexford G. Tugwell, but it is understood, at least, that the organization has succeeded in settling about 13,000, none under civil service, at office desks in 27 Washington buildings, that $20,650,000 of $196,000,000—allotted from relief funds—has been expended for administration, that such colony projects as have been undertaken are of doubtful value and lack early signs of success.

Senators Barbour and Vandenberg, joining in an attempt to force information from the Resettlement Administration through a resolution, cited the known aspects of the resettlement endeavor, including the sorry condition of its advertised Utopias, and, asking for an investigation, were rebuffed by majority leaders. There leaders have never tried to conceal anything that could be interpreted as success. It is commonly believed as remarked by Senator Carey, of Wyoming, that the resettlers outnumber the resettled, and, enjoying a salaried existence in Washington, are the happiest beneficiaries of relief funds expended in the cause.

POPULATION PUZZLES

FIVE-YEAR Federal census estimates, fixing the country's population at 127,521,000 "on July 1, 1935," would mean a total gain of 4,765,000 since the census of 1930.

Made with the cautious reservation that "some of these estimates may be subject to relatively large errors," the figures given out for States are puzzling neverless.

Apparent gains of 15 per cent in South Carolina; 15.7 per cent in Tennessee and 9.9 in Folorida, for instance are not readily explained.

Among the eleven States showing decreases — Arizona, California, Kansas, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, Newbraska, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Dakota and Wisconsin—the loss might be ascribed to agricultural conditions, particularly the drought, but not to California. This State alone is supposed to have lossed 38,000 people over the five year period. Yet in the last few years California has been a mecca for drifters moving under the stress of economic conditions.

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

THE 1936 edition of the "Belle Air" yearbook, one of Villanova's oldest traditions, has recently made its appearance among us. This year's book is probably the finest ever to be publish-ever to come out this early. Editor Bob McGrory worked long and hard to make this publication a success and congratulations are in order for him and his staff.

* * *

A formal affair has among its other nonsensical habits, the unforgivable custom of allowing those in attendance to come thirty minutes late. Al Welsh, being a man of common sense, was on time for the Belle Air dinner last Monday and found only a few of his friends present. Feeling the urge of the diamond, Mr. Welsh, tux and all, donned a catcher's mitt used years ago in the suburban league, and set out upon the Haverford ball field to teach a few youngsters how it should be done. All went well until a twelve year old hit his offerings out of the field and then cried "put one over and I'll hit it this time." Mr. Welsh retired.

* * *

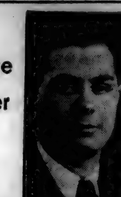
A check-up on "Here and There" column. Last week it was mentioned that this columnist was seen playing hop-scotch on Hilldale Road. The only other person who could possibly have seen your columnist, aside from two four-year-old girls who corrected the erroneous nomenclature used by the contestants, was his opponent, a sophomore student particularly interested in railroads. Henceforth remember, Mr. Bowker, that the squares in hop-scotch are not known as "square two" or "square three," but "twosies" or "threesies."

* * *

Girl's schools are nortorious for the nicknames of their inmates, but observation on the Villanova campus shows that we could hold our own with any of them. We have: "Count" DeCristo, "Baron" Krsywicki, "Ambassador" Dobrobolski; for royalty; while the common people come under the names such as these: "Auzzie" Forin, "Skipper" Carroll, "Niagara Falls" Canuso, "Big Thing" Mathias, "Wacky" OBrien, "Wiffy" Burns and "Bassy" Chonko.

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti



ACCORDING to a mid-Western college paper, a newspaper in Nohas, Ark., took a straw vote among inhabitants of the hill region as whom they would like for their next president. Final tabulations showed Lincoln beating Garfield by 300 votes with Theodore Roosevelt a close third . . . We haven't been able to determine whether it was ignorance or intelligence.

* * *

The Bachelor's Ballad

Say it with flowers .....
Say it with sweets .....
Say it with kisses .....
Say it with eats .....
Say it with jewelry .....
Say it with drink .....
But whatever you do ....
Don't say it with ink ....

* * *

A small boy leading a donkey, passed by an army camp. A couple of soldiers wanted to have some fun with the lad. "Why are you holding on to your brother so tight, sonny?" they asked. "So he won't join the army," the youngster replied without blinking an eye."

* * *

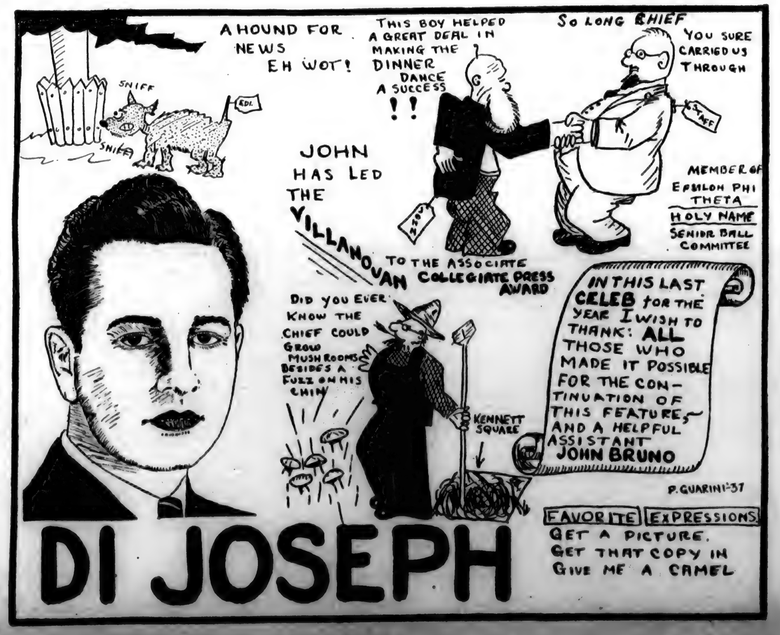
Here is some of the effects of Spring Fever that the Freshmen have:

The day is clear and bright and fair:
And I am here in great despair.
I long to be so far away
But woe is me I cannot stray.
My history class has called to me
I've five cuts now—so here I be.

* * *

Did you know that Northwestern University students must hand their pictures in with themes so the professor will know whose work he is grading? A California centenarian died recently after seeing an automobile for the first time. He didn't see it soon enough. Radcliffe College women will soon be answering many telephone calls—that is, if the telephone directory stolen from the Agassiz house gets into circulation among the Harvard boys, who, they believe, have purloined it. The book containing the phone numbers, and "to top it off" their photographs, was missed soon after a group of Harvard students had visited their house.

CAMPUS CELEBS . . . . . By Guarini



Pass In Review

By R. L. G. DEVERALL

FREEEDOM IN THE MODERN WORLD; by Jacques Maritan, translated by Richard O'Sullivan, K. C. Charles Scribners' Sons, New York 1936. $2.00.

IT is to be noted that many of our present-day writers, to mention a most recent one, Ross Hoffman in his Will to Freedom, have been stressing the subject of freedom as a pointed topic of discourse for the reading public. This present volume under review, whose author, Jacques Maritan, is one of the foremost in the ranks of living scholastic philosophers, gives the balanced and traditional philosophy of Freedom before the Idealism of Kant in the Critique of Practical Reason not merely distinguished, but opposed the order of Nature and the order of Freedom, so that "the opposition of Nature and of Freedom," says this author, "has been for modern philosophy a common-place." (page 3.) This is indeed a fundamental difference that needs to be corrected before any true idea of Freedom can be had, and this Mr. Maritan does in the first part of this notable work, wherein he lays down the principles of authentic metaphysics on the notion of freedom, before applying the same to the treatment of Religion and Culture, and the Purification of Means, which constitute the main topics of particular importance in this book.

Modern philosophy after Kant would have us believe that there is direct opposition between physics and metaphysics to the extent that categorically the political and social sciences are by their very nature divorced from ethics; that the natural sciences of physics and chemistry for example have no metaphysical significance; that experimental psychology which is soulless for them is based on the abstractions of mathematics rather than the abstractions of metaphysics; in a word that the experimental sciences are not only autonomous in their own domain, but on the other hand will brook no interference from the hierarchy of the sciences. Maritain would have us correct this false notion and writes that Freedom presupposes Nature:

> "What does that mean for us? It means that ethics presupposes metaphysics . . . The very crisis of the economic order urge us strongly to study metaphysics. Competent writers tell us that the most terrible economic crisis of modern times with their absurd consequences—here corn and coffee are destroyed by burning, there millions of workmen are out of work—spring from the rationalization on scientific lines of the technical processes of production, or more generally of the material of economic life, without any corresponding rationalization of production itself or of the human elements in the economic order." (pages 13 and 14)

This same line of argumentation is carried on throughout the entire work, and the interpretation of the Freedom of Man based upon his Nature as an intellectual being, thereby giving primacy to the spiritual, throws much light upon the knotty questions of Humanism, the Renaissance, and surprising as it may seem, upon the "unnatural principle of the fertility of money." He makes the striking distinction between "the theocentric conception; and the anthropocentric conception of Humanism), which has its first origins in the spirit of the Renaissance. The first theocentric) conception may be described as authentic Humanism; the second (anthrocentric) conception may be called inhuman humanism." p. 83. Like Ockam's razor, distinctions such as these enable the reader to see through the folly of a materialistic interpretation of History by professional historians bent upon propagating what Newman so well termed it "The Conspiracy against Truth."

No one more than this author is keenly alive to the possibilities inherent in the Revival of Scholasticism as a means of bringing order out of chaos in the present state of social and political affairs. He would have the reversal of the present order wherein the signmoney—is taken for the thing signified—commodities; for him it is always the horse before the cart in so far as he would like to see workmen engaged in making things, primarily, rather than money. He would like to see fuel, furnishings and clothing in a man's home before a car in every garage; and last but not least, he prefers wages to take precedence over dividends:

> "The capitalist regime is wedded to the unnatural principle of the fertility of money. Instead of being considered as a mere feeder enabling a living organism, which the productive undertaking is, to procure the necessary material, equipment, and replenishing, money has come to be considered THE LIVING ORGANISM . . . Values have been reversed and the immediate consequence is to give the rights of dividend precedence over those of wages and salary. (page 127).

The translation of this important book is excellent, and if the sense is a little strained at times, the fault lies not with the translator, but is due rather to the difference in the two languages. Here is a book to read and ponder over at frequent intervals.

* * *

LAWS OF LIFE; by H. G. Sutherland, Sheed and Ward, 1936, $2.50.

Using science directed by right reason, Mr. Sutherland demonstrates that the principles taught by the Catholic Church are the most beneficial and secure laws of life. He does not ignore religion, but, precending from it, he shows that an unbiased scientist without preconceived ideas or desires would advocate the teachings of the Catholic Church. Without even mentioning the fact, Mr. Sutherland proves that in practice as well as in theory there is and can be no conflict between science and religion. On the contrary, he shows that true science, especially in the realm of physiology, dictates that the most beneficial and secure laws of life are the same as those which the Catholic Church teaches her children.

In this book, the author covers the entire range of the family, whether it be in the matrimonial bond or as the foundation of the State. Within the narrow confines of 270 pages the author covers topics ranging from heredity to the next war, including such topics as birth control, Malthusion theory of population and food, euthansia and how nations die.

The first part of the book should prove valuable to the senior students. It supplies them with ready sound arguments drawn from science which upholds the practices and teachings of the church. The latter part of the book is very helpful to all students as it presents in an interesting clear and scientific manner, information that is very helpful, if not necessary, to all students.

* * *

Until next fall: Cheerio!

As We See It . . . . . In Conclusion

By HARRY PARKIN

FROM the standpoint of the reader, the essention purpose of all literature is to entertain, from that of the writer, to instruct. Whether this is brought about by the direct and orderly presentation of moral precepts, or by ridiculing the foibles and affectations of the age under the guire of character portrayal is left to the disposition of the author. But in either case his arguments, if they are to be worthy of consideration, must be based upon the fundamental facts of morality, and not upon any startling or original theories that his inventiveness or experience may suggest as plausible. The laws of morality are too consistent in their operation to admit of any interpretation that digresses from that of custom and tradition. So that authors should seek their moral statements from the pronouncements of a reliable and authoritative source and not rely upon their own rationalizing.

* * *

At present there seems to be too great a stress being laid upon the necessity of scientific learning. With the result that this generation is inclined to believe it the only form of knowledge that is worthy of our attention. Anything that may be labelled as scientific is certain of the approval of the public. Not because they are familiar with its successful or unsuccessful investigation of natural phenomena, but because it is the general belief that logical and precise reasoning being peculiar to its province, its pronouncements must necessarily be reliable. Its conclusions can be measured in the light of existent facts—hence its investigators must be the most reasonable of men—who will bring the same exactitude of reasoning to any other question they may inquire into. So the conclusion is drawn that they are as reliable in metaphysical or ethical philosophy as they are in physical. How incorrect this conclusion is, and the number of moral truths that have been maligned through public belief in it, need hardly be mentioned.

* * *

If we could come to regard adverse criticism as not only justified, in most instances, but as prompted by our obvious need for correction, we would be more likely to be benefitted by it. Instead of taking the attitude toward it, recommended by the conscious knowledge of our deficiencies, that criticism is primarily designed for our social and moral improvement, we usually hasten to ascribe it to a misunderstanding of our noble purposes and admirable intentions. So, instead of recognizing the existence of a fault within ourselves, that is so irksome as to make it necessary to call it to our attention, for there are many trifling ones that are passed over, we are inclined to ascribe the judgement of the critic as distinctly unfriendly and biased, when more than likely his motives are merely charitable.

* * *

During the past year we have had occasion to write articles that have been agreeable and also unpleasant. The former, usually, because they were complimentary, and the latter because they were interpreted as uncomplimentary. But in any event our essential purpose was to recommend to the reader certain subjects for conjecture. Subjects that would move him to think upon them long after the article that suggested them were forgotten. It was a matter of indifference whether he agreed or disagreed with our sentiments—in fact we are inclined to believe that one is more stimulated to original thinking by taking objection to the statements of an author, than by passively taking him for granted; as one need only speak the language to take issue with Taine's critical essays on English literature.

* * *

In conclusion we wish to offer some little tribute to John Di Joseph, our former editor, who so admirably combined the character of a task-master with the indulgence and equanimity of a friend.

Mendel Bulletin Will Appear Soon

Continued From Page One

clarity of expression in order that the book may be of much circumspect to Freshmen as well as Seniors.

No index to the articles in this issue has been as yet published, but Editor Frank Bellarmino has disclosed a few to appear among which are the following: A discussion of the Soya Bean, a vegetable that ha startling possibilities; the biological study of the life of Ignaz Semmelweis, a Hungarian doctor who preceded Louis Pasteur and whose work towards the elimination of puerperal fevor has removed the fear and horror that preyed on the minds of parturient mothers; the work of our own Fr. Donnellon on the improvement of the cannula, an instrument used in the determination of blood pressure in the arteries, is described in one of the articles; bacteria in canned tomatoes; the interesting life of the wrongfully despised spiders; the history of the life cycle of the tapeworms; a study of micro-algae and an educational discussion of diatoms.

The book will include feature pages of the work of the photographical editor, also microscopic photographs and original line drawings will accompany the articles of several authors. In all probabilities the 1936 issue will contain 104 pages, although it is possible that such a number might be exceeded.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO GOGGI

BEATRICE LILLIE doesn't hide the fact that the microphone scares her. Soon as she gets before one she forgets her lines. Her talent for improvisation gets her through. Some of the panic she still experiences while broadcasting on Columbia's "Flying Red Horse Tavern" program recalls the terror-stricken moment she suffered in the midst of a drama skit with Alexander Woolcott in a CBS New Year's Day broadcast a year ago. She lost her script. The pages scatted in a wide circle about her on the floor of the studio. "All I could do," Miss Lille relates, "was invent lines while orchestra members crawled around the studio gathering up pages."

* * *

The brothers Tommy and Jimmey Dorsey recently played opposite each other at the Southern California Junior Prom. I wonder how they made out? Did Jimmey crown Tom with his saxaphone or did Tom wind his trombone around Jimmey's neck? At any rate, I'm sure the public would like to see these two together again only playing as one unit, the inimitable Dorsey Brothers of last year.

* * *

Hal Kemp and Fred Waring are vying to introduce songs from college shows, ever since the success of the tunes from Princeton's Triangle club reveues, "Love and a Dime," "East of the Sun" and "Will Love Find a Way." Kemp believes some of the best song writers of the future will come from the colleges. The student responsible for the Princeton tunes, Brooks Bowman, was able, through Kemp, to get a contract with Warner Brothers. The irony of it is, these tunes now can't be played over the air, thanks to the Warners' song ban.

* * *

From the opinions gathered from student gigoloes, Jan Garber was the best organization that ever set foot in the gym.

* * *

Studio audiences at the Evening in Paris program over NBC—WJZ have increased since Jane Pickens, of the Pickens Sisters, was named the best dressed woman in radio by the Fashion Academy. Women come to the program to get a good look at Jane's clothes who isn't so hard to look at anyway.

* * *

Phil Baker might have been a great musician if fate had not spun a thread of humor through his nature. Music is his first love and he admits he sometimes has a guilty feeling about being a comedian. "I can walk twice past a joke book," he says, "but only once past an accordian.". Baker's favorite pastime is playing his accordian in a little midtown Russian restaurant—gratis, for the fun of it.

* * *

It's surprising how Emil Coleman has defied trends and kept his popularity though his band has no vocalist and no brass section. . . Stuart Churchil has been renewed on Musical Reveries over CBS until late July, with the probability the program will switch to an evening spot at that time. Inasmuch as this is the last edition of this column, I may as well say good-bye to my readers (and the copy editor). Maloney may now cease his moaning—and I'll be peaceful once more.

GLOBE TROTTING

By FRED WATERS

(Interesting sidelights on our national capital, Washington, D. C., gathered during a recent visit to that city by your correspondent.)

One Day, 2000 Years Ago

SEVENTY years before the birth of Christ; during the reign of Julius Caesar, far-off in unknown America, in what is now California, a small sprout broke through the surface of the earth, and reared itself slowly sun-ward, gradually transforming itself into the semblance of a red-wood tree. Down through the ages it continued to grow. The Roman Empire rose to its heights, and crumbled to dust; God visited the earth; the seven Crusades came and went; hundreds of Popes reigned and died; wars by the thousands wreaked destruction; the Dark Middle Ages swept past; Columbus discovered America; and so on through centuries, for two thousand years, this tree continued to flourish, until a few years ago, its massive, 70-foot bulk thundered to the earth.

Today, a cross section of that ancient red-wood tree, the grand-dad of them all, is on display near the Racquet Club, on Pennsylvania Ave., in Washington, D. C.

When F. D. R. Dines on John Q.

The President himself pays for all un-official meals in the White House. A meal, attended by guests of only one political party is un-official, and must be paid for out of the President's own pocket.

If he wishes to be economical, he will always be sure that his guests represent both political faiths, for then the entire affair is paid for by the State.

Interesting Oddities

The corridors in the new Supreme Court Building are furnished with nearly as many ash trays as there are No-Smoking signs.

Practically every religious denomination in the nation has erected for itself a magnificent church along Pennsylvania Ave. in the North-West section—or at least so it would seem to the casual visitor. From Washington Circle, directly to the Capitol, he is amazed at the sizes and beauty of approximately eighty church s!

Nearly ninety-nine percent of all houses in Washington are built of brick. Due to a municipally-owned brick plant, bricks have become by far the cheapest material available for building.

Praying Before the Constitution

The Constitution is carefully preserved behind specially made sun-proof glass in one of the off-chambers of the Congressional Library.

There is a small kneeling bench directly before the encased Constitution. It is not unusual to see people kneeling there in reverent prayer.

The guard nearby said that the question most frequently asked him was "Where is Columbus' signature?" To which he usually replied (to spare himself a long explanation) by shrugging his shoulders.

The VILLANOVAN SEVEN YEARS AGO

IT was announced last Friday by Mr. Frederick Watson, editor-in-chief of the senior year book, that this publication will come out on June 1st.

Due to the indefatiguable efforts of Mr. Watson, Mr. John Yyons, and the Editorial and Business boards, it is expected that this issue will be the best that has ever been published at Villanova. There has been a great deal of effort put into this book and great attention has been paid to detail. This is probably why the book has been a trifle later than last year.

The book will contain pictures of all the new laboratories in the new Mendel Hall, and much space has been given over to ably and minutely describing them. The various social functions of the year, as well as the usual number of teams, clubs and various other camp activities have been blended together to make a very interesting volume.

It is the duty of every member of the undergraduate body to subscribe to this book, not only for the support of college activities, but also. In most cases, it will touch upon some activity in which the man is interested.

JOSEPH F. DELANEY ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF ASME SOCIETY

Mechanical Engineering Group Selects Him to Succeed Paul Donahue

APPOINT MARSHALL WARD CHAPTER VICE-CHAIRMAN

Office of Secretary-Treasurer Goes to Emil Mathias

The annual election of officers of the A. S. M. E. chapter was held at their last meeting during the latter part of last week. Joseph Delaney, a Junior, was elected chairman, and Marshall Ward, a Sophomore, was elected vice-chairman. Emil Mathias also a Sophomore, was elected secretary and treasurer.

Paul Donahue, retiring president of the chapter, has announced that the chapter will convene for the last time this year sometime during the latter part of the week for the purpose of deciding who is to be the recipient of the biography of famous engineers, annually bestowed by the senior chapter to all the college chapters.

During the past scholastic year the A. S. M. E. chapter proved to be one of the most active undergraduate societies on the campus. Under the guidance of Prof. Stanley J. Morehouse, the chapter enjoyed several inspection tours that were exceptionally intellectually beneficial. The several inspection otuns were fertile sources of practical knowledge to the student members.

Among the outstanding inspection tours of the year were those to the Ford Company plant in Chester, and the Philadelphia Electric Company's Richmond Station. While the outstanding trip of the year was that to the annual students' convention held this year at Lafayette College in Easton. At this affair were the several colleges and universities of the locality, including New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. At the convention, Joseph Malcolm represented Villanova's chapter in the presentation of papers. Villanova's representation numbered 11, a commendable number in comparison with the other attending schools.

Following the final meeting of the scholastic year this week, the chapter will adjourn until September, when they will begin immediately the customary inspection tours.

Two Will Receive Honorary Degrees

Continued From Page One

University of Pennsylvania. Both his grandfather and his father were prominent in the United States Diplomatic service in Buenos Aires.

Before he came to the United States, Mr. Zimmerman was employed as apprentice in the shops of the Great Southern Railroad, and as draughtsman and assistant surveyor on the Pacific Railroad in the Argentine Republic.

When Mr. Zimmerman came to Philadelphia he entered the University of Pennsylvania, and then became secretary and superintendent of the American Pulley Company, Philadelphia. In 1907 he became partner in the firm of Dodge and Day, later incorporated under the present style, Day and Zimmerman, Inc., engineers, of which firm he was president until February 27, 1929.

Mr. Zimmerman was largely instrumental in developing the public utility management work of Day and Zimmerman, Inc., embracing electric light and power, heating, gas, electric railway and refrigerating properties in more than one hundred communities. These utilities were developed physically and economically, expanded to meet changing conditions, standards of operation were installed and maintained, and financing put upon a sound basis.

His professional work has been concerned with electric light and power, traction and gas properties throughout the United States, manufacturing plants and a wide variety of industrial enterprises.

During the World War, the firm under Mr. Zimmerman's direction, was extensively engaged in war work in all of its departments, including such projects as the Great Army Supply Base at Philadelphia, Government housing operations, a large plant for the Erie Forge and Steel Company, erected to meet Navy requirements! construction of central power stations to meet increased power loads imposed by war needs, etc.

He was elected chairman of the Executive Committee of the United Gas Improvement Company on December 4, 1928, and president of the same company in February, 1929.

Mr. Zimmerman was formerly a member of the First City Troop Cavalry of Philadelphia during the Spanish War, with which he served as private interpreter in the Porto Rican Campaign in 1898.

Besides being a Trustee of the University of Pennsylvania, Mr. Zimmerman is also a director of the following companies and organizations: The United Gas Improvement Company; Philadelphia Electric Company; The Philadelphia Gas Works Company; Welsbach Company; United Engineers and Constructors, Inc.; Pennsylvania Railroad Company; Public Service Corporation; American Pulley Company; Philadelphia Steam Company; The American Gas Company, and the Chestnut Hill Hospital.

Mr. Zimmerman, who is an advocate of the great game of golf, also is addicted to such enjoyable pleasures as sailing and motorboating. He is a member of the University, Philadelphia, Midday, Racquet and Engineers Clubs in Philadelphia. He is also a member of the Corinthian Yacht Club, Sunnybrook Golf Club, Seaview Golf Club, and the New York Yacht Club.

Mr. Zimmerman will be awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws because of his outstanding achievement in the field of business and because of his professional success in his many endeavors.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Literature will be conferred upon Mr. Ross Hoffman, who is probably best noted for his authorship of many outstanding historical articles. Some of his achievements in the literary field are characterized in the following articles which were written by him: Outlines of Medeival History; Great Britain and German Trade Rivalry 1875-1914; Restoration; and The Will to Freedom. His contributions to the Journal of Modern History, The Sign, Commonweal, Books, Catholic World and the American Review are also instrumental in his great renown.

Mr. Hoffman is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity, The Chi Phi Fraternity and the Centre Club. His hobbies are chess and motoring, and he is an expert at both.

Mr. Hoffman will receive the degree for the renown and fame he has received in the literary world, and for his outstanding achievements in the field of Education as instructor at Lafayette College and the University of Pennsylvania.

The Senior Commencement Exercises will be conducted in the College Gymnasium at 2.30 P. M. Complete programs will be issued before the occasion and seating capacity for the record attendance expected will be available.

SUCCESSFUL EDITOR

JOHN C. DIJOSEPH, who was successful in keeping the journalistic standard of the VILLANOVAN high among all other collegiate publications, for which fact he won for the school paper an All American Honor Rating.

MENOCAL HEADS ASCE FOR COMING SEASON

Carleton, O'Brien and Scanlan To Conduct Minor Offices

Mario Menocal, recently elected chairman of the Student Council for the coming year, was honored again yesterday when he was chosen president of the local student chapter of the A. S. C. E.

Menocal succeeds William Munroe as head of the popular Engineering chapter. During the past year, the newly elected president served in the capacity of secretary.

Other officers elected in yesterday's balloting were: Arthur Carleton, vice president; M. J. O'Brien, secretary, and Ward Scanlan, treasurer.

P. K. P. FRATERNITY PLANS CALENDAR

Engineering Group Selects Active Committees For Next Year

Five committees for five activities of Phi Kappa Pi, Engineering fraternity, were announced at the final meeting of the year yesterday by Eugene A. Barr, '37, president of the organization. In announcing these committees, Mr. Barr is setting a worthy precedent and inaugurating auspiciously his term as president. All of the committees are for the events to take place next year, and were selected and announced at this early date so that the chosen men may have every opportunity to make the affair a success.

The outstanding committee chosen is that for the most important event on the fraternity's calendar, the Owl Hop, or as it is now called, the Fall Dance. Mr. Barr will refrain from appointing the chairman of the committee until a later date. The other men are: Joseph Beitenmiller, Edward Casey, Joseph Duffy, Joseph Sanborn and Daniel O'Connor.

The annual fall tennis tournament will take place under the guidance of the Tennis Committee. These men will arrange the time and also the playing arrangements. They are: James Carroll, Hugh Ferguson, Harold Murphy, Joseph Sanborn, Miller Sullivan, and William Thorn, chairman.

A new committee organized by Mr. Barr is that of the Research Committee. The main purpose of this body is to have on hand at all times information about the fraternity and the School of Technology for the benefit of the members. It is composed of the following men: Constantine B. Constantine, chairman; Edward Gornowski, John Courtin, John Linsley, and Joseph Sanborn.

The Publicity Committee is that organized for the purpose of advertising the various activities of the fraternity. The following men were named to compose this committee: Edward Casey, Edward Fister, chairman; Aloysius Fitzpatrick, and Joseph Sanborn.

The final committee announced by Mr. Barr is the Ways and Means Committee. These men will be concerned mostly with the financial needs of the fraternity and will distribute chances and the like.

Villanovan Again Is All American

Continued From Page One

kin, managing editor; Charles Stahlecker, college editor; and Pasquale Kuarini, art and photography.

Special credit and congratulations are due Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of the VILLANOVAN for his sound and timely advice and encouragement without which the editors could not have accomplished what they did.

All entries in the annual critical service are criticized and judged from four general viewpoints, namely, news values and sources; news writing and editing; headlines, typography and makeup; department pages and special features.

The maximum score obtainable was 1000 for all the above mentioned departments. The requirement in point score for All-American honors was 780. The VILLANOVAN, in the opinion of the judges, was worth well over 800, a higher score than was won in former years which means considerable credit to the editors, because this year the number of entries in the contest exceeded those of any other year, necessarily raising the standards.

DORMITORY TAILORING

SUITS PRESSED .. 35¢

French Dry Cleaned and Pressed .. 60¢

REPAIRING - ALTERING RELINING & REMODELING

FRANK "Pop" SHEALEY

235 AUSTIN HALL

(Campus Agent)

JEANNETT'S BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP

Floral Ideas For All Occasions

Specializing in Corsages

Member Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association

823 Lancaster Ave. Bryn Mawr 570

(Next to Seville Theatre) Meet Your Friends at The Bryn Mawr Confectionery

Tasty Sandwiches Reasonably Priced Lunches-Dinners-Platters

Music Free Dancing

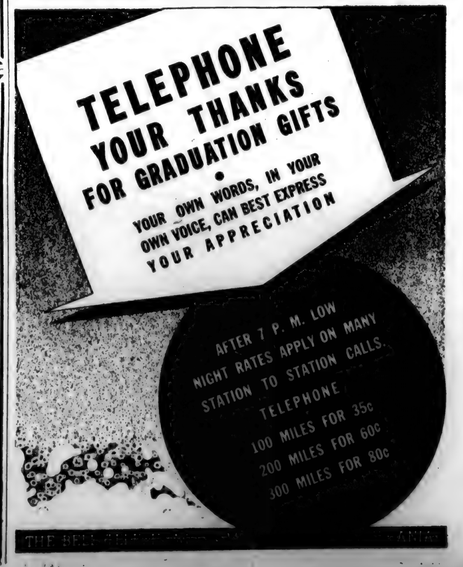
Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure

COLEBY TAILORING INC.

Suits and Topcoats $24.75

See ED MICHAELS Room 128, Austin Hall

Store at 57th and Market Sts.



Heiress Hunting Vies With Salesmanship As Favorite Jobs of Grads

Low mournful wailing is now being heard along the corridors of the various buildings adorning the Villanova campus, and aside from exam-burdened underclassmen they are all being emitted from the vocal cords of the graduating seniors. The popular swan song is accompanied by a note of doubt as to what the future will bring.

Meeting James Downs of the Commerce and Finance blue book and retired Chairman of the Student Council at the Pie Shop we learn that he aspires to be a hustling salesman in his home town, Newark, New York. After some futile beating around the bush he finally confesses that his ambition is to marry some rich heiress.

Next we meet David Cragg, who has no more in mind than to spend his next few years in the Jefferson Medical College. This summer Dave will be found doing clinical work in his father's medical office.

Hidden behind a huge milk shake we run into one of the unmistakable Troncellitis, Florindo by name. Tronce, the first of the clan to graduate, is enrolled as a new man in the Penn Law School, but will spend his summer in Bryn Mawr, helping Papa remove spots from dirty suits. Bernard LaRosa, after swimming home, is expecting a government job as a civil engineer where he will display the knowledge he acquired here.

Clearing cigarette smoke away we discover Albert W. Ryan, of the Arts School, who also expects to peddle the goods of a home town concern. His future labors will cover the world as he anticipates working for the Tilo Roofing Company.

Edward Carlin, also of the Arts School and unfortunate roommate of Al Ryan, will face the cod, cruel world with a bundle of Traveler's Insurance policies in his pocket. In a future meeting of these two roommates the departure will probably find Ryan well insured and Carlin living under a tile roof.

So they come and go. The better part of the Science students adding to the worries of medical professors, Engineers threatening safety with rickety bridges, and Arts and Business graduates acquiring high pressure salesmanship (and issuing warnings to farmer's daughters). Good luck to you, grads, make good!

Sportorial

By Nort Paden Sports Editor

Things have been moving rapidly on the campus, in the way of athletics the past week. Both the hardball and softball league are hard at work and the soccer squad had their second scrimmage.

—V—

The baseball team journey to foreign shores again last week and was frowned upon by Lady Luck. It seems that she must only work on the home grounds as the Jacobsmen were rained out of the St. John's game and Providence landed on their chin in the second encounter. A 12 to 10 defeat at the hands of the Friars doesn't appear so bad when we consider that it is only the third defeat of the season.

—V—

Rumors are flying thick and fast about the new football coach and most of them are erroneous. An official announcement of the appointment of one will probably emanate from the offices of the council on athletics this week. The choice has narrowed down and after a few difficulties have been ironed out the choice will be made.

—V—

The track team is still in the red and with one more meet to go they will be very lucky to have one win out of an unsuccessful season. The squad did not begin training until April and a coach had not been appointed to tutor the boys until that time. Perhaps this accounts for he fact that they haven't won a meet to date. The boys have all been trying and a more capable coach could not be found than "Jumbo" Elliott.

—V—

Villanova's netmen finally cracked the season by defeating Elizabethtown and West Chester Teachers College. After lying fallow since last Fall the courts were in fair shape but will not be up to their peak for a few days yet. Even with this handicap the Tennismen put on a good show.

—V—

The broad jumping and high jumping star of the track team, Tom Cook, is not satisfied with the way in which the school publications are being conducted. Upon investigation it is found that Tom is not getting the publicity, that he craves, in each.

—V—

This is the last issue of the paper until Fall and this column of course will go with it but let me first offer congratulations to all the seniors and wish them all the luck in the world in the future. To the underclassmen . . . So long will see you next September.

GOLFERS TAKE TWO; LOSE TO QUAKERS

Trenton Defeated, Penn Wins, West Chester Falls As Season Ends

Closing their season impressively last week, the golf team defeated two opponents decisively, and lost a third match to the University of Pennsylvania.

Playing a return match with Trenton State Teachers, who tied Villanova, 3-3, two weeks ago at Trenton, the Cat golfers showed themselves decidedly superior to the Pedagogues by driving out a 5-1 victory at the Main Line Open course last Tuesday afternoon.

Stockton and Dwyer playing in their customary one and two positions, ended their matches a little more than half way around. Dwyer defeated Holden, Teachers, 7 and 5. Stockton imitated his partner a few holes later by closing the match on the 15th and winning, 4 and 3, to shoot an 80.

Ed Tirell, paired with Johnny Dubino, dropped his match, but his partner Dubino, pulled the match out of the fire by taking his own match, 4 and 3, and winning best ball, to give two out of three in the second foursome.

Penn Victorious

The second match of the week brought disaster to Villanova, when Pennsylvania's championship team

Continued on Page Nine

THANKS TO THE STUDENT BODY

The sports department of the VILLANOVAN thanks every member of the student body who aided the department in any way during the past year. We also wish to express our appreciation to the members of the faculty who aided us also.

Villanovan Sports

FRIARS AVENGE 11-4 DEFEAT

Mahan Leads Team to Successful Season

Arty Mahan, star first sacker of the 'Cat nine, who has been the sparkplug of the team all season. Batting .431 and fielding in perfect form, Mahan is the acme of intercollegiate players.

DIPLOMATS DEFEAT VILLANOVA IN MEET

F. & M. Trackmen Capture All But Three Firsts to Top Home Team, 85 to 40

Villanova's cindermen met their second defeat of the season last Tuesday at the hands of Franklin and Marshall on the latter's field in Lancaster, by the score of 85 to 40.

The Diplomats presented a strong team that captured all but three first places. Tom Cook, stellar jumper, took first place in the broad jump for the Wildcats with a leap of twenty-one feet. George Schelle and Cook tied for first place in the high jump. Lou Biester took the other first place for Villanova when Jones, of Franklin and Marshall, was disqualified in the quarter-mile.

"Fritz" Monahan placed second in the 220-yard dash and third in the century. Pole, star sprinter of F. & M., won both events.

Maloney Drops Two

Ben Maloney, distance runner for the 'Cats, placed third in the mile and two-mile grinds. Both first and second places were taken by Franklin and Marshall. Howard won the mile run, and Frey, Central Pennsylvania distance champion, won the two-mile.

In the quarter-mile race, Davey Jones, of F. & M. and Lou Biester started fast and came to the first turn together. Biester had the inside lane, and Jones apparently thought he was far enough ahead to pass, but he cut in on Biester, spiking him. Jones then proceeded in win the race in 52 3-5 seconds, but was disqualified.

Quinn Disqualified

In the half-mile, Captain Quinn, of the Diplomats took the lead at the start and paced the field around both laps to win in 2 minutes, 8 seconds. Tom Cook came from last

Continued on Page Nine

Hard Ball Standing

	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Fedigan	5	5	0	1.000
Mendel	6	2	4	.333
Austin	3	1	2	.333
Alumni	4	1	3	.250

URSINUS AND L. I. U. CLOSE 'CAT SEASON

Baseballers Finish Successful Season May 25 Against Long Island U.

Two games within the next six days will complete the Villanova varsity baseball season for 1936. Ursinus College will journey here Friday, May 22, and Long Island University will stop off on Monday, May 25.

Both teams have been the Wildcats' hosts earlier in the season, and each has seen the Wildcat batsmen carry away the lion's share of the spoils. Spirited action will feature both tilts when the visiting teams try to wipe out their former defeat.

Ursinus Met Second

Ursinus was the second team met on the current schedule and the Wildcats carried off victory by an 11 to 6 score.

Both teams hit well in this encounter and 22 hits were chalked up against the pitchers. The main guns of the Bear attack were Pancoast and Trumbore, who each contributed a triple. They were ably assisted by Twordzydlo, who added a double to their efforts.

A brace of two-baggers by Leo Schoppmeyer were the only extra-base hits allowed by the Ursinus pitchers.

This game was "Needlenose" Collins' first effort of the season and this victory together with his subsequent ones have made his Senior year a success.

The last game of the season is by no means the least. True, Long Island University has been defeated once by the Wildcats, but it must be remembered that they did have enough on the ball to snatch victory from the brilliant Fordham Rams.

'Cats Break Tieup

It was the Wildcat punch in the

Continued on Page Nine

THIRD SETBACK OF CURRENT CAMPAIGN JACOBSMEN HANDED

Rain Washes Out 2-0 Lead Over St. John's; Second Chance to Win Lost

22 HITS SCORE AS MANY RUNS IN WILD FRAY

Villanova Knots Score Twice In Providence Game; Two Homers Clouted

Meeting in a return engagement, the Providence College baseball club took Villanova's measure, 12-10, in a wild and weird game at Providence last Thursday.

Rain stopped the Wildcats-St. John skirmish at Brooklyn on Wednesday. When the downpour came in the second, Villanova was in the van, 2-0. However, after waitinf, practically the whole afternoon, the umpire called the game, because the Jacobsmen had to catch a boat for Providence.

Third Trip Disastrous

The trip was the third on the road for Villanova, and it was just as disastrous as the other two, for their third defeat was marked up against them. Colgate and Fordham hold the other two victories, both of which were gained on their respective home fields.

Thus the Wildcats have gained twelve wins in fifteen starts so far this season. Their record ranks them with the best teams in Eastern intercollegiate circles.

Although both Villanova and Providence used three hurlers apiece in a vain attempt to check each others' advances, McCarthy, the last of the Friar hurlers, stopped the would-be Wildcat hitters and received credit for the victory.

The Felines were the first to

Continued on Page Eight

FROSH UNDEFEATED IN TWO CONTESTS

Ursinus Cubs Fall Before Stellar Pitching of Joe Desmond

Playing "heads-up" baseball, the Kittens emerged with their second triumph in as many starts when they opposed the Ursinus Cubs on our home field.

Joe Desmond pitched three-hit, shut-out ball in his first start of the year. It was thought that Joe might not be in top form because of lack of work, but he set the first eight men down via the strike-out route.

It was not until the third inning that the Cubs obtained their first hit, a single into left field. They were only able to garner two more hits for remaining four stanzas.

The game was marked by the smoothness of the Frosh infield. Errorless ball was played by this quartet and it is evident that they are a smooth functioning unit. Len Merulio, Cat shortstop, besides turning in several fielding gems, also contributed the longest hit of the day. This blow traveled to the stadium in right field, but ground rules held it to a double.

"Cowboy" Crawley was his usual reliable self, performing well both afield and at bat. Bill Neborek turned in capable work behind the bat and Art Vigilante who followed him at the backstopping position gave him a close race for receiving honors.

The Kittens' positions were manned by the following: 1b., Bond; 2b., Crawley; 3b., Delluomo; ss., Merullo; rf., Hopkins; cf., Wannemacher; lf., Matsinger; c., Neborek and Vigilante; p., Desmond.

On May 30 the Frosh will travel to State college and engage the Nittany cubs. Coach Cox has not stated his pitching selection as yet

Continued on Page Eight

SOCCER CANDIDATES WANTED

Coach Gadsby wants more men to report to him for soccer practice. This sport is conducted every afternoon behind Mendel Hall. As this is a new sport every one has the same advantage to demonstrate his ability.

MENDEL HALL LEADS SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Frosh Hold Top Position With One Loss; Fediganites Are in Cellar

Rain curtailed the activities of the softball league last week, and as a result only three of the six scheduled games were played. Mendel continued its winning ways in this loop, taking Fedigan by a 20-11 count, while Austin and Alumni split two games, the Frosh taking the first, 20-16, and the McKeemen the second ,16-8. Fedigan failed to appear for the second game with Mendel, and the Skytoppers were awarded the contest.

In the first encounter of the week, Fedigan started well, scoring four runs by fombining hits and errors to good advantage. The youngsters combed the offerings of Al Ryan for three tallies in their half of the inning to stay in the game.

Five more markers in the second frame gave the Gigolos a commanding lead which they held for the next two innings. Then the Penthouse boys got to Ryan and closed the gap to 9-8. Jack Rhoades replaced Ryan and a few infield changes were made in the Gigolo lineup, whereupon the Frosh scored 12 more runs while the best the Fediganites could do was to tally

Continued on Page Eight

Fediganites Blast Mendel In Two Intra-Mural Games

Gigolos Smash Freshman Hopes; Morning and Afternoon Games Keep Fedigan in Van

DURKIN STARS FOR LEAGUE LEADERS

Letting loose a devastating barrage of 20 solid base-hits, including four two baggers, the Fedigan team rang up its fifth consecutive victory of the season on Sunday afternoon when the Gigolos defeated the Mendel Skytoppers by the count of 11-3.

Earlier in the day the unbeaten Fediganites had handed the same Mendel team an 8-6 lacing to run the streak to four in a row.

The inhabitants of room 224 Fedigan were very prominent in the afternoon victory. Bill Durkin, flashy second baseman, led Fedigan's bom-bardment of basehits with four singles. Twice Bill came up with the sacks fully populated, and twice he came through with the necessary bingle.

His roommate, Bud Quinn, a newcomer to Fedigan's regular lineup, surprised by coming through with three solid hits, and besides he played errorless ball in right field.

Ben Pawlowski, another Fedigan-ite showing his stuff in the intra-mural league for the first time this year, was another star in the rout of the Skytoppers. Using as his most effective weapons a blazing fast ball and a sharp curve, Ben had the situation well in hand all the way, allowing but two cheap hits during his five inning term on the mound. He also showed that he is a hitting pitcher by connecting for two safeties.

The game was Fedigan's all the way. The league leaders stepped out to a one run lead in the first inning and never relinquished that lead. Durkin led the ball game off with a single to center, but was forced by Scanlan. Scanlan went to second on a passed ball and scored on a hit by Jack Rhoads. Another tally in the third and four more in the fourth practically clinched the game for Fedigan.

Rhoads with three singles, Laun with two doubles, and Sweeney who connected for two singles were other big guns in the Fedigan attack.

The morning game was closer, but it too was Fedigan's all the way. The Gigolos stepped out to a three run lead in the first frame. Mendel came back in its half of the same inning with a singleton.

But the leagueleaders came back again in the second inning with three more big tallies. Megaro and Durkin walked. Then Jack Rhoads caught one of Johnny Costello's pitches on the nose and drove it out into deep left center for a home run, scoring Megaro and Durkin before him.

Another run was needed for a victory and it came in the next frame. Goumy walked and stole second. When Megaro lined a single cut into center Goumy scored with ease, chalking up what proved to be the winning run.

Still Mendel was undaunted and kept pecking away at Fedigans six run lead. Aided by triples from the bats of Castles and Costello, the Skytoppers cut the margin to 7-6, but Fedigan had enough left to gain the victory, 8-6.

Bill Sweeney and Ted Goumy divided the mound chores for the victors, and both performed in capable fashion. John Costello twirled for Mendel and was rather effective, holding the harding-hitting Fediganites to seven hits. However, the six free tickets he issued proved disastrous, as three of them turned into runs.

The victories for Fedigan in Sunday's doubleheader were the fourth and fifth in a row and put the Gigolos so far out in front that none of the other teams have a chance to overtake them. The Fediganites hold two decisions over Alumni,

Continued on Page Nine

Frosh Undefeated In Two Contests

Continued From Page Seven

but it is probable that Joe Desmond will toe the mound with Frank Castles held in reserve.

The box score is unavailable for the Ursinus game and this may be attributed to poor press-agenting. However, the Ursinus boys are probably not sorry that no record of proceedings turned up.

SOCCER SQUAD HAS SECOND SCRIMMAGE

Varsity Candidates Hold Impromptu Match; Gadsby Pleased With Showing

For the second time in as many weeks Ray Gadsby, recently appointed soccer coach, conducted an informal scrimmage between sides composed of candidates for the varsity team. The game was held on Mendel Field last Friday evening.

Gadsby seems well pleased with the spirit shown by the candidates to date. It is a known fact, however, that there are several experienced men here at Villanova who have not reported as yet. Coach Gadsby feels sure that if full cooperation is afforded him by the student body he will be able to mold a very strong team.

Several teams, in and about Philadelphia, have already heard of the soccer squad being organized here and have already asked for games for next Fall. It is felt that most of these teams will be scheduled. The games will not be considered as varsity contests, but as scrimmages. If the showing made against these organized teams is good, then a formal schedule will be slated for the following season and a varsity team will be selected to represent Villanova.

In the Limelight

By JOHN L. SIMONS

PHILADELPHIA, the city of brotherly love, claims Jimmy Allen, the captain of this year's tennis team, as a native son. It was in Germantown in North Philly on October 31, 1915, that Jimmy was born. But the Allen family did not stay long in Germantown. When Jim was still a youngster, the Allens moved to Oak Lane, another section of North Philadelphia.

As soon as he had reached the age of six years Jim was enrolled in th first grade of the Holy Angels parochial school. It was during these grammar school days that Jim first took an interest in tennis.

He was in the sixth grade when he became interested in the court game. Fortunately for his development as a tennis player one of the neighbors had a private court, and thus Jimmy had the opportunity to get in a lot of practice.

Graduating from Holy Angels in 1928, he entered Northeast Catholic High School and gained his first bit of tennis prominence. As Northeast Catholic did not have a tennis team that year, he was forced to find this recognition outside.

This he did with a bang. In the winter of 1928-29, Jim entered the Middle Atlantic States junior indoor championships held at the Penn Athletic Club. He brushed aside his opposition in the early rounds and fought his way to the final. But the coveted championship was not to be his. He had an "off-day" when he came out for the final match and was beaten.

the following summer he entered the outdoor championships in the same division, but his success was not as great as indoors. He managed, however, before being eliminated to get to the quarter-final inated.

During his sophomore year in high school, North Catholic organized a tennis team, and of course, Jim was one of the leading racquet wielders. He played the No. 3 position throughout that season.

His play that year was so outstanding that he was honored with the captaincy for the following, his junior year. As a junior in addition to being captain, Jim was playing in the No. 1 position.

Senior year was a banner year for young Mr. Allen. Once again he was elected to lead the racqueteers, thus becoming the first man in North Catholic's history to captain a team two years in a row.

In the fall of 1932, Jim matriculated at Villanova College, but unlike the majority of athletes that cross the portals of this school Jim enrolled as a student in the difficult Civil Engineering course. Although a great part of his time was taken up by his studies, he managed somehow to finfid time to devote to his favorite sport, tennis.

He waited no longer than the first two months of his freshman year to win his first trophy on the Villanova campus. Being a true engineer he entered the fall tennis tournament sponsored by Phi Kappa Pi, the Engineering frat. In this tournament, he went all the way to the final round only to lose out in a close match. Nevertheless, he was awarded a handsome cup for gaining the runner-up position.

Jim's appearance as a Villanova varsity performer began his sophomore year. That season he reported as a candidate for the team and had no difficulty in winning a place on the regular playing squad. He made his start at the number 5 position, a humble start to be sure, but the hand of tennis he flashed proved that he would be ready for better things the following campaign.

When the next year came around, it found Jim alternating as the Wildcats' No. 2 man on the tennis courts. During this time, the Villanova team encountered stiff opposition from several of the better clubs of the East. Jim acquitted himself well throughout the entire campaign, and his work had its reward when history repeated itself and he was made captain of Villanova's 1936 netmen.

Jim has not been as active on the courts this present season as he would like to be. Due to the approach of graduation he has found it necessary to devote more time to classwork. This together with labs conflicting with dates of meets has kept Jim a little in the background.

He has faced many first rate players while representing the Wildcats. But according to him the toughest man he has faced is Georgie Dunn, of the University of Pennsylvania. Dunn, an ex-St. Joe Prep star, defeated Jim last year, avenging the decision Jim gained in the Middle Atlantic Championships.

Friars Stop 'Cats; Final Tally, 12-10

Continued From Page Seven

score, when Frank Collins, opposing pitcher, allowed them three hits, two bases on balls and a sacrifice hit in the very first inning to put them ahead, 2-0.

However, Providence came back in their half of the inning to score two runs and knot the count. Their guests chalked up two more runs in the second, when Walt McKenna singled Mike Garbark and Ray Stoviak across, but not to be outdone, the Friars pushed across five markers in their turn at bat and assumed a 7-4 lead.

The lead kept see-sawing back and forth. Villanova took the lead in the fourth by scoring four runs. Hits by Walt Sheftic, Garbark and Leo Schoppmeyer, in co-ordination with a pair of walks and an error accounted for the tallies that put them ahead, 8-7.

Tied Up In Fifth

Villanova notched another run in the fifth and their hosts garnered two in the same canto, making the score 9-all. Main Liners scored one in the seventh, but the Friars again came back to score the two runs that spelled victory for them, by a 12-10 margin.

Twenty-two hits accounted for the like number of runs. Coleman and Fisher hit homers for the victors. Ploski and Moge also hit heavily for them, connecting for two hits apiece, while Captain Arty Mahan contributed a double in the Wildcat cause. Sheftic continued his sensational hitting streak by netting a brace of hits. Schoppmeyer, looking like a big leaguer, handled seven chances at the keystone sack without a flaw.

Joe McGovern sought his fourth victory in as many starts, but he was chased in the third. Tom Collins relieved him, and he too went to the well-known showers; however, the thin one has been suffering from a lacerated heel, which probably explains his wildness due to a painful stance. Ed Vaughn finished the game.

VILLANOVA

	ab	r	h	o	a
Sheftic, 3b	5	2	2	0	0
Escott, cf	4	2	1	0	0
Mahan, 1b	5	2	1	4	1
Garbark, c	5	2	1	6	2
Stoviak, lf	4	2	1	3	0
Schoppmeyer, 2b	4	0	2	6	1
O'Meara, rf	4	0	0	2	0
McKenna, ss	4	0	1	1	1
McGovern, p	1	0	0	1	0
T. Collins, p	1	0	0	0	1
Vaughan, p	1	0	0	0	1
Totals	35	10	9	24	6

PROVIDENCE

	ab	r	h	o	a
Bell'eau, 2b	5	1	2	2	1
Bob'ski, cf	5	1	1	2	0
Coleman, 1b	3	1	1	10	0
Fischer, 1b	2	1	1	3	0
Moge, 3b	4	2	2	0	0
Appleton, rf	2	1	1	0	0
Ploski, ss	3	2	2	1	2
Crowley, lf	2	1	0	0	0
Yengerl, c	4	2	1	7	0
F. Collins, p	2	0	0	0	3
Zavadskis, p	2	0	0	0	2
McCarthy, p	1	0	1	0	0
Totals	36	12	12	27	11

Villanova ..... 2 0 2 4 1 0 1 0 3—10
Providence ..... 2 0 5 0 2 1 2 0 x—12

Errors—Coleman, Fischer, Ploski, F. Collins, Mahan.

Hits—Off Collins, 2 in 2 1-3 innings; Zavadskis, 7 in 3 1-3; McGovern, 5 in 2 2-3; T. Collins, 4 in 2 2-3 Vaughan, 3 in 1 2-3. Stolen bases—Escott, 2; Bell'eau, Ploski. Two-base hits—Fischer. Sacrifices — Sheftic, Escott. Ploski, Mahan. Home runs—Coleman, Struck out—By F. Collins, 2; Zavadskis, 1; T. Collins, 3; McCarthy, 3; Vaughan, 3.

Mendel Hall Leads Softball League

Continued From Page Seven

two in their half of the final inning. Scanlan's hitting featured the Fedigan attack.

Alumni pounded four Austin pitchers in the first tussle between the two halls. The attack started early in the contest when the old hall boys hammered eight runs in the first inning and six in the second. A change of pitchers held them to two markers in the next frame, and with the entry of Powderly as Kelly to the mound for the Austinites the Frosh were held to one run.

Alumni's moundsmen had full control of the situation, holding the losers well in check until the late innings when they eased up on the pressure, and allowed their opponents to score at will, but in vain.

Thursday night saw the second fray between these arch-rivals and when the last man was out another large score was compiled, but the result was the opposite of the preceding game. The Austinites put the game on ice in the early innings and all efforts of the Alumnites were fruitless as they went down, 16-8.

At the present time, with about two more weeks of play left, Mendel seems to have a fairly tight hold on the lead, having lost only one game. Fedigan has a firm grasp on the cellar position as the teams enter the stretch.

Jacobsmen Still Rank High In East; Mahan Leads Batters with .431 Mark

With two more contes' remaining, the Villanova Wildcat nine has compiled a successful record for the 1936 season by taking 11 out of the first 14 games. Pennsylvania was the first victim, falling by a 7-1 count as Eddie Vaughn inaugurated his third campaign in collegiate ranks. Jupe Pluvius then took a hand in Feline affairs and the next four games, Cornell, Princeton, Penn A. C., and Seton Hall, were drowned out.

Ursinus was visited and conquered as the tossers pounded out an 11-6 triumph. A brief home stay followed and Providence and St. John's, of Brooklyn, came to the Main Line field and were beaten. Providence was felled, 11-4, when a five run rally late in the game put the fray on ice for the Red and Blue. St. John's flunished more opposition and it was not until the final inning that the 'Cats were able to conquer the Red Men by a 10-9 tally.

Lehigh played host to the Jacobsmen and the Main Liners took full advantage of the hospitality of the boys from Bethlehem by pounding out 18 hits and 19 runs from the combined offerings of four of the Lehigh hurlers. The Brown and White scored five runs.

Continuing their travels, the Felines dropped in on Temple and scored 16 runs, knocking the redoubtable Ken Berry out of the box, and allowing his mates but nine markers.

Colgate was visited next, and the Red Raiders of the Chenango Valley gave the Villanova followers a rude shock by snapping a six-game winning streak and halting our lads, 10-4. Joe McGovern held Cornell to six hits on the succeeding day, and the mivtory march was again reaumed. Six for us and one for them was the score of this tussle.

On their way home, the roving 'Cats tallied 11 runs at Penn State while allowing the Nittany Lions an even half dozen.

Another short home stay saw the Villanovans entertain Lehigh and the Temple Owls on successive days. Open House must have affected our boys for they were barely able to nose out the Bethlehemites, 9-8. Stellar infield play and excellent pitching in tight spots defeated the Owls, 8-2, as the flock filled the sacks in three successive innings without scoring.

Mahan and Co. then journeyed to the big town where Long Island University and the Fordham Ram were encountered. The Islanders had beaten the Rams and victory over the latetr was expected by the Felines after they took the L. I. boys, 5-3, in ten innings. Fordham, however, had different ideas about the matter and herl the Main Liners to six hits and three runs while scoring the four tallies for themselves.

A scheduled reurn game with St.

Continued on Page Nine

NETMEN DEFEAT 2 TOUGH OPPONENTS

Elizabethtown and West Chester Drop Before Determined 'Cat Team

Two victories were chalked up by the Villanovan netmen, trouncing the Elizabethtown College squad and avenging a defeat over the West Chester State Teachers College.

In the meet between Elizabethtown and Villanova, the Villanova tennis team dropped only one match, in which Martin defeated Cousart by the scores of 6-3, 6-2. Otherwise a clean sweep in both the single and double matches was the result of the tennis team's untiring efforts.

The feature contest of this match was between Thorn of Villanova and D. Schlosser of Elizabethtown, in which the former having dropped the first set, 4-6, came back strong to win the last two, 6-2, 6-2, and the match.

Dwyer of Villanova defeated Sarder rather handily in winning his match by the scores of 6-1, 6-2. McCabe of Villanova also hung up a victory by defeating W. Schlosser by the scores of 6-3, 6-0. Zaloom, after winning his first set by the score of 6-3, finally snared the second set by the score of 7-5. Dwyer

Continued on Page Nine

Behind The Bat

By GENE LOOBAM

VENTURING into the wilds of New York the 'Cats feasted on Blackbird meat but were unable to capture the elusive Ram . . . with the hitters in the van and Tom Collins pitching shut-out ball the Wildcats quelled Long Island in ten innings . . . four hits were coupled in the tenth to insure victory . . .

On the following day Villanova arrived at Rose Hill and outplayed the Rams all the way but failed to take the decision . . . Eddy Vaughn outpitched Johnny Barris but several bad breaks kept him away from victory . . . Fordham's runs were unearned but the fact is that they got them . . .

In the initial inning Villanova loaded the bases and pushed over a run . . . this tally did not count, however, because of interference with the third baseman on a ground ball . . .

Barris issued nine walks but the 'Cats were unable to take advantage of the breaks offered . . . the stands started to empty at the start of the last inning and when the first two men up hit out, the stands were practically bare . . . everyone paused, however, when Mahan and Garbark walked and Ray Stoviak came through with the best hit of the day, a two-bagger over second, scoring the two men on the bags . . . Leo Schoppmeyer came up and was justly nervous . . . he had come through with a single in the tenth on the day before, but with too much advice he went down before Barris' fast-ball . . . an even break was rather good against such opposition, however . . .

Last Wednesday Villanova made another trip to New York to play St. John's; but they were deprived of a victory when rain halted the game in the third inning . . . the 'Cats were leading two to nothing when old Jupiter Pluvius interfered Coming into the last half of their strenuous season the Kittens opposed the Ursinus Cubs on the varsity field . . . Joe Desmond pitched an 8-0 victory to give the Frosh their second victory in as many starts . . . one of the longest blows of the day was poled out by Lenny Merullo, who hit a line drive beneath the stands in right field . . . ground rules held the hit to two bases, however . . . Len is still trying to explain how he came to hit to right field . . . and he is also trying to explain how the second baseman came to have the ball when Len thought the pitcher had it . . .

An interesting incident occurred in this game . . . the coach of Ursinus called over to the Kitten's coach asking whether or not it was all right to have a man run for a fellow who was on first . . . Coach Cox gave immediate consent and called over to Art Vigilante to go over and run for the man . . . the interesting part reats in the fact that Art is the Kittens' catcher . . . the matter was finally straightened out, however, to the satisfaction of all . . .

Bob Bond, Frosh first beseman, has been quite worried for the past week . . . he bought a suit that was supposed to be Gabardine . . . Lou Dubino, whose father is a tailor, told Bob that the suit isn't real Gabardine . . . Bob doesn't know whether or not to believe him . . .

Intramural hardball and softball games are being played quite regularly now . . . Fedigan is leading in hardball while the standings in the soft-ball can be changed by the result of a single game . . . in a game between Austin and Alumni "Powerhouse" Kelly took the mound and did quite well for himself . . .

Word has just come in that the Day Hops have withdrawn from baseball due to their inability to get a team together at the scheduled times . . . this is just an item to inform those fellows who have been inquiring about the Day Hops . . .

Your scribe isn't allowed to let out some good news concerning Art Mahan's future but maybe he'll tell those fellows, who ask him, what he'll be doing a year from now . . . Art's future is quite definitely set . . . and his job will keep him near home, too . . .

As this is the last issue of the VILLANOVAN, it is the last time that you will be reading anything that I may have to write . . . I guess you're not sorry . . . But, in all seriousness, I wish to thank my editors for their help throughout the year and also to extend my thanks to my fellow staff members who wrote assignments for me when I was on the sick list . . .

Golfers Take Two; Drop One to Close

Continued From Page Seven

played host, and defeated the Cats, 7½ to 1½, last Wednesday at Marble Hall, Conshohocken.

Dubino, playing No. 4 with Ed Tirrell, was the lone point winner match, 2 and 1. Bob Stockton eked for the match, when he won his out half a point by h-living a match with the Pennman, who shot a one-above-par 73. Dwyer, out with an injured hand, did not play in No. 2, but Gene Barr, playing his position, dropped a hard match 2 and 1. McManus and Pagano both lost, and Penn collected all three points for best ball.

Villanova's club-swingers closed their season with a blaze of glory when they shut out West Chester Teachers, 6-0, on Thursday at the Main Line Open.

Bob Stockton defeated Sorti, 3 and 2, shooting an 80, but Jim Dwyer eclipsed his partner's glory by winning his match over Teacher Robinson, 7 and 5, to shoot a sparkling 76. Villanova took best ball.

In the second foursome, West Chester was again completely shut out. Ed Tirell and Johnny Dubino took all three points, Tirell in No. 3 winning one up, and Dubino winning 4 and 3.

Golfers Have .470

An analysis of the Cats' season shows a record of seven wins, eight losses, three of which were on the disasterous Southern trip, and one tie, giving a record of .470.

Villanova showed victories over Temple, Pennsylvania Military College, West Chester State Teachers, Trenton Teachers, and Haverford Jayvees. They won from Delaware and Lafayette by default.

Osteopathy twice took their measure, Llanerch B Penn showed decisive wins, and in a return match Temple defeated them to tie up that series. On the Southern trip the golfers lost successive matches to Virginia, Richmond, and lost by a hair to Georgetown.

In the first match of the series, Trenton Teachers tied up a match, 3-3.

Individual records of the players follow:

Player	W.	L.	T.
Stockton	9	3	2
Dwyer	7	5	0
Tirell	4	5	1
Dubino	4	1	0
Cragg	1	5	0
McManus	1	8	0
Barr	3	4	1

Netmen Defeat Two Tough Opponents

Continued From Page Eight

and Thorn teamed up to win over Sarder and Lenton in the doubles by the scores of 6-2, 6-2. McCabe and Zaloom duplicated the same feat by defeating D. Schlosser and Martin by the scores of 6-4 and 6-3.

The victory over the West Chester State Teachers College last Saturday avenged a defeat which was handed to the Villanovan netmen early in the season. In this contest the single matches were divided, Villanova winning three as did West Chester. But the "Cats" came through to make a clean sweep in the doubles and to clinch the match.

Thorn, ace man of the tennis team, won his match, having to go to the limit, but in the end he emerged victorious over Reynolds by the scores of 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

Jimmy Dwyer, after having dropped the first set, 4-6, rallied to win the last two sets by the scores of 6-3 6-4. Anderson, of West Chester, had a little trouble in defeating McCabe of Villanova by the scores of 6-1, 6-4. Zaloom, although putting up a good battle, was finally defeated by Groff, of West Chester, by the scores of 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Cousart won his match in two sets by defeating Leachey, of West Chester, by the scores of 6-4, 6-4. Cook, making his first appearance on the team, went down to defeat after putting up a courageous battle. He won the first set, 4-6, and then lost two tough ones by the scores of 7-5 7-5. McFarland, of West Chester, was his opponent.

Thorn and Dwyer, after putting up with a love set came back to win the second set by the score of 6-4, and in the last set gave their opponents, Reynolds and Benz, a dose of their own medicine by handing out a love set to win the match.

McCabe and Zaloom teamed up to win with ease their match over Groff and McFarland by scores of 6-3, 6-3. Cousart and Cook made it a clean sweep in the doubles by defeating Anderson and Leachey by the scores of 6-4, 7-5.

Winning three out of four matches up to date, the Villanova netmen will try to better their average when they take on the tennis team of St. Thomas this Wednesday. St. Thomas will arrive here Wednesday morning, meet the Villanova racquet men in the afternoon, and remain here all Wednesday night.

Diplomats Defeat Villanova in Meet

Continued From Page Seven

place in a strong finish to place second. "Pop" Sheally took third.

Carrington, of Franklin and Marshall, won both hurdle events. In the high hurdles, Bierach, F. & M., placed second and Lyons, Villanova, came in third. In the low hurdles, Carrington just about nosed out Raimo to win in 26 3-5 seconds.

Cats Weak In Weights

Villanova proved weak in the weight events. Nye placed second in the shot put, and Schelle took third place in the discus. All the other places went to the Diplomats, F. & M. also made a clean sweep in the javelin throw.

Summaries:

100-yard dash—Won by Pole, F. and M.; second, Jones, F. and M.; third, Monahan, Villanova. Time, 10 seconds.

220-yard dash—Won by Pole, F. and M.; second, Monahan, Villenova; third, Sherlock, Villanova. Time, 22 1-5.

440-yard dash—Won by Biester, Villanova; second, Gibere, F. and M. (Jones won, but was disqualified). Time, 52 3-5.

880-yard run — Won by Captain Quinn, F and M.; second, Cook, Villanova; third, Sheely, Villanova. Time, 2 minutes 8 seconds.

Mile run—Won by Howard, F. and M.; second, Mitzkevich, F. and M.; third, Maloney, Villanova. Time, 4 minutes 51 2-5 seconds.

Two-mile run—Won by Frey, F. and M.; second, Griesen, F. and M.; third, Maloney, Villanova. Time, 10 minutes 20 2-5 seconds.

120 high hurdles—Won by Carrington, F. and M.; second, Raimo, Villanova; third, Beirach, F. and M. Time, 26 3-5.

220 low hurdles—Won by Carrington, F. and M.; second, Raimo, Villanova; third, Beirach, F. and M. Time, 26 3-5.

High jump—Tie between Schelle and Cook, Villanova; third, Wenrach, F. and M. Height, 5 feet 4 inches.

Shotput—Won by Sponagle, F. and M.; second, Nye, Villanova; third, Glickman, F. and M. Distance 42 feet 6 inches.

Javelin—Won by Dinsmore, F. and M.; second Sponaugle, F. and M.; third, Wenrick, F. and M. Distance, 168 feet ½ inch.

Broadjump—Won by Cook, Villanova; second, La Brasca, Villanova.

Fediganites Blast Mendel Hall Twice

Continued From Page Eight

two over Mendel, and one over Austin. As there is but one game remaining on the schedule the champions of the 1936 intramural baseball season are the Fedigan Hall tossers.

MORNING GAME
Mendel

	ab	r	h
Christoph, lf	3	0	1
Capellaro, c	2	0	0
Dimon, 3b	3	2	1
Carroll, 1b	4	0	2
Costello, p	3	0	1
Castles, ss	4	1	1
Sheik, 2b	2	1	0
Schaedler, rf	2	1	0
Delate, cf	3	1	0
Totals	26	6	6

Fedigan

	ab	r	h
Durkin(2b	4	1	0
Scanlan, cf	4	2	1
Rhoads, 3b	3	2	2
Simons, c	3	0	1
Laun, lf	3	1	0
Gomy, ss	2	1	0
Carlin, 1b	1	0	0
Cooke, 1b	2	0	0
Megaro, c, rf	3	1	0
Sweeny, p	3	0	2
Totals	28	8	7

AFTERNOON GAME
Mendel

	ab	r	h
Christoph, lf	4	0	0
Capellaro, c	4	0	0
Hanlon, 3b	4	0	0
Carroll, 1b	3	0	1
Costello, c	2	0	1
Castles, ss	1	1	0
Sheik, 2b	1	1	0
Schaedler, cf	1	0	0
Stanwick, rf	2	1	0
Totals	24	3	3

Fedigan

	ab	r	h
Durkin, 2b	4	0	4
Scanlan, cf	5	0	1
Rhoads, 3b	4	2	3
Simons, c	5	3	3
Laun, lf	5	1	2
Stahmann, 1b	4	1	0
Sweeney, ss	4	1	2
Quinn, rf	4	1	3
Pawlowski, p	3	1	2
Totals	38	11	20

Seniors!
Keep in Touch With Villanova
By Subscribing to the VILLANOVAN
Next Fall
$2.00 PER YEAR

Here and There

By WILLIAM BOWKER.

IT LOOKS as though we might have some six-day bicycle riders among us. Two Sundays ago a Western Union messenger came on the campus and went into Fedigan Hall on official business. Whereupon Bill Sweeney, Milan Vidnovic and "Diamond Jim" Wrona seized the vehicle and started riding it. Vidnovic had more trouble than the other two, nearly cracking his dome three or four times. A little practice will remedy that inexperience, Milan.

If what the papers say is true, Villanovans won't be able to recognize the athletic staff here next year. The latest report is that "Doc" Jacobs, head coach of basketball and baseball, is going to take up the coaching reins at Admiral Farragut Academy, the little Annapolis. Harry Stuhldreher started something when he left for Wisconsin. Bob Reagan left next to aid Stuhle, and then the appointment of Nick Kotys to Shickshinny came, and last but not least, "Doc" Jacobs.

Fedigan Hall was treated to the sight of Pat Marquette and Jordan Olivari trotting around on roller skates last Tuesday. When asked where he got the skates, Olivari immediately accused Marquette of buying them somewhere.

Only six more days until exams, boys. Time to cast away the bat and ball, the tennis racquet, and the golf club, and dust off the old text books. Grinding time is here.

With the coming of the hot weather a new sport is available to those athletically minded. There are no screens on the windows as yet and the flies have had ample time to make their nests in the rooms. This will supply ample big game for the Frank Bucks, and from now on the boys will be swatting flies and other forms of big game. The game warden of Pennsylvania asked us to make known the fact that the state laws forbid fly killing at night. Hunters must confine themselves to moths, mosquitos and mice. The latter named carnivora have Alumni Hall for their stamping grounds, while the other forms of night life are not so particular.

Bill Fath was directing traffic in the Mendel triangle at 5 A. M. after the Prom.

"Powerhouse" Kelly held the hard hitting Alumni softball team to one run during his short stay on the mound. This was about six runs less than any other Austin pitcher was able to do.

Aviation makes its appearance on the campus with the inauguration of the Jimmie Allen Flying Club of Villanova. There are 15 charter members, and two honorary members. The aims of this organization are very praiseworthy as their code contains the principles of keeping morally, mentally and physically fit; aiding American aviation; collecting Jimmie Allen stamps; and being all 'round good boys.

Jack Geraghty, Wildcat purchaser of no mean ability, has been appointed Honorary Lieutenant Colonel of the Invisible Flying Corps because of his herculean efforts in the furtherance of the cause. Other athletes enrolled in the aeronautical group include "Bunny" Galazin, "Pee" Carleton, Nobby Horn, and Charlie Higgins. The first three come from the gridiron, the latter from the cinder path.

Harry Stuhldreher stepped into some tall timber when he accepted the Wisconsin job. Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, has seven tackles weighing an average of 305 pounds. Good luck, Stuhlie.

Last week we mentioned the fact that the intramural golfers had not seems that they were still playing, having started on April 29. The boys must have set a new course record.

Two weeks from today summer strong he-men can go to their jobs as lifeguards and get a nice sun tan. Len Connelly is one of the lads who will be able to admire the feminine beauty on the beach, the lucky stiff.

Then there is the prep school hurdling star who was offered two scholarships by a California institution of higher learning. He was told that the second one was for his young lady friend. There's good humor.

Things we'll remember doing vacation...Nort Paden's, "Now listen time."...Alex Bell's talking about the Pirates..."Pappy" Dorn and his boosting Connecticut...The young lady whose "ideal" was the crosseyed trumpet player in Jan Garber's orchestra.... The pre-meds' comments about Chicago...Getting head while playing the outfield in softball..."Bo" Egan's political theories...The marvelous food in the dining hall...Associate Football Manager Bill Burke's trying to get someone to go to the P. O. for him...The first soccer scrimmage seen at Villanova...The Music Goes Down and Around...Seeing Harry Guckenberger going back for seconds...The shock on finding that Joe McGovern's middle name is "Bertram"...Also his red, white and black striped pajamas, positively the loudest on the campus...The inactivity of the V. C.'s...Open House...Joe Toland's dayhopping...Bucknell's drum major...Pio Goggi throwing the stick over the goal posts...The iron man stunt Johnny Higgins pulled, playing practically every minute of the Bucknell and La Salle games...The Temple game...The startling announcement that Stuhldreher was leaving with a wonder team in the offing...The disastrous basketball season...Trying to think up some more stuff for this column...So long until next year...

Baseballers Still Rate High in East

Continued From Page Eight

John's was rained out after the Blue and White had assumed a 2-0 lead in the third inning. Following this, "Doc" Jacobs' charges took a boat ride to Providence, where they lost to the Friars, 12-10, in a wild and wooly contest in which one team and then the ot er went to the fore.

At present, the tossers are marking time, awaiting the coming of Ursinus and Long Island, to be met on the 22d and 25th of this month, respectively.

Offensively, the squad has accounted nobly for itself. In 14 games they have tallied 130 runs and cracked out 168 hits to compile an average of .319 for the season to date. Captain Art Mahan is leading the pack in hitting with an average of over .400, with Mike Garbark following not far behind. Walt Sheftic is right on the heels of the two leaders with a scant ten point margin separating him and Garbark. Art's heavy hitting, with five doubles, three triples and two homers, entitles him to the batting crown, as he also leads in run batted in.

Ray Stoviak, guardian of left field, is fourth in the averages with .373. He leads in the production of home runs, having accounted for five, four of which were made in two days, against Lehigh and Temple. Next in line is Mike O'Meara with an even .300. A batting slump has brought Mike's average down to this still respectable amount.

Only three of the regulars are batting under the .300 mark, and these are within striking distance.

Ursinus and L. I. U. Close 'Cat Season

Continued From Page Seven

tenth inning of the L. I. U. fray that broke a tied game and gave Villanova a 5-3 victory. The stickmen built up a 3-0 lead for Joe McGovern in the first two innings, but he wilted in the third and Long Island pushed three runs around the bases to knot the score. At this point Tom Collins stepped onto the mound and blanked his hosts for the rest of the game.

In the tenth inning Garbark scored Sheftic from third, thus giving Villanova a one-run lead, but to make victory secure Schoppmeyer singled Garbark across the plate with the last tally of the game.

Five Seniors will see action on an Intercollegiate diamond for the last time in the Long Island game. Artie Mahan, Ed Vaughn, Tom Collins, Joe McGovern and Mike O'Meara.

Frank Escott, center fielder, is the lowest in batting, which is probably fortunate for the opposing teams, for he leads the team in stolen bases.

Harry McNally, basketball luminary, has an average of .400, earned in the St. John's and Colgate games. Harry has two for five. Andy Stopper has one bingle in three appearances at the plate and Johnny Higgins went hitless in his one trip to the platter.

With two more game to play, the Wildcats can look upon a successful season, even should they drop the next two contests, which is very doubtful.

Fediganites Blast Mendel In Two Intra-Mural Games

Gigolos Smash Freshman Hopes; Morning and Afternoon Games Keep Fedigan in Van

DURKIN STARS FOR LEAGUE LEADERS

Letting loose a devastating barrage of 20 solid base-hits, including four two baggers, the Fedigan team rang up its fifth consecutive victory of the season on Sunday afternoon when the Gigolos defeated the Mendel Skytoppers by the count of 11-3.

Earlier in the day the unbeaten Fediganites had handed the same Mendel team an 8-6 lacing to run the streak to four in a row.

The inhabitants of room 224 Fedigan were very prominent in the afternoon victory. Bill Durkin, flashy second baseman, led Fedigan's bom-bardment of baseballs with four singles. Twice Bill came up with the sacks fully populated, and twice he came through with the necessary bingle.

His roommate, Ed Quinn, a newcomer to Fedigan's regular lineup, surprised by coming through with three solid hits, and besides he played errorless ball in right field.

Ben Bradowski, another Fedigan, he showing his stuff in the intra-mural league for the first time this year, was another star in the rout of the Skytoppers. Using as his most effective weapons a blazing fast ball and a sharp curve, Ben had the situation well in hand all the way, allowing but two cheap hits during his five inning term on the mound. He also showed that he is a hitting pitcher by connecting for two safeties.

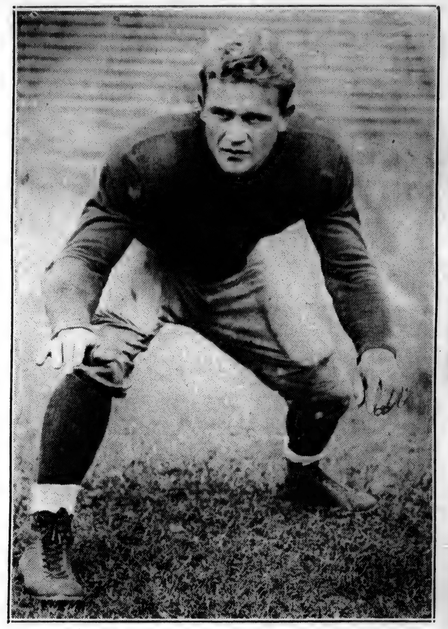
The game was Fedigan's all the way. The league leaders stepped out to a one run lead in the first inning and never relinquished that lead. Durkin led the ball game off with a single to center, but was forced by Scanlan. Scanlan went to second on a passed ball and scored on a hit by Jack Rhoads. Another tally in the third and four more in the fourth practically clinched the game for Fedigan.

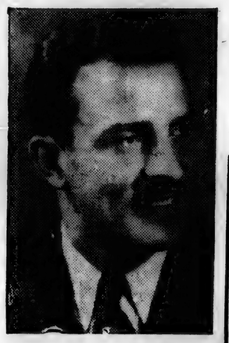
Rhoads with three singles, Ryan with two doubles, and Sweeney who connected for two singles were other big guns in the Fedigan attack.

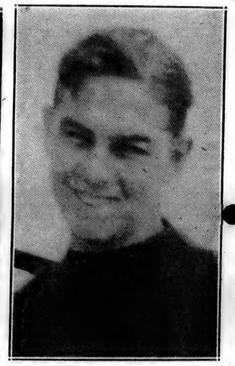
The morning game was closer, but it too was Fedigan's all the way. The Gigolos stepped out to a three run lead in the first frame. Mendel came back in its half of the same inning with a single run.

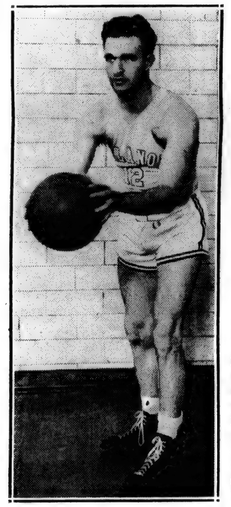
But the league leaders came back again in the second inning with the same five tallies. Scanlan walked. Durkin took first on an error. Then Jack Rhoads came through

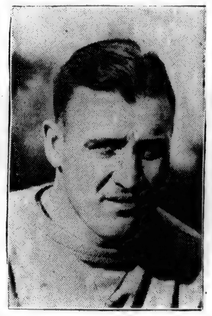
News Events Of The Year Told In Pictures



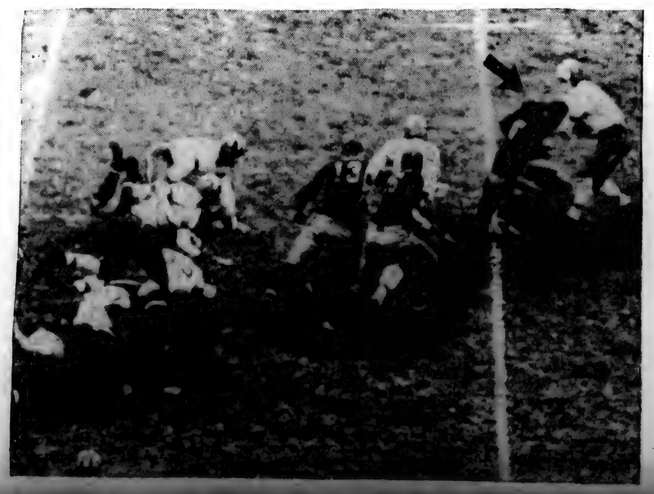


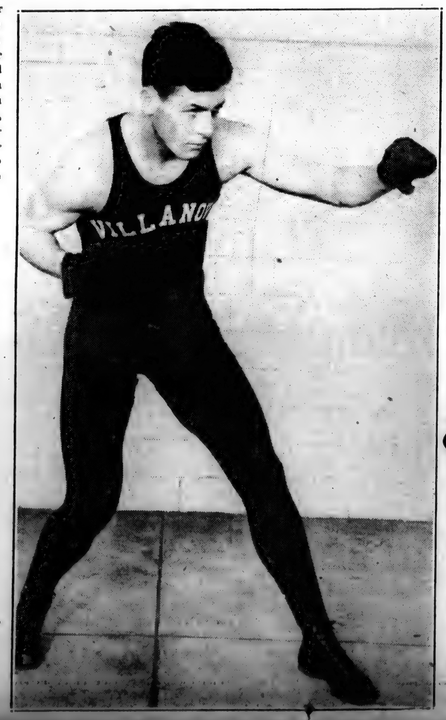






HISTORY MAKERS and celebrities who made news for Villanova during the past year are shown on this page. Eddie Michaels (upper left), football captain, makes All-American guard; Rev. Julius Nieuwland, C. S. C. (top center), Notre Dame priest-scientist, inventor of synthetic rubber, wins 1936 Mendel Medal; Glen Gray (above) and famed Casa Loma band, "makes" 1936 Senior Ball; "Bullet Ben" Geraghty (upper right) star shortstop, from campus to big league baseball (Brooklyn Dodgers); Mike O'Meara (extreme left) leads basketball scorers for second straight year; George "Doc" Jacobs (left) developer of baseball stars, coaches another great team; Harry Stuhldreher, (right), eleven years mentor of successful Wildcat football teams, goes to Wisconsin Badgers; Ray Gadsby (extreme right), newly appointed boxing coach, puts out Villanova's first successful team; Tony Sala (lower right), boxing and football captain-elect, retains intercollegiate 175 lb. championship; Art Raimo (below), star fullback, on sensational 60 yd. run to touchdownland in annual Villanova-Temple football classic which the Wildcats won, 21-14.





Paetrus F. Banmiller, Alumni Secretary, Editor

ALUMNI NEWS

Villanova College Alumni Association 108 Mendel Hall

Alumni Weekend Begins On Graduation Day

EXTENSIVE PROGRAM OF SPORTS, SOCIAL EVENTS SCHEDULED

Annual Period of Campus Reunion to Last Three Days

MARTIN GILL IS CHAIRMAN OF WEEK-END COMMITTEE

Alumni Banquet on June 6 Will Climax Hoped-for Success

Villanova college campus will again extend its arms in hearty welcome as the Alumni returns to the scenes of its former school days on the first week-end in June.

An extensive and interesting program for the period has recently been released by Martin Gill, '32, chairman of the committee and vice president of the alumni, who sent letters to members of the Alumni in various sections of the country. The dates given out by the letter include the week-end of June fourth, fifth and sixth.

Alumni members will begin the week by being present at the ninety-third graduation exercises of the college on Thursday afternoon, June fourth. In the evening a smoker will be held in the college gymnasium, where refreshments will be served.

Alumni racquet wielders will have the spotlight as the annual tennis tournament gets under way on Friday afternoon, while the less ambitious members of the graduates will spend the afternoon on the links of the Main Line Golf Club going through the preliminary rounds of the Alumni golf tournament. That evening will be spent in the swimming pool of the college gymnasium. Final rounds of the above-mentioned tournaments will be played off on Saturday morning.

In order that the athletic talents of no one will be slighted the diamond devotees of the Villanova clubs of Philadelphia and New York will clash on Saturday afternoon.

After the ball game the more serious business of the annual gathering will get under way as the annual Business Meeting and Elections of Officers will take place in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance building.

The climax of the week-end will come when the entire alumni meets for the Alumni Banquet at seven o'clock in the college dining hall.

It is to be understood that there will be no charge for rooms and other facilities of the college. Reservations are to be made with Mr. Paetrus Banmiller, Alumni secretary.

What We'll Do and When

THURS., FRI., SAT. - JUNE 4, 5, 6, 1936

THURSDAY
AFTERNOON:
Ninety-Third Annual Commencent, Gymnasium, 2:30 P. M.
EVENING:
Smoker (With Refreshments), Gymnasium (After Dinner)

FRIDAY
AFTERNOON:
Alumni Tennis Tournament, Villanova Courts (All Day)
Golf (Choose your own Partners), Main Line Golf Course (All Day)
EVENING:
Swimming, Villanova Pool in Gymnasium.

SATURDAY
MORNING:
Tennis and Golf (as above)
AFTERNOON:
Baseball Game—Baseball Diamond—1:30 P. M., Phila. Club vs. New York Club.
Annual Business Meeting and Election, C. & F. Auditorium, 4:30 P. M.
EVENING:
Annual Alumni Banquet—7 P. M.—College Dining Hall.

All Are Welcome to the Use of the Tennis Courts, Swimming Pool, Bowling Alleys, and Other Facilities at All Times. Please Make Reservations Now for the Annual Alumni Banquet.

New Yorkers To Sponsor Spring Dance May 23rd

Metropolitans Will "Do It Again" at Ridgewood Country Club, Says Chairman of Affair

THE VILLANOVA CLUB OF NEW YORK

Dear Alumnus:

Villanovans of the Metropolitan Area are going to do it again. "Do what?" say you. They are going to live over again that delightful evening in the Spring of 1932 when they and their friends gathered, over a hundred strong, at the Ridgewood Country Club and ate and drank and sang and danced until they were just too tired for any more. So it is with pleasure that the Club announces its 1936 Spring Dance. It will be held in the Ridgewood Country Club in Paramus, N. J., on the evening of Saturday the twenty-third of May It will be a supper dance and reservations for a couple are five dollars.

The club is ideal for our purpose. It is located hard by Route 2, one of New Jersey's justly famous highways, and is easily accessible from any part of New York or New Jersey. This makes the trip to the club on a spring evening a pleasant and all-too-short ride. And even though within sight of the highway, the club is secluded and private, shielded from the glare by its grove of fine trees and removed from the hurly burly by its broad acres of velvety turf.

The clubhouse alone is worth the trip—a fine stone building that might have been brought bodily from Normandy with its towers and pointed roofs, its stained glass windows and its stone-flagged terraces within, the winding staircase, the iron-grilled doorways, the lofty hall with its carved roof trusses, rich wall hangings and great heart, all combine to arouse a feeling of warm generous comfort. The grill and bar are just as you'd like to have them, snug but adequate.

Outside, beyond the stone terraces, there is a swimming pool; and while for a dance it usually serves merely as a mirror for the stars, still it's there, and if the conditions are right, it might be used to add a little more to the evening. But the more sane of us will be content to enjoy its beauty while "sitting one out" or strolling about the lawns.

Dancing will be held in the main hall where there will be room and to spare for the best gathering we can muster. Music will be furnished by a band of eight men. We know them to be of better than average ability and we can assure you that you'll be pleased with and even enthusiastic about their efforts on your behalf. It may even be that a lady passing fair will woo us away from our worldly cares with soft words sweetly sung. It might also happen as the evening wears on and the boys become more mellow that "College Days" and other ancient tunes would conjure scenes of days long past.

Tables for couples and groups will be provided in the great hall or in the adjoining banquet room where shortly after midnight a buffet supper will be served. Throughout the evening a la carte service will be available at your table and in the grill—according to your pleasures. A service charge is included in the cost of the reservation so that tips will be unnecessary. The a la carte prices are reasonable, the selection broad and the quality of the finest.

To insure that arrangements for tables, service, and your suppers will be satisfactory, all reservations for couples and parties must be made—and paid for—by May 20th. Please do not delay until the last minute and above all—as you hope to look back on 1936 without regret—don't miss this dance.

Make reservations with:
William H. Clinton, 228 Mt. Vernon Ave., Orange, N. J., or Peter C. Eschman, 274 Arlington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cordially yours,
Wm. H. Clinton, Chairman.
of the Villanova Club of New York

SENIORS INVITED TO DANCE

Mr. William O'Prey, '33, Vice-President of the New York Club, visited the College last Friday. He personally invited the Senior students who reside in the metropolitan area of New York to be guests at the Spring Dance to be held Saturday, May 23, at the Ridgewood Country Club in Paramus, New Jersey.

Employment

During the past few weeks the Alumni Office has been receiveing several requests from individuals and various organizations concerning employment of our graduates. There have been several fine positions available for properly qualified college graduates but the Alumni Secretary has been unable to satisfactorily comply with these requests due to the fact that so many of the Alumni have failed to make known their unemployment, whether they desire a change of position, etc. We urge them to keep in constant touch with the Alumni Office.

D. C. NEWSMEN HOLD BANQUET

WASHINGTON, D. C.—To celebrate the founding date of the fraternity and also to plan for formation of an alumni chapter, about 75 former members of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, banqueted here last Saturday. Washington correspondents of note, Associated Press and United Press newsmen, and a good number of government press and publicity men gathered to petition national headquarters fo ra charter, and to hear Douglas Southall Freeman, Richmond editor and author of the Pulitzer prize-winning biography of Robert E. Lee. About 25 universities and colleges were listed as the former alma maters of the Sigma Delta Chi members present. Ten members of the undergraduate chapter at Washington and Lee, attending the dinner, initiated Freeman as an honary member of the fraternity.

ALUMNI DANCE HEAD

JOSEPH LINSALATA, '35, who has been selected by the Phila. Alumni Club to chairman a dance in honor of the Class of '36 on Friday, June 12, at the Philopatrian Club, 1923 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

VILLANOVA GRADS MAKE THE GRADE

News and Notes on Various Alumni Reveal Successful Endeavors

RECENT NEWS ITEMS

Editor's Note: The following News and Notes of the Classes have been received since the last issue of the Alumni News was released.

Joseph I. Worthington, '22, was recently elected president of the Alumni Association of the Roman Catholic High School in Philadelphia.

Hughie Mooney, '24, is working for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and is living at 1727 So. Florence Ave., in Tulsa, Okla.

Dr. Anthony Sellitto, '24. has announced the opening of his office at 268 Valley St., South Orange, N. J.

Paul Rombaut, '26, just completed a $1,000,000 super-imposed power Plant for the R. G. & E. and is starting work on another.

T. J. McCarthy, X'28, is District Supervisor for the New York Telephone Company, in New York.

Atilano F. Montesa, X'29, is Instructor in Building Construction in the Philippine School of Arts and Trades at Manila, . I. He is also enrolled in the U. S. Army Engineer Corps as a Reserve Officer with the title of First Lieutenant.

Joseph E. Kelly, '30, is in charge of the Lighting Project at the new Philadelphia Airport.

John J. Kelly, '30, is wire chief for the Western Union in Washington, D. C.

Edward R. Lichetti, '30, is employed on the design of a concrete arch to be built in Cobbs Creek Park, Pa.

Ed Mayer, '33, is with the Erie City Iron Works in the Sales Engineering Department.

Frank O'Connor, '33, is working for the International Business Machine Company in Akron, Ohio.

Frank Martin, '33, who recently visited the campus on his vacation, is employed by the American Sterilizer Company in Erie on product development and engineering design.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS GROW

Contributions in Various Amounts Help Swell Total Capital

The Class Scholarship funds which have been established and founded by the various classes since 1928 have been steadily growing by direct contributions, accumulated dividends from the insurance policies, cash surrenders, etc. The following amounts are credited with the respective classes as follows:

Class of 1928 Scholarship Fund	$483.88
Class of 1929 Scholarship Fund	431.28
Class of 1930 Scholarship Fund	304.68
Class of 1931 Scholarship Fund	643.66
Class of 1933 Scholarship Fund	70.00
Class of 1934 Scholarship Fund	420.00
Class of 1935 Scholarship Fund	423.00

PHILADELPHIA CLUB TO FETE '36 GRADS AT RECEPTION BALL

Purpose Is to Acquaint New Alumni With Older Members

LINSALATA IS CHAIRMAN

A gala reception and dance to be sponsored by the Villanova Club of Philadelphia at the Philopatrian Club, 1923 Walnut St., on Friday, June 12th, will welcome the members of the class of '36 residing in the vicinity of Philadelphia. The primary purpose of this function is to enable the local graduates to become acquainted with the Villanova alumni.

Joseph J. Linsalata, '35, who is chairman of the dance, said that this affair is the first of its kind and should offer the coming graduates an opportunity that was not tendered to the previous classes. The other members of the committee are Harold Keating, '35, Frank Scerca, '34, James Carr, '34, Charles Laughlin, '23, John A. Freney, '29, and James H. Korson,'33.

At this celebration in honor of the local graduates the music will emanate from the chords of a local band which is well known in the Philadelphia area. An organ recital by Carmen Giordano, '36, will augment the dancing at different intervals.

Table accommodations will be arranged on that night making the affair somewhat cabaret in appearance. A lounge and smoking room will be available for those desirous of reminiscing the good old college days.

The reunion is strictly an invitation affair and the cover charge will be one dollar a couple. The capacity of the hall is limited to 120 couples; in order to assure your accommodations we ask you to make your reservations immediately.

NATIONAL ALUMNI HOLD NOMINATIONS

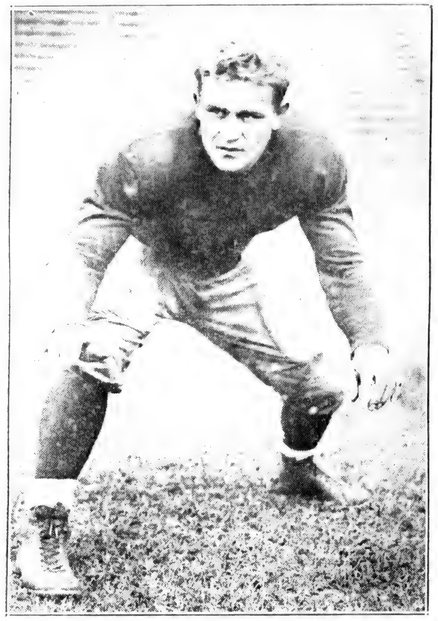
At the last meeting of Villanova College Alumni Board of Governors it was decided that all minutes of previous and future meetings be sent to secretaries and presidents of all local alumni groups so that all possible co-operation would be given to issues decided upon. Each man is to do his best to act as a personal salesman for the annual week-end to be held in the early part of June.

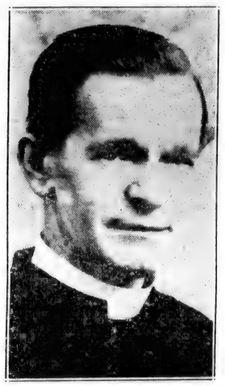
Nominations for officers for the board were held with the result that J. Stanley Smith, Frank Tichenor, Charles McEvoy, Martin McGlaughlin, Walter Druending and Stanley Corr were placed up for president.

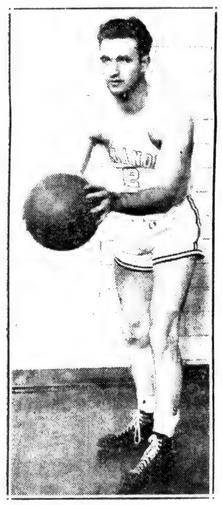
After nominating Matthew Lynch as vice president it was agreed that the vice president should henceforth act as chairman of the Operating Committee and will select four men to help him. This issue was not finally decided upon as it will be presented to the entire assemblage in June.

At an earlier meeting of the Board it was decided that the general Alumni should concentrate only upon the Homecoming Week-End and the Homecoming Football Game.

News Events Of The Year Told In Pictures

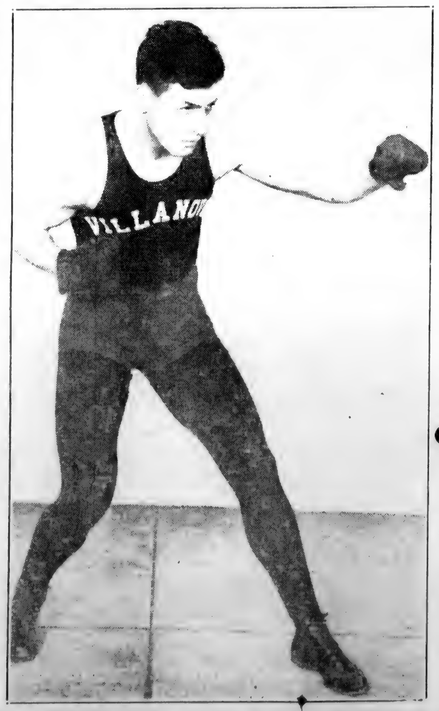






HISTORY MAKERS

and celebrities who made news for Villanova during the past year are shown on this page. Eddie Michaels (upper left), football captain, makes All-American guard; Rev. Julius Nieuwland, C. S. C. (top center), Notre Dame priest-scientist, inventor of synthetic rubber, wins 1936 Mendel Medal; Glen Gray (above) and famed Casa Loma band, "makes" 1936 Senior Ball; "Bullet Ben" Geraghty (upper right) star shortstop, from campus to big league baseball (Brooklyn Dodgers); Mike O'Meara (extreme left) leads basketball scorers for second straight year; George "Doc" Jacobs (left) developer of baseball stars, coaches another great team; Harry Stuhldreher, (right), eleven years mentor of successful Wildcat football teams, goes to Wisconsin Badgers; Ray Gadsby (extreme right), newly appointed boxing coach, puts out Villanova's first successful team; Tony Saha (lower right), boxing and football captain elect, retains intercollegiate 175 lb. championship; Art Raimo (below), star fullback, on sensational 60 yd. run to touchdownland in annual Villanova-Temple football classic which the Wildcats won, 21-14.



Paetrus F. Banmiller, Alumni Secretary, Editor

ALUMNI NEWS

Villanova College Alumni Association 108 Mendel Hall

Alumni Weekend Begins On Graduation Day

EXTENSIVE PROGRAM OF SPORTS, SOCIAL EVENTS SCHEDULED

Annual Period of Campus Reunion to Last Three Days

MARTIN GILL IS CHAIRMAN OF WEEK-END COMMITTEE

Alumni Banquet on June 6 Will Climax Hoped-for Success

Villanova college campus will again extend its arms in hearty welcome as the Alumni returns to the scenes of its former school days on the first week-end in June.

An extensive and interesting program for the period has recently been released by Martin Gill, '32, chairman of the committee and vice president of the alumni, who sent letters to members of the Alumni in various sections of the country. The dates given out by the letter include the week-end of June fourth, fifth and sixth.

Alumni members will begin the week by being present at the ninety-third graduation exercises of the college on Thursday afternoon, June fourth. In the evening a smoker will be held in the college gymnasium, where refreshments will be served.

Alumni racquet wielders will have the spotlight as the annual tennis tournament gets under way on Friday afternoon, while the less ambitious members of the graduates will spend the afternoon on the links of the Main Line Golf Club going through the preliminary rounds of the Alumni golf tournament. That evening will be spent in the swimming pool of the college gymnasium. Final rounds of the above-mentioned tournaments will be played off on Saturday morning.

In order that the athletic talents of no one will be slighted the diamond devotees of the Villanova clubs of Philadelphia and New York will clash on Saturday afternoon.

After the ball game the more serious business of the annual gathering will get under way as the annual Business Meeting and Elections of Officers will take place in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance building.

The climax of the week-end will come when the entire alumni meets for the Alumni Banquet at seven o'clock in the college dining hall.

It is to be understood that there will be no charge for rooms and other facilities of the college. Reservations are to be made with Mr. Paetrus Banmiller, Alumni secretary.

What We'll Do and When

THURS., FRI., SAT. - JUNE 4, 5, 6, 1936

THURSDAY
AFTERNOON:
Ninety-Third Annual Commencent, Gymnasium, 2:30 P. M.
EVENING:
Smoker (With Refreshments), Gymnasium (After Dinner)

FRIDAY
AFTERNOON:
Alumni Tennis Tournament, Villanova Courts (All Day)
Golf (Choose your own Partners), Main Line Golf Course (All Day)
EVENING:
Swimming, Villanova Pool in Gymnasium.

SATURDAY
MORNING:
Tennis and Golf (as above)
AFTERNOON:
Baseball Game—Baseball Diamond—1:30 P. M., Phila. Club vs. New York Club.
Annual Business Meeting and Election, C. & F. Auditorium, 4:30 P. M.
EVENING:
Annual Alumni Banquet—7 P. M.—College Dining Hall.

All Are Welcome to the Use of the Tennis Courts, Swimming Pool, Bowling Alleys, and Other Facilities at All Times. Please Make Reservations Now for the Annual Alumni Banquet.

New Yorkers To Sponsor Spring Dance May 23rd

Metropolitans Will "Do It Again" at Ridgewood Country Club, Says Chairman of Affair

THE VILLANOVA CLUB OF NEW YORK

Dear Alumnus:

Villanovans of the Metropolitan Area are going to do it again. "Do what?" say you. They are going to live over again that delightful evening in the Spring of 1932 when they and their friends gathered, over a hundred strong, at the Ridgewood Country Club and ate and drank and sang and danced until they were just too tired for any more. So it is with pleasure that the Club announces its 1936 Spring Dance. It will be held in the Ridgewood Country Club in Paramus, N. J., on the evening of Saturday the twenty-third of May. It will be a supper dance and reservations for a couple are five dollars.

The club is ideal for our purpose. It is located hard by Route 2, one of New Jersey's justly famous highways, and is easily accessible from any part of New York or New Jersey. This makes the trip to the club on a spring evening a pleasant and all-too-short ride. And even though within sight of the highway, the club is secluded and private, shielded from the glare by its grove of fine trees and removed from the hurly burly by its broad acres of velvety turf.

The clubhouse alone is worth the trip—a fine stone building that might have been brought bodily from Normandy with its towers and pointed roofs, its stained glass windows and its stone-flagged terraces within, the winding staircase, the iron-grilled doorways, the lofty hall with its carved roof trusses, rich wall hangings and great heart, all combine to arouse a feeling of warm generous comfort. The grill and bar are just as you'd like to have them, snug but adequate.

Outside, beyond the stone terraces, there is a swimming pool; and while for a dance it usually serves merely as a mirror for the stars, still it's there, and if the conditions are right, it might be used to add a little more to the evening. But the more sane of us will be content to enjoy its beauty while "sitting one out" or strolling about the lawns.

Dancing will be held in the main hall where there will be room and to spare for the best gathering we can muster. Music will be furnished by a band of eight men. We know them to be of better than average ability and we can assure you that you'll be pleased with and even enthusiastic about their efforts on your behalf. It may even be that a lady passing fair will woo us away from our worldly cares with soft words sweetly sung. It might also happen as the evening wears on and the boys become more mellow that "College Days" and other ancient tunes would conjure scenes of days long past.

Tables for couples and groups will be provided in the great hall or in the adjoining banquet room where shortly after midnight a buffet supper will be served. Throughout the evening a la carte service will be available at your table and in the grill—according to your pleasures. A service charge is included in the cost of the reservation so that tips will be unnecessary. The a la carte prices are reasonable, the selection broad and the quality of the finest.

To insure that arrangements for tables, service, and your suppers will be satisfactory, all reservations for couples and parties must be made—and paid for—by May 20th. Please do not delay until the last minute and above all—as you hope to look back on 1936 without regret—don't miss this dance.

Make reservations with: William H. Clinton, 228 Mt. Vernon Ave., Orange, N. J., or Peter C. Eschman, 274 Arlington Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cordially yours,
Wm. H. Clinton, Chairman.
of the Villanova Club of New York

SENIORS INVITED TO DANCE

Mr. William O'Frey, '33, Vice-President of the New York Club, visited the College last Friday. He personally invited the Senior students who reside in the metropolitan area of New York to be guests at the Spring Dance to be held Saturday, May 23, at the Ridgewood Country Club in Paramus, New Jersey.

Employment

During the past few weeks the Alumni Office has been receiveing several requests from individuals and various organizations concerning employment of our graduates. There have been several fine positions available for properly qualified college graduates but the Alumni Secretary has been unable to satisfactorily comply with these requests due to the fact that so many of the Alumni have failed to make known their unemployment, whether they desire a change of position, etc. We urge them to keep in constant touch with the Alumni Office.

ALUMNI DANCE HEAD

JOSEPH LINSALATA, '35, who has been selected by the Phila. Alumni Club to chairman a dance in honor of the Class of '36 on Friday, June 12, at the Philopatrian Club, 1923 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

VILLANOVA GRADS MAKE THE GRADE

News and Notes on Various Alumni Reveal Successful Endeavors

RECENT NEWS ITEMS

Editor's Note: The following News and Notes of the Classes have been received since the last issue of the Alumni News was released.

Joseph I. Worthington, '22, was recently elected president of the Alumni Association of the Roman Catholic High School in Philadelphia.

Hughie Mooney, '24, is working for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and is living at 1727 So. Florence Ave., in Tulsa, Okla.

Dr. Anthony Sellitto, '24, has announced the opening of his office at 268 Valley St., South Orange, N. J.

Paul Rombaut, '26, just completed a $1,000,000 super-imposed power Plant for the R. G. & E. and is starting work on another.

T. J. McCarthy, X'28, is District Supervisor for the New York Telephone Company, in New York.

Atilano F. Montesa, X'29, is Instructor in Building Construction in the Philippine School of Arts and Trades at Manila, P. I. He is also enrolled in the U. S. Army Engineer Corps as a Reserve Officer with the title of First Lieutenant.

Joseph E. Kelly, '30, is in charge of the Lighting Project at the new Philadelphia Airport.

John J. Kelly, '30, is wire chief for the Western Union in Washington, D. C.

Edward R. Lichetti, '30, is employed on the design of a concrete arch to be built in Cobbs Creek Park, Pa.

Ed Mayer, '33, is with the Erie City Iron Works in the Sales Engineering Department.

Frank O'Connor, '33, is working for the International Business Machine Company in Akron, Ohio.

Frank Martin, '33, who recently visited the campus on his vacation, is employed by the American Sterlizer Company in Erie on product development and engineering design.

SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS GROW

Contributions in Various Amounts Help Swell Total Capital

The Class Scholarship funds which have been established and founded by the various classes since 1928 have been steadily growing by direct contributions, accumulated dividends from the insurance policies, cash surrenders, etc. The following amounts are credited with the respective classes as follows:

Class of 1928 Scholarship Fund	$183.88
Class of 1929 Scholarship Fund	431.28
Class of 1930 Scholarship Fund	301.68
Class of 1931 Scholarship Fund	613.68
Class of 1933 Scholarship Fund	70.00
Class of 1934 Scholarship Fund	420.00
Class of 1935 Scholarship Fund	428.06

PHILADELPHIA CLUB TO FETE '36 GRADS AT RECEPTION BALL

Purpose Is to Acquaint New Alumni With Older Members

LINSALATA IS CHAIRMAN

A gala reception and dance to be sponsored by the Villanova Club of Philadelphia at the Philopatrian Club, 1923 Walnut St., on Friday, June 12th, will welcome the members of the class of '36 residing in the vicinity of Philadelphia. The primary purpose of this function is to enable the local graduates to become acquainted with the Villanova alumni.

Joseph J. Linsalata, '35, who is chairman of the dance, said that this affair is the first of its kind and should offer the coming graduates an opportunity that was not tendered to the previous classes. The other members of the committee are Harold Keating, '35, Frank Scerco, '34, James Carr, '34, Charles Laughlin, '23, John A. Freney, '29, and James H. Korson,'33.

At this celebration in honor of the local graduates the music will emanate from the chords of a local band which is well known in the Philadelphia area. An organ recital by Carmen Giordano, '36, will augment the dancing at different intervals.

Table accommodations will be arranged on that night making the affair somewhat cabaret in appearance. A lounge and smoking room will be available for those desirous of reminiscing the good old college days.

The reunion is strictly an invitation affair and the cover charge will be one dollar a couple. The capacity of the hall is limited to 120 couples; in order to assure your accommodations we ask you to make your reservations immediately.

NATIONAL ALUMNI HOLD NOMINATIONS

At the last meeting of Villanova College Alumni Board of Governors it was decided that all minutes of previous and future meetings be sent to secretaries and presidents of all local alumni groups so that all possible co-operation would be given to issues decided upon. Each man is to do his best to act as a personal salesman for the annual week-end to be held in the early part of June.

Nominations for officers for the board were held with the result that J. Stanley Smith, Frank Tiehenor, Charles McEvoy, Martin McGlaughlin, Walter Drueding and Stanley Corr were placed up for president.

After nominating Matthew Lynch as vice president it was agreed that the vice president should henceforth act as chairman of the Operating Committee and will select four men to help him. This issue was not finally decided upon as it will be presented to the entire assemblage in June.

At an earlier meeting of the Board it was decided that the general Alumni should concentrate only upon the Homecoming Week-End and the Homecoming Football Game.

D. C. NEWSMEN HOLD BANQUET

WASHINGTON, D. C.—To celebrate the founding date of the fraternity and also to plan for formation of an alumni chapter, about 75 former members of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, banqueted here last Saturday. Washington correspondents of note, Associated Press and United Press newsmen, and a good number of government press and publicity men gathered to petition national headquarters fo ra charter, and to hear Douglas Southall Freemen, Richmond editor and author of the Pulitzer prize-winning biography of Robert E. Lee. About 25 universities and colleges were listed as the former alma maters of the Sigma Delta Chi members present. Ten members of the undergraduate chapter at Washington and Lee, attending the dinner, initiated Freeman as an honary member of the fraternity.

SOCIAL QUESTIONS ARE SUMMER THEME

Catholic Action Vacation Schools to Treat Such Topics in Courses

(Special to Villanovan)

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Politics, economics, consumers cooperatives, voting, propaganda problems, communism, peace, character development, marriage and study clubs will be among the topics treated at the Students' Spiritual Leadership Conventions and the Catholic Action Summer Schools being sponsored this summer by the Sodality of Our Lady whose Central Office, 3742 W. Pine Blvd., St. Louis, is now receiving registrations.

Father Daniel A. Lord, S. J., who will be permanent chairman of the conventions and director of the summer schools, will return from a two-month stay in Europe on June 1 where he has been in conference with the Holy Father and studying youth movements and social developments on the continent. As a result the work done at these gatherings this summer will be integrated into the international movements of Catholic Action.

The college section of the Students' Spiritual Leadership Convention will be held June 26 to 28 in St. Louis. The high school section will be held July 3 to 5 in St. Louis.

The first of the summer schools of Catholic Action will be held at Boston College, August 17 to 22. The following week, August 24 to 29, a summer school of Catholic Action will be held at Xavier High School in downtown New York.

The next week, August 31 to September 5, the sessions will be held at Providence High School in Chicago.

Non-Catholic Youth Groups

Students in non-Catholic schools recently united into the American Student Union which is an outgrowth of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society. There is hope that with the social ferment reaching intense stress this presidential year and with the great activity among non-Catholic students throughout America that the coming Catholic Students' Spiritual Leadership Conventions in St. Louis will be notable both in the number attending and in the importance of decisions taken.

BENZEDRINE TABLETS EASE EXAM WORRIES

Minnesota — University Students Prefer Them to Coffee, Cokes, etc.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (ACP)—Black coffee or caffein tablets, ammonia cokes, cigarettes, cold showers and the other common devices used by students in the throes of exam periods are no longer countenanced by University of Minnesota students and faculty members. Instead, they wave the banner for benzedrine sulphate tablets.

Although members of the pharmocology department and doctors of the student health department advised against the use of the new "anti-fatigue" pills—they were put on the market only a few months ago—the rush continued unabated.

Chief objection to the drug, which users claim will prevent fatigue for about six hours wtihout any resultant depression, is that its exact properties are not yet known. University of Minnesota scientists are engaged in research in the attempt to discover if benzedrine sulphate is habit-forming or destructive to body tissues, but meanwhile, their colleagues and students go right on taking it. One Minneapolis drug company reported the sale of 1000 tablets within a week.

PROFESSOR ADVISES STUDENTS GO GREEK

John Erskine, Columbia, Gives Above Advice to Texan Undergrads

Denton Texas — (ACP) — "Go Greek."

That was the advice given students of Texas State College for Women by John Erskine, author and Columbia University professor, when he addressed them on "The Moral Obligation to be Intelligent."

"Our first moral obligation is to see inteligently the situation before us in which we must act, and having intelligently chasen the path of action, our second obligation is to act," Erskine told his audience, citing the teachings of the ancient Greeks and pointing out their modern application.

"Intelligence should be almost number one of the virtues," he said. "We inherited the Greek way of thinking as it comes to us through science, but the Greeks applied their attitude to all of living." Dr. Erskine urged the use of intelligence and truth in art "until the division between the arts and science has disappeared."

"Nothing excuses you in science from knowing all there is to know about a thing. I want to write a noval having Anglo-Saxon emphasis on character and the modern obligation to be intelligent," he said.

BRAIN TRUST LURKING IN HAZY BACKGROUND

Republicans' Strategic Dud Pushed Aside Temporarily, Says Fletcher

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Although the Republican "Brain Trust" has already proven a dud strategically, and is being pushed into the background by Fletcher for the time being at least, the very fact that it was called into existence for political purposes is significant, because it indicates a tendency in the coming campaign for party managers to use every possible kind of ammunition against the other side, including voodoo and witchcraft. In this particular case the Republicans hired a set of economists who they hoped would look the New Deal over analytically and then lay a curse on it in the form of an array of withering statistics and a blighting analysis. Being on the whole a conservative group of economists there's not much doubt that they will produce just that, and in addition something that will read like a signed testimonial for the G. O. P.

The willingness of some economists to len dtheir names to a blanket recommendation of a party's principles must be a source of embarrassment to their fellow economists. They feel, probably, the same way about it as the average doctor would if he saw an advertisement for liver pills, that bore the testimonial of an outstanding specialist.

"WE'RE HYPOCRITES"

Princetonian editors express amazement that the University of Texas has dropped the honor system of examinations. Said the Tevas dean: "We realized that under the system we were whitewashed hypocrites." It works, it seems, at Princeton.

GROUP TO OPPOSE V. F. W. MOVEMENT

Minnesota Students Band Together to Fight "Future Veterans" Campaign

Minneapolis, Minn.—(ACP)—An organization to oppose the Veterans of Future Wars has been organized on the University of Minnesota campus here.

Contracts pledging each future veteran to fight in all future wars, should be signed on receipt of the $100 future bonus, says William Robertson, student leader of the new movement.

"If these vets knew that they really had to fight for their money they wouldn't be so anxious to collect it," Robertson said. "Besides, the government should have some guaranty that the vets will fight when a war comes along.

"The government, assured by contracts, would have money by prepayment of the bonuses," Robertson declared. "Military appropriations could be cut after the bonus had been paid, for the government would have assurance of a million fighting men in reserve."

The "anti-vets" would provide for the home fire division of the VFW as well. "If the future mothers of future veterans failed to bear fighting men, they would have to refund their money to th government," said Robertson.

"I am sorry I cannot be reached for a statement at this late hour," said William Kennedy, commander of the Minnesota VFW post, when he was told of the new organization.

They Satisfy

-Anyway there's no argument about that...

Two Radio Entertainments a Week

WEDNESDAY, 9 P. M. (E. D. T.)
LILY PONS
with Kostelanetz Concert Orchestra and Chorus

FRIDAY, 10 P. M. (E. D. T.)
KOSTELANETZ 45 PIECE DANCE ORCHESTRA
with Kay Thompson and Ray Heatherton and the Rhythm Singers

COLUMBIA NETWORK

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Volume 9

n. 1-28

October 6, 1936 – May 18, 1937

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 9—No. 1 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Cotillion Opens Social Year Oct. 16

PRESIDENT OPENS SCHOLASTIC YEAR WITH HOLY MASS

Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., Speaks At Inaugural College Exercises

Inaugurating the ninty-fourth scholastic year, Villanova College welcomed incoming students with a Solemn High Mass celebrated by the Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, on Tuesday, September 22, the feast of St. Thomas of Villanova.

The opening Mass was attended by the entire college student body. The Rev. Bernard M. Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, was deacon, with the Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A., as sub-deacon.

In a welcoming address to the student body, Fr. Stanford emphasized the necessity of a staunch guard against the encroachment of Communism in this country.

"As you begin a busy college year within the comparitive peace and tranquility of the campus, do not be unmindful of the world picture, which is unfolded before your eyes day by day through the press and dario. There are many helpful lessons to be drawn therefrom by the thoughtful stundent," Dr. Stanford said.

"My mind is drawn irresistably to the Augustinian college of Escorial, less than thirty miles outside of Madrid in unhappy Spain. A year ago a gathering similar to ours took place on the feast of St. Thomas of Villanova, which we celebrate today." He continued relating the sad conditions which are existant in that same college at the present time.

"True enough this is taking place in far off Spain, but it does not lend emphasis to the warnings of thoughtful leaders in our country against the encroachments of Communism. It points out clearly the necessity for arousing thoughtful people to the dangers in our own country where freedom of education and freedom of religion are still realities.

"All educators of today are stressing spiritual ideals in education. But in colleges where religion is not an integral part of education there is a glaring contrast between the high spiritual ideals upheld in June commencement and baccalaureate addresses, and the curricula offered to the students in September.

"At the beginning of the college year I would urge upon you to make full use of the spiritual op-

Continued on Page Six

EVENING SCHOOL SESSIONS BEGIN

Initial Classes Held On Campus and At Girls' High School

The evening school of Villanova College, under the guidance of Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. M., dean, opened yesterday with sessions at the college and at the Catholic Girls' High School, Ninteenth and Wood Streets, in Philadelphia.

Courses will be offered in Education, English, History, Journalism, Languarges, Philosophy, Psychology, Public Speaking and Sociology. The courses will be given by members of the day school and faculty and they correspond in content and method to those given at the regular college sessions. They carry college credit applicable towards degrees.

The classes will be held every Monday evening from 6:30 to 8 and from 8to 9:30,

Elected Chairman

JAMES M. QUIGLEY,
who was chosen chairman of the International Relations Club at the final meeting of the organization last spring. Quigley is a sophomore in the School of Arts and Philosophy.

JAMES QUIGLEY IS CHOSEN CHAIRMAN OF RELATIONS CLUB

Membership In Organization Increases As 1936-37 Term Opens

James Quigley, sophomore Arts student, was elected Chairman of the International Relations group at its last session of the 1935-36 season.

At the same time Paul Juergens, also a sophomore Arts student, was elected secretary.

Tentative plans for 1936-37, as discussed by the Rev. W. J. Lunney, O. S. A., moderator of the organization, include a drive to increase the membership from thirteen students active last year, to twenty active members. It is exptected that this group will be most efficient in respect to its size.

At the first meeting of the organization this year two members will be appointed as delegates to a convention of The National Students' Federation for Peace at St. Elizabeth's College, Convent Stations, Elizabeth, N. J. The purpose of this convention, which will be held on November 7th, will be to discuss peace and peace movements as a matter of international relations.

Delegates to this convention last year, which was held in Washington, D. C., were J. Benedict Maloney, senior Arts student, and

Continued on Page Six

MAYOR SENDS TELEGRAM

Wilson Lauds Sportsmanship, Athletes at Villanova

On the eve of the much-heralded football game between Villanova College and the University of Detroit, Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college received the following telegram from His Honor S. Davis Wilson, Mayor of Philadelphia.

"On the occasion of the first 1936 football game of Villanova College in Philadelphia, which I expect to attend, I extend the best wishes for a successful season. Villanova ever has enjoyed the reputation of clean sports and its athletes are a credit to metropolitan Philadelphia.

S. Davis Wilson, Mayor."

Directs Cotillion

HUGH F. FERGUSON, who was appointed by members of the sophomore class to direct the activities of the general committee of the annual Sophomore Cotillion which will be held Friday, Oct. 16 at the college gymnasium.

10 NEW ADDITIONS MADE TO FACULTY FOR COMING YEAR

Four Members of Clergy, Six Laymen Come To Villanova

Ten new additions to the faculty along with three administrative appointments heralded the opening of the 1936-1937 college session at Villanova College.

Five of the new faculty appointments are members of the Augustinian Order and five are laymen.

Clerical appointees are:

The Rev. Richard J. McNally, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy; the Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A., assistant professor of languages; the Rev. James Reilly, O. S. A., instructor in liturgy; Rev. Emmett A. Flynn, O. S A., instructor in English.

Additions to the lay faculty are as follows: Robert J. Kane, Ph.D., assistant professor of English; Harold F. Hartman, Ph.D. instructor of history; Myron B. Deily, Ph. D., assistant professor of modern languages; Edward L. Haenish. Ph. D., assistant professor of chemistry and physics; Arthur Carlo-Felice Mathieu, A. B., instructor of modern languages, and Anthony J. Lamberti, B. S., and M. S., instructor in biological laboratories.

Dr. Kane was formerly of the faculty of Ohio State University. He received his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Ohio State and his Ph. D. from Harvard University. Dr. Hartman was formerly instructor of history at the Auburn Collegiate Center. He won his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Notre Dame University and his Ph. D., from Cornell University.

Dr. Deily was formerly on the faculty of St. Louis University. He received his A. B. degree from Muhlenberg and his M. A. and Ph. D. from Cornell University. Dr. Haenish leaves the faculty of Montana State College to join the Villanova staff. He received his A. B., B. S., and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Chicago. Mr. Lam-

Continued on Page Eleven

STUDENT COUNCIL MEETS

There will be an important meeting of Student Council tomorrow at 1 o'clock in room 213, Mendel Hall. All councillors are requested to be present.

Gymnasium Is Scene Of Traditional Sophomore Autumn Promenade

Hugh Ferguson Chosen Chairman; Revamped Villanovans Will Supply Rhythm For Annual Fall Festival

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE IS SET AT $1.50

Committee members of the traditional Sophomore Cotillion, which formally ushers in the social season at Villanova College, and which will be held on Friday evening, October 16, in the college gymnasium, were officially disclosed by Rev. William L. Lunney, O. S. A., class moderator.

Hugh F. Ferguson, student in the School of Techonology, has been appointed to the chairmanship of the affair. He will be supplemented by 29 members, exclusive of class officers who automatically become committeemen by virtue of their high office.

Rhythms for the function will be supplied by the "Villanovans," college dance band, who have undergone a complete rennovation, and promise to present new and unique arrangements for the dancers, including various novelty numbers. The orchestra has been practicing diligently and boasts of outstanding recruits from the Class of 1940.

It was also announced that the affair, as in former years, will be informal, and the subscription is $1.50 per couple.

Mr. Ferguson, when pressed for a statement declared: "With the co-operation of the dance committee and myself, I am firmly convinced that this Cotillion will be the most successful ever staged by a sophomore class. I want it emphatically understood that I expect full concurrence from every individual of the sophomore class. In conclusion, I assure everyone who attends a very entertaining and enjoyable evening."

Richard Walsh, president of the Class, is of the same opinion as the Chairman. He stated: "This dance will eclipse all other previous dances by a second-year class. This function is not for Freshmen and Sophomores only, but for the entire student body. Knowing you will support the dance to the limit, I wish to express my appreciation beforehand, and trust I am not erring."

The Sophomore Class, in general, earnestly solicits the support of

Continued on Page Six

BETA GAMMA PLANS INDUCTION DINNER

October 12 Set As Date of Function At Pierre's Restaurant

Plans have already been completed in preparation of a dinner by the Beta Gamma Chapter of the Villanova Literary Society. The affair is to be held on Monday, October 12th, at 7:30 P. M.

After careful consideration of several restaurants, the members of the Society in charge of the dinner have deemed it profitable to stage the affair at Pierre's Restaurant on 69th Street.

Introduction of new members into the Debating Society is the primary purpose of the reunion. The new members, composed chiefly of Sophomore students, will increase the membership of the Society to approximately twenty-five. Each member has been promised active participation in debate work during the coming season.

Having terminated last season with a rather enviable record, the former Freshmen debaters will strengthen greatly the efforts of the Society. Thus, all is in preparation for a successful season. Concerning the Inter-Class Debating Tournament, successfully conducted during the last season, nothing of a certainty has been planned. In view of the fruits of last season, however, definite announcements may be made presently.

The Beta Gamma Chapter will again be under the competent leadership of Prof. Anthony J. Frayne, M. A., Charles Bruno, a Senior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, has, in the capacity of debate manager, been collaborating with Pres. Anthony Differ and Prof. Frayne for the purpose of formulating a debate schedule.

It is the desire of the older mem-

Continued on Page Three

NEW COURSE OFFERED

Italian Language To Be Taught In Extension School

Those students of Villanova College interested in the procuring of courses in Italian may obtain instruction in both Beginners' and Advanced Italian at the Hallahan Catholic High School on Monday evenings.

Students from the four departments of the campus are eligible to register for these courses. The Beginners' class is held at 6:30 o'clock each Monday, while the class in Survey of Italian Literature is held at 8 o'clock. These classes are one hour and a half in length.

ROOTERS SPECIAL FOR STATE GAME

Chartered Train to Leave Villanova Saturday Morning At 8 A. M.

Railroad transportation has been secured to accommodate the rooters of the Villanova football team when the Wildcats invade the Penn State lair for their annual game this Saturday, October tenth.

A special price of five dollars and twenty-five cents has been procured on the Pennsylvania Railroad that will entitle the ticket holder to transportation to and from the game. The Villanova Rooters Special will leave the Villanova P. R. R. station on the campus at 8:00 A. M. and will arrive at Lewistown previous to the game

A large crowd of loyal fans are expected to entrain from the campus on the morning of the game. Railroad tickets will be on sale during the week of the game in the VILLANOVAN office. JOIN THE CROWD ON THE VILLANOVA ROOTERS SPECIAL.

Loyola U. Bestows Award Upon President

Doctor of Laws Degree Is Conferred on Fr. Stanford

Chicago Institution Cites College Head For Re-organization Work; Acclaimed As Forward Looking Development

DELIVERS COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College was the recipient of the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, at Loyola University's annual Fall conclave, July 30, at Chicago.

Dr. Stanford was cited for his work in re-organizing the Catholic Colleges of the National Catholic Educational Association along regional lines. This work has often been characterized as the most forward looking development among Catholic Colleges in the past quarter century.

Dr. Stanford also delivered the commencement address at exercises at which 47 masters degrees, and 44 bachelors degrees were awarded to students of the Summer school of the university.

"Non-Catholic educators are thoroughly dissatisfied with the chaos of modern education," Father Stanford said. "Some of them are completely at sea in their summing up of the situation, and in their advocacy of the remedies. Some of them have gone right to the heart of the matter, put their figures unerringly upon the sore spots and have the courage to propose the remedies that are required. But all of them seem to ignore the genius of Catholic Education, which has preserved through the storm and strife the essential unity of higher education.

"That Catholic educators have been sorely tried by the very cocksureness of the educational 'nostrums' that have been showered upon them from without, I do not deny. That Catholic educators have compromised here and there along the line of their defenses, I readily admit.

"But I wish to emphatically state that never can it be said their dereliction has ever seriously interfered with the essential unity of Education, founded, as it is, upon the rock-bottom basis of Catholic Theology and Metaphysics.

"With great stress being placed today upon 'spiritual values' in education, not only by educators themselves, but also by statesmen and leaders in business and professional life, the attention of thinking people should be focused more strongly on the Catholic College. Our colleges have never abandoned their spiritual ideals for materialistic objectives. They are, therefore, admirably fitted to provide the type of education that is not freely admitted to be so essential in order to live both wisely and well."

CONSTITUTION IS TOPIC OF CONTEST

Prizes Offered for Stating Reasons for Allegiance to National Charter

On the 149th Anniversary of the adoption of the beginning of the Sesquicentennial year of the Constitution of the United States of America, September seventeenth the Public Welfare Association, Inc. and it's Clearing House, will launch an enrollment of "Friends of The Constitution," by groups and individuals.

The very act of an American listing the reason for his allegiance to his Country's Constitution produces automatically an inspirational reaction of high value.

The contest is for the best paper stating the reasons for allegiance to the Constitution of the United States of America. Groups may be formed and honor rolls set up for those making the best statements. Those selected in the finals will be entered in an open state and finally an open National contest.

The prizes for the national contest will be: first prize, $2000; second, $1000; third, $500; fourth, $250. fifth, $150; sixth, $100 and possibly smaller prizes for state competition.

The contest will close on Thanksgiving Day, and the awards will be made an Monday before Christmas.

Join Teaching Staff

Rev. Richard J. McNally, O. S. A. Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A.

who have recently been appointed to the faculty of Villanova College. Father McNally has been assigned to the department of Philosophy, while Father Mahoney is an assistant professor of Languages.

FACULTY IS HOST TO NEW MEMBERS

Annual Dinner Tendered Recent Appointments to College Staff

The annual Faculty Dinner of Villanova College was held Tuesday evening, September 22, in the college Dining Hall.

The very Reverend Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, presided and introduced the new members of the faculty to those assembled for this annual gathering.

In addition to acting as a means of assembling the entire faculty at the start of the school year, the dinner also fosters a means of reunion and introduction for the old and new members of the College teaching staff.

A new feature was presented this year at the dinner. The married professors were accompanied by their wives, and this feature added a tone of congeniality to the affair, which on the whole, made the evening a very enjoyable occasion.

COLLEGE BAND IS FEATURED ON AIR

Football Rally Stars "Clipper" Smith and Musical Organization

Villanova's College band came to the foreground Thursday night, when it was featured on the "Weekly football roundup" over station WIP, conducted by "Stony" McLinn.

The March of the Wildcats opened the program followed by "The Alma Mater" and "Hail Villanova," "New Colonial March" was also included on the program rendered by the band.

Rev. Charles J. Melchoir, moderator of athletics and "Clipper" Smith, head football coach, both spoke on the subject of college football.

On Saturday afternoon, September twenty sixth, the band made its first current appearance of the season, at the P. M. C. football game. A fine turn out of freshmen has been shown this year. Twenty-five of the forty-two members are from the freshman class.

This year the band is endowed with a fine brass section excelling in trombones and trumpets, which make up the body of the band.

Nervousness and inexperience was prevalent among the younger members of the band, but a strong determination to make an even better showing is shown by both the directors and members.

This year the band will accompany the team to Penn State, Bucknell and Manhatten games. As yet the South Carolina trip is doubtful.

At present a search for a drum major for next year is in progress. No experience is necessary, except that the candidate be in the vicinity of six feet in height. A freshman candidate is preferred.

It is the wish of the directors of the band, that the student body cooperate with the band by singing the college songs when the band plays them.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN LAUNCHES PROGRAM

Prizes Offered for Essay On Psychological Causes of Accidents

Students of Villanova College have been invited to participate in the annual C. I. T. Safety Foundation contest which has as its primary aim the development of interest in, and serious study of, psychological traits disclosed in numerous traffic accidents.

In general terms, the Safety Foundation hopes to foment discussion of sub-normal drivers who figure in subnormal accidents. Subnormal accidents are those due to mental quirks, neurotic conditions, and the habits of drivers which oftentimes are blamed in accidents for which there is no ordinary, mechanical or normal explanation. It is the aim, therefore, in this contest, to bring forth suggestions as to possible limitations of avoidable accidents.

In the rules of the contest, it is specified that any student in any college or university in the United States may enter. The author of the thesis udged to be the best will be awarded first prize of $500.00, second and third prizes are $250.00 and $100.00, respectively. The next three prizes are of $50.00 each. The thesis must be confined to discussion of psychological traits and their influence in causing traffic and highway accidents. The manuscripts, to be rated by a committee of three Judges, should not exceed 5000 words in length. Originality of thought and treatment will be given weight by the Judges. It is permissible to use specific accidents within the memory or knowledge of the writer, wherein psychological traits appeared as the dominant cause, and lessons drawn therefrom.

Participants are notified to mail their manuscripts not later than June 30, 1937, with the entry's name, address and college to C. I. T. Foundation, One Park Avenue, New York City.

STAFF WILL MEET

There will be a meeting of the entire staff of the VILLANOVAN tomorrow in the office at 1 P. M. All members are urged to be present and all freshmen candidates for the staff positions are invited.

New Frosh Represent Many States; Californian Furthest From Home

Any casual observer upon seeing the new freshmen class here at Villanova all dressed up in their "regs" and patiently listening to the announcements of the awe-inspiring sophs, would think they had lived and worked together since the days when they first crawled out of their knee pants. Few would realize that they come from far and near and represent many varied schools and institutions.

Take George Borus of San Diego, California, for instance. George is probably the frosh farthest away from his natal soil.

"The West is more wooded and has a great deal more water than I've found here in the East. Aside from that I find very little difference, except that you people out here all talk so funny."

When asked about the political sentiment of the section, George replied that California is almost all Democratic despite the fact that many Easterners move out there. When asked why this was so, he turned and laconically replied "Well, the West is a good place for them to die."

Lyman Hughes of Des Moines, Iowa, came here because he discovered that Villanova is the best Catholic college offering special opportunities to the business student. He, too, finds little difference here except that the people in the West are more friendly than their Eastern cousins.

So far as political sentiment in Iowa is concerned he estimates that fifty-five per cent of the people are for Roosevelt.

Influenced by the recommendations of several great American medical schools and by Rev. Charles M. Driscoll, O. S. A., former president of Villanova and now rector of Cascia Hall prep school, Hugh King comes to us from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

"Villanova's campus is beautiful," he said, "I arrived here at night, and when I got up the next morning I saw more green grass than I had seen in a long while. Down where I come from, everything is burned to a crisp."

According to Hugh, Tulsa is for Landon, while the farmers of the state are strongly for the President.

As your scribe started to leave King's Alumni Hall room he stopped us.

"And another thing," he said, "tell these fellows here that we really do have street cars and paved sidewalks down in Tulsa."

From way down in Puerto Rico, the "Land of the Tomorrow" comes three men to Villanova's halls. Singularly enough, the names of Manuel Correra, Marcos Dones and Rafael Mudafort are all inscribed on the rolls of the school of Science.

Cuba sends D. Esteban Cacicedo and Melchor Gaston to complete the list of students coming from the greatest distances to glean knowledge from the classes at Villanova.

16 NEW STUDENTS MATRICULATE HERE

Transfers Are Registered In Each of Campus Schools

Enrollment at Villanova College has been increased by the matriculation of sixteen students who have transferred from fourteen nearby eastern colleges, announced Paetrus B. Banmiller, Registrar of Villanova College.

The School of Science has received the following students: James Adams, Lafayette; Italo De-Bartolmels, St. Josephs; Louis De-Simone, Georgetown; Alan Dowling, Seton Hall; William O'Niel. Muhlenberg; H. Rosenberg, Temple; Paul Wade, St. Thomas College.

Four students have been admitted to the School of Arts and Philosophy, they are: Robert Barrett and Stanley Owdziej, La Salle; Lloyd Rice, Georgetown; Maurice McDonnell, Catholic U. In the Technology School two students were accepted: Garland Whiteside, Baltimore; and Franklin McDonald, Lehigh. Furman F. Kane, who formerly attended Lehigh University, has matriculated to the Commerce and Finance School.

These students have been divided among the four classes with some as social students, and have accepted the traditions and regulations of Villanova as their own.

Join the Crowd

On the Villanova Rooters' Special

to the

PENN STATE VILLANOVA GAME

Saturday, October 10, 1936

Everybody's Going on the "Special"

Villanova Campus to State Campus and Return

$5.25

Leaves P. R. R. Station (Vilanova) 8:00 A. M., Oct. 10

TICKETS ON SALE AT THE VILLANOVAN OFFICE

SOLEMN RETREAT FORMALLY INDUCTS SCHOLASTIC YEAR

Rev. Henry A. Caffrey, O. S. A., Is Master Of Annual Religious Ceremony

STUDENTS RESPOND WELL

"Retreat in military terms means a falling back of a weakened force in order that time may be had to strengthen defenses and make a new plan of attack. To us it means a retreating within ourselves to reflect upon our spiritual weaknesses and strengthen ourselves with the grace of God so that we may be able to overcome our spiritual foes." Thus spoke Rev. Henry A. Caffrey, O. S. A., master of the annual one day retreat held at Villanova on October 1, in his opening address to the resident students on Wednesday evening.

Besides giving a definition of the retreat the Father Caffrey admonished the students to enter into the real spirit of the occasion so that their souls would be spiritually fitted to cope with the problems of the coming scholastic year.

Services for the evening were concluded with benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Retreat for the day students began with the celebration of Mass and a Conference on Wednesday morning. At this time Father Caffrey repeated his remarks of the evening before and further advised the day-hops to avoid all unnecessary noises and pay strict attention to attendance at retreat exercises.

During the day several addresses were given to both groups concerning spiritual strength, the necessity of leading a good Catholic life and the sacrament of Penance.

Stations of the Cross were held for both residents and Day-hops Thursday afternoon while a Conference and Benediction closed the exercises for the day students immediately after.

In the evening the residents received their last Conference and Benediction and the retreat closed formally the next morning with celebration of Holy Mass and the imparting of the Papal Blessing.

Rev. Charles Brown O. S. A., chaplain of the college was well pleased with the student reaction to the retreat. "For the most part," he said, " the students reacted very favorably to the admonitions of the retreat master and entered very well into the spirit of the retreat. We were, however, a bit disappointed with the slight tardiness shown by a few getting to exercises.

The most edifying thing about the entire affair was seeing the great number of students who received Holy Communion on Friday morning.

On the whole we were very much pleased with the retreat."

FIRST YEAR CLASS DEBATERS CONVENE

Frosh to Elect Officers and Select Subjects For Debates

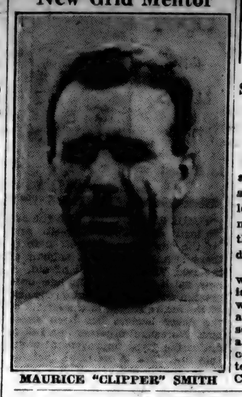
The initial meeting of the freshman debating team will be held in Room 214 in Mendel Hall tomorrow at one o'clock.

Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A., a new member to the college faculty, will direct the destinies of the society. Last year the society was coached by Mr. John T. Houseman, who tutored an undefeated team.

There are several interesting trips in view for the yearling debaters. The schedule is not as yet completed but with the teams competed against last year as foes for this coming season, the frosh should have around ten meets. Last year trips were made to Princeton, Lafayette and Georgian Court, as well as engaging in several city meets with Pennsylvania, Temple, LaSalle, and St. Joseph.

The first meeting will be featured by the election of officers, and the subjects for debate will be decided upon. All members of the class of 1940 should be present and strive to carry on Villanova's fame in this particular endeavor.

New Grid Mentor



MAURICE "CLIPPER" SMITH

Gloom at Stuhlie's Leaving Turns To Joy as "Clipper" Smith Arrives

Last Spring Villanova was shocked at the report that Harry Stuhldreher had decided to leave the Main Line for the fields of Wisconsin. This Fall Villanova was, and is, pleased to find Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith, heading the Wildcat destinies.

Nine people out of ten know that the new coach's name is "Clipper," but how many can tell how he acquired it? Thereby hangs a tale. It seems that the Notre Dame team, of which Smith was an important component, was playing the Great Lakes Naval Training base, and a certain guard on the Ramblers was causing the Sailors no end of worry and torment. So much so, that one of the Gobs entered the dressing room of the Rockne troupe and wanted to know the name of the guard who had caused so much trouble during the afternoon. "Oh, that fellow," replied teammates, "That was 'Clipper' Smith."

This guard who had caused so much trouble for the opposition was a mere lad of 145 pounds when he started playing for Knute Rockne, and was the first of the watch-charm guards for which Notre Dame has become famous.

From the tutelage of the Grand Old Coach the Clipper, in 1921, accepted the position of head coach at Columbia University of Portland. Not much had been heard of this seat of learning, and many wondered why Smith should choose this place in preference to a larger college. But the Clipper had his reasons.

From 1921 on through the next two years Columbia's football star began its ascendency under the able coaching of M. J. Smith, Notre Dame, '21. With the handicap of poor material to be overcome, Clipper's feat of bringing the small college out of the fire was all the greater. Many abler and larger opponents fell victim to the stratagedy of the former Notre Dame luminary.

"Clipper's" fame spread about the coast, and as a result, Gonzaga, of Spokane, Washington, took the lad into its arms and installed him as head coach. History repeated itself and Gonzaga's football saga became definitely brighter and more pleasant to its adherents. The crowning effort of the Smith regime was the successful conquest of Slip Madigan's St. Mary's Gaels. Incidentally, Messrs. Madigan and

Continued on Page Ten

Former Secretary To College Head Enters Convent

Served 8 Years in Bookstore And Secretary to Vice-President

Miss Anne E. Conway, who was a member of the administrative staff for the last eight years has left Villanova College to become a nun. She entered the Convent of the Sisters of St. Francis, Glen Riddle, Penna., on September eighth.

During her employment here, she was first secretary to the vice-president of the college and later she was in charge of the bookstore. In addition to this she was active in secretarial work for the numerous administrative offices about the college, and took an intensive interest in everything concerned with College work.

WORK ON YEARBOOK COMMENCES SOON

Annual Will Have Many New Features, States Editor Kennedy

Work on the 1937 edition of the Belle Air, year book published by the students of Villanova College, will begin this week it was announced today by Thomas Kennedy, editor.

Kennedy revealed that many new features will appear in the annual principally in the senior class section of the book. Much is to be expected also from the photography department which has been strengthened by the enrollment of several students of the college who are experts in that line.

Thomas Flaherty, Business Manager, has stated tha a splendid display of ads will be had in the yearbook for 1937 outdoing the displays which attracted so much attention in previous publications.

Next week the full list of additions to the yearly will be announced by Kennedy and Rev. Daniel, P. Falvey, moderator.

Beta Gamma Plans Induction Dinner

Continued From Page One

bers of the Debating Society to engage in a schedule calling for debates in other cities as well as at Villanova and the neighboring Philadelphia. Debate manager Bruno, with the aid of Albert Mayell, also a Senior Arts student, has been busy planning the destinies of the Chapter, but up to the present time, but little concerning the excursions has been announced.

FACULTY MEMBER WEDS

Miss Betty Bunn, who was formerly employed at Villanova College as the operator of the swithboard and the information booth for the past seven years was married last summer on August eighth to August A. Kunzenbacher, a member of the faculty of Villanova as Professor of Chemistry.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 38 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Start the Fall Term

With the Pen That Students Rate Highest

BY ACTUAL VOTE

Invented by a College Professor to Bring You Higher Grades

A college professor noticed that poor grades are often due not to brains running low but to pens running dry!

So he worked out an utterly different and basically better pen principle —and Geo. S. Parker engineered it to perfection.

Thus came the revolutionary Parker sacless Vacumatic that has superseded every old-style pen—both sac-type and sacless.

Recently the student editors of 30 college papers asked 4,699 of their readers, "Which make of pen do you own? Which pen do you prefer?"

To both questions more students answered "Parker," than any other two makes of pens COMBINED!

One reason is that the Vacumatic ink supply is EVER-VISIBLE, the ENTIRE length of the barrel. It isn't merely last-drop visibility—doesn't merely show when your pen is empty. It shows days ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW, so it can't run dry against your will.

The Vacumatic's working parts are sealed in the top WHERE INK CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them. That's why this miracle pen is GUARANTEED mechanically perfect.

And the Parker Vacumatic has no rubber ink sac or lever filler—hence has room for 102% more ink without increase in size!

Its luminous, laminated Pearl style has won every pen Beauty Contest by 2 to 1. Go and see it today at any good store selling pens. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Parker VACUMATIC GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT

Junior, $5, Over-Size, $10 — Pencil, $2.50, $3.50 and $5

To Make Any Pen Clean Itself

Try this utterly different writing ink—Parker Quink—an ink that dissolves deposits left in pens by ordinary inks. Quink cleanses a pen as it writes—a Parker or any other pen. Ends pen-clogging. Get Quink at any store selling ink, 15c and 25c.

Loyola U. Bestows Award Upon President

Doctor of Laws Degree Is Conferred on Fr. Stanford

Chicago Institution Cites College Head For Re-organization Work; Acclaimed As Forward Looking Development

DELIVERS COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova College was the recipient of the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, at Loyola University's annual Fall conclave, July 30, at Chicago.

Dr. Stanford was cited for his work in re-organizing the Catholic Colleges of the National Catholic Educational Association along regional lines. This work has often been characterized as the most forward looking development among Catholic Colleges in the past quarter century.

Dr. Stanford also delivered the commencement address at exercises at which 47 masters degrees, and 44 bachelors degrees were awarded to students of the Summer school of the university.

"Non-Catholic educators are thoroughly dissatisfied with the chaos of modern education," Father Stanford said. "Some of them are completely at sea in their summing up of the situation, and in their advocacy of the remedies. Some of them have gone right to the heart of the matter, put their figures unerringly upon the sore spots and have the courage to propose the remedies that are required. But all of them seem to ignore the genius of Catholic Education, which has preserved through the storm and strife the essential unity of higher education.

"That Catholic educators have been sorely tried by the very cocksureness of the educational 'nostrums' that have been showered upon them from without, I do not deny. That Catholic educators have compromised here and there along the line of their defenses, I readily admit.

"But I wish to emphatically state that never can it be said their dereliction has ever seriously interfered with the essential unity of Education, founded, as it is, upon the rock-bottom basis of Catholic Theology and Metaphysics.

"With great stress being placed today upon 'spiritual values' in education, not only by educators themselves, but also by statesmen and leaders in business and professional life, the attention of thinking people should be focused more strongly on the Catholic College. Our colleges have never abandoned their spiritual ideals for materialistic objectives. They are, therefore, admirably fitted to provide the type of education that is not freely admitted to be so essential in order to live both wisely and well."

CONSTITUTION IS TOPIC OF CONTEST

Prizes Offered for Stating Reasons for Allegiance to National Charter

On the 149th Anniversary of the adoption of the beginning of the Sesquicentennial year of the Constitution of the United States of America, September seventeenth the Public Welfare Association, Inc. and it's Clearing House, will launch an enrollment of "Friends of The Constitution," by groups and individuals.

The very act of an American listing the reason for his allegiance to his Country's Constitution produces automatically an inspirational reaction of high value.

The contest is for the best paper stating the reasons for allegiance to the Constitution of the United States of America. Groups may be formed and honor rolls set up for those making the best statements. Those selected in the finals will be entered in an open state and finally an open National contest.

The prizes for the national contest will be: first prize, $2000; second, $1000; third, $500; fourth, $250. fifth, $150; sixth, $100 and possibly smaller prizes for state competition.

The contest will close on Thanksgiving Day, and the awards will be made an Monday before Christmas.

16 NEW STUDENTS MATRICULATE HERE

Transfers Are Registered In Each of Campus Schools

Enrollment at Villanova College has been increased by the matriculation of sixteen students who have transferred from fourteen nearby eastern colleges, announced Paetrus B. Banmiller, Registrar of Villanova College.

The School of Science has received the following students: James Adams, Lafayette; Italo De-Bartolmeis, St. Josephs; Louis De-Simone, Georgetown; Alan Dowling, Seton Hall; William O'Niel, Muhlenberg; H. Rosenberg, Temple; Paul Wade, St. Thomas College.

Four students have been admitted to the School of Arts and Philosophy, they are: Robert Barrett and Stanley Owdziej, La Salle; Lloyd Rice, Georgetown; Maurice McDonnell, Catholic U. In the Technology School two students were accepted: Garland Whiteside, Baltimore; and Franklin McDonald, Lehigh. Furman F. Kane, who formerly attended Lehigh University, has matriculated to the Commerce and Finance School.

These students have been divided among the four classes with some as social students, and have accepted the traditions and regulations of Villanova as their own.

Join Teaching Staff

Rev. Richard J. McNally, O. S. A. who have recently been appointed to the faculty of Villanova College. Father McNally has been assigned to the department of Philosophy, while Father Mahoney is an assistant professor of Languages.

Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A.

FACULTY IS HOST TO NEW MEMBERS

Annual Dinner Tendered Recent Appointments to College Staff

The annual Faculty Dinner of Villanova College was held Tuesday evening, September 22, in the college Dining Hall.

The very Reverend Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, presided and introduced the new members of the faculty to those assembled for this annual gathering.

In addition to acting as a means of assembling the entire faculty at the start of the school year, the dinner also fosters a means of reunion and introduction for the old and new members of the College teaching staff.

A new feature was presented this year at the dinner. The married professors were accompanied by their wives, and this feature added a tone of congeniality to the affair, which on the whole, made the evening a very enjoyable occasion.

COLLEGE BAND IS FEATURED ON AIR

Football Rally Stars "Clipper" Smith and Musical Organization

Villanova's College band came to the foreground Thursday night, when it was featured on the "Weekly football roundup" over station WIP, conducted by "Stony" McLinn.

The March of the Wildcats opened the program followed by "The Alma Mater" and "Hail Villanova," "New Colonial March" was also included on the program rendered by the band.

Rev. Charles J. Melchoir, moderator of athletics and "Clipper" Smith, head football coach, both spoke on the subject of college football.

On Saturday afternoon, September twenty sixth, the band made its first current appearance of the season, at the P. M. C. football game. A fine turn out of freshmen has been shown this year. Twenty-five of the forty-two members are from the freshman class.

This year the band is endowed with a fine brass section excelling in trombones and trumpets, which make up the body of the band.

Nervousness and inexperience was prevalent among the younger members of the band, but a strong determination to make an even better showing is shown by both the directors and members.

This year the band will accompany the team to Penn State, Bucknell and Manhatten games. As yet the South Carolina trip is doubtful.

At present a search for a drum major for next year is in progress. No experience is necessary, except that the candidate be in the vicinity of six feet in height. A freshman candidate is preferred.

It is the wish of the directors of the band, that the student body cooperate with the band by singing the college songs when the band plays them.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN LAUNCHES PROGRAM

Prizes Offered for Essay On Psychological Causes of Accidents

Students of Villanova College have been invited to participate in the annual C. I. T. Safety Foundation contest which has as its primary aim the development of interest in, and serious study of, psychological traits disclosed in numerous traffic accidents.

In general terms, the Safety Foundation hopes to foment discussion of sub-normal drivers who figure in subnormal accidents. Subnormal accidents are those due to mental quirks, neurotic conditions, and the habits of drivers which oftentimes are blamed in accidents for which there is no ordinary, mechanical or normal explanation. It is the aim, therefore, in this contest, to bring forth suggestions as to possible limitations of avoidable accidents.

In the rules of the contest, it is specified that any student in any college or university in the United States may enter. The author of the thesis udged to be the best will be awarded first prize of $500.00, second and third prizes are $250.00 and $100.00, respectively. The next three prizes are of $50.00 each. The thesis must be confined to discussion of psychological traits and their influence in causing traffic and highway accidents. The manuscripts, to be rated by a committee of three Judges, should not exceed 5000 words in length. Originality in thought and treatment will be given weight by the Judges. It is permissible to use specific accidents within the memory or knowledge of the writer, wherein psychological traits appeared as the dominant cause, and lessons drawn therefrom.

Participants are notified to mail their manuscripts not later than June 30, 1937, with the entry's name, address and college to C. I. T. Foundation, One Park Avenue, New York City.

STAFF WILL MEET

There will be a meeting of the entire staff of the VILLANOVAN tomorrow in the office at 1 P. M. All members are urged to be present and all freshmen candidates for the staff positions are invited.

New Frosh Represent Many States; Californian Furthest From Home

Any casual observer upon seeing the new freshmen class here at Villanova all dressed up in their "regs" and patiently listening to the announcements of the awe-inspiring sophs, would think they had lived and worked together since the days when they first crawled out of their knee pants. Few would realize that they come from far and near and represent many varied schools and institutions.

Take George Borus of San Diego, California, for instance. George is probably the frosh farthest away from his natal soil.

"The West is more wooded and has a great deal more water than I've found here in the East. Aside from that I find very little difference, except that you people out here all talk so funny."

When asked about the political sentiment of the section, George replied that California is almost all Democratic despite the fact that many Easterners move out there. When asked why this was so, he turned and laconically replied "Well, the West is a good place for them to die."

Lyman Hughes of Des Moines, Iowa, came here because he discovered that Villanova is the best Catholic college offering special opportunities to the business student. He, too, finds little difference here except that the people in the West are more friendly than their Eastern cousins.

So far as political sentiment in Iowa is concerned he estimates that fifty-five per cent of the people are for Roosevelt.

Influenced by the recommendations of several great American medical schools and by Rev. Charles M. Driscoll, O. S. A., former president of Villanova and now rector of Cascia Hall prep school, Hugh King comes to us from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

"Villanova's campus is beautiful," he said, "I arrived here at night, and when I got up the next morning I saw more green grass than I had seen in a long while. Down where I come from, everything is burned to a crisp."

According to Hugh, Tulsa is for Landon, while the farmers of the state are strongly for the President.

As your scribe started to leave King's Alumni Hall room he stopped us.

"And another thing," he said, "tell these fellows here that we really do have street cars and paved sidewalks down in Tulsa."

From way down in Puerto Rico, the "Land of the Tomorrow" comes three men to Villanova's halls. Singularly enough, the names of Manuel Correra, Marcos Dones and Rafael Mudafort are all inscribed on the rolls of the school of Science.

Cuba sends D. Esteban Cacicedo and Melchor Gaston to complete the list of students coming from the greatest distances to glean knowledge from the classes at Villanova.

Join the Crowd

On the Villanova Rooters' Special

to the

PENN STATE VILLANOVA

GAME

Saturday, October 10, 1936

Everybody's Going on the "Special"

Villanova Campus to State Campus and Return

$5.25

Leaves P. R. R. Station (Vilanova) 8:00 A. M., Oct. 10

TICKETS ON SALE AT THE VILLANOVAN OFFICE

SOLEMN RETREAT FORMALLY INDUCTS SCHOLASTIC YEAR

Rev. Henry A. Caffrey, O. S. A., Is Master Of Annual Religious Ceremony

STUDENTS RESPOND WELL

"Retreat in military terms means a falling back of a weakened force in order that time may be had to strengthen defenses and make a new plan of attack. To us it means a retreating within ourselves to reflect upon our spiritual weaknesses and strengthen ourselves with the grace of God so that we may be able to overcome our spiritual foes." Thus spoke Rev. Henry A. Caffrey, O. S. A., master of the annual one day retreat held at Villanova on October 1, in his opening address to the resident students on Wednesday evening.

Besides giving a definition of the retreat the Father Caffrey admonished the students to enter into the real spirit of the occasion so that their souls would be spiritually fitted to cope with the problems of the coming scholastic year.

Services for the evening were concluded with benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Retreat for the day students began with the celebration of Mass and a Conference on Wednesday morning. At this time Father Caffrey repeated his remarks of the evening before and further advised the day-hops to avoid all unnecessary noises and pay strict attention to attendance at retreat exercises.

During the day several addresses were given to both groups concerning spiritual strength, the necessity of leading a good Catholic life and the sacrament of Penance.

Stations of the Cross were held for both residents and Day-hops Thursday afternoon while a Conference and Benediction closed the exercises for the day students immediately after.

In the evening the residents received their last Conference and Benediction and the retreat closed formally the next morning with celebration of Holy Mass and the imparting of the Papal Blessing.

Rev. Charles Brown O. S. A., chaplain of the college was well pleased with the student reaction to the retreat. "For the most part," he said, " the students reacted very favorably to the admonitions of the retreat master and entered very well into the spirit of the retreat. We were, however, a bit disappointed with the slight tardiness shown by a few getting to exercises.

The most edifying thing about the entire affair was seeing the great number of students who received Holy Communion on Friday morning.

On the whole we were very much pleased with the retreat."

FIRST YEAR CLASS DEBATERS CONVENE

Frosh to Elect Officers and Select Subjects For Debates

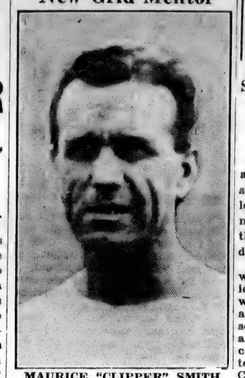
The Initial meeting of the freshman debating team will be held in Room 214 in Mendel Hall tomorrow at one o'clock.

Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A., a new member to the college faculty, will direct the destinies of the society. Last year the society was coached by Mr. John T. Houseman, who tutored an undefeated team.

There are several interesting trips in view for the yearling debaters. The schedule is not as yet completed but with the teams competed against last year as foes for this coming season, the frosh should have around ten meets. Last year trips were made to Princeton, Lafayette and Georgian Court, as well as engaging in several city meets with Pennsylvania, Temple, LaSalle, and St. Joseph.

The first meeting will be featured by the election of officers, and the subjects for debate will be decided upon. All members of the class of 1940 should be present and strive to carry on Villanova's fame in this particular endeavor.

New Grid Mentor



MAURICE "CLIPPER" SMITH

Gloom at Stuhlie's Leaving Turns To Joy as "Clipper" Smith Arrives

Last Spring Villanova was shocked at the report that Harry Stuhldreher had decided to leave the Main Line for the fields of Wisconsin. This Fall Villanova was, and is, pleased to find Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith, heading the Wildcat destinies.

Nine people out of ten know that the new coach's name is "Clipper," but how many can tell how he acquired it? Thereby hangs a tale. It seems that the Notre Dame team, of which Smith was an important component, was playing the Great Lakes Naval Training base, and a certain guard on the Ramblers was causing the Sailors no end of worry and torment. So much so, that one of the Gobs entered the dressing room of the Rockne troupe and wanted to know the name of the guard who had caused so much trouble during the afternoon. "Oh, that fellow," replied teammates, "That was 'Clipper' Smith."

This guard who had caused so much trouble for the opposition was a mere lad of 145 pounds when he started playing for Knute Rockne, and was the first of the watch-charm guards for which Notre Dame has become famous.

From the tutelage of the Grand Old Coach the Clipper, in 1921, accepted the position of head coach at Columbia University of Portland. Not much had been heard of this seat of learning, and many wondered why Smith should choose this place in preference to a larger college. But the Clipper had his reasons.

From 1921 on through the next two years Columbia's football star began its ascendency under the able coaching of M. J. Smith, Notre Dame, '21. With the handicap of poor material to be overcome, Clipper's feat of bringing the small college out of the fire was all the greater. Many abler and larger opponents fell victim to the strategedy of the former Notre Dame luminary.

"Clipper's" fame spread about the coast, and as a result, Gonzaga, of Spokane, Washington, took the lad into its arms and installed him as head coach. Hjstory repeated itself and Gonzaga's football saga became definitely brighter and more pleasant to its adherents. The crowning effort of the Smith regime was the successful conquest of Slip Madigan's St. Mary's Gaels. Incidentally, Messrs. Madigan and

Continued on Page Ten

Former Secretary To College Head Enters Convent

Served 8 Years in Bookstore And Secretary to Vice-President

Miss Anne E. Conway, who was a member of the administrative staff for the last eight years has left Villanova College to become a nun. She entered the Convent of the Sisters of St. Francis, Glen Riddle, Penna., on September eighth.

During her employment here, she was first secretary to the vice-president of the college and later she was in charge of the bookstore. In addition to this she was active in secretarial work for the numerous administrative offices about the college, and took an intensive interest in everything concerned with College work.

FACULTY MEMBER WEDS

Miss Betty Bunn, who was formerly employed at Villanova College as the operator of the swithboard and the information booth for the past seven years was married last summer on August eighth to August A. Kunzenbacher, a member of the faculty of Villanova as Professor of Chemistry.

WORK ON YEARBOOK COMMENCES SOON

Annual Will Have Many New Features, States Editor Kennedy

Work on the 1937 edition of the Belle Air, year book published by the students of Villanova College, will begin this week it was announced today by Thomas Kennedy, editor.

Kennedy revealed that many new features will appear in the annual principally in the senior class section of the book. Much is to be expected also from the photography department which has been strengthened by the enrollment of several students of the college who are experts in that line.

Thomas Flaherty, Business Manager, has stated tha a splendid display of ads will be had in the yearbook for 1937 outdoing the displays which attracted so much attention in provious publications.

Next week the full list of additions to the yearly will be announced by Kennedy and Rev. Daniel, P. Falvey, moderator.

Beta Gamma Plans Induction Dinner

Continued From Page One

bers of the Debating Society to engage in a schedule calling for debates in other cities as well as at Villanova and the neighboring Philadelphia. Debate manager Bruno, with the aid of Albert Mayell, also a Senior Arts student, has been busy planning the destinies of the Chapter, but up to the present time, but little concerning the excursions has been announced.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 38 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

RAILWAY EXPRESS
AGENCY, INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Start the Fall Term

With the Pen That Students Rate Highest

BY ACTUAL VOTE

Invented by a College Professor to Bring You Higher Grades

A college professor noticed that poor grades are often due not to brains running low but to pens running dry!

So he worked out an utterly different and basically better pen principle—and Geo. S. Parker engineered it to perfection.

Thus came the revolutionary Parker sacless Vacumatic that has superseded every old-style pen—both sac-type and sacless.

Recently the student editors of 30 college papers asked 4,699 of their readers, "Which make of pen do you own? Which pen do you prefer?"

To both questions more students answered "Parker," than any other two makes of pens COMBINED!

One reason is that the Vacumatic ink supply is EVER-VISIBLE, the ENTIRE length of the barrel. It isn't merely last-drop visibility—doesn't merely show when your pen is empty. It shows days ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW, so it can't run dry against your will.

The Vacumatic's working parts are sealed in the top WHERE INK CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them. That's why this miracle pen is GUARANTEED mechanically perfect.

And the Parker Vacumatic has no rubber ink sac or lever filler—hence has room for 102% more ink without increase in size!

Its luminous, laminated Pearl style has won every pen Beauty Contest by 2 to 1. Go and see it today at any good store selling pens. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Parker VACUMATIC
GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT

Junior, $5; Over-Size, $10 — $7.50 Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5

To Make Any Pen Clean Itself

Try this utterly different writing ink—Parker Quink—an ink that dissolves deposits left in pens by ordinary inks. Quink cleanses a pen as it writes—a Parker or any other pen. Ends pen-clogging. Get Quink at any store selling ink, 15c and 25c.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

I. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37 ..... Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37 ..... Managing Editor
CHARLES E. STAHLECKER, '37 ..... College Editor
ROBTON C. PADEN, '37 ..... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37 ..... Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37 ..... Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37 ..... Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37, Art & Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassaluzzo, '37 ..... Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37 ..... Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Descarali ..... Litterary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38 ..... Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37 ..... Exchange Editor

Staff Writers
John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leo Golden, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Iofani, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39 — John Dimon, '39
John W. Fiflon, '38 — Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simons, '38 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff
Basil Dobrowolski, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Frederick J. Weindel, '37 — Walter L. Balaity, '39
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Norris Horn, '37
Bernard J. Miller, '39

Assistants to the Art Staff
Paschal Linguiti, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers
Peter J. McManus — Henry C. Guckenberger

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Postoffice, December 27, 1928.

1936 Member 1937
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributors of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - OCT. 6, 1936

TO THE FRESHMEN

BEFORE the young Frosh are many roads—"roads of destiny" O'Henry called them. Some of these roads lead to weal; others to woe. To a lareg extent, the road followed depends on circumstances within the control of every man.

Study is naturally one of the most important determinants: a man who dedicates his four years at college to intensive study is bound to reap fruitfully where he has sown. Such a man realizes that college is not a social function; not a place to prepare for a good position; not a place of bodily indulgence. College, in its highest sense, prepares the student to live a life of service. And a Catholic college prepares one not only for life's battles, but the student is sent forth into the world, a warrior of Christ's, to serve his fellowmen—Christ's brothers. Obviously, the student who follows this road chooses wisely.

Intimately connected with studies are recreational activities. All work and no play runs an old adage. Recreation might be divided into three general categories; spiritual, mental and physical recreation.

Spiritual recreation consists in living the Christian life to the fullest extent: the student, at all times, externally and internally, gives witness to his Faith. Daily mass and Communion, abstention from indulgence in alcoholic beverages, clean speech, justice, honesty — these are the marks of a true Catholic student.

Mental recreation pertains to the use of cultural instruments such as books, music, opera, drama, etc., for the cultural perfection of the individual's personality.

Bodily recreation is a healthy manifestation of the animal spirits of man. It is necessary. But at all times there should be maintained a rational balance between the spirit, the mind and the body. To overemphasize any one, expectially physical recreation, is unwise and irrational.

The Frosh now entering the college might well spend a few hours outlining the "road of destiny" they wish to follow. A careful study program should be drawn up — and adhered to. Frequent reception of Our Lord's Body and Blood should be practiced. And the library should be visited, concerts should be attended, football games should be enjoyed thoroughly, and various athletic activities should be employed by the new student in the culture of soul and body.

PRO-NOISE CAMPAIGN

IT IS surprising just how much benefit a football team may derive from the moral support of the student body it represents. It may be safely said that not even the fiery words of the between halves talk of the coaches can compare to the fight put into a team when they know that their student body is really behind them and is pulling for their success. The manifestation of this spirit can come from the student body in many ways, but particularly through the medium of cheering.

In recent years Villanova students have been lacking in this respect, but the coming of a new coach seems to have brought back to our campus a new spirit of co-operation between the team and the student body. The cheering this year has been very much improved over that of other recent years, but there is still a little room for improvement.

SPANISH TERRORISTS

IT HAS been, for some time now, a matter of conjecture as to when the public press will make the proper distinction between the so-called Spanish Loyalists and the Rebels. The only concession to date toward the correct designation of these parties has been the recent disposition to classify the governmentalists as Socialists and the nationalists as Insurgents. A procedure that has merely succeeded in attaching onus to the political theory of Socialism without settling the point at issue.

Long before the outbreak of the revolution, which at this stage shows little likelihood of deteriorating into a mere rebellion as predicted, the forces that had seized the Spanish government upon the abdication of King Alphonso, began to reveal themselves as anarchists and terrorists of the worst sort. While the manner in which they have conducted the war has done more to substantiate than to belie this opinion.

The atrocities that are daily being perpetrated upon the persons of priests and nuns—the desecration of altars—the theft and wanton destruction of Church properties, are all a part of the fanatical doctrine of domination or destruction.

The purpose of the so called Loyalists was to enslave the Spanish people under a form of government domination, not unlike that endured by the Russian people in the first years of the revolution—that is one inimical to all the natural and moral rights of man. And as the first step toward such an autocracy is the banishment of those forces which instruct man in his real, rather than fancied, duties to himself as well as the State, it became necessary to destroy everything that exercised a religious influence in the country. For no form of domination is complete that does not involve the extermination of those factors that teach man the dignity of his own person.

It was of little consequence that the expulsion of nuns and priests was the banishment of Spanish learning — that the demolition of Cathedrals and monasteries was at the expense of centuries of Spanish culture and art. No crime was too heinous against man or art so long as the forces which taught and fostered the principles of liberty should be destroyed.

Fortunately, however, the barbarism that has so completely characterized the activities of the Spanish terrorists became intolerable to the spirits of free men, and in spite of the horrors that have marked their conductance of the civil war, they are gradually being driven from the confines of the country.

It is to be profoundly hoped that the torrents of blood shed by the religious in the name of Spanish freedom, will not have been shed in vain, but will give rise to a new Spanish government founded on the principles of liberty and justice to all.

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the advent of "Clipper" Smith and the new class of nineteen forty there seems to come a rebirth of the real Villanova spirit of old. A new spirit of fellowship has been created and, best of all, the response of the entire achool to the efforts of the cheer leaders has been excellent. No casual observer can fail to notice the great improvement along this line. The laisez faire, "let the frosh do it" attitude of the upper classmen of former years has passed into the oblivion where it justly belongs. Everyone is to be congratulated. Nice going boys. Keep it up.

Frosh did you know—

That a hick town is one where everyone knows what's in the town paper and only buy it to find out if the editor has the story the same way they heard it.

That the picture on the recent Abbotts ice cream ad that looks so much like Norbert Ford is really that flashy Villanovan. Those rah-rah Princeton clothes do get you somewhere, don't they Norb?

That Al Mayell has had five room-mates since the beginning of the school year. It must be that magnetic personality.

That a certain member of the faculty of the college has recently defined a pun as an "anaemic form of humor."

That the recent exodus of Villanova's band to the WIP studio in Philadelphia failed to make Cecil Pennyfeather's column. You're slipping Cecil. Heaven's knows they made enough noise while their buses trekked down Chestnut St. on the way to "Stoney" McLinn's football rally at which they were featured.

In this little world of ours it may often be noticed that several people look somewhat alike. Villanova campus is no exception, and it is going to be the job of this column to sort out one such person each week. This week we should like you to take notice to a statue of the famous Julius Caesar and then take a good look at the genial frosh Dave Difillipi. What do you think?

Another weekly feature of this pillar is going to be—We often wonder. This week "we often wonder" when a certain junior is going to pay for a chandelier broken at a party in Hammonton last fall.

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti

AS THIS is my initial column of the current year, it is my intention to dedicate it to the incoming freshman class. The class of 1940. "WELCOME FROSH."

The Freshmen all rejoice
Now that they're free to roam,
Yet they spend their spare time
In writing letters home.

You can always tell a Senior
By the way he flaps his ears,
You can tell a sprightly Junior
As he walks this vale of tears.

You can spot a newborn Sophomore
By his sympathetic touch,
You can always tell a freshman,
But you sure can't tell him much.

Columnist: Hey, Frosh come here a minute.

Frosh: (Stopping, and waiting for Columnist to catch up to him) Ya'll have to hurry, I'm on my way to see the football coach.

Columnist: Oh, you're one of the Frosh football men, eh. Well go ahead. I wouldn't want you to be late for practice.

Frosh: Well, I'm not on the squad yet but I'm going over and try out for it. I'd like to be an All-American some day.

Columnist: (Getting that wild look) Are you the fellow that gained all the yards for your high school team last year?

Frosh: (Brightening) Yep, and I was high scorer in the basketball conference, too. Batted .380 this summer in our industrial league.

Columnist: You won the popularity contest, too, didn't you—among the seniors last year?

Frosh: Yep, and I was business manager of our year-book. We made money on it too. I was going to take a business course here but I figure I got enough natural ability to get through in that line. I think that I will take chemistry. I signed up for Arts but I don't think they will mind if I change it. It is always good to change your mind like that—they will know that I'm one of those fellows that think.

Columnist: You have a girl back home, haven't you. She is going to count the days until you come home.

Frosh: Yep. I'm going to bring her down for all the dances. I'm not planning on running around much down here.

Columnist: You have to write home twice a week don't you?

Frosh: Heh, where did you get all that stuff? Ya been talking to someone from my home town?

Columnist: They never change, do they?

CAMPUS CAMERA

As We See It...On Politics

By HARRY PARKIN

Editor's Note—The great-grandson of the Chinese philosopher Lien Chi Altangi, whose papers were edited by Oliver Goldsmith, has been gracious enough to give us access to his letters on America. The following being one of them.

OH, AGED disciple of Confucius, and honorable guide of my youth! You are,no doubt, surprised to receive this letter from America, a visit to which had not been included in my itinerary when I departed from China. But being urged to make the trip in the company of the Merchant Chien Fu, who intends to make a commercial venture in this country, and feeling it would add immeasurably to my knowledge of the pepoles of the earth, I embarked with him from Southampton, for this storied land of wealth and power.

Perforce, I must admit that my first encounter with the Americans was as disappointing as with the English. For I had concluded, that, where so much wealth existed, the people would have that much more time to devote to intellectual pleasures. But I find them, on the contrary, little given to philosophical meditations and disquisitions. In fact they seem so occupied with commercial interests, that they have little time to devote to anything but sensuous pleasures. Although they must intoxicate every sense in the short time they may give to recreation. This opinion, however, I may be compelled to reverse, as I come to know the people more intimately.

As the Americans are presently occupied with the selection of a man to fill the foremost office of the state, I was favorably impressed by the manner in which most citizens argued the respective merits of their candidates, for this implied, to my mind, a people alive to the individual's responsibility for the government of the country. The newspapers, likewise, are daily covering their pages with pictures, and accounts of the activities of the contestants. But, alas, "how little the lineaments of the face disclose the mind within," for the more careful perusal of their newspapers, than I had formerly been able to give, revealed them to be filled with innuendo, scurrility, and even criminal accusations against the candidate to whom the editors opposed. It seemed, in fact, that those mouths that were most wanting in arguments in the advocacy of their nominee, were most often filled with abuse. The people, however, fail to regard these remarke with disapprobation, or as an instance of malfeasance worthy of their further scrutiny. Which is a most peculiar custom.

From the vigour and cogency with which the champions of each aspirant advanced their separate suits, I felt, it required no little discrimination on the part of the voters to distinguish between two men, who were so admirably fitted to serve them. It was in the attempt to determine the procedure for solving such a dilemma, that I came upon circumstances, that compelled me to modify, to a certain extent, my former good opinion of their astuteness.

The public, it seems, are prone to regard with favor, the present encumbent, one, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is now completing a particularly stormy term of office, because of his attempt to establish some sorely needed pieces of social and economic legislation. Why a man with such excellent intentions and nobility of spirit should encounter resistance in his efforts to aid his constituents, I was at some little pains, as well as, surprised to learn. It seems that these people hold in particular veneration their constitution, although no one ever appears to read it, and very few appear to understand it, while those who are its guardians seldom seem able to agree upon its meaning. Hence the great pother that was constantly being stirred up by Mr. Roosevelt's proposed legislation.

The other candidate, Alf. M. Landon (there are others, but one of these two is generally conceded to be the likely victor), was, until recently, a rather obscure person who occupied a governing position in one of the middle western states, which he is said to have executed with no little success. But withal he has enjoyed very little, if any, national importance.

How you will probably inquire, as I most certainly did, can a man relatively unknown hope to supplant in the favor of the people one who has so occupied himself with their well being. It was then that I was informed of the political parties, which, much to my surprise, determine who will be the candidates for public office, and not the electorate. The people are merely given a choice between party policies, for it is generally understood, that the man endorsed by one of these institutions will abide by its policy rather than that of the country, which asumes the position of the medium through whic it is expressed. Tus, it is through one of these, the Republican Party (the only other worthy of note being the Democratic), that Mr. Landon will be "sold" (an idiom, meaning to convince of the worthiness of) to the American public through the expenditure of great sums of money in advertizing and publicizing his readiness to carry out the policies of the party which endorses him. In the event that this transaction is successful, so an squaintance informs me, it will be paid for by the people over a period of four years.

The American, my most honourable advisor, is one of the most contradictory persons I have yet encountered. Astute and at the same time gullible, cosmopilitan, and bucolic, attentive and careless, and above all easily given to emotional sway.

Adieu,

Pass In Review

By RICHARD DEVERALL

Do you attend Mass every Sunday? Do you attend Mass every Thursday morning? Do you contribute to the support of the clergy? Do you say your morning and evening prayers? If you do all of these things—and if that is as far as your religious observances go—you are not much of a Christian!

Extreme? Radical? Unorthodox? Well, perhaps it sounds extreme, but it is the thesis of the best Catholic book to appear this decade. Paul Hanly Furfey, author of FIRE ON THE EARTH, is a secular priest now an associate Professor of Sociology at the Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

Pervading Catholic social thought there appear two major trends or schools. One advances the idea that all a Catholic has to do to be worthy of the name Christian is to "show only a minimum obiedience to Chrstian morality." The other school, that represented by Rev. Dr. Furfey, advances the daring idea that when Christ said: "Be ye perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect," He meant what He said.

For instance, "To talk of loving God and hating our neighbor is a contradiction. It is like saying that we consider a face beautiful when we look at it directly, but that the same face is hideous and ugly when reflected in a perfect mirror. Even so, it is impossible to love God and hate His excellent image in our neighbor." Yet that is precisely what we do when we even tolerate any sort of racial or national prejudices.

Father Furfey then gives us a sublime treatment of the Mystical Body of Christ, a doctrine that teaches us that we are all one with Christ: He is the Vine, we are the branches. Religion, in this light, is no matter of God and a man. Rather it is the communal, brotherly association of all people in the supernatural fellowship of Christ. This doctrine, when rigorously applied, leads one to conclusions that shock one because of the vital daring of their implications. When we attend Mass, we are not come to ramble throug a rosary, hoping all the while that Father "X" will hustle it up a bit. In the proper senae, we are come to profess our readiness "to complete by our own personal sacrifices, 'those things that are wanting of the sufferings of Christ.' " And then, dramatically, Father Furfey exclaims that, "to assist at Mass in any other spirit is, in a sense, a lie."

Oh, there is something so grand, so Christly, so new and yet so everlastingly grand about this book that one reads and rereads it. It brings us to the ever nescent massage of Jesus, your Lord and mine. We are made to realize that as Roman Catholics much is expected of us—and as we realize this, we at once reflect how, too often, we re-crucify Jesus by our un-Christian living. "Woe to you, scribes and pharisees, hypocrites, because you make clean the outside of the cup . . . but within you are full of rapine and uncleanliness . . . (you) are full of dead men's bones, and of all filthiness," cried our Lord to the men of His day. And it is a cry that echoes and re-echoes down the ages, for Christ abides with us to-day "even unto the consummation of the world.'

Christians, as Leo XIII said, are born for combat. Non-Catholics are, well, they are men. But we—we are Catholics. We must live our Faith daily and courageously. We must crucify the flesh, bear testimony of our holy Faith, pray, act, suffer, die—all of these things we must do if we are even to achieve the aim ofevery Catholic; the Sainthood.

FIRE ON THE EARTH is a title well chosen, for this work, in the hands of our Catholic college youth, will enkindle many embers —embers which once lit, will blaze brightly, finally to be consumed in the Fire of Divine Love. May every man on Villanova campus read this book. And may this reading be reflected in a growth of daily communicants and Catholic Actionists.

"NIGHT IN VIENNA" AT YOUTH CONCERT

Philadelphia Orchestra To Appear At Academy of Music, October 14

The first Youth Concert of the season, to be given by the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Academy of Music on Wednesday evening, October 14, at eight o'clock, will be be "A Night in Vienna." Eugene Ormandy will coduct, this being his first Youth Concert in Philadelphia.

The Concerts for Youth Committee has decided to emulate as complete a Viennese atmosphere as possible for the concert. The Academy will be decorated as a Vienna Opera House. The program is to be entirely by composers from the Austrian mecca of musicians, even the sonbs to be sung by the audience being by Viennese composers. Special contests have been held for a Viennese program cover and a member of the Decorations Committee has made silhouettes of Strauss and Schubert for either side of the stage. To complete the picture, the bouncers will be costumed as Viennese ladies and gentlemen.

This concert is the first of a series of six. Mr. Stokowski will conduct the one scheduled for November 18 and Mr. Ormandy those on October 14, December 6, February 10 and March 17. The sixth concert, scheduled for Monday, January 18, will be an innovation in Youth Concert circles—a piano recital by Jose Iturbi, who appeared as guest conductor at the final Youth Concert last season.

In Mr. Ormandy, the Youth audience has a young man who was given his first push up the ladder of success by that great finder of talent, S. L. "Roxy" Rothafel. When Mr. Ormandy arrived in the United States, he discovered that the men who had invited him here for a violin concert tour had vanished. Faced with the necessity of eating and sleeping, the young violinist attained a job at the last violin desk at the Capitol Theatre in New York. In 5 days he was concert-master and shortly after that, due to the regular conductor's illness, was called on to conduct. Never having had a baton in his hand, but second only to Toscanini for his prodigious memory, he conducted the Tachaikowsky Fourth Symphony from memory. Since then, just ten years ago, his rise to success has been phenomenal. He is now the co-conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Concerts for Youth Committee is certain that the "Nightin Vienna" will be a real success with Mr. Ormandy on the podium.

RECEIVED BY POPE

The Very Rev. Joseph Hickey, O. S. A., assistant general of the Augustian Order, and the Very Rev. Mortimer A. Sullivan, O. S. A., provincial, both of Villanova College, have been received by Pope Pius 11, at the Vatican City. Roma.

DIAL-LOG

OVER the Summer vacations, radio came through again with more variety and splendor in their programs. Despite the facts that many of the more prominent commercial programs suspended action during the warm season the major systems continued to present entertaining features. One of the most pleasant and refreshing programs can be attributed to the makers of Chesterfield Cigarettes who again placed Andre Kostelanetz as their musical director.

I believe that the VILLANOVAN at this time should also extend its congratulations to this remarkable musical genius for his striking arrangements, evident throughout his programs, which gave glowing response and answered the request of his sponsor. Whether you prefer swing time to waltz time; slow tempo to fast, your wishes and Chesterfield's are met Wednesday and Friday evenings, when Andre and the boys go on the air. As we have heard on the other waves, it a dance program "refreshingly different."

Her life is a song. Yes, I'm speaking of Carmela Ponselle, heard weekly on Columbia's "Broadway Varieties." Four days of the week she rehearses the song she is to sing during her Friday program. After selecting it on Monday and going over it again and again with her coach, she spends Tuesday making her first records and checking them for any possible imperfection. Wednesday she makes more records and not until Friday does she get around to rehearsing with the orchestra.

Now to mention swing bands and "rippling" music that seemed to enhance the younger set this Summer. Shep Fields, responsible for this creation, took New York by storm . . . It may not last long. Joe McCalp has been quoted on saying Mr. Kirk and his boys, unknown to many of the experts will be the sensation in the jazz world within a year . . . There's a persistent rumor that the Dorsey brothers Jim and Tommy will reunite . . . If your radio can drag in WIP listen to the "Clipper," as fine a speaker as you would want . . . Is it possible that Benny Goodman and his hot clarinet will oust Glen Gray as the swing champions of the year? . . . Listen to the Camel program and decide.

When Maxine Gray, black-eyed soloist on Phil F ker's program, stepped up before the microphone on the comedian's new series on CBS Sunday night, she sang her three thousandth song over the air. The soft-voiced contralto did her first number in a radio studio when she was ten. She was called to a local station in Shreveport, La., her home town, to sing the song the station manager had heard her singing in school. Maxine's mother attended her daughter's radio debut and has acted as adviser and coach ever since, she is the one who has kept count.

A member of the Prom committee at Notre Dame College for women (Staten Island) wrote a letter to Paul Whiteman requesting what she would get for $125. Paul candidly replied she would receive a piccolo player and a sheet of music. The young lady must have been joking.

For at least during the duration of the World Series, the Merrygo-round, that entertaining feature heard each day over WDAS will be conspicuous by its absence on the radios of the resident students.

We see that Jack Benny has returned to his old Sunday night spot for Jello. Mary Livingston and Don Wilson are still with him, but Johnny Green, mestro on last year's series, has moved over to Fred Astaire's Tuesday Nite show. Phil Harris now dispenses tunes for Benny and Co. And while we're on the subject of returning comedians, we find Eddie Cantor has been elected mayor of Texaco town, having left his toothpaste sponsor. Joe Penner, who suffered a loss of patronage a year ago, is also doing his part to keep Sunday night a funfest.

Fred Allen, fully recoverd from his wife's culinary experiments throughout the Summer, resumes his place on Town Hall Tonight. Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd, those two mad fellows, who took Fred's place during the Summer, now have their own commercial. It's on Sunday venings at 5:30. That just aboutt akes care of the comedians.

Several popular dance orchestras have returned to the air after a Summer rest. Herbie Kaye and Ray Noble are two lads who have brought their bands back to the Winter spots. Kaye holds forth at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, and Noble is at the Rainbow Room.

GLOBE TROTTING

(Information for the following was obtained from Father Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A.)

TOLEDO

"This interesting city is the sculptors' paradise. Wherever you go you see statues. Little statues, big statues, stone statues, metal statues; your eyes cannot remain open here without beholding some kind of a statue.

"However, today, since some of the fiercest fighting of the revolution has taken place here, it might be said instead that your eyes cannot remain open without beholding the remains of a statue."

* * *

JOHN THE WONDER

"There are many amusing stories circulated in Spain about this monk. At one time John the wonder worker had become so renowned thru-out Spain for his miracles, that people flocked by the thousands to his monestary, greatly disrupting its customary peace and quiet. So the Prior told John to stop performing miracles.

"A few days later John was watching a church being built, when suddenly a worker fell from the scaffolding around the spire. While falling, he noticed John standing on the street below, and called out: 'John! Help me! Perform a miracle!'

Now John was a good monk, and would not disobey his superior by working a miracle even in this crisis, so he shouted back: 'Wait a minute! I'll get permission!' and he rushed to the Prior standing on an elevation near-by, overlooking the half-built church below.

"John," he said, "why have you disobeyed me? I told you to stop those miracles."

John was taken aback.

"Look," rapped the Prior, "Look down there," and he pointed at the large mass of scaffold.

There was the falling worker "waiting" in mid air!"

SIDE-LIGHTS

There are four cadet training schools in Spain. One of these is the historic Alcazar, where young men are trained for the infantry This particular training stood them in good stead during their recent classic defence of that famous old fortress.

When the Cathedral at Toledo was being built, its founders wanted to have the best carving obtainable on the choir stalls. So they decided to engage two of the most renowned wood-carvers of the time, and to have each carve a different, side of the stalls. This was done, and the constant competition between them resulted in producing one of the most beautiful woodcarvings in existance.

We have not received a letter from Spain in seven weeks. What is going on over there we can only imagine, and gain some idea from the censored news reports."

The rebels apparently now control most of Spain. The fall of Madrid is only a question of time. Let's hope that when that city is taken the anarchists will not set it on fire."

NEXT WEEK: Some startling disclosures about the crisis in Spain. This coming interview with Fr. Lozano, O. S. A., a native of Spain, will be a revealation to you! Don't miss it.

OBITUARY

In behalf of the student body THE VILLANOVAN extends its condolences to Rev. Charles J. Melchior, procurator of the college, upon the loss of his father, George W. Melchior.

* * *

THE VILLANOVAN in behalf of the student body of Villanova College wishes to extend its most sincere sympathies to Thomas Flaherty Senior in the School of Commerce and Finance, upon the death of his father, Thomas Flaherty, Sr.

ACTIVE SEMESTER PLANNED BY CLUBS

Sanctuary Society, Press Apostolate Commence Extensive Activities

Plans for an active 1936-37 season are being formulated by the various clubs and other organizations on the campus foremost among whom are the Catholic Press Apostolate, Sanctuary Society, Wilkes Barre Club, and North Jersey Club.

The Sanctuary Society under the guidance of Rev. John Vrana, O. S. A., has already started activities. Servers for the week and the students' Mass on Sunday have been appointed each week and likewise for the stations of the cross on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

A meeting of the Catholic Press Apostolate will be held some time this week, the exact date to be announced by Rev. Charles Brown, O. S. A., moderator.

Plans for Christmas dances have been laid before the committees of both the Wilkes Barre and North Jersey Clubs with further details to be made known shortly.

It has also been suggested by various students about the campus that the once popular Connecticut Club be reorganized. This group was at one time one of the foremost aggregations of students on the Villanova campus but gradually interest dwindled until two years ago when the club disbanded. The added number of students from the Nutmeg State this year may, however, serve to reassure the students of the college the revival of the club.

President Opens Scholastic Year

Continued From Page One

portunities the college affords. For not only does Villanova stress spiritual ideals in education, but it presents a curriculum and a program to put these ideals into practice.

"You want to thank God that you are enrolled in a college where religion is an integral part of education. Your knowledge of the difficulties which your fellow students in other lands are suffering today should urge you to make the best possible use of your God-given opportunity for intellectual and spiritual growth," concluded Fr. Stanford with emphatic sincerity and forcefulness.

COLLEGE CAMPUS IS GREATLY IMPROVED

Many New Features Appear As School Year Reopens

Several campus improvements have been made since Villanova's closing last June. Some of them had already been begun before the close of school last year and since then have made rapid progress.

First among these improvements is the disappearance of the old, useless track about the Mendel Hall field. This track had not been used for years and was only a source of trouble to campus authorities. In its stead there is now a good growth of grass which greatly adds to the beauty of the campus.

Down in back of the gymnasium where all the old dirt and bricks from the old burned buildings had been deposited there has come into being a new field which, it is stated, will be used either for the new baseball field or a new soccer field.

Louie's Pie Shop, too, has undergone several complete changes. A new air-cooling system has been installed and a modern music machine has replaced the obsolete one used last year.

During the summer months Alumni Hall and Mendel Hall were completely painted and renovated which completely changed and improves the appearance of these two halls.

James Quigley Is Chosen Chairman

Continued From Page One

Gibbons Kolb, sophomore in the School of Commerce and Finance.

As yet no definite date has been set for the reorganization of the International Relations Club. Notices, however, will be posted on the Mendel Hall bulletin boards sometime this week designating the time and place of the meeting. All students interested in joining the group may attend.

FIRE AT GYM

Last Friday afternoon the Bryn Mawr Fire Department answered an alarm at Villanova. Some cleaning fluid used on the floor of the new gym had burst into flame. Not much damage was done.

Gymnasium Scene Of Soph Dance

Continued From Page One

every class on the campus, especially the Freshmen. They are particularly urged to attend as they step into the realm of college life with this dance.

No announcement concerning the adornments of the gymnasium has been forthcoming, but Chairman Ferguson exclaimed that the student body can rest assured it will be unique and fitting for the occasion. Ducats for the affair have been issued and may be obtainable from any one of the committeemen.

The list of the committee as released by Fr. Lunney are: Hugh Ferguson, chairman; Joseph Pagano, Rene Caillliet, Charles Skowron, John Urie, Carl Pantaleo, Philip Messer, Bartholomeo Passanante, James Quibley, Edward Tirrell, Paul Juergens, Pershing Calabro, Miguel Rodriguez, Albert Holl, Joseph Calandriello, Thomas Furey, Joseph Quinn, John Linsley, Ralph Sherman, Frank Carroll, James Carroll, Alfredo Melian, George Bishop, Gerard Schelle, John D'Ippolito, William Kelly, Donald Mackowski, Bernard McHenry, Joseph Higgins, James Tofani, Richard Walsh, Robert Howe, James O'Brien, James Kutz, Leo Bicher.

Lucky for You – It's a Light Smoke!

KIND TO YOUR THROAT— A Light Smoke

There's a friendly relaxation in every puff and a feeling of comfort and ease when your cigarette is a Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco — A LUCKY.

As Gentle as it is Delicious!

For Lucky Strike is not merely mild and mellow in taste, but a genuine light smoke which always treats you gently. You will find it easy on your throat, kind when you inhale, friendly all day long. If you believe in a gentle smoke, you believe in Luckies! Among all cigarettes, this is the one which offers you the welcome protection of that famous process known to the world as "It's Toasted." And this is the one that millions turn to—for deliciousness, for protection, for all-day smoking pleasure! Luckies are A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

★ ★ NEWS FLASH! ★ ★

"Sweepstakes" employs 6,000 to address entries!

Over 6,000 people are employed in addressing return entry cards for that great national cigarette game, Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes." Entries come from every State in the Union.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your Luckies—a flat tin of 50 delicious Lucky Strikes? Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge, and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."

And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them, too. Maybe you've been missing something. You'll appreciate the advantages of Luckies—a Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

Luckies—a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO – "IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Nort Paden

Sports Editor

FACING another tough season, the Wildcats have gotten off to a flying start with two wins over strong opposition. The Cadets and Titans fell before a determined eleven and the fans breathed a sigh of relief. The team under "Clipper" Smith has something on the ball and perhaps the final count won't be as bad as some people would have you believe.

—V—

Tennis has opened the annual Intra-Mural program and a golf tournament to determine talent in this line has been talked about but touch football has died a natural death. As an intra-mural sport it is all washed up for the simple reason that not enough interest has been shown this sport. Among many of the larger institutions Catholic and non-Catholic alike, intra-mural touch football holds as much interest as the Varsity games. What then is the matter with Villanova? The answer to this is in your hands now. Do something.

—V—

The Rutgers 150 pound eleven has a man-sized job facing them this year. Graduation wrecked havoc with the unbeaten and unscored-upon team that humbled the Villanova light weights last year. With three veterans as a nucleus, Coach Harry Rockafeller is working doubly hard to send a representative team out on the field. The opening game with our 150 club may prove a very different combat than the previous tilt.

—V—

Temple University, Villanova's traditional enemy, managed to eke out a 12 to 7 victory over a formidable Mississippi eleven last Friday night at the Owl stadium. Such a score may look well on paper but the Warnermen were just lucky. Out-played, out-manouvered and out-thought, Pop Warner's charges had all they could do to hang on and try to clear their heads. The Temple line is woefully weak and from all reports their pass defense is bad.

As "Pop" has a great crew of potential threats to Villanova in his Sophomores, by the middle of the season the Owls should be clicking in such a way that the annual 'Cat vs Owl battle will be all that can be hoped for.

—V—

Speaking of Temple and of Pop Warner a little notices catches our eye. In a statement to the press last summer, the Temple mentor said, "Smith (speaking of Clipper) is one of the finest football coaches in the country, one who is in the top row of teachers, a rival to be both respected and feared." This statement was made on observations of Clipper's activities on the west coast at a small school. Think of the possibilities that the Villanova team has. It Warner, dean of coaches, was leary of Smith's teams on the coast then Villanova with the material on hand under such a capable tutor should go far in intercollegiate football.

Next Saturday Villanova meets the test. For some unknown reason the Penn State game is looked upon as a jinx. Perhaps the fact that the game takes place on foreign soil has something to do wit' it. Shibe Park was also unknown territory to the Main Liners prior to the Detroit game but we didn't fare so badly in this encounter. State has always proven to be strong opposition and the game next week will be no set up. All that possibly can go should be there and give the team your moral support. Cheering has improved considerably but it is still far from satisfactory. If you want the team to win you have to tell them that and the best way is by cheers.

POOL ROOM OPENS

Last Sunday the Villanova pool room opened. For the benefit of the freshmen, the game room is situated in the north end of the gym, just west of the stage. There are four tables under the able managership of Ray Murphy, class of '37. Murphy was also custodian of the pool room and bowling alleys last year. During the year tournaments will be held, it is expected.

Villanovan Sports

DETROIT ELEVEN HUMBLED 13-6

Titan Hits Stone Wall

Farkas, Detroit halfback, finds the Villanova line no cinch to crash. Smothered under an avalanche of 'Cat players, the Doralsman was tossed for no gain as Villanova triumphed, 13-6.

SECOND GAME SEES WILDCATS VICTORS IN CLOSE CONTEST

17,000 Spectators Present At Shibe Park For Sunday Tilt

RAIMO, FOX ACCOUNT FOR TWO MAIN LINE TALLIES

Stoviak Plays Entire Game; Missar Stars At Guard Post

With their forward wall crumbling before the steady onslaught of a fighting Villanova eleven, the Detroit Titians finished on the short end of a 13 to 6 score before 18,000 people at Shibe Park, Sunday October 4.

Spectacular in defeat, the Titans staged a dazzling aerial attack in the closing minutes of the game to hold the fans breathless as pass after pass was thrown in an effort to stave off complete annihilation.

Raimo Scores

Villanova's first score came early in the second period. Near the close of the first quarter, after both teams had see-sawed back and forth in mid-field, Ray Stoviac intercepted a Detroit forward and carried the ball to his own 46 yard line. Villanova then advanced the ball to within the one-yard stripe by repeated thrusts through the Titan line.

The first play of the second period had diminutive Arty Raimo carrying the ball. Diving over the center of the line the 150-pound fullback tallied Villanova's first touchdown. Bill Christopher's educated toe failed in the attempt to convert the extra point and the score stood at 6-0.

Missar Stars

The score remained such until half time as the Detroit team did not threaten the Villanova team until the third quarter. The kick-off, by Rogers, in this frame was returned by Wieczorek 20 yards. Farkas gained eight yards off tackle and the Detroit team started their steamroller. On the next play, Piper passed and was intercepted by Missar, Villanova guard. Re-

Continued on Page Nine

WILDCATS PREPARE FOR TILT AGAINST PENN STATE ELEVEN

Coach "Clipper" Smith Out to Capture First Victory Against Lions

WEAR BIGGEST THREAT

With two consecutive victories over P. M. C., and Detroit University respectively, the Villanova Wildcats have begun intensive drills for their coming engagement with the Nittany Lions of Penn State. "Clipper" Smith takes his squad on their first road trip this week-end. The game is scheduled for Saturday, but the team will leave Friday morning.

The Wildcats have not had extensive athletic relationship with the Nittany Lions, in the football history of the two institutions, only four contests have been played. State has won three; while the other resulted in a scoreless tie. Until last season the 'Cats had never been able to penetrate the Lions' end zone.

After a lapse of 24 years, Villanova and Penn Sate resumed gridiron activities last season. The Nittany Lions surprised the Wildcat supporters by coming out on the long end of a 27-13 score.

In the 1936 Penn State edition, coach "Clipper" Smith has a tough assignment on his hands. He will have to pit his team against a foe with which he is not in the least acquainted; and which is heralded by those in the "know" to be an-

Continued on Page Nine

THE IRISH

One of the features of a recent scrimmage at Notre Dame was a lateral pass which gained 30 yards. It went from Ben Binkowski to Chuck Borowski, a pair of Fighting Irish backfield candidates.

FUTURE OPPONENTS

Oct. 10—Penn State ..... Away
17—Western Maryland Shibe Park
24—Boston University Shibe Park
31—Bucknell ..... Away
Nov. 7—South Carolina .. Away
14—Temple ..... Away
21—Manhattan ..... Away

FUTURE OPPONENTS SHOW GREAT POWER

South Carolina Falls Before Duke; State, Manhattan Gain Easy Victories

Villanova's Wildcats will have to continue to play the same sterling brand of ball they displayed in defeating the highly touted Detroit team last Sunday if they are to make a success of the 1936 campaign. With the exception of South Carolina all the future opponents won their games, piling up the total of 179 points to their rivals' 40.

Most impressive was the 45-0 defeat the Nittany Lions of Penn State plastered on Muhlenberg's Moles. Leading the irresistable ground and aerial attack were Tommy Silvano, senior fullback, and Harry Harrison, soph quarterback, who formerly starred for West Philly High.

The plunging and climax running of Silvano, the passing of Harrison and the defensive play of Captain Chuch Cherundulo were the features in the rout of a Muhlenberg team that beat Lafayette the week previous.

Western Maryland's veteran eleven showed power in defeating Upsala 28-6. Boston University, looked upon by some as a soft spot, looked anything but soft on Saturday. The Terriers displayed a flashy attack, featuring the ball carrying of Captain Roy Thompson and Sol Nechtem, and they loom as a potent "dark horses."

South Carolina even though de-

Continued on Page Nine

NATATORS TO OPEN TANK SEASON SOON

Duffy Elected Captain of Swim Team; Hosey Will Swim

Villanova's pool is already resounding to the splash of the natators as they swing into preparation for the current season.

Under the direction of Arthur C. F. Mathieu the Wildcat swimmers are expected to have a successful season, due mainly to the fact that all of last years stars have returned to school.

At a meeting held last Friday afternoon the lettermen elected Joe Duffyas captain for the coming season. Duffy, who is a senior in the School of Technology, is expected to outdo his brilliant performances of last year.

The natators expec' to surpass last season's enviable record by adding bigger and better teams to their schedule.

After an absence of a year, due to injuries, Jack Hosey, a versitle performer in both swimming and diving, has reported for practice and he seems ready to regain a place on the team.

At the call for candidates last week a number of promising Freshmen reported. Among them was Charlie Timmins, who performed capably for West Catholic in the diving and the 220. He was also a member of the Middle Atlantic Championship team, Big Brothers.

Official release of the schedule has not yet been made, but it is rumored that Carnegie Tech will be one of the Wildcat's opponents.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the entire sports staff at the Villanovan office 119 Mendel Hall this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. All Freshmen who desire berths on this staff should report at this time.

P. M. C. Defeated By Highly Touted Villanova Eleven

Harvey Buek, Sophomore Halfback, Stars in Opener

Opening their season before 10,000 people in their Main Line stadium, the Villanova team defeated the Cadets from the Pennsylvania Military College, 32 to 7.

The Cadets scored in the first few minutes of play when a fumble of a P. M. C punt by Bill Christopher deep in Villanova territory gave the Kaydets the possession of the ball. After successive plays, the ball was toted across the Villanova goal tripe for first blood for the Chester Soldiers.

The shock of this unexpected sally opened the eyes of the Villanova eleven and immediately they set about to rectify this. Harvey Buek, flashy halfback, eel-hippe his way over for two tallys and Stoviac, Raimo, and Earle accounted for one apiece.

This was the first apearance of the Villanova team under the new and capable direction of Clipper Smith.

AL SEVERANCE NEW BASKETBALL COACH

Veteran Frosh Mentor Takes Over Reins of Varsity Quintet

Among the changes in the coaching line-up at Villanova college, is the appointment of Alexander G. Severance to the post of Varsity Basketball mentor. He succeeds George "Doc" Jacobs.

Outstanding success in coaching recent freshmen quintets prompted the promotion.In the past two years, the Main Line youngsters dropped only two contests, both to the Temple Owlets in the Spring of 1935. Revenge was gained last year however, with two exciting conquests of the Mitten Hallers.

In an effort to make the Wildcat rooters forget the past season, the new leader has already started the varsity squad practicing, having commenced Monday, October 5, 1936. The material at hand contains a number of graduates from last year's successful frosh quintet, as well as the hold-overs from the varsity. Only four places were vacanted because of graduation. Benny Geraghty, Tommy Ryan, Jack Robinson, and Mike O'Meara will cavort no more on the Main Line court.

Left over from "Doc" Jacobs last club are Charlie Noonan, Don Joe Carrig, Art Vigilante and Jim Montgomery are among the outstanding remainders of the '35-'36 Kitten aggregation, and with these men a fine team will be molded.

A comprehensive schedule has been arranged, and the boys will have their work cut out for them if a successful season is expected. Included in the list of opponents are tentative games with New York University and the University of Indiana.

Future Opponents Show Great Power

Continued From Page Seven

feated looked strong. A losing to the Blue Devils of Duke by three touchdowns is certainly no disgrace.

Bucknell raised the curtain on its '36 season last Friday night with a 20-0 victory over Lebanon Valley. Bucknell is perennially strong, and this season is no exception.

Manhatten's Jaspers also rang in the new season with a triumph, handing Nigara a crushing 34-6 defeat.

Temple faced its first big test last week-end, when the Owls stacked up against the heavy Mississippi eleven and finished on the right end of a 12-7 count. In this game, which Temple won in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter, the Cherry and Wine showed a wealth of good reserve material and a real fighting spirit.

Gets New Post

AL SEVERANCE

'Cats Meow

Greetings Mr. Copy Editor (you ARE the only one that does read this column, aren't you?). It's good to be back at a football game; especially a Villanova-Detroit affair.

—V—

Maybe I'm not sore at the announcer for telling everybody that hizzoner Mayor Davis S. Wilson and his retinue were at the game. I wanted to surprise my readers with the fact that I noticed he was present.

—V—

We had just about forgotten Nott and Storrie when along pops Gus Dorais with another passing act This time the performers were Piper and Payne.

—V—

The payoff was when two kids of about the age of ten tried to get into the press box. One had a "working press" ticket, while the other was supposed to be a photographer.

—V—

When the announcement came through the amplifiers that the Yanks had won by the score of 5 to 2, the fans applauded. I wonder whether they were Yankee rooters or whether they were Giant followers, giving them a hand for keeping down the score.

—V—

The Detroit Titans had a Payne in their backfield; but so did the Wildcat pass defense.

—V—

Who says Eddie Michaels isn't missed? Why them Detroiters got up after they were hit.

Six Varsity Men Lost Via Diploma; Replacements Show Lots of Ability

Villanova started its 1936 football campaign minus the ability of a sextet of men whose names will live forever in the annals of Villanova football history. Namely they are Eddie Michaels, who captained the Wildcats to a successful season last year, was an All-American in 1935; and is now rendering his services to the Chicago Bears.

The faces of Nick Kotys, Johnny Higgins, and George Wrona will not appear in the 'Cat backfield this year because this trio sang their swan song in the Temple game of 1935. In addition to Eddie Michaels, there are two other linemen who graduate in June, Milan Vidnovic, a heads up player at guard position, and Walt Korchinski, who turned in a successful season at left end last year.

The guard-playing of Michaels and Vidnovic will be greatly missed this season; but Val Rizzo, Joe Missar, Mat Kuber, and Mike Hanna are showing plenty of fight and what they lack in experience is made up in their will to win and their desire to fill the shoes of two men, both of whom played willingly and faithfully for the Wildcats.

At the tackle positions, Bill Rogers, John Mellus, Pat Marquette, Jordan Olivari, all of whom saw action last year will be in there fulfilling their duties as typical Villanova football men. Bunny Calzazin and Johnny McKenna, who alternated at the center position last year, will both appear in the Villanova lineup and are destined to see plenty of action again this year.

At the wing positions the 'Cats have Tony Sala and George Fox. Both of these men graduate this year. Alex Bell, a Junior, and John Wysocki a sophomore will be ready to take up the duties of these two seniors next season.

Bell and Wysocki have shown so much promise in practice and in the P. M. C. game that they will no doubt get in many of the ball games this fall. Not much more can be said about the playing ability of Sala and Fox because this fact they demonstrated on the gridiron last season.

Bill Christopher will still be calling signals for the Wildcats this season and he proved convincingly he is a good field general by his leadership in the Detroit game at home and in the Temple game. "Franny" Nye who turned in a good season at right half-back last year will be in a new role this Fall, inasmuch as he was shifted to quarterback. "Franny" did a good job in the P. M. C. game at quarter and we're hoping to see him carry on the good work in future games.

Spectators will see at L. H. B. a lad who understudied Nick Kotys last season and yet saw enough action to show that he, Andy Stopper was a lover of the game of football. Harvey Buek is understudying Stopper and as a result of his doings in the P. M. C. game it appears that Harvey will make

Continued on Page Ten

150'S SCRIMMAGE MALVERN THIS WEEK

Emmerling and Garbark Start Drills For Lightweight Team

Villanova's one hundred and fifty pound football team began practice under head coach Dick Emmerling and assistant coach Mike Garbark last Thursday on Mendel Field. Practice was scheduled to start earlier in the week, but was postponed because of rain.

Although forty candidates signed up for the lightweight team, only about twenty-five or thirty have turned out for the practices. This is due to some having labs in the afternoons.

Many members of last year's squad have returned to the team. Among the veterans from last seasons line, are Captain Larry Stead, Joe Alessandroni, Bill Dinges, Joe Fedrowicz, Jim McAndrew, "the flash of Locust Gap," Charlie O'Connor, Ed Quinn, Irv Uram, Bill Corkill, Tom O'Brien and Andy Conti.

In the backfield Coach Emmerling has Paul Kerrigan, Lou Biester, George Oesterle, Jim Cousart, and Jimmie Lyons.

A wealth of material has shown itself in the sophomore candidates. Some of them have played in high school and their experience should stand them in good stead.

Among the newcomers to the squad are: Tommy Carbine, Frank Capalleri, John Costello, Ray Cutler, Bob Daniello, M. Dougherty, Ralph Edwards, Jim Kiely, Larry Knaphle, Jim McEvilly, Harold Murphy, Joe O'Loughlin, Joe Pagano, Frank Reale, Joe Soviero, Fred Waters, Carl Panteleo, Bill Durkin, and Stan Bobrowski.

Many veterans were lost from last year's squad. Captain Frank Rodgers, Charlie Kane, and Dan Murphy graduated. Art Carlton, and Jack Geraghty will not be able to play being unable to make the weight. Others, among them Bus O'Connor, Joe Bittenmiller, and Mario Menocal, find it difficult to get time to play, because of their studies.

Coaches Emmerling and Garbark put the squad throug light drills last week, but got down to serious work yesterday. A scrimmage has been arranged with the Malvern Prep the latter part of this week.

The Kittens will open their schedule on the week-end of the seventeenth with Rutgers, who have been eastern intercollegiate champions for the last four years. Their second game is with Princeton University, last season's runners-up. Both opening games will be played on the home field.

The week-end of the thirty-first of October, the light-weights will travel up to New Haven to play old Eli. They then travel down to Franklin Field to play the Little Quakers, and wind up the season with Lafayette on the home field.

TENNIS TOURNEY WELL UNDER WAY

Jim Dywer Ineligible For Competition; Mendel Dayhops Dark Horses

Under the able direction of Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., the current Intra-Mural program was begun two weeks ago with the Tennis Torney.

Individual champions of the various halls, as well as the College champion, will be decided in matches to be played on the College courts.

Last year's winner, Jim Dwyer, who represented Alumni Hall is ineligible to compete this year because he is now a member of the Varsity Tennis Team.

In Austin Hall, Ben Maloney, Maurice McDonnell, Witold Krzywicki and Charlie Higgins are still contending for the honor or representing their hall in the championships. Maloney, the runner-up in the finals of last year's tournament, is seeded number one. His closets rival at the present time is McDonnell, former Catholic U. star who played number one last year.

Wallach, a Day-Hop in the School of Commerce and Finance, has shown good form in his matches so far. He has gained his experience in amateur competition in and about Norristown.

Fedigan Hall has four men still

Continued on Page Nine

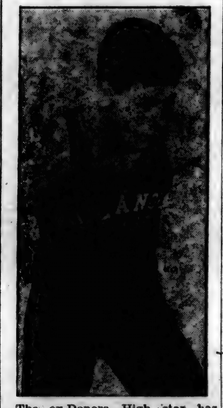
In the Limelight

In the limelight this week, is the outstanding sports figure of the Villanova campus, Tony Sala, leader of "Clipper" Smith's first edition of football Wildcats. Tony ranks in all respects with Villanova's greatest.

During his athlectic career on the Main Line, he has accomplished the enviable feat of being elected to the captaincy of two Wilcat sport aggregations. Last year, he led the boxing team through a very successful season. He showed the way to his mates in a manner befitting a captain by winning all his bouts.

It was not a surprise, therefore, when it was announced last Spring that Tony was selected to captain the boxers in this, his senior year.

Tony's 2nd captaincy and his greatest honor came when, at the conclusion of the 1935 grid campaign, the squad picked him as the man to guide Villanova's football destinies through the strenuous '36 schedule.



The ex-Donora High star has been signally honored by his dual captaincy, and he deserves every bit of it. He has shown that he has the qualities necessary for a team leader. Undoubtedly he will do another capable job in his present capacity and lead the Blue-and-White gridiron warriors through a very successful season.

Tony was born in Donora, Pennsylvania, January 14, 1914. Donora is a town of some 15,000 inhabitants situated in the soft coal regions of the Keystone State, just 30 miles south of Pittsburgh. From the surrounding region Villanova has recruited many athletes, including Marty Gerrez, Nick Kotys, Charlie Nowe, and others.

Not until his senior year in Donora High did Tony show the athletic ability that was destined to bring him east to Villanova. In his senior year, however, he went out for the football team, and immediately established himself as a star end.

His work on the high school gridiron attracted the attention of Marty Gezzer from the neighboring town of Charlerol. Marty at that time was a stellar center on the Villanova eleven. That was the start of Tony's trek to the Main Line Campus.

Marty Gezzer informed Bob Reagan, then assistant football coach, about Tony, and the result was that in the Fall of 1933 Anthony Sala enrolled at Villanova College.

Tony stepped into the athletic spotlight before his freaman year was half completed. He broke into the headlines not, as might be expected, through his prowess on the football field, but because of his ability in the boxing ring.

Boxing, as a sport was new to him, although he had knocked around in an informal way with three of his cousins, who were professional boxers. It was the annual intramural boxing tournament that gave Tony a chance. In the finals, he defeated Charlie Cox, who had quite a local reputation as a leather-pusher.

As a sophomore, Tony won himself the position of regular left end midway through the season and has held it since. When the moleskins were tucked away, he turned to boxing. Coach Joe Foley had just organized Villanova's first boxing team. Tony became the light-heavyweight representative.

To climax a highly successful campaign, during which he was undefeated, Tony travelled up to Penn State and won the Eastern Intercollegiate 175-lb. championship against the strongest opposition in the history of the tournament.

The following year he again held down left end on a great eleven. People who saw the Detroit game at Villanova last year will never forget his miraculous catch of a pass in the end zone in the last few seconds for the touchdown which meant victory to the tune of 13-7.

After another undefeated season in dual meets, Tony showed that he was a real champ by retaining his laurels as king of the Eastern Intercollegiate light heavies.

That is the impressive record compiled by Tony Sala during his first three years here. His fourth is bound to be equally as brilliant.

Realizing the calibre and spirit of the squad, Tony thought the chances for a good season are rather bright. He said: "If the gang has the spirit they had in the P. M. C. game, they should go pretty good."

When asked about P. M. C.'s surprise touchdown, Tony replied: "It made the boys realize they were in a football game. That touchdown was a Godsend. It was our awakening." Naturally the Temple game was discussed, and Tony was ready with an answer: "Temple is the big game. I believe in taking each game as it comes, and thinking about Temple when we come to it."

At the beginning of this, his last year of intercollegiate competition, we wish Tony the best of luck and another great season to rate with his past performances.

LOCALS PLAY FOR PENN

Bill Miller and Dom Polilli, two former Lower Merion High stars, played well as Penn trounced Lafayette 35-0 at Franklin Field on Saturday. Miller, a halfback, scored one of the Red and Blue touchdowns. Polilli performed at tackle.

Clipper Chats

By "Clipper" Smith

Wildcats Triumph In Close Battle

Continued From Page Seven

Villanova went into the dressing rooms at Shibe Park Sunday afternoon with a healthy respect for Gus Dorais and all he implied. I, because of intimate contact with him in days past, and the boys, because of knowledge gained by games against Detroit in the past five years. We left Shibe Park with the same respect undimmed. Dorais has a smart, fast ball club, and they are destined to go places this season.

The Titans have two crackerjack players in Piper and Hayes. Piper has all the qualities of a fine halfback, and Hayes—he's a the kind of boy called a "moneypasser." He passes with his left hand and he tosses them when and where they hurt. I'm really sorry he had the misfortune to break his shoulder, his loss will hurt Detroit.

Detroit's touchdown, as you will remember, came as the result of a pass from Hayes to Piper on a shift to the left. Piper cut off our own right tackle and received the toss almost in the flat zone, across the goal line. It wasn't the fault of our pass defense which allowed this pass to get by, but the failure of an individual to react quickly enough to prevent it and cover.

But that's enough about Detroit. Let's look over Villanova.

I was ,naturally, pleased we won. It was a signal triumph for us, to come through so well in our first front page test. I was particularly pleased with the hustle and zip which the team showed throughout the game. Stan Galazin, at center, exemplified Villanova's jinniger. He was the first out of the huddle on the ball, came up the scrimmage line on the hop, and to him, I give a lot of credit for keeping up the morale of the team to such a high degree.

I was disappointed with the execution of the pass defense which the boys showed. We used a combination defense, and on the whole, it clicked. However, I was often disappointed with certain slow reaction time on specific instances.

Our pass defense was in a continual stage of over tension. They were continually pressing, going after the ball with stiff fingers and rigid muscles. Our pass defenders had one particular fault. When Detroit passed, Villanova had the wrong attitude. We were on defense from the time the pass left the hand of the Detroit back until the play was over. Instead, we should have realized that really, we were on the offensive, because the ball was a free ball, in the air, and we were facing it, able to see exactly where it was going, and thus had much more of a chance to get to it than the Detroit receiver, who had to at once look over his shoulder and then concentrate on dodging defense, and finally get to the ball and catch the pass.

Our close line blocking was uniformly good. Down field, we had much room for improvement. Often, backs were almost loose, when a failure of a blocker would clear the path for a Titan tackler.

Our precision was much improved, our execution of plays was smoother, but our coveage on punts was weak. Open field blocking and tackling showed room for improvement, and our pass defenders need to be smartened up, to show more alertness.

Joe Missar played a steady game at guard all afternoon, and I was particularly pleased with our ends, Captain Tony Sala and George Fox, who played a bang-up game.

I'm sorry I couldn't run Franny Nye more at the quarterback position, as I have a high regard for him as a football player, but I was a bit leery on his punt receiving. One fumble on a punt, and those Titan ends would have smothered the ball and then it would be all over.

Harvey Buek was not used more because Stopper was playing a good all-around game, and I relied on his excellent punting to get us out of some hot spots. He averaged 41 yards for the game. Buek will see plenty more action, however, as he is a fine ball carrier and has blocking ability.

Felines Prep For Penn State Tilt

Continued From Page Seven

other rung in the ladder of football fame.

After several years of mediocre teams, State is again beginning to put out A-1 elevens; consequently, slowly but surely climbing back to the once proud place she occupied in Eastern Football.

State's losses by graduation were comparitively few last June. Six varsity regulars have returned; and the valuable reinforcements from last year's freshmen squad makes the team stronger than a season ago. From the frosh team, coach Bob Higgins has imported Harry Denise, and John Patrick, three fleetfooted ball carriers; Dean Hanley, a tackle; and Sever Toretti, a center. Toretti, however, may also be used at guard.

The Wildcats will probably start the same team that started against Detroit. Bob Buckley, a sophomore who has been promoted from third to second-string halfback, will surely see a great deal of action. Art Raimo and Jack Earle will divide the fullback duties; while Galazin and McKenna will share the burden at the pivot position.

DeMarina and Hanley are the tackles. The former is a veteran and rated among the best; while the latter is a 200-pound sophomore. Schuyler and Peel may also see action at this post.

Coach Higgins, himself one of the greatest ends Penn State put out, is rather weak at the flanks. Sharing the burden at this position are Smith, Barantovich, Waugaman, and Palmer.

The starting backfield will most likely consist of Silvano at fullback, Wear and Patrick at half, and Denise at quarter. Tom Silvano is a veteran and packs a heavy punch. Patrick and Denise are sopomores who seem destined for big things; while Wear is the diminutive back who made it pretty hot for the 'Cats last year. He scales only 142 pounds. Harrison, another sophomore, is sure to see plenty of action at one of the halfback posts. Donato, O'Hora, Kominic, and Metro are the other backfield men.

To date State has played one contest; with the Muhlenberg Mules. The Mules did not have much kick, for the Lions roared their way to a 45-0 victory. Muhlenburg had previously beaten a supposedly very strong Lafayette eleven. There is not much danger, therefore, of the 'Cats going into this game overconfident. They know they have a tough customer on their hands and will be prepared for any eventuality.

Villanova	Positions	Detroit
Sala	Left end	Larson
Rogers	Left tackle	Crotty
Missar	Left guard	Kondraski
Galazin	Center	Cooper
Rizzo	Right guard	Schroeter
Olivar	Right tackle	Cieslak
Fox	Right end	Boglarsky
Christopher	Quarterback	Ivory
Stopper	Left halfback	Piper
Stovlak	Right halfback	Farkas
Raimo	Fullback	Wieczorek

Score by periods:

Villanova	0	6	7	0	—13
Detroit	0	0	0	6	—6

Touchdowns — Villanova: Raimo, Fox; Detroit: Piper. Point after touchdown — Villanova; Christopher (placement).

Referee—W. H. Friesell, Princeton. Umpire—T. J. Thorp, Columbia. Head linesman—J. G. Crowley, Muhlenberg. Field judge—E. E. Miller, Penn State. Time of periods — 15 minutes.

Tennis Tournament Opens Mural Season

Continued From Page Eight

in the running; the Melian Brothers Frankie Megaro, and Phil Kramer. Megaro is expected to last until the finals when he will make his presence felt with his fiery competition. Representing the Mendel Day-Hops are Dunne and McLoughlin who are both dark horses.

New Jersey has a contender in the personage of Frank Connors from Alumni Hall. Advanced notices have mentioned his as being worth watching.

It is the intention of Father McKee to prolong this tournament as long as possible due to the fact that football is not included on the Intra-Mural program. Lack of interest is given as the reason for omitting this sport from Intra-Mural competition.

STUMBLING BLOCKS

According to Bill Cerney, Notre Dame second squad coach a new name has been given to the type of blocks performed by aspirants for the reserve team. Cerney calls them "stumbling blocks."

G. W. Caldwallader
Paints, Glass and Painter's Supplies
BUILDERS' SPECIALTIES
6101 MARKET ST.
Philadelphia
Phone SHErwood 1423

Here and There

By WILLIAM J. BOWKER

With the passing of summer and the coming of fall we find that many events have taken place. "Clipper" Smith's becoming the head coach of the Wildcats being the most important from the Villanova viewpoint . . . Welcome Clipper . . . And also welcome to Vince McNally, a swell line coach . . . Of further interest to the Wildcats adherents is the fact that Eddie Michales showed up to good advantage in the N. Y. Giants-All-Stars game . . . And his playing against the Philly Eagles and other National Pro League teams as a Chicoga Bear regular.

While we're on the subject of recent graduates we can mention several "V" men seen about the campus the last few days or so. Among them were Artie Mahan, signed with the Boston Red Sox, Eddie Vaughan and Benny Geraghtly in Ben's big, luxurious, black Packard convertible sedan, and Mike O'Meara, former court luminary. . . . John Di Joseph, ex-Editor-in-Chief of the VILLANOVAN was at the P. M. C. game, as was Larry Reilly, last year's intermural executive . . . The coal regions have a new football theorist in George "Roosh" Wrona, Villanova '36 . . . He's assistant coach at Kulpmont High . . . But enough of alumni.

Cheering at the games seems greatly increased in volume since the enrollment of a large Freshman class . . . Good as they are in cheering, however, the Frosh are not so hot in saying "Hello" . . . They either are so bashful as to be afraid to greet the upperclassmen or too egotistical to consider lowering themselves to salute Seniors, Juniors or Sophomores . . . The problem is one of the V. C.'s to solve. . . .

Among the new faces in the coaching positions about the school is that of Dick Emmerling and Mike Garbark, who has taken up the reins dropped by Charlie Cox as mentors of the "dollar-and-a-half" lads. (Ink pounders, Frosh.) . . . Some of the '35 squad ate too much during the summer and are now overweight by about fifteen or twenty pounds . . . However, a few of them are going to try and squeeze down beneath the limit . . . Ted Goumy, the Waterbury flash, has assumed the duties of assistant manager of the lightweights. . .

The statement that figures don't lie was severely tested during the recent Olympic games. According to the Germans, the Fatherland returned triumphant over the rest of the world, leading America by some 151 points. The Nazi newspapers had the Sons of Hitler winning even the track, where Uncle Sam's boys amassed 203 counters to Naziland's 60 3-4. As a large number of the track marks were snared by Jesse Owens, Archie Williams, et. al., the sports writers and statisticians of Deutschland declared the Cocoa Comets, Africans, and so America was not victorious on the track. . . Many things can be done with numbers.

Fedigan Hall is already claiming intermural crowns in all sports, stating that the majority of best men from Mendel Hall have taken up their residence in Gigolo Hall . . . Some of Alumni's stars also became Gigolos . . . Fediganites predict a sad season for Austin Hall.

Talking of coincidences, the first time Harvey Buek took the ball in a Varsity game he went for a touchdown, which happened the first time he carried the ball in Spring training.

One of the few unsportsmanlike things to be found at Villanova—in fact we would go so far as to say the only unsportsmanlike thing to be found in Villanova—is the "chiseling-in" on the line waiting for food during breakfast hours after Mass.

GET YOUR COLLEGE RING

Bearing Official Seal

Certified $2.00 Value only 25c with the purchase of a bottle of

Parker Quink

at 15c—Total 40c . . . YOU SAVE $1.75

This amazing offer is made solely to introduce Parker Quink—the miracle ink that cleans your pen as it writes, and dries ON PAPER 31% faster than pen-clogging inks.

Get Quink today from any store selling ink. Tear off the box-top and on the back write the FULL NAME of your school or college, ring SIZE, and style wanted (man's or woman's), and your name and address. Mail box-top with 25 cents in coin to The Parker Pen Co., Dept. 737, Janesville, Wis. Don't delay. This offer ends Dec. 31, 1936, if supply lasts.

COLADONATO
TAILOR SHOPPE
College Tailor Since 1925
Handles anything that can be cleaned, dyed or repaired. It is not how cheap, but how good.
SUITS DRY CLEANED and PRESSED ..... 75¢
SUITS PRESSED ..... 35¢
Real Tailored Suits Made to Order
-:- All Prices -:-
See Campus Representative
"POP" SHEALEY
235 Austin Hall

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florist
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

SLAVIN'S
Sporting Goods Store
39 East Lancaster Avenue
ARDMORE
Phone Ardmore 607
33 1-3% Discount on all athletic equipment to Villanova Students.

5¢
SPECIAL SCHOOL TICKETS can be used by COLLEGE STUDENTS
on LANCASTER PIKE buses
TO
WAYNE, BRYN MAWR, HAVERFORD,
ARDMORE, NARBERTH, CYNWYD, GLADWYNE
WYNNEWOOD, OVERBROOK, PHILADELPHIA
And Intermediate Points
Tickets for Sale in the
VILLANOVA BOOK STORE in MENDEL HALL
ARONIMINK TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

AL. SEVERANCE NEW BASKETBALL COACH

Veteran Frosh Mentor Takes Over Reins of Varsity Quintet

Among the changes in the coaching line-up at Villanova college, is the appointment of Alexander G. Severance to the post of Varsity Basketball mentor. He succeeds George "Doc" Jacobs.

Outstanding success in coaching recent freshmen quintets prompted the promotion.In the past two years, the Main Line youngsters dropped only two contests, both to the Temple Owlets in the Spring of 1935. Revenge was gained last year however, with two exciting conquests of the Mitten Hallers.

In an effort to make the Wildcat rooters forget the past season, the new leader has already started the varsity squad practicing, having commenced Monday, October 5, 1936. The material at hand contains a number of graduates from last year's successful frosh quintet, as well as the hold-overs from the varsity. Only four places were vacanted because of graduation. Benny Geraghty, Tommy Ryan, Jack Robinson, and Mike O'Meara will cavort no more on the Main Line court.

Left over from "Doc" Jacobs last club are Charlie Noonan, Don Joe Carrig, Art Vigilante and Jim Montgomery are among the outstanding remainders of the '35-'36 Kitten aggregation, and with these men a fine team will be molded.

A comprehensive schedule has been arranged, and the boys will have their work cut out for them if a successful season is expected. Included in the list of opponents are tentative games with New York University and the University of Indiana.

Future Opponents Show Great Power

Continued From Page Seven

feated looked strong. A losing to the Blue Devils of Duke by three touchdowns is certainly no disgrace.

Bucknell raised the curtain on its '36 season last Friday night with a 20-0 victory over Lebanon Valley. Bucknell is perennially strong, and this season is no exception.

Manhatten's Jaspers also rang in the new season with a triumph, handing Nigara a crushing 34-6 defeat.

Temple faced its first big test last week-end, when the Owls stacked up against the heavy Mississippi eleven and finished on the right end of a 12-7 count. In this game, which Temple won in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter, the Cherry and Wine showed a wealth of good reserve material and a real fighting spirit.

Gets New Post

AL SEVERANCE

'Cats Meow

Greetings Mr. Copy Editor (you ARE the only one that does read this column, aren't you?). It's good to be back at a football game; especially a Villanova-Detroit affair.

—V—

Maybe I'm not sore at the announcer for telling everybody that hizzoner Mayor Davis S. Wilson and his retinue were at the game. I wanted to surprise my readers with the fact that I noticed he was present.

—V—

We had just about forgotten Nott and Storrie when along pops Gus Dorais with another passing act This time the performers were Piper and Payne.

—V—

The payoff was when two kids of about the age of ten tried to get into the press box. One had a "working press" ticket, while the other was supposed to be a photographer.

—V—

When the announcement came through the amplifiers that the Yanks had won by the score of 5 to 2, the fans applauded. I wonder whether they were Yankee rooters or whether they were Giant followers, giving them a hand for keeping down the score.

—V—

The Detroit Titans had a Payne in their backfield; but so did the Wildcat pass defense.

—V—

Who says Eddie Michaels isn't missed? Why them Detroiters got up after they were hit.

Six Varsity Men Lost Via Diploma; Replacements Show Lots of Ability

Villanova started its 1936 football campaign minus the ability of a sextet of men whose names will live forever in the annals of Villanova football history. Namely they are Eddie Michaels, who captained the Wildcats to a successful season last year, was an All-American in 1935, and is now rendering his services to the Chicago Bears.

The taces of Nick Kotys, Johnny Higgins, and George Wrona will not appear in the 'Cat backfield this year because this trio sang their swan song in the Temple game of 1935. In addition to Eddie Michaels, there are two other linemen who graduate in June, Milan Vidnovic, a heads up player at guard position, and Walt Korchinski, who turned in a successful season at left end last year.

The guard-playing of Michaels and Vidnovic will be greatly missed this season; but Val Rizzo, Joe Missar, Mat Kuber, and Mike Hanna are showing plenty of fight and what they lack in experience is made up in their will to win and their desire to fill the shoes of two men, both of whom played willingly and faithfully for the Wildcats.

At the tackle positions, Bill Rogers, John Mellus, Pat Marquette, Jordon Olivari, all of whom saw action last year will be in there fulfilling their duties as typical Villanova football men. Bunny Calzin and Johnny McKenna, who alternated at the center position last year, will both appear in the Villanova lineup and are destined to see plenty of action again this year.

At the wing positions the 'Cats have Tony Sala and George Fox. Both of these men graduate this year. Alex Bell, a Junior, and John Wysocki a sophomore will be ready to take up the duties of these two seniors next season.

Bell and Wysocki have shown so much promise in practice and in the P. M. C. game that they will no doubt get in many of the ball games this fall. Not much more can be said about the playing ability of Sala and Fox because this fact they demonstrated on the gridiron last season.

Bill Christopher will still be calling signals for the Wildcats this season and he proved convincingly he is a good field general by his leadership in the Detroit game at home and in the Temple game. "Franny" Nye who turned in a good season at right half-back last year will be in a new role this Fall, inasmuch as he was shifted to quarterback. "Franny" did a good job in the P. M. C. game at quarter and we're hoping to see him carry on the good work in future games.

Spectators will see at L. H. B. a lad who understudied Nick Kotys last season and yet saw enough action to show that he, Andy Stopper was a lover of the game of football. Harvey Buek is understudying Stopper and as a result of his doings in the P. M. C. game it appears that Harvey will make

Continued on Page Ten

150'S SCRIMMAGE MALVERN THIS WEEK

Emmerling and Garbark Start Drills For Lightweight Team

Villanova's one hundred and fifty pound football team began practice under head coach Dick Emmerling and assistant coach Mike Garbark last Thursday on Mendel Field. Practice was scheduled to start earlier in the week, but was postponed because of rain.

Although forty candidates signed up for the lightweight team, only about twenty-five or thirty have turned out for the practices. This is due to some having labs in the afternoons.

Many members of last year's squad have returned to the team. Among the veterans from last seasons line, are Captain Larry Stead, Joe Alessandroni, Bill Dinges, Joe Fedrowicz, Jim McAndrew, "the flash of Locust Gap," Charlie O'Connor, Ed Quinn, Irv Uram, Bill Corkill, Tom O'Brien and Andy Conti.

In the backfield Coach Emmerling has Paul Kerrigan, Lou Biester, George Oesterle, Jim Cousart, and Jimmie Lyons.

A wealth of material has shown itself in the sophomore candidates. Some of them have played in high school and their experience should stand them in good stead.

Among the newcomers to the squad are: Tommy Carbine, Frank Capalleri, John Costello, Ray Cutler, Bob Daniello, M. Dougherty, Ralph Edwards, Jim Kiely, Larry Knaphle, Jim McEvilly, Harold Murphy, Joe O'Loughlin, Joe Pagano, Frank Reale, Joe Soviero, Fred Waters, Carl Panteleo, Bill Durkin, and Stan Bobrowski.

Many veterans were lost from last year's squad. Captain Frank Rodgers, Charlie Kane, and Dan Murphy graduated. Art Carlton, and Jack Geraghty will not be able to play being unable to make the weight. Others, among them Bus O'Connor, Joe Bittenmuiler, and Mario Menocal, find it difficult to get time to play, because of their studies.

Coaches Emmerling and Garbark put the squad throug light drills last week, but got down to serious work yesterday. A scrimmage has been arranged with the Malvern Prep the latter part of this week.

The Kittens will open their schedule on the week-end of the seventeenth with Rutgers, who have been eastern intercollegiate champions for the last four years. Their second game is with Princeton University, last season's runners-up. Both opening games will be played on the home field.

The week-end of the thirty-first of October, the light-weights will travel up to New Haven to play old Eli. They then travel down to Franklin Field to play the Little Quakers, and wind up the season with Lafayette on the home field.

TENNIS TOURNEY WELL UNDER WAY

Jim Dywer Ineligible For Competition; Mendel Dayhops Dark Horses

Under the able direction of Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., the current Intra-Mural program was begun two weeks ago with the Tennis Torney.

Individual champions of the various halls, as well as the College champion, will be decided in matches to be played on the College courts.

Last year's winner, Jim Dwyer, who represented Alumni Hall is ineligible to compete this year because he is now a member of the Varsity Tennis Team.

In Austin Hall, Ben Maloney, Maurice McDonnell, Witold Krzywicki and Charlie Higgins are still contending for the honor or representing their hall in the championships. Maloney, the runner-up in the finals of last year's tournament, is seeded number one. His closets rival at the present time is McDonnell, former Catholic U. star who played number one last year.

Walbach, a Day-Hop in the School of Commerce and Finance, has shown good form in his matches so far. He has gained his experience in amateur competition in and about Norristown.

Fedigan Hall has four men still

Continued on Page Nine

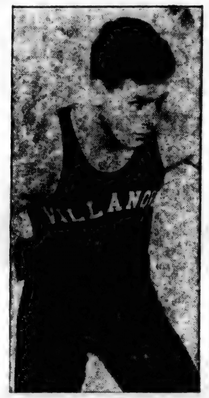
In the Limelight

In the limelight this week, is the outstanding sports figure of the Villanova campus, Tony Sala, leader of "Clipper" Smith's first edition of football Wildcats. Tony ranks in all respects with Villanava's greatest.

During his athlectic career on the Main Line, he has accomplished the enviable feat of being elected to the captaincy of two Wilcat sport aggregations. Last year, he led the boxing team through a very successful season. He showed the way to his mates in a manner befitting a captain by winning all his bouts.

It was not a surprise, therefore, when it was announced last Spring that Tony was selected to captain the boxers in this, his senior year.

Tony's 2nd captaincy and his greatest honor came when, at the conclusion of the 1935 grid campaign, the squad picked him as the man to guide Villanova's football destinies through the strenuous '36 schedule.



The ex-Donora High star has been signally honored by his dual captaincy, and he deserves every bit of it. He has shown that he has the qualities necessary for a team leader. Undoubtedly he will do another capable job in his present capacity and lead the Blue-and-White gridiron warriors through a very successful season.

Tony was born in Donora, Pennsylvania, January 14, 1914. Donora is a town of some 15,000 inhabitants situated in the soft coal regions of the Keystone State, just 30 miles south of Pittsburgh. From the surrounding region Villanova has recruited many athletes, including Marty Gerrez, Nick Kolys, Charlie Nowe, and others.

Not until his senior year in Donora High did Tony show the athletic ability that was destined to bring him east to Villanova. In his senior year, however, he went out for the football team, and immediately established himself as a star end.

His work on the high school gridiron attracted the attention of Marty Gezzer from the neighboring town of Charlerol. Marty at that time was a stellar center on the Villanova eleven. That was the start of Tony's trek to the Main Line Campus.

Marty Gezzer informed Bob Reagan, then assistant football coach, about Tony, and the result was that in the Fall of 1933 Anthony Sala enrolled at Villanova College.

Tony stepped into the athletic spotlight before his fresman year was half completed. He broke into the headlines not, as might be expected, through his prowess on the football field, but because of his ability in the boxing ring.

Boxing, as a sport was new to him, although he had knocked around in an informal way with three of his cousins, who were professional boxers. It was the annual intramural boxing tournament that gave Tony a chance. In the finals, he defeated Charlie Cox, who had quite a local reputation as a leather-pusher.

As a sophomore, Tony won himself the position of regular left end midway through the season and has held it since. When the moleskins were tucked away, he turned to boxing. Coach Joe Foley had just organized Villanova's first boxing team. Tony became the light-heavyweight representative.

To climax a highly successful campaign, during which he was undefeated, Tony travelled up to Penn State and won the Eastern Intercollegiate 175-lb. championship against the strongest opposition in the history of the tournament.

The following year he again held down left end on a great eleven. People who saw the Detroit game at Villanova last year will never forget his miraculous catch of a pass in the end zone in the last few seconds for the touchdown which meant victory to the tune of 13-7.

After another undefeated season in dual meets, Tony showed that he was a real champ by retaining his laurels as king of the Eastern Intercollegiate light heavies.

That is the impressive record compiled by Tony Sala during his first three years here. His fourth is bound to be equally as brilliant.

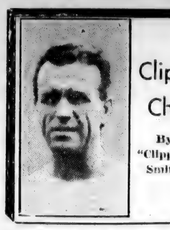
Realizing the calibre and spirit of the squad, Tony thought the chances for a good season are rather bright. He said: "If the gang has the spirit they had in the P. M. C. game, they should go pretty good."

When asked about P. M. C.'s surprise touchdown, Tony replied: "It made the boys realize they were in a football game. That touchdown was a Godsend. It was our awakening." Naturally the Temple game was discussed, and Tony was ready with an answer: "Temple is the big game. I believe in taking each game as it comes, and thinking about Temple when we come to it."

At the beginning of this, his last year of intercollegiate competition, we wish Tony the best of luck and another great season to rate with his past performances.

LOCALS PLAY FOR PENN

Bill Miller and Dom Polilli, two former Lower Merion High stars, played well as Penn trounced Lafayette 35-0 at Franklin Field on Saturday. Miller, a halfback, scored one of the Red and Blue touchdowns. Polilli performed at tackle.



Clipper Chats

By "Clipper" Smith

Villanova went into the dressing rooms at Shibe Park Sunday afternoon with a healthy respect for Gus Dorais and all he implied. I, because of intimate contact with him in days past, and the boys, because of knowledge gained by games against Detroit in the past five years. We left Shibe Park with the same respect undimmed. Dorais has a smart, fast ball club, and they are destined to go places this season.

The Titans have two crackerjack players in Piper and Hayes. Piper has all the qualities of a fine halfback, and Hayes—he's the kind of boy called a "moneypasser." He passes with his left hand and he tosses them when and where they hurt. I'm really sorry he had the misfortune to break his shoulder, his loss will hurt Detroit.

Detroit's touchdown, as you will remember, came as the result of a pass from Hayes to Piper on a shift to the left. Piper cut off our own right tackle and received the toss almost in the flat zone, across the goal line. It wasn't the fault of our pass defense which allowed this pass to get by, but the failure of an individual to react quickly enough to prevent it and cover.

But that's enough about Detroit. Let's look over Villanova.

I was ,naturally, pleased we won. It was a signal triumph for us, to come through so well in our first front page test. I was particularly pleased with the hustle and zip which the team showed throughout the game. Stan Galazin, at center, exemplified Villanova's jinniger. He was the first out of the huddle on the ball, came up the scrimmage line on the hop, and to him, I give a lot of credit for keeping up the morale of the team to such a high degree.

I was disappointed with the exaution of the pass defense which the boys showed. We used a combination defense, and on the whole, it clicked. However, I was often disappointed with certain slow reaction time on specific instances.

Our pass defense was in a continual stage of over tension. They were continually pressing, going after the ball with stiff fingers and rigid muscles. Our pass defenders had one particular fault. When Detroit passed, Villanova had the wrong attitude. We were on defense from the time the pass left the hand of the Detroit back until the play was over. Instead, we should have realized that really, we were on the offensive, because the ball was a free ball, in the air, and we were facing it, able to see exactly where it was going, and thus had much more of a chance to get to it than the Detroit receiver, who had to at once look over his shoulder and then concentrate on dodging defense, and finally get to the ball and catch the pass.

Our close line blocking was uniformly good. Down field, we had much room for improvement. Often, backs were almost loose, when a failure of a blocker would clear the path for a Titan tackler.

Our precision was much improved, our execution of plays was smoother, but our coveage on punts was weak. Open field blocking and tackling showed room for improvement, and our pass defenders need to be smartened up, to show more alertness.

Joe Missar played a steady game at guard all afternoon, and I was particularly pleased with our ends, Captain Tony Sala and George Fox, who played a bang-up game.

I'm sorry I couldn't run Franny Nye more at the quarterback position, as I have a high regard for him as a football player, but I was a bit leery on his punt receiving. One fumble on a punt, and those Titan ends would have smothered the ball and then it would be all over.

Harvey Buek was not used more because Stopper was playing a good all-around game, and I relied on his excellent punting to get us out of some hot spots. He averaged 41 yards for the game. Buek will see plenty more action, however, as he is a fine ball carrier and has blocking ability.

Wildcats Triumph In Close Battle

Continued From Page Seven

minding the fans of All-American Eddie Michaels, Missar, a big, blond boy played most of the game in the Detroit backfield and was at the bottom of every pile-up.

With the ball in Villanova's possession, the 'Cats again started a determined march up the field. A completed pass, Christopher to Raimo, put the ball on the Titans 15-yard line and after a couple of plays another pass from Stopper to Fox was completed. After catching the ball Fox stepped into the end zone for the second Villanova tally.

Christopher tried the extra point and converted.

Detroit scored their only six-pointer on a pass from Roger Haves to Piper. Their advantage came after a fumble by Raimo in Villanova territory. Crashing through the line for a five yard gain Raimo was unfortunate in having the spheroid slip from his hands. When the resulting pile up was untangled a Donaisman was in possession of the ball.

After a succession of line plays, the pass was completed and Piper took the ball in the end zone clear of Villanova players. Frank Kondraski failed to convert the extra point.

Andy Stopper, sensational Wildcat half-back took the kickoff on his own ten yard line and snaking his way through the Detroit team carried the ball to the Detroit 37 yard line before he was brought down by Piper playing safety for the Titans.

With three minutes remaining the Detroit team finally uncorked their renowned passing attack. A fifty yard pass from Piper to Payne that was completed on the Villanova 33 yard line had the Villanova rooters on their feet. Payne caught the pass as he stumbled and fell. If he had gotten it on the run a far different score would have resulted as the Detroiter was in the clear.

A few minutes later Stovias intercepted a Titan pass and the game ended much to the relief of the Villanova rooters. The final score stood Villanova 13, Detroit 6.

Villanova	Positions	Detroit
Sala	Left end	Larson
Rogers	Left tackle	Crotty
Missar	Left guard	Kondraski
Galazin	Center	Cooper
Rizzo	Right guard	Schroeder
Olivar	Right tackle	Cieslak
Fox	Right end	Boglarsky
Christopher	Quarterback	Ivory
Stopper	Left halfback	Piper
Stoviak	Right halfback	Farkas
Raimo	Fullback	Wieczorek

Score by periods:

Villanova	0	6	7	0	—13
Detroit	0	0	0	6	—6

Touchdowns — Villanova: Raimo, Fox; Detroit: Piper. Point after touchdown — Villanova; Christopher (placement); Detroit.

Referee—W. H. Friesell, Princeton. Umpire—T. J. Thorp, Columbia. Head linesman—J. G. Crowley, Muhlenberg. Field judge—E. E. Miller, Penn State. Time of periods — 15 minutes.

Tennis Tournament Opens Mural Season

Continued From Page Eight

In the running: the Melian Brothers Frankie Megaro, and Phil Kramer. Megaro is expected to last until the finals when he will make his presence felt with his fiery competition. Representing the Mendel Day-Hops are Dunne and McLoughlin who are both dark horses.

New Jersey has a contender in the personage of Frank Connors from Alumni Hall. Advanced notices have mentioned his as being worth watching.

It is the intention of Father McKee to prolong this tournament as long as possible due to the fact that football is not included on the Intra-Mural program. Lack of interest is given as the reason for omitting this sport from Intra-Mural competition.

STUMBLING BLOCKS

According to Bill Cerney, Notre Dame second squad coach a new name has been given to the type of blocks performed by aspirants for the reserve team. Cerney calls them "stumbling blocks."

C. W. Caldwallader
Paints, Glass and Painter's Supplies
BUILDERS' SPECIALTIES
6101 MARKET ST.
Philadelphia
Phone SHErwood 1423

Felines Prep For Penn State Tilt

Continued From Page Seven

other rung in the ladder of football fame.

After several years of mediocre teams, State is again beginning to put out A-1 elevens; consequently, slowly but surely climbing back to the once proud place she occupied in Eastern Football.

State's losses by graduation were comparitively few last June. Six varsity regulars have returned; and the valuable reinforcements from last year's freshmen squad makes the team stronger than a season ago. From the frosh team, coach Bob Higgins has imported HarryHarrison. Bill Denise, and John Patrcn, three fleetfooted ball carriers; Dean Hanley, a tackle; and Sever Toretti, a center. Toretti, however, may also be used at guard.

The Wildcats will probably start the same team that started against Detroit. Bob Buckley, a sophomore who has been promoted from third to second-string halfback, will surely see a great deal of action. Art Raimo and Jack Earle will divide the fullback duties; while Galazin and McKenna will share the burden at the pivot position.

DeMarina and Hanley are the tackles. The former is a veteran and rated among the best; while the latter is a 200-pound sophomore. Schuyler and Peel may also see action at this post.

Coach Higgins, himself one of the greatest ends Penn State put out, is rather weak at the flanks. Sharing the burden at this position are Smith, Barantovich, Waugaman, and Palmer.

The starting backfield will most likely consist of Silvano at fullback, Wear and Patrick at half, and Denise at quarter. Tom Silvano is a veteran and packs a heavy punch. Patrick and Denise are sopomores who seem destined for big things; while Wear is the diminutive back who made it pretty hot for the 'Cats last year. He scales only 142 pounds. Harrison, another sophomore, is sure to see plenty of action at one of the halfback posts. Donato, O'Hora, Kominic, and Metro are the other backfield men.

To date State has played one contest; with the Muhlenberg Mules. The Mules did not have much kick, for the Lions roared their way to a 45-0 victory. Muhlenburg had previously beaten a supposedly very strong Lafayette eleven. There is not much danger, therefore, of the 'Cats going into this game overconfident. They know they have a tough customer on their hands and will be prepared for any eventuality.

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florist
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

SLAVIN'S
Sporting Goods Store
39 East Lancaster Avenue
ARDMORE
Phone Ardmore 607
33 1-3% Discount on all athletic equipment to Villanova Students.

Here and There

By WILLIAM J. BOWKER

With the passing of summer and the coming of fall we find that many events have taken place. "Clipper" Smith's becoming the head coach of the Wildcats being the most important from the Villanova viewpoint . . . Welcome Clipper . . . And also welcome to Vince McNally, a swell line coach . . . Of further interest to the Wildcats adherents is the fact that Eddie Michales showed up to good advantage in the N. Y. Giants-All-Stars game . . . And his playing against the Philly Eagles and other National Pro League teams as a Chicoga Bear regular.

While we're on the subject of recent graduates we can mention several "V" men seen about the campus the last few days or so. Among them were Artie Mahan, signed with the Boston Red Sox, Eddie Vaughan and Benny Geraghty in Ben's big, luxurious, black Packard convertible sedan, and Mike O'Meara, former court luminary. . . . John Di Joseph, ex-Editor-in-Chief of the VILLANOVAN was at the P. M. C. game, as was Larry Reilly, last year's intermural executive . . . The coal regions have a new football theorist in George "Rooch" Wrona, Villanova '36 . . . He's assistant coach at Kulpmont High . . . But enough of alumni.

Cheering at the games seems greatly increased in volume since the enrollment of a large Freshman class . . . Good as they are in cheering, however, the Frosh are not so hot in saying "Hello" . . They either are so bashful as to be afraid to greet the upperclassmen or too egotistical to consider lowering themselves to salute Seniors, Juniors or Sophomores . . . The problem is one for the V. C.'s to solve. . . .

Among the new faces in the coaching positions about the school is that of Dick Emmerling and Mike Garbark, who has taken up the reins dropped by Charlie Cox as mentors of the "dollar-and-a-half" lads. (150 pounders, Frosh.) . . . Some of the 35 squad ate too much during the summer and are now overweight by about fifteen or twenty pounds . . . However, a few of them are going to try and squeeze down beneath the limit . . . Ted Goumy, the Waterbury flash, has assumed the duties of assistant manager of the lightweights. . .

The statement that figures don't lie was severely tested during the recent Olympic games. According to the Germans, the Fatherland returned triumphant over the rest of the world, leading America by some 151 points. The Nazi newspapers had the Sons of Hitler winning even the track, where Uncle Sam's boys amassed 203 counters to Naziland's 69 3-4. As a large number of the track marks were snared by Jesse Owens, Archie Williams, et. al., the sports writers and statisticians of Deutschland declared the Cocoa Comets, Africans, and so America was not victorious on the track. . . Many things can be done with numbers.

Fedigan Hall is already claiming intermural crowns in all sports, stating that the majority of best men from Mendel Hall have taken up their residence in Gigolo Hall . . . Some of Alumni's stars also became Gigolos . . . Fedigantes predict a sad season for Austin Hall.

Talking of coincidences, the first time Harvey Buek took the ball in a Varsity game he went for a touchdown, which happened the first time he carried the ball in Spring training.

One of the few unsportsmanlike things to be found at Villanova—in fact we would go so far as to say the only unsportsmanlike thing to be found in Villanova—is the "chiseling-in" on the line waiting for food during breakfast hours after Mass.

COLADONATO
TAILOR SHOPPE
College Tailor Since 1925
Handles anything that can be cleaned, dyed or repaired. It is not how cheap, but how good.
SUITS DRY CLEANED and PRESSED ..... 75¢
SUITS PRESSED ..... 35¢
Real Tailored Suits Made to Order
-:- All Prices -:-
See Campus Representative
"POP" SHEALEY
235 Austin Hall

GET YOUR COLLEGE RING
Bearing Official Seal
Certified $2.00 Value only 25¢ with the purchase of a bottle of
Parker Quink
at 15c—Total 40c . . . YOU SAVE $1.75
This amazing offer is made solely to introduce Parker Quink—the miracle ink that cleans your pen as it writes, and dries ON PAPER 31% faster than pen-clogging inks.
Get Quink today from any store selling ink. Tear off the box-top and on the back write the FULL NAME of your school or college, ring SIZE, and style wanted (man's or woman's), and your name and address. Mail box-top with 25 cents in coin to The Parker Pen Co., Dept. 737, Janesville, Wis. Don't delay. This offer ends Dec. 31, 1936, if supply lasts.

5¢
SPECIAL SCHOOL TICKETS
can be used by COLLEGE STUDENTS
on LANCASTER PIKE buses
TO
WAYNE, BRYN MAWR, HAVERFORD,
ARDMORE, NARBERTH, CYNWYD, GLADWYNE
WYNNEWOOD, OVERBROOK, PHILADELPHIA
And Intermediate Points
Tickets for Sale in the
VILLANOVA BOOK STORE in MENDEL HALL
ARONIMINK TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

Clipper Smith in Coach's Position

Continued From Page Three

Smith were teammates under Knute Rockne. By 1928, four years after he entered Gonzaga, the Clipper packed up his bags and set sail for Santa Clara.

As was the case with the two previous assignments, this Jesuit school had not been heard of much in the way of football. Under "Clipper" Smith the Broncos began to throw their riders, the first outstanding event being their sensational victory over Pop Warner's tough Stanford Indians.

Pop Worner was not the only one to find the lads from the Santa Clara Valley more food than could be easily digested. California's Golden Bears fell to the Broncs in two successive years. From this time on Santa Clara became a name of national importance in football. Ties with St. Mary's and Stanford did nothing to lessen this prestige.

This brings us to the 1936 season, where we now find the "Clipper" settling down on the Main Line, filling the shoes of a fellow alumnus of Notre Dame, none other than Harry Stuhldreher.

It is with an imposing record that the "Clipper" assumes the duties left by his predecessor. And the starting victory over P. M. C. shows that he has not lost his winning touch.

Up to this point, only the record of Villanova's new coach has been considered. The man himself is often referred to as the coach whose style comes closest to being that of the "old master" Knute Rockne. He resembles the great Rockne in as much as he speaks sharply, but never offensively.

Those who have heard him at rallies and on the radio know full well his capabilities as a speaker and narrator of interesting tales.

PINELLI AT NOTRE DAME

Roy Pinelli, son of the famous national league umpire, "Babe" Pinelli is a freshman football candidate at Notre Dame, so is "General" Phil Sheridan, who hopes to make Irish followers forget about William Shakespeare. The Irish frosh work under Shakespeare, Wally Fromhart, all-Western quarterback; Bill Smith, 1936 captain who resigned because of illness; Hank Pojman, 1936 varsity center, and Head Coach Jake Kline.

LUCKY STRIKE SWEEPSTAKES

Last week Villanova was invaded by four employes of the Lucky Strike cigarette manufacturers. The purpose of the visit was to acquaint the students with the "Lucky Strike Sweepstakes," which is currently being run by the American Tobacco Company. Winners, who name the three leading songs of the week, receive a tin of 50 Lucky Strikes.

Graduation Breaks Holes in 'Cat Line

Continued From Page Eight

things plenty hot for the remaining teams on the 'Cat's schedule. At right half Ray Stoviak is still playing the same brand of good football he did last year and Ray looks as if he is ready for a big year with Villanova this season.

At fullback position the familiar faces of Art Raimo and Jack Earle will once more appear. Both boys turned in very good seasons last year, inasmuch as blocking, tackling and and carrying the ball was concerned. Earle did'nt make an appearance 'til late in the season, as a result of an ankle injury, but nevertheless proved himself to be worthy enough to see action in ball games. Dick Foley is back in school again and he is ready to answer the varsity call anytime his services as a fullback are needed.

All in all, even though the "Cats" have two new mentors in the persons of "Clipper" Smith and Vince McNally the Wildcats showed in their victory over a much stronger Cadet team than last season's, that they will be just as tough if not tougher than they were last year.

"Hang it all, Pater, they can't be that good at 10¢."
"Wilcox, my son, Twenty Grand would be good at 20¢!"

Copr. 1936 The Axton-Fisher Tobacco Co., Inc.

WE CERTIFY that we have inspected the Turkish and Domestic Tobaccos blended in TWENTY GRAND cigarettes and find them as fine in smoking quality as those used in cigarettes costing as much as 50% more.

(Signed) Seil, Putt & Rusby Inc.
(In collaboration with tobacco experts)

"WILDCAT — ROOTERS"

TALONE TAILORING
ARDMORE, PA.

QUALITY MEATMARKET
BRYN MAWR, PA.

BANES Rosemont Service Station

PHILIP HARRISON STORE
BRYN MAWR, PA.

Roger F. O'Brien
Incorporated
706 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR, PA.
Goodyear Tires
Willard Insulation

Pure-oil Gas Station
Penn & Lancaster Pike
Under New Management As the Lone Eagle
BRYN MAWR, PA.

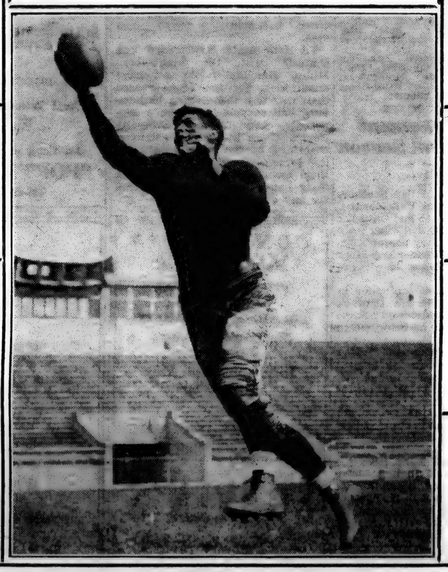
Compliments of
ARDMORE P. O.

F. A. HALE, Inc.
Oldsmobile
BRYN MAWR
Tel. B. M. 1600

F. P. SINNOTT
Painter & Decorator
LOWERY LANE
ROSEMONT, PA.
Tel. B. M. 1081

Compliments of
T. W. Hammonds & Bro.
BRYN MAWR, PA.

The Class of '39 Presents
The VILLANOVANS
at
The Sophomore Cotillion
October 16 — Villanova Gym
9 - 1 — Subscription $1.50



Compliments of
VILLANOVAN

Compliments of
BRYN MAWR P. O.
B. H. Kerrigan

Compliments of
McDONOUGH

L. E. LIMEBURNER CO.
Dispensing Opticians
814 LANCASTER AVE., BRYN MAWR, PA.
1923 CHESTNUT ST. PHILADELPHIA — 51 W. CHELTEN AVE. GERMANTOWN
535 COOPER ST., CAMDEN, N. J.

Compliments of
LA DOU

Compliments of
MAIN LINE DAILY TIMES

1889 The Bryn Mawr Trust Co. 1936
BRYN MAWR, PA.
Offers Every Banking and Trust Company Facility
Invites Your Patronage
Interest Paid on Savings and Special Time Accounts
Specializes in Title Insurance to Suburban Properties
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation
Maximum Insurance for Each Depositor, $5,000.00

Meth's Pastry
OUR OWN MAKE
Ice Cream - Candies - Cakes
Luncheon - Dinners
812 LANCATSER AVE.
BRYN MAWR, PA.

COACHING STAFF TENDERED DINNER BY ALLIED ALUMNI

Smith and McNally Guests of Graduates At Testimonial Affair

MANY NOTABLES ATTEND

"Clipper" Smith and "Vince" McNally, coaches of Villanova College, were honored at a coaches dinner last Thursday evening, October 1, at the Manufacturers and Bankers Club, Philadelphia. The testimonial was rendered them by the Philadelphia Alumni of Villanova, Notre Dame, LaSalle, and West Catholic.

Over 150 persons payed homage to two of the outstanding men in the coaching profession today.

National figures of importance in the football world were in attendance, outstanding of whom was John (Chief) Neeson, Dean of Notre Dame Coaches, who acted as toastmaster of the occasion.

In addition to the above, other coaches included Marty Brill, of LaSalle, who has slowely been elevating his teams in a football sense and Pat Conway, of West Catholic High.

Players at the gathering included Villanova's own Tony Sala, Joe Sciaretta, Captain of the LaSalle football team, and Jim Leonard and Joe Pivaronik, of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Entertainment was not lacking as is evidenced by a one-hour floor show under the direction of Walter Phillips, Notre Dame '22 Radio and stage celebrities included Jack Strouse, of the Winter Garden, New York; Beth Calvert, pretty blues singer; Kauffman and Wilf, internationally known song and dance team, late of the Palladium, London; and Williams Sisters, dancers from the Paramount Theatre, New York.

Additions To Faculty

Harold F. Hartman, Ph. D., instructor in history; Edward L. Haenlah, Ph. D., assistant professor of Chemistry; Arthur Carlo-Felix Matthieu, Ph. D., assistant professor of Modern Languages, and Myron B. Deily, Ph. D., assistant professor of Modern Languages, have been appointed to the faculty of Villanova College. Mr. Matthieu will also act as coach of the college swimming team.

LKD FRATERNITY PROPOSES RAFFLE

Temple Game Tickets Are Prize; Membership Increase Planned

With the first meeting of the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity still a week off, plans to raffle off two tickets to the Temple-Villanova football game are being formulated by the officers , but as yet are pending on the reaction of the entire organization.

The activities of the fraternity this year will be under the guidance of Gerald Piserchia, who was elected president at the close of last term. The office of treasurer will be held by Joseph Toland, '38, while the secretarial duties will be performed by Rene Caillliet of the sopomore class. With the departure from school of James Keegan, who has been accepted in the Georgetown Medical School, the position of vice-president is vacant.

Many functions are anticipated by the fraternity during the coming year and with the intensity of the freshman Science class, an increase in membership is to be expected.

FORMER BURSAR WILL MATRICULATE IN N. Y.

Miss Mary T. Clark Continues Higher Education At Manhattanville

Miss Mary T. Clark, who was formerly bursar of Villanova College has left work to continue her education. On September fifteenth she resumed study at the College of the Sacred Heart, Manhattenville, New York. Miss Clark is a graduate of the Academy of the Sacred Heart at Overbrook.

During her four years at Villanova, she was first employed as secretary to the bursar, Mr. Albert Snyder, and later she was made bursar. Last year she also exercised the power of a notary.

MISS CARLIN MARRIES

Miss Josephine Carlin, formerly assistant librarian of Villanova College was married on June eleventh to Mr. Russell F. Hurst.

Mr. Hurst is an alumnus of Villanova, being graduated as a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering in 1933.

10 New Additions Made to Faculty

Continued From Page One

berti obtained his B S. and M. S. degrees from Villanova College.

The three administrative appointments are:

Dr. Paul A. Loeffland, M. D., of Upper Darby, chairman of the medical entrance board, was made successor to the late Dr. Alexander R. Evans, of Ardmore, who served in that capacity for more than twenty years.

John J. Stell was named bursar of the college and Miss Kathrine McRaith assistant librarian.

Stell was an honor student in the School of Commerce and Finance of Villanova, receiving his B. S. degree in 1935. Miss McRaith received her A. B. from the Library School of St. Catherines College, St. Paul, Minn.

Initial Meeting Of Spanish Club Thursday, Oct. 8

Extensive Plans Will Be Formulated by Members of Organization

Thursday of this week will mark the rorganization meeting of the Spanish Club, one of the largest organizations on the campus, for the year 1936-37.

This meeting is primarily to discuss plans for the coming year. Outstanding in the discussion will be the contemplated affiliation of the organization with the "Instituto de las Espanas," an international federation of collegiate Spanish Clubs, with American headquarters at Columbia University in New York.

It is to be marked that this group is not limited to students of Spanish nationality or to those to whom this language is native. She organizatio discusses both matters of Spanish interest and the Spanish language itself. Benefit is also afforded those students of the Spanish language, in that some discusions are conducted by natives of that tongue in the language itself.

Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., who was appointed moderator of this group, will continue in this capacity for this year.

JOS. DELANEY REVEALS A. S. M. E. PERSONNEL CHANGES

Francis Sweeney, Norman Cotter and Marshal Ward Fill Posts In Society

Josph Delaney, president of the Villanova Chapter of the A. S. M. E. has announced the appointment of Francis J. Sweeney and Norman J. Cotter to the Trip Committee. Coincident with the above item, Mr. Delaney announced that the newly created office of publicity manager will be filled by Marshall Ward, a junior mechanical engineer.

The remaining officers as elected last May are: vice president, Marshall Ward, and secretary, Emil Mathias.

PHI KAPPA PHI HAS INITIAL MEETING

Rev. John O'Leary, O. S. A., Addresses Members On Benefits of Society

Phi Kappa Pi, Villanova's engineering fraternity, opened its new year by holding the first meeting in the amphitheatre of Mendel Hall, on Monday, September 28, with the Rev. John S. O'Leary, O. S. A., professor of mathemathics, as guest speaker.

In his address, Father O'Leary detailed the engineer's duties towards the fraternity and college. By being an active member of the society, it was pointed out, a sense of responsibility coincident with a finer character is engendered in the individual. In his closing remarks, Fr. O'Leary gave several suggestions in reference to the coming social affairs of the fraternity.

Eugene A. Barr, president of the society, held a short discussion on the plans for the first semester activities. It was announced by Mr. Barr that Joseph Duffy, chairman of the Owl Hop and Smoker committees will address the next meeting.

The Owl Hop committee as announced by Robert Strong, secretary, consists of the following: Joseph Duffy, chairman; Paul Williams, Richard Foote, Edward McHugh, Gerald Kunz, Constantine B. Constantine, J. O'Connor, and Joseph B. Sanborn, juniors; Hugh Ferguson, and John Linsley, sophomores. The following men compose the Smoker committee: Frank Winterer, chairman; Constantine B. Constantine, Edward Fister, Gerald Kunz, Paul Williams, John Courtin, Thomas Furey, and Robert Mattis.

The date of the Owl Hop has been set as November 6. The Smoker will be held on the evening of October 20.

STAMP COLLECTION WANTED
I will buy desirable U. S. or General Collection. Also accumulations, sheets, etc. Please describe.
R. A. COLEMAN
5855 Bartlett St., Pittsburgh

JOHN MARMER
32 S. MERION AVENUE
BRYN MAWR
Whipping Cream — Cream Buttermilk
Telephone Bryn Mawr 885

WALTER M. ROY
MOTOR MACHINE SHOP
Machine Work of Every Description - Auto Repairing of the Better Kind - Sharpening and Repairing Lawn Mowers.
Berwyn 560 — Berwyn, Pa.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats
$24.75
See
Leo Schoppmeyer
Room 101 Fedigan Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

Notice to Freshmen and Upper Classmen
For Official College Pins, Banners, and Stationery; For a Complete Line of Toilet Accessories; For a Tasty Snack . . .
PATRONIZE
The Pie Shop
ALL PRICES TO SUIT ONE'S POCKETBOOK

Frank's Ardmore
LARGEST SELECTION OF PIPES ON THE MAIN LINE
Drinkless Kay Woodie
Middelton Old Mariner
Franc Medico Pipe
Dr. Martin Pipes, etc., etc.
Pipes With Your College Letters
Middelton's Walnut Tobacco
Mixture 79 and Over 100 Others
SPECIAL - OCT. 6th to 10th
This Coupon and 50c
Will Entitle You to One
$1.50 JOHN MIDDLETON PIPE
Sodas - Cigars - Stationery
Greyhound Bus Station
Postal Telegraph — Western Union
59 W. LANCASTER AVE.
(Next to Autocar Plant)

Clipper Smith in Coach's Position

Continued From Page Three

Smith were teammates under Knute Rockne. By 1928, four years after he entered Gonzaga, the Clipper packed up his bags and set sail for Santa Clara.

As was the case with the two previous assignments, this Jesuit school had not been heard of much in the way of football. Under "Clipper" Smith the Broncos began to throw their riders, the first outstanding event being their sensational victory over Pop Warner's tough Stanford Indians.

Pop Worner was not the only one to find the lads from the Santa Clara Valley more food than could be easily digested. California's Golden Bears fell to the Broncs in two successive years. From this time on Santa Clara became a name of national importance in football. Ties with St. Mary's and Stanford did nothing to lessen this prestige.

This brings us to the 1936 season, where we now find the "Clipper" settling down on the Main Line, filling the shoes of a fellow alumnus of Notre Dame, none other than Harry Stuhldreher.

It is with an imposing record that the "Clipper" assumes the duties left by his predecessor. And the starting victory over P. M. C. shows that he has not lost his winning touch.

Up to this point, only the record of Villanova's new coach has been considered. The man himself is often referred to as the coach whose style comes closest to being that of the "old master" Knute Rockne. He resembles the great Rockne in as much as he speaks sharply, but never offensively.

Those who have heard him at rallies and on the radio know full well his capabilities as a speaker and narrator of interesting tales.

PINELLI AT NOTRE DAME

Roy Pinelli, son of the famous national league umpire, "Babe" Pinelli is a freshman football candidate at Notre Dame, so is "General" Phil Sheridan, who hopes to make Irish followers forget about William Shakespeare. The Irish frosh work under Shakespeare, Wally Fromhart, all-Western quarterback; Bill Smith, 1936 captain who resigned because of illness; Hank Pojman, 1936 varsity center, and Head Coach Jake Kline.

LUCKY STRIKE SWEEPSTAKES

Last week Villanova was invaded by four employes of the Lucky Strike cigarette manufacturers. The purpose of the visit was to acquaint the students with the "Lucky Strike Sweepstakes," which is currently being run by the American Tobacco Company. Winners, who name the three leading songs of the week, receive a tin of 50 Lucky Strikes.

Graduation Breaks Holes in 'Cat Line

Continued From Page Eight

things plenty hot for the remaining teams on the 'Cat's schedule. At right half Ray Stoviak is still playing the same brand of good football he did last year and Ray looks as if he is ready for a big year with Villanova this season.

At fullback position the familiar faces of Art Raimo and Jack Earle will once more appear. Both boys turned in very good seasons last year, inasmuch as blocking, tackling and and carrying the ball was concerned. Earle did'nt make an appearance 'til late in the season, as a result of an ankle injury, but nevertheless proved himself to be worthy enough to see action in ball games. Dick Foley is back in school again and he is ready to answer the varsity call anytime his services as a fullback are needed.

All in all, even though the "Cats" have two new mentors in the persons of "Clipper" Smith and Vince McNally the Wildcats showed in their victory over a much stronger Cadet team than last season's, that they will be just as tough if not tougher than they were last year.

"Hang it all, Pater, they can't be that good at 10¢."
"Wilcox, my son, Twenty Grand would be good at 20¢!"

Copr. 1936 The Axton-Fisher Tobacco Co., Inc.

WE CERTIFY that we have inspected the Turkish and Domestic Tobaccos blended in TWENTY GRAND cigarettes and find them as fine in smoking quality as those used in cigarettes costing as much as 50% more.

(Signed) Seil, Putt & Rusby Inc.
(In collaboration with tobacco expert)

"WILDCAT — ROOTERS"

TALONE TAILORING
ARDMORE, PA.

QUALITY MEATMARKET
BRYN MAWR, PA.

BANES Rosemont Service Station

PHILIP HARRISON STORE
BRYN MAWR, PA.

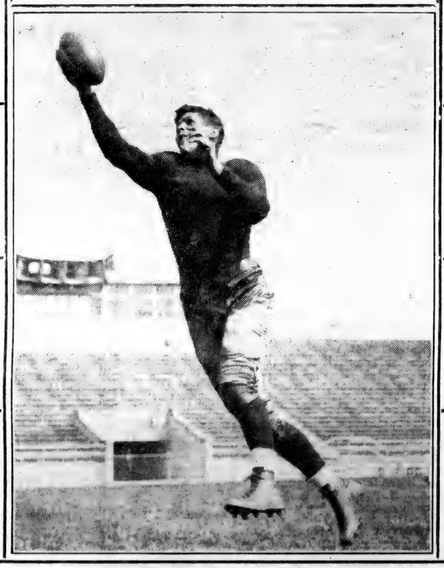
Roger F. O'Brien
Incorporated
706 LANCASTER AVE.
BRYN MAWR, PA.
Goodyear Tires
Willard Insulation

Pure-oil Gas Station
Penn & Lancaster Pike
Under New Management As the Lone Eagle
BRYN MAWR, PA.

The Class of '39 Presents
The VILLANOVANS
at
The Sophomore Cotillion
October 16 — Villanova Gym
9 - 1 — Subscription $1.50

Compliments of
VILLANOVAN

Compliments of
ARDMORE P. O.



Compliments of
BRYN MAWR P. O.
B. H. Kerrigan

F. A. HALE, Inc.
Oldsmobile
BRYN MAWR
Tel. B. M. 1600

Compliments of
McDONOUGH

F. P. SINNOTT
Painter & Decorator
LOWERY LANE
ROSEMONT, PA.
Tel. B. M. 1081

L. E. LIMEBURNER CO.
Dispensing Opticians
814 LANCASTER AVE., BRYN MAWR, PA.
1923 CHESTNUT ST. PHILADELPHIA — 51 W. CHELTEN AVE. GERMANTOWN
535 COOPER ST., CAMDEN, N. J.

Compliments of
T. W. Hammonds & Bro.
BRYN MAWR, PA.

Compliments of
LA DOU

Compliments of
MAIN LINE
DAILY TIMES

1889 The Bryn Mawr Trust Co. 1936
BRYN MAWR, PA.
Offers Every Banking and Trust Company Facility
Invites Your Patronage
Interest Paid on Savings and Special Time Accounts
Specializes in Title Insurance to Suburban Properties
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation
Maximum Insurance for Each Depositor, $5,000.00

Meth's Pastry
OUR OWN MAKE
Ice Cream - Candies - Cakes
Luncheon - Dinners
812 LANCATSER AVE.
BRYN MAWR, PA.

COACHING STAFF TENDERED DINNER BY ALLIED ALUMNI

Smith and McNally Guests of Graduates At Testimonial Affair

MANY NOTABLES ATTEND

"Clipper" Smith and "Vince" McNally, coaches of Villanova College, were honored at a coaches dinner last Thursday evening, October 1, at the Manufacturers and Bankers Club, Philadelphia. The testimonial was rendered them by the Philadelphia Alumni of Villanova, Notre Dame, LaSalle, and West Catholic.

Over 150 persons payed homage to two of the outstanding men in the coaching profession today.

National figures of importance in the football world were in attendance, outstanding of whom was John (Chief) Neeson, Dean of Notre Dame Coaches, who acted as toastmaster of the occasion.

In addition to the above, other coaches included Marty Brill, of LaSalle, who has slowely been elevating his teams in a football sense and Pat Conway, of West Catholic High.

Players at the gathering included Villanova's own Tony Sala, Joe Sciaretta, Captain of the LaSalle football team, and Jim Leonard and Joe Pivaronik, of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Entertainment was not lacking as is evidenced by a one-hour floor show under the direction of Walter Phillips, Notre Dame, '22, Radio and stage celebrities included Jack Strouse, of the Winter Garden, New York; Beth Calvert, pretty blues singer; Kauffman and Wilf, internationally known song and dance team, late of the Palladium, London; and Williams Sisters, dancers from the Paramount Theatre, New York.

Additions To Faculty

Harold F. Hartman, Ph. D., instructor in history; Edward L. Haenish, Ph. D., assistant professor of Chemistry; Arthur Carlo-Felix Matthieu, Ph. D., assistant professor of Modern Languages, and Myron B. Deily, Ph. D., assistant professor of Modern Languages, have been appointed to the faculty of Villanova College. Mr. Matthieu will also act as coach of the college swimming team.

LKD FRATERNITY PROPOSES RAFFLE

Temple Game Tickets Are Prize; Membership Increase Planned

With the first meeting of the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity still a week off, plans to raffle off two tickets to the Temple-Villanova football game are being formulated by the officers , but as yet are pending on the reaction of the entire organization.

The activities of the fraternity this year will be under the guidance of Gerald Piserchia, who was elected president at the close of last term. The office of treasurer will be held by Joseph Toland, '38, while the secretarial duties will be performed by Rene Cailliet of the sopomore class. With the departure from school of James Keegan, who has been accepted in the Georgetown Medical School, the position of vice-president is vacant.

Many functions are anticipated by the fraternity during the coming year and with the intensity of the freshman Science class, an increase in membership is to be expected.

FORMER BURSAR WILL MATRICULATE IN N. Y.

Miss Mary T. Clark Continues Higher Education At Manhattanville

Miss Mary T. Clark, who was formerly bursar of Villanova College has left work to continue her education. On September fifteenth she resumed study at the College of the Sacred Heart, Manhattenville, New York. Miss Clark is a graduate of the Academy of the Sacred Heart at Overbrook.

During her four years at Villanova, she was first employed as secretary to the bursar, Mr. Albert Snyder, and later she was made bursar. Last year she also exercised the power of a notary.

MISS CARLIN MARRIES

Miss Josephine Carlin, formerly assistant librarian of Villanova College was married on June eleventh to Mr. Russell F. Hurst.

Mr. Hurst is an alumnus of Villanova, being graduated as a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering in 1933.

10 New Additions Made to Faculty

Continued From Page One

berti obtained his B S. and M. S. degrees from Villanova College.

The three administrative appointments are:

Dr. Paul A. Loeffland, M. D., of Upper Darby, chairman of the medical entrance board, was made successor to the late Dr. Alexander R. Evans, of Ardmore, who served in that capacity for more than twenty years.

John J. Stell was named bursar of the college and Miss Kathrine McRaith assistant librarian.

Stell was an honor student in the School of Commerce and Finance of Villanova, receiving his B. S. degree in 1935. Miss McRaith received her A. B. from the Library School of St. Catherines College, St. Paul, Minn.

Initial Meeting Of Spanish Club Thursday, Oct. 8

Extensive Plans Will Be Formulated by Members of Organization

Thursday of this week will mark the rorganization meeting of the Spanish Club, one of the largest organizations on the campus, for the year 1936-37.

This meeting is primarily to discuss plans for the coming year. Outstanding in the discussion will be the contemplated affiliation of the organization with the "Instituto de las Espanas," an international federation of collegiate Spanish Clubs, with American headquarters at Columbia University in New York. It is to be marked that this group is not limited to students of Spanish nationality or to those to whom this language is native. She organizatio discusses both matters of Spanish interest and the Spanish language itself. Benefit is also afforded those students of the Spanish language, in that some discusions are conducted by natives of that tongue in the language itself.

Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., who was appointed moderator of this group, will continue in this capacity for this year.

JOS. DELANEY REVEALS A. S. M. E. PERSONNEL CHANGES

Francis Sweeney, Norman Cotter and Marshal Ward Fill Posts In Society

Josph Delaney, president of the Villanova Chapter of the A. S. M. E. has announced the appointment of Francis J. Sweeney and Norman J. Cotter to the Trip Committee. Coincident with the above item, Mr. Delaney announced that the newly created office of publicity manager will be filled by Marshall Ward, a junior mechanical engineer.

The remaining officers as elected last May are: vice president, Marshall Ward, and secretary, Emil Mathias.

PHI KAPPA PHI HAS INITIAL MEETING

Rev. John O'Leary, O. S. A., Addresses Members On Benefits of Society

Phi Kappa Pi, Villanova's engineering fraternity, opened its new year by holding the first meeting in the amphitheatre of Mendel Hall, on Monday, September 28, with the Rev. John S. O'Leary, O. S. A., professor of mathemathics, as guest speaker.

In his address, Father O'Leary detailed the engineer's duties towards the fraternity and college. By being an active member of the society, it was pointed out, a sense of responsibility coincident with a finer character is engendered in the individual. In his closing remarks, Fr. O'Leary gave several suggestions in reference to the coming social affairs of the fraternity.

Eugene A. Barr, president of the society, held a short discussion on the plans for the first semester activities. It was announced by Mr. Barr that Joseph Duffy, chairman of the Owl Hop and Smoker committees will address the next meeting.

The Owl Hop committee as announced by Robert Strong, secretary, consists of the following: Joseph Duffy, chairman; Paul Williams, Richard Foote, Edward McHugh, Gerald Kunz, Constantine B. Constantine, J. O'Connor, and Joseph B. Sanborn, juniors; Hugh Ferguson, and John Linsley, sophomores. The following men compose the Smoker committee: Frank Winterer, chairman; Constantine B. Constantine, Edward Fister, Gerald Kunz, Paul Williams, John Courtin, Thomas Furey, and Robert Mattis.

The date of the Owl Hop has been set as November 6. The Smoker will be held on the evening of October 20.

STAMP COLLECTION WANTED
I will buy desirable U. S. or General Collection. Also accumulations, sheets, etc. Please describe.
R. A. COLEMAN
5855 Bartlett St., Pittsburgh

JOHN MARMER
32 S. MERION AVENUE
BRYN MAWR
Whipping Cream — Cream Buttermilk
Tellephone Bryn Mawr 885

WALTER M. ROY
MOTOR MACHINE SHOP
Machine Work of Every Description - Auto Repairing of the Better Kind - Sharpening and Repairing Lawn Mowers.
Berwyn 660 — Berwyn, Pa.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure
COLEBY TAILORING INC.
Suits and Topcoats
$24.75
See
Leo Schoppmeyer
Room 101 Fedigan Hall
Store at
57th and Market Sts.

Notice to Freshmen and Upper Classmen
For Official College Pins, Banners, and Stationery; For a Complete Line of Toilet Accessories; For a Tasty Snack . . .
PATRONIZE
The Pie Shop
ALL PRICES TO SUIT ONE'S POCKETBOOK

Frank's Ardmore
LARGEST SELECTION OF PIPES ON THE MAIN LINE
Drinkless Kay Woodie
Middelton Old Mariner
Franc Medico Pipe
Dr. Martin Pipes, etc., etc.
Pipes With Your College Letters
Middelton's Walnut Tobacco
Mixture 79 and Over 100 Others
SPECIAL - OCT. 6th to 10th
This Coupon and 50c
Will Entitle You to One
$1.50 JOHN MIDDLETON PIPE
Sodas - Cigars - Stationery
Greyhound Bus Station
Postal Telegraph — Western Union
59 W. LANCASTER AVE.
(Next to Autocar Plant)

COLLEGIATE DIGEST WILL CHANGE STYLE

Awards Will Be Given Students Submitting Best Photographs

Featuring a new style of editorial presentation, Collegiate Digest this year will bring to our readers complete pictorial news of events of interest and importance on the nation's campuses, gathered for its editors by more than 300 regular correspondents and the ace photographers of the world's leading newspicture agencies.

Discarding the formal and stilted style of picture presentation, Collegiate Digest will present picture news of important and unusual developments in education, science, extra-curricular activities, sports, faculty and student projects, and the hundreds of other activities that make up the college community. And the stories concerning the events pictured will be concise and complete, leaving no doubt in the mind of the reader as to their actual interest and importance.

In addition to the regular newspictures, Collegiate Digest will present many photo features in every issue, picture presentations that take the reader behind the scenes to give him a complete photographic record of the work of particular individuals through the unfailing eye of the news camera.

Students of Villanova College are urged to send their pictures of important and interesting events on our campus to: Collegiate Digest, Box 472, Madison, Wisconsin. Three dolars is paid for each photo accepted for publication.

GOV'T DESIRES NYA INCREASE

Present Projects Still Handicapped by Limited Funds

Student aid under the NYA will undoubtedly be granted in even greater volume this coming academic year than it was last year. NYA authorities are coming more and more to realize that it is one activity they can engage in with a minimum of criticism and a maximum of praise.

The youth work program of the NYA is much harder to carry out successfully. There are limitations on the kind and amount of useful work that can be found for unemployed youth in the average community. Many types of work conflict with operating WPA projects. Others require skills not found among these thousands of young folks who have had no chance to get work experience during the depression.

In the coming months the NYA will bend greater effort to giving them either vocational training or job experience of various kinds. An enlightened Congress may some day pass the American Youth Act, or similar legislation. But until that day comes the NYA will have to carry on, with its limited resources.

Collegiate News Here And There On Campus Fronts

Two French university students commissioned by France's ministry of education are now touring American universities to examine the social life of the American student.

More than 100,000 students in the U. S. are now attending America's 500 junior colleges. Fifteen years ago there were only 100 junior colleges in the nation.

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard University, recently failed to pass an automobile driving examination.

At Pennsylvania State College enrollments in four-year courses of the school of agriculture and experiment station have nearly doubled in the past ten years.

Anthropological measurements University of Kansas freshmen compared with those of a selected list of other schools recently revealed that these men were taller, about the same in weight, and less in girth of chest.

Women drivers react more slowly than men in time of braking emergency, according to findings of a series of scientific tests given at Pennsylvania State College.

Dr. Clarence A. Mills, of the University of Cincinnati, claims that the falling birth rate is due to an increase in the earth's heat.

By way of increasing enjoyment of football through more intimate knowledge of its finer points, Coach Charles E. Dorais, of the University of Detroit, conducts free football clinics for fans.

NEW DEAL CUTS WPA PERSONNEL

All Bureaus Except Social Security Laying Off Employes

Week after week through the Summer the New Deal agencies cut down their staffs. A series of particularly severe cuts took place in the Resettlement Administration and the Works Progress Administration. Resettlement lopped off about a third of its nationwide staff, incidng about a thousand employees here. WPA cut its Washington personnel by about one sixth, releasing over 500 employes. Probably all of the emergency bureaus but one, will continue retrenchment until election and after. The exception is the Social Security Board, which is growing slowly as it takes on people from Civil Service lists.

The Department of Labor will soon start building up a small staff to enforce the Walsh-Healy Bill, an act requiring union standards and work conditions in plants supplying material sto the Government.

OPERATES FLYING SCHOOL

Miss Catherine Stinson was the first woman to own and operate a flying school in the United States, beginning at San Antonio, Tex., in 1914.

SOUTH ESTABLISHES NEW SPORT SET-UP

Will Be Death Knell To Gate Receipts and Coaches

(By Associated Collegiate Pres)

Atlanta Ga.—With college interest centering to a greater extent than ever before on intra-mural athletics in place of the now highly commercialized intercollegiate system, Emory University isfindin g herself in the enciable position of forerunner of a reform movement.

"The highly paid coach, the huge gate receipts, the recuiting from ehe high school, thre demoralizing publicity showered on players, the devotion of an undue proportion of time to training, the devices for puttinga desirable athlete, but weak scholar across the hurdles of examination—all these are deplorable features of the intercollegiate athletic program; a program wholly inconsistent with the aims, ideals, and primary purposes of college and university life."

Each freshman at Emory is required to spend several hours each week in some form of athletics, experimentation showing that the majority continiue to participate in some from during the remander of their college life.

Chesterfield Wins

... they're milder

they have a more pleasing taste and aroma

© 1936, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 9—No. 2 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1936 Price: Five Cents

Marked Increase Made In School's Registration

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SOPH FROLIC FRIDAY EVENING

Advance Ticket Sale Presages Successful Affair for Second Year Men

BLUE-WHITE COLORS TO DRAPE GYMNASIUM

Specialty Dance Tunes Will Feature Night's Music by Villanovans

Plans for the traditional Sophomore Cotillion to be held Friday evening in the College gymnasium are nearing completion with every aspect assuring a favorable social and financial affair.

Ticket sales are mounting rapidly and nearing the proposed goal of four hundred couples, according to reports from members of the ticket committee. The proceeds from the dance, as is customary, will be donated to a Class of 1939 Scholarship fund at the termination of four years.

The gymnasium, which will be the scene of this initial social, is being prepared for the occasion. On the evening of the dance the gymnasium will be arrayed with decorations setting off a ceiling of blue and white, the Villanova College colors.

Specialty Numbers to be Rendered

The music will be furnished by the Villanovans, college orchestra, who will present an assortment of popular dance tunes. A special dance number rendered for the members of the Sophomore class, and a welcoming number will be dedicated to the Freshman class, during which numbers members of the respective classes only will dance.

Adding to the color of the evening's entertainment will be the formally attired dance committeemen.

Continued On Page Four

INITIAL MEETING HELD BY A. S. M. E.

Inspection Tours Of Local Industrial Plants Will Be Featured

An excellent attendance, coupled with an unusual display of enthusiasm, marked the initial meeting and get-together of the year of the Villanova Chapter of the A. S. M. E. last Wednesday.

The formal opening of the Chapter's 1936-1937 season was presided over by Joseph J. Delany, president of the society. Following this short ceremony, Emil Mathias, secretary, read the minutes of the previous May meeting and also read several minor announcements.

Enrollment Drive Is Planned

In order to increase the membership of the Chapter, it was announced that beginning immediately there will be a membership drive. At present there are fifteen mechanical engineering students who belong to the chapter. This number will be augmented considerably, however, when the several freshmen applicants are declared eligible to join.

As is the custom in the undergraduate society, during the year there are many inspection tours made to different industrial plants of practical interest to the student of engineering. Last year trips were made to such major plants as the Ford Company in Chester, Bethlehem Steel Company, and to the Richmond Station of the Philadelphia Electric Company. Already this year several tours are in the offing.

School Physician

DR. PAUL A. LOEFFLAD, who has been appointed College Medical Adviser, filling the post left vacant last year by the death of Dr. Alexander Evans, who served in that capacity for 20 years. Dr. Loeffiad has offices in Upper Darby, Pa.

Chosen President

CHARLES S. BRUNO who was selected by fellow members of the Spanish Club to serve in the capacity of president for the 1936-37 season. Bruno, who is a senior in the School of Education, is also Manager of Debate.

VILLANOVA ALUMNI OF TRENTON FORM GRADUATES' UNIT

Movement Will Be Discussed at Banquet Tonight in Albertis

FR. STANFORD IS GUEST

Graduates of Villanova College who live in the vicinity of Trenton, New Jersey, will gather this evening to discuss plans for the formation of a Villanova Club of Trenton.

Thirty ex-Villanovans are expected to be present at the first annual banquet tonight at the Alberti Cafe in the New Jersey capital.

Mr. John P. Keffer, '25, graduate of the school of Technology and now in the employ of the Bell Telephone Company of New Jersey, and Robert G. McGrory, '36, editor of last year's Belle Air, are the prime movers of the organization. Guest speakers for the occasion will be the Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the College, J. Stanley Smith, Esq., '98, trustee of the college and president of the National Villanova Alumni, and Paetrus Bannmiller, Alumni secretary and Registrar of Villanova.

This meeting is the first of its kind in a movement by the National Alumni to organize local

Continued On Page Four

DEAN ATTENDS MEETING

Commerce Head Represents College at Education Conference

Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., Dean of the Commerce and Finance School, attended the meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Liberal Arts Colleges for Advancement of Teaching, at Harrisburg, Pa., last Tuesday.

This meeting was held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Education Congress. This combined convention continued through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Various means of improving the methods of teaching were discussed, with Fr. Bartley taking a very active part in the discussions.

STAFF WILL MEET

There will be an important meeting of the entire Villanovan staff today at one o'clock. All members must attend this meeting.

FORENSIC SOCIETY HOLDS INDUCTION OF NEW MEMBERS

Aim to Contact Forty Colleges Is Announced by Moderator

RADIO DEBATE PLANNED

Beta Gamma, Villanova debating society, held its formal induction of new members last evening at a welcoming banquet in Pierre's Restaurant, Upper Darby. Master of Ceremonies at the banquet was Anthony Differ, president.

Among the speakers were Mr. Anthony J. Frayne, faculty moderator, and Charles S. Bruno, manager of the society. About twenty-five members attended the banquet.

New members accepted at banquet (not freshmen members) were: Pershing Calabro, Frederick Waters, Hugh Ferguson, John Dimon, James Quigley and Thomas Delate.

Extensive Plans Formulated

Mr. Differ announced that the Beta Gamma Society is making extensive preparations for the coming year. Communication is being made with approximately forty colleges in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Washington, D. C., in an effort to afford a schedule that will be appropriate for an obviously successful season.

The inevitability of a successful

Continued On Page Four

HOLY NAME MEETS

Villanova Chapter Has First Communion Breakfast of Year

On Sunday last, the Villanova College Holy Name meeting held its first Communion Breakfast of the current school year.

In a very poorly attended meeting after the Mass, Rev. Charles Brown, O. S. A., moderator of the society, expressed his desire for an active organization. He announced that the workings of the organizations of the society would be left into the hands of the students themselves.

A member from each floor in the two upperclassmen halls was appointed to contact the students of his floor and get them to turn out with the Holy Name on the second Sunday of each month.

TAKE SENIOR PHOTOS

Senior photographs for the Belle Air will be taken starting next Tuesday, October 20. Further notice will be posted.

Highest Enrollment Totals Since 1932 Reached Here

Approximately 15% Rise in Student Tabulation Gained in Four Campus Schools

Senior Class Smallest With 126

PRESIDENT BACKS PEACE CAMPAIGN

Father Stanford First Catholic College President to Endorse Movement

A nationwide movement now underway to make national a Mass for Peace on the Feast of Christ, the King, was endorsed by Father E. V. Stanford, O. S. A., President of Villanova College. Characteristic of Villanova's agressive attitude in the field of Catholic Action, Father Stanford was the first Catholic college president in America to endorse the peace movement.

The movement was announced in the October editorial of "The Christian Front," a new national magazine of Catholic social thought. In its editorial, "The Christian Front" said, in part: "Natural and supernatural aids must be used to promote peace. For the first, we suggest that in every Catholic college chapel, before the assembled faculty and student body, a mass celebrated on the Feast of Christ, the King; for the second we suggest that symposia on peace and war be held on this great feast day, or on a day near to it. Intelligent efforts to analize and solve the problem of establishing peace and order in a violent and chaotic world constitute, we think, a most salutary secondary observence of this great feast, for those efforts would be inspired by the very liturgy of the day."

Father Stanford, in his letter to the Editor of "The Christian Front," Mr. R. L. G. Deverall, said: "I shall be pleased to co-operate with your call for a Mass for Peace on the Feast of Christ, the King. We shall plan to have such a Mass for the college students on Sunday, October 25, with an appropriate sermon for the occasion."

SPANISH DRAMA PLANNED HERE

Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., Discusses Vernacular Presentation

Plans for the enactment of a Spanish drama was the chief point of discussion at the last Thursday initial meeting of the Spanish Club of Villanova College. The performance, in which the members of the club are to participate, is to be presented so that conversational Spanish might be fostered.

Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., moderator of the organization, opened the meeting with the introduction of the new officers. Mr. Charles Bruno, a senior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, will officiate at all meetings in the capacity of president. Other students holding office are: vice presiden,t William Corkhill; secretary, Jimenez; and treasurer J. Connelly.

The new members of the club, increasing the total membership to approximately thirty-five members, were officially welcomed by the moderator, Chiefly constituting the incoming students were members of the present freshman class, who are apparently eager to make this year the most interesting term since

Continued On Page Four

Commerce and Finance School Leads in Total Enlistment

ARTS DEPT. LAST

By JAMES P. TOFANI

Topping all previous records of the past few years, Villanova College has increased its enrollment for the scholastic year, 1936-37, to an imposing figure of 804 students, which marks an increase of approximately 15 percent over last year's attendance of 699 students.

Simultaneously, Villanova's Part - time and Evening Schools have made remarkable advancement in enrollment this year and are the largest in the history of the college. The former School lists 728 students, while the latter has a grand aggregate of 383 students.

Evening School Rise Outstanding

The Evening School, whose rise has been phenomenal, has already inaugurated sessions under the able guidance of Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., Dean, who also assumes the deanship in the School of Commerce and Finance. The courses offered comprise many subjects that are included in the day school and carry college credit applicable towards degrees.

The Part-time School, which this

Continued on Page Eight

QUIGLEY TO READ PAPER ON PEACE

International Relations President to Discuss "American Foreign Policy"

From all colleges of the eastern states, delegates to the Catholic Student Peace Federation will converge at Saint Elizabeth's College, Convent Station, New Jersey, on November 7. Discussions of the Catholic Student Federation will be limited to the study and the working out of problems relating to World Peace.

The International Relations Club of Villanova College, of which Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., is moderator, will send delegates to this Fall Convention. The representatives will be Fr. Lunney, James Quigley, president of the International Relations Club, and its secretary, Paul Juergens. Quigley will read a paper on "American Foreign Policy."

Basic Peace Plans to Be Laid

It is also believed that Rosemont College and La Salle College will have representatives present at this convention.

The purposes of the Catholic Student Peace Federation are to hold meetings on peace and work out suggestions for student organizations to follow. Membership in this Federation is extended to any college or university peace club without regard to previous affiliations.

The members of the International Relations Club extend invitations to all Villanova students interested in peace work to join by getting in touch with Fr. Lunney or any one of its officers.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

I. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37 ..... Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37 ..... Managing Editor
CHARLES B. STAHLECKER, '37 ..... College Editor
NORTON C. PADEN, '37 ..... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37 ..... Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37 ..... Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37 ..... Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37, Art & Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassaluzzo, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38.....Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37.....Exchange Editor

Staff Writers

John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37	Joseph Sanborn, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38	Leonard Flinkman, '39
Louis Santamarin, '37	Leo Golden, '39
William Bowker, '38	Paul Juergens, '39
James Iofani, '39	Martin Kansell, '39
Robert Howe, '39	James Kutz, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39	John Dimon, '39
John W. Pilion, '38	Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simons, '38	Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff

Basil Dobrowolski, '37	George Fanning, '37
Arthur M. Carleton, '37	John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39	Norris Horn, '37

Assistants to the Art Staff
Paschal Linguiti, '37 ..... John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers
Peter J. McManus ..... Henry C. Guckenberger
Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman—
L E O G O O D R E A U

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post-office, December 27, 1928.

1936 Member 1937
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributors of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - OCTOBER 13, 1936

TIME FOR ACTION

WHAT has become of the traditional custom here at Villanova College concerning the wearing of rags by the members of the Freshman class and the abidance by the rules and regulations laid down before them? Certainly not the slightest vestige remains of either of these important branches in the college education of the first year man. Members of the Class of 1940 at Villanova College roam about the campus, indeed they swagger, in a fashion not unlike the manner usually affected by members of the senior class as seen in the films of today.

We wish them to feel at ease amongst us but there should be a limit to it. This new class, however, has so completely acclimated itself to the surroundings at this early stage that we find ourselves feeling very uncomfortable, to say the least. In fact when one meets a Freshman on the grounds now he feels rather like an intruder when he encounters the authoritative glance of the younger man.

A condition like this cannot exist. It must not. Something should be done and now is the time to do it. Freshman in college should not get off on the wrong foot and that is just what is happening to the Class of 1940. The strong arm of the V. C., which is fast becoming a myth, should restrain the new men but to date it has failed miserably. The Orientation committee states that their hands are tied; they can do nothing. We then turn to the higher authority, the Student Council, which in turn laments, "we can do nothing until a Freshman is brought before us." The last word in campus authority is resorted to but the Dean of Men assures us that he will stand for no maltreatment on the part of upper classmen as regards the bewildered Freshmen.

Therefore, we demand one of two actions. Either the humbuggery of the Vigilance Committee be thrown aside or let them use their rightful authority. We feel certain that not one of that estimable group would puff out his manly chest should he be cognisant of the fact that the entire student body, and in particular the Freshmen, enjoy the pleasure of a good laugh when a "white hat" appears. Unfortunately, that is the case today. It's time something was done.

READ CATHOLIC

A Catholic is not the sort of fellow who "works" at his religion one day of the week and then lives another sort of life the rest of the time. In no field is this more clearly brought home than in that of the Catholic press. Find the home that has a library well stocked with Catholic books; find the home that receives daily, weekly and monthly Catholic magazines and papers, and you have found a truly Catholic home.

The Press is a potent influence in our life. Every day we scan the paper to know what is going on in the world, and although this apparently objective observation of the world's work by the newspaper does not have apparent didactic value, we know that the minds and consciences of the individuals reading the papers are formed, in no small part, by the editorial policy of the paper. The secular press is what it claims to be: a secular press. It is not Catholic.

A Catholic paper not only gives the reader the news of the day, but this news is presented in the idiom of the Faith. The sacrificial loyalty and enthusiasm of Catholics are brought into play by the Catholic Press; the secular press ignores them.

Pope Pius X, in his Encyclical letter, Fermo Proposito, tell us that, "The modern ordering of States offers equally to all the chance of influencing public life." How foolish we Catholics are if we allow the secular, and often atheistic, press to influence our opinions, our desires and our judgments.

If Catholics are to reconstruct the social order—and the Papacy has expressly commended this time and again — they should steep their minds in Catholic though. They should read only those papers edited and written by persons with a firm background of Catholic philosophy. To do otherwise is to seek a possible source of heretical indoctrination.

We repeat, a Catholic is a man who follows Christ twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week.

AL TAKES A WALK

ALFRED E. SMITH'S intimation that Governor Earle should be impeached because of his refusal to use coercive measures in stemming the recent increases in bootleg coal mining, that have arisen from the failure to effect an equitable understanding between the coal miners, and the operators, exemplifies the extent to which the once "Happy Warrior" has taken a walk. A walk, unfortunately, that has been backward rather than forward. Back to the old reactionary, one-sided attitude toward the problems between labor and capital that he had for-sworn so long ago.

The statement that Governor Earle is violating the principles of law and order so long as he permits these conditions to exist is merely the reiteration of the age-old American fallacy, that it is a matter of indifference whether a man starves or subsists so long as he does it according to certain vague Constitutional requirements, which time, rather than personal merit, has made so wide-spread.

While bootleg coal mining is fundamentally wrong, and a condition that should be remedied, it does stand as a constant reminder of the fact that our present economic system is by no means equal to the problems that are facing it. This is especially true when we consider the large numbers of un-employed that still exist. Federal projects are merely a means of marking time until industry is able to absorb them; which, unfortunately it shows little likelihood of doing.

Mr. Smith might devote his time and efforts more advantageously, by seeking a method for the correction of these conditions rather than derrogating the substitutes that necessity has suggested.

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti

THANKS to L. J. C. we submit some definitions: With illustrations.

ABSINTHE: A state of being away, or not present, as "Absinthe makes the heart grow fonder."

CULTURE: To apprehend: "I've culture red-handed, you rat!

CONVEX: State prisoners (See Prism).

PRISM: A penal institution where convex are kept.

LAB: What disappears when you stand up.

NOTES: Between the eyes and the mouth.

ORCHIDS: Small children, "Your kids are cute, but orchids are cuter."

LITERATURE: "Literature vest, it's all covered with gravy."

Redundantly rambling: A blind date is like a bee, you either—get stung or you get a honey . . . Scandal is when nobody did a thing, and somebody told it . . . Absence makes the grades go lower . . .

Prof. . . . (In accounting class to student): What would you do if a partner in a partnership died?

Bill Cleary: Call a Priest.

I'd like to be a senior,
And with the seniors stand,
A studded pin upon my vest,
A paddle in my hand.
I would not be a president,
I would not be a king;
I would not be an emperor.
For all the welth, t'would bring.
I would not be an angel—
For angels have to sing;
I'd rather be a senior,
AND NOT DO ANYTHING!!!
I wish it were that way over here at Villanova!

Colgate University is sponsoring a contest to find the best student after-dinner speaker . . . a free dinner, just to provide the right atmosphere, should enlarge their group of applicants. . .

A Footballer's Lament

The football field is hard and rough;
They do not keep it warm enough
It seems a pity that we can't
Equip it with a heating plant.

I'd like to kick and run the ball
But in the stands it's best of all.

The bleachers, warm with liquid fun
Is where my finest playing's done.

Let others block and hit the line—
Let me stay here and hand out mine

The football field is rough and chill.
And you can have it, if you will!

Mrs. Zachary Taylor, wife of the 12th president of the United States was an habitual pipe smoker.

Yale isn't the first school to sell her football broadcasts, but Old Ells going commercial is like hearing that grandma has gotten a job in a broadway chorus.

Leave it to Yale. The Bulldogs sold their concession to an oil company. This gives it the typical "big three" air of refinement.

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

OUT at Notre Dame the religious authorities of the university have organized a new course interner to increase th interest of the Catholic student in current affairs of his church. This new "class" will be conducted on an informal basis and will be held once a week in one of the smoking rooms of the college. Of course, one of the priests of the college will be the "prof," marks will not be given and compulsion will not bind any student. Any student will be allowed to present topics for discussion, the only limitation being that all topics must concern real practical questions to which non-Catholics often raise objections. Classes are more on the order of a "bull-session" and the Notre Dame authorities agree that it will do much to increase the capability of Catholic college men to answer the questions put to them on the outside.

What I am driving at is this — Can you with all your Catholic college training answer objections raised by non-Catholics? Frankly, you can't. How would the organization of such a "bull-session" on the Villanova campus strike you? Think it over and let us know.

After having seen Pennsylvania defeat a scrappy Lafayette team on Franklin Field last Saturday week, it is very easy to see just why the Quakers are afraid to engage our Wildcats on the gridiron. Penn has prestige in Philly and a little beating by the Wildcats or the Owls would knock that for a loop.

Alibis for week-end permission are many and varied, but the one offered by Joe O'Loughlin last week deserves space in this column.

When Father McKee went into his room on Friday evening he found a note addressed to him from that worthy Junior. It read — "Have gone home for week-end with a terrible toothache. New plate or set of false teeth on my return will prove my veracity. Thank you." Pretty smart, eh?

Frosh do you know—
That the circulation of this weekly is over twenty-five hundred. That's a lot of papers to roll up and send. Ask our pal Dobby.

That the Sophs had better get busy securing the Frosh dates for the hop, or they will have to turn to the upperclassmen.

That the "Rounds" list in Fedigan hall is now known as the "All-American."

That there is a member of your class who doesn't know what a V. C. is.

We often wonder — What ever happened to the ancient traditional custom of the Freshmen class wearing regs? It seems that the present class has forgotten the very term. Look into it Frosh; the regs are an important part of college that you'll never forget. You'll always remember them when other memories are lost.

Campus Celebs - - - By J. BRUNO

As We See It . . . The Cemetery

By HARRY PARKIN

UPON a grey, dreary afternoon, of a day on which the sun was obscured behind a mass of ashen clouds, whose dismal color was only occasionally relieved by careless stripes of blue vapors, whose edges merged with the grey expanse of the heavens to form an indeterminate mass of somberness, we were hurrying from the library; our coat clutched tight to keep out the damp and penetrating cold that seemed to presage the winter.

Our spirit was a victim to the pensive grief of Autumn, which had stolen, like an October haze, over our mind and heart dispelling from them the natural joys and beauties of the season. The season when nature riots in color—when her placid greens daily give way to the crimson splashes of the ash trees, the yellow spangles of the birches, the brown showers of the chestnuts, and the orange-scarlet of the maples, which seem like mirrors to reffect the glories of the sunset—when she becomes a panorama of shades, tones, and tints that wander with the sun-drenched winds. Autumn, the season that softens the memory of Summer's joys with sweet regrets, and gradually dispels the gorgeous tissue of fancies with which imagination has beguiled the heart through the dreamy days of Summer.

All Peace and Quiet Here

Suddenly our hurrying steps brought us to a hedged-in plot of ground—a solitary little plot, that goes unseen in the rolling expanse of the campus—a plot, wherein is housed what still remains of the College Fathers. In orderly rows they lie; each in his cell of clay, dressed in the vestments of his profession—asleep to the busy world about him.

No lofty monuments mark their humble graves; no embossed tablets stop the pedestrian with the stories of their deeds; no watchful figure chased in marble watches over their repose. Only a stone—a woefully, inadequate little stone tells each one's name, his birth and death, to the curious. Stones are there that stand straight and stalwart as though newly sprung from the womb of the earth, while others are withered and crumbled from the erosion of the years. And as the passing eye marks their ages, some are revealed as the founding Fathers who once praised their God in the small frame structure that first housed the College — others are there who worked the lively-hood of the little community from the reluctant soil — others who watched with joy the slow metamorphosis from wood to stone — and others, still, who saw building succeed building up to the present.

Mute Stone Is Witness

Each tiny stone tells its tale of joy and sorrow. Of those who constituted that intrepid band of visionaries, who first settled on this spot. Men who labored long and ardurously to bring their dreams to fruition — and when burdened with the years and their toil, drew their cowls' about them and crept silently away. Some are disclosed as being new to their priestly duties — eager and ardent to be upon the service of the Lord — when suddenly they were swept by an inscrutable fate into the unstiable arms of death. Others are discovered, who, while in the fulness of their strength, were looking on the past with satisfaction and on the future with relish, were suddenly and unaccountably summoned. And now all lie together, each with a little stone at his head.

But they need no memorials — no poets to sing in measured lines of valiance and feats — no historian faithful to the tales of their accomplishments — for every block of granite on the campus is an eternal paean to their fidelity and sacrifices. Zealous, painstaking, heroic, they moved in stately numbers down the annals of Villanova College, each imprinting on this spot an indelible mark of his passage.

The afternoon shadows slowly lengthened over the campus, when suddenly the solemn silence was broken by the measured tolling of the Angelus, as it rolled its daily benediction over their mouldering bones. And as the last note was lost in the distance of the darkening sky, we left them there, resting in the shadows of the Church

Pass In Review

By RICHARD DEVERALL

SCRATCHING around for something to put in this column, we finally concluded the search by phoning the Reverend Librarian.

"Tell the boys about the magazines," he said. "They rarely read them."

Good idea! we thought. So here goes.

AMERICAN REVIEW

Over on one corner of the Library table you'll find a small, gray-jacketed monthly called the American Review. It is a scholarly little journal more or less interested in a Christian reconstruction of the social order. In the September issue, you'll find a delightfully analytical article by A. J. Penty on "Communism." He makes observations which, although we may disagree, are thought-provoking. And in the same issue, Gilbert Keith Chesterton, modern and recently deceased defender of the Faith, contributes an article on "The Case against Corruption."

DUBLIN REVIEW

The Dublin Review, founded by Daniel O'Connell, is an Irish-English Quarterly somewhat like the American Review. In the July issue you'll find an interesting article on, "Catholics and Usury." You business men, trained by your capitalistic textbook writers to accept the modern system of usury in business, might well study this article, for it discusses the morality — or immorality — of lending money for gain and so forth. The mediaeval theory of interest and usury is one sadly in need of revival, for in the general rush to make money, even many Catholics, sadly, have failed to form properly their conscience as regards economic and social matters.

In this same Review, you'll discover dozens of good book reviews. These reviews are especially valuable because they'll keep you in touch with European books and authors.

CATHOLIC WORLD

The Catholic World is edited by Father James Gillis; it needs no further recommendation. The lucid, precise, logical editorials written by Father Gillis have won for this distinguished Paulist a reputation that girdles the globe. Although articles are at times published in this journal that are linguistically ponderous, even goonish, the magazine should nevertheless be on every Catholic student's "must" reading list.

CHEMICAL EDUCATION

The Journal of Chemical Education is an excellent, progressive Chemical Journal edited by Otto Reinmuth, a friend of our own Rev. Dr. Hammond. In the October issue, chemical students will find an informative article on boiling points, by H. B. Hass. Boiling points are of such basic importance, especially to the organic chemistry that ever chemical engineer and every pre-med ought to peruse the article today.

AMERICA

America is a sprightly weekly now wearing a new dress. It publishes articles of current interest, articles delineating Catholic social principles, book reviews, and a page of unusually fine poetry. You should subscribe to the magazine.

THE CHRISTIAN FRONT

This magazine, a new one, is a fairly good journal of social reconstruction. As it is concerned solely with fundamental principles of Catholic sociologic and economic thought, it ought to be read by everyone. One might even be rash enough to subscribe to it. The magazine prints pretty little pictures from time to time—a novelty among publications of this sort.

YOUR BULL SESSIONS

Read Catholic magazines and be an up-to-the-minute practical Catholic college student. Next time you are caught in a bull session and flat-chested, mealy-mouthed Joe College pipes up with his, "Say, did you see that one in Esquire?" you just show that you are an intelligent Catholic by telling the boys what you read in America, The Dublin Review, or The Christian Front.

We throw these magazines to you for what they are worth. If you are wise, you'll catch them — and

SPAIN

From an interview with Rev. Lorenzo P. Lozano, O. S. A., native of Spain, and Professor of Spanish at Villanova.)

BURNING BALLOTS

THE present government of Spain does not, and never did, represent the will of the people. Little wonder the usually peace-loving Spanish people have rebelled against it.

"When the election was held which swept the present Government into power, there were three major parties. The Rightists had split into the 'Centre' party and the 'Ceda' party, each with its own candidates. The Leftists remained intact and offered their own candidates.

"When the elections were over, and the ballots were counted, the radical Leftists, always up to some atrocity or other, deliberately burned the votes collected from notable Rightist districts.

"When the Rightists protested such outright debauchery, the Red element of the Leftists promptly squelched them, by turning their attention from the burning of ballots to the burning and razing of the homes and stores of Rightists."

RISING WRATH

"Appeals were made to the Government to restore order. But not wishing to antagonize its supporters, the Government did nothing.

"Mob rule became the order of the day. All the riff-raff, the castaways, the anarchists, the communists, roamed about in bands, destroying, confiscating and raising general havoc among respectable law-abiding citizens.

"At first there was only passive resistance. But as time went on the general run of Spaniards became thoroughly aroused, and like a mighty volcano, after letting off ominous rumblings, begins to spout forth deadly streams of molten lava, so the true Spaniards, prodded out of inaction, suddenly rose in their wrath to smite down this ugly specter of Communism, abruptly risen in their midst.

WHO'S WHO

"Behind the so-called 'Loyalists' in Spain are Communists, Syndicalists, Radical Republicans, Socialists and Anarchists, together with all other extremists of varying tints and hues.

"The 'rebels' are composed of the better classes of people, including the Royalists, Carlists, Catholics and Republicans. The majority of the Army, consisting mostly of the latter class, have taken up the cause of the rebels."

WHAT WILL RESULT?

"After the rebels have won, a dictatorship will probably be set up for the time being, until Spain becomes normal again. Then according to General Franco, chief of the 'rebels' a plebiscite will be held to determine whether or not the people want the king to return.

SIDELIGHTS

"If I were a parish Priest in Spain and I saw a Red mob coming to destroy my church, I would not sit idly by and see the property of my parishioners ruined, and have my own life threatened. If there were a gun near me, I would take it and shoot to kill.

"It is said that Priests are aiding the rebels, and I say that no Priest will look for trouble, but that if someone comes gunning for him, he has a perfect right to defend himself.

"Government forces, although they possess countless air-planes are nevertheless afraid to use them. Several pilots, especially from Madrid, have flown from the Red airdromes and deserted to the rebels."

2 SOCIAL AFFAIRS PLANNED BY P. K. P.

Smoker and Owl Hop to Be Outstanding in Engineering Society

At its third weekly meeting held yesterday noon in the amphitheatre in Mendel Hall, Phi Kappa Pi, held a lengthy discussion on its two coming social affairs, the Smoker and the Owl Hop.

Concerning the Smoker to be held on October 16, President Eugene Barr gave a summary of the activities of the committee. So far arrangements are well under way towards making this social one of the most outstanding in the history of the organization. Its primary purpose is to introduce fraternity members to the freshmen, all of whom will be the guests of the society.

Among the speakers on the extensive program will be T. Humphries, D. Sc., Dean of the Engineering school; Rev. John O'Leary, O. S. A., society mederator; Maurice "Clipper" Smith, and others.

The Owl Hop, second on the social calendar of the Phi Kappa Pi fraternity, will take place on Monday, Nov. 20. Joseph Duffy, chairman, has announced that the arrangements for the Hop are, at this early stage, near completion. The Villanovans will furnish the music for the dnce while the false ceiling used at the Junior Prom last year has been loaned to the group.

An effort to liven up the meetings held regularly by the group is being made by Mr. Barr, who has ben contacting noted campus figures to make appearances before the group to deliver short addresses. The first of this series will be held October 19.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO P. GOGGI

RUBINOFF, and his violin and 32-piece orchestra, one of radio's most widely-known musical combinations during the past twelve months, comes to the nation-wide Columbia network to inaugurate a new series of weekly programs commencing Sunday, October 18, from 6.30 to 7.00 P. M., E. S. T. The series will be sponsored by the Chevrolet Motor Company. Assisting Rubinoff will be Jan Peerce, tenor, and Virginia Rea, coloratura soprano, who with the premiere of the new Chevrolet program, starts their second year as supporting artist of the violinist.

The inaugural program of the new series also will mark the 25th anniversary of Rubinoff's entrance into the entertainment field. Born in Grodna, Russia, where he strummed the balalaika as a youth, his professional career started in vaudeville in America's Midwest and led to sensational conquest of Broadway, recognition in symphony for his work as a serious musician, and to nationwide acceptance as a radio name. Jan Peerce and Virginia Rea are widely known as vocalists on stage and radio.

Andre Travels Much

Andre Kostelanetz probably earns the classification of long-distance commuter with a vengeance. Each Friday night he streaks for Newark airport in New Jersey and settles inconspicuously in Los Angeles next morning. After a week-end of work on the Hollywood movie lot he steps into a plane Monday morning and is back in the CBS New York studios late Tuesday for rehearsal of his bi-weekly dance programs. On several such trips recently Kostelanetz noticed a colored porter at Newark eyeing him with curiosity. After the conductor's fourth round trip the porter approached him respectfully and inquired:

"Scuse me, boss, but has you got to inspect this line every week?"

Program Inaugurates Third Year

"Hollywood Hotel," one of Columbia's Broadcasting System's first big programs to come from the film capital, auspiciously began it's third year Friday, October 9, with a gala celebration featuring Errol Flynn and Oliva De Haviland in preview scenes from "The Charge of the Light Brigade," and the regular "Hollywood Hotel" headliners — Dick Powell, Frances Langford, Igor Gorin and Raymond Paige's Orchestra. Powell will be "cut in" on the full-hour program from New York, where he is honeymooning with Joan Blondell. This program rated a campus favorite on Friday evenings.

There is no record of a movie hero who let the purr of the all-seeing motion picture camera reduce him to shyness when called upon for a long romantic scene with the heroine. Yet, until Clark Gable came to the rescue on Columbia's "Hollywood Hotel" program, movie stars were so frightened by the studio audience that they did their radio stunts behind a screen. Gable put a stop to that by carefully folding up the screen and laying it away in a corner of the stage. Since then, none of the subsequent Hollywood stars has bothered to use it.

The film industry is waving a golden and bewitching wand over members of Columbia's "March of Time." Jack Smart, voice double on the series for Huey Long, Fiorello LaGuardia, Maury Maverick and others, was drafted last month for screen roles by universal. Billy and Bobby Mauch, child actors on the news dramitizations, may be currently seen in "Anthony Adverse" both as Anthony at the age of 10. Used interchangeably because they look so much alike, only Billy is billed Gloria Holden, the "March of Time" actress who imitates Ethel Barrymore, played the title role in "Dracula's Daughter,' while Porter Hall, who represents Hermann Wilhelm Goering and others on the air, had parts in the "Thin Man" and "Petrified Forest."

CAMPUS CAMERA

Forensic Society Holds Induction

Continued From Page One

season is apparent from last year's record and from the fact that the majority of last year's members are returning to the society.

In addition to the regular intercollegiate debating schedule, a series of exhibition debates are being arranged to be held at various Holy Name Society and Knights of Columbus receptions in the vicinity.

Radio Debates Planned

Mr. Differ also announced that a radio debate has been scheduled with Swarthmore College, and numerous other radio contests are being arranged.

After the formal introductions were completed and the new members accepted into the society, the banquet took on aspects of an informal "round-table" discussion which instilled a feeling of fellowship in both old and new members.

Plans and further discussions regarding the 1936-1927 debating schedule will be held at an initial Beta Gamma meeting later in the week.

L. K. D. FRATERNITY PLANS COMPLETED

Science Group Will Hold Annual Social Feature November 20

Lambda Kappa Delta, pre-medical fraternity opened its scholastic year last Thursday with hopeful prospects of a successful year. Under the energetic leadership of president Gerald Piserchia the organization has already started preparations for immediate functions.

Strict adherance to the organization By-laws was stressed at this first meeting with emphasis on the rule stating: "A member who absents himself from two consecutive meetings is not considered a member in good standing and if guilty of missing three consecutive gatherings is automatically dropped from the fraternity." Unified cooperation and payment of back dues was also urged for the success of the coming year.

Raffle Awards to be Announced

The proposed raffle of two tickets to the Temple-Villanova game is as yet not definite but will be decided in the near future. This has been an annual event in previous fraternity rosters. The date of the L. K. D. dance was also decided upon, Nov. 20. The committee for the latter will be announced sometime next week.

At the close of the gathering a change of meeting time was discussed but it was finally decided to retain Thursday afternoons at one o'clock for the reunion.

Villanova Alumni Form Large Unit

Continued From Page One

groups under the parent organization.

Similiar groups of alumni have expressed their intention of forming like organizations in their local communities. Chief among these are groups from Washington, D. C., Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and Newark, New Jersey.

Formation of alumni organizations in several of the larger cities was undertaken several years ago and these organizations have been flourishing for quite some time. Philadelphia, New York and Rochester have had Alumni Clubs for several years and their presence is greatly felt in the general alumni group.

Spanish Drama Expected Here

Continued From Page One

the inception of the organization on the campus.

In addition to the above mentioned performance, the members expressed their desire to read Spanish newspapers at all meetings. Subscription to Spanish periodicals and magazines by the club as a whole was another objective desired to be fulfilled by the students.

Mr. Bruno has announced that the next meeting of the organization is to be held on the last Thursday of October, in Room 104 Mendel Hall. An appeal is made so that non-members as well as members might attend.

DEBATERS MEET

Due to the inability of many students to attend a meeting at an earlier date, the initial meeting of the freshman debating team has been postponed until tomorrow. The meeting will be held at one o'clock in Room 214, Mendel Hall.

SANCTUARY SOCIETY MEETS

There will be a meeting of the Sanctuary Society, immediately after chapel tonight, in room 213 Mendel. All members are urged to attend. Any one desiring to join the Society also be present.

Plans Formulated For Soph. Frolic

Continued From Page One

Sophomore class members will wear boutonnieres of white carnations in their lapels.

Dance committee men will be distinguished from other members of the sophomore class by different colored carnations.

Success of Affair Predicted

Hugh F. Ferguson, chairman of the dance committee, expresses the belief that the annual affair will outclass any previous frolic of its kind.

"I am very much pleased," said Mr. Ferguson, "with the cooperation given by the members of the committee as well as the members of the sophomore class. The response of the upperclassmen and the freshmen has been so reassuring that we expect to present the best Sophomore Cotillion ever given on the Villanova campus. With the continued co-operation of everyone, we can assure a pleasant evening's entertainment for all."

COUNCIL CONVENES

There will be a meeting of the Student Council this evening at 5:30 P. M. in 215 Mendel Hall, it was announced today by Mario Menocal, chairman. All members are urged to attend.

Lucky for You — It's a Light Smoke!

A LIGHT SMOKE LEAVES A CLEAN TASTE

A clean taste—a clear throat—what a joy when you wake up in the morning! You'll be thankful that last evening you chose a light smoke—Luckies.

To feel good after smoking—

It's not just the pleasure a fellow gets out of smoking Lucky Strikes . . . it's feeling good after smoking! Fresh as a daisy. A clean taste in your mouth. And when you start singing in your bath—your voice clear as a bell! That's the great thing about a light smoke. Lucky Strikes—being made from the finest center-leaf tobaccos—taste good. And because they're a light smoke, you feel good smoking them. And after smoking them, too!

★ ★ NEWS FLASH! ★ ★

"Sweepstakes" bring pleasure to war veterans

From a veterans' home in Legion, Texas, a number of entries all in the same handwriting come in each week. Of course we checked up to make sure that the entries conformed to the rules, and one of the men explained: "Most of the boys can't get around—but I do and so I fill out their cards for them."

We're glad to say that the boys have been pretty good pickers, too.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your delicious Lucky Strikes? Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge, and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes." And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them, too. Maybe you've been missing something. You'll appreciate the advantages of Luckies—a Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

Luckies—a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO—"IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Nort Paden

WITH their third victory tucked carefully away the 'Cats are losing no time in getting down to hard work in preparation for the Western Maryland game in Shibe Park next Saturday. Penn State put a tough fighting team out on the field and for a time Villanova had their hands full. It was certainly a great game to watch.

—V—

Penn State is just about all Villanova could wish for in their opponents. Courteous and hospitable to their guests the Lions make the Main Liners feel right at home whenever they go there. At this point we wish to give the Sports Editor of the Penn State Collegian and also their publicity manager a big vote of thanks. The press passes that were so willingly proffered and the refreshments during the half were very gratefully received.

—V—

"Pop" Warner, grand old sportsman that he is, gave the Villanova team and mentor some fine compliments during Stoney McLinn's broadcast Friday night. Although a traditional enemy, "Pop" Warner is considered a mighty fine friend of Villanova by every one. We wonder why it is some coaches think in order to beat a particular team they have to instill an intense feeling of dislike for this team as individuals in their own boys. Warner certainly puts a team full of fight on the field against Villanova every year and not even a rumor of personal animosity has ever reached our ears.

—V—

Back to State again with a few remarks about the Lion Captain, Cherundolo, the big 6 foot one inch captain and center for the Staters, played one of the best games we have seen so far. At State, he is considered all-American material and we believe their predictions will come true. In every play except when hopelessly boxed the 20-year-old Higginsman reminded us of our own Eddie Michaels. A fast hard driving man on the line and a tower of defense in the backfield on defensive plays, he was found on the bottom of every pile up. A thorn in the side of the 'Cats all the time, he caused the Main Liners to lose plenty of yardage.

—V—

The 150-pound club practices daily in back of Mendel Hall and from the snap and fire they have shown just in practice drills they should go far under their new mentor, Dick Emmerling. One thing, however, is the remarks by the lounging bystanders. Although not often loud enough to be heard by the players, this new type of lilibfzing is not in keeping with the Villanova spirit. The fellows that practice out there play and fight just as hard as the Varsity team and they also bring just as much notice to Villanova in different circles. It's a representative Villanova team and they deserve just as much encouragement as anyone else.

—V—

Some fast action took place on our courts during the past week as the tennis intra-mural tournament held sway. From all reports there will be a hard battle for Varsity berths when the Tennis squad takes to the clay in the Spring. With the high winds continuing, however, the requets will go back into their presses and the tounrament will be over sooner than expected.

—V—

At the Church of the Sacred Heart in Lewistown, Pa., Father Kane during the 10:30 Mass on Sunday devoted his sermon to the Villanova Team. He said that it was a thrilling experience to see the Catholic members of the squad receive Holy Communion in a body Saturday morning before the game. His contention was that these real he-men showed a fine display of faith. Although their minds were filled with the thoughts of the game ahead of them, they still found time to show their intense devotion.

CLIPPER BREAKS STATE JINX

UNBEATEN WESTERN MARYLAND ELEVEN NEXT WILDCAT FOE

Green Terrors and Villanova Meet in Shibe Park Saturday

ENDS SHINE FOR TERRORS

Once again Villanova's Wildcats will face an undefeated team when they meet Western Maryland on the Shibe Park gridiorn next Saturday afternoon. In three contests played so far this season the Green Terrors have had things pretty much their own way, winning all three handily.

Western Maryland's 1936 edition is very much the same team that gave Villanova such a tough battle last year. Substantially reinforced by a promising crop of sophs, the Terrors should be even better.

Flanked by a pair of ends as good as can be found where football is played, the Terrors' line is exceptionally strong. Stan Benjamin, who holds down right end, is the answer to a coach's prayer. A sparkling pass receiver and a stone-wall on defense, he excels in all departments of end play.

Other standouts in the forward wall are Tony Ortenzi, tackle, his predecessor, Bernie Kaplan, is a lightheavyweight boxer.

In last year's fray the Southerners stopped the Wildcats' famed end runs cold, the 'Cats being unable to gain an inch around Benjamin or Lassahn. With the same two men holding down Western Maryland's end posts again, "Clipper" Smith's ball carriers are in for a tough afternoon.

Only lightning-like thrusts through the center of the line and the dazzling open field running of Nick Kotys and Andy Stopper saved the day for Villanova. But the Terrors have shown a greatly strengthened defense.

A wealth of holdover backfield material furnishes the Haven-coached aggregation with a strong attack. Lathrop, Brennan and Campbell are three backs who

Continued on Page Six

BOWLING AND POOL ROOMS OPEN AGAIN

Recreation Parlors Under Ray Murphy Ready for Use

When the elements begin to limit outdoor recreation, the students at Villanova need not worry about getting exercise, for they may seek diversion at the Gym. Especially for those who enjoy playing billiards or bowling over the maples, there will be an extensive program. The pool room and bowling alleys are already open every afternoon.

During the coming winter months Ray Murphy, who has charge of the pool room and bowling alleys, plans to conduct the intramural bowling tournament which proved so successful last year. In addition, there is proposed a pool tournament. Both of the tournaments will be elimination affairs. If Ray's plans materialize, the billiard enthusiasts will be given a treat. He hopes to be able to stage an exhibition between the best the campus can offer in the way of cue artists and an outstanding professional pool shark.

The bowling team, which made

Continued on Page Six

150-Pound Leader

LARRY STEAD

LIGHTWEIGHTS FACE RUTGERS ON FRIDAY

Emmerling's Squad Meets Undefeated New Brunswick Aggregation Here

Villanova's 150-lb football team will be faced with a large task on next Friday, when they will meet the strong Rutgers lightweights, undefeated Eastern 150-lb Conference champions for the past four years.

The boys in Scarlet will enter the game with five weeks of intensive training behind them, while the Wildcats have had only about half as many workouts.

This fact does not faze genial Dick Emmerling, Wildcat coach, however, for he feels quite confident that his charges will make things plenty warm for the Queensmen, when the two clubs clash. The Rutgers team, which scored an overwhelming win over the Blue and White last year, will be the favorites and this, Dick, believes will be a point in Villanova's favor.

As yet, Emmerling and his capable assistants, Mike Garbarke and Jerry Holland, have not decided upon the starting line-up, because the aspirants for all berths are very evenly matched and are waging grand battles for their jobs. The boys have shown much promise and much spirit in the short while they have been out, and this combination should make them a thorn in the side of all opposition.

FUTURE FOES GO GOOD

Boston University and Western Maryland Remain Undefeated

Last week saw three of Villanova's future opponents add to their prestiege by winning. Western Maryland remained in the undefeated class by turning back Providence College 13-6.

Toledo was defeated by Boston University by a 6-0 score, and South Carolina beat Florida 7 to 6.

Bucknell was not so fortunate however, for the boys from the University of Miami went back to the Southland with a victory over their hosts by a margin of one touchdown. Score 6-0.

In defeating Providence College Western Maryland showed their aggressiveness as well as their defensive strength by blocking a punt and converting it into their first score. Their final tally came late in the last quarter when Sadowski raced 35 yards for a touchdown.

Boston University's game with Toledo was marked by great defensive strategy. The score was the result of Toledo's fumble on their 11 yard line in the third perio

HEIGHT PREVAILS ON YEARLING CLUB

Frosh Basketeers Cluster At Six Foot Mark In Tall Squad

During the coming basketball season, Villanova will display one of the tallest freshman court teams in the history of the Blue and White annals.

This characteristic of the future Wildcat varsity should give them a decided advantage over all opponents in the line-up. With the proper seasoning, they should prove their superiority on the floor.

Here are some of the tabluations on the heights of some of the candidates. Henry Targenberg stands at six feet and six inches; at the same time tipping the scales at one hundred and ninety-two pounds. Paukner levels off at six and four while Sinnott, Ertle, and Duzowinski all hover around the six foot marker.

If these men can prove that they can get around the boards with an average amount of speed, then in a few years, Villanova is destained to spread its name for basketball far and wide.

All Positions Open

It must be borne in mind that the height is not the only important factor of a player on the Cats' court team. There is an open fight on for all positions for all comers. Pre-college reputation as a net swisher will do little good as everyone is treated alike. If there is any possibility of a good man to have on the boards showing in a candidate, he will get good coaching and a square deal.

Plenty of unknown talent will grace the court for the Blue and White this fall as a large turnout of men for the freshman team is looked forward to.

Practice wil start next week and with the spirit of the varsity running high, many hard games will be the feature of the early practice sessions.

FUTURE OPPENENTS

Oct. 17—	Western Maryland	Shibe Park
" 24—	Boston University	Shibe Park
" 31—	Bucknell	Away
Nov. 7—	South Carolina	Away
" 14—	Temple	Away
" 21—	Manhattan	Away

TRACK PRACTICE

Track practice under the direction of coach Jim "Jumbo" Elliot will be held daily at 3:00 P. M. Any new aspirants for the team may report today.

Cats Blank Nittany Foe As Stopper Scores Twice

Score No Indication of Villanova Eleven's Supremacy; Wet Field, Plus Fumbles By Main Liners, Keep Scoring Low

VICTORY IS FIRST AGAINST STATE

By PAT VASSALLUZZO

State College, Pa., Oct. 10.—Villanova's Wildcats made another first down on their march to an undefeated season when the roaring Penn State Lions coached by Bob Higgins were throttled 13-0, here at Beaver Field today.

"Clipper" now has the distinction of being the first Villanova coach to come up here and beat a State team. Of the other five games played since the series started in 1902, the Lions have won four and tied one.

The score in no way indicates the superiority shown by the 'Cats. The visitors made ten first downs to State's four and gained a total of 239 yards to the home team's 82. Incidently, two of the first downs made by the Nittany Lions resulted from passes and one from a Villanova penalty.

The Wildcats kept the ball in State territory the entire game. The closest the Lions came to scoring was in the third quarter when a penalty advanced the pigskin to the Villanova 35 yard line. On the very next play, however, State pass was intercepted by Ray Stovlak, 'Cat right halfback, and a possible State threat was checked.

The visitors scored their first touchdown in the first quarter and another in the last quarter. On both occasions it was Stopper who carried the pigskin into the end-zone.

Captain "Chuck" Cherundolo won the toss from captain Tony Sala of Villanova, and elected to kick. Stoviak made a beautiful stoestring catch on about his own 20 yard line and ran the ball back about five yards. After two tries through the line Stopper punted. From this point on the ball remained in State territory throughout the first half.

Two passes, one from Stopper to Stoviak and another from Stoviak to Sala, paved the way for the first Wildcat score. These two passes placed the ball on the ten yard

Continued on Page Six

HIGH SPIRIT MARKS VARSITY WORKOUTS

New Backboards Installed In Gymnasium For Basketball Practice Sessions

From behind the curtain of last year's disappointing season, the new edition of Villanova's basketeers is slowly taking shape. Under the direction of A. G. Severance, new head mentor and coach of last year's undefeated freshman team, a high spirit marks the first workouts.

The new coach wants it emphatically understood that any one in the student body is welcome to try out for the team. The new coach further states that "No position on the team is clinched, regardless of veteran experience or past records."

There will be an innovation in the practice sessions this year, because of the renovations now in progress at the new Gym. Additional backboards and baskets will make it possible for freshmen and varsity teams to practice at the same time.

Major Schedule

Basketball will receive greater at-

Continued on Page Six

'Cats Blank Lions As Stopper Scores

Continued From Page Five

stripe. Earle and Stopper rammed the line for five more yards, then Stopper raced around right end and crossed the goal line standing up.

Again, in the second period, a pass from Stopper to Fox put the 'Cats in scoring position, but the visitors fumbled. The oval was recovered by State and punted out of the danger zone.

The first half ended with the 'Cats on the long end of a 6-0 score. State, in the meantime, had not even made a first down.

Villanova lost another chance to score in the third quarter when, after a fifty-yard drive down the field, the 'Cats fumbled. Christopher, who played a stellar brand of football all afternoon, tried the State line and was hit hard, the ball bouncing out of his arms.

The third quarter ended with the pigskin in Villanova's possession on State's four yard line. This climaxed a 'Cat drive of some twenty yards with Art Raimo and Andy Stopper carrying the ball.

Raimo started the fourth period with a line plunge that put the oval inches from the end-zone. Stopper then hit the State line, bounced back, and spun through an opening at guard for the final touchdown. Christopher's placement kick was good, and the score read Villanova 13, Penn State 0.

The game ended with the ball in Villanova's possession. It remained in Villanova's possession too, for as soon as that final whistle blew, Stan Galazin, 'Cat center, scooped up that oval and handed it to "Clipper" Smith.

Captain Sala and his team must be congratulated on their fine play, both offensively and defensively. No one man was outstanding; every Wildcat player to get into the game was. Captain "Chuck" Cherundolo's fine play at center for State is also worthy of mention. To him and several other of his teammate's goes the credit for keping down the score.

FIRST OF SERIES

Penn State	Positions	Villanova
Adessa	Left End	Sala (C.)
Schuyler	Left Tackle	Rogers
Barth	Left Guard	Missar
Cherundolo (C.)	Center	Galazin
Toretti	Right Guard	Rizzo
DeMarino	Right Tackle	Olivar
Barantovich	Right End	Fox
Harrison	Quarterback	Christopher
Patrick	Left Halfback	Stopper
Donato	Right Halfback	Stoviak
Silvano	Fullback	Earle

Penn State ..... 0 0 0 0—0
Villanova ..... 6 0 0 7—13

Touchdowns—Stopper, 2. Point after touchdown—Christopher (placement).

Substitutes — Penn State: Ends, Smith, Waugaman, Morini; tackles, Hanley; guards, Wible; backs, Wear, Metro, Denise, Endera, Kyle. Villanova: Ends, Wysocki, Bell; tackles, Mellus, Elbner; guards, Hanna, Kuber; center, McKenna; backs, Railmo, Nye, Buek, Foley.

Referee—C. L. Bolster, Pittsburg. Umpire—E. F. Hughitt, Michigan. Lineman—A. B. Maginnes, Lehigh. Field Judge—T. J. Davies, Pittsburg.

NATATORS IN SHAPE FOR TOUGH SEASON

Swimmers Practice Daily Under New Coach; Candidates Wanted

After practicing steadily for the past two weeks the Villanova swimming team has rounded into splendid form. Already they are in mid-season form. Faced with a stiff schedule the Wildcats have been bolstered by the return of one of it's former natators and the advent of a new one.

Jack Hosey, star swimmer of the 1934-35 team, who was unable to participate last year because of injuries, has decided that he is ready to return to the wars of the pool once more. A versatile swimmer and diver, his presence will most certainly be felt on this years team. The new comer is last year's West Catholic swimming and diving champion, Charlie Timmins. His specialty is the 220 yard free-style.

Facing a stiff schedule rumored to include Carnegie Tech, the Villanova natators continue their daily practice in the College pool. And anyone who wishes to try out for the team may do so by seeing Coach Mathieu. He is at the swimming pool between 3:30 and 5:00 P. M., when practice is held.

Life-saving and swimming classes will start sometime in the near future, probably next Monday. Anyone who wishes may enroll in these classes.

High Spirit Marks Varsity Workouts

Continued From Page Five

tention this year because of the major schedule which awaits the team. Games have been arranged with many of the nation's leading teams, including N. Y. U., Temple, Indiana, Duquesne, Westminister, C. C. N. Y., St. Johns, George Washington U., Providence and Springfield.

Interest in the games will be increased by the installation of a large score board showing the name of every player, and his game record, thus giving a personal touch to every contest. Ball retrievers used by many of the large colleges and universities will be another innovation.

According to Coach Severance, "As evidenced so far, the spirit is wonderful and plenty of competition will be offered by the veterans, Brennan, McNally, McKenna, Noonan, and the new men, Montgomery, Vigilante, Krutulis, Hopkins, Wannemacher, Hobson, Dubino, and Burlington.

STAFF MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the entire sports staff this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. Will all members please make it their duty to be present? All new members must be there. The meeting will be held in the VILLANOVAN office, 119 Mendel Hall.

Western Maryland Next Villanova Foe

Continued From Page Five

played brilliantly as sophomores last year and should be improved by virtue of added experience.

In the three games this season the Terrers have been extended but once and at that not seriously. They brushed aside Shenandoah Upsala without any trouble at all, piling up substantial margins. Providence was stronger, but the Marylanders flashed an aeriel attack that was sufficient to subdue the Friars.

This Saturday the 'Cats will encounter a smart, mardhitting, veteran eleven that has what it takes to make a succeseful football team. Villanova will need every bit of the power and speed, and all the accuracy of the pasing attack that enabled it to down Penn State last week. If it is to keep its record unsmirched.

Bowling and Pool Rooms Open Again

Continued From Page Five

its appearance in the sport curriculum of the college last year, is again planned. Although Olivari, star football tackle, is the only member still in school, the others having graduated, the prospects for having a good team are bright.

Several freshman, who have made fine records as pinmen in their home towns, boost the hopes for the coming season. There will be attempts made to schedule matches with colleges in the vicinity having bowling teams.

PLAY TWO IN FIVE DAYS

Pop Warner's Temple Owls are endeavoring to win two games this week. Yesterday's Boston College contest was the first, and the battle with Carnegie Tech is the second. Villanova rooters will be able to get a line on the power of the Owls. Two wins in a week, if the Warner men can do it, is very good football. Should the Flock take two this week, the Wildcats will do well to beware of their traditional foes.

A. A. U. TO MEET IN HOUSTON The 48th annual convention of the A. A. U. will be held in Houston, Texas, on December 4, 5 and 6, as originally awarded at the 1935 convention, it was announced yesterday at the local A. A. U. headquarters.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going—easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low—only 36 cents—sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

Villanova, Pa. Phone: Bryn Mawr 440

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

FOR HIGHER GRADES IN COLLEGE

Get the Pen That Never Runs Dry in Classes or Exams

The All-American College Favorite

With Double Ink Capacity and Full-length Visible Ink Supply Shows DAYS AHEAD When It's Running Low

Do the thing that you know is the thing to do—replace your old-style pen with this miracle Vacumatic—Parker's revolutionary invention that holds 102% more ink WITHOUT INCREASE IN SIZE—that shows the ENTIRE ink supply, not merely the last drop—shows not only when your pen is empty, but shows DAYS AHEAD when it's running low, so it CAN'T run dry against your will!

Today the Parker Vacumatic is the world's long-distance writer and Style and Beauty Winner—the sacless marvel whose simple working parts are sealed in the top—never touched by ink, hence won't corrode or fail. That's why it's GUARANTEED Mechanically Perfect.

In the hands of millions of users, using all kinds of ink, this marvelous pen has repeatedly proved that it "can take it" anywhere and any time—it never leaves its owner gasping for ink in classes or exams.

If you'll go and try its marvelous SCRATCH-PROOF Point of precious Platinum and Solid Gold, you'll give your old-style pen to the rummage sale. Look for the smart ARROW clip—this ARROW identifies the genuine. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Parker VACUMATIC

GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT

Junior, $5 Over-Size, $10 Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5

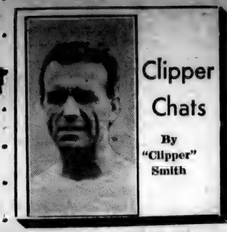
"Imagine, Imogene, she only pays 10¢ for those divine cigarettes." "Get wise, Gloriana, Twenty Grand's crashed the 400!"

Copr. 1936 The Axton-Fisher Tobacco Co., Inc.

WE CERTIFY that we have inspected the Turkish and Domestic Tobaccos blended in TWENTY GRAND cigarettes and find them as fine in smoking quality as those used in cigarettes costing as much as 50% more.

(Signed) Seil, Putt & Rusby Inc.
(In collaboration with tobacco expert)

ALSO OBTAINABLE IN FLAT FIFTIES



Clipper Chats

By "Clipper" Smith

The State victory makes three in a row, and a very contented person I am too. Although we showed plenty of pep and alertness against Detroit, I wasn't throwing any bouquets around over the Penn State fracas. I s this because the two teams present such a difference in their modes of attack. I hope you won't mind my bringing Detroit into this discussion, because they will serve to make my meaning clearer.

Detroit was essentially a passing team. Against such a team, the players are under more of a tension, because of "the constant mental strain of seeing the ball whizzing ten feet overhead, and hoping that the deep pass defenders are awake.

"Powerhouse" State

Penn State is more of a powerhouse club. They rely mainly on line smashes and the use of sheer power ahead of the ball carrier. They have a fairly heavy line and a fast backfield. The team that might defeat a passing team necessarily would not win over a power club, because of the basic differences in attack.

We went into the Detroit game with almost all the emphasis on pass defense, and we didn't worry so much about stopping their line plays. In the Penn State game, we were equally concerned with both passes and their running attack. Against Detriot, we use a 6-2-2-1 defense with guards dropping back to defend against the aerials, against State, we used the same 6-2-2-1 with the guards rushing through the line, both to rush the passer and to nail running plays before they got started.

State's Line Aggressive

In the first few plays, State's line was charging ferociously, setting our line back on their heels, and crashing through to stop the play before it was fairly started. We were forced to kick to save our necks. After that first flurry of jitters, Villanova steadied down, and we "bearded the Lion in his den." State kept up its aggressive charges all through the game, and I must put in a word for State's captain, Charley Cherundolo, an excellent center who played heads-up ball through out the game. To him must go a lion's share of the credit for keeping our score down. He was in every play, and spoiled at least two of our chances for additional touchdowns.

As an experiment, I used Artie Raimo, my pony fullback, at right half, in combination with Earle at full and Stopper and Christopher. And those four certainly clicked. I used Raimo's flashy speed, Earle's power, and Stopper's speed and power to line up a fast and powerful packfield in one unit.

'Cats Show Improvement

We played an improved game against the Nittany Lion. Our blocking shows polish, and our boys are consistently alert.

150-POUND CLUB IN FIRST SCRIMMAGE

Lightweights Practice for Initial Contest; Garbark Supervises Play

Villanova's 150 - pound football team went through its first scrimmage last Friday under the direction of assistant coach Garbark. Emmerling had left with the varsity that morning for Penn State.

Paul Kerrigan, veteran fullback, was the outstanding player both offensively and defensively. Paul carried the ball for continuous substantial gains through the line and on reverses off-tackle. He also did a fine job of backing up the line with Joe Alessandroni.

Captain Larry Stead played exceptionally well on the line for the first scrimmage of the season. Time and time again he stopped plays right on the line of scrimmage, and with the help of Irv Uram, another veteran guard, opened up large holes in the opposing line. Stan Bobrowski, sophomore candidate for the center position, also played a bang-up defensive game before he hurt his shoulder.

Fortunato and McHugh appeared to be the best ends on the field. Joe Pagano, a product of Bridgeport High, was effective backing up the line. Little Carl Fanteleo, who boxed in the 125-pound class last year, showed promising ability at left halfback. George Oesterle, a veteran halfback of last year, also played well.

Both teams played better defensive than offensively. Only two long gains occurred during the scrimmage. The first came in the opening minutes of the fray, when Panteleo tossed a pass to Osterle who carried the ball for about a thirty yard gain. The other came late in the afternoon, when Kerrigan got loose on a spinner play and raced almost forty yards before he was finally stopped.

Although the timing and the running of the plays was ragged, the squad showed spirit and should with more practice present a tough eleven for the other members of the League to conquer. The full power of the team was not at all represented Friday. Such veterans as Lou Beister, Jim Cousart, Bill Corkill and many others were not present.

Here and There

By WILLIAM J. BOWKER

So Pop Warner and Harvey Harman gave "Clipper" Smith a bath towel with which to dry his copious tears. To us, the "Clipper" is very reminiscent of Gil Dobie, now coach of Boston College. Incidentally, last week we stated that Vince McNally was a swell line coach. It seems that he is a swell backfield coach. The best way to find whether or not anybody reads a column is to make a mistake. However, of those who notified us of the error, the majority were football managers.

Baseball has made its final bow with the ending of the World's Series, and with the conclusion of the season comes the first annual rumor that Babe Ruth is going to manage a major league team. Twice yearly the Bambino is slated to assume managerial reins, once at the beginning of the spring training season and then more emphatically at the end of the year. The ill-starred Brooklyn Dodgers are this year's nominees ...In case you forget, Benny Geraghty belongs to that institution. That just about ends baseball at Villanova until Doc Jacobs starts our boys warming up in the gym around the end of February.

Fire or no fire, the Wildcat basketball squad is letting no grass grow under its feet. The lads are practicing in Alumni Gym until the New Gym floor is repaired. Four new baskets have been put up along the gym balcony. Probably to sharpen the eyes of the Feline court crew. And while we're on the subject of basketball, you should see Walt McKenna move in the practice sprints. He surprised everyone by showing speed that no one believed him capable of having. The large squad reporting to Coach Severance should presage a successful court campaign.

Philadelphia's Record furnishes two items by way of the columns of Leonard Lyons and Cecil Pennyfeather. Item one: It seems that the New York correspondent of the London Express wanted to know if the home office desired any stories on the late World Series. The office wired back. "Yes, want 200 words on 'An Englishman Looks at the Tigers.' " Item two (from Cecil): Temple, who has sold their radio rights for football games, has signed with an oil company to broadcast the basketball games over WIP.

Last Thursday night the All-American Board held a meeting. Training rules were discussed.

Dick Emmerling's one-fifties were to have scrimmaged Malvern during the past week, but the arrangements did not click and the greatly anticipated contest did not materialize. However an intra-club scrimmage took place with the boys assaulting one another instead of hammering Malvern. The absence of some of the members who went to Penn State was felt.

It is with regret that we hear of the dropping of touch football from the intermural sports schedule. A hearty lack of interest caused the action, which is to be mourned. Considering the lively interest evidenced in the interhall basketball, it is a shame that football should suffer this year. In the pigskin game more men see action due to the size of the teams and the fact that frequent substitutions are made, so the excuse of "I don't get a chance to get in the game." doesn't hold. However, whether or not the game is restored to the intermural program rests entirely upon the students. The Intermural Committee is willing to do its part.

We see by the papers that Joe Louis had another workout last week. Joe has yet to face anyone besides Schmeling who can do much in the ring. (Philadelphia's Al Ettore is included in that statement.)

Speaking of Joe Louis reminds us of how the "experts" predicted the Louis-Schmeling affair, and of our ambition to attempt an entry into that august circle of sports writers known as "experts."

JEANNETT'S BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP

Floral Ideas For All Occasions

Specializing in Corsages

Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association

823 Lancaster Ave. Bryn Mawr 570

COLADONATO TAILOR SHOPPE

College Tailor Since 1925

Handles anything that can be cleaned, dyed or repaired. It is not how cheap, but how good.

SUITS DRY CLEANED and PRESSED ..... 75¢

SUITS PRESSED ..... 35¢

Real Tailored Suits Made to Order

-:- All Prices -:-

See Campus Representative "POP" SHEALEY 235 Austin Hall

BEFORE TOO LATE GET YOUR COLLEGE RING

Bearing Official Seal

Certified $2.00 Value only 25¢ with the purchase of a bottle of Parker Quink at 15c—Total 40c... YOU SAVE $1.7

The Parker Pen Co. makes this amazing offer solely to induce you to try Parker Quink—the remarkable new ink that cleans your pen as it writes—that dries ON PAPER 31% faster, yet does NOT dry in a pen.

Get Quink today from any store selling ink. Tear off the box-top, and on the back write the FULL NAME of your school or college and your name and address. Then mail box-top with 25 cents in coin to The Parker Pen Co., Dept. 73 Janesville, Wis.

Don't delay. This offer ends Dec. 31, 1936, if supply lasts.

STAMP COLLECTION WANTED

I will buy desirable U. S. or General Collection. Also accumulations, sheets, etc. Please describe.

R. A. COLEMAN

5855 Bartlett St., Pittsburgh

SLAVIN'S

Sporting Goods Store

39 East Lancaster Avenue ARDMORE

Phone Ardmore 607

33 1-3% Discount on all athletic equipment to Villanova Students.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure

COLEBY TAILORING INC.

Suits and Topcoats $24.75

See FANCY DAN SCHOPPMEYER THE SWITCH HITTER The Pride of Stroudsburg

Campus Agent ROOM 101 AUSTIN HALL

Store at 57th and Market Sts.

JOHN MARMER

32 S. MERION AVENUE BRYN MAWR

Whipping Cream Cream Buttermilk

Tellephone Bryn Mawr 885

WALTER M. ROY

MOTOR MACHINE SHOP

Machine Work of Every Description - Auto Repairing of the Better Kind - Sharpening and Repairing Lawn Mowers.

Berwyn 560 Berwyn, Pa.

C. W. Caldwallader

Paints, Glass and Painter's Supplies

BUILDERS' SPECIALTIES

6101 MARKET ST. Philadelphia

Phone SHErwood 1423

5¢

SPECIAL SCHOOL TICKETS can be used by COLLEGE STUDENTS on LANCASTER PIKE buses

TO

WAYNE, BRYN MAWR, HAVERFORD, ARDMORE, NARBERTH, CYNWYD, GLADWYNE WYNNEWOOD, OVERBROOK, PHILADELPHIA

And Intermediate Points

Tickets for Sale in the VILLANOVA BOOK STORE in MENDEL HALL

ARONIMINK TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

"The coach says don't forget to call home tonight after seven or any time Sunday at the reduced Long Distance rates."

● Taking a trip with the team? Send the good news home by telephone.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

'Cats Blank Lions As Stopper Scores

Continued From Page Five

stripe. Earle and Stopper rammed the line for five more yards, then Stopper raced around right end and crossed the goal line standing up.

Again, in the second period, a pass from Stopper to Fox put the 'Cats in scoring position, but the visitors fumbled. The oval was recovered by State and punted out of the danger zone.

The first half ended with the 'Cats on the long end of a 6-0 score. State, in the meantime, had not even made a first down.

Villanova lost another chance to score in the third quarter when, after a fifty-yard drive down the field, the 'Cats fumbled. Christopher, who played a stellar brand of football all afternoon, tried the State line and was hit hard, the ball bouncing out of his arms.

The third quarter ended with the pigskin in Villanova's possession on State's four yard line. This climaxed a 'Cat drive of some twenty yards with Art Raimo and Andy Stopper carrying the ball.

Raimo started the fourth period with a line plunge that put the oval inches from the end-zone. Stopper then hit the State line, bounced back, and spun through an opening at guard for the final touchdown. Christopher's placement kick was good, and the score read Villanova 13, Penn State 0.

The game ended with the ball in Villanova's possession. It remained in Villanova's possession too, for as soon as that final whistle blew, Stan Galazin, 'Cat center, scooped up that oval and handed it to "Clipper" Smith.

Captain Sala and his team must be congratulated on their fine play, both offensively and defensively. No one man was outstanding; every Wildcat player to get into the game was. Captain "Chuck" Cherundolo's fine play at center for State is also worthy of mention. To him and several other of his teammate's goes the credit for keping down the score.

FIRST OF SERIES

Penn State	Positions	Villanova
Adesa	Left End	Sala (C)
Schuyler	Left Tackle	Rogers
Earle	Left Guard	Missar
Cherundolo (C)	Center	Galazin
Toretti	Right Guard	Rizzo
DeMarino	Right Tackle	Oliver
Baruntovich	Right End	Fox
Harrison	Quarterback	Christopher
Patrick	Left Halfback	Stopper
Donato	Right Halfback	Stoviak
Silvano	Fullback	Earle

Penn State	0	0	0	0—0
Villanova	6	0	0	7—13

Touchdowns—Stopper, 2. Point after touchdown—Christopher (placement).

Substitutes—Penn State: Ends, Smith, Wanamun, Morini; tackles, Hanley; guards, Wilde; backs, Wear, Metro, Denise, Endera, Kyle. Villanova: Ends, Wysocki, Tell; tackles, Mellus, Elsner; guards, Hanni, Kuber; center, McKenna; backs, Raimo, Nye, Buck, Foley.

Referee—C. L. Bolster, Pittsburg. Umpire—E. F. Hughitt, Michigan. Linesman—A. E. Magunes, Lehigh. Field Judge—T. J. Davies, Pittsburg.

NATATORS IN SHAPE FOR TOUGH SEASON

Swimmers Practice Daily Under New Coach; Candidates Wanted

After practicing steadily for the past two weeks the Villanova swimming team has rounded into splendid form. Already they are in mid-season form. Faced with a stiff schedule the Wildcats have been bolstered by the return of one of it's former natators and the advent of a new one.

Jack Hosey, star swimmer of the 1934-35 team, who was unable to participate last year because of injuries, has decided that he is ready to return to the wars of the pool once more. A versatile swimmer and diver, his presence will most certainly be felt on this years team. The new comer is last year's West Catholic swimming and diving champion, Charlie Timmins. His specialty is the 220 yard free-style.

Facing a stiff schedule rumored to include Carnegie Tech, the Villanova natators continue their daily practice in the College pool. And anyone who wishes to try out for the team may do so by seeing Coach Mathieu. He is at the swimming pool between 3:30 and 5:00 P. M., when practice is held.

Life-saving and swimming classes will start sometime in the near future, probably next Monday. Anyone who wishes may enroll in these classes.

High Spirit Marks Varsity Workouts

Continued From Page Five

tention this year because of the major schedule which awaits the team. Games have been arranged with many of the nation's leading teams, including N. Y. U., Temple, Indiana, Duquesne, Westminister, C. C. N. Y., St. Johns, George Washington U., Providence and Springfield.

Interest in the games will be increased by the installation of a large score board showing the name of every player, and his game record, thus giving a personal touch to every contest. Ball retrievers used by many of the large colleges and universities will be another innovation.

According to Coach Severance, "As evidenced so far, the spirit is wonderful and plenty of competition will be offered by the veterans, Brennan, McNally, McKenna, Noonan, and the new men, Montgomery, Vigilante, Krutulis, Hopkins, Wannemacher, Hobson, Dubino, and Burlington.

STAFF MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the entire sports staff this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. Will all members please make it their duty to be present? All new members must be there. The meeting will be held in the VILLANOVAN office, 119 Mendel Hall.

Western Maryland Next Villanova Foe

Continued From Page Five

played brilliantly as sophomores last year and should be improved by virtue of added experience.

In the three games this season the Terrors have been extended but once and at that not seriously. They brushed aside Shenandoah Upsala without any trouble at all, piling up substantial margins, Providence was stronger, but the Marylanders flashed an aeriel attack that was sufficient to subdue the Friars.

This Saturday the 'Cats will encounter a smart, mardhitting, veteran eleven that has what it takes to make a successful football team. Villanova will need every bit of the power and speed, and all the accuracy of the pasing attack that enabled it to down Penn State last week. If it is to keep its record unsmirched.

Bowling and Pool Rooms Open Again

Continued From Page Five

its appearance in the sport curriculum of the college last year, is again planned. Although Olivari, star football tackle, is the only member still in school, the others having graduated, the prospects for having a good team are bright.

Several freshman, who have made fine records as pinmen in their home towns, boost the hopes for the coming season. There will be attempts made to schedule matches with colleges in the vicinity having bowling teams.

PLAY TWO IN FIVE DAYS

Pop Warner's Temple Owls are endeavoring to win two games this week. Yesterday's Boston College contest was the first, and the battle with Carnegie Tech is the second. Villanova rooters will be able to get a line on the power of the Owls. Two wins in a week, if the Warner men can do it, is very good football. Should the Flock take two this week, the Wildcats will do well to beware of their traditional foes.

A. A. U. TO MEET IN HOUSTON

The 48th annual convention of the A. A. U. will be held in Houston, Texas, on December 4, 5 and 6, as originally awarded at the 1935 convention, it was announced yesterday at the local A. A. U. headquarters.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE

Iron out your laundry worries

SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY

By the Railway Express Route...

Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.

Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.

You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 38 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.

Villanova, Pa. Phone: Bryn Mawr 440

RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.

NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

FOR HIGHER GRADES IN COLLEGE

Get the Pen That Never Runs Dry in Classes or Exams

The All-American College Favorite

With Double Ink Capacity and Full-length Visible Ink Supply Shows DAYS AHEAD When It's Running Low

Do the thing that you know is the thing to do—replace your old-style pen with this miracle Vacumatic—Parker's revolutionary invention that holds 102% more ink WITHOUT INCREASE IN SIZE—that shows the ENTIRE ink supply, not merely the last drop—shows not only when your pen is empty, but shows DAYS AHEAD when it's running low, so it CAN'T run dry against your will!

Today the Parker Vacumatic is the world's long-distance writer and Style and Beauty Winner—the sacless marvel whose simple working parts are sealed in the top—never touched by ink, hence won't corrode or fail. That's why it's GUARANTEED Mechanically Perfect.

In the hands of millions of users, using all kinds of ink, this marvelous pen has repeatedly proved that it "can take it" anywhere and any time—it never leaves its owner gasping for ink in classes or exams.

If you'll go and try its marvelous SCRATCH-PROOF Point of precious Platinum and Solid Gold, you'll give your old-style pen to the rummage sale. Look for the smart ARROW clip—this ARROW identifies the genuine. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

Parker VACUMATIC GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT

Junior, $5 Over-Size, $10 $7.50 Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5

"Imagine, Imogene, she only pays 10¢ for those divine cigarettes."
"Get wise, Gloriana, Twenty Grand's crashed the 400!"

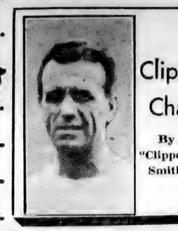
Copr. 1936 The Axton-Fisher Tobacco Co., Inc.

WE CERTIFY that we have inspected the Turkish and Domestic Tobaccos blended in TWENTY GRAND cigarettes and find them as fine in smoking quality as those used in cigarettes costing as much as 50% more.

(Signed) Seil, Putt & Rusby Inc.
(In collaboration with tobacco expert)

ALSO OBTAINABLE IN FLAT FIFTIES



Clipper Chats

By "Clipper" Smith

The State victory makes three in the bag, and a very contented person I am too. Although we showed plenty of pep and alertness against Detroit, I wasn't throwing any bouquets around over the Penn State fracas. I s this because the two teams present such a difference in their modes of attack. I hope you won't mind my bringing Detroit into this discussion, because they will serve to make my meaning clearer.

Detroit was essentially a passing team. Against such a team, the players are under more of a tension, because of the constant mental strain of seeing the ball whizzing ten feet overhead, and hoping that the deep pass defenders are awake.

"Powerhouse" State

Penn State is more of a powerhouse club. They rely mainly on line smashes and the use of sheer power ahead of the ball carrier. They have a fairly heavy line and a fast backfield. The team that might defeat a passing team necessarily would not win over a power club, because of the basic differences in atack.

We went into the Detroit game with almost all the emphasis on pass defense, and we didn't worry so much about stopping their line plays. In the Penn State game, we were equally concerned with both passes and their running attack. Against Detriot, we use a 6-2-2-1 defense with guards dropping back to defend against the aerials, against State, we used the same 6-2-2-1 with the guards rushing through the line, both to rush the passer and to nail running plays before they got started.

State's Line Aggressive

In the first few plays, State's line was charging ferociously, setting our line back on their heels, and crashing through to stop the play before it was fairly started. We were forced to kick to save our necks. After that first flurry of jitters, Villanova steadied down, and we "bearded the Lion in his den."

State kept up its aggressive charges all through the game, and I must put in a word for State's captain, Charley Cherundolo, an excellent center who played heads-up ball through out the game. To him must go a lion's share of the credit for keeping our score down. He was in every play, and spoiled at least two of our chances for additional touchdowns.

As an experiment, I used Artie Raimo, my pony fullback, at right half, in combination with Earle at full and Stopper and Christopher. And those four certainly clicked. I used Raimo's flashy speed, Earle's power, and Stopper's speed and power to line up a fast and powerful packfield in one unit.

'Cats Show Improvement

We played an improved game against the Nittany Lion. Our blocking shows polish, and our boys are consistently alert.

150-POUND CLUB IN FIRST SCRIMMAGE

Lightweights Practice for Initial Contest; Garbark Supervises Play

Villanova's 150 - pound football team went through its first scrimmage last Friday under the direction of assistant coach Garbark. Emmerling had left with the varsity that morning for Penn State.

Paul Kerrigan, veteran fullback, was the outstanding player both offensively and defensively. Paul carried the ball for continuous substantial gains through the line and on reverses off-tackle. He also did a fine job of backing up the line with Joe Alessandroni.

Captain Larry Stead played exceptionally well on the line for the first scrimmage of the season. Time and time again he stopped plays right on the line of scrimmage, and with the help of Irv Uram, another veteran guard, opened up large holes in the opposing line. Stan Bobrowski, sophomore candidate for the center position, also played a bang-up defensive game before he hurt his shoulder.

Fortunato and McHugh appeared to be the best ends on the field. Joe Pagano, a product of Bridgeport High, was effective backing up the line. Little Carl Panteleo, who boxed in the 125-pound class last year, showed promising ability at left halfback. George Oesterle, a veteran halfback of last year, also played well.

Both teams played better defensive than offensively. Only two long gains occurred during the scrimmage. The first came in the opening minutes of the fray, when Panteleo tossed a pass to Osterle who carried the ball for about a thirty yard gain. The other came late in the afternoon, when Kerrigan got loose on a spinner play and raced almost forty yards before he was finally stopped.

Although the timing and the running of the plays was ragged, the squad showed spirit and should with more practice present a tough eleven for the other members of the League to conquer. The full power of the team was not at all represented Friday. Such veterans as Lou Beister, Jim Cousart, Bill Corkill and many others were not present.

JEANNETT'S BRYN MAWR FLOWER SHOP

Floral Ideas For All Occasions

Specializing in Corsages

Member Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association

823 Lancaster Ave. Bryn Mawr 570

JOHN MARMER

32 S. MERION AVENUE BRYN MAWR

Whipping Cream — Cream Buttermilk

Telephone Bryn Mawr 885

WALTER M. ROY

MOTOR MACHINE SHOP

Machine Work of Every Description - Auto Repairing of the Better Kind - Sharpening and Repairing Lawn Mowers.

Berwyn 560 Berwyn, Pa.

G. W. Caldwallader

Paints, Glass and Painter's Supplies

BUILDERS' SPECIALTIES

6101 MARKET ST. Philadelphia

Phone SHErwood 1423

Here and There

By WILLIAM J. BOWKER

So Pop Warner and Harvey Harman gave "Clipper" Smith a bath towel with which to dry his copious tears. To us, the "Clipper" is very reminiscent of Gil Dobie, now coach of Boston College. Incidentally, last week we stated that Vince McNally was a swell line coach. It seems that he is a swell backfield coach. The best way to find whether or not anybody reads a column is to make a mistake. However, of those who notified us of the error, the majority were football managers.

Baseball has made its final bow with the ending of the World's Series, and with the conclusion of the season comes the first annual rumor that Babe Ruth is going to manage a major league team. Twice yearly the Bambino is slated to assume managerial reins, once at the beginning of the spring training season and then more emphatically at the end of the year. The ill-starred Brooklyn Dodgers are this year's nominees ...In case you forget, Benny Geraghty belongs to that institution. That just about ends baseball at Villanova until Doc Jacobs starts our boys warming up in the gym around the end of February.

Fire or no fire, the Wildcat basketball squad is letting no grass grow under its feet. The lads are practicing in Alumni Gym until the New Gym floor is repaired. Four new baskets have been put up along the gym balcony. Probably to sharpen the eyes of the Feline court crew. And while we're on the subject of basketball, you should see Walt McKenna move in the practice sprints. He surprised everyone by showing speed that no one believed him capable of having. The large squad reporting to Coach Severance should presage a successful court campaign.

Philadelphia's Record furnishes two items by way of the columns of Leonard Lyons and Cecil Pennyfeather. Item one: It seems that the New York correspondent of the London Express wanted to know if the home office desired any stories on the late World Series. The office wired back. "Yes, want 200 words on 'An Englishman Looks at the Tigers.'" Item two (from Cecil): Temple, who has sold their radio rights for football games, has signed with an oil company to broadcast the basketball games over WIP.

Last Thursday night the All-American Board held a meeting. Training rules were discussed.

Dick Emmerling's one-fifties were to have scrimmaged Malvern during the past week, but the arrangements did not click and the greatly anticipated contest did not materialize. However an intra-club scrimmage took place with the boys assaulting one another instead of hammering Malvern. The absence of some of the members who went to Penn State was felt.

It is with regret that we hear of the dropping of touch football from the intermural sports schedule. A hearty lack of interest caused the action, which is to be mourned. Considering the lively interest evidenced in the interhall basketball, it is a shame that football should suffer this year. In the pigskin game more men see action due to the size of the teams and the fact that frequent substitutions are made, so the excuse of "I don't get a chance to get in the game." doesn't hold. However, whether or not the game is restored to the intermural program rests entirely upon the students. The Intermural Committee is willing to do its part.

We see by the papers that Joe Louis had another workout last week. Joe has yet to face anyone besides Schmeling who can do much in the ring. (Philadelphia's Al Ettore is included in that statement.)

Speaking of Joe Louis reminds us of how the "experts" predicted the Louis-Schmeling affair, and of our ambition to attempt an entry into that august circle of sports writers known as "experts."

BEFORE TOO LATE GET YOUR COLLEGE RING

Bearing Official Seal Certified $2.00 Value only 25c with the purchase of a bottle of

Parker Quink

at 15c—Total 40c... YOU SAVE $1.7

The Parker Pen Co. makes this amazing offer solely to induce you to try Parker Quink—the remarkable new ink that cleans your pen as it writes—that dries ON PAPER 31% faster, yet does NOT dry in a pen.

Get Quink today from any store selling ink. Tear off the box-top, and on the back write the FULL NAME of your school or college, ring SIZE, and style wanted (man's or woman's) and your name and address. Then mail box-top with 25 cents in coin to The Parker Pen Co., Dept. 73C, Janesville, Wis.

Don't delay. This offer ends Dec. 31, 1936, if supply lasts.

STAMP COLLECTION WANTED

I will buy desirable U. S. or General Collection. Also accumulations, sheets, etc. Please describe.

R. A. COLEMAN 5855 Bartlett St., Pittsburgh

COLADONATO TAILOR SHOPPE

College Tailor Since 1925

Handles anything that can be cleaned, dyed or repaired. It is not how cheap, but how good.

SUITS DRY CLEANED and PRESSED ..... 75¢

SUITS PRESSED ..... 35¢

Real Tailored Suits Made to Order -:- All Prices -:-

See Campus Representative "POP" SHEALEY 235 Austin Hall

SLAVIN'S

Sporting Goods Store

39 East Lancaster Avenue ARDMORE

Phone Ardmore 607

33 1-3% Discount on all athletic equipment to Villanova Students.

Men's Clothes Made-to-Measure

COLEBY TAILORING INC.

Suits and Topcoats $24.75

See FANCY DAN SCHOPPMEYER THE SWITCH HITTER The Pride of Stroudsburg Campus Agent ROOM 101 AUSTIN HALL

Store at 57th and Market Sts.

5¢

SPECIAL SCHOOL TICKETS can be used by COLLEGE STUDENTS on LANCASTER PIKE buses

TO

WAYNE, BRYN MAWR, HAVERFORD, ARDMORE, NARBERTH, CYNWYD, GLADWYNE WYNNEWOOD, OVERBROOK, PHILADELPHIA

And Intermediate Points

Tickets for Sale in the VILLANOVA BOOK STORE in MENDEL HALL

ARONIMINK TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

"The coach says don't forget to call home tonight after seven or any time Sunday at the reduced Long Distance rates."

● Taking a trip with the team? Send the good news home by telephone.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

SLIGHT INCREASE IN CHORAL GROUP

Total Enrollment Now 52 Students; Meetings Held Semi-Weekly

Enrollment in the college Glee Club has increased this year to a total of 52 choristers, it was announced this week by Rev. Charles Brown, O. S. A., moderator of the society. This number is fairly large in comparison to the group representing the sch ' last year.

Until further notice is given out the meetings of the choral club will be held on Monday and Thursday evening immediately after chapel services in the C. and F. auditorium. The permanent meting nights will be announced by Father Brown next week.

In addition to many modern arrangements, the Glee Club is rehearsing Finlandi, Sylvia, Shadow March, and The World is Waiting for the Sunrise.

School Enrollment Increases Over Last Year's Figures Nearly 15 %

Continued From Page One

year is the largest during its existence on the campus, and which is held in conjunction with the Evening School, offers courses corresponding to those presented during regular sessions.

In computing a statistical survey of the students enrolled at Villanova College, it is to be noticed that the Class of 1940 is one of the largest to ever matriculate here. The freshmen comprise a grand total of 306 students. The senior class submits the smallest number of students with 126. The sophomore and junior classes have 214 students and 154 students, respectively.

C. and F. School Leads All Others

However, a computation would not be complete without taking into consideration the four Schools on the Campus. The School of Commerce and Finance has, as in former years, the largest enrollment with 257 students. The Technology Department is the smallest in size of the Campus Schools, having but 176 in its student body. The Science School and the School of Arts and Philosophy have 186 students and 185 students enrolled on their records.

In computing a record of the Part-time School, it was discovered that there was a total registration of 1056 students. Of this total, 954 are members of the religious order, while the remaining 102 are lay. The enrollment of this School is taken from nine States in the country, and comes from 39 religious communities.

Three foreign countries, 19 States with the District of Columbia, comprise the geographical distribution of the present student body.

Keystone State in Lead

The State of Pennsylvania carries the bulk of the student body as 456 students hail from the Keystone State. One hundred and thirty-five come from New Jersey and 82 call New York their home. From the above tabulation, it is interesting to note that more than half of the students enrolled come from Pennsylvania and more than two-thirds of the total registration come from the total registration come from the Middle Atlantic States.

The New England group is well represented by two States, Massachusetts and Connecticut. The Bay State has sent 45 members here and 21 hail from Connecticut.

From the neighboring State of Delaware, eight have chosen Villanova as their institution of higher learning, while five students come from the Nation's Capitol, the District of Columbia. Ohio, another State which borders Pennsylvania, sends four, while from the sunny coast of California, three have elected to matriculate at Villanova.

West Virginia and Oklahoma each send two students to the Main Line and the following States each have one representative here: Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, South Carolina, and Virginia.

Among the foreign entrants, Puerto Rico leads all others with seven students, Cuba has sent three and the Phillipine Islands draws up the rear with two members at Villanova.

CATHOLIC PRESS CONVENES

Tonight the Catholic Press Apostolate will meet in Rev. Charles P. Brown's room, Mendel Hall, at 7:30 P. M. All members are requested to attend. Any new members will be welcome.

NORTH JERSEY CLUB RECEIVES MEMBERS

24 Freshmen Inducted At Opening Session; Fr. Brown Presides

At the first meeting of the North Jersey Club held last Tuesday night Rev. Charles P. Brown, O. S. A., delivered the welcoming address to the twenty-four freshmen who had just been inducted into the organization.

With a large turnout the club has increased its membership until it is now one of the largest sectional organizations on the campus. The success it has had during the past years serves to indicate that this year's club will surpass all previous records.

Plans were made at this initial meeting for a big social event to be held some time in the future. President John Cronin closed the meeting by stressing that a spirit of co-operation and unity should be displayed by all members of the club.

Read any statement about Chesterfield cigarettes

We tell you what they are made of—mild, ripe tobaccos. We tell you that we use on Chesterfield pure cigarette paper.

We tell you that Chesterfields are carefully manufactured.

We suggest that you try Chesterfields and find out how mild they are and what a pleasing taste and aroma they have.

A great many cigarette smokers will tell you that Chesterfields satisfy—give them what they want in a cigarette.

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

—claims and facts balance

© 1936, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 9—No. 3 VILLANOVA, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1936 Price: Five Cents

NUMEROUS CHANGES LISTED IN SCIENCE SCHOOL MAGAZINE

Radical Innovations Feature Publication Now Appearing Quarterly

DAVID ZION HEADS BODY TO REVISE CONTRIBUTIONS

Editing Committee of Eleven Replaces Old Editorial Board

The Annual Mendel Bulletin, the scientific publication of the Science School, has been subjected to radical changes of administration and under the new regime will appear quarterly.

In previous years the entire handing of publication was undertaken by the editor-in-chief and a small selected staff with the result that the final compiling rested entirely in their hands. This year the entire publication will be edited by a representative committee of eleven men, one of which will act in the capacity of honorary chairman. Each of these committeemen will cover a distinct scientific division.

With the writing of each theme the work will first be checked by the individual authority then subjected to criticism of the entire staff. In the various subjects the faculty will also be approached for advice.

Score Limited

In the future editions the scope of subjects is to be limited to only scientific or pre-medical material. The previously discussed medical topics and diverging into engineering themes is to be absolutely eliminated. Also, the present topics will be discussed in an interpretive manner rather than an original viewpoint of the writer.

The editing committee is headed by David Zion, an outstanding seni-

Continued on Page Three

PRESIDENTIAL POLL TO BE CONDUCTED

VILLANOVAN Sponsors Presidential Referendum; Balloting Begins Tomorrow

In keeping up with the trend of events of other colleges of this country, Villanova will hold its own Presidential Poll of 1936 this week.

The poll, sponsored by the VILLanovan, will be held in the rear of the dining hall from Wednesday to Friday and for the convenience of every student will be open at every meal. Ballots will be placed at the disposal of the students in the form of mimeographed sheets and boxes stationed for the completed forms. Each student will vote only once and will choose one of the three candidates for President, also giving a sufficient reason for that choice. Every student of Villanova is expected to place his vote sometime within the prescribed time.

Many Polls Exist

Today, in practically every college of the country an individual poll is in progress, since institutions wish to determine exactly who the majority of the younger generation are desirous of placing in the White House. This, in itself, is a very good plan as the college student of the present age will probably be voting at the next election and must begin to formulate ideas and reasons as to why he would vote for a man he wants as the Chief Executive of the nation.

Villanova, in accordance with other colleges, feels that the students have read the papers, listened to radio speeches, and therefore, know something of each candidate as to what he plans to do or has done for the nation as a whole or in part, and his good or bad qualities. Therefore let's have everyone's vote and honest opinoin.

APPOINTED TO ANNUAL

CHARLES E. STAHLECKER JOHN P. BURKE

who have been chosen College Editor and Sports Editor respectively for the 1937 edition of the Belle Air, College yearbook. Both students are members of the senior class and the School of Arts and Philosophy.

Newly Formed Trenton Alumni Club Convenes; Graduate Groups Planned

Tuesday evening, October 13th, witnessed the first meeting and dinner of the newly-organized Villanova Club of Trenton held at Alberti's Cafe in Trenton.

This organization functions with monthly meetings in a like manner as the Philadelphia Club, the New York Club, the Rochester Club and the Wilkes-Barre Club units operate.

This body has been organized in conjunction with proposed plans to formulate a National Alumni Association to be divided into local groups throughout the United States, District of Columbia and Foreign countries.

Other Clubs Exist

Other clubs now in existence in the East are: the Philadelphia Club, the New York Club, the Rochester Club and the Wilkes-Barre Club.

It is the purpose of the proposed National Alumni Association to have all the clubs organized and functioning by 1942 at which time Villanova celebrates the Centenary of her founding.

Plans Formulated

Already plans have been formulated to organize in the near future, Villanova Clubs in Harrisburg, Springfield, Atlantic City, Newark, New Brunswick and Washington. The negotiations for the first organization meeting of the New Brunswick Club are now well under way.

When all these clubs are organized there will be a complete line formed from Philadelphia to New York in the state of New Jersey.

Members Attend

At the initial meeting of the Trenton Club the toastmaster was John P. Keffer, '25, who introduced each member individually and announced his class. Those alumni were: Joseph H. Caulfield, '35; Dr. Elmer H. Brown, '10; Robert G. McGrory, '35; Julius C. Smoliga, '23; Charles Ludwig, '34; John Pickell, '34; Victor Barr, '34; Robert L. Immordino '36; Arthur J. Reardon, '28; Wilton F. DeMarco, '35; Paul J. O'Brien, '23; William McCarthy, '34; John L. Malley, '32; Daniel D. Pacenta, '31; Albert C. Wagner, '32; Stephen P. Kramer, '35; Thomas Kucker, '36; John P. Keffer, '25; Maurice B. McCrosson, '26; and William J. Gough, '35.

Philadelphians Present

Several members of the Villanova Club of Philadelphia journeyed to Trenton to attend the dinner. They were: Joseph D. Freney, Esq., '27; and J. H. Korson, '31, president and secretary respectively of the Philadelphia Club; Elmer M. Hertzler, '22; Martin L. Gill, '32; Joseph A. Cunningham, '20; Matthew A. Lynch, '23; vice president of the National Alumni Association.

Among the guests and speakers of the evening were the Rev. E.

Continued on Page Five

BOSTON U. CONTEST MARKS HOMECOMING

Alumni of Villanova Will Convene on Saturday to View Game

Annual Home-coming day for Villanova Graduates will be held on Saturday, October 24, at which time Villanova College encounters Boston University at Shibe Park in Philadelphia.

It is expected that this year's turnout will far surpass last year's total of 500 graduates, who returned to their Alma Mater from all sections of the United States.

No Social Events

There will, however, be no dance given for the graduates after the game, as has been the usual custom in the past. It was announced by the Villanova Club of Philadelphia that since the game is being held in Philadelphia it will be somewhat inconvenient to provide the graduates with the function.

Tickets for the graduates are priced at $1.45, including tax.

Much enthusiasm and interest is being centered in this coming con-

Continued on Page Five

SOPH COTILLION IS BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Dance Attended By Over 400 Couples, Setting New High

Dancing to the delightful music of Charles Stotler and his Villanovans, an unusually large crowd of 400 couples attended the Sophomore Cotillion held in the spacious College gymnasium last Friday evening.

This annual dance is already becoming traditional at Villanova as opening the social session, and if the affair is any example of what is to come in the way of dances for the remainder of the year, Villanova may expect a very successful season.

The entertainment furnished by the Villanovans was of top-notch caliber, being received with much acclaim. Intermissions were short and music was plentiful from nine until one o'clock.

Continued on Page Eleven

Appointments Announced For 1937 Senior Annual

Charles Stahlecker Named College Editor; John Burke Heads Sports Dept.; Managing Editor Will Be Pio Goggi

GEORGE FOX IS CIRCULATION HEAD

The complete staff of the Belle Air, annual publication of the senior class of Villanova College, was disclosed early this morning by Thomas F. Kennedy, Jr., editor-in-chief.

Charles Stahlecker, senior in the School of Arts and Philosophy, has been appointed college editor. John Burke, also of the Arts School, will assume the duties of sports editor, and Pio Goggi, member of the Science Department, has been selected as managing editor.

Serving in the capacity of business manager, as announced in a previous issue, will be Thomas Flaherty, of the Commerce and Finance School. Assisting him will be James Dwyer and Louis Biester.

Pasquale Guarini has been chosen as photography editor and will have as his assistants Charles Betz and Edward Donovan. The latter two will also assume the duties as snapshot editors.

Edward Mink will be the copy editor and the following assistants were named: John Carroll, William Corkill, Paul Juergens, Edward Murphy and Joseph Feehan.

George Fox was named as circulation manager and will have as his assistants Edward Kelly and Oliver Volpe.

The associate editors of the College staff include Victor Ashe, Mario Menocal, Frank Cullina, and Charles O'Connor.

Assisting the aforementioned John Burke in the sports department will be Francis Monohan, Thomas Carbine, John Costello and Daniel O'Conner.

The assistant editorial staff will be composed of George Collins, Joseph Toland, Charles Bruno, Wil-

Continued on Page Two

COUNCIL MEETS

There will be an important meeting of the Student Council this afternoon at 5.30 o'clock in the amphitheatre, 215 Mendel Hall. All councillors are asked to be in attendance as business of signal importance will be discussed.

COMMERCE STUDENT IS JUNIOR CLASS COMMITTTEE HEAD

Louis Biester Appointed By Class of '38 as Ring Chairman

RINGS READY BY DEC. 9

Appointments of members for the Junior Ring Committee have been completed with Louis Biester, School of Commerce and Finance, having been selected committee chairman.

The committee which held its initial meeting last Thursday, consists of John Pillion and Toby Greco, Science School; Paul Kane, John Delaney, School of Arts and Philosophy; John Rhoads, Edward Gornowski, Technology School; Charles O'Connor and chairman Biester, School of Commerce and Finance.

Perparations Made for Contracts

At this first session the committee immediately made preparations for contracting firms who will bid for the Junior Rings. At this meeting, chairman Biester expressed the opinion that the Junior ring will be available to the class members before Christmas, and, if possible, before that time.

The second meeting of the Ring Committee will be later in the week. At this session bids will be accepted from the various concerns that have been contracted. The type of ring desired by the Junior class members will be discussed and probably selected at the session.

John L. Simons, president of the Junior Class, expresses his confidence in the committee which has been selected, "I am certain that the

Continued on Page Eleven

STAFF MEMBERS WANTED

Additions to Art, Sports, College Staffs Needed

Any student desirous of joining either the College, Sports, or Art and Photography staffs of THE VILLANOVAN may do so by applying at the office, 119 Mendel Hall, Wednesday, October 21, at 1:00 P. M.

This notice applys to Freshmen as well as upper classmen. To date the number of first year men signed up for the college weekly has been surprisingly small. This condition may be rectified tomorrow.

STAFF MEETING

There will be a meeting of the entire VILLANOVAN staff today at 1:00 P. M., Room 119, Mendel Hall.

STUDENTS, FACULTY GUESTS AT SMOKER

Phi Kappa Pi Fraternity Holds Social Tonight at C. & F. School

Villanova College's entire Engineering student body and Faculty will be the guests tonight of Phi Kappa Pi, Engineers' Fraternity, at their Annual Smoker to be held in the auditorium of the Commerce and Finance building at 7.30 P. M.

Tonight's affair is the third annual smoker sponsored by the fraternity, originating in 1934. The primary purpose of the social function is to informally introduce the freshman engineers to upperclassmen fraternity members, and to familiarize them with the benefits effected by a membership in the frat.

Mr. Frank Winterer, senior electrical, will be the Master of Ceremonies for the evening. He will introduce the several interesting speakers obtained for the event by Eugene A. Barr, president. Among those who will address the gathering are Dean Carl T. Humphrey, Rev. John S. O'Leary, O.S.A., Society Moderator, James "Clipper" Smith, varsity football coach, and Paetrus Banmiller, Alumni Secretary.

Entertainment Planned

Included on the evening's program are refreshments and a variety of entertainment supplied by undergraduate engineers.

At yesterday's meeting of the fraternity, plans for the Owl Hop, the annual dance, were well under way. The committee chairman, Joseph Duffy, in addressing the meeting, gave a full summary of the plans, which, he declared, are

Continued on Page Six

GIANT TELESCOPE IS DISCUSSED AT ENGINEERS FORUM

Wonders of 200 Inch Reflector, Constructed Here, Related to Listeners

VILLANOVA REPRESENTED BY AIEE STUDENT GROUP

Completely Assembled Glass Tube Being Erected on Mt. Wilson

Villanova's Student Chapter of the A. I. E. E. attended the October meeting of the Philadelphia Chapter held on Monday evening, October 12, at the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia.

The main event of the evening was a very interesting talk on the carriage and mechanism of the new two-hundred inch reflecting telescope being erected atop Mt. Wilson, in California. The mirror was cast here in Pennsylvania and then shipped directly to Passadena. It will be slowly ground into the desired shape and smoothness. This process of grinding will take from two to three years. The reflecting surface is to be a thin coat of aluminum. A silver coating was considered but discarded because of its undesirable tarnishing habits. Since aluminum has been before used and has proved successful, and because of its properties, it was thus decided to use it for the reflecting surface.

The tube structure was made as simple as possible in order to make calculations of tube deformations, due to shifting weight, easy. It was explained that glass was used as a support because of its smoothness of surface.

The carriage of the mirror consists of a huge "wish-bone" having a ball and socket joint at one end, and a "U" shaped cam at the north end. This latter construction enables the tube to be pointed due north. The carriage turns about an axis which is parallel to the earth's axis, commonly called the "polar axis." The tube turns about an axis perpendicular to and intersecting the polar axis. The carriage was also made simple with the intention of eliminating some of the great difficult encountered in predetermining deformations.

Up to the present time, the largest telescope uses mercury floata-

Continued on Page Six

YEARLING DEBATERS SHOW ENTHUSIASM

To Elect Officers at Next Gathering; Schedule Many Debates

An unusual display of enthusiasm marked the opening of the freshman debating society at its first meeting last Wednesday under the moderatorship of Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A.

Although officers are to be elected at this week's meeting, plans for the ensuing year are well under way. Challenges have been received and sent out to various schools in the locality. Already four or five topics have been chosen. In the debates held away the topic for discussion will probably be "Resolved, that the Congress of the United States shall have the power to fix minimum wages and maximum hours of labor."

Debate Topic Selected

For the home debates one of the topics will be, "Resolved, that munitions should be a government monopoly." There is still another resolution under consideration. Its argumentative interest will center around natural resources as the Boulder and Morris Dams, the T. V. A., and waterways. The resolution reads, "Resolved, that the government be empowered to control natural resources."

In order to increase the attendance of the society a membership drive has been started. At present there are fifteen members. It is hoped that this number will be augmented considerably in the next few meetings.

An invitation to all freshman is extended; no experience is necessary. It is gratifying however, to note the large number of Science and Art School freshman in the club.

RECEIVE STAFF POSITIONS

George T. Fox, who was appointed Circulation Manager of the Belle Air; Charles C. Betz and Edward J. Donovan, who have been selected as Snapshot Editors; and William H. Mink, 3rd, newly appointed Copy Editor. Fox is a senior in the School of Arts, while the remaining three appointees are members of the Commerce and Finance School.

Appointments Announced for 1937 Edition of Belle Air By Editor

Continued From Page One

liam Burns, and Thomas Delate.

It is the aim of the editor to have the book completed in its entirety and distributed on the campus before the last week in May. Knowing full well the difficulties which arise in all undertakings concerning the editing of the annual, Mr. Kennedy asks the cooperation of the entire student body, particularly the senior class. The student body can cooperate insofar as the takings of group pictures are concerned.

The senior class has been singled out primarily because of the senior photographs to be taken so that each student will receive the proper attention at his sittings. Another reason involved is that the student will be able to secure his picture before the Christmas vacations.

Mr. Kennedy is very hopeful of presenting to the Class of 1937 and to undergraduates the most attractive Belle Air that has ever been delivered on the campus. A new feature of the book is the page dividers for numerous sections throughout the publication. More action shots in the various sports will be an added feature to the sports section.

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., moderator of the Belle Air, is desirous that the 15th volume of this annual feature of the senior class be one of the smartest yearbooks in collegiate ranks. This can only be accomplished by continual concurrence to the editors.

Mr. Kennedy also announced that any student who can secure an advertisement for the book to see him personally and it will be deeply appreciated.

There will be a meeting of the staff of the annual this afternoon in the Belle Air Office, located at Room 51 in Mendel Hall. All other students desirous of becoming members of the staff will please report for this meeting. It is imperative, however, that all members attend as important plans will be formulated in order to get the publication underway.

A. S. C. E. PLANS INSPECTION TOUR

Will Visit Sun Ship Building Yards Thursday; Other Trips Planned

At the second bi-weekly meeting of the A. S. C. E., an interesting trip was proposed by J. Paul Skelly and immediately accepted by his fellow members. The proposed trip is an inspection tour of the Sun Shipbuilding yards, the date being set for 1:30 Thursday afternoon, October 22 by the president Mario Menocal.

A trip committee was then formed with Skelly appointed as chairman. The members composing the said committee are: Aloysius Fitzpatrick, Edward McHugh, Seniors; Paul Kichinko, Joseph O'Brien, Juniors; James Carrol, Cyril Daly, Sophomores. It is the duty of this committee to assume full responsibility for the arrangements of all inspection trips.

Professor T. J. McCormick in addressing the group promised to lend his whole-hearted support in any undertaking and made suggestions that the group should visit the Bethlehem Steel Co., and the Portland Cement Co.,

APOSTOLATE TO POST QUESTIONS

Catholic Press Society Plans Campaign In Religious Knowledge

Villanova College's Catholic Press Apostolate will begin operations next week with the establishment of a Question Box for the benefit of the student body ,it was announced today by Rev. Charles Brown, O.S.A., moderator.

A list of questions will be put in a convenient place for the students to study and attempt to answer. These questions will run strictly along religious lines. In the event that the student should not be able to answer the question a series of bulletins with the questions answered will be posted each day on prominent bulletin boards.

Later in the year a series of forums will be held on the campus concerning religious questions to which the student body in general will be invited. Members of the Catholic Press Apostolate will conduct these forums.

NORBERT FORD SPEAKS AT ROSEMONT COLLEGE

Villanova Student Addresses Local Student Body on Catholic Peace

"Catholic college youth must take the lead in constructive Peace efforts or else the Communist leaders are going to lead us into a Pacifism that is contrary to the teachings of the Catholic Church," Norbert Ford, student at Villanova, will tell the faculty and students of Rosemont College this morning. Mr. Ford, speaking under the auspices of THE CHRISTIAN FRONT Speakers Bureau, is specializing in the Catholic Peace Movement.

ADDITION OF 1000 BOOKS TO COLLEGE LIBRARY REVEALED

Abundance of Text Books Now on Hand, Librarian Announces

GIFT OF FATHER DIEHL

Over 1000 books were added to the college library during the summer. Some of these were purchased by the college, and many of them were donated by friends of Villanova Library. Among the outstanding gifts and the fields of knowledge which these books covered are: machine design, books on descriptive geometry, mechanical and freehand drawing by the Reverend President.

Valuable and noteworthy books in the field of education and psychology and together with bound volumes of the Journal of Educational Psychology were donated by the Rev. Francis Diehl, O. S. A. Fr. Diehl was formerly at St. Mary's Hall, but is now studying abroad. Through the kind efforts of Rev. John Farrell, O. S. A., Prior of St. Mary's Hall, current books on Literature, science and history were donated by the Quinn and Boden Co. of Rahway, N. J.

Graduates Donates Books

The library also received books on chemistry and general culture which constituted the library of the late Joseph Maguire, of Wayne. Mr. Maguire graduated with the class of 1930 receiving the degree of B.S. in Chemical Engineering. He died April 2, 1933.

Richard Deverall, co-editor of the

Continued on Page Three

DRAMATIC SOCIETY WILL BE REVIVED

Plans for Presenting Show To Be Discussed At Meeting Tomorrow

What may be the resurrection of the late Belle Masque, an organization which is similiar to the Masque and Wig of the University of Pennsylvania, will be determined at a meeting of the Dramatic Society to be held tomorrow at 1:00 P. M. in Room 214.

Plans will be discussed for the presentation of a play to be given in the Villanova gymnasium. This production will be under the personal supervision of Mr. Anthony J. Frayne, faculty adviser and capable instructor of Public speeching and debating.

At this time those who profess to be devotees of Thespianism are to present themselves. Roles for the production may be assigned.

No productions have been given by the Bell Masque for approximately the past half decade, at which time the organization became defunct. It had been conducted in conjunction with the Beta Gamma under the title of the Literary Club.

C. W. Caldwallader
Paints, Glass and Painter's Supplies
BUILDERS' SPECIALTIES
6101 MARKET ST.
Philadelphia
Phone SHErwood 1423

DEBATING SOCIETY PLANS YEAR'S WORK

Five Teams Are Selected for Intercollegiate Debating Contests

Beta Gamma, the Villanova varsity debating organization at a meeting held last Wednesday, selected five teams to represent Villanova College in various intercollegiate and exhibition debates.

Each team is headed by a veteran senior member of the organization. These men are Anthony L. Differ, Victor J. Ashe, John Chapple, Joseph Carroll, and Edward McDevitt. The members of their respective squads are: Group 1, John Hasey, Thomas O'Brien, Edward Shovelin, and Fred Waters; Group 2, John McManus, Pershing Calabro, James Quigley, and Joseph O'Loughlin; Group 3, William Corkill, John Dimon, Maurice McDonnell, and John Simons; Group 4, Chas. S. Bruno, Joseph Alessandroni, Hugh Ferguson, and John Stahman; Group 5, Joseph McCabe, Joseph Hopkins, Thomas Delate and Pio Goggi.

Five men, including the captain, therefore, comprise each unit.

Judging from the various responses by the colleges which have been contacted for debate, it appears that the Villanova debating organization will have quite an extensive season and will be very well able to use each of the five selected teams.

Five questions for debate have also been selected and agreed upon by the organization. These topics will be so distributed as to provide each team with the task of defending the affirmative side of one question and the negative of another.

These questions will be distributed on a meeting to be held today at 1:00 P. M.

Among some of the activities planned by the organization are ex-

Continued on Page Six

NEW CAMPUS SOCIETY TO DISCUSS FASCISM

Study Club Will Analyze Modern Social Problems and Ills

Under the leadership of Rev. John Vrana, O. S. A., a new group of students interested in social problems has made its appearance on Villanova's campus. Meeting at 7:00 P. M. every Wednesday, the new group, limited to students of upper class rating, initiated the year's work by discussing Fascism and Nazi-ism at its last meeting.

Robert Strong read an interesting paper on the historical setting for Fascism to a group composed of Fathers Vrana and Lanen, and William Martz, John L. Simons, Stanley Gornowski, and Richard Deverall.

The study group meets again tomorrow evening. They plan to discuss possible definitions of Capitalism, Communism, Fascism and Anarchism. Persons interested are invited to drop in for a visit.

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florist
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE
In
The Villanovan
Circulation Weekly 3000 Copies
Wm. Cleary,
Business Mgr.

CONTE ELECTED TO VICE PRESIDENCY OF SCIENCE GROUP

Junior Pre-Medical Student Assumes Office Vacated by James Keegan

TEMPLE GAME TICKETS WILL BE RAFFLE PRIZE

Proceeds From Chance Books Help Defray Expenses of Fraternity

In a pre-season election, Andrew N. Conte, junior in the School of Science, was elected vice president of the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity at a meeting held Thursday, October 15.

This irregularity was necessary in order to fill the vacancy left by James Keegan, former vice-president, who has matriculated to the Medical School of Georgetown University. Conte will serve in this capacity until the expiration of his term in May.

The election was a closely contested affair with Conte winning out by only a fair margin. His opponent was Leonard A. Battafarano, also a junior in the Science School.

Chance books were distributed to the members of the fraternity after the meeting and also on Friday. The chance books contain tickets for a raffle of four tickets to the Temple-Villanova football game of November 14. The chances will be distributed at ten cents each, three for twenty-five cents. Proceeds from the raffle will be used in aiding the fraternity members in meeting their annual fraternal assessment.

The fratrnity also discussed plans for proposed educational tours to neighboring hospitals. It has been found in the past that valuable information has been gained from tours of this type and it is believed that such a program will be of great aid to the fraternity members in pursuing their professional education along medicinal lines. The likely hospitals in the vicinity that will be visited by the fraternity are: Jefferson, University of Pennsylvania, Hahnemann, St. Agnes, and a series of others. A further discussion in this regard will be had at the next meeting of the fraternity.

The next meeting of the fraternity will be held Thursday, October 22, at which session further plans for the fraternity dance will be discussed and committeemen appointed.

WILKES BARRE CLUB INDUCTS MEMBERS

Moderator Stresses Fellowship and Social Advantages of Organization

On Monday afternoon, October 12, the Wilkes-Barre club of Villanova held a special meeting for the purpose of orientating the new members into the club for the current year.

Rev. Bernard C. McConville, O. S. A., addressed the members and explained the purpose of the club. He explained the good fellowship and friendliness of the older members to the younger ones. He also stressed the social advantage of the club through the vacation dances held in Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton at Christmas and Easter time respectively.

Many Cities Represented

Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Nanticoke, Freeland and Plymouth are well represented in the club, while one member represents Carbondale. Members must be from either Luzerne or Lackawanna county in Pennsylvania.

The officers and veteran members of the club are: William Cleary, president; John Noll, vice-president; Charles Betz, treasurer; Donald Hudson, secretary, and Witold Kryzwicki, Edmund Viruski, James Kutz and Stanley Galazin.

NORTH JERSEY CLUB MEETS

There will be a meeting of the North Jersey Club tonight after Chapel, Room 210 Mendel Hall. All members are requested to attend.

PERSONNEL OF SCIENCE SCHOOL PUBLICATION

The 1936-37 staff of Mendel Bulletin Quarterly. Seated left to right (bottom row) Pasquale Guarini, Manrico Troncelliti, David Zion, presiding chairman; Edmund Virusky and Gerald Piserchia. Top row, Paschal Linguitti, Joseph Licha, Harry Parkin, Mario Troncelliti, Louis Santamaria and John Bruno.

Numerous Changes Listed In Bulletin

Continued From Page One

or science man, who is instrumental in the present revision of the magazine. The remainder of the committee is composed of John Bruno, Jose Licha, Gerald Piserchia, Pasqual Guarini, Virusky, Louis Santamaria, and Harry Parkin.

Promote Interest

The prime purpose of the quarterly publication in the future will be to promote an inborn desire of research in the students and to present the material offered in an appealing and concise manner.

In view of the energetic change and the enthusiastic response of those connected with it, the Mendel Bulletin is on its way to a new ideal for which it was originally intended.

APOSTOLATE MEETS

There will be a meeting of the Catholic Press Apostolate this evening in Room 213 Mendel Hall. It is urgent that all members be present.

FEAST OBSERVED BY PEACE MASS

Solemn High Ceremony Will Be Celebrated On Sunday

On Sunday, October 25, the feast of Christ the King, Villanova College will join with other Catholic Institutions in the celebration of a High Mass for Peace. This movement has been inaugurated and carried out by Richard L. Deverall, special student in the college and editor of "The Christian Front," a new Catholic periodical.

Rev. Bernard Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of Villanova college, will be the celebrant of the Mass, and will be assisted by three members of the Sanctuary Society, who will act as master of ceremonies and servers. The Mass will be sung by the scholastic choir of Saint Mary's Hall.

The program for the Mass will include the Processional, "Praise God, The King Of Kings;" Ordinary, "Missa Brevis," and Offertory Motet, "Jesu Rex Admirabilis."

The sermon for the occasion will be preached by Rev. Thomas F. Gilligan, O. S .A., of Saint Mary's Hall.

Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow Mass.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE
Iron out your laundry worries
SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY
By the Railway Express Route...
Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.
Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.
You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 38 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.
Villanova, Pa. Phone: Bryn Mawr 440
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Addition Of 1000 Books To College

Continued From Page Two

Christian Front, donated books in Catholic Socialism and Chemistry.

All the above books have been catalogued and are on the shelves of the library for the use of the students, daily between the hours of 8:30 A. M. and 9:00 P. M., except Saturdays and Sundays. On Saturdays the library will close at five o'clock and will be open Sunday evenings from 6:00 until 9:00.

The reserve system has been instituted for the greater convenience of the student body. It consists of those books which are most used by students for collateral reading. They are kept on special shelves back of the charging desk. Students should ask the attendant for the book that he wishes to use from this section. All reserve books are to be used in the library during the day. They may be taken out at 8:30 o'clock to be kept overnight and returned the next morning. A fine of 25 cents is charged for every reserve book kept after 9 o'clock in the morning and 5 cents for each hour thereafter. The purpose of this fine is to always have the book in the library for the students.

NURSING BOTTLE FOUND

Princeton N. J.—(ACP) — Here's another bit of evidence to gladden the heart of believers of the "nothing's new" school of thought: a baby's nursing bottle, in the style of 1200 B .C., was unearthed from an ancient grave of an infant at Athens, Greece.

Weekly Calendar

TODAY

VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting, 119 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.
Belle Air Staff Meeting, 51 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.
Student Council, 215 Mendel ..... 5:30 P. M.
Freshman Debating, 204 Mendel ..... 7:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY

Study Club, 215 Mendel ..... 7:00 P. M.

THURSDAY

Lambda Kappa Delta, 210 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.

SATURDAY

Villanova - Boston U. Football Game, Shibe Park .... 2:30 P. M.

MONDAY

Phi Kappa Pi, 215 Mendel ..... 11:35 A. M.
Villanova Engineer, 223 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.

We Asked One Question of 200 Men and Women
"Which Pen is Your Choice for Style and Beauty?"
And 2 to 1 Selected Parker's Laminated Pearl*
—The sacless Vacumatic with Ever-Visible Ink Supply and 102% More Ink Capacity than Old Style — GUARANTEED Mechanically Perfect
Yes, other things being equal, style-minded people would choose the Parker Vacumatic for beauty alone! But other things, too, including performance, make this revolutionary invention the national favorite by a still bigger margin—by 9 to 4.
One important difference—its ink supply is ever visible—the ENTIRE length of the barrel. Thus it shows days ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW.
Another great difference is the patented Parker filler. There's no other like it. It requires no sliding piston immersed in ink—its working parts are sealed in the top WHERE INK CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them.
The Parker point is Scratch-proof—precious Platinum combined with solid Gold.
Every student needs this miracle writer that doesn't "let you down" by running dry in classes or exams.
Go and see this luminous, laminated Pearl Beauty at any good store selling pens. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.
Start the Full Term with the Pen that Students Rate Highest
Parker VACUMATIC
GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT
Junior, $5 Over-Size, $10 Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5
*More than twice the number selected Parker than any other.

GIANT TELESCOPE IS DISCUSSED AT ENGINEERS FORUM

Wonders of 200 Inch Reflector, Constructed Here, Related to Listeners

VILLANOVA REPRESENTED BY AIEE STUDENT GROUP

Completely Assembled Glass Tube Being Erected on Mt. Wilson

Villanova's Student Chapter of the A. I. E. E. attended the October meeting of the Philadelphia Chapter held on Monday evening, October 12, at the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia.

The main event of the evening was a very interesting talk on the carriage and mechanism of the new two-hundred inch reflecting telescope being erected atop Mt. Wilson, in California. The mirror was cast here in Pennsylvania and then shipped directly to Passadena. It will be slowly ground into the desired shape and smoothness. This process of grinding will take from two to three years. The reflecting surface is to be a thin coat of aluminum. A silver coating was considered but discarded because of its undesirable tarnishing habits. Since aluminum has been before used and has proved successful, and because of its properties, it was thus decided to use it for the reflecting surface.

The tube structure was made as simple as possible in order to make calculations of tube deformations, due to shifting weight, easy. It was explained that glass was used as a support because of its smoothness of surface.

The carriage of the mirror consists of a huge "wish-bone" having a ball and socket joint at one end, and a "U" shaped cam at the north end. This latter construction enables the tube to be pointed due north. The carriage turns about an axis which is parallel to the earth's axis, commonly called the "polar axis." The tube turns about an axis perpendicular to and intersecting the polar axis. The carriage was also made simple with the intention of eliminating some of the great difficult encountered in predetermining deformations.

Up to the present time, the largest telescope uses mercury floata-

Continued on Page Six

YEARLING DEBATERS SHOW ENTHUSIASM

To Elect Officers at Next Gathering; Schedule Many Debates

An unusual display of enthusiasm marked the opening of the freshman debating society at its first meeting last Wednesday under the moderatorship of Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A.

Although officers are to be elected at this week's meeting, plans for the ensuing year are well under way. Challenges have been received and sent out to various schools in the locality. Already four or five topics have been chosen. In the debates held away the topic for discussion will probably be "Resolved, that the Congress of the United States shall have the power to fix minimum wages and maximum hours of labor."

Debate Topic Selected

For the home debates one of the topics will be, "Resolved, that munitions should be a government monopoly." There is still another resolution under consideration. Its argumentative interest will center around natural resources as the Boulder and Morris Dams, the T. V. A., and waterways. The resolution reads, "Resolved, that the government be empowered to control natural resources."

In order to increase the attendance of the society a membership drive has been started. At present there are fifteen members. It is hoped that this number will be augmented considerably in the next few meetings.

An invitation to all freshman is extended; no experience is necessary. It is gratifying however, to note the large number of Science and Art School freshman in the club.

RECEIVE STAFF POSITIONS

George T. Fox, who was appointed Circulation Manager of the Belle Air; Charles C. Betz and Edward J. Donovan, who have been selected as Snapshot Editors; and William H. Mink, 3rd, newly appointed Copy Editor. Fox is a senior in the School of Arts, while the remaining three appointees are members of the Commerce and Finance School.

Appointments Announced for 1937 Edition of Belle Air By Editor

Continued From Page One

liam Burns, and Thomas Delate.

It is the aim of the editor to have the book completed in its entirety and distributed on the campus before the last week in May. Knowing full well the difficulties which arise in all undertakings concerning the editing of the annual, Mr. Kennedy asks the cooperation of the entire student body, particularly the senior class. The student body can cooperate insofar as the takings of group pictures are concerned.

The senior class has been singled out primarily because of the senior photographs to be taken so that each student will receive the proper attention at his sittings. Another reason involved is that the student will be able to secure his picture before the Christmas vacations.

Mr. Kennedy is very hopeful of presenting to the Class of 1937 and to undergraduates the most attractive Belle Air that has ever been delivered on the campus. A new feature of the book is the page dividers for numerous sections throughout the publication. More action shots in the various sports will be an added feature to the sports section.

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., moderator of the Belle Air, is desirous that the 15th volume of this annual feature of the senior class be one of the smartest yearbooks in collegiate ranks. This can only be accomplished by continual concurrence to the editors.

Mr. Kennedy also announced that any student who can secure an advertisement for the book to see him personally and it will be deeply appreciated.

There will be a meeting of the staff of the annual this afternoon in the Belle Air Office, located at Room 51 in Mendel Hall. All other students desirous of becoming members of the staff will please report for this meeting. It is imperative, however, that all members attend as important plans will be formulated in order to get the publication underway.

A. S. C. E. PLANS INSPECTION TOUR

Will Visit Sun Ship Building Yards Thursday; Other Trips Planned

At the second bi-weekly meeting of the A. S. C. E., an interesting trip was proposed by J. Paul Skelly and immediately accepted by his fellow members. The proposed trip is an inspection tour of the Sun Shipbuilding yards, the date being set for 1:30 Thursday afternoon, October 22 by the president Mario Menocal.

A trip committee was then formed with Skelly appointed as chairman. The members composing the said committee are: Aloysius Fitzpatrick, Edward McHugh, Seniors; Paul Kichinko, Joseph O'Brien, Juniors; James Carrol, Cyril Daly, Sophomores. It is the duty of this committee to assume full responsibility for the arrangements of all inspection trips.

Professor T. J. McCormick in addressing the group promised to lend his whole-hearted support in any undertaking and made suggestions that the group should visit the Bethlehem Steel Co., and the Portland Cement Co.,

APOSTOLATE TO POST QUESTIONS

Catholic Press Society Plans Campaign In Religious Knowledge

Villanova College's Catholic Press Apostolate will begin operations next week with the establishment of a Question Box for the benefit of the student body ,it was announced today by Rev. Charles Brown, O.S.A., moderator.

A list of questions will be put in a convenient place for the students to study and attempt to answer. These questions will run strictly along religious lines. In the event that the student should not be able to answer the question a series of bulletins with the questions answered will be posted each day on prominent bulletin boards.

Later in the year a series of forums will be held on the campus concerning religious questions to which the student body in general will be invited. Members of the Catholic Press Apostolate will conduct these forums.

NORBERT FORD SPEAKS AT ROSEMONT COLLEGE

Villanova Student Addresses Local Student Body on Catholic Peace

"Catholic college youth must take the lead in constructive Peace efforts or else the Communist leaders are going to lead us into a Pacifism that is contrary to the teachings of the Catholic Church," Norbert Ford, student at Villanova, will tell the faculty and students of Rosemont College this morning.

Mr. Ford, speaking under the auspices of THE CHRISTIAN FRONT Speakers Bureau, is specializing in the Catholic Peace Movement.

ADDITION OF 1000 BOOKS TO COLLEGE LIBRARY REVEALED

Abundance of Text Books Now on Hand, Librarian Announces

GIFT OF FATHER DIEHL

Over 1000 books were added to the college library during the summer. Some of these were purchased by the college, and many of them were donated by friends of Villanova Library. Among the outstanding gifts and the fields of knowledge which these books covered are: machine design, books on descriptive geometry, mechanical and freehand drawing by the Reverend President.

Valuable and noteworthy books in the field of education and psychology and together with bound volumes of the Journal of Educational Psychology were donated by the Rev. Francis Diehl, O. S. A. Fr. Diehl was formerly at St. Mary's Hall, but is now studying abroad. Through the kind efforts of Rev. John Farrell, O. S. A., Prior of St. Mary's Hall, current books on Literature, science and history were donated by the Quinn and Boden Co. of Rahway, N. J.

Graduates Donates Books

The library also received books on chemistry and general culture which constituted the library of the late Joseph Maguire, of Wayne. Mr. Maguire graduated with the class of 1930' receiving the degree of B.S. in Chemical Engineering. He died April 2, 1933.

Richard Deverall, co-editor of the

Continued on Page Three

DRAMATIC SOCIETY WILL BE REVIVED

Plans for Presenting Show To Be Discussed At Meeting Tomorrow

What may be the resurrection of the late Belle Masque, an organization which is similar to the Masque and Wig of the University of Pennsylvania, will be determined at a meeting of the Dramatic Society to be held tomorrow at 1:00 P. M. in Room 214.

Plans will be discussed for the presentation of a play to be given in the Villanova gymnasium. This production will be under the personal supervision of Mr. Anthony J. Frayne, faculty adviser and capable instructor of Public speeching and debating.

At this time those who profess to be devotees of Thespianism are to present themselves. Roles for the production may be assigned.

No productions have been given by the Bell Masque for approximately the past half decade, at which time the organization became defunct. It had been conducted in conjunction with the Beta Gamma under the title of the Literary Club.

C. W. Caldwallader
Paints, Glass and Painter's Supplies
BUILDERS' SPECIALTIES
6101 MARKET ST.
Philadelphia
Phone SHErwood 1423

DEBATING SOCIETY PLANS YEAR'S WORK

Five Teams Are Selected for Intercollegiate Debating Contests

Beta Gamma, the Villanova varsity debating organization at a meeting held last Wednesday, selected five teams to represent Villanova College in various intercollegiate and exhibition debates.

Each team is headed by a veteran senior member of the organization. These men are Anthony L. Differ, Victor J. Ashe, John Chapple, Joseph Carroll, and Edward McDevitt. The members of their respective squads are: Group 1, John Hasey, Thomas O'Brien, Edward Shovelin, and Fred Waters; Group 2, John McManus, Pershing Calabro, James Quigley, and Joseph O'Loughlin; Group 3, William Corkill, John Dimon, Maurice McDonnell, and John Simons; Group 4, Chas. S. Bruno, Joseph Alessandroni, Hugh Ferguson, and John Stahman; Group 5, Joseph McCabe, Joseph Hopkins, Thomas Delate and Pio Goggi.

Five men, including the captain, therefore, comprise each unit.

Judging from the various responses by the colleges which have been contacted for debate, it appears that the Villanova debating organization will have quite an extensive season and will be very well able to use each of the five selected teams.

Five questions for debate have also been selected and agreed upon by the organization. These topics will be so distributed as to provide each team with the task of defending the affirmative side of one question and the negative of another.

These questions will be distributed on a meeting to be held today at 1:00 P. M.

Among some of the activities planned by the organization are ex-

Continued on Page Six

NEW CAMPUS SOCIETY TO DISCUSS FASCISM

Study Club Will Analyze Modern Social Problems and Ills

Under the leadership of Rev. John Vrana, O. S. A., a new group of students interested in social problems has made its appearance on Villanova's campus. Meeting at 7:00 P. M. every Wednesday, the new group, limited to students of upper class rating, initiated the year's work by discussing Fascism and Nazi-ism at its last meeting.

Robert Strong read an interesting paper on the historical setting for Fascism to a group composed of Fathers Vrana and Lanen, and William Martz, John L. Simons, Stanley Gornowski, and Richard Deverall.

The study group meets again tomorrow evening. They plan to discuss possible definitions of Capitalism, Communism, Fascism and Anarchism. Persons interested are invited to drop in for a visit.

CONNELLY'S
Main Line Florist
FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS
CORSAGES A SPECIALTY
We Telegraph Flowers Everywhere
1226 Lancaster Pike
ROSEMONT
Bryn Mawr 252

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE
In
The Villanovan
Circulation Weekly
3000 Copies
Wm. Cleary,
Business Mgr.

CONTE ELECTED TO VICE PRESIDENCY OF SCIENCE GROUP

Junior Pre-Medical Student Assumes Office Vacated by James Keegan

TEMPLE GAME TICKETS WILL BE RAFFLE PRIZE

Proceeds From Chance Books Help Defray Expenses of Fraternity

In a pre-season election, Andrew N. Conte, junior in the School of Science, was elected vice president of the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity at a meeting held Thursday, October 15.

This irregularity was necessary in order to fill the vacancy left by James Keegan, former vice-president, who has matriculated to the Medical School of Georgetown University. Conte will serve in this capacity until the expiration of his term in May.

The election was a closely contested affair with Conte winning out by only a fair margin. His opponent was Leonard A. Battafarano, also a junior in the Science School.

Chance books were distributed to the members of the fraternity after the meeting and also on Friday. The chance books contain tickets for a raffle of four tickets to the Temple-Villanova football game of November 14. The chances will be distributed at ten cents each, three for twenty-five cents. Proceeds from the raffle will be used in aiding the fraternity members in meeting their annual fraternal assessment.

The fratrnity also discussed plans for proposed educational tours to neighboring hospitals. It has been found in the past that valuable information has been gained from tours of this type and it is believed that such a program will be of great aid to the fraternity members in pursuing their professional education along medicinal lines. The likely hospitals in the vicinity that will be visited by the fraternity are: Jefferson, University of Pennsylvania, Hahnemann, St. Agnes, and a series of others. A further discussion in this regard will be had at the next meeting of the fraternity.

The next meeting of the fraternity will be held Thursday, October 22, at which session further plans for the fraternity dance will be discussed and committeemen appointed.

WILKES BARRE CLUB INDUCTS MEMBERS

Moderator Stresses Fellowship and Social Advantages of Organization

On Monday afternoon, October 12, the Wilkes-Barre club of Villanova held a special meeting for the purpose of orientating the new members into the club for the current year.

Rev. Bernard C. McConville, O. S. A., addressed the members and explained the purpose of the club. He explained the good fellowship and friendliness of the older members to the younger ones. He also stressed the social advantage of the club through the vacation dances held in Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton at Christmas and Easter time respectively.

Many Cities Represented

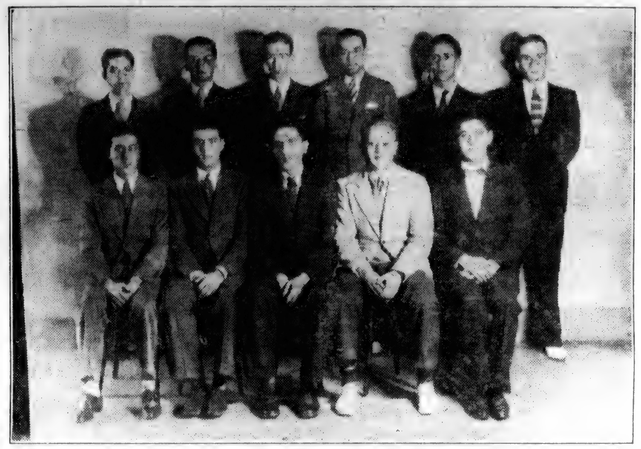
Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Nanticoke, Freeland and Plymouth are well represented in the club, while one member represents Carbondale. Members must be from either Luzerne or Lackawanna county in Pennsylvania.

The officers and veteran members of the club are: William Cleary, president; John Noll, vice-president; Charles Betz, treasurer; Donald Hudson, secretary, and Witold Kryzwicki, Edmund Virusky, James Kutz and Stanley Galazin.

NORTH JERSEY CLUB MEETS

There will be a meeting of the North Jersey Club tonight after Chapel, Room 210 Merdel Hall. All members are requested to attend

PERSONNEL OF SCIENCE SCHOOL PUBLICATION



The 1936-37 staff of Mendel Bulletin Quarterly. Seated left to right (bottom row) Pasquale Guarini, Manrico Troncelliti, David Zion, presiding chairman; Edmund Virusky and Gerald Piserchia. Top row, Paschal Linguitti, Joseph Licha, Harry Parkin, Mario Troncelliti, Louis Santamaria and John Bruno.

Numerous Changes Listed In Bulletin

Continued From Page One

or science man, who is instrumental in the present revision of the magazine. The remainder of the committee is composed of John Bruno, Jose Licha, Gerald Piserchia, Pasqual Guarini, Virusky, Louis Santamaria, and Harry Parkin.

Promote Interest

The prime purpose of the quarterly publication in the future will be to promote an inborn desire of research in the students and to present the material offered in an appealing and concise manner.

In view of the energetic change and the enthusiastic response of those connected with it, the Mendel Bulletin is on its way to a new ideal for which it was originally intended.

APOSTOLATE MEETS

There will be a meeting of the Catholic Press Apostolate this evening in Room 213 Mendel Hall. It is urgent that all members be present.

FEAST OBSERVED BY PEACE MASS

Solemn High Ceremony Will Be Celebrated On Sunday

On Sunday, October 25, the feast of Christ the King, Villanova College will join with other Catholic Institutions in the celebration of a High Mass for Peace. This movement has been inaugurated and carried out by Richard L. Deverall, special student in the college and editor of "The Christian Front," a new Catholic periodical.

Rev. Bernard Albers, O. S. A., vice-president of Villanova college, will be the celebrant of the Mass, and will be assisted by three members of the Sanctuary Society, who will act as master of ceremonies and servers. The Mass will be sung by the schoiastic choir of Saint Mary's Hall.

The program for the Mass will include the Processional, "Praise God, The King Of Kings"; Ordinary, "Missa Brevis," and Offertory Motet, "Jesu Rex Admirabilis."

The sermon for the occasion will be preached by Rev. Thomas F. Gilligan, O. S .A., of Saint Mary's Hall.

Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow Mass.

Addition Of 1000 Books To College

Continued From Page Two

Christian Front, donated books in Catholic Socialism and Chemistry.

All the above books have been catalogued and are on the shelves of the library for the use of the students, daily between the hours of 8:30 A. M. and 9:00 P. M., except Saturdays and Sundays. On Saturdays the library will close at five o'clock and will be open Sunday evenings from 6:00 until 9:00.

The reserve system has been instituted for the greater convenience of the student body. It consists of those books which are most used by students for collateral reading. They are kept on special shelves back of the charging desk. Students should ask the attendant for the book that he wishes to use from this section. All reserve books are to be used in the library during the day. They may be taken out at 8:30 o'clock to be kept overnight and returned the next morning. A fine of 25 cents is charged for every reserve book kept after 9 o'clock in the morning and 5 cents for each hour thereafter. The purpose of this fine is to always have the book in the library for the students.

NURSING BOTTLE FOUND

Princeton N. J.—(ACP) — Here's another bit of evidence to gladden the heart of believers of the "nothing's new" school of thought: a baby's nursing bottle, in the style of 1200 B .C., was unearthed from an ancient grave of an infant at Athens, Greece.

Weekly Calendar

TODAY

VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting, 119 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.
Belle Air Staff Meeting, 51 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.
Student Council, 215 Mendel ..... 5:30 P. M.
Freshman Debating, 204 Mendel ..... 7:00 P. M.

WEDNESDAY

Study Club, 215 Mendel ..... 7:00 P. M.

THURSDAY

Lambda Kappa Delta, 210 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.

SATURDAY

Villanova - Boston U. Football Game, Shibe Park .... 2:30 P. M.

MONDAY

Phi Kappa Pi, 215 Mendel ..... 11:35 A. M.
Villanova Engineer, 223 Mendel ..... 1:00 P. M.

SAVE YOUR LOOSE CHANGE
Iron out your laundry worries
SWIFTLY — SAFELY — ECONOMICALLY
By the Railway Express Route...
Let that dependable college pal, Railway Express, pick up and ship your laundry home and back for you every week. You will find it glossy going — easy, fast, inexpensive.
Merely notify the folks you will send the package by Railway Express, and ask them to return it the same way. You can send it collect too, you know, and while on that subject, we can add, only by Railway Express. The folks will understand. It saves keeping accounts, paying bills, to say nothing of spare change.
You'll find the idea economical all round. The minimum rate is low — only 38 cents — sometimes less. Pick-up and delivery by motor vehicle and insurance included in the shipping charge. It's the same with shipping baggage or anything else by Railway Express. So arrange your shipping dates by phone call to the Railway Express agent, and start now.
Villanova, Pa. Phone: Bryn Mawr 440
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY, INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

WINS THE Beauty Contest
AMONG MODERN FOUNTAIN PENS
Full-length visible ink supply
HOLDS 102% MORE INK THAN OLD STYLE
LESS THAN ACTUAL SIZE
Scratch-Proof Point of Platinum and Gold
We Asked One Question of 200 Men and Women
"Which Pen is Your Choice for Style and Beauty?"
And 2 to 1 Selected Parker's Laminated Pearl*
—The sacless Vacumatic with Ever-Visible Ink Supply and 102% More Ink Capacity than Old Style — GUARANTEED Mechanically Perfect
Yes, other things being equal, style-minded people would choose the Parker Vacumatic for beauty alone! But other things, too, including performance, make this revolutionary invention the national favorite by a still bigger margin—by 9 to 4.
One important difference—its ink supply is ever visible—the ENTIRE length of the barrel. Thus it shows days ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW.
Another great difference is the patented Parker filler. There's no other like it. It requires no sliding piston immersed in ink—its working parts are sealed in the top WHERE INK CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them.
The Parker point is Scratch-proof—precious Platinum combined with solid Gold.
Every student needs this miracle writer that doesn't "let you down" by running dry in classes or exams.
Go and see this luminous, laminated Pearl Beauty at any good store selling pens. The Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.
Start the Fall Term with the Pen that Students Rate Highest
Parker VACUMATIC
GUARANTEED MECHANICALLY PERFECT
Junior, $5 Over-Size, $10 Pencils, $2.50, $3.50 and $5
*More than twice the number selected Parker than any other.

VILLANOVAN

Published Weekly by the Students of Villanova College

I. BENEDICT MALONEY, '37 ..... Editor-in-Chief
HARRY W. PARKIN, '37 ..... Managing Editor
CHARLES E. STAHLECKER, '37 ..... College Editor
NORTON C. PADEN, '37 ..... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. KENNEDY, '37 ..... Copy Editor
WILLIAM B. CLEARY, '37 ..... Business Manager
EDWARD D. KELLY, '37 ..... Circulation Manager
PASQUALE GUARINI, '37, Art & Photographic Editor

Associate Editor
Pasquale Vassaluzzo, '37.....Associate Sports Editor

Columnists
Pio P. Goggi, '37.....Dial Log Editor
R. L. G. Deverall.....Literary Editor
Joseph J. Toland, '38.....Campus Odds and Ends
Frank Bonetti, '37.....Exchange Editor

Staff Writers
John B. Geraghty, Jr., '37 — Joseph Sanborn, '38
James H. Lyons, Jr., '38 — Leonard Flinkman, '39
Louis Santamaria, '37 — Leo Golden, '39
William Bowker, '38 — Paul Juergens, '39
James Tofani, '39 — Martin Kassell, '39
Robert Howe, '39 — James Kutz, '39
Rene Cailliet, '39 — John Dimon, '39
John W. Fillion, '38 — Thos. J. Carbine, '39
John L. Simona, '38 — Frederick Waters, '39

Assistants to the Circulation Staff
Basil Dobrowolski, '37 — George Fanning, '37
Arthur M. Carleton, '37 — John Mullin, '37
Charles A. Skowron, '39 — Norris Horn, '37

Assistants to the Art Staff
Paschal Lingle, '37 — John Bruno, '39

Assistant Business Managers
Peter J. McManus — Henry C. Guckenberger

Faculty Adviser—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: scholar, athlete, gentleman—
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription—$2.00 per year.

Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post-office, December 27, 1928.

1936 Member 1937
Associated Collegiate Press
Distributors of
Collegiate Digest

Member of the Catholic School Press Association.
Member of the National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - OCTOBER 20, 1936

MASS FOR PEACE

NEXT Sunday, the Feast of Christ the King, the faculty and student body of Villanova College go to the chapel to offer a Mass for Peace, indicating the rational, Catholic way to peace. In striking contrast comes this Mass for Peace, following as it does the inane and disorderly proceedings which took place on other college campuses last May and June, proceedings which were too often Communist inspired and Communist managed.

Villanova College is proud of the distinction of having been the first Catholic college in the land to endorse this monster demonstration. But yet, it is only fitting that Villanova should take the lead, for it was Holy Father St. Augustine who, in his famous epistles to Marcellinus, delineated the Catholic ethics of peace and war, an ethical system of international law which was quoted and re-quoted by such famous persons as St. Thomas Aquinas, Suarez and Bellarmine. Indeed, the founder of the Augustinian order is the true Father of International Law.

The Preface of Kingship Feast reads: "Who offering Himself a spotless victim and peace offering on the altar of the Cross. He should accomplish the sacrifice of man's redemption, and deliver to the divine Majesty an eternal and everlasting kingdom, a kingdom of truth and justice, love and peace." Let every man hasten to the chapel next Sunday morning; let every man approach the altar rail and, with humble heart, receive the Body and Blood of the Divine Redeemer and petition that Redeemer for the Peace of Christ in the Reign of Christ; let every man in Villanova College realize his unity with Christ in the Mystical Body, and realizing this unity, let us offer our youth, our lives! for the cause of Peace—let us share with Christ His sufferings in the interest of justice and of peace.

Christ commands! Christ rules! Christ conquers! Come, brothers, let us serve Christ, the King!

VOTE AMERICAN

THE suggestion "Vote American" contains a number of implications that distinguish it from all other political slogans. It moves the thoughtful voter to "weigh well" his decision before exercising his prerogative. It necessitates that every member of the electorate, who would be guided by it in the selection of a candidate, consider not only the promises of each but also his capacity, as measured in the light of past performances, for filling the position to which he aspires. The desirable candidate must not ony be able to meet but also to anticipate the problems of the times. For America, despite the exertions of those who would retard it, is not remaining stationary, either socially or economically.

The principles of Lincoln, and Jefferson are constantly being lauded, and justly so, but it is well to bear in mind that these men were innovators in the American system of government. They refused to regard the political tenets of the past as an infallible guide for the future. The problems that each encountered, required for their solution, a mind inventive as well as immitative. But with what consideration their contemporaries regarded them is best learned from their biographies.

Under the light of these remarks we cannot disregard the activities of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who entered the presidential office in one of the darkest periods in the economic history of the country. His was the duty of turning despair from its natural course of hatred and violence, into the brighter channels of confidence and hope. He made mistakes, as no one will deny, but they were the natural ones to so vigorous a program of aggressive reconstruction. He attained results by disregarding the old Federal system of indifference, and by substituting faith for fear, interest for indifference, vigor for vaccilation, and performance for platitudes.

Those who are inclined to minimize Mr. Roosevelt's activities in this respect, seem to forget that they have failed to substitute anything in their place but a number of promises of future performance, which to-date have been neither too convincing nor too consistent. In fact an unbiased consideration of the respective qualifications of the candidates leads us to the conclusion that to "Vote American" is to vote Democratic.

REDUCE ACCIDENTS

THE National Safety Congress held recently in Atlantic City brings to mind the need of careful and safe methods in our everyday life and procedure.

This assembly, with but one idea paramount in its all executive sessions—the need of safety in an age gone speed madvividly displayed ways and means of combating accidents both in the home and on the highways.

The appalling loss of life yearly in the United States, due to purely human failures is outrageous. Human carelessness has reached a new high in the most civilized age of the centuries.

Mechanical perfection has risen to unprecedented heights in our era. But mechanical perfection still must have the guiding hand of the human behind it. It is this human factor that primarily is the reason for our rising accident total.

This human factor then must be properly educated and cautioned in the use of mechanical genuises or else these creations of man's hand will continue to kill and mangle interminably.

May many more congresses, then, similar to the shore assembly, be held to educate primary matters, the most highly educated people in the world.

Prevarication is reaching a new high with each succeeding day of the pre-election campaign.

More people are injured by automobiles in the United States yearly than the casualties of the World War.

College Chatter

By Frank Bonetti

SHE'S a queen par excellence, and I'd like to take her to that Temple game, but she thinks "gridirons" are for waffles . . . "end runs" come in stockings . . . a "straight arm" is a physical deformity . . . "3 down and 4 to go" is a chicago racketeer's jargon . . . the "third quarter" is a district in Paris . . . The "50 yard line" is a powerful sales talk . . . the "Statue of Liberty play" was written by Patrick Henry . . . a "lateral pass" is a fire exit . . . a "forward pass" is a complimentary ticket . . . a "double reverse" is one of Ford's new wrinkles . . . "pop" Warner is the father of the team . . . a "substitute" is a commercial athlete . . . the "Notre Dame shift" is a geological movement . . . "Riegel's Retreat" is a cafe . . . and that the kickoff is the end . . . Yeah, I think I'll take her anyway.

• • •

Well, the Maroon comes through with a nice one this week . . . the Junkman's song . . . "I feel like a feather in debris" . . . the following conversation took place in Austin Hall the other afternoon . . . "Did you take a shower?"

"No, but if one is lost I'll help you look for it."

• • •

The evolution of a college laddie, says the "Gold Bug" of Western Maryland College, goes something like this:

Frosh: "Mamma, may I go out tonight?"

Soph: "Going out tonight, mother.

Junior: "Going out tonight, Dad."

Senior: "G'night, Dad. I'll bring in the milk."

• • •

The story is told of the old days of eye-for-an-eye football between Ohio State and Notre Dame coach that the Irish Boyskies were biting them in the scrimmages.

"Well," said the Irish mentor (a favorite expression of mentors), "the only think I can see is to postpone the rest of the game till Friday night."

• • •

Health Service Doc: "Have you any scars on you?"

Freshman: "No, but I can give you a cigarette."

• • •

Poet: "Are you the man that cut my hair last time?"

Barber: "I don't think so, sir. I've only been here six months."

• • •

All you potential business men and philosophers please take notice to the words of wisdom offered by the Saint Mary's Collegian: Success in life depends on two things—luck and pluck — luck in finding someone to pluck. It also says: The average man is like a match, if he gets lit up, he loses his head. As a parting shot the Collegian gives us a definition of marriage, quote "Marriage is a mutual partnership with the husband as the mute." And if you think I am kidding just witness any family argument.

ODDS and ENDS

By Joe Toland

WE took ourselves to Philly recently to see "Blossom Time," and take it from us, ti is all it is supposed to be. The individual singing was perfect, the acting excelent, and the costuming and stage effects well done. The best actor in the whole production seemed to be Douglas Levvitt playing the part of Christian Krantz. His humerous antics kept the audience "in the aisles" from beginning to end.

Of course, the immortal music of that artist of artists, Franz Shubert, would seem perfect in any setting, but the excellence of the actors did great justice to the genius of the master.

If you happen to have fifty-seven cents and the inclination it would be well worth your while to go down and see the production. You won't regret it.

• • •

It may be the bourgeois element in us, but while enjoying the aforementioned show we could not help noticing the alarm clock effects produced by the triangle in the orchestra.

• • •

Big Emil Mathias was with us on the occasion and struck upon the idea that the extra nickel tax on the ticket should be for the provision of a bag of peanuts to each patron. (Not bad for an engineer!)

• • •

Congratulations Sophomores. Your dance was more than a success, and you deserve the utmost credit for making yours one of the finest of the Sophomore dances ever held at Villanova.

• • •

Last week we were criticised for forgetting our promised feature of "look alikes." This week we ask you to notice the striking resemblance between Jan Eibner, the soph footballer, and Johnny Machionas, champion swimmer for Big Brothers association in Philly.

• • •

Frosh do you know—

That Jake Simons (he's always good for a crack when we run out of thoughts) has recently changed the "s" on the end of his name to an "e". • • •

That Joe Parente, though the smallest man in the college has the greatest sense of humor.

That your-class has become more conscious of their state since the editorial of last week, but that there are still some "wise guys" who spoil things for the entire class.

That "Turret Top" Stotler is one of the best sax tooters in this vicinity.

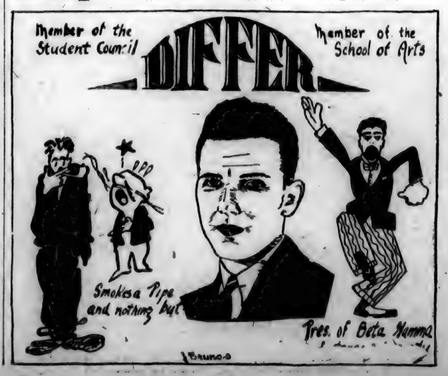
That a new and progressive study club has been organized on the campus. See Dick Deverall if interested.

• • •

We often wonder—What would happen around here if girl waitresses were employed in the dining hall.

Where the microscopic slide specimens would come from if the college pond dried up.

Campus Celebs - - - By J. BRUNO



As We See It . . . On Altruism

By HARRY PARKIN

ONE of the most difficult forms of conduct, in which to instruct a person to the point of application, is that of altruism. For it not only entails a regard for the rights and wishes of others, but also a selfless benevolence toward their well-being. That is, it is an active virtue, which necessitates not only thought, but what is decidedly more difficult and even at times disagreeable, namely intelligent and deliberate action on the part of those who would practice it.

Granting in our own mind, the justice of a man's claims, so long as we are no further obligated to him, is a form of behavalous to which many people will readily ascribe. But so soon, as his rights are taken from the speculative and put into the practical, we tend to become more hesitant in their endorsement. This is more noticeable when it requires the limitation of our own endeavours, or the curtailment of some fancied activity for, "every man is of importance to himself, and therefore, in his own opinion, to others."

Society Ills Traced to Individuals

Yet, when we consider the nature of man and his institutions, it becomes increasingly difficult to realize his indisposition toward this form of conduct. Being a social animal, it seems obvious that the ills of his society, are but those of the individual members. And the fact, that in ameliorating them, he opens the way to a greater good accruing to himself, than by using these ills to his own advantage, is so obvious that it need hardly be vouch-safed. In this regard it becomes beneficial to the community as well as the individual, for each man not only to aid another in his deficiencies, but also to seek the unhampered expression of those more able than himself.

A man's actions are as much the expression of his personality as the works of an author, or the paintings of an artist. As every artist, unconsciously, works into the figures on his canvas the emotional mood that stirred him at the time of its execution, so that the admixture of man and nature takes on a glow that was formerly absent from each; so likewise, do the ordinary actions of life take on the colors of grandeur when they are made to reflect the promptings of a fair, noble, and generous personality—developed and founded on the principles of service to others.

Nature A Cycle of Dependence

In recommending altruism, we can never be unmindful of the friendships that accrue to him, who practices it—friendships that are more akin to brotherhood than to fellowships. For who can help but be well disposed toward the man, who is not only interested in the expression and development of his own abilities, but also, of those, of the individuals who are about him. As all nature is a cycle of dependence, one part upon the other, for its harmonious operation, so, likewise, does man find the complement of his own exertions in those of others.

It is too well known a maxim, to bear repeating here, that he who does not advance, regresses. So the spirit that does not concern itself with the advancement of others, gradually becomes enwrapt in its own—circumscribed by the petty desire for self preferment it advances from indifference to others, to the belief that they should be sacrificed, and even exploited, for its own aggrandizement. They, who spurn aggressiveness in the cause of virtue, are usually victimized by evil. And like the selfish person are more apt to form "mere confederacies in vice or leagues in folly," than the fixed purposes of rectitude and service that ennobles themselves and their associates.

Despite the fact that we seldomly encounter a whole-hearted devotion to humanity outside of the religious life, the supreme end of conduct is still that of living for others, and there is no reason for believing that their precepts and work is to be ever sown on the soil of self interest and self aggrandizement.

Pass In Review

By RICHARD DEVERALL

FIRES UNDERGROUND; by Heinz Liepmann. Lippencott Company, Philadelphia, Pa. $2.00.

THIS book is an attempt to give a picture of the illegal parties fighting "underground" in an attempt to overthrow the domination of the Nazi regime, Heinz Liepmann, a journalist who was on the ground at the time, certainly is in a position to know the various reactions of the masses at the time of those fateful elections in March, thirty-three.

There were those who cheered those who accepted the new order in stunned apathy, and those who elected to devote their lives to the overthrow of the power-drunk "commoner" who had seized the state. It is of the latter that the author concerns himself. He attempts to view the countless examples of heroic courage, of self-less devotion to an ideal, of men and women starving to death for the sake of their principles in a purely objective manner, but if at times he so far forgets himself as to cry out against men and women suffering torture and death at the hands of a monster, who can blame him?

Secret Police Brutal

The description of how the work was carried on under the very noses of the secret police, how government offices were used to carry on the system of espionage that was so vitally important if the movement was to live, cannot help but induce our admiration for those who sacrificed so much and received so little. It was inevitable that some would be caught. Those who were subjected to the most cruel tortures in an effort to make them betray their friends, but none did.

The measures became even stern-er; men were thrown into the foul-est prisons in the country on the slightest suspicion of being connected with the illegal organizations; executions became daily occurances, and the iron hand of the secret police became more menaneing ev-ery day that passed; the slightest whispers were likely to be heard by spies and the shrieking of sir-ens; a swift, brutal raid—murder! In the face of such relentless opposition the strongest movement might well fail, but the work went on. Death was preferable to life under the despotism of "der schoene Adolf."

These people are not the figments of the author's imagination but are living and dying in Germany today. Every example, every story was enacted by men and women of the author's acquaintance. This is one of the reasons that the story grips so hard, and arouses such bitter feelings that such a condition could exist in a supposedly enlightened age.

In closing, however, we must remember that the author is undoubtedly a Communist although he repeatedly denies any political affiliations. The "white-washing" of the Communists can mean but one thing; that he is one of them heart and soul. In his eyes they can do no wrong; their idealogy is perfect; in short they are the saviors of Germany. The fact the he repeatedly helps them is an irrefutable indicator of his sympathies. The atrocities perpetrated upon the people who are fighting for what they believe to be the right cannot be condoned, but remember the author's sympathies before you decide to take the next boat to Germany in order to murder Hitler.

Boston U. Contest Marks Home Coming

Continued From Page One

test with the University of Boston, in that many of the alumni are residents of that area and will be showing interest in both teams.

B. U. Undefeated

To date Boston U. has been undefeated, unscored upon, and untied. Last week it decisively defeated a strong and fighting team from the University of Washington in St. Louis.

Villanova has also been undefeated. It reasons, therefore, that a bitter struggle will take place before any team is defeated.

In view of the fact that much interest is being shown by both graduates and undergraduates in this coming foray it may be expected that the loss of the annual Homecoming dance will easily be rectified by a grand victory by the spirited Villanova team.

Globe Trotting by Fredo Waters

SPAIN

(From an interview with Rev. Lorenzo P. Lozano, O. S. A.; native of Spain, and Professor of Spanish at Villanova.)

THE RIFF-RAFF TRY TO RULE

THE rebellion in Spain today is a contest between the classes. The vast majority of middle and upper clags of people are on the rebels' side. Most of the skilled craftsmen, technicians, soldiers, lawyers, doctors, store proprietors, business men and the like have turned against the present Government.

"Such types of people cannot bring themselves to work hand in hand with all the Reds, the Anarchists, the down-and-outers which comprise the so called Loyalists.

"Intelligent, educated people do not run in mobs, killing, burning and spreading general havoc.

"Now the Government is having great difficulty in finding experienced men to carry on its fight.

HE AIMED AT THE ALCAZAR

"For instance, during the recent classic defence of the Alcazar, the Loyalists had brought up an immense cannon, and had set it up before the ancient fortress There was only one man in Toledo (where the Alcazar is located) who knew how to direct artillery. This man was an officer in charge of one of the assault troops. He was summoned and ordered to direct the cannon's fire against the Alcazar.

"He made all the necessary arrangements and was soon ready to start the bombardment.

"Now it so happened that directly to the rear of the fort a large government munitions factory was working at full speed, and when the first shot was fired, it fell directly in the center of the factory. So with the second and third.

"The officer in charge was immediately placed under arrest and Court-Martialed. He was shot a few minutes later, having been convicted as a traitor.

LEAVE IT TO THE LADIES!

"Many atrocities have been committed during the war, but few surpass the one that recently took place aboard a hostage ship in the Loyalist harbor at Bilbao.

"A band of Communist women raided the ship, and having done away with the guards at the point of the bayonet, they set upon the prisoners shackeled together around the deck.

"According to reports, wild lions, run amuck, could not possibly have displayed such ferocity as did those members of the 'fairer sex' in the ensueing slaughter.

"It doesn't pay to get on the wrong side of the ladies in Spain.

FUTURE DICTATOR

"The present fight is not to implant Fascism or any other 'ism' in Spain. It is plainly a war to oust Communism.

"As General Franco, chief of the rebel army, and future dictator of Spain put it: 'We are fighting for the sanctity of human life, for the sanctity of womanhood, but most of of all for God, and we will never stop until we have eliminated every Communist and Socialist in Spain.'

ARE THEY DEAD?

"It was reported recently that one hundred and forty priests of the Augustinian Province in Spain to which I belong were executed. But I have found out since through private channels that the friars have not been killed, although they are all in jail.

"This is only one more instance, among many, which go to prove the falsehood of much of the news that seeps out of my country today.

"Due to strict censorship, it is almost impossible to sort the real facts from the half-truths and fabrications. It is probably best to swallow most of the information emanating from Spain with, using your American expression, 'a grain of salt.'

TELL-TALE SHOULDERS

"When the rebels recently captured a large city every citizen turned out to welcome their 'rescuers.' How were the rebels to tell who to punish for the severe resistance offered them before the city fell?

"General Franco instructed his soldiers to tear the shirt from every citizen. If there was a red impression, or a slight bruise on their shoulders (caused from using rifles), they were to be shot on the spot as Loyalists."

Trenton Alumni Hold Gathering

Continued From Page One

V. Standford, O.S.A., president of the College, Rev. Joseph Sutliff, rector of St . Joseph's Parish in Trenton; J. Stanley Smith, Esq., '93; president of the Villanova College Alumni Association; and P. F. Banmiller, '35; secretary and treasurer of the National Alumni Association. Fr. Stanford was made an honorary member of the Trenton Club at that time.

Business Meeting

Following the banquet a short business meeting was held at which time the constitutional by-laws were unanimously approved. The members of the club who formulated the By-Laws were Joseph Caulfield, chairman of the committee, Daniel Pacenta, John Malley, and Albert Wagner.

As yet no officers have been elected to the group. The election will take place at the next meeting of the organization which will take place at the St. Joseph's Rectory in Trenton, on Monday, November 2, at 8:30 P. M.

DIAL-LOG

By PIO P. GOGGI

DAMON and Pythias combinations are quite common in the radio world. Fred Astaire and Johnny Green, now on the same air show have been pals for years. They are a familiar duo at parties and other after-work affairs.

Phil Baker and Ben Bernie are close friends. They invest in the same stocks, like the same foods and are kindred souls in general. They did an act in vaudeville together for years.

Another intimate pair is Floyd Gibbons and George Noville, second in command of the last Admiral Byrd expedition. Whenever Gibbens goes on the air, Noville can be found in the studio.

Frank Black and Deems Taylor also are close associates. The same is true of the Jack Benays and George Burns and Gracie Allen. Still another arm-in-arm combination is Ted Husing and Goodman Ace. Helen Hayes and the Alfred Lunts are Manhatten neighbors as well as good friends.

Fred Allen and Howard Dietz, the librettist, are often seen together. Raymond Paige and Igor Gori, who work on the Hollywood Hotel program, are constantly putting their deep friendship to test by critizing each other's professional efforts mercilessly.

One of the surprises of the current seasons football broadcasts is Dolly Stark's handling of the Temple games. What makes the ex-baseball unpire's play-by-play description so satisfying is the way he sticks to straight reporting.

Stark doesn't go in for guessing or predictions, but confines himself to simple undramatized statements of what's happening. His idea is that listeners know enough about football (or they wouldn't be listening) not to like being told which plays are exciting or that a forward pass may be tried next, etc.

Which is something the "name" spielers might give a thought to.

Fred Waring will pay homage to his Alma Mater, the University of Pennsylvania, by offering the entire musical score of the new Mask and Wig Show on his broadcast Tuesday night. As an additional tribute, the Waring glee club will do a medley of Penn songs.

Mask and Wig numbers to be heard will include "This Mad Whirl" (which also is the title of the show), "Something Has Happened to Me," "An Apple a Day," "Let's Take a Trip to Jamaica," and "Whirligig."

When one musician praises another—in this age of keen rivalry—its worth talking about. —Guy Lombardo has declared he believes the next trend of popular music will be the "superlatively arranged" rhythms of Andre Kostelanetz . . . Charles Butterworth's monologues are being written by J. P. McEvoy. Of course he's heard on the Fred Astaire show . . . "Organ Grinder's Swing" was authorized by Will Hudson and Eddie Delange . . . Babs Ryan and her brothers are now featured on WLW, but with a new Babs. . . Bob Burns bazooka isn't the only odd musical instrument heard on the air these days—Ted Weems has been featuring a contraption called a "goo!us horn." . . . Colonel Many Prager is now serving his eighth year as a member of Ben Bernie's Band.

EDWIN JEROME plays Gregory Aiden in "Rich Man's Darling" on CBS. The veteran CBS drama actor was born in New York City.

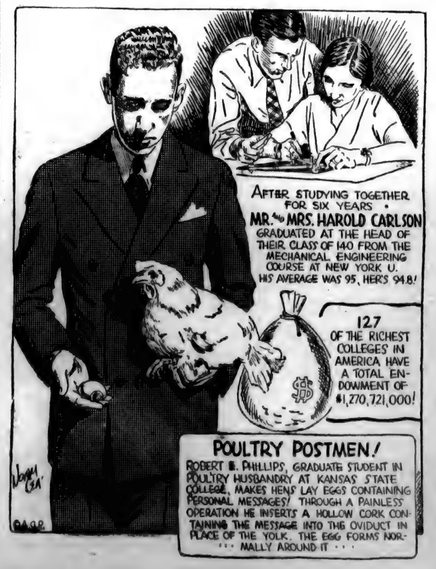
Educated in public schools there but left when young to go to work. Worked on a canal barge, later as a check boy with a telegraph company. A wealthy patron once heard him sing and sent him to Paris to study voice.

Then tragedy diverted his course—Ed lost his voice.

In desperation, he landed a job as a clown with the Grand Circus of Barcelonia, Spain.

Later King Alfonso appointed him premier clown. He traveled through Spain, Portugal and the British Isles. Returning to America, Ed sold oil leases in Oklahoma. In 1914 he returned to New York and got his first job on Broadway. It was in a show called "The Gay White Way."Then followed appearances in George Jessel's Revue, three years in vaudeville. In 1925 he mad 20 shorts, ten o fthem with Bob Ripley.

CAMPUS CAMERA



Debating Society Plans Year's Work

Continued From Page Two

hibition debates to be held in various receptions given by the Holy Name Society and the Knights of Columbus. Also outstanding among the intercollegiate activity will be a radio debate with the members of Swarthmore College debating society.

In the light of last year's record and also that many of last year's varsity debaters have returned for active participation in Beta Gamma's forays it is to be expected that the group will see quite a successful season this year.

An interesting fact is that the majority of last year's freshmen debaters, who were undefeated in their schedule, have become members of Beta Gamma and have been selected to serve on the various teams. These men are: Thomas O'Brien, Fred Waters, Pershing Calabro, James Quigley, John Dimon, Hugh Ferguson and Thomas Delate.

These new members were formally inducted into the Society at a dinner given on Monday evening, October 12th, at Pierre's Restaurant, in Upper Darby. At that time various proposed plans for the society were discussed in a discussion led by the organization's president, Anthony Differ, and the group's faculty moderator, Mr. Anthony J. Frayne.

This discussion evolved into a round - table informal discussion which served greatly towards fostering a spirit of good-fellowship among the new members and the old.

TECHNOLOGY MAGAZINE FEATURES PHOTOGRAPHS

Villanova Engineer, Organ of Engineering Department, Makes First Appearance

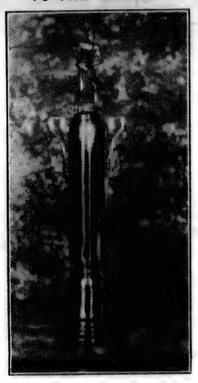
Embracing many features and innovations the Villanova Engineer, monthly publication of the school of Technology made its initial appearance of the year last Tuesday.

Under the guidance of Edward Casey, a senior in the Engineering department, and a staff of outstanding seniors, the magazine has created much favorable comment.

Dedicated to the Freshmen class this first issue was published with the thought in view of acclimating the new men to the school of Technology. Hence, the issue features photographs of professors in the department with a short resume of their history at Villanova.

The formation of the publication embraces the modernistic motif, with the accent on clearness of expression and readibility of type.

TO THE WINNAH!



This beautiful trophy pictured above will be presented to that member of the basketball squad of Villanova College regarded as being the most valuable player during the 1936-37 season. The winner will be judged both for his outstanding athletic prowess and scholastic standing. Story on Page 8.

Students, Faculty Guests At Smoker

Continued From Page One

virtually completed. The dance, as is the custom, will be held in the College Gymnasium.

The musical rhythms for the occasion will be supplied by the Villanovans Orchestra. The orchestra's recent demonstration of ability at the Sophomore Cotillion on Friday evening, last, proved that they will repeat the scintillating triumph that they attained at last year's affair. The subscription is the same as that of last year, being $1.50 per couple.

POOL CLEANER INVENTED

Batton Rouge, La.—(ACP) — An under-water vacuum cleaner! That is the device that has been employed, at Louisiana State University, for washing out the swimming pool while it is full of water.

A man dons a diving helmet and goes to the bottom to "vacuum up" the trash that gathers. The same water can be used for several weeks at a time. A great saving. But the water is not motionless; it is going in and out of the pool at the rate of 750 gallons a minute and passing through a purifier. A solution of copper sulphate keeps algae from forming.

Engineers Discuss Giant Telescope

Continued From Page Two

tion bearings to reduce friction. It is quite difficult to convey the importance of the seemingly unimportant matter of friction. However, its importance can be shown by the fact that when the telescope is following a star, the slightest increase in friction causes a ruination of the photograph that might be in the process of exposure. In this case of the new telescope, it was impossible to point the telescope due north when using mercury floatation; consequently, this method was discarded. In its place ball and socket bearings were used. These are to be lubricated under a pressure of four to five hundred pounds. The total weight of two or three hundred thousand pounds will rest on two-thousandths of an inch of oil.

The completely assembled telescope will be about the size of the Commerce and Finance Building here on the campus. The telescope is expected to enable astronomers to see details that have heretofore been only guessed at.

The next meeting of the undergraduate chapter will be held the latter half of this week.

Lucky for You — It's a Light Smoke!

FOR BIG MOMENTS — A Light Smoke!
Wedding bells — exciting times, with lots of smoking. Consider your throat and reach for a light smoke . . . reach for a Lucky!

When Thrilling Events Lead To Constant Smoking!

When you're excited . . . nervous . . . happy and thrilled, you smoke many cigarettes without thinking about it. Make your choice a light smoke. Smoke Luckies—for Luckies are a light smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco. They are made of the center leaves of the finest tobaccos that money can buy. And they are the only cigarette in which you'll find the all-important throat protection of the "Toasting" process. Yes, the only cigarette. Lucky Strike . . . the fine-tasting cigarette . . . the cigarette that "lives happily ever-after" with your throat.

★ ★ "SWEEPSTAKES" FLASH! ★ ★
17 Winners in Alaska and Honolulu!

Eleven men and women in far off Honolulu and six way up north in Alaska know their popular music so well that they have been able to name the top ranking songs in Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes" 1-2-3—just like that. Congratulations... and good luck to the many other far-away "Sweepstakes" fans.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your delicious Lucky Strikes? There's music on the air. Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."

And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them. Maybe you've been missing something.

Luckies—a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Nort Paden

IN A recent statement to the press, Matty Bell, coach of the supposedly powerful Southern Methodist eleven, said that the southern teams were the only gridders playing up-to-date ball. He claims that Eastern, Western and Mid-western squads are five years behind the times. According to Bell the entire football world is wrong and he and his colleagues down south are right. May we ask who he is and what he is, that he should be the judge of whether the rest of the football world is behind the times.

Bell states that modern football as played by the Southern aggregations consists of passes, more passes and a smattering of passes and laterals to relieve the monotony. Incidentally, it was a behind-the-times team that took the Southern Methodist team over the hurdles last year in the Rose Bowl contest; and a behindthe-times Fordham team that beat them a few weeks ago.

Perhaps it is Bell's contention that a team may put on a flashier brand of ball this way, but flashy ball does not win games.

—V—

Andy Stopper, veteran halfback on the varsity football team is being heralded as 1936 all-American timber by a Philadelphia publication. Andy certainly deserves this build-up because as a sophomore, he was a mainstay of Harry Stuhldreher's eleven and did most of the punting and passing. When called on to earn a few yards, Andy invariably came through.

In the four games played so far this season, Andy has displayed a fine and consistent brand of ball. His uncanny punting and passing ability has been more effective as a result of his year's experience, and his running game, though sometimes overshadowed by the flashier style of other backfield men, is aggressive and consistent. The answer to a coache's prayer. A true All-american.

—V—

From the noticeable effect on the Varsity team in the shape of torn ligaments, cracked ribs, and sundry bruises, Western Maryland must have played a fine brand of ball. We say this with our tongue in our cheek because every one who saw the game knows the type of game that was played by the Green Terrors. Personally, I think the Dusek brothers are sissies compared with the tactics shown by the Maryland aggregation.

Big hearted Stanley "Bunny" Galazin, towering center on the Varsity eleven, is going to get a shock some of these days. Bun will suddenly awake to the fact that he didn't get a ball for himself at the end of the season. Stan has copped the football at the close of two contests now and promptly gave it away. The ball that was used in the State game was presented to Clipper by Galazin as Smith was the first Coach from Villanova to beat State. At the end of the Western Maryland fracas, Stan gave the ball to Raimo. Close your eyes next game Bunny and keep the thing.

—V—

We again notice in the news that the President of Princeton University has asked the people attending Football games at Princeton to refrain from drinking. The request was in the shape of a letter that was sent to all those reserving seats for the Tigers home games. Perhaps such a program might be tried here at Villanova. We noticed, with raised eyebrows, that bottled sunshine was much in evidence among the non-student members of the rooters section at our home games. Where the idea of bringing "Panther Sweat" to athletic contests originated no one really knows but it certainly could be stopped if every college put a ban on drinking in the stands.

CLIPPER SMITH SIGNS

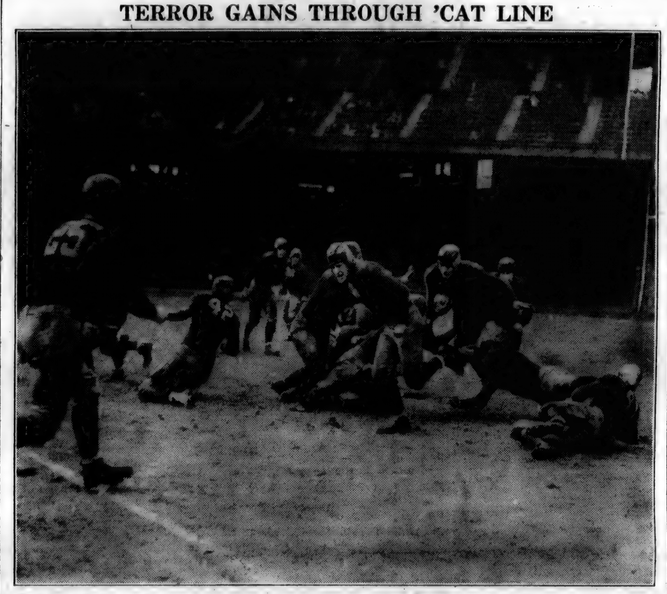
Duquesne has re-hired Clipper Smith as head coach. Students of Villanova College should not be frightened, however, as this Smith is the "Little Clipper" Smith, who played guard at Notre Dame about seven years after the Clipper Smith of the Wildcat team. It seems that all Notre Dame guards by the name of Smith are called Clipper.

Continued on Page Eight

Villanovan Sports

'CATS TROUNCE TERRORS 13-0

TERROR GAINS THROUGH 'CAT LINE



In a desperate thrust to stem the tide of defeat, Sodowsky smashes through Villanova's line. Lathrop, Green Terror co-captain, is leading the interference. Ray Stoviac (No. 25) 'Cat halfback, made the tackle.

WESTERN MARYLAND BOWS TO WILDCATS IN BRUISING GAME

Long Pass, Buek to Nye, Scores First Touchdown; Terrors Outplayed

LATHROP, CAMPBELL STAR AS TEAM GOES DOWN, 13-0

Jack Earle, Art Raimo Lead 'Cats to Fourth Victory of Current Season

With Frank Nye and Art Raimo occupying the scoring spotlight the Villanova Wildcats kept their record unsmirched by handing Western Maryland's hitherto undefeated Green Terrors a decisive 13-0 defeat on the Shibe Park gridiron last Saturday. From the minute Jack Earle ran back the opening kickoff 50 yards, deep into Western Maryland territory, until Art Raimo scored the second touchdown just 5 seconds before the final whistle blew, the Main Liners clearly outplayed the Terrors.

They almost completely throttled the invaders' highly touted aerial attack, the Marylanders being able to complete on but three passes during the fray. However, the long distance punting of left-footed Leroy "Sunshine" Campbell and the savage plunging of Cliff Lathrop kept the Terrors very much in the ball game all the way.

Jack Earle Stars

They started the afternoon with a bang when Earle almost got away for a touchdown on the opening kickoff. Only a clean-cut tackle by the safety man prevented immediate scoring. At this point the Villanova attack bogged down, and Stopper was forced to kick.

A punting duel between Stopper and Campbell occupied the remainder of the first period. Villanova threatened once as Jack Earle was shaken loose on a reverse around left end, but the visitors' line held once more, and the Cats were again forced to kick.

Midway through the second per-

Continued on Page Eight

UNBEATEN BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEXT ON 'CAT SCHEDULE

Strong Aggregation From the Hub Faces Villanova Saturday

CROMPTON IS BIG THREAT

For four successive weeks the Villanova Wildcats have met undefeated football teams, and next Saturday afternoon they will engage another unbeaten foe. Boston University's Terriers, the Feline's next opponents, have yet to taste defeat or to see their goal line crossed.

Nothing much is known about the Beaneaters, as they have never been seen on Main Line territory, but their recent victory over the strong Washington University team of St. Louis, who held Notre Dame's unbeaten Irish to a 14-6 score, will give some idea of their power.

Among the players the Wildcats will have to watch are Gary Famiglietti, hard-plunging fullback, and Roy Thompson and Earl Crompton, slippery halves. Crompton can also give good account of himself at fullback, if the need arise. It was due to his work in the Washington game that the Terriers emerged victorious.

Defensively, the Massachusetts lads display very much class. They boast an "Iron Man" line composed of Bob Allen, 204 pound tackle, Felix Dixon, Allen's running mate at right tackle, tipping the beam at 205; Johnny Walker, fifteen pounds short of two hundred; and the two stalwart guards, Max Miller and Fred Nichols. These boys have played the entire last two contests, and a large share of the first. Coupled with Dick Lynch and Louis Rudolph, two fine ends, the line averages 185 pounds.

In the backfield are many stars. The first string backfield consists of Famiglietti, Thompson, Leon

Continued on Page Eight

BOXING SCHEDULE

Jan. 11	Ger. Boy's Club	Away
Jan. 18	Penn Military College	Home
Feb. 6	Army	Away
Feb. 13	Temple	Away
Feb. 20	U. of Pennsylvania	Away
Feb. 26	Bucknell	Home
Mar. 6	Western Maryland	Home
Mar. 12 & 13	Inter-Collegiate Championships	Syracuse U.
Mar. 19	Wisconsin	Away

STRICT SCHEDULE FACES 'CAT BOXERS

Intra-Mural Meet and Smoker Open Season; Notables Featured

Villanova's boxing team will swing into action this season with a gala intramural meet.

On December 14th, the team will put on a show which will rival any ever put on at Villanova. The big event will take place in the College gymnasium and will feature an intramural championship meet and smoker by which Ray Gadsby, the boxing mentor, will be able to get a line on and pick out some of the outstanding material which is hidden around the school at the present time. The public will be admitted to this grand opening for a small sum and many prominent men will be present.

Among those outstanding men who will attend, will include his excellency Governor George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, his honor, Mayor Wilson, of Philadelphia; Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yanks world's championship baseball team, Martin McLaughlin, Director of Public Works in Philadelphia, an alumnus of Villanova; Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, Gene Tunney, who took the crown from Dempsey, and Jimmy Braddock, present heavyweight champion of the world. One of the three champions will act as referee in the bouts that will take place between the boys.

Ray Gadsby claims there is a lot

Continued on Page Nine

GREAT POWER FOUND IN YEARLING ELEVEN

Frosh Football Team Composed of Former High School Stars

Every afternoon down on the practice field one may see about forty men in green jerseys kicking, running, passing the ball, running through plays and scrimmaging against the Varsity. This group of spirited young men represent the Villanova Freshman Football Squad.

Needless to say, these men are giving a fine account of their previous football knowledge and at the same time are displaying the fact that they can be taught new tricks about this intricate game of football. Outstanding performance has been rendered by the following aspirants; "Buzz" Howlett, Tom McMahon, Bill Romanowski, George Kamen, Tom Casper, Victor Cook, and Frank Bukowski.

"Buzz" Howlett made All-Catholic Quarterback last year as a result of his dependability and 'all-round playing for Northeast Catholic High and should make a strong bid for a varsity berth next season. Tom McMahon, mainstay of the Lower Merion backfield last season, was picked All-Suburban in 1935; his future should be a memorable one in years to come at Villanova.

Bill Romanowski, one of the best halfbacks in the coal regions last year, hails from Avoca, Pa., and has proven to be a very handy man on both the offense and defense. Frank Bukowski, a product of Nanticoke High School, Pa., is a great defensive end and at the same time has shown that he can nab passes and hang on to them.

Tom Casper, a lad representing local talent, is playing a better brand of football than that which rated him an All-Suburban Guard position last year. Tom played for Radnor High last season and his playing was well recognized by the Main Line populace. George Ka-

Continued on Page Nine

VARSITY QUINTET PRACTICES DAILY

Veteran Aggregation Lifts Lid on Intercollegiate Season

Coach Al Severance took time out during a vigorous practice session to give us a slant on this year's basketball team. At present, the squad is practicing on the old Alumni floor, because the Gym is undergoing an extensive renovation. Definite plans have been formulated for work outs, and twenty men have reported to the early sessions being held daily.

In the new court regime at Villanova, the new head mentor will endeavor to place the present and the future 'Cat teams on par with those former great squads of the past. Coach Severance has issued a call for more candidates from the ranks of the highly successful intra-mural league. There are many men about the campus possessing varsity calibre, but who, for some reason are other, are hesitant to report.

Mr. Severance has definitely stated that he is starting to build his team from scratch No positions

Continued on Page Eight

Debating Society Plans Year's Work

Continued From Page Two

hibition debates to be held in various receptions given by the Holy Name Society and the Knights of Columbus. Also outstanding among the intercollegiate activity will be a radio debate with the members of Swarthmore College debating society.

In the light of last year's record and also that many of last year's varsity debaters have returned for active participation in Beta Gamma's forays it is to be expected that the group will see quite a successful season this year.

An interesting fact is that the majority of last year's freshmen debaters, who were undefeated in their schedule, have become members of Beta Gamma and have been selected to serve on the various teams. These men are: Thomas O'Brien, Fred Waters, Pershing Calabro, James Quigley, John Dimon, Hugh Ferguson and Thomas Delate.

These new members were formally inducted into the Society at a dinner given on Monday evening, October 12th, at Pierre's Restaurant, in Upper Darby. At that time various proposed plans for the society were discussed in a discussion led by the organization's president, Anthony Differ, and the group's faculty moderator, Mr. Anthony J. Frayne.

This discussion evolved into a round - table informal discussion which served greatly towards fostering a spirit of good-fellowship among the new members and the old.

TECHNOLOGY MAGAZINE FEATURES PHOTOGRAPHS

Villanova Engineer, Organ of Engineering Department, Makes First Appearance

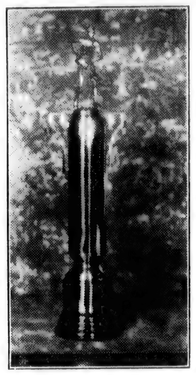
Embracing many features and innovations the Villanova Engineer, monthly publication of the school of Technology made its initial appearance of the year last Tuesday.

Under the guidance of Edward Casey, a senior in the Engineering department, and a staff of outstanding seniors, the magazine has created much favorable comment.

Dedicated to the Freshmen class this first issue was published with the thought in view of acclimating the new men to the school of Technology. Hence, the issue features photographs of professors in the department with a short resume of their history at Villanova.

The formation of the publication embraces the modernistic motif, with the accent on clearness of expression and readibility of type.

TO THE WINNAH!



This beautiful trophy pictured above will be presented to that member of the basketball squad of Villanova College regarded as being the most valuable player during the 1936-37 season. The winner will be judged both for his outstanding athletic prowess and scholastic standing. Story on Page 8.

Students, Faculty Guests At Smoker

Continued From Page One

virtually completed. The dance, as is the custom, will be held in the College Gyimnasium.

The musical rhythms for the occasion will be supplied by the Villanovans Orchestra. The orchestra's recent demonstration of ability at the Sophomore Cotillion on Friday evening, last, proved that they will repeat the acintillating triumph that they attained at last year's affair. The subscription is the same as that of last year, being $1.50 per coup!.

POOL CLEANER INVENTED

Batton Rouge, La.—(ACP) — An under-water vacuum cleaner! That is the device that has been employed, at Louisiana State University, for washing out the swimming pool while it is full of water.

A man dons a diving helmet and goes to the bottom to "vacuum up" the trash that gathers. The same water can be used for several weeks at a time. A great saving. But the water is not motionless; it is going in and out of the pool at the rate of 750 gallons a minute and passing through a purifier. A solution of copper sulphate keeps algae from forming.

Engineers Discuss Giant Telescope

Continued From Page Two

tion bearings to reduce friction. It is quite difficult to convey the importance of the se singly unimportant matter of friction. However, its importance can be shown by the fact that when the telescope is following a star, the slightest increase in friction causes a ruination of the photograph that might be in the process of exposure. In this case of the new telescope, it was impossible to point the telescope due north when using mercury floatation; consequently, this method was discarded. In its place ball and socket bearings were used. These are to be lubricated under a pressure of four to five hundred pounds. The total weight of two or three hundred thousand pounds will rest on two-thousandths of an inch of oil.

The completely assembled telescope will be about the size of the Commerce and Finance Building here on the campus. The telescope is expected to enable astronomers to see details that have heretofore been only guessed at.

The next meeting of the undergraduate chapter will be held the latter half of this week.

Lucky for You — It's a Light Smoke!

FOR BIG MOMENTS — A Light Smoke!

Wedding bells — exciting times, with lots of smoking. Consider your throat and . . . reach for a light smoke . . . reach for a Lucky!

When Thrilling Events Lead To Constant Smoking!

When you're excited . . . nervous . . . happy and thrilled, you smoke many cigarettes without thinking about it. Make your choice a light smoke. Smoke Luckies — for Luckies are a light smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco. They are made of the center leaves of the finest tobaccos that money can buy. And they are the only cigarette in which you'll find the all-important throat protection of the "Toasting" process. Yes, the only cigarette. Lucky Strike . . . the fine-tasting cigarette . . . the cigarette that "lives happily ever-after" with your throat.

★ ★ "SWEEPSTAKES" FLASH! ★ ★

17 Winners in Alaska and Honolulu!

Eleven men and women in far off Honolulu and six way up north in Alaska know their popular music so well that they have been able to name the top ranking songs in Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes" 1-2-3 —just like that. Congratulations . . . and good luck to the many other far-away "Sweepstakes" fans.

Have you entered yet? Have you won your delicious Lucky Strikes? There's music on the air. Tune in "Your Hit Parade"—Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Listen, judge and compare the tunes—then try Your Lucky Strike "Sweepstakes."

And if you're not already smoking Luckies, buy a pack today and try them. Maybe you've been missing something.

Luckies — a light smoke

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO — "IT'S TOASTED"

Copyright 1936, The American Tobacco Company

Sportorial

By Nort Paden

IN A recent statement to the press, Matty Bell, coach of the supposedly powerful Southern Methodist eleven, said that the southern teams were the only gridders playing up-to-date ball. He claims that Eastern, Western and Mid-western squads are five years behind the times. According to Bell the entire football world is wrong and he and his colleagues down south are right. May we ask who he is and what he is, that he should be the judge of whether the rest of the football world is behind the times.

Bell states that modern football as played by the Southern aggregations consists of passes, more passes and a smattering of passes and laterals to relieve the monotony. Incidentally, it was a behind-the-times team that took the Southern Methodist team over the hurdles last year in the Rose Bowl contest; and a behindthe-times Fordham team that beat them a few weeks ago.

Perhaps it is Bell's contention that a team may put on a flashier brand of ball this way, but flashy ball does not win games.

—V—

Andy Stopper, veteran halfback on the varsity football team is being heralded as 1936 all-American timber by a Philadelphia publication. Andy certainly deserves this build-up because as a sophomore, he was a mainstay of Harry Stuhldreher's eleven and did most of the punting and passing. When called on to earn a few yards, Andy invariably came through.

In the four games played so far this season, Andy has displayed a fine and consistent brand of ball. His uncanny punting and passing ability has been more effective as a result of his year's experience, and his running game, though sometimes overshadowed by the flashier style of other backfield men, is aggressive and consistent. The answer to a coache's prayer. A true All-american.

—V—

From the noticeable effect on the Varsity team in the shape of torn ligaments, cracked ribs, and sundry bruises, Western Maryland must have played a fine brand of ball. We say this with our tongue in our cheek because every one who saw the game knows the type of game that was played by the Green Terrors. Personally, I think the Dusek brothers are sissies compared with the tactics shown by the Maryland aggregation.

Big hearted Stanley "Bunny" Galazin, towering center on the Varsity eleven, is going to get a shock some of these days. Bun will suddenly awake to the fact that he didn't get a ball for himself at the end of the season. Stan has copped the football at the close of two contests now and promptly gave it away. The ball that was used in the State game was presented to Clipper by Galazin as Smith was the first Coach from Villanova to beat State. At the end of the Western Maryland fracas, Stan gave the ball to Raimo. Close your eyes next game Bunny and keep the thing.

—V—

We again notice in the news that the President of Princeton University has asked the people attending Football games at Princeton to refrain from drinking. The request was in the shape of a letter that was sent to all those reserving seats for the Tigers home games. Perhaps such a program might be tried here at Villanova. We noticed with raised eyebrows, that bottled sunshine was much in evidence among the non-student members of the rooters section at our home games. Where the idea of bringing "Panther Sweat" to athletic contests originated no one really knows but it certainly could be stopped if every college put a ban on drinking in the stands.

CLIPPER SMITH SIGNS

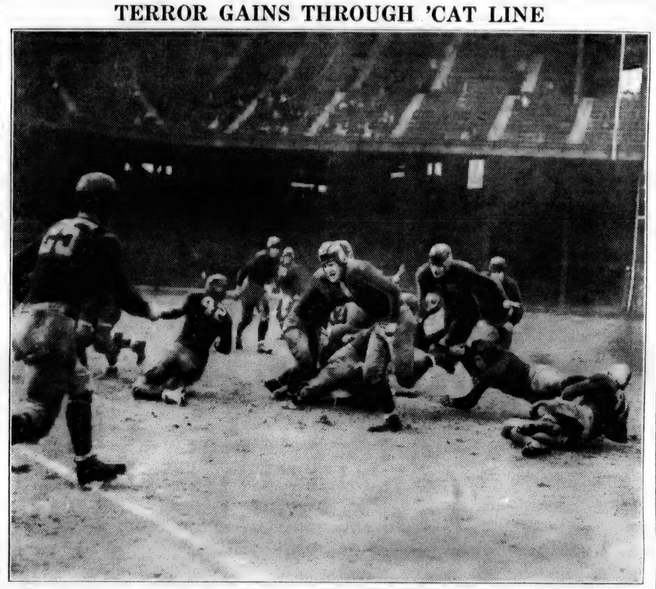
Duquesne has re-hired Clipper Smith as head coach. Students of Villanova College should not be frightened, however, as this Smith is the "Little Clipper" Smith, who played guard at Notre Dame about seven years after the Clipper Smith of the Wildcat team. It seems that all Notre Dame guards by the name of Smith are called Clipper.

Villanovan Sports

Tuesday, October 20, 1936 VILLANOVAN Page Seven

'CATS TROUNCE TERRORS 13-0

TERROR GAINS THROUGH 'CAT LINE



In a desperate thrust to stem the tide of defeat, Sodowsky smashes through Villanova's line. Lathrop, Green Terror co-captain, is leading the interference. Ray Stovine (No. 25) 'Cat halfback, made the tackle.

WESTERN MARYLAND BOWS TO WILDCATS IN BRUISING GAME

Long Pass, Buek to Nye, Scores First Touchdown; Terrors Outplayed

LATHROP, CAMPBELL STAR AS TEAM GOES DOWN, 13-0

Jack Earle, Art Raimo Lead 'Cats to Fourth Victory of Current Season

With Frank Nye and Art Raimo occupying the scoring spotlight the Villanova Wildcats kept their record unsmirched by handing Western Maryland's hitherto undefeated Green Terrors a decisive 13-0 defeat on the Shibe Park gridiron last Saturday. From the minute Jack Earle ran back the opening kickoff 30 yards, deep into Western Maryland territory, until Art Raimo scored the second touchdown just 5 seconds before the final whistle blew, the Main Liners clearly outplayed the Terrors.

They almost completely throttled the invaders' highly touted aerial attack, the Marylanders being able to complete on but three passes during the fray. However, the long distance punting of left-footed Leroy "Sunshine" Campbell and the savage plunging of Cliff Lathrop kept the Terrors very much in the ball game all the way.

Jack Earle Stars

They started the afternoon with a bang when Earle almost got away for a touchdown on the opening kickoff. Only a clean-cut tackle by the safety man prevented immediate scoring. At this point the Villanova attack bogged down, and Stopper was forced to kick.

A punting duel between Stopper and Campbell occupied the remainder of the first period. Villanova threatened once as Jack Earle was shaken loose on a reverse around left end, but the visitors' line held once more, and the Cats were again forced to kick.

Midway through the second per-

Continued on Page Eight

UNBEATEN BOSTON UNIVERSITY NEXT ON 'CAT SCHEDULE

Strong Aggregation From the Hub Faces Villanova Saturday

CROMPTON IS BIG THREAT

For four successive weeks the Villanova Wildcats have met undefeated football teams, and next Saturday afternoon they will engage another unbeaten foe. Boston University's Terriers, the Feline's next opponents, have yet to taste defeat or to see their goal line crossed.

Nothing much is known about the Beaneaters, as they have never been seen on Main Line territory, but their recent victory over the strong Washington University team of St. Louis, who held Notre Dame's unbeaten Irish to a 14-6 score, will give some idea of their power.

Among the players the Wildcats will have to watch are Gary Famiglietti, hard-plunging fullback, and Roy Thompson and Earl Crompton, slippery halves. Crompton can also give good account of himself at fullback, if the need arise. It was due to his work in the Washington game that the Terriers emerged victorious.

Defensively, the Massachusetts lads display very much class. They boast an "Iron Man" line composed of Bob Allen, 204 pound tackle, Felix Dixon, Allen's running mate at right tackle, tipping the beam at 205; Johnny Walker, fifteen pounds short of two hundred; and the two stalwart guards, Max Miller and Fred Nichols. These boys have played the entire last two contests, and a large share of the first. Coupled with Dick Lynch and Louis Rudolph, two fine ends, the line averages 185 pounds.

In the backfield are many stars. The first string backfield consists of Famiglietti, Thompson, Leon

Continued on Page Eight

BOXING SCHEDULE

Jan. 11	Ger. Boy's Club	Away
Jan. 18	Penn Military College	Home
Feb. 6	Army	Away
Feb. 13	Temple	Away
Feb. 20	U. of Pennsylvania	Away
Feb. 26	Bucknell	Home
Mar. 6	Western Maryland	Home
Mar. 12 & 13	Inter-Collegiate Championships	Syracuse U.
Mar. 19	Wisconsin	Away

STRICT SCHEDULE FACES 'CAT BOXERS

Intra-Mural Meet and Smoker Open Season; Notables Featured

Villanova's boxing team will swing into action this season with a gala intramural meet.

On December 14th, the team will put on a show which will rival any ever put on at Villanova. The big event will take place in the College gymnasium and will feature an intramural championship meet and smoker by which Ray Gadsby, the boxing mentor, will be able to get a line on and pick out some of the outstanding material which is hidden around the school at the present time. The public will be admitted to this grand opening for a small sum and many prominent men will be present.

Among those outstanding men who will attend, will include his excellency Governor George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, his honor, Mayor Wilson, of Philadelphia; Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yanks world's championship baseball team, Martin McLaughlin, Director of Public Works in Philadelphia, an alumnus of Villanova; Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, Gene Tunney, who took the crown from Dempsey, and Jimmy Braddock, present heavyweight champion of the world. One of the three champions will act as referee in the bouts that will take place between the boys.

Ray Gadsby claims there is a lot

Continued on Page Nine

GREAT POWER FOUND IN YEARLING ELEVEN

Frosh Football Team Composed of Former High School Stars

Every afternoon down on the practice field one may see about forty men in green jerseys kicking, running, passing the ball, running through plays and scrimmaging against the Varsity. This group of spirited young men represent the Villanova Freshman Football Squad.

Needless to say, these men are giving a fine account of their previous football knowledge and at the same time are displaying the fact that they can be taught new tricks about this intricate game of football. Outstanding performance has been rendered by the following aspirants; "Buzz" Howlett, Tom McMahon, Bill Romanowski, George Kamen, Tom Casper, Victor Cook, and Frank Bukowski.

"Buzz" Howlett made All-Catholic Quarterback last year as a result of his dependability and all-round playing for Northeast Catholic High and should make a strong bid for a varsity berth next season. Tom McMahon, mainstay of the Lower Merion backfield last season, was picked All-Suburban in 1935; his future should be a memorable one in years to come at Villanova.

Bill Romanowski, one of the best halfbacks in the coal regions last year, hails from Avoca, Pa., and has proven to be a very handy man on both the offense and defense. Frank Bukowski, a product of Nanticoke High School, Pa., is a great defensive end and at the same time has shown that he can nab passes and hang on to them.

Tom Casper, a lad representing local talent, is playing a better brand of football than that which rated him an All-Suburban Guard position last year. Tom played for Radnor High last season and his playing was well recognized by the Main Line populace. George Ka-

Continued on Page Nine

VARSITY QUINTET PRACTICES DAILY

Veteran Aggregation Lifts Lid on Intercollegiate Season

Coach Al Severance took time out during a vigorous practice session to give us a slant on this year's basketball team. At present, the squad is practicing on the old Alumni floor, because the Gym is undergoing an extensive renovation. Definite plans have been formulated for work outs, and twenty men have reported to the early sessions being held daily.

In the new court regime at Villanova, the new head mentor will endeavor to place the present and the future 'Cat teams on par with those former great squads of the past. Coach Severance has issued a call for more candidates from the ranks of the highly successful intra-mural league. There are many men about the campus possessing varsity calibre, but who, for some reason are other, are hesitant to report.

Mr. Severance has definitely stated that he is starting to build his team from scratch No positions

Continued on Page Eight

Lightweights Walloped by Rutgers 33 to 6

150 POUNDERS BOW BEFORE ONSLAUGHT OF RUTGERS ELEVEN

Soverio Scores Lone Tally For Villanova on Pass From Pantaleo

RUTGERS STILL UNBEATEN

By THOMAS J. CARBINE

Villanova's lightweights received a setback as they set out on their first campaign as a member of the 150-lb. Intercollegiate Football League when Rutgers beat them 33-6 on the Main Line field.

Although the margin of the victory was quite decisive it was not as bad as last year's defeat by a 43-0 score.

It might also be mentioned that the Big Red Team was unscored upon in their victorious march of last season when they won the league championship.

In the first quarter, it looked as though Coach Dick Emmerling's charges would cross the Rutgers goal line when Villanova drove to the one foot line mainly through the line crashing of Paul Kerrigan after the little Wildcats had gained an advantage through an exchange of punts.

As the second quarter was drawing to a close, Rutgers received its first opportunity to score when their left halfback, Joe Barile, blocked Soverio's kick on Villanova's 30-yard line. A spinner play brought the ball down to the 3-yard line and after three attempts Dick Chartrand crashed over for the score. The try for the extra point failed when Chartrand's pas to Al Fusco was incomplete.

A kick that went out of bounds on the 50-yard line at the beginning of the third quarter set Rutgers up for another score. Line plays took the ball down to the 6-yard line where Fusco, on a reverse, went over for a touchdown. He then converted to make the score 13-0.

Later in the same quarter Fusco intercepted Cousart's pass into the flat and raced 35-yards to score standing up. He again made good his try for the extra point.

A 14-yard end run in the last quarter by Finnie added six more points to Rutger's score. The try from placement was wide.

Emmerling had his second team backfield in when the Wildcats scored. Carl Pantaleo stood back on his own 40-yard line and threw a pass over center to Joe Soverio who cleverly dodged two tacklers and raced 40 yards for Villanova's only touchdown. Jim Lyons faked a drop-kick and threw as pass in the try for the extra point but it was knocked down.

The final score of the game came when Rutgers again pushed the ball over for a touchdown on a plunge through center from the 4-yard line. Shaw converted for the point. Score: Villanova, 6; Rutgers, 33.

The fine aggressive work of Villanova's team was outstanding in the first half it is thought that this team will make a name for itself in future league games.

Rutgers 150's.	Positions	Villanova 150's.
Rubin	Left end	Fortunato
Steadman	Left tackle	Fedrowica
Hamblin	Left guard	Uram
Clary	Center	Allessandroni
Hoc	Right guard	Stead
Babb	Right tackle	T. O'Brien
Book	Right end	Dinges
Glinsman	Quarterback	Lyons
Barile	Left halfback	Biester
Fusco	Right halfback	Cousart
Chartrand	Fullback	Kerrigan

Rutgers ..... 0 0 14 13—33
Villanova ..... 0 0 0 6— 6

Touchdowns—Chartrand, Fusco, 2. Finnie. 2. Soverio. Point after touchdown—Fusco, Sisco, Shaw (placements). Referee—Bert Baron, Penn State. Umpire—Charles Roberts, Franklin and Marshall. Head linesman—Albie Bright, Illinois.

EVEN BREAK FOR JACOBS

Two teams with which "Doc" Jacobs is associated played over the week-end, and the result was an even break. The Norristown A. A. M. club, of which Doc is an alumnus, took over East Falls by a 28-0 score, continuing its unbeaten record for the present season.

In the other contest, the Norristown pros, coached by Jacobs, dropped a close contest th Marty Brill's Reading Keys. The tally was 14-7, when the final whistle blew.

BRILL WORRIES IN VAIN

Marty Brill, coach of the La Salle Explorers, worried a bit over the reputation Elon College has for throwing passes. Results showed his worries to be in vain, as the La Salle lads trounced the Carolinians by a 36-12 margin.

Rutgers Half-back Hits Stone Wall

The secondary defense was too fast for this ball toter from the Raritan. Stopped dead on the line of scrimmage by Villanova's Lou Beister, the 150 pounder was swamped by the 'Cat lightweight team.

Boston University Next Wildcat Foe

Continued From Page Seven

Spivack, and Saul Nechtem, and scales 172½. In reserve, the Terriers have Earl Crompton, stellar half and full; Russ Lawry, sub for the hard-hitting Famiglietti, and Harry Cloverly, 140-lb quarterback. Crompton's specialties are kicking and passing, and unless "Fam" recovers from an attack of grippe, the Wildcats will have to face this triple-threat back.

To date the Terriers have been impressive in their victories. Against American International they tallied forty points, taking it easy throughout most of the contest. They then traveled to Toledo, where a battle of two great defensive teams was waged, with the Bostonians winning by one touchdown. In this fray they rolled up ten first downs to the Toledoan's five. Famiglietti proved he is the man to watch next Saturday by his outstanding work in this game.

Boston's light, fast backfield was handicapped by wet weather against Washington U., but the alertness of the line play won the game for the Terriers. A blocked kick resulted in the margin of victory.

Coach L. B. "Pat" Hanley has developed an aggressive line and it will pay the Wildcats well to beware of this hard charging combination. In the last two victories, these players have capitalized on the mistakes of their opponents. Both the Toledo and Washington games were won by recovering a loose ball which before had been in enemy possession.

From the record compiled by the Boston U. team, it is evident that the Terriers are not the pushovers many are prone to believe. It is certain that they will furnish the Villanova team and enthusiasts with a very interesting and busy afternoon next Saturday at Shibe Park.

BASKETBALL PLAYER TO RECEIVE TROPHY

Heavy Gold Cup Will Be Awarded Most Valuable Quintet Member

Who will be the lucky member of the Varsity basketball team to be voted the most valuable member of the squad at the end of the season? He will be fortunate indeed, as a very beautiful cup will be awarded the person who is so selected.

The cup is of sun gold mounted on a heavy, brown bakelite base. It is of unusual design surmounted by a heavily gold plated figure of a basketball player in the act of passing the ball. The overall height of the trophy is 21 inches. Donated by a generous benefactor the cup will remain in the permanent possession of the player so honored as to receive it.

Many factors will enter into the selection of the most valuable member of the team. According to varsity coach Al Severance, not only will the player's ability and performance on the floor enter into the judging but also such things as strict adherance to training rules; attitude during practice sessions, attendance at practice, general play as far as team work goes, conduct on the campus and class standing.

The fact that a player has been grandstanding all season and perhaps has gotten into the headlines of local papers will not assure him by any means of the coveted trophy.

This marks a new era in sports at Villanova. Individual recognition of excellency in sports will take on a more material form of approval from now on.

Varsity Quintet Practices Daily

Continued From Page Seven

are cinched. They will be filled by men who show the most spirit and co-operation. It is for this reason that he desires more men to report. Incidentally, a generous donor has donated a beautiful trophy to the squad. At the conclusion of this season, it will be presented to the most valuable player on the team.

The candidates that have reported to the coach are not new to him; however, certain features have to be ironed out before regular play can be started. A prospect must have everything to place on the team that will play clubs having an All-American calibre. The tentative schedule calls for contests with N. Y. U. and Indiana in addition to our arch rival, Temple. These were three of the strongest teams in the country last year.

The contenders for the various positions on the team have shown much spirit in the short time they have been practicing. Credit should be given to Charlie DelOumo, Mike Totin and Walt Sheftic, all new men who have answered Severance's plea for new material. Although greatly overshadowed in heighth, these men have been able to hold their own against some of the team's monstrosities. Much is expected from these men, as well as the members of last years undefeated Kittens.

The team in general should be in great shape by the time the season rolls around. They are still two months ahead of the proverbial lid-lifter. Games have been arranged with the Philadelphia Spha's and other strong teams. The showing against such teams will undoubtedly give one a good idea of the Wildcat's strength.

FAULKER MADE INSTRUCTOR

Ed Faulkner, varsity coach, has been added to the Swarthmore College faculty as a fulltime instructor in tennis.

Western Maryland Bows to Wildcats

Continued From Page Seven

tod, Clipper's proteges launched a drive that netted them a touchdown. Art Raimo, in at right half, collaborated with Andy Stopper to get a first down on the Western Maryland 37 yard line. Earle made another on one try. Then Raimo and Harvey Buek advanced the pigskin to the 14 yard stripe.

Nye Scores on Pass

The Terrors dug in and threw back the next two thrusts at the line. Still, the Wildcats were not to be denied. On third down Buek faded back and threw a perfect pass to quarterback Frank Nye in the end zone for the initial score.

Western Maryland came back and threatened to push over a tying counter. A long pass, Campbell to Westerville, sub end, clicked for a gain of 40 yards. The Terrors were going to town. Then the alert Villanova pass defense batted down the next three overhead attempts to get the 'Cats out of danger. So the Cats left the field at halftime leading 6-0.

At the very outset of the second half Captain Sala and his mates put on a sustained drive that carried them from their own 40 to the Terrors' 20, where the invaders held for downs. The feature of this advance was a 30 yard sprint around end by Jack Earle, the leading groundgainer of the day.

A blocked punt in the last quarter gave Western Maryland another golden opportunity. Lathrop fought his way through the Villanova line for the first down. A pass, Sadowski to Benjamin was good for 10 yards. Lathrop on two plays on the line knifed his way to another first down on Villanova's 34.

Passes Fail

The 6-0 lead looked very slim at the moment, but once again an airtight pass defense saved the day for the Wildcats.

After an exchange of kicks Villanova started another counter attack. Bill Christopher, who did a wonderful job all afternoon running back punts, returned one 15 yards to midfield. Raimo dashed for 12 yards off left tackle. Stopper drove through the middle for 8. Then with but five seconds left to play Raimo once again tore through left tackle, reversed his field eluding tackler after tackler to cross the goal line standing up.

Joe Missar, Wildcat guard, was in for 59 minutes of the game and played headsup football throughout. Jack Earle and Bill Rogers also starred on the defensive.

For the Terrors Leroy Campbell, who backed up the line, and Stan Benjamin, stellar end, were outstanding. Cliff Lathrop was their chief groundgainer, accounting for almost all the 115 yards the Terrors gained.

Villanova	Positions	W. Maryland
Sala	Left end	Lassahn
Rogers	Left tackle	Luthauskas
Missar	Left guard	Ortent
Galazin	Center	Peters
Rezzo	Rich guard	Fagen
Oliver	Right tackle	Forthman
Fox	Right end	Benjamin
Christopher	Quarterback	Sadowski
Stopper	Left halfback	Campbell
Stovink	Right halfback	Lathrop
Earle	Fullback	Mujwit

Villanova ..... 0 6 0 7—13
Western Maryland ..... 0 0 0 0— 0

Touchdowns—Nye, Raimo. Points after touchdowns — Christopher (pincement), Substitutions—Villanova, ends, Wysocki, Bell, Cochraine; tackles, Eibner; guards, Hanna, Jaroslk; centers, McKenna; backs, Buek, Raimo, Nye; Western Maryland, backs, Adriance, Thomas; ends, Westerville, Lisinski, Lash; tackles, Forthman; guards, Fagen. Officials: Referee—H. E. Armstrong, Johns Hopkins. Umpire—W. J. Gaynor, Lafayette. Head linesman—C. N. Gault, Muhlenberg. Field judge—G. Vergara, Notre Dame. Time of periods—15 minutes.

VILLANOVA RECOMMENDS FOR YOUR ENJOYMENT

Seville Theatre
Bryn Mawr, Pa.
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20
"HIS BROTHER'S WIFE"
WED. and THURS., OCT. 21-22
"I'D GIVE MY LIFE"
Thursday — BANK NIGHT $25 in Prizes
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23
"Hollywood Boulevard"
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24
F. G. Woodhouse's
"THANK YOU JEEVES"
Matinee Daily 2:30 Saturday Matinee 1:00 Adults 25c plus Tax

Anthony Wayne THEATRE
Wayne, Penna.
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20
"THE ROAD TO GLORY"
WED. and THURS., OCT. 21-22
The Jones Family in
"BACK TO NATURE"
Added Wednesday Bank Night—$25 in prizes
FRI. and SAT., OCT. 23-24
"Yours for the Asking"
Matinee Daily 2:30 Saturday Matinee 1:00. Adults 25c plus Tax
Two evening performances at 7 and 9 P. M. Adults 35c plus Tax

WARNER BROS.
69th St. Theatre
Upper Darby, Pa.
Starts today for three days
October 20, 21, 22
"Last of the Mohicans"
with Randolph Scott

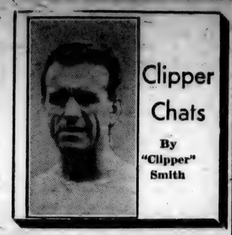
Ardmore Theatre
Today — Only
"Jailbreak"
Can the Bighouse Hold Public Enemies?
Coming Wed.—Thurs—Fri.
"Piccadilly Jim"



Clipper Chats

By "Clipper" Smith

With four wins tucked under our belts, this situation is getting serious. When I first came to Villanova and saw the athletic setup and my material I was optimistic, with hopes of a successful season inaugurating my first year as coach. I realized that the change in coaching staffs entails some extra work on the part of the squad to get into the swing of the new coaches' method of presentation. I knew all this, and while prepared for a good season, I was not totally expecting such a great show of football to a remarkable degree, with few exceptions.

Western Maryland Undefeated

Western Maryland came up here undefeated, and they had been showing great power and promise in their undefeated campaign. We just didn't know how to take them, and we realized early in the week that we would have a battle on our hands. From what I picked up around here concerning games of previous years the Battle of the Green Terrors was not to be taken lightly. Our scouts told us that passing was not their premier offensive weapon, but that in Benjamin, Lassahn and Reinaardt, the Terrors had a trio of good pass receivers.

Co-captain Lathrop was revealed as a fine halfback, a blocking back and a great ball carrier, both on the flanks and thru the line.

Terrors Use Single Wing

Western Maryland used both single wing back and a short punt formation with the ball going to the short man, as their chief offensive lineups. From the single wing back, they went on end sweeps, reverses and sometimes passes. Their short punt formation had the short man hitting the line on direct passes, cross bucks and inside tackle plays. From this formation, the deep man also carried the ball around end and passed.

Their quick kick in the second quarter was run from a single wing back formation, with the number four doing the kicking. It was a grand piece of football, well done. They kicked on second down from their own 45 yard line, with about seven yards to go. Our defensive backfield realizing the setup, were playing in box formation, with Christopher about 20 yards from the line of scrimmage. He was quite surprised as I when he saw the ball come sailing out of the scrimmage over his head. He made a good recovery, however, and the crisis was past.

Backfield Played Well

Bunny Galazin played his usual excellent game. Captain Tony Sala and George Fox are as nice a pair of ends as a coach would want, and in the backfield, Chris called his plays almost flawlessly, with lots of support from Stopper, Stovlak, Raimo and Earle.

Western Maryland had a duo of heads-up players in their co-Captains Lassahn and Lathrop. Lassahn didn't go as well against Villanova as he was expected to, but Benjamin playing left end, came through with a good brand of football.

On the whole, the team satisfied me. They have played four games and came through undefeated and we are now pointing for our fith straight against Boston University.

Great Power in Yearling Eleven

Continued From Page Seven

men and Victor Cook, hailing from Jersey City and Baltimore respectively, are two hundred pound tackles and their efforts should enable them to see action next Fall.

According to Coach "Doc" Jacobs, the Freshman Squad as a whole is shaping up to expectation and are carrying out their assignments very well. The chief duty of the Frosh is to learn plays of the opposing teams every week and then run them against the Varsity so that the Varsity will get an idea of what they will run up against when the opponents are met. The "Kittens" are a group of enthusiastic young men and are responding one hundred per cent to the instructions and teachings of the Villanova Coaches.

Tennis Semi-Finalists

Philip Kramer and Leonard Wienfeld battled in the semi-finals of the tennis tournament Friday. Wienfeld entered the finals after beating Kramer.

Tennis Tournament Ends Today; Wienfeld and Rice Reach Finals

This afternoon the finals of the Intra-mural tenis tournament will take place on Villanova's courts. The two contestants, Wienfeld and Rice, will battle for the supremacy of their respective groups in the first intra-mural contest this year.

The semi-finals were held last Friday. Phil Kramer of Fedigan; Wienfeld, a frosh Commerce and Finance student; and Rice, a Mendel Hall resident, were the men to reach the semi-finals. Rice drew a bye and was slated to meet the winner of the Kramer-Wienfeld match.

Kramer was the favorite; but Wienfeld surprised by taking the Fedigan boy over the net. Rice will meet Wienfeld in the finals today.

The winner of the finals automatically takes first place in this tournament ;while the loser takes second. Kramer, the loser in the semi-finals, was awarded third prize.

The advent of cold weather makes further matches impossible. Therefore, there was a drawing held to determine the final standing of the remaining halls. The drawing was held in the office of the VILLANOVAN. The sports editor and several of his staff witnessed the event.

Austin Fourth

Austin Hall drew fourth place, with Alumni and the Mendel Hall Dayhops following in that order.

The contestants were well satisfied with the condition of the courts, which were in fine shape. Despite the inclement weather, the matches were run off in fine style, with a minimum of delays due to climatic conditions.

Rice is favored to wi nthe tournament, as a hard driving game will defeat Wienfeld. The C & F man displays a brand of pat ball that is hard to figure out. His high bounding lobs have brought him this far as they caught his opponents flat-footed.

"Pardon me, Duchess, but you're sitting on my Twenty Grands." "Oh, Colonel, you say the cutest things. Have one of mine!"

Copr. 1936 The Axton-Fisher Tobacco Co., Inc.

WE CERTIFY that we have inspected the Turkish and Domestic Tobaccos blended in TWENTY GRAND cigarettes and find them fine in smoking quality as those used in cigarettes costing as much as 50% more.

(Signed) Seil, Putt & Rusby Inc.
(In collaboration with tobacco experts)

ALSO OBTAINABLE IN FLAT FIFTIES

YEARLING QUINTET SCHEDULE PENDING

Frosh to Play Preliminary Games Before Varsity Home Contests

Al Severance, recently appointed coach of the varsity basketball team will be serving double duty this year by coaching the freshman squad as well as the varsity.

Coach Severance is working on a schedule for the freshmen. He has planned to have them play preliminary games to each of the varsity's home games. The frosh will not be able to play any away games outside the city because Severance will not have the time nor the opportunity to accompany them on any trips.

Most of the games are pending. The only games so far definitely scheduled are with the Temple Freshmen and the Ursinus Frosh. The home game with Temple Frosh will be played on January 29, and the away game on February ninth. The Ursinus game is scheduled for February second.

Many other schools have been contacted and games with them are pending a suitable date. Among these teams are: Bucknell Junior College, Brown Prep, George Washington Freshmen, Geneva Freshmen, Haverford Aces, U. S. Naval Reserve quint, and Albright Freshmen. Coach Severance is also making an attempt to schedule games with the University of Pennsylvania Junior Varsity and Drexel J. V.'s, but has not received any reply as yet.

FOOTBALL DINNER

Plans have been tentatively made to hold the annual Villanova football dinner at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia. The affair will be held under the auspices of the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, and will take place on December 8, 1936.

Strict Schedule Faces 'Cat Boxers

Continued From Page Seven

of good material this year, but there are three classes that have him worried. There is a lack of material for the heavyweight class, the 118 pound class and the 155 pound class. Last year there were three aspirants for the 118 pound division and Joe Carrig and Dick Mulvehill took care of the 155 pound and the heavy weights respectfully. This year Mulvehill is not back and Joe Carrig will be lost, as you will see him on the basketball court. The team will be captained again this year by "Tony" Sala, who is also captain of the football team and Inter-collegiate light-heavyweight boxing champion.

Tom Kennedy is manager of the team, being assisted by Olivar Volpe. A freshman manager is wanted.

All boys who intend to try out for the team this year must start at the beginning of the season and not later; also, training will be much more strict this year, with plenty of roadwork.

The schedule this year is tougher than ever before. The team will open at Germantown Boys Club on January 11th, and will close with a trip to Wisconsin on March 19th, 1937, to box the Badgers, where Harry Stuhldreher, former head football coach at Villanova is now coaching the Wisconsin eleven.

Last year, Ray Gadsby and his leather pushers had a great season. Participating in four meets, the boxers lost only one, a questionable decision to Western Maryland. Penn, Temple and W. and J. were beaten. "Tony" Sala, the Captain, was undefeated and then went to the Intercollegiate Bouts at Penn State and successfully defended the crown which he had won the previous year.

GRID HEAD QUITS

Dr. Harry A. March has resigned as president of the American Football League, it was announced today, by Paul Thurlow, loop treasurer. No reason was given. A successor will be chosen within a few days.

Good Camel's Hair Coats Start With Good Camels!

And for Good Values In Camel Coats . . .

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

Look over our enormous stock of camel's hair coats and you see what we mean by good! There's a softness and subtle lustre to this weave that makes it almost universally correct for fall and winter wear. Priced surprisingly low, too.

$29.50 Others to $55

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER
THE MAIN LINE MEN'S SHOP
ARDMORE

Lightweights Walloped by Rutgers 33 to 6

150 POUNDERS BOW BEFORE ONSLAUGHT OF RUTGERS ELEVEN

Soverio Scores Lone Tally For Villanova on Pass From Pantaleo

RUTGERS STILL UNBEATEN

By THOMAS J. CARBINE

Villanova's lightweights received a setback as they set out on their first campaign as a member of the 150-lb. Intercollegiate Football League when Rutgers beat them 33-6 on the Main Line field.

Although the margin of the victory was quite decisive it was not as bad as last year's defeat by a 43-0 score.

It might also be mentioned that the Big Red Team was unscored upon in their victorious march of last season when they won the league championship.

In the first quarter, it looked as though Coach Dick Emmerling's charges would cross the Rutgers goal line when Villanova drove to the one foot line mainly through the line crashing of Paul Kerrigan after the little Wildcats had gained an advantage through an exchange of punts.

As the second quarter was drawing to a close, Rutgers received its first opportunity to score when their left halfback, Joe Barile, blocked Soverio's kick on Villanova's 30-yard line. A spinner play brought the ball down to the 3-yard line and after three attempts Dick Chartrand crashed over for the score. The try for the extra point failed when Chartrand's pas to Al Fusco was incomplete.

A kick that went out of bounds on the 50-yard line at the beginning of the third quarter set Rutgers up for another score. Line plays took the ball down to the 6-yard line where Fusco, on a reverse, went over for a touchdown. He then converted to make the score 13-0.

Later in the same quarter Fusco intercepted Cousart's pass into the flat and raced 35-yards to score standing up. He again made good his try for the extra point.

A 14-yard end run in the last quarter by Finnie added six more points to Rutger's score. The try from placement was wide.

Emmerling had his second team in backfield in when the Wildcats scored. Carl Pantaleo stood back on his own 40-yard line and threw a pass over center to Joe Soverio who cleverly dodged two tacklers and raced 40 yards for Villanova's only touchdown. Jim Lyons faked a dropkick and threw as pass in the try for the extra point but it was knocked down.

The final score of the game came when Rutgers again pushed the ball over for a touchdown on a plunge through center from the 1 yard line. Shaw converted for the point. Score: Villanova 6; Rutgers, 33.

The fine aggressive work of Villanova's team was outstanding in the first half it is thought that this team will make a name for itself in future league games.

Rutgers (33)	Positions	Villanova (6)
Rogers	Left end	Kennedy
Rosenberg	Left tackle	Pedrazzi
Hudock	Left guard	Tom
Gallo	Center	Alessandroni
Sloan	Right guard	Sloat
Gough	Right tackle	T. O'Brien
Shaw	Right end	Dolce
Chartrand	Quarterback	Lyons
Barile	Left halfback	Soverio
Fusco	Right halfback	Cousart
Finnie	Fullback	Kerrigan

Rutgers ..... 0 6 14 13—33
Villanova ..... 0 0 0 6—6

Touchdowns—Chartrand, Fusco, 2, Finnie, Soverio. Point after touchdown—Shaw (placements). Referee—Bacon, Penn State. Umpire—Roberts, Franklin and Marshall. Headlinesman—Albie Bright, Illinois.

EVEN BREAK FOR JACOBS

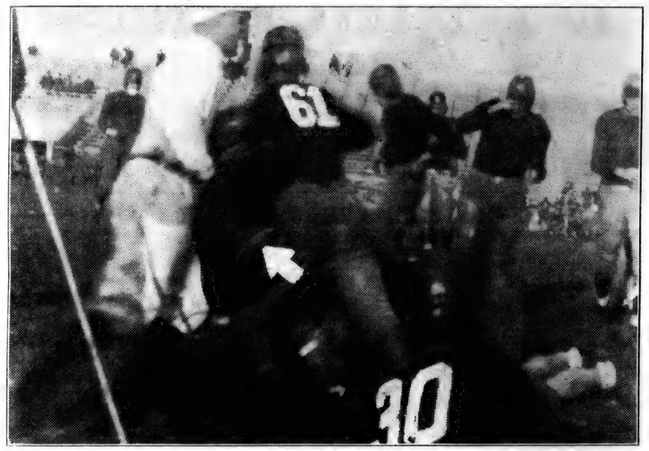
Two teams with which "Doc" Jacobs is associated played over the week-end, and the result was an even break. The Norristown L. A. M. club, of which Doc is an alumnus, took over East Falls by a 2-0 score, continuing its unbeaten record for the present season.

In the other contest, the Norristown prize coached by Jacobs, dropped a close contest to Marty Brill's Reading Keys. The tally was 14-7, when the final whistle blew.

BRILL WORRIES IN VAIN

Marty Brill, coach of the La Salle Explorers, worried a bit over the reputation Elon College has for throwing passes. Results showed his worries to be in vain, as the La Salle lads trounced the Carolinians by a 36-12 margin.

Rutgers Half-back Hits Stone Wall



The secondary defense was too fast for this ball toter from the Raritan. Stopped dead on the line of scrimmage by Villanova's Lou Beister, the 150 pounder was swamped by the 'Cat lightweight team.

Boston University Next Wildcat Foe

Continued From Page Seven

Spivack, and Saul Nechtem, and scales 172½. In reserve, the Terriers have Earl Crompton, stellar half and full; Russ Lawry, sub for the hard-hitting Famiglietti, and Harry Cloverly, 140-lb quarterback. Crompton's specialties are kicking and passing, and unless "Fam" recovers from an attack of grippe, the Wildcats will have to face this triple-threat back.

To date the Terriers have been impressive in their victories. Against American International they tallied forty points, taking it easy throughout most of the contest. They then traveled to Toledo, where a battle of two great defensive teams was waged, with the Bostonians winning by one touchdown. In this fray they rolled up ten first downs to the Toledoan's five. Famiglietti proved he is the man to watch next Saturday by his outstanding work in this game.

Boston's light, fast backfield was handicapped by wet weather against Washington U., but the alertness of the line play won the game for the Terriers. A blocked kick resulted in the margin of victory.

Coach L. S. "Pat" Hanley has developed an aggressive line and it will pay the Wildcats well to beware of this hard charging combination. In the last two victories, these players have capitalized on the mistakes of their opponents. Both the Toledo and Washington games were won by recovering a loose ball which before had been in enemy possession.

From the record compiled by the Boston U. team, it is evident that the Terriers are not the pushovers many are prone to believe. It is certain that they will furnish the Villanova team and enthusiasts with a very interesting and busy afternoon next Saturday at Shibe Park.

BASKETBALL PLAYER TO RECEIVE TROPHY

Heavy Gold Cup Will Be Awarded Most Valuable Quintet Member

Who will be the lucky member of the Varsity basketball team to be voted the most valuable member of the squad at the end of the season? He will be fortunate indeed, as a very beautiful cup will be awarded the person who is so selected.

The cup is of sun gold mounted on a heavy, brown bakelite base. It is of unusual design surmounted by a heavily gold plated figure of a basketball player in the act of passing the ball. The overall height of the trophy is 21 inches. Donated by a generous benefactor the cup will remain in the permanent possession of the player so honored as to receive it.

Many factors will enter into the selection of the most valuable member of the team. According to varsity coach Al Severance, not only will the player's ability and performance on the floor enter into the judging but also such things as strict adherance to training rules, attitude during practice sessions, attendance at practice, general play as far as team work goes, conduct on the campus and class standing.

The fact that a player has been grandstanding all season and perhaps has gotten into the headlines of local papers will not assure him by any means of the coveted trophy.

This marks a new era in sports at Villanova. Individual recognition of excellency in sports will take on a more material form of approval from now on.

Varsity Quintet Practices Daily

Continued From Page Seven

are cinched. They will be filled by men who show the most spirit and co-operation. It is for this reason that he desires more men to report. Incidentally, a generous donor has donated a beautiful trophy to the squad. At the conclusion of this season, it will be presented to the most valuable player on the team.

The candidates that have reported to the coach are not new to him; however, certain features have to be ironed out before regular play can be started. A prospect must have everything to place on the team that will play clubs having an All-American calibre. The tentative schedule calls for contests with N. Y. U. and Indiana in addition to our arch rival, Temple. These were three of the strongest teams in the country last year.

The contenders for the various positions on the team have shown much spirit in the short time they have been practicing. Credit should be given to Charlie DelOumo, Mike Totin and Walt Sheftic, all new men who have answered Severance's plea for new material. Although greatly overshadowed in height, these men have been able to hold their own against some of the team's monstrosities. Much is expected from these men, as well as the members of last years undefeated Kittens.

The team in general should be in great shape by the time the season rolls around. They are still two months ahead of the proverbial lid-lifter. Games have been arranged with the Philadelphia Spha's and other strong teams. The showing against such teams will undoubtedly give one a good idea of the Wildcat's strength.

FAULKER MADE INSTRUCTOR

Ed Faulkner, varsity coach, has been added to the Swarthmore College faculty as a fulltime instructor in tennis.

Western Maryland Bows to Wildcats

Continued From Page Seven

lod, Clipper's proteges launched a drive that netted them a touchdown. Art Raimo, in at right half, collaborated with Andy Stopper to get a first down on the Western Maryland 37 yard line. Earle made another on one try. Then Raimo and Harvey Buek advanced the pigskin to the 14 yard stripe.

Nye Scores on Pass

The Terrors dug in and threw back the next two thrusts at the line. Still, the Wildcats were not to be denied. On third down Buek faded back and threw a perfect pass to quarterback Frank Nye in the end zone for the initial score.

Western Maryland came back and threatened to push over a tying counter. A long pass, Campbell to Westerville, sub end, clicked for a gain of 40 yards. The Terrors were going to town. Then the alert Villanova pass defense batted down the next three overhead attempts to get the 'Cats out of danger. So the 'Cats left the field at halftime leading 6-0.

At the very outset of the second half Captain Sala and his mates put on a sustained drive that carried them from their own 40 to the Terrors' 20, where the invaders held for downs. The feature of this advance was a 30 yard sprint around end by Jack Earle, the leading groundgainer of the day.

A blocked punt in the last quarter gave Western Maryland another golden opportunity. Lathrop fought his way through the Villanova line for the first down. A pass, Sadowski to Benjamin was good for 10 yards. Lathrop on two plays on the line knifed his way to another first down on Villanova's 34.

Passes Fail

The 6-0 lead looked very slim at the moment, but once again an airtight pass defense saved the day for the Wildcats.

After an exchange of kicks Villanova started another counter attack. Bill Christopher, who did a wonderful job all afternoon running back punts, returned one 15 yards to midfield. Raimo dashed for 12 yards off left tackle. Stopper drove through the middle for 8. Then with but five seconds left to play Raimo once again tore through left tackle, reversed his field eluding tackler after tackler to cross the goal line standing up.

Joe Missar, Wildcat guard, was in for 59 minutes of the game and played headsup football throughout. Jack Earle and Bill Rogers also starred on the defensive.

For the Terrors Leroy Campbell, who backed up the line, and Stan Benjamin, stellar end, were outstanding. Cliff Lathrop was their chief groundgainer, accounting for almost all the 115 yards the Terrors gained.

Villanova	Positions	W. Maryland
Sala	Left end	Lassahn
Rogers	Left tackle	Lukkaukaa
Missar	Left guard	Ortenzi
Galazin	Center	Peters
Reza	Right guard	Fagen
Oliver	Right tackle	Forthman
Fox	Right end	Benjamin
Christopher	Quarterback	Sadowski
Stopper	Left halfback	Campbell
Stoviak	Right halfback	Lathrop
Earle	Fullback	Muywit

Villanova ..... 0 6 0 7—13
Western Maryland ..... 0 0 0 0—0

Touchdowns—Nye, Raimo. Points after touchdowns — Christopher (placement). Substitutions—Villanova, ends, Wysocki, Bell, Cochraine; tackles, Kibner; guards, Hanna, Jaronik; centers, McKenna; backs, Buek, Raimo, Nye; Western Maryland, backs, Adriance, Thomas; ends, Westerville, Lisinski, Lash; tackles, Forthman; guards, Fagen. Officials: Referee—H. E. Armstrong, Johns Hopkins. Umpire—W. J. Gaynor, Lafayette. Head linesman—C. N. Gault, Muhlenberg. Field Judge—G. Vergara, Notre Dame. Time of periods—15 minutes.

VILLANOVA RECOMMENDS FOR YOUR ENJOYMENT

Seville Theatre
Bryn Mawr, Pa.
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20
"HIS BROTHER'S WIFE"
WED. and THURS., OCT. 21-22
"I'D GIVE MY LIFE"
Thursday — BANK NIGHT $25 in Prizes
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23
"Hollywood Boulevard"
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24
P. G. Woodhouse's
"THANK YOU JEEVES"
Matinee Daily 2:30 Saturday Matinee 1:00 Adults 25c plus Tax
Two evening performances at 7 and 9 P. M. Adults 35c plus Tax

Anthony Wayne THEATRE
Wayne, Penna.
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20
"THE ROAD TO GLORY"
WED. and THURS., OCT. 21-22
The Jones Family in
"BACK TO NATURE"
Added Wednesday Bank Night—$25 in prizes
FRI. and SAT., OCT. 23-24
"Yours for the Asking"
Matinee Daily 2:30 Saturday Matinee 1:00. Adults 25c plus Tax
Two evening performances at 7 and 9 P. M. Adults 35c plus Tax

WARNER BROS.
69th St. Theatre
Upper Darby, Pa.
Starts today for three days
October 20, 21, 22
"Last of the Mohicans"
with Randolph Scott

Ardmore Theatre
Today — Only
"Jailbreak"
Can the Bighouse Hold Public Enemies?
Coming Wed.—Thurs—Fri.
"Piccadilly Jim"

Clipper Chats

By "Clipper" Smith

With four wins tucked under our belts, this situation is getting serious. When I first came to Villanova and saw the athletic setup and my material I was optimistic, with hopes of a successful season inaugurating my first year as coach. I realized that the change in coaching staffs entails some extra work on the part of the squad to get into the swing of the new coaches' method of presentation. I knew all this, and while prepared for a good season, I was not totally expecting such a great show of football to a remarkable degree, with few exceptions.

Western Maryland Undefeated

Western Maryland came up here undefeated, and they had been showing great power and promise in their undefeated campaign. We just didn't know how to take them, and we realized early in the week that we would have a battle on our hands. From what I picked up around here concerning games of previous years the Battle of the Green Terrors was not to be taken lightly. Our scouts told us that passing was not their premier offensive weapon, but that in Benjamin, Lassahn and Relander, the Terrors had a trio of good pass receivers.

Co-captain Lathrop was revealed as a fine halfback, a blocking back and a great ball carrier, both on the flanks and thru the line.

Terrors Use Single Wing

Western Maryland used both single wing back and a short punt formation with the ball going to the short man, as their chief offensive lineups. From the single wing back, they went on end sweeps, reverses and sometimes passes. Their short punt formation had the short man hitting the line on direct passes, cross bucks and inside tackle plays. From this formation, the deep man also carried the ball around end and passed.

Their quick kick in the second quarter was run from a single wing back formation, with the number four doing the kicking. It was a grand piece of football, well done. They kicked on second down from their own 45 yard line, with about seven yards to go. Our defensive backfield realizing the setup, were playing in box formation, with Christopher about 20 yards from the line of scrimmage. He was quite surprised as I when he saw the ball come sailing out of the scrimmage over his head. He made a good recovery, however, and the crisis was past.

Backfield Played Well

